Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 1. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 1, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1793.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. C. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 111 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AIRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO YOU.

BY FRANCES R. HAVERGAL.

New mercies, new blessings, new light on thy way;
New courage, new hope, and new strength for each day;
New notes of thanksgiving, new chords of delight,
New praise in the morning, new songs in the night;
New wine in thy chalice, new altars to raise;
New fruits for thy Master, new garments of praise;
New gifts from his treasures, new smiles from his face,
New streams from the fountain of infinite grace;
New stars for thy crown, and new tokens of love;
New glimpses of the glory that waits thee above;
New light of his countenance full and unpriced—
All this for the joy of thy new life in Christ!

Education.

Below we present to our readers the reports made by the Boards of Education of the Louisiana and Mississippi Conferences. We desired to present also the report from North Mississippi; but it did not come to hand in time.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Ignorance is the absence of learning, and this the mother of superstition; and although learning, in a classical sense, is not essential to salvation, it is essential to a correct understanding of the doctrines and principles of our holy religion, and to an intelligent Christian life. We can not overestimate this fact. We find no moral and mental slavery where the intellectual training of the people has been broad and deep—reaching down to the philosophy of things, and reaching up to the power of the grace of God. All wrong education is inadequate and injurious education. People may be taught to think, but they must also be taught to hear and obey. Moral and intellectual independence is not necessarily any part of what is called "free thinking;" for "if the Son shall make you free, then are ye free indeed." Freedom of mind and heart is the power to act for one's self on the basis of one's responsibility to the one great Sovereign of the universe. The student, who is being trained for Christ, stands related to the teacher as the teacher stands related to God. All wisdom is from above; knowledge is derived from things about us. The higher intelligence unfolds the elements of truth, imparting the seeds thereof to the mind and heart of the student; hence we insist upon it that only he who has "the mind that was in Christ" is competent to train a man for Christ. The man whose mind and heart have been drawn out towards God is certainly better prepared to draw the hearts and minds of others in that direction than he who knows nothing of God. Man's highest destiny is eternity, and all culture should be designed to draw out his faculties for this highest destiny. Plans training is, therefore, of the very greatest importance; and the intellectual perception of the meanest hovel, if it leads to the fear of God, is richer, by far, in its ultimate results than all the scholasticism of Platoan schools. The human mind is the reservoir of the "truth as it is in Jesus." The imperfect mental training of the mother of Hume was, doubtless, the cause of her yielding to the sophistries of her infidel son, and renouncing, in her old age, the truths which had cheered and sustained her through her youth and early womanhood. Man is one—his body, heart and mind—just as the sun is one with his body, heat and light. Any impairment of one of the parts is a corresponding impairment of the whole. The trend of the world is to impair the whole man by dwarfing or impairing a part of his nature.

With the Bible relegated to the rats; with no prayer and no moral qualifications for teachers, dare we look to the "common school" for the education of our people? The common school is not necessarily baneful; but if its instruction is properly complemented at home, and its beginnings properly completed under teachers who "fear God and keep his commandments," its price runs up "far above rubies." But an education begun and carried on under conditions which do, or may, eliminate all the moral points of an education, is necessarily hurtful, if not actually ruinous to the student; therefore, higher education by the State is not to be endorsed. Let the State see to it that none are ignorant; that everyone shall have a common-school training; but let the church see to it that this foundation be properly adjusted, and the superstructure solidly built. Can this be done without an endowment fund? No one supposes, for a moment, that opposition to private enterprise is an intentional feature of the system of higher education at public expense. Still, everyone who has looked into the subject with the least carefulness, has been impressed with the necessity of this result. Antagonisms arise, first, indirectly, by the offer of "free tuition" to a very small per cent. of the population, and thereby encouraging the clamor for cheaper schools, and bidding for patronage, "tuition free," right at the doors of institutions which, without these fees, could not continue business. Directly, antagonism arises from the neglect of the common-school training by diverting the funds needed there in the preparation of the masses for higher schools to those schools of higher grade under the patronage of public taxes, thereby compelling higher schools, both private and public, no matter of what grade, to keep up a primary department.

If the church of God in this Christian land is responsible for anything, it is for the Christian education of its people. What may be done in the future no mortal can tell; but in the past it has been impossible to overcome the temptation of "free tuition" pleaded against our colleges. The laws establishing and governing these free tuition colleges and universities are beyond our control. We can not repeal them if we would, nor would we if we could; but we can, and we must, put our Christian schools on a plane as high and as attractive as that on which these secular schools is established.

This is a great work, and can not be done without an effort which will challenge the best powers of our best men.

Under many disadvantages, and in the face of conflicting interests, our colleges have had a season of unusual and encouraging prosperity.

The overture from the Citizens' Committee of Alexandria does not present to the Board, nor the Conference, any question upon which either the one or the other is authorized to act without the concurrence of the Board of Trustees of Centenary College.

We are of the opinion that the time has come for more vigorous and earnest action in the interest of both of our colleges, and that serious results may follow further delay.

We find, on inquiry, that the growth of the patronage at Mansfield has rendered the present arrangement of the buildings there inadequate to the demands of the patronage, and that improved facilities must be afforded in the near future.

We have, on several previous occasions, referred to these facts, and urged the Conference to take steps whereby the needed improvements can be made.

Referring again to sentiments previously expressed in this report, and desiring to overcome, as far as possible, the obstacles that are in the way of success, we recommend the appointment of an agent for Centenary College, whose duty it shall be to travel over the Conference and solicit funds for the endowment of that institution.

The sum of forty-five dollars has come to the treasury of the Board of Education on account of Paine and Lane Institute, for colored teachers and preachers, which sum has been ordered to the proper authorities.

Resolved, That the Conference extend a hearty welcome to the commissioner of said Institute whenever he may visit our borders.

Believing that much good comes from proper agitation, and that our Christian duty lies in the line of Christian education, we recommend the following:

Resolved, That Sunday, Feb. 15, next, be observed as Centenary Day in all our stations, and that in our missions and circuits each successive Sunday until a sermon shall be preached on Christian education, and a collection taken up at each of the appointments for the endowment of "Centennry College of Louisiana," and that all moneys thus collected be sent at once to Prof. Wiley, at Jackson, La.

J. A. PARKER, Pres.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The Board of Education most heartily congratulates the church upon the flourishing condition of all the educational enterprises under our control. The reports from each one submitted to us show that those hitherto prospering have increased their strength, and that the languishing have taken on new life.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

The friends who have long cherished the hope of seeing the establishment of a male college upon the soil of Mississippi may felicitate themselves upon the speedy realization of their expectation. According to the instructions of the last session of your Conference, a Board of Trustees was appointed, consisting of four ministers and four laymen from the Mississippi Conference, and a like number from the North Mississippi. A charter was procured from the Legislature under the corporate name of "Millsaps College." The Board of Trustees met in the city of Jackson on June 25, elected officers, and entered upon their duties.

The financial exhibit made to this Board shows the gratifying result that $65,118 01 in subscriptions has been secured, of which there has been collected and is now cash in hand, $31,000, and in notes, $27,000, and in subscriptions not yet converted into notes, $7,118.01.

Major Millsaps so modified his proposition, as upon the faith of the raising of the first $25,000, he has paid into the treasury of the college $25,000 in first-class interest-bearing bonds, thus making our productive endowment to date $50,000. The remaining $10,000, to be raised by the Conference, will soon be easily secured out of the $31,118 20 in notes and subscriptions now in hand, whereupon Major Millsaps will pay his additional $25,000. The purpose of the Board, however, is to continue vigorously the canvass until every friend of the cause in the State shall have an opportunity of contributing, and until the endowment fund shall largely exceed one hundred thousand dollars.

The Board of Trustees has appointed a meeting for the fourth of February in the city of Jackson, when proposals for the location of the college shall be received, and action will be had thereon as soon as possible.

As the location of the college is of paramount importance, this Board does earnestly recommend that effectual, fervent prayer be made by every minister and every layman of the church, that the great Patron of education, who is also the Disposer of all human events, should overrule in the locating of the college, where it shall most redound to his glory, and where it shall most effectually provide educational facilities for the coming centuries.

We recommend that one thousand dollars be raised by the Conference next year for ministerial education in Millsaps College, and that each presiding elder shall assess the pastoral charges in his district their pro rata share, upon the basis of the assessment for the Bishops, and that he shall announce such assessment at his first Quarterly Conference, and enjoin its collection upon the pastor.

We recommend that A. F. Watkins be continued as agent.

We recommend that John A. Lewis be elected by this Conference as a member of the Board of Trustees, in place of M. M. Evans, resigned.

CENTENARY COLLEGE

reports through Bishop Keener, president of the Board of Trustees, that it is in a continually improving condition; that 137 students were matriculated during the last session—of these, twenty were preparing for the ministry, and fifteen others were the sons of ministers. The deportment of the students is most admirable. The last commencement was largely attended, and was notable for the fact that thirteen young men graduated—the largest class since 1858. A professorship of English was established at the last meeting of the Board. About $3,500 was added to the endowment notes by the efforts of the president of the college during last summer, and $1,000 in cash has recently been given by a lover of Christian education who lives in Atlanta, for the specific purpose of aiding young men preparing for the ministry. The Y. M. C. A. and the two literary societies furnish rare opportunities to the young men for improvement, morally and intellectually.

We recommend that one thousand dollars be raised by the Conference next year for ministerial education in Centenary College, and that each presiding elder shall assess the pastoral charges upon his district their pro rata share, upon the basis of the assessment for the Bishops, and that he shall announce such assessment at his first Quarterly Conference, and enjoin its collection upon the pastor.

We recommend that W. L. C. Hunnicutt be appointed president, and B. M. Drake, professor.

WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE.

Very meager reports of this college have been submitted to us; but the modest report of the president shows that the college was never so well equipped in all its departments since his connection with it. The officers and teachers are eighteen, and the boarding pupils number 120. The Young Ladies' Christian Association is doing excellent work, having a larger membership than last session.

PORT GIBSON FEMALE COLLEGE

is in the midst of a prosperous session, with six teachers and eighty-three pupils, under the presidency of Miss M. E. Compton. Additions have been made to the buildings, which add much to their convenience and attractiveness. A kindergarten department has been added. The exercises of the last commencement were unusually interesting; ten young ladies were graduated. The friends of the college regard its present condition with pride and gratification.

EDWARD M'GEHEE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS.

This institution, formerly Woodville Female College, took the name of its generous founder at the beginning of the present session. The buildings are in good condition, seven hundred and fifty dollars having been recently judiciously expended in their repair. H. W. Featherstun is president. His excellent management gives assurance of a useful and prosperous future.

We recommend that H. W. Featherstun be appointed president.

EAST MISSISSIPPI FEMALE COLLEGE

reports through its president, C. W. Anderson, a prosperous session, good and thorough work being done by the eight competent instructors employed. The musical department, instrumental and vocal, and the art department, are well patronized, and constitute an interesting feature of the college work.

During the past summer a commodious new chapel, with dormitory rooms for forty additional pupils, was erected at a cost of $6,000.

The Bible occupies a prominent place in this school, and especial care is given to the inculcation of religion. The young ladies have formed themselves into a missionary society, and they meet in a prayer meeting among themselves every Sabbath afternoon.

There has been reported to us, as collected from the pastoral charges $817 35, which has been turned over to President Hunnicutt to aid in ministerial education in Centenary College.

This Board offers for adoption the following:

Resolved, That our pastors observe the requirement of the Discipline to preach during the year upon education, thus keeping our people fully abreast of the advance movements along this line.

Resolved, That all our pastors and members rally to the support of our own institutions, and make them grandly successful.

C. G. ANDREWS,
Chair'n B'd of Education.

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23, 1890.

Representative Cutcheon, of Michigan, who has made an enviable record during the eight years he has served in the House of Representatives by being always ready to aid and champion any measure calculated to help the cause of religion and temperance, has stirred up a hornets' nest in Washington's social circles by an address which he delivered last Sunday night in this city, in which, referring to the coming Christmas season, he said that the social customs of Washington were responsible for much of the evil resulting from the use of intoxicating drinks; that men and women, being tempted beyond what they were able to bear, lost their moral balance and drifted into lives of sin, and that he knew of no other city in the country where there is as much wine drinking.

Washington society resents this truthful arraignment, and the most influential local newspaper in the city defends it, editorially, against Mr. Cutcheon's charge by saying that "it is evident that Mr. Cutcheon knows very little about the other cities in the country, or about Washington, either for that matter. It is the uniform testimony of those competent to speak on the subject, that Washington is one of the most temperate cities in the United States."

Who are the persons "competent to speak on the subject?" I have heard the resident agent of one of the largest wholesale liquor establishments in this country say, more than once, that Washington purchased more wine than any city in the United States of equal population. This man has grown rich by selling liquor to residents of Washington. Is he not "competent to speak on the subject?" And if more wine is purchased by Washington than by any other city of equal population, is it not fair to presume that there is more wine drinking here than in any city of equal population? I think so; hence I think that Mr. Cutcheon's statement is a true one, although, as a Washingtonian of many years' residence, I am ashamed to write it.

Mr. Cutcheon's address contained other statements that are worthy of the most careful consideration of those interested in moral reform. Here is a gem: "Temperance and religion are one and the same thing. The essence of a Christian life is self-denial, and that is what religion means. It is temperance, not in the narrow and restricted sense in which the word is often used and understood by people, but in the broader view of a self-restraining power, by which not only the desire for drink, but all of the evil propensities of men are brought into complete subjection." Concluding, he said: "The children are the hope of the temperance cause. If I could make a total abstainer of every boy in this audience before he reaches the age of twenty-two, I should feel that I had accomplished a work of wondrous magnitude. That the boys and girls might be fully informed of the many dangers incident to the use of strong drink, I introduced in Congress, some years ago, the bill which became a law, and is now in operation in the District of Columbia, providing for temperance instruction in the public schools; and I feel that if I had done nothing else, this one thing is worth my eight years of service in Congress."

The officers of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union have been greatly annoyed by statements concerning losses of the Union through the failure of the Chicago banking house of Kean & Co., and they authorize the positive statement that the amount on deposit with the suspended bankers was not large enough to injure the Union or its publishing house, beyond temporarily inconveniencing them. This should be sufficient to put an end to the sensational rumors.

It is expected that Mr. Harrison will, in a few days, issue a proclamation inviting the nations of the world to take part in the Columbian Exposition at Chicago. Petitions are still coming in requesting Congress to prohibit the opening of the Exposition on the Sabbath day; but so far Congress has shown no disposition to comply with the request, not even to the extent of introducing a bill or resolution for that purpose. This opportunity of showing to the whole world that the United States is a Christian nation must not be lost through indifference. It is always safe to assume that Congress will be indifferent on matters relating to moral reforms of any kind until it begins to feel the influence of the people throughout the country. This matter may, therefore, be said to be now in the hands of the people. Let them act.

Rev. E. E. Hale lectured here last night to a large audience on the "Home Life of the Pilgrims."

On Lack of Conscience as a Means of Success.

A little experience in life makes it plain that one element of what is called "success" consists in a certain toughness of the conscience. By "success" we mean, of course, worldly success under the present conditions. We do not mean the true and high success, the conduct of one's life in all honesty, with the rewards of a pure fame and the better rewards of conscious charity of purpose and fairness of action. We mean that men of business who are trying to live up to an ideal are very apt to find less scrupulous men passing them at certain points, and sometimes permanently outdoing them in the mere race for wealth from the fact that the latter are less hampered at critical moments by conscientious considerations.

It is true that "honesty is the best policy" in the long run, and as a rule even in ordinary business affairs, and it is true that many men make a complete failure in life by disregarding this maxim. It is true that honesty is one of the forces of worldly success; it is also true that dishonesty is one of the forces of worldly success.

The honest reader will, perhaps, ask why this praise of dishonesty. But we are not praising dishonesty; we do not think it commendable in any way: on the contrary, we think, just as the honest reader thinks, that it is in every way condemnable and contemptible. We are, however, stating a palpable and provable fact—namely, that in the present constitution of society a lack of conscience may be an important, even a deciding, element of worldly success.

The point that we are getting at is this: namely, that it is easier to reap a certain kind of worldly success without conscience than with it: and that, therefore, the conscienceless man who reaches enormous wealth or high worldly position is not nearly so clever a fellow as he admirers think he is: not proudly proclaim him to be.

We believe this to be particularly true in political life. Under the thoroughly un-American system of spoils and patronage, and by means of the prevailing system of corruption at the polls, it has been of late years prominently demonstrated that some of the highest public positions can be reached in America by men of well-nigh the lowest character. Now, one reason that these men succeed is that "nothing succeeds like success"; and that even men, themselves personally honest, have a certain admiration for the ability of the conscienceless man of success. Our present effort is to remove a part of the credit of the successful rogue. If he is less admired, perhaps he will be less successful; and if he is better understood, perhaps he will be somewhat less admired. Well, then, it is a fact that the successful rascally politician, while, doubtless, having a certain amount of natural "smartness," is, in reality and upon close examination, not nearly so "smart" as he superficially appears to be. Under the spoils system, which is only partly abrogated in the United States, it does not take—how ridiculously true it is that it does not take—great abilities to insure success in the corrupt manœuvers of the political field. The only wonder is when, under present conditions, a thoroughly scrupulous leader appears in local or general politics. To win success without resorting to the usual unscrupulous methods—that is, the test of real force—there should be the focus of admiration.

One proof that the smart rogue is not so smart as he thinks, and as others think, is that he so often comes to grief. He arrives at his successes through his knowledge of the evil in men; he comes to grief through his ignorance of the good in men. He thinks he knows "human nature," but he only half knows it. Therefore he is constantly in danger of making a fatal mistake. For instance, his excuse to himself for lying and trickery is that lying and trickery are indulged in by others—even by some men who make a loud boast of virtue before the world. A little more or less lying and trickery seems to make no difference, he assumes—especially so long as there is no public display of lies and tricks—for he understands that there must always be a certain outward propriety in order to insure even the inferior kind of success he is aiming at. But having no stable conscience to guide him, he underrates the sensitiveness of other consciences—and especially the quickness of that vague sentiment called "public opinion"—and he makes a miscalculation, which, if it does not land him in the penitentiary, at least makes him of no use to his supposed allies; there they of no use to his semi-criminal associates, therefore, a completed, miserable and vindictive failure.—The Century.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JAN. 1, 1891.

NEW YEAR'S WISHES.

BY FRANCES R. HAVERGAL.

What shall I wish thee?
Treasures of earth?
Songs in the spring-time,
Pleasure and mirth?
Flowers in thy pathway,
Skies ever clear?
Would this ensure thee
A happy New Year?

What shall I wish thee?
What can be found
Bringing thee sunshine
All the year round?
Where is the treasure,
Lasting and dear,
That shall ensure thee
A happy New Year?

Faith that increaseth,
Walking in light;
Hope that aboundeth,
Happy and bright;
Love that is perfect,
Casting out fear;
These shall ensure thee
A happy New Year!

Peace in the Savior, rest at his feet,
Smile of his countenance,
Radiant and sweet,
Joy in his presence!
Christ ever near!
This will ensure thee
A happy New Year!

Reports from the Conferences.

PUBLISHING INTERESTS.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

From the earliest days of our church history our fathers and their successors have recognized the power of the press to instruct the people, to disseminate truth, and to refute error. Our Publishing Houses and our church organs, the Christian Advocates, have been of incalculable service to us as a branch of the general church militant. We are the more impressed with the importance of the press as a means of spreading truth and resisting error from the fact that the enemies of inspired truth are using it to attack the Word of God, and to spread abroad their pernicious doctrines. It is noticeable that the enemy of all righteousness opposes, as long as he can, all that makes for righteousness. Good men were banished, imprisoned, tortured and persecuted unto death for printing the truth. But the enemy of all good could not stop the press; then, according to his wont, he hitched himself to it, and has sought to run away with it, and make it a means of hurt and destruction. The infidel books, reviews and newspapers plainly show the trend of Satan's policy. We can not fight the devil with fire; he is understood to be an expert in that line. In such a contest we are likely to get the worst of it; but we can fight him successfully with the resistless weapons of truth and love. There is no instrumentality, outside of a consecrated pulpit, known to us that can be so effectively employed as the press and the printed page. Let us, therefore, more than ever, prize this most efficient of auxiliaries to spread among our people, and all peoples, the knowledge of God's saving truth.

Our Conference organ, the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, has never been so prosperous as now, having a larger circulation than ever before. Your committee assume that they but voice the sentiments of the Conference when we say we hail with satisfaction the re-election of our common friend and brother, Dr. Carter, as the editor of our Conference organ. The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE deserves well of our people. It deserves a more extended patronage. It is in our power to increase its patronage and its interest, and make it more useful and attractive than ever before.

In regard to our organ, the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, we would offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we approve the editorial and publishing management of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Resolved, That we will use our diligence to increase the circulation, and to collect the debts due to the paper.

Our Publishing House at Nashville is doing a large and prosperous business, publishing, and having on sale, many valuable books at prices as low as any other legitimate house can publish them. Let us encourage our people to read good books. Good reading is, of all our temporal pleasures, the purest, the cheapest and most lasting.

The Christian Advocate, our connectional organ, is every way better and more desirable than ever before; and wherever our people are able to take more papers than our own organ, we should encourage them to subscribe for our connectional organ.

Our Quarterly Review, published under the auspices of the General Conference, has for its editor a most scholarly and accomplished writer, and the pages of the Review, under his supervision, are replete with most instructive and interesting reading. We need such a publication as a vehicle for the expression of elevated and cultivated thought. Many of our laymen, and nearly all of our preachers, should be its subscribers and readers. Our Review certainly deserves a greatly enlarged circulation.

The Sunday-school publications issued by our Publishing House, under the editorial supervision of Dr. Cunnyngham and John L. Kirly, are of a high order of merit, and are obtaining, as they deserve to do, a wide circulation—such as the Sunday-School Magazine, for teachers in all departments; the Senior Quarterly, for Bible classes; the Intermediate Quarterly, the Lesson Papers, and Our Little People. The Sunday-School Visitor is an able paper of its class, and is beautifully printed and illustrated.

Your committee are pleased to recognize the fact that our Conference colporteur, Rev. F. D. Van Valkenburgh, has been active and successful in the distribution of the books of our Publishing House, and of other Publishing Houses. His depository is located at 106 Camp street, New Orleans, and is a convenience to our preachers and people.

J. B. WALKER, Chair'n.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Your Committee on Publishing Interests beg leave to submit the following report:

We have carefully considered the "summary of business for the fiscal year ending April 1, 1890," issued by the agents of the Publishing House at Nashville, and regard the condition of its affairs as healthy and prosperous. The importance and worth of the several publications, enumerated in the exhibit, to the culture and religious growth of our church, can not be overestimated. There is an increasing demand among our people for cheaper religious literature. This demand, real and reasonable in itself, is intensified by the pernicious rival secular literature which so cheaply, and with alarming facility, finds its way everywhere. We would suggest, in answer to this unmistakable call from the people, that a constant eye be kept upon the probable practicability of cheapening all our publications.

The number of Advocates taken and the amount of church literature circulated are glaringly inadequate, and hence our people are sadly ignorant of the doctrines, usages and vast outworkings of Methodism.

The Nashville Christian Advocate, under its new leadership, not only maintains its high character, but shows improvement in many features as a connectional paper, and since it is for the whole church, should be in every Methodist household.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE still holds its place in the affections of our people as our Conference organ. The exhibit of its liberal publisher shows a gratifying increase in the number of subscribers, which now amounts to 7,329. Of this number 3,147 are within the bounds of this Conference; and of this 3,147 more than one-half are delinquents, with the amount due of $5,259 15. These figures, showing a delinquency double that of last year, your committee regard as an indication of serious dereliction somewhere, and also as an urgent, reasonable demand upon our Conference for increased attention to the collections for our admirable paper.

We heartily endorse the action of the Publishing Committee in retaining Dr. C. W. Carter as editor, recognize gratefully his arduous labors, and bespeak for him the earnest co-operation of this Conference.

Our Sunday-school literature continues to advance in completeness, is abreast with the demands of the age, and is paralleled only by the best.

With an able editorial management and continued appropriation for contributors, our Quarterly Review claims to be worthy of the great church it represents.

We are thankful to God for the great work he has enabled us, as a people, to accomplish through the press, and would urge our brethren to strive for a wider circulation of our valuable literature.

Your committee recommend that Rev. R. J. Jones, Dr. W. C. Black and Rev. W. B. Lewis be continued as representatives of this Conference on the Publishing Committee of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

I. L. PEEBLES, Chair'n.

TEMPERANCE.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Your committee, to whom was referred the subject of temperance, which is not only a question of gravity, but one lying at the very foundation of both our social and religious fabric, beg to emphasize the necessity of a strict adherence to our temperance creed as a church, as well as a warm espousal of all neighborly Christian effort looking to the promotion of this great cause. Not the least of the distinctions worn by that illustrious religious body, of which we are members, is her characterization wherever known as the temperance church; and this circumstance alone, if removed as far as possible from the arts of demagogism and the chicane of mere politics, should confer upon her a marvelous influence upon the political destinies of the race. The best government of earth is the best because it is most closely resembled to the ideal republic which glints upon us from the heaven of God's Word, and the keystone of the arch of that magnificent conception is, sweet temperance. Not because we love the church more or because we love the nation less; but because God has given to us the watchword of temperance to go before every reform of Church and State designed for permanence or catholicity let us be a temperance ministry and a temperance people. We owe it to everything that we hold sacred to hold this cause sacred, and to be the dearest enemies of Satan in combating that which he holds most dear. Not in the forum or on the hustings, but from the pulpit let us fight the common enemy. For prohibition as an issue at the polls there can be no hope for success as long as mean whisky is a legal tender for American votes, and, therefore, we must adopt other and more vigorous measures to save the country from the doom of intemperance. Let us thunder against this foe from the high places of our commission to preach righteousness. Let us do it in season and out of season. For God and home and native land let us be as wise as serpents and as harmless as doves and as unwearying as apostles in waging antagonism to that evil that is as high as the sovereignty of man and as wide as the world.

J. M. BEARD, Chair'n.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Perhaps no question that confronts our church and people to-day is fraught with greater moment, and, at the same time, possessed with more perplexity than the temperance cause. It challenges the consideration of the most obtuse, inspirits the heart and determination of its most devoted friends, and taxes to the utmost capacity the genius and intrigue of its most obstinate foes. It agitates our family circles, pulpits and legislatures. Its foes would keep it out of the church, and its friends would keep it out of politics.

But the time has come when all lovers of peace and order must awake to a full realization of their responsibilities as respects this subject, and arise in the spirit of their Master and adopt such measures as the purest and profoundest wisdom may dictate for the universal extension and permanent establishment of this great cause. The achievements of the past and the indications of the present should inspire us with a strong hope of accomplishing such ends.

Intemperance is a multiform and multifarious evil that insinuates itself into our homes and communities in various ways, destroying domestic happiness, public peace and moral health; and it will not be repressed by a single effort only—hence self-protection impels us to positive and aggressive effort to extirpate this giant evil from our borders, and our obligations to humanity are commensurate with our opportunities in the contest. While much effective work has been done, yet a vast deal more remains to be accomplished to rid our country from the grasp of this hydra-monster, and we can not afford to relax our energies in pressing the conflict till we have reached the consummation for which we are toiling and praying.

Your committee is of the opinion that an educated public sentiment, combined with local option measures, earnestly stressed and vigorously pressed, are to be the instruments for the arrest and final overthrow of this giant of evils. And, recognizing the potency of the pulpit, we would recommend that our pastors preach to each of their congregations on the subject of temperance, at least, once during the next year.

We highly approve the effort made to secure the teaching in the public schools of the State of the subject of physiology with reference to the effects of alcohol and narcotics upon the human system. While we express sincere gratitude to God for what has been accomplished, let us pray for his presence and aid in the efforts of the future.

B. F. JONES, Chair'n.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

We regret exceedingly that we have to report a lamentable decrease in nearly all items of Sunday-school statistics. We undertake no explanation of this decrease, but hope that the preachers will, during the next year, look after this matter, and that the work may be, at least, restored to its former prosperity. We have received as the proceeds of the Children's Day collection, $151 80; and as the present presiding elders may not be prepared to estimate the wants of their successors, we have not made the usual appropriations to the districts; but the presiding elders may obtain the amounts needed from the treasurer, Rev. L. A. Reed.

We are glad to be able to report that since the last General Conference arrangements have been made to greatly increase the efficiency of our Sunday-school work.

We have had before us specimens of our Sunday-school literature but, as these various periodicals have been noticed in full by the Committee on Church Publications, we need do nothing more than give our unqualified endorsement, as we have done in the years past.

We regret to learn from statements made by several brethren that there is still a tendency in some directions toward union schools.

While we preach and practice a broad catholicity, yet we are fully persuaded that if we—as a denomination—would accomplish the whole work to which God has assigned us in the world, we must, in our own way and according to our own plans, take care of the children and youth of our land, and the prime agency in that work is the Sunday-school.

We would again call attention to the fact, that the great object of all Sunday-school work is the conversion of the souls of the children and young people. In all our efforts this one thing ought to be emphasized, and our teachers and superintendents ought to be satisfied with nothing short of that result.

We are of opinion that if the Sunday-school libraries, on sale at our Publishing House, were more generally introduced, great good would be accomplished.

Many of the young people of the land are disposed to read; and if good books are not at hand, they will read such publications as tend only to mental imbecility and moral ruin.

We again offer a recommendation which we have before presented, and which we reiterate because of its importance to our own success as well as to the success of the cause in general. We allude to Sunday-school organization. This is contemplated in the provisions of the Discipline, which refer to District and Conference Sunday-school Conventions.

In our Conference it has been considered a foregone conclusion that all effort in that direction would prove a failure, and hence very little has been done. One great help to ourselves, in perfecting such organizations as we need, would be to enter heartily into the work of organizing the parishes and the State as auxiliary to the work of the International Sunday-school Convention.

In this way there might be aroused an interest and a zeal in all denominations that would more strongly outline itself upon our own work, and thus develop a strength of which we are now unconscious.

Besides, we would, in that way, be able to put ourselves on record in the annals of the Sunday-school work of the world, in a manner creditable to ourselves, as the Methodist Church in the great State of Louisiana.

Arrangements have been made to hold a State Convention in the city of New Orleans, commencing May 5 and closing May 7, 1891.

We urge our people to send delegates, and in the absence of any parish organizations, the presiding elders are requested to see that the Sunday-schools in their respective districts are represented, and they are requested to appoint the delegates.

J. M. BROWN, Chair'n.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The Board respectfully submits the following report:

There are 404 schools in our bounds, 2,251 officers and teachers and 17,302 scholars, which is an increase of 1,099. We are gratified to note this mark of prosperity in our work. But we are satisfied that there is no department of church work where increased work and zeal would show better results.

We urge our pastors and superintendents to be careful in the selection of the teachers to whom they commit the moulding of the moral and spiritual characters of the children of the church.

We are glad to report an increase in the collections also. The amount above that of last year is $407 59. The total amount raised for Sunday-schools is $4,003 51. There has been $881 22 collected for missions and $698 21 on Children's Day, both of which are in excess of last year's collections. The total amount collected by the Sunday-schools for all purposes is $6,993 16.

On Jan. 1, 1890, there were $423 in the hands of the treasurer of the Board. Of this amount, $195 96 has been expended in aiding needy Sunday-schools, which leaves of this amount $227 04, which amount, added to $693 46, collected this year, makes $930 50, which amount is now in the hands of the treasurer, Rev. B. F. Lewis.

The Board has adopted the following plan for the distribution of the fund in their hands:

1. The chairman, secretary and treasurer of the Board are constituted an Executive Committee to whom all applications for aid shall be made.

2. Applications shall be endorsed by presiding elder or preacher in charge, if not made by them.

3. Applications so endorsed shall contain satisfactory answers to questions asked on blank forms furnished for this purpose by our Publishing House.

4. No applications for aid shall be considered when the design is to purchase literature other than our own.

5. Blank forms of applications for aid will be furnished any who may desire them by the treasurer of our Board, Rev. B. F. Lewis.

J. T. NICHOLSON, Chair'n.

Mississippi Items.

Henry Ware, of Pass Christian, chairman of the State Prohibitionist party, has called a convention to meet at Jackson on Jan. 8, 1891.

The grand jury at Greenville must have been a working body, since it is said that at its recent session it investigated 123 cases, examined 325 witnesses, and returned 85 indictments, all in twelve days.

The jury of the circuit court in Greenville returned a verdict for $7,500 in favor of Mrs. Jake Hirsh against the L., N. O. and T. railroad for injuries which caused the death of her daughter two years ago at Leland.

A big fire in Water Valley recently consumed the machine, blacksmith and tin shops of the railroad company. One man lost his life. Loss estimated at between $25,000 and $40,000. One hundred hands were temporarily thrown out of employment.

The latest from Starkville: "There are no signs of hard times here to-day. Over 3,000 people on the streets, and merchants report better sales this year than last. We have all indications of a merry and prosperous Christmas."

The latest from Jackson: "The past few days have been the biggest Jackson ever experienced in a business way. New people and new trade have been here, attracted by the superior inducements offered by our great mercantile houses."

This is the latest from Port Gibson: "Notwithstanding hard times, the streets have been thronged with country people all the week; but a soaking rain last night prevented their return to-day. Business has been brisk, but not up to the average Christmas. Santa Claus remembered Port Gibson, but was not as lavish with his presents as usual."

The Mississippian says:

Jackson will soon have a sash and blind factory to eclipse anything in the State. Enochs Brothers are the progressive men behind the enterprise.

The same paper has this:

With the exception of the figure of Mr. Davis, to be placed in the interior, the Confederate monument is now complete. It is undeniably disappointing in size; but there can be no question that the design agreed upon has been faithfully and conscientiously executed by the builder, Mr. J. T. Whitehead, and the workmanship is well calculated to do him great credit.

Messrs. Yerger and Parsons, of Crystal Springs, have been in Jackson several days exhibiting their Balance Beam Spiral Spring Plow Hoe, for cutting corn and cotton. They claim that it will do the work of, at least, five hands. It passes directly across the cotton row, and dumps the dirt after making the cut in the water-furrow. Some of the best farmers of Copiah endorse it as an exceedingly useful, durable, and simple implement.—Clarion-Ledger.

Our colored friends have a good thing in Bolivar county. The Clarion-Ledger says:

Of the sixty-four office holders in Bolivar county, forty-one are negroes. Every constable in the county is a negro; thirteen justices of the peace are negroes; two members of the Board of Supervisors are negroes; the circuit clerk, treasurer, assessor, coroner and one representative are negroes; and one of the delegates to the Constitutional Convention was a negro, and the other a white Republican.

Louisiana Notes.

The American was, last week, feasting on "some very fine and luscious strawberries" grown in a Lake Charles garden. Verily, Louisiana is hard to beat.

The sugar-house on the Fusilier Plantation, near Franklin, was burned last week, together with 700 barrels of sugar. Loss, $60,000; insurance, $50,000.

The recommendations of Capt. J. H. Willard, of the United States Engineers, concerning the Houston Central and Arkansas railroad bridge over the Ouachita river, have been approved by the Secretary of War, and Capt. Willard has sent Capt. Ewens over to locate the bridge. It will be placed 800 feet below the railroad's approaches and will have the widest spring span on Western waters, the openings being 160 feet in the clear.

Lake Charles will soon have a new court-house, in which "impartial justice" will be meted out to all. Verily, Southwest Louisiana is constantly improving; and a beautiful and desirable country it is.

And Shreveport, too, will soon rejoice in a fine structure, where the "law's delays" will "drag its slow length along." The Times says:

During the past week the stone masons have been busily engaged preparing the ashlar for laying the stone work. As soon as this is completed the erection of the building will continue. A large quantity of pressed brick has been received to be used in the construction of this splendid edifice.

The sugar planters seem to have had a good year, if this report is true and the like result general. A dispatch from Thibodeaux says:

Five planters who have finished rolling have made 1,435 hogsheads of sugar, against 700 hogsheads made in 1889. One planter who made 90,000 pounds made in 1889 40,000 pounds.

Raising Money for Sunday-Schools.

MR. EDITOR: As the success of our Sunday-schools is good news to the readers of the ADVOCATE, I will tell you that Friendship Sunday-school, though in the country, is doing a good work. It has not gone into "winter-quarters" for a number of winters; but goes on through cold, as well as heat, from year to year. Our very efficient superintendent, J. A. Lewis, proposed a very unique method recently to secure funds for the purchase of the literature for the ensuing year. He told the young people that the old people had been buying the literature for a number of years, and now he thought the young folks should buy it. He suggested that they each pay something, and give the way the money had been made. There was nearly six dollars raised in this way. The following are the names of the contributors and amounts, with the methods of making the money:

Wm. Penn Foster, 20 cents, picking cotton; T. L. Black, 10 cents, picking cotton; Dixie Lewis, 20 cents, picking cotton; J. H. Woodard, 25 cents, picking cotton; Effie Baird, 20 cents, picking cotton; Maude McCool, 20 cents, selling eggs; Daisy Owen, 20 cents, picking cotton; Leslie Speed, 20 cents, picking cotton; T. C. Speed, 25 cents, making sorghum; R. F. Owen, 25 cents, picking cotton; Maude Speed, 15 cents, picking cotton; Allie Foster, 10 cents, picking cotton; Joe Foster, 10 cents, picking cotton; Jennie Wofford, 20 cents, picking cotton; Lexie Neel, 20 cents, picking cotton; Kavanaugh Neel, 20 cents, picking cotton; James Speed, 5 cents, plowing; Mittie Dorrough, 15 cents, picking cotton; Dollie Glenn, 10 cents, sewing; Jack Lewis, 20 cents, sweeping yards; Bascom Owen, 20 cents, picking cotton; Eliza Crocker, 20 cents, picking cotton; Thad. Dorrough, 5 cents, picking cotton; Even Lewis, 20 cents, picking up potatoes; Rosa Dorrough, 5 cents, picking cotton; Shelly Lewis, 20 cents, picking up potatoes; Jessie Crocker, 20 cents, picking cotton; Silas Lewis, 25 cents, selling books; Belle Foster, 10 cents, selling eggs; Eddy Foster, 10 cents, picking cotton; Florence Foster, 5 cents, picking cotton; Della Worrell, 15 cents, picking cotton; Bettie Lewis Foster, 5 cents, picking cotton; Nora Wofford, 10 cents, picking cotton; Isabella Foster, 5 cents, shelling corn; Effie Foster, 10 cents, picking cotton; Minnie Foster, 10 cents, picking cotton; Tom Fred Foster, 10 cents, picking cotton; Ella Foster, 20 cents, picking cotton, and good Sunday-school lessons; Miller Foster, 20 cents, picking cotton, and good Sunday-school lessons.

For the encouragement of our young folks, and also to others, I hope you will publish this list, and oblige, etc.,

WM. M. FOSTER.

Congress, Miss.

Books and Periodicals.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

AUNT DOROTHY. By Margaret J. Preston. A. D. F. Randolph and Company, New York. G. F. Wharton, 5 Carondelet street, New Orleans. Price, post-paid, sixty cents.

This is an old Virginia plantation story, and is told as only Mrs. Preston can tell such stories.

Among the most noteworthy productions of the year in the entire field of periodical literature has been the series of articles on "The Impregnable Rock of Holy Scripture," which Mr. Gladstone has written for The Sunday-School Times. The entire series, with important emendations and additions by their eminent author, is now issued in book form by a special arrangement with Mr. Gladstone by the publisher of The Sunday-School Times.

A word from Mr. Gladstone, on any subject that is of interest to him, is sure of a welcome from Americans generally. But when Mr. Gladstone writes concerning the Book of books, an added interest attaches to his words in the minds of all. Bible lovers will be grateful for the service he has rendered to the cause of truth, in this series of important papers in exhibit of the majestic grandeur of the "Impregnable Rock of Holy Scripture."

This book, issued November 21, contains over 350 pages (size, 7½x5½ inches). It is handsomely bound in cloth, gilt top, with portrait and facsimile letter of Mr. Gladstone. Price, $1. For sale by booksellers, or mailed, postpaid, by the publisher.

John D. Wattles, publisher, 1031 Walnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

PERIODICALS.

—The January periodicals are, many of them, on hand, and contain a vast amount of interesting reading and valuable information. During the past week we have received the following:

POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY. D. Appleton and Company, New York. Price, $5.

The CHAUTAUQUAN. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Penn. Price, $2.

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE. Cassell Publishing Company, New York. Price, $1 50.

The MAGAZINE OF ART. Cassell Publishing Company, New York. Price, $3 50.

ST. NICHOLAS. Century Co., N. Y. Price, $3.

The ARENA. Arena Publishing Company, Boston. Price, $5.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Architects' and Builders' Edition. Munn & Co., N. Y. Price, $2 50.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL. Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Price, $1.

AT THE DOOR OF THE YEAR.

The corridors of time
Are full of doors—the portals of closed years;
We enter them no more, though bitter tears
Beat hard against them, and we hear the chime
Of lost dreams; dirge-like, in behind them ring
At Memory's opening.

But one door stands ajar—
The New Year's; while a golden chain of days
Holds it in sight. The eager foot delays
That presses to its threshold's mighty bar;
And fears that shrink, and hopes that shout aloud,
Around it wait and crowd.

It shuts back the unknown;
And dare we truly welcome one more year,
Who down the past a mocking laughter hear
From life aims like wandering breezes blown?
We whose large aspiration dimmed and shrank
Till the year's scroll was blank?

We panse beside the door.
Thy year, O God, how shall we enter in?
How shall we there see thy hidden treasures win?
Shall we return in bondage, as before,
When thou art near at hand, with infinite wealth,
Wisdom, and heavenly health?

The footsteps of a child
Sound close beside us. Listen! he will speak,
His birthday bells have hardly rung a week,
Yet he has trod the world's press undefiled.
"Come with me!" hear him through his smiling say,
"Behold, I am the way!"

Against the door his face
Shines as the sun, his touch is a command;
The years unfold before his baby hand!
The beauty of his presence fills all space.
"Enter through me," he saith, "nor wander more;"
For, "lo! I am the door."

And all doors openeth he.
The new-born Christ, the Lord of the New Year
The threshold of our locked hearts standeth near;
And while he gives us back love's rusted key,
Our future on its will his eyes has smiled,
Even as a little child.

—Selected.

"Somewhat against Thee."

The Texas Advocate has a three-column leader on the above subject, to all of which we give our endorsement. We give part of the article below. We have changed the names and figures of the last paragraph to suit our own territory.

It is a well-known fact that under its old management the St. Louis Advocate was kept pretty well occupied in a private way by "canvassing and drumming" the territory of other Advocates. Time and again did the writer, when in the pastorate, receive circulars from that quarter, with the proposition to get subscribers at $2, keep $1 and forward the other—and he always considered the proposition an insult to his loyalty to his own Conference organ. It will be remembered, also, how the proposition was pushed throughout the church to sell the St. Louis Advocate six months for 50 cents in order to get the proceedings of the General Conference, as if the other church organs were not as well qualified to report the General Conference as the St. Louis. Many were caught in that trap, and when the time expired the paper kept on going and it is still going, and the majority of those receiving the paper say they are only able to take one church paper. Not by superior merit, but by "underbidding rates," they are caught.

Now, we had hoped that under the new management the old methods would be replaced with more honest ones—in fact, Bro. Palmore told one of the publishers of this paper that the old methods would not be continued; but, alas! our sister seems to be set in her old ways, and her old ways control the new management. Apropos, when the editor of the St. Louis had been permitted by courtesy to present what he was pleased to call "the claims" of his paper to one of the largest Texas Conferences, he offered as a premium a silver communion service for sixteen subscribers, thus compelling us to make the same offer on better terms in order to compete with the invader in our own territory. What would Carter, Kirkland, Lafferty and others think of us were we to "canvass and drum" their territories with such "underbidding rates?" Thank God, we have never done it.

Is the St. Louis Advocate a Conference organ? If so, what Conference or Conferences is it the organ of? It might be inferred from the office department of the paper that it is the organ of the Missouri, Southwest Missouri, Little Rock and Texas Conferences, as it is hardly reasonable to suppose that these Conferences would be put in that department unless the paper did in some way represent them. But, in fact, it has no just claims whatever on the Little Rock and Texas Conferences. We are not objecting to Bros. Chappell and Chapman being on the editorial staff, nor do we object to their living in Texas and Arkansas. It might be an improvement if all the editors lived in Arkansas and Texas; but why so particular to publish their Conferences with their names in the directory of the paper? Is it not a tub to the whale? Is it not quasi-assumption of organship for these Conferences? Now, we might have remained innocent of this suspicion if we had not heard Dr. Palmore using this corresponding editorship business in procuring the "claims" of his paper. He told us at San Antonio that he had no particular man in view as yet, but that he intended to secure the services of a Texas man as corresponding editor. And why a Texas man? A tub to the whale. Why an Arkansas man? Another tub to another whale—unless, of course, the object was to confer the very high compliment upon the patronizing Conferences, if there be any, of having to go abroad to get suitable talent, and in that case Texas and Arkansas can furnish first-class material. But, in fact, Dr. Palmore informed one of the publishers of this paper that the St. Louis Advocate is not the organ of any Conference, nor of anything, but is entirely independent. If this be true, the Bishops have no right to appoint its editors. There is no law in the Discipline authorizing or allowing the Bishops to appoint the editors of such a paper. It, therefore, the St. Louis Advocate is not a Conference organ, Drs. McAnally and Palmore and J. W. Lorance are traveling preachers without legal appointment from the M. E. Church, South. If, on the other hand, it is a Conference organ, we think it would be advisable to give more time to the cultivation of its own "patch" and less time to its Cheap John missionary efforts.

Now, on the whole, it does seem to us that the methods of the St Louis Advocate to get subscribers are the Iago methods of getting money.

Again, this "canvassing and drumming" to spread over the whole church is not only ridiculous and absurd in the extreme, but brings that paper into direct competition and rivalry with our general organ; for after the particular organs, the general organ is the only paper with any legitimate claim in any Conference territory.

Is it not high time, therefore, that the church press rise up and denounce these "poaching," "pirating" "and underbidding-in-rates" methods of "canvassing and drumming" for increased circulation? Let the paper which persists in it be condemned, as it should be, by the fraternity of the church press.

In conclusion, to the people called Methodists in Mississippi and Louisiana: The NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE is your paper. You can make out of it just what you want. With a church membership of 90,000 and an increase of 7,000 per year, you have the resources to make your paper all that can be desired in the way of a church paper. The time ought not to be far distant when the paper will be able to meet your desires in all respects. But, remember, you can only make your paper what it ought to be by sticking to it. You can not build up your own paper by running off after "premiums and two and four-bit" propositions to increase the circulation of invaders.

Burn the Pulpits.

Treat them just as the men who in Paul's day used curious arts; make a bonfire of them. They are dry enough to burn, doubtless, most of them. Of course it is a heroic treatment, but the times demand heroic measures. Bluff King Harry was right in his political and ecclesiastical philosophy, when he sold of the monks and the monasteries, that the only way to get rid of the rooks was to destroy the nests. The only way to get rid of pulpit essays is to get rid of the pulpit. Burn the desk upon which the minister leans, and he will straighten up. The pulpit has floated into the ministry many an incompetent, who has burdened the profession of the cleric by his weight, instead of buttressing it by his strength. Upon its easy cushions of green velvet the faculties have gone to sleep, which, in the presence of a congregation, ought to be most alert—human sympathy and moral courage. The advice which Warren gave his troops at Bunker Hill ought to be the motto of the seminary class-room—"Fire when you see the whites of their eyes, boys."

This curious combination of the barricade and sofa, common in our younger days in every chancel, is responsible for wrong homiletical themes, as well as bad homiletical style. Pastors will no longer worry their long-suffering congregations with tedious discussions of inextricable problems, when the people take away the dead-rest over which they have trained their heavy-bore guns. To be sure Milton introduces "thoughts more elevate" as among the charms of heaven, and tells us that the angels

"reasoned high
Of providence, foreknowledge, will and fate,
Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute;
And found no end, in wandering mazes lost."

But we may remember that these celestial beings were of the number who "sat apart upon a hill retired," and that was the right place in which to introduce such discussions. They will be relegated to the class-room and the heavenly hills, when our ministers need to keep the eye of the congregation and answer living demand in live discourse. In this revolt we should expect the reverend clergy to lead. Nothing can be much more trying to a minister, than to preach in a pulpit that does not fit him. It must be worse than David's misfit, when he attempted Saul's armor. Who of us can not remember the Bonnerges that stooped in the desk of his brother Paul, while he painfully fished up his pulpit thunder from a half illegible manuscript; while Paul himself, in the pulpit of Boanerges, peeped ludicrously from behind the overbuilt bastions, as a cautious soldier from a rifle pit? Years ago Mr. Gough used to tell, with great gusto, of the lecture committee who had built for him so incongruous a platform, that he vented his disgust upon the gentleman who was to introduce him, and was in turn surprised by the prayer of the lyceum president, who devoutly supplicated that the faults of the pulpit might not spoil the lecture. Some pulpits we have known were, in this respect, past praying for.

We hope this may meet the eye of some young student to whose future work it will give the right direction. Get outside of the box. Begin in the prayer meeting. Give the church or the class five minutes of well-digested thinking freely expressed in your common speech. Do not aim at great things, but aim at something. For the majority of men, Dr. Storrs is correct and Dr. Hall "off." Do not attempt to memorize the exact wording of your address. Let people call it "a talk" rather than "a sermon"; you will find that they will like it. Keep at it. Before you know it, it will be harder to read a manuscript than to speak without it. You will gain in force what you lose in elegance; and if your rhetoric be not so much admired, your courage and personal interest in your hearers will more than atone for that. Keep your platform, keep your lectern, but burn your pulpit; and the church, as well as yourself, will be the gainer.
—Interior.

Many people neglect a cold, thinking it will go as it came. Frequently with serious results, the cold of to-day may be the pneumonia of to-morrow. Nothing will cure a cough or cold so rapidly as Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. Its reputation has been established for over fifty years as the best remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, all throat and lung troubles. For croup and whooping-cough it is invaluable. Mothers will be saved much anxiety and loss of children by having Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar always on hand. Consumption has been cured many times by its use. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

Private Students for the Ministry.

[We commend to the careful perusal of our ministers the following short article on the above subject. We believe there is something valuable suggested by it. It appeared as an editorial in the Mid-Continent, of November 20.—EDITOR.]

There is much reflection in the minds of our people, owing to the lack of ministers and sparsity of candidates, upon the subject of ministerial education. After all, the old way of having a young man study privately with the pastor, meanwhile rendering him practical work among the poor and sick and otherwise, was not so bad. Noble preachers and practical workers were turned out in this way. They were some of the best ministers in the world. They did not know so much about many things, but they knew vastly more about some things. They were not so highly educated, but their ministry was popularly acceptable and blessed. It might not be a dangerous experiment now for some of our young men to be taken under the private training of successful pastors in city and in country. They would be fitted for mission work at least. They might lug away at their Bibles and text books; help the pastor look up references and illustrations for his sermons; learn how to prepare direct and practical discourses; watch the effect of sermons they had helped to frame; find out how to do parochial work, how to reach the poor, to pray with the sick, to comfort the stricken and to aid the needy. The best place to learn some kinds of toil is to get right down into the midst of it and elbow out its problems and not merely master the theories in the abstract.

The theological schools have their appropriate and lofty sphere, with which we have no disposition to interfere. They seem to be invaluable to the church. But ministers who will labor among the poor and the needy, where ministration most needs to be done, might find another mode of education more profitable than that of the seminaries. The plan pursued by the law student under some lawyer, and by the medical student in the physician's office, and by the apprentice or the learner in any business, may be a practical method for the student of theology. A good pastor's assistant might be sustained by the church to which the pastor ministers, might take a leading place in the Sabbath-school. Bible class and young people's meetings, and so prove a valuable helper in the church, while in the course of training. Meanwhile he might find out under this personal confidence, advice and direction of his pastor and in their converse and co-labor, many things he might go through all the seminaries and never discover until he should stumble on them in the course of his late experience. Let the Eli's have their Samuels.

Mrs. Jones hasn't a gray hair in her head and is over 50. She looks as young as her daughter. The secret of it is, that she uses only Hall's Hair Renewer.

The three hundred and ten convicts of Mississippi have been leased to various parties for one year. The sum realized by the State is $33,480. The Clarion-Ledger says:

The parties who lease not only feed, but clothe the convicts, and the State is at no expense whatever; and it will be a very hard matter to convince the people of Mississippi that the leasing system, as now conducted, should be abolished.

A Great Way to Make Money.

MR. EDITOR: The "help or the talents" plan of raising money for mission work was new to me, but our Mission Band each agreed to invest $3. Some always made wonderful investments, but I felt sure I could not even double my "talent." During the week while reading your paper, I concluded to buy a Plater. I sent $3 to W. H. Griffith & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, got a Plater and went to work plating spoons, knives, forks and jewelry, and in a month I had cleared $116.40, and done all the work after school; in three months I cleared $106. This is certainly a rare chance to make money with ease and rapidity.

MARY BRITTEN.

It is said that the public schools of Assumption parish will open, Jan. 1, for an eight months' term, the teachers receiving forty and thirty dollars per month, according to class.

HOOD'S
COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA
TRADE MARK

Hood's Sarsaparilla has by its peculiar morit and its wonderful cures won the confidence of the people, and is to-day the most popular blood purifier and strengthening medicine. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaint, catarrh, rheumatism, etc. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

W. W. CARRE,
LUMBER MERCHANT
AND MANUFACTURER OF
PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.,
Nos. 339, 341, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,
NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

PUBLIC SAFETY DEMANDS
That only honest and reliable medicines should be placed upon the market. It cannot, therefore, be stated too emphatically, nor repeated too often, that all who are in need of a genuine Blood-purifier should be sure and ask for

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla. Your life, or that of some one near and dear to you, may depend on the use of this well-approved remedy in preference to any other preparation of similar name. It is compounded of Honduras sarsaparilla (the variety most rich in curative properties), stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, and the iodides. The process of manufacture is original, skilful, scrupulously clean, and such as to secure the very best medicinal qualities of each ingredient. This medicine is not boiled nor heated, and is, therefore, not a decoction; but it is a compound extract, obtained by a method exclusively our own, of the best and most powerful alteratives, tonics, and diuretics known to pharmacy. For the last forty years, Ayer's

Sarsaparilla
has been the standard blood-purifier of the world—no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formula is approved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

In every quarter of the globe Ayer's Sarsaparilla is proved to be the best remedy for all diseases of the blood. Lowell druggists unite in testifying to the superior excellence of this medicine and to its great popularity in the city of its manufacture.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
PREPARED BY
DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by Druggists. $1, six $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

CLARK & MEADER,
—DEALERS IN—
FINE GROCERIES,
16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and
Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

R. P. RANDALL,
Carriages and Harness,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.

Canopy-Top Surrey, with Curtains,
Apron, Whip and Shafts, at
$85, $112 50, $150, and $180.
CASH WITH ORDER.
Send for Catalog. Mention this paper

Watches, Diamonds,
FINE JEWELRY!
Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,
SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES
Send for Catalogue.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
(Established 1817)
119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.
Readers of Books, Attention!
WE wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address
STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

T. B. CARSON,
DEALER IN
Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,
Of the Best Quality of
ITALIAN AND AMERICAN
MARBLE AND GRANITE,
No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.
Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex... 6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex... 8:00 am
B. Rouge Ac...10.35 am	B. Rouge Ac... 3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....3:45 pm
No. 7 Coast.....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..3:40 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 10:30 pm	No. 2. Passen'r. 6:00 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:05 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 8:45 pm
No. 5 Acc'm....8:10 am	No. 6 Acc'm....5:00 pm
No. 41 Fast Mail. 9:10 am	No. 42 Fast Mail. 7:00 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25 am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45 am
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15 pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd .11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00 pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 6, Fast Line. 8:45 am

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 2, Limited...4:00 pm

P. AND F. EAST L.A.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.
Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....1.10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.
FROM
New Orleans to Cincinnati.
94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City.

Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Dist. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.
J. C. GAULT, General Manager.
D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.
GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.
Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.
The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to
CHICAGO,
Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.
The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.
The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.
The Shortest and Most Direct Route to
MEMPHIS.
The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change
To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and
KANSAS CITY.
ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS
FROM NEW ORLEANS TO
Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York
The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts
J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—
Texas and Pacific
Railway Company.
SHORT LINE
—BETWEEN—
NEW ORLEANS,
TEXARKANA,
SHREVEPORT,
AND POINTS IN
Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.
Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.
For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address
B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.
Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.
NEW ROUTE
TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE. PITTSBURGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6:00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accm. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accm. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.
Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.
P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
R. B. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.
A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r.

H. D. McCOWN,
DEALER IN FINE CLOTHING
—AND—
MENS' FURNISHING GOODS
Headquarters of the Celebrated, McCown Shirt.
Boy's Clothing a Specialty.
Mens' and Boys' Hats.
Clothing Made to Order.
Cor. Ft. Charles and Common Sts., New Orleans
10 Discount to Preachers.

S. R. PERRY,
183 Canal St.
Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, no'sundried.
Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.
Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.
Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

BROWNE & JENKINS
DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN
WALL PAPER
154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Write for prices. Samples sent to country free.

ROOFING!
GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.
GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 WEST BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Local Agents Wanted.

Shepard & Butler,
94 CAMP STREET.
BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.
BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.
BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS,
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.
House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest
ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.
Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,
Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,
CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,
Rope Packing, Twines,
Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,
Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,
AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,
Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,
Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,
Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,
Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,
ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.
A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.
J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.
40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.
New Orleans Express Com'y,
LIMITED.
City Delivery and Transfer,
No. 101 Camp Street,
Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La
This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.
Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

"The Methodist Steward." By Rev. J. J. Billingsley. Endorsed by prominent officials of the Methodist Churches, North and South. All stewards should have it. It will pay any pastor to circulate it among his people. Price, 75 cents.
F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., N. O.

A. Brousseau's Son,
26 and 28 CHARTRES ST.,
CHINA MATTING,
CARPETS,
INGRAINS,
LACE CURTAINS,
WINDOW SHADES,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JAN. 1, 1891.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR to all the readers of the ADVOCATE! May God's providence crowd your lives with plenty! May Christ's grace ease your burdens and render every duty sweet! May the Spirit's presence fill your souls with precious peace!

Briefs.

When a preacher gets into his head that he is not appreciated in his Conference, he is coasting dangerously near the shores of ministerial failure. Especially is this true when he begins to give expression to his feelings. Nothing is more definitely settled than the fact that a preacher will be appreciated and rewarded according to his real worth. In truth, preachers are almost universally promoted as rapidly as they can bear it, and often young men are ruined by being put forward too soon. The itinerant spirit and the vows of ordination mean a great deal. When a Methodist preachor takes up an idea that he is too good for any work to which he may be sent, that fact itself is proof conclusive that he is not worthy to be an itinerant Methodist preachor.—Alabama Advocate.

Advices received at the State Department from Lima state that Peru has taken a lively interest in the construction of the American International Railway, which, starting from the United States, traverses Mexico, and will unite all the countries of Central and South America. In order to study the surveys of this line, Peru has sent as a delegate to the special committee, now in session in Washington, one of her most distinguished experts, M. L. Busk. All questions relative to this colossal enterprise will be examined by that commission, and there is no doubt that, with the earnest cooperation of the government of the United States, we shall, in a comparatively short time, have this great line of road in full operation.—Exchange.

There is something about Dr. Talmage and his work that looks queer to an ordinary mortal. No man has a greater audience than he. He is speaking, in a manner, to nearly the whole civilized world, and yet he does not seem to have operated very effectually upon his own church. What has he been doing all these years with that congregation that he can not raise enough money to rebuild his tabernacle? The dispatches state that a "contractor's lien for $76,645 has been filed against Talmage's new Brooklyn tabernacle." If an ordinary Methodist preacher should fail so signally, he would be removed as "inefficient," and another man appointed to do the work.

Statistics of the entire membership of our church, as reported for 1889, compiled by P. A. Peterson, D. D., and published in the Richmond Advocate: Georgia, 132,606; Texas, 126,804; Tennessee, 114,351; North Carolina, 111,630; Virginia, 108,341; Alabama, 88,702; Missouri, 82,933; Kentucky, 80,685; Mississippi, 72,203; Arkansas, 69,378; South Carolina, 67,694; West Virginia, 24,779; Louisiana, 23,269; Florida, 23,045; Maryland, 10,866; Indian Territory, 8,130; California, 7,591; Illinois, 6,361; Kansas, 2,803; Oregon, 1,569; Colorado, 1,138; Indiana, 1,104; District of Columbia, 772; New Mexico, 542; Montana, 456; Washington, 342; Nebraska 300; Arizona, 225; Idaho, 80. To which add Brazil Mission, 365; Central Mexican Mission, 1,650; China Mission, 348; Mexican Border Mission, 1,838; Bishops, 8; traveling preachers, 4,862. Grand total, 1,177,150.

1890—A Lesson.

How quickly the years come and go! Though they come so fast and pass so swift away, each brings its privileges and opportunities, and bears into the future the full record of our successes and failures. If we would take the trouble to count our failures that have gone on before to confront us in the great day, how we would bend under the burden of mortification and shame! Should we count the mercies of the past twelve months, we would fall in adoring gratitude before the throne of our gracious Father. It may be that we can number the successes of the year just gone on the fingers of our left hand, and what a cause for penitence and prayer is in that sad fact!

It may be that our blessings have been as numberless as the sand grains that girdle the sea, and what a theme for mighty rejoicing we have in that! Our joys may have been as evanescent as bubbles on the water and our sorrows as abiding as the "eternal stars," yet both have but compiotod the curriculum of God's discipline for our souls. Have we looked at them as such an agency? If not, then we have missed the greatest lesson of the past. The poet says,

"'Tis greatly wise to talk with our past hours;
And ask them what report they bore to heaven;
And how they might have borne more welcome news."

The great apostle has announced the fact that God's providence overrules everything for the good of those who love him. But the good intended must be appropriated and used in order to be of real service. God's purposes and intentions may be thwarted or tortured out of their appointed channels, and then the great lesson of life is not learned nor its benefits conserved. Privilege and opportunity, blessings and mercies, our own successes and failures, are only so many educational forces intended to make us wiser and stronger and better; but to reap the full benefit of such a course of instruction, we must place ourselves in the proper attitude. This is the great lesson, so to adjust ourselves to our relations that we may make everything an efficient minister in the matter of duty and gather in the blessings that throng upon obligation performed.

If we have been seeking this end outside of daily duty done, we have not only missed our aim, but we have "gained a positive loss." The time to grow strong and good and wise has been misspent, and our poverty of life to-day can be truly measured by the richness of the forces we have failed to use. But if we have used the time to the best advantage, and the privilege and opportunity in the wisest way, we feel to-day a newer, stronger, larger spiritual life. We have the best and truest of all joy, the joy of spiritual growth; our affections have grown younger and deeper, and we look out upon the year just beginning as another term of God's great school where he trains us for the skies. The lessons of 1890, having been thoroughly learned and their wisdom appropriated, have only sharpened our mental and spiritual appetites for his blessed teachings in 1891.

And, perhaps, we may learn more wisdom for the future from our failures than from our successes. The mortification resulting from failure may be very sharp and painful, but for that very reason its lessons strike deeper in the soul. The true man takes fresh hope from failure, and from that vantage-ground starts anew for success. For he looks upon

"To-day as yesterday returned; returned
Full-powered to cancel, expiate, raise, adorn,
And reinstate him on the rock of peace."

The same privileges and opportunities, mercies and blessings, the same blessed educational agencies are at work, and though we failed somewhat in 1890, thank God, we can make a complete success in 1891.

Responsibility and Reckoning.

The central fact of probation is our responsibility to God! If we believe that God is, and that we are his moral creatures, we are forced to believe that we are responsible to him for our actions. If, however, we smother our intuitions and reject revelation and adopt the philosophy of the materialist, which reduces mind to nervous action and blots a personal Creator from the universe, of course responsibility is gone and we take our places alongside the beasts which perish. If, however, we believe mind to be something else than "nervous modification become hereditary," we can never consider ourselves as beasts, or mere machines in the hands of irresistible fate. If we adopt pantheism, which converts everything into God, we will not care anything for a "day of reckoning," because from such a premise an inexorable logic rules it out of existence. If, however, we listen to the voice of revelation, we are sure that no person can become a "partaker of the divine nature" without being born into the kingdom through the agency of a personal Spirit.

God is a personal being, and he is our maker. Responsibility flows directly from this fact. The relation of Creator and creature creates law, and law creates responsibility. We are the creatures of God in a peculiar sense. God created us in his own image—that is, he made us moral beings. When God made us moral agents, that creative act developed moral law as related to us as creatures. Moral law is founded in the nature of moral intelligence and is coeval with it. Moral law and moral being are correlatives. The one can not exist without the other. If you destroy moral being, you destroy moral law. Hence those metaphysicians who have philosophized all the mind and soul out of man, and thus reduced him to mere matter, have consistently repudiated and discarded all moral law. The conclusion follows from the premise. If man is mere matter, no need exists for moral law as far as he is concerned. If he is a mere machine, that takes him out of the realm of moral being. It is the fashion now-a-days to talk a great deal about natural laws; but when we sift this wordy wisdom, we find out that all we really know about this perplexing subject is that natural law is simply the illustration of the operations of nature. And as there seems to be uniformity in the operations, we conclude that natural law is coeval with nature and a constituent of nature.

So moral law is coeval with moral nature and a constituent of moral nature. Paul, speaking of men in general, says, "The law is written on their hearts"—that is, it is an essential part of their nature. Now, there may always be room for doubt as to the extent of the reign of natural law, but there is always absolute certainty as to the meaning and domain of law in the moral realm. Man being a moral being, and moral law being a constituent of that being, the meaning is, he is always and everywhere responsible to God for all his actions.

This responsibility being established, another fearful fact comes into view—and that is, the appointment of a day of reckoning when man shall give the account of the stewardship which he holds under the moral law. If we are not responsible to God for our actions, there can be no reason for a day of reckoning, for there is nothing to make reckoning of. If we are responsible, then we can see all about us abundant reasons for such a day. All about us we see evils which can not be corrected, injustices which can not be rectified, relations out of which flows evil, and these relations can not be adjusted to the plainest principles of right, wrongs of the most flagrant character which no law can abate or punish. The very worst forms of vice stalk around with impudent front, trampling down good and flaunting defiance in the face of man and God. When we meditate on these things, we feel that if there is never to come a day of judgment when these evils shall be corrected, then justice is an illusive dream. We feel that if God is just, "if justice and righteousness are the habitations of his throne," then there must come a day in human history when simple justice will be meted out with impartial hand to every human being. The Scriptures teach that this feeling is correct, and, therefore, a day is coming when God will "judge the world in righteousness." Paul says, "So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God." Man being created in the image of God makes him responsible to God. Man being responsible to God renders it necessary that a time of reckoning shall come. Reader, are you ready?

Another Blow.

The liquor dealers who are trying to evade the law have received another blow. This time it comes from the Supreme Court of South Dakota. The dispatches have given the following resume of the case:

The Supreme Court of South Dakota has rendered a decision in the original package case of the State of South Dakota vs. George H. Chapman and Wm. Koller on a writ of error, the Supreme Court rendering a decision against the defendants. This was an action where the defendants were informed against in the county court of Lincoln county for keeping a common nuisance by selling intoxicating liquors as a beverage. The court holds that in order for the defendants to receive immunity under the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Lusy vs. Hardin, commonly known as the original package case, they must show in the first place that they are foreign importers or agents of a foreign importer of beer or liquors, and as such agents received an importation of beer or liquor from another State or country, that they are as such importers or agents selling this, importing by the original unbroken package in which it was imported, that they are not making their house of business a tippling concern or rendezvous of persons, bringing it within the police power of the State to declare it a nuisance.

The court further holds that when bottles of beer each sealed up in a paper wrapper and closed and placed together in uncovered wooden boxes are marked to the address of the agent and shipped from one State to another, the wooden box and not the bottles constitute the original package within the meaning of the decision of the Supreme Court.

Thus "one by one" the props are being pulled from under the liquor sellers.

Carondelet's New Pastor.

Rev. William H. LaPrade, lately transferred from the North Georgia Conference to the Louisiana Conference, and appointed by Bishop Haygood to Carondelet Street Church, of New Orleans, is at his work and is winning golden opinions from his people. Having been selected by Bishop Haygood, soon after Bishop Keener had appointed Dr. Carradine to Centenary Church, in St. Louis, Bro. LaPrade came into this field at the earnest solicitations of two Bishops, both personal friends.

Bro. LaPrade is of Huguenot descent, a native of Apalachicola, Fla., and forty-one years of age. He was graduated from Emory College, Georgia, in 1872, in his twenty-second year, and joined the North Georgia Conference the following winter. His first charge was Edgewood station, near Atlanta, Ga. Afterward he served Cedartown, Rome, LaGrange district, Washington and Covington. From the last he removed to New Orleans.

His accomplished and eminently pious wife is a daughter of the late Rev. Luther M. Smith, D. D., who was president of Emory College and chancellor of the Southern University, at Greensboro, Ala., filling this last position at date of his death. Mrs. LaPrade is president of the Woman's Missionary Society of the North Georgia Conference, which is said to be the banner society of this organization in our connection.

District Conference Libraries.

Ministers, both itinerant and local, often need books required in the regular course for study and reference as per Discipline, which they have not means to purchase, or, if able to buy them, find transportation of a library costly. At the late session of the Mississippi Annual Conference it was apparent that our young ministers were struggling against many difficulties in pursuing the prescribed studies, one of which was want of the designated books. And Judge Mayers, of Brandon, advised that the following suggestion be presented in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. He offered to start the movement with a contribution of ten dollars and a selection of over one hundred suitable works from his own valuable library for the formation of a District Conference Library for the Brandon district. The plan for procuring and using such a library has been suggested as follows:

Let each district parsonage have a library-room added to it, if none suitable for this purpose now exists. The presiding elder to have exclusive selection of books for such a library, and direction of its use, aided by his wife, who should be paid for her services by small fees exacted from borrowers. The presiding elder at each Quarterly Conference might present this subject and obtain contributions of needed books or money for the establishment of the library, which effort, in a few years, would, in many districts, result in a library well supplied, not only with our standard books, but latest works by eminent authors treating biblical themes, and subscriptions to all the leading periodicals of the day, quarterlies, monthlies, etc., of both Europe and America. Here also could be gathered all the religious weeklies that had been received by the members of the church, which could be distributed among the poor of the district unable or unwilling to subscribe for our papers.

The books and periodicals of the "District Conference Library" to be loaned to members of the district on deposit of value of the book borrowed, which amount is to be returned when the book is handed back in as good condition as when received. The borrower to pay postage, if incurred, and a small annual fee for the service rendered.

Bro. Mellen, to whom this plan was mentioned, said: "But if we have no district parsonsonage?" Then, I reply, build one at once and have a library room provided in it.

A note just received from Judge A. G. Mayers says: "I saw our presiding elder, Bro. Johnston, and told him of the plan for the District Conference Library, and he most heartily approves of it." We would like to hear from others on this subject. Rev. F. D. Van Valkenburgh estimates the cost of a single set of books as prescribed, including reference books, etc., about $175. M.

Notes.

A good brother "hit the nail square" when he said, "My infernal laziness has prevented me." That is just it. Laziness is infernal—from below. It is the devil's first manacle.

A call has been made for a convention of those who favor the organization of the Prohibition party in this State, to meet in this city, Jan. 7, 1891. All who desire prohibition, pure politics, good government, etc., are invited to attend.

An elderly gentleman, who has traveled a good deal, suggests that it would be good Christian work if the presiding elders would endeavor to circulate the cook-book more extensively, and give occasional short talks on the uses and benefits of soap.

At the recent session of the Mississippi Conference the ADVOCATE promised twenty-five dollars toward the fund for sending two additional missionaries to the foreign field. If any of our readers desire to join us in raising that sum, let them send along their contributions, and their names will appear credited with the same.

The members of the German Mission Conference set an example of giving to missions worthy of the imitation of all. According to report in the Texas Advocate, they number 1,025 members, and they raised for foreign missions over $1,800. Suppose we would all do likewise, what then? Why, we would rejoice in the disbursement of over $2,000,000 missionary money!

The oldest inhabitants say they have never known so much sickness in this city, excepting in time of epidemics. The disease, la grippe, seems to be universally prevalent. Almost everybody is sneezing and coughing, and the number of deaths has been very great. The physicians say the disease is not bad in itself, but it develops in old people and in children diseases that are fatal.

Millsaps College has taken firm hold upon the conscience of Mississippi Methodism. The two Conferences are taking hold of the project with an earnestness that must insure success. The most delicate and the most important part of the project is yet to be settled, and that is, the location of the college. Let the Methodists of Mississippi offer special prayers that the Board of Trustees be granted special wisdom for that matter.

How will this do for luminosity? The Appeal-Avalanche has this "well-rounded period:"

The sublime and effulgent simplicity of his arguments possesses the potentiality of piercing the most unmitigated mental opacity; and, while he disconcerts the arrogant self-sufficiency of the unthinking, and irritates the wounds and sensitive and self-complacency of the stolid, the rufiling of these stagnant pools only purifies the waters.

Do you know a preacher whose sermons that will fit?

We give for the benefit of our pastors one of John Wesley's last exhortations to his preachers:

Press this upon them with your might; it can not be that the people should grow in grace unless they give themselves to reading. Press this upon them, and you will see the fruit of your labors.

We would emphasize this last exhortation of our founder. Let our pastors continue with unceasing effort to "press" upon our people this great matter.

A brother who is well versed in the history of Southern Methodism stated publicly, the other day, that only one man in our church has even given as much as one hundred thousand dollars for the cause of Christian education. This is a reproach to the liberality of our Christian men and women. There are many who possess millions of dollars, and we hesitate not to say that the obligation is upon them to give hundreds of thousands. Through the good hand of the Lord upon them they have accumulated this wealth, and the cause of God is crying for help, and they are withholding God's own money. Let all such read and ponder and pray over the first six verses of the fifth chapter of the epistle of St. James.

We failed to get the educational statistics of the Mississippi Conference. We know, however, that the Conference has several fine colleges for young ladies, besides its half interest in Centenary College of Louisiana. Among them we may name: East Mississippi Female College, located at Meridian, and presided over by C. W. Anderson, a layman of our church; Port Gibson Female College, at Port Gibson, directed by Miss Compton; Edward McGehee College for young ladies, at Woodville, of which H. W. Featherstun is president, and Whitworth College, at Brookhaven, which is under the management of L. T. Fitzhugh, an eminent layman. These schools, being located as they are, afford great facilities for the education of the Methodist girls of Mississippi, and are all worthy and qualified to do good work.

Personal and Otherwise.

Rev. Alfred E. Clay, pastor of Dryades Street Church, will commence afternoon lectures to the masses every Sunday at three o'clock, at the Dryades Street Church. Everybody is invited, but especially those not in the habit of attending church. Subject for next Sunday—"The Meaning of the Movement and the Message."

Will the secretaries of our three Conferences please furnish us with the apportionments of the various moneys to be collected during the coming year? These brethren will oblige us by sending them forward at once.

The Bro. Brown who transferred from North Mississippi to Louisiana is J. H. Brown. In our list of appointments we made him J. W. Brown. We make the correction because we don't want the transfer to destroy his identity.

Our young brother, J. G. Cammack, of the Mississippi Conference, was married to Miss Ethel Wilson, of Brandon, Miss., Dec. 23. We offer the happy pair our congratulations. Nobody needs a good wife more than a Methodist preacher.

Mrs. Emeline Bynum, a life-long member of the Methodist Church, died recently in this city. She bequeathed to the M. E. Church, South, for the use and benefit of the superannuated preachers, widows and orphans of deceased preachers of Louisiana all her landed estate in Grant parish, containing 2,700 acres. She made provision also for the education of one of Rev. Philo M. Goodwyn's sons and William Farquier, the grandson of Dr. J. B. Walker.

The Water Valley Progress has this personal:

The appointment of Rev. T. W. Dye as pastor of Wood Street Church gives general satisfaction. Mr. Dye is one of the ablest divines in this Conference, and will be given a hearty welcome to the Valley city.

This personal we clip from the Vicksburg Herald:

The Vicksburg friends of Rev. R. J. Jones, irrespective of denomination, have united to present him with an appropriate evidence of their esteem for him and their regret at his approaching departure from the city. The gift selected is a magnificent silver service, handsomely chased and otherwise decorated, and consisting of eight pieces—a large salver containing a coffee urn, two teapots, a cream jug, sugar bowl, spoonholder and slop bowl. The jug, bowl and spoonholder are gold-lined, but the artistic finish of the entire service would adorn any metal. During his four years' pastorate at the Crawford Street M. E. Church, Mr. Jones has won the high personal regard of all good people and will bear it with him wherever he goes. Not the less honored and esteemed is his amiable wife, to whom the beautiful gift will, doubtless, be especially gratifying. It is understood that the service will be a Christmas present.

The postoffice address of Rev. W. W. Hopper is Jackson, Miss.

Mr. Gladstone is eighty-one years of age, and has spent fifty-eight years in public life.

Georgia is the empire State as regards Methodism. She has in her territory 132,606 Methodists.

The address of Rev. J. W. Luter, treasurer Board of Missions, North Mississippi Conference, is Brooksville, Noxubee county, Miss.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. M. Henry, writing from Shreveport, La., says: "I am at my post; find an eager, hungry people and a number of willing helpers. I have high hopes of large success for Christ in this field this year. When men are ready, willing and waiting, what is to hinder? The divine loving kindness has prepared the feast. May we not enter and feast to fill and be satisfied? Pray that we may, and that our satisfaction be to do the Master's will."

—Rev. Wm. B. Hines writes: "I will furnish you with a few items from Vossburg circuit, Mississippi Conference, for 1890. The year has been one of the best in its history. We had a protracted meeting at each church—six, and two meetings at one church. There was a revival at each church, and much awakening among sinners and some conversions. Fifty-seven persons were added to the church on the work; 12 adults were baptized; 47 children baptized. We built one new handsome church and finished it and painted it throughout at a cost of $800. Preacher's and presiding elder's $670 reported paid in full. All the Conference collections paid in full, with excess in foreign missions, $20; $4 excess on Bishops' collections. Other collections over $500. Total, $2,215. This does not include woman's missionary work and collections. There are two flourishing Auxiliary Woman's Missionary Societies in good working condition on the work—Vosshurg and Pachuta. In our meetings we have had valuable aid from the following ministerial brethren: W. W. Hopper, at two meetings; E. F. Edgar, at one meeting, and Bros. J. P. Drake and Ware, at one or two meetings. We are thankful to these brethren for good service."

—Rev. J. T. Moody writes: "Kosciusko and Durant charge has given us a cordial reception and a donation of good and substantial tokens. Durant sent over a box of good things too numerous to mention. We thank the Lord and the donors, and take courage."

—Rev. W. H. Hill writes from Montgomery circuit, Louisiana Conference: "We arrived at Montgomery (our new field of labor), last Sunday morning, at three o'clock, and were met at the landing by Maj. H. V. McCain, who conducted us to his home, where we found Sister McCain waiting for us at this late hour of the night. We held services in the town the same day we arrived. It being Sunday, we did not move into the parsonage till next day. The good brethren had not forgotten to look out for our immediate needs, for we found in the parsonage everything necessary for the table. We would not forget to say Bro. and Sister Wynn know how to leave a parsonage when they move out, for we found everything neat and clean. We feel it will require great effort on our part and a continual supply of God's grace to enable us to follow Bro. Wynn successfully, for he is one of the best workers in our Conference. We have not been here long enough to get acquainted with many of the brethren, yet we are confident our lines have fallen in pleasant places. We hope in our next letter to report progress in the work of our Master."

—Rev. Wm. T. Beall writes: "Last Tuesday week, on my way to Conference, I met Bro. Hayes and wife in Jackson on their way to the same place; but Bro. Hayes was taken so ill that they returned to Terry to her relatives. Bro. Hayes took his bed immediately on arriving here, and has been quite sick ever since. This evening, on passing through Terry, I heard he was very ill, and went to see him, finding him suffering very much. He was taken with la grippe, which has developed into pleuritic pneumonia, with hepatic complication, and his physicians think him dangerously ill. While there is great danger of his physical frame succumbing to the dread malady, his spirit is rejoicing in God his Savior, and he feels that while for him to live has been Christ, to die will be gain; and the same gospel which he has so faithfully preached to others sustains him in this trying hour. I ask for him and his consecrated companion the prayers of the brethren to whom he is so well known, and with whom he has so long and faithfully labored."

[The dispatches of the thirtieth announce the death of Bro. Hayes. A good man has gone to his reward. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved.—EDITOR.]

No praise of ours can equal the sincere faith of those who know Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Financial.

Bank clearings and railroad earnings this month have been thus far in excess of the same period last year, but the aggregate of business is gradually shrinking all over the country. Merchants and manufacturers have for some time shown a tendency rather to reduce than increase their stocks of merchandise and raw material, which is attributed to the apprehensions of the closer money that may prevail at the opening of '91, owing to the yearly settlements that will then have to be made. It is, however, believed that the very conservative preparations that have gradually been made during the past six weeks have eliminated the principal elements of danger, and hence, when all things are considered, it seems reasonable to regard the financial and commercial condition of the country sound and strong enough to withstand any natural liquidation that may occur. Besides, as the supply of our exportable staples is large, and their values have reached a point that may in all probability stimulate such a foreign demand for them that foreign exchange will become easily negotiable, and thus would greatly improve the general financial and commercial situation.—Times-Democrat.

The only reliable vegetable substitute for calomel, which acts on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach, and best anti-bilious purgative is Maguire's Cundurango. Endorsed by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia; Bev. McNally, of St. Louis, and a host of prominent people.

For the Holidays, 1890-91.

On December 24, 25, 28, 31 and January 1 the Mississippi Valley Route (L., N. O. & T. railway) will sell round-trip tickets between all stations at a rate of one and one-third fare, final limit to be Jan. 3.

Excursion tickets to Louisville, Cincinnati and to all points on N. N. and M. V. company will be limited to return Jan. 5 Pullman buffet sleeping cars run between New Orleans, Memphis, Louisville and Cincinnati without change.

R. F. REYNOLDS,
As. Gen'l Pass. Agt., New Orleans, La.
E. W. HOW,
Traffic Manager.
P. R. ROGERS,
Gen'l Pass. Agent, Memphis, Tenn.

Holiday Excursions on the Queen and Crescent Route.

Christmas Excursion tickets will be sold by agents of the Queen and Crescent Route on December 20-25, inclusive, good for return until January 3. Also New Year's Excursion tickets will be sold on December 29, 30 and 31; also January 1, good for return until January at low excursion rates. Full information on application to the agents of the Queen and Crescent Route.

Thanks.

The business manager of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE tenders his hearty thanks for the courteous and elegant hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Trousdale, Monroe, La.; to Rev. E. P. Miller, pastor of the Baptist Church, Grenada, Miss., and his accomplished lady; also to Mrs. Hill, her charming daughter, Miss Kate, and her son, The Hon. Mr. Hill, mayor of Canton, Miss.

Important Notice.

The annual meeting of the Board of Church Extension of the M. E. Church, South, will be held at its office, 705 West Chestnut street, Louisville, Ky., on Wednesday, April 8, 1891. Our rules require that all applications for aid shall be on file in this office, at least, thirty days before that meeting; and to that rule we must rigidly adhere. Blanks for applications will be furnished by the undersigned, free of charge, to all who will ask for them.

No applications will be considered, nor any other business transacted, at the anniversary meeting, to be held in March at Little Rock, Ark.

DAVID MORTON, Cor. Sec.
Louisville, Ky., Dec. 26, 1890.

Conference Endowment Fund.

Will all the parties whose notes are due on Dec. 1, 1890, and Jan. 1, 1891, please remit to me by money order on Jackson, Miss., as I am authorized by the Board of Trustees to collect all of the notes due this endowment fund for our old preachers. My postoffice is Jackson, Miss. W. W. HOPPER.

Notices.

As many of the pastors of the Jackson district as can do so are requested to attend the meeting of the district stewards, at Jackson, Jan. 14, 1891. Would be glad to have them all attend.

D. A. LITTLE.

Dec. 23, 1890.

Subscribers to the special missionary collection at Louisiana Annual Conference will please forward the amounts to me at 112 Camp street.

C. B. CARTER, Treas.

Sound advice. If you have a bad cold, invest 25 cents in Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Notice as to Changes.

Subscribers whose postoffice is changed will confer a favor if they will advise the business manager as to where their paper is changed from, as well as to their postoffice changed to, as early as possible, in order that our mail lists for 1891 may be correct.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of the Advocate will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Wise Advice.

The man who is wise enough to give advice is not to be found at every corner. In religious things this is especially the case. How often ministers give bad advice to those seeking light on religious matters! When men come with doubts, how often they are referred to the hooks of other men! In this most important matter, the following from the New York Christian Advocate shows the true way:

Recently an artist of Jewish descent, in Berlin, began to read the New Testament in order to find subjects for pictures. As he proceeded he became entranced with the moral beauty of the character of Christ; his mind at last yielding to the conviction that Jesus was the Son of God, he became a Christian. Human agency is usually employed in leading men to Christ, but not always. Many have been turned from darkness to light by reading the New Testament without note or comment, and without a human teacher. When the Rev. John Collins first met John McLean, afterward Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, he found him a skeptic. Mr. Collins proposed to him that he should read the Bible ten minutes every day for eight weeks. The proposition was accepted, and when the itinerant returned to that appointment at the expiration of eight weeks he found Mr. McLean seeking the pardon of his sins through Christ. Ministers have sometimes made a great blunder in directing unbelievers to read theological works, but in counseling them to read the Bible no one ever yet made a mistake.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

Clearing-House Statement.

The following table, compiled from dispatches from the clearing-houses of the cities named, shows the gross exchanges for last week, rates per cent. of increase or decrease, as against the similar amounts for the corresponding week in 1889:

New York	$485,521,337	Decrease	19.9
Boston	58,398,156	Decrease	14.9
Chicago	66,003,000	Increase	10.7
Philadelphia	56,120,037	Decrease	9.4
St. Louis	17,908,535	Increase	10.2
Pittsburg	10,502,074	Decrease	16.4
San Francisco	13,867,887	Increase	4.2
Baltimore	10,263,980	Decrease	15.1
Cincinnati	9,570,650	Decrease	2.8
New Orleans	13,036,867	Increase	9.4
Kansas City	7,479,045	Decrease	3.3
Milwaukee	7,138,000	Increase	45.2
Buffalo	6,474,826	Increase	68.8
Galveston	7,431,396	Increase	408.8
Minneapolis	5,715,898	Increase	28.0
Providence	4,898,005	Decrease	4.4
Louisville	5,572,478	Increase	5.0
Detroit	4,851,783	Increase	15.8
Cleveland	4,761,057	Increase	11.9
Omaha	3,488,891	Decrease	10.8
Denver	3,475,971	Increase	3.4
St. Paul	3,305,811	Decrease	3.0
Columbus	2,485,400	Decrease	7.0
Memphis	2,937,897	Decrease	4.2
Richmond	1,642,802	Decrease	8.1
Dallas	1,216,077	Increase	110.9
Duluth	1,678,811	Increase	8.6
Indianapolis	3,293,478	Increase	116.8
Portland, Or.	1,595,107	Decrease	1.4
Fort Worth	1,350,435	Decrease	5.1
Washington	1,325,490	Increase	5.0
Hartford	1,567,896	Increase	0.3
Peoria	1,551,582	Increase	18.4
Portland, Me.	1,003,799	Increase	2.0
Norfolk	1,584,052	Decrease	3.4
Worcester	966,668	Decrease	0.8
New Haven	1,046,478	Increase	0.6
Springfield	987,872	Increase	2.8
Sioux City	773,802	Increase	26.6
Tacoma	827,845	Increase	33.2
Seattle	1,030,441	Increase	46.6
Wichita	408,542	Decrease	19.4
Lowell	560,770	Decrease	18.5
Wilmington	747,608	Increase	14.0
Birmingham	528,127	Decrease	26.5
Grand Rapids	628,479	Increase	7.2
Los Angeles	601,718	Increase	7.8
Des Moines	528,086	Increase	14.5
Chattanooga	415,500	Increase	14.5
New Bedford	321,740	Decrease	24.6
Topeka	359,393	Decrease	7.7
Lexington, Ky	421,854	Increase	7.7
Montreal	7,873,924	Increase	14.3
*Salt Lake City	1,724,611
Total	$ 858,590,273	Decrease	11.9
Outside New York	373,068,936	Increase	1.2

*Not included in totals; no clearing-house at this time last year.

Literary Notes.

The late Frances Ridley Havergal was without doubt the most popular devotional writer of this century. Her works have been translated into almost every European tongue, but it remained for the United States alone to issue this talented lady's work without permission or remuneration. At this late day a new edition is being issued by Fleming H. Revell, publisher of New York and Chicago, in which the heirs of Miss Havergal are interested and on which they will receive royalty.

It seems strange that Matthew Henry's commentaries, with all their popularity during the more than seven-score years they have been published, have never been issued in this country in any other style than the cumbrous tomes with which Bible students are so familiar. The new edition in six volumes recently published by Fleming H. Revell is a most successful attempt to put this much prized commentary into easily handled volumes. A not less striking feature is the fact that this has not been done by a reprint in small type; on the contrary, the type is larger than in any former edition.

The second instalment of the "Talleyrand Memoirs," in The Century, for February, will deal almost entirely with Talleyrand's relations with Napoleon Bonaparte, and will include a number of highly interesting anecdotes of Napoleon; namely, the scene when they first met; Napoleon's snubbing of a foreign minister; his strange attack of epilepsy, etc. Talleyrand does not hesitate to tell how he thwarted Napoleon even while he pretended to be serving him. He describes his plotting with Napoleon early in the latter's career, another his plotting against him. This instalment will also give Talleyrand's reason for his rupture with Bonaparte.

Business Notices.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. FOLE,
"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 133 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is a most a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.
LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.
E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $ a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

I have kept a Scrap Book for a good many years of letters received from patients; some are long, too long to publish; some are short, short and good. Rainy days I sit down and read them and have learned a good deal about the human body from some poor, sickly woman or overstrained man. Here is one of them. I call it a good letter:

TRENTON, TEXAS, Sept. 28, 1886.

"To Kennedy of the Medical Discovery, Roxbury, Mass. I am so proud of my recovery as to express my feelings in thanks to you. The RHEUMATISM has made me four-legged for six years. At last I have traded off two of them to Bell—Druggist—for four bottles of Kennedy's Discovery. I am yours, gratefully and unsolicited, J. B. IVY."

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

Mansfield Female College
Conservatory of Music and Art.
MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most popular and flourishing institutions of the South. The Sixty-seventh Session opens September 10, 1890, and the Spring Term begins January 28, 1891, with an able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive, instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. The pianos are new and of the best make. The Technicon and the Techniphone are used to facilitate the work in the music department, placing this department beyond competition. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

The location is unsurpassed for beauty and attractiveness, and the school is celebrated for the remarkable record for good health maintained. The climate is the best in which to educate, and the place is the safest for girls. The main building is of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, warmed and ventilated. Ample provision for the table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical. A new building with a large audience hall is in contemplation, and extensive improvements are in progress to make this the grandest institution in the State.

For catalogue and particulars address
A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

Centenary College
JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wilcy, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Munnicutt, President.

Millwood Female Institute
JACKSON, LA.

This Boarding and Day School for Young Ladies is delightfully situated amid the hills of East Feliciana, five miles from Ethel, on the Mississippi Valley railroad. Collegiate Course complete. Seventy-five dollars will cover all expenses for a term of twenty weeks. Music, Languages, and Art extra. School opens September 1. Send for Catalogue.

(MISS) M. MCCALMONT, Prin.

N. C. Y. L. - 407!

N. C. Y. L. Patronage, 407 pupils from 15 States

THE NASHVILLE (Tenn.) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES is the leading Southern school for girls. Crowded all the fall; patronage refused for want of room. A few vacancies open for Second Term, which begins Jan. 19, 1891.

Apply at once to
REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D., Pres't.

LOUISIANA
STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR
FACTORY,

199, 201, 203, 205, 207 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

"THE PRINCE OF PEACE!"
AGENTS WANTED
A RICH HARVEST.

Everybody wants this "Beautiful Life of Jesus." By MRS. ISABELLA M. ALDEN (PANSY). 500 royal octavo pages; 300 superb illustrations, richly-colored lithographs, tinted photogravures, exquisite engravings, representing the best works of ancient and modern masters; a matchless Album of Sacred Art. The author is the acknowledged peer of all writers on this noble theme. She is safe, graphic, attractive; has spent 15 years in painstaking preparation for this crowning work. ENDORSED BY CHAUTAUQUAN, CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR, and SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS. Introductions by Bishop J. H. Vincent and Rev. Dr. J. E. Clark ("Father Endeavor"). By subscription only. Exclusive territory. Prospectus now ready. Send $1.00 for outfit. Name choice of territory. Insist on seeing "Prince of Peace!" Accept no other! Write quick. Address,

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

H. P. BUCKLEY,
Watchmaker
—DEALER IN—
Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.
8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

Heath, Schwartz & Co.
(LIMITED.)
Jobbers and Retailers,
116 Camp Street, . New Orleans.

Matting

Which we were selling at 10 cents has been closed out, but we have secured a better grade, which we are offering by the roll for $6.

Wall Paper,

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, Upholstering Goods, Rugs and Mats in immense variety.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's
29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29
NEW ORLEANS.
Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,
DEARBORN PATENT
SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,
234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,
Offers her services
TO SHOP
for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman and Julius Hart.

How Shall Churches Be Filled?

A MANUAL OF RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, DISCUSSED BY CLERGYMEN OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

No Minister Ought to Be Without It.

Price, $1, post-free.

Address
STATISTICAL BUREAU OF RELIGIOUS INFORMATION, HEAD OFFICES: 459 W. 21st Street, New York City.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, Couche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

If You Have

No appetite, Indigestion, Flatulence, Sick Headache, "all run down," loosing flesh, you will find the remedy you need. They tone up the weak stomach and build up the flagging energies. Sufferers from mental or physical overwork will find relief from them. Nicely sugar coated.

Tutt's Pills

SOLD EVERYWHERE

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

IF THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS SENT TO US, WITH ONE DOLLAR, WE WILL SEND THE MUSICAL VISITOR TO ANY ADDRESS FOR ONE YEAR. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

—PUBLISHED BY—

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 89 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE

OF THE

Methodist Episcopal Church, South,

AT

NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Will fill an order for any book at its publisher's price. The profits of this House belong to the Church, and are disbursed to the Annual conferences for distribution to their "Conference claimants"—superannuated preachers and the widows and orphans of their deceased brethren. Every order sent the House is an indirect contribution to this important old fund. Methodists ought to keep this in mind.

BARBEE & SMITH,

AGENTS.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal" of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON,

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH Trouble of the Womb should try Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites:" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Interlocking new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Do not buy unless you see it. Circulars and prices free. Address KITSELMAN BROS., Muncie, Ind.

25,000 SOLD

For introduction we will sell the Ladies' Friend Washer at cost (where there are no agents). Ten days trial. Agents make $5 to $10 per DAY. FREE if it does not excel in quality and quantity of work. Circulars free. D. L. BATES & BRO., DAYTON, O.

DROPSY Treated free. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. TEN DAYS TREATMENT FURNISHED FREE by mail DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, Atlanta, Ga.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1 at our Druggists.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel, Nashville, Tenn. —FOR— Catalogue.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS IN BLYMYER BELLS TO THE

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS.

BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE. THE DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

CANCER and Tumors CURED; no knife; book free. Drs. GRATIGNY & DIX, No. 163 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

PLAYS Dialogues, Tableaux, Speakers, for School, Club & Parlor. Best out. Catalogue free. T. S. DENISON, Chicago, Ill.

Our Young People.

One Little Finger.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

Dear Children: I give you with this letter a very interesting story of how one little finger saved a great country from destruction. When you read it I want you to remember that the little pennies you raise to aid the preaching of the gospel, and the saving of souls, in your own country help to save it from the flood of sin that would sweep over it, if some one did not try to stop it—a flood that would ruin your country far worse than the sea would have ruined the country of the "brave little Dutch boy," who with one tiny finger saved so many of his countrymen, by being true enough and brave enough to "do what he could."

LUCINDA B. HELM.

A BRAVE LITTLE DUTCH BOY.

The country of Holland, in Europe, is almost surrounded by the sea. To be sure, there is nothing strange in that, for all islands are entirely surrounded by sea. But Holland is a low country, and if the people had not built high banks to keep the water off, whenever there was a storm or a very high tide, it would wash right over the whole land, and sweep away all the houses and drown the people. The Holland folks built the banks many years ago. They are called dykes. They are not only high but so thick through, there is room for a broad street on top. Trees are planted along these streets, and it is a pleasant and airy place to walk. Men are chosen whose business is to watch these dykes, and see that the water, which is always trying to break through, never does. It is necessary to be very watchful, for if there comes a break ever so small, it must be stopped at once, or it will grow bigger and bigger, and it would take but a few hours to bring on a dreadful flood.

And even the smallest Dutch child knows the danger of being careless about the dykes. One evening a little boy in the city of Haarlem, was on his way home. He walked fast, for it was getting late. It was a quiet part of the city, and there was no one but himself on the street. Everything was quiet, so quiet that presently he heard a soft gurgling sound like that of running water. Ah, Hans knew in a moment what that meant. It meant that somewhere the sea had made a little road through the dykes. He stopped and looked carefully and eagerly, and very soon he found it—a tiny stream that rippled and ran as though it meant not the least bit of harm to anybody or to anything.

But Hans knew better than that, and the first thing he did was to look about for something to stop it. He could find nothing. What should he do? Should he run into the city and call a watchman? But before he could get one, the little stream might become a great river. He looked up and down the empty street. "Well, there's one thing I can do," said Hans to himself, and he went up to the great dyke and put one of his fingers into the hole. It just filled it. "Isn't that lucky?" thought Hans. "And now I'll stay here till somebody comes." And he did.

The twilight passed, and the night came on; the stars shone out one after another; by-and-by the moon came up in the east; very slowly the hours went by; it seemed to little Hans that never had there been so long a night. Once he saw a man walking along the dyke, but too far off for his voice to reach him. He grew tired and cold, but he did not give up. He thought of the stories he had heard of the damage done by the floods in times past, when the dykes had given away. He thought of the little brothers and sister at home, and of other happy homes that might be swept away, should he leave his post. And so he bravely staid by, though it seemed to him sometimes that he should drop down, he was so tired. Every once in awhile he could call out, and early in the morning a watchman heard him and hastened to the spot. And it was not long, you may be sure, before others came, and the little break stopped, and Hans was carried to his home.

The Dutch are a brave people, and have fought many battles in the past to save their country from its enemies. But among them all there was never a braver hero than this little boy, who through the long hours of that lonely night saved the great city from the sea.—Pamela McArthur Cole, in Our Little Men and Women.

MR. EDITOR: Once more, after a long absence, I will write to your valuable paper. I enjoy the children's department very much. Marion H., I don't blame you for loving Bro. Roberts and wanting him back, for none could help loving him that knew him. Dr. J. H. Whitington is our preacher this year, and I love him very much. We have a very nice Sabbath-school about three miles from here. Mr. W. P. Wright is our superintendent. We all like him very much. I do wish some of you little cousins could see my little baby sister. She is just as sweet as she can be. She has cunning little blue eyes and pretty rosy cheeks, and her name is Sallie May. Some of the cousins talk of their pets. I have none except little Sissie, and if I did, I would not have time to play with them. I help mama with her household duties, and my spare moments I spend playing with Sissie. My sister Della is teaching school about three miles from here, and has twenty-five pupils. Will close next week for Christmas.

Sincerely, your little friend,

YULA POWERS.

Clinton, La.

Salvation Oil, the great pain-eradicator, is a first-class liniment. Keep it handy. 25 cents.

MR. EDITOR: As I was admitted in the young folks' department once before, I will try and see if I can gain the same success this time. I enjoy reading the young folks' letters very much. I also like to read Dr. Carradine's letters. I think them very interesting. Bro. Williams is our pastor, and I guess he is at Conference now. We all like him very much, and hope he will be sent back to us. Sister Lucy is going to school at the State Normal at Natchitoches, and is acquainted with your daughter (Miss Carter). Our little baby sister is one year old to-day, and weighs thirteen and a half pounds. Don't you think she is very small for her age? I have been going to school at Myrtle Grove all the fall. I will close by asking a question, Where is the word "money" first found in the Bible? Now, Mr. Editor, please publish my letter. Wishing the dear old ADVOCATE much success, I remain,

Your unknown friend,

CLARA LEE HAMMETT.

Campt', La.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policyholders.

The Episcopal Diocese, of New York, has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and the Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122 000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

EVERY Housewife
EVERY Counting Room
EVERY Carriage Owner
EVERY Thrifty Mechanic
EVERY Body able to hold a brush

SHOULD USE

PIK-RON TRY IT.

A PAINT THAT ONE CAN SEE THROUGH.

Will Stain Old & New Furniture
Will Stain Glass and Chinaware
Will Stain Tinware
Will Stain your Old Baskets
Will Stain Baby's Coach

and Varnish at the same time.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

Scientific.

Asbestos and Its Uses.

"Here is a towel that is never washed, and yet is always kept clean," said a chemist to a Washington Star reporter, handing to him, at the same time, what appeared to the eye and touch to be nothing more nor less than an ordinary piece of coarse cotton towelling. "What sort of laundry do you send it to?" was the natural query. "This kind," replied the man of science, going over to the corner of his laboratory, and stuffing the towel into a small stove that was burning brightly for chemical purposes. "I understand," said the visitor. "You never use such a towel more than once." "You are very much mistaken there," responded the chemist. "I use such towels almost forever, and they almost never wear out." With that, he lifted off the lid of the stove again and took out the towel with the tongs, dipping it in cold water and then handing it once more to the newspaper man. "Why," exclaimed the latter, "it is not even injured. What is it made of?" "It is made of rock," answered the chemist; "but a very peculiar kind of rock—so peculiar, indeed, that the ancients supposed the stuff of which this towel is woven to be of a vegetable nature. They used to wrap bodies that were to be burned in clothes of the same flax-like substance, in order to keep the ashes from being lost amongst the charred wood of the funeral pyre." "But what is it called?" "You have often heard of it under the name of 'asbestos,' though a very few people apparently have any notion as to what it really is. Enormous deposits of it exist in Canada and elsewhere. It is a form of very hard rock, called hornblende, and is found in strata of a fibrous consistency, readily divisible into silky strands resembling flax. This likeness has given it the name of 'earth-flax.' You can see for yourself from this towel how much it looks like a vegetable fabric when woven. An asbestos towel may be used for pretty nearly the same purposes as an ordinary towel, and when it is dirty all you have to do is to throw it into the fire and rake it out after a little while perfectly clean." "Is asbestos used for any other purposes in these days?" "O, yes. It is employed for roofing material, boiler felting, paper stock and in the mixing of fireproof paints for stage scenery. Also clothes for firemen and gloves to handle red-hot iron with, are made of it. Sometimes the mineral is found in thin sheets of interlaced fibres, known as 'mountain leather.' Elsewhere it is not infrequently procured in thick sheets, and it that condition is called 'mountain cork.'"

MANUAL TRAINING AND THE BRAIN.—In the discussion of Dr. Edward C. Kirk's paper on the Manual-training Idea as a Factor in Dental Education, in Philadelphia, Dr. J. L. Eisenbrey said that "the benefit to be derived from physical training means more than hand skill; it means the training of the brain man, the mental man; while you may show the effect of manual training in physical work, the result upon the brain does not come up till later on, lying back until the time calls for it; and you find that the men who occupy a conspicuous place, the young men in our profession, are the men who have had that training. To lay the foundation of a broad and complete education you need physical training, whether you get it in the city or country. I think that the country training is the best, from the simple fact that all over the whole land we find the places of trust in our banking institutions, the head places of our mechanical departments, and even in our schools of learning, filled by men who have been imported from the country, from the farm; who have handled the axe and the plow and the grubbing-hoe, who laid open the ditches and made of the swamps fruitful pastures. Physical training develops a good condition of physical health, and that means a healthful condition of the brain man; and, while it is a little slower, there comes a time when this healthful physical condition is shown in mental strength."—Popular Science.

Life is misery to thousands of people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum and every form of blood disease. It is reasonably sure to benefit all who try it.

Household.

A Rising Question.

BY KATE UPSON CLARK.

"How do you ever get your boys up in the morning, Mrs. Berry?" asked one mother of another. "We ring bells, and call and call, and at last their father has to go upstairs, and fairly drag them out of bed."

"At what time do they retire?" inquired her friend in return.

"Oh—not late. It doesn't seem to make much difference when they go to bed. They hate to get up just the same when they go early as when they go late. They are always in bed before the rest of us start, and none of us sit up later than eleven."

"But your eldest boy is only fourteen. Doesn't he go to bed before ten?"

"Oh, yes, generally. But they do hate to start, and it is apt to be later than we intended when they are fairly in bed."

It was plainly to be seen that the reason why those boys disliked to rise in the morning was because they went to bed too late at night; but the mother did not half believe it, and she could scarcely credit Mrs. Berry's statement that it was with difficulty her three boys—who were a trifle older, respectively, than her friend's—could be kept up till their retiring hour, which was seldom later than half-past eight for the very eldest.

"What! that great boy, six feet tall, going to bed at half-past eight!" exclaimed Mrs. Berry's friend. "How absurd!"

"It is on account of his rapid growth that he needs sleep," said Mrs. Berry, warmly. "His system must have been severely taxed by it, and we are trying to keep him from undue study or strains of any kind."

In her secret soul Mrs. Berry's friend thought that those boys were in a fair way to be ruined by such a hyper-careful mother; but as she knew that they were all bright scholars, and noted for their proficiency in athletic sports, she could not "put her finger," as the saying is, upon any especially bad results of Mrs. Berry's training. If mothers would only realize that care and thought are needed when children are well—every hour—there would be much less need of care and thought for sick ones. "In time of peace, prepare for war."

If healthy boys are kept properly busy all day, they should be tired enough to be willing to go to bed. Plenty of fresh air and exercise, and a generous, wholesome diet, should make boys sleepy at a regular time, and that early, every evening. A great deal, however, will depend upon the training to which they have been accustomed from infancy.

When a healthy baby is about a year old it is mature enough to go to sleep by itself, at about six o'clock, and to sleep all night. On no account should the rule of putting it to bed at a regular hour, and alone, be broken. It should be warm, well-fed, comfortable, and then, by a week's time, it will learn to go to sleep when laid in its usual nest. At six or seven years of age a child who has been brought up from babyhood to go to bed regularly will retire, after a light, plain supper, at seven or half-past, according to the season of the year, without wishing to sit up late. As he grows older, his bed-time should be judiciously advanced, but at sixteen a boy, who has to rise at six or half-past, should not sit up later than nine, and not so late as that if he is growing fast. If possible, have each boy sleep alone; at any rate, be sure that a current of fresh air runs through their rooms, and that the bed clothing is adjusted to the temperature. Too many coverlets have often made a boy toss all night, and waken unrefreshed in the morning. Lack of sound sleep during the night is a prolific cause of unwillingness to get up in the morning.

See that your boy knows how to make his bed neatly. In emergencies in a family, and even as a regular duty where there is insufficient service, it is most convenient that he should know how to perform this work, and it may some time be of the greatest use to him. There is nothing in the act which is derogatory to a boy's dignity. It is not advisable to provide delicate decorations for a boy's room, especially if two or three boys share the same apartment. A few pillow (or other) fights, which will sometimes occur even in the best regulated families, will soon ruin fanciful furnishings; but the room should be neat, and should be kept so.

Boys should not habitually eat dinner at night before the age of twelve, and even then not later than six o'clock. It is most imprudent to allow children to go to bed within two hours after their dinner. If possible, have all their studying out of the way before dark. The pitiful stories which are told of boys who study up to their retiring hour, and then talk, and even walk about, in the night, are heart-sickening. Pleasant games and entertaining books (read aloud in the family circle, if possible) should fill the hours between the last meal of the day and bedtime.

Boys brought up in this way will be ready to get up in the morning, and they will develop into men who will not acquire readily the horrible prevailing insomnia. Each night should be to everybody like that peaceful one, so beautifully described by the poet when he personified the night as the fairy mother, who —"pil'd down one long stream of sighing wind,

And in her bosom bore the baby, Sleep."

—Congregationalist.

Nothing On Earth Will MAKE HENS LAY. LIKE Sheridan's Condition Powder!

It is absolutely pure. Highly concentrated. In quantity it costs less than a tenth of a cent a day. Strictly a medicine. Prevents and cures all diseases. Good for young chicks. Worth more than gold when hens moult. "One large can saved me $60, send six for $5 to prevent recap," says a customer. If you can't get it send us 50 cents for two packages; five $1. A 2 1-4 pound can $1 20 post-paid; 6 cans $5, express paid. "THE BEST POULTRY PAPER," sample copy free. Poultry Raising Guide free with $1 orders or more. I. S. JOHNSON & Co., Boston, Mass.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Of Pure Cod Liver Oil and HYPOPHOSPHITES of Lime and Soda

is endorsed and prescribed by leading physicians because both the Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites are the recognized agents in the cure of Consumption. It is as palatable as milk.

Scott's Emulsion is a perfect Emulsion; it is a wonderful Flesh Producer. It is the Best Remedy for CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs and Colds.

Ask for Scott's Emulsion and take no other.

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND PHOSPHATES OF LIME, SODA, IRON.

ALMOST as palatable as cream. It can be taken with pleasure by delicate persons and children, who after using it, are very fond of it. It assimilates with the food, increases the flesh and appetite, builds up the nervous system, restores energy to mind and body, creates new, rich and pure blood: in fact, rejuvenates the whole system. This preparation is far superior to all other preparations of Cod Liver Oil: it has many imitators, but no equals. The following its use are its best recommendations, as you value your health, and get the genuine. Manufactured by DR. ALFRED WILBOR, CHEMIST, Boston.

PIANOS ORGANS SUMMER SALE 1890 SUMMER OFFER

BUY in August, September, or October and pay when crops are sold. Spot Cash Prices. The Lowest known. Just a little cash down, balance December 15th. No Interest. Our entire stock—any make—price or style. BEST Summer offer we ever made.

Write for Circular—SUMMER OFFER 1890

LUDDEN & BATES, SAVANNAH, GA.

IRON FENCE. SIXTY STYLES FOR Cemetery and Lawns. CATALOG FREE. J. W. RICE, Atlanta, - Ga.

Marriages.

FLINT—LEONARD.—At the residence of the bride's father, Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. A. W. Langley, Mr. J. H. Flint and Miss M. L. Leonard, all of Attala county, Miss.

JONES—MORGAN.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. H. W. Morgan, Girard, La., Dec. 17, by Rev. C. T. Munholland, Mr. Thos. Jones, Jr., to Miss Lou Morgan.

RUSSELL—SCHULTZ.—In Monroe, La., at 7:30 o'clock, Dec. 17, by Rev. C. T. Munholland, Mr. D. T. Russell to Miss Wilhelmina Schultz, all of Monroe, La.

PARKER—McWILLIAMS
BYRD—McWILLIAMS } At the residence of the bride's parents, Daleville, Miss., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. Hal T. Cunningham, of the West Texas Conference, two couples with the same ceremony: Mr. Will A. Parker, of Meridian, to Miss Anna McWilliams, and Jas. R. Byrd, Esq., of Newton, Miss., to Miss Claudia McWilliams.

STEVENS—McWILLIAMS.—At the residence of the bride's parents, in Kemper county, Miss., near Daleville, Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. Hal T. Cunningham, of the West Texas Conference, Henry Stevens, Esq., of Magnolia, Ark., to Miss Laura E. McWilliams.

BOWLIN—BLOSINGAME.—At the residence of the bride's father, Dec. 17, 1890, at 2:30 P. M., by Rev. F. P. Spencer, Mr. H. L. Bowlin and Miss Lucy B. Blosingame.

HOLLINSHEAD—CAPPEL.—In the Methodist Church, at Evergreen, La., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. J. I. Holtpaulr, J. A. Hollinshead, M. D., and Miss Florence H. Cappel.

ELLIS—KENT.—At the residence of the bride's father, Hon. Amos Kent, near Kentwood, La., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. F. M. Keen, Dr. John Hamilton Ellis to Miss Maime M. Kent.

ATKINS—POOL.—At the residence of the bride's father, G. A. F. Pool, Esq., Bossier parish, La., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. Lewis A. Reed, Dr. H. E. Atkins to Miss Gracie W. Pool.

THOMPSON—McCAIN.—In the Methodist Church, Montgomery, La., Dec. 18, 1890, by Rev. J. F. Wyon, Mr. L. L. Thompson, of Grant parish, to Miss Zula McCain, daughter of Hon. J. M. McCain, of Winn parish, La.

COOMBS—HART.—At the residence of the bride's father, Plaquemine, La., Dec. 10, 1890, by Dr. J. M. Beard, Rev. C. S. Coombs and Miss Addie Hart, all of Plaquemine.

HACKETT—McSHANE.—At the Presbyterian parsonage, Dec. 10, 1890, by Rev. J. Y. Allison, Mr Harney J. Hackett and Miss Susie McShane.

BABIN—RUSH.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robertson, in Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. J. A. Parker, Mr. Oliver Babin, of Baton Rouge, and Miss Mary J. Rush, of Woodville, Miss.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

THOMPSON—In Baton Rouge parish, at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. T. A. Womack, Mrs. CINDERELLA C. THOMPSON, wife of the late D. W. Thompson, and daughter of Nathaniel and Mrs. M. Amaker, of St. Helena parish, La.

Could our beloved dead speak to us, she would say: "Sister, don't eulogize me; don't assess to me virtues I did not possess." Modest and unassuming, her life was "hid with Christ in God," and her character as pure and beautiful as the floral offerings that lay on her casket. She suffered greatly for four months, and quietly passed away on Sunday night, Oct. 19, 1890, aged fifty-eight years. She was married to D. W. Thompson, Aug. 27, 1850, by Rev. Ham McNight, of Liberty, Miss. She joined the Methodist Church, South, and was baptized by Rev. Joseph Nicholson, of precious memory, in 1851. She was mother of two sons and one daughter. All are married and members of the church and are serving their mother's God. Her unquestioned piety and uncompromising fidelity to the cause of Christ secured for her that degree of respect and veneration which only the pure in heart ever attain. Patient and self-sacrificing, she suffered more or less during eighteen years of widowhood, consecrating every energy of her soul to the service of the Master, directing her fatherless children in the path of duty. She died as she had lived, trusting in Jesus. She besought her sons to be faithful and meet her in heaven. She blessed her devoted daughter and her husband, with the precious grandchildren; urged them to a "closer walk with God," to meet her in heaven and "bring the children with them." She was tenderly laid to rest beside her husband, near Greensburg, La. ONE WHO LOVED HER.

WILSON—J. O. WILSON was born near Bowling Green, Ky., Jan. 9, 1809; died near Oak Ridge, Sept. 29, 1890. Bro. Wilson told his wife before his sickness that his last days were his best and happiest. He was only sorry he had not been more devoted to the Lord in all his past life. He told her he was willing to die, but regretted leaving her. We trust he has an endless eternity of beauty and blessedness. May the Lord comfort and bless the bereaved! W. D. DOMINICK.

SOCIER—Died at his home, Harrison county, Miss., on November 30, 1890, CLINTON L. S., infant and only son of A. B. and Sadie Walker Socier, aged fifteen days. His mother said the good Lord had a better place for him; therefore, they gave him up cheerfully, as the Lord loveth the cheerful giver. Weep not, fond parents, little Clinton L. is only gone before, and is watching and waiting for you at the beautiful gate.

GRANDMA.

SELBY—THOMAS ELBERT SELBY, son of D. H. and E. H. Selby, died near Phœnix, Nov. 16, 1890.

Tommie was a sprightly and comely child here, but now lives in the bright beyond. The parents and children may meet him again and be happy forever. W. D. DOMINICK.

DAVIS—Died at the parsonage in Sparta, La., Dec. 6, 1890, Miss EULA DAVIS, daughter of Rev. Robt. A. and Lizzie Davis, of the Louisiana Conference. She was born at Pattersonville, St. Marys parish, La., July 17, 1874. Thus for sixteen years and four months Eula gladdened the home circle by her smile and presence; but some one has said, "Death loves a shining mark," and truly she was a shining mark—just entering womanhood, carefully raised up, intelligent and, above all, a Christian! What a shock it was when in the Conference-room I received a dispatch, saying, "Eula died this morning at five o'clock." Before she became delirious, her father spoke to her about dying. She replied, "I am trusting Jesus." Oh! what comfort those four words give us who loved her so much. While our hearts are so full of sorrow, thank God "we sorrow not as those that have no hope." Jesus said, "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and he that liveth and believeth in me shall never die." The most beautiful character is the one that is "trusting Jesus." Yes, this is the strength and ground of assurance of present and eternal joy.

Loud parents, trust in Jesus, and you will because thereof meet the loved ones who have gone before in the bright city above. H. O. WHITE.

TERRELL—On Nov. 26, 1890, at Brown's Wells, the subject of this notice, JAMES A. TERRELL, died in his fifty-ninth year, where he had gone for his health.

How sadly we miss the presence of so true a Christian and so good a husband! We will miss his warm handclasp, his sweet counsel and Christian sympathy. The church and Sunday-school will also miss his presence and good example. We are poorest since his death, but we have good reason to believe he has been made partaker of the unsearchable riches of Christ; telling me a few hours before his departure that all was well with him.

He has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, holding his membership at Adams, in Lincoln county, for many years; always filling his place in church and Sunday-school until deprived by failing health.

He was a kind father and a devoted husband. A few years hence, if we are faithful, we will meet our loved ones in that better land, where every pulse-beat will be a wave of joy. Death only separates for a while. May we all so live here, as to be prepared for a happy meeting beyond the grave!

WIFE.

HORN—Mrs. ALICE BELLE HORN, daughter of Capt. David Hardy, was born in Montgomery, La., July 28, 1860; was married to R. M. Horn, April 8, 1877, and departed this life on Dec. 13, 1890, in the thirty-first year of her age. She leaves a husband, who is now a local preacher in our church, and five children (three of them quite small) to mourn her loss. Her infant babe, only three days old, preceded her about six days to the heavenly world. Sister Horn embraced religion when but a child, but failed to unite with the church till April, 1883, while Rev. S. H. Whatley was in charge of this work. She was a kind wife and affectionate mother and a generous neighbor. She was unconscious during her last moments; but those who knew her best are satisfied that the change to her was a happy one. May God comfort the husband and take care of the motherless children! J. F. WYNN.

Texas Christian Advocate requested to copy.

WALL—WILLIAM LONG WALL, son of James and Nannie B. Wall, was born in Carroll county, Miss., Jan. 14, 1865. He fell on sleep and was gathered to his final home, Nov. 23, 1890.

When ten years of age he gave his heart to God and his hand to the Methodist Church. For near three years he had been a clerk in the store of Mr. Frank Roach, a Christian gentleman, in Carrollton. No man was more attentive to his work. He was loved by all who knew him. Those who knew him best loved him most. He was admired by all the young people. He loved his church; his place was filled at the hour for preaching. He was found in the Sabbath-school and in the prayer meeting. He suffered long and much, but with much patience. Rest on, William; we are glad we knew you; we shall meet again. God bless the loved ones and bring all home! D. L. COGDELL.

"Whatever Thou Doest Let It Evoke Thy Utmost Skill."

This has ever been our aim. We have devoted years of study to our Compound Oxygen Treatment. We are satisfied that our labor has not been in vain. Within the last 20 years we have treated over 55,000 patients, over 1,000 physicians are using it in their practice, and taking it themselves. We have hundreds of testimonials from grateful patients. You can see these testimonials if you will write us for them. Among them you will find names of statesmen, clergymen, lawyers, doctors, editors; men and women of all professions and occupations, who have been cured. Here is a sample:

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN—"My nervous system was dangerously affected by frequent attacks of illness and by overwork. I then used your Compound Oxygen Treatment, my nerves were soon strengthened, the appetite improved and the disposition to take active exercise was remarkable." REV. E. J. MEYNARDIE, D. D., Camden, S. C., Dec. 24, 1888.

Send for our brochure of 200 pages, hundreds of testimonials, records of severe chronic and obstinate cases, history of Compound Oxygen, its discovery, nature and results. No other genuine. Brochure sent free. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, California.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant, treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans.

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886, - - - - - $400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887, - - - - - $413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888, - - - - - $459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889, - - - - - $510,584.54

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, J. BORN, F. STRINGER, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

☞ See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $504,376.52.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.

CLARENCE P. LOW, Ass't Resident Secretary. H. V. OGDEN, Ass't Secretary.

Mention this paper.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - - $500,000.

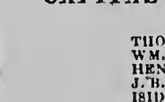
DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Horn & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, Jr., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.



The Great Church LIGHT.

FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

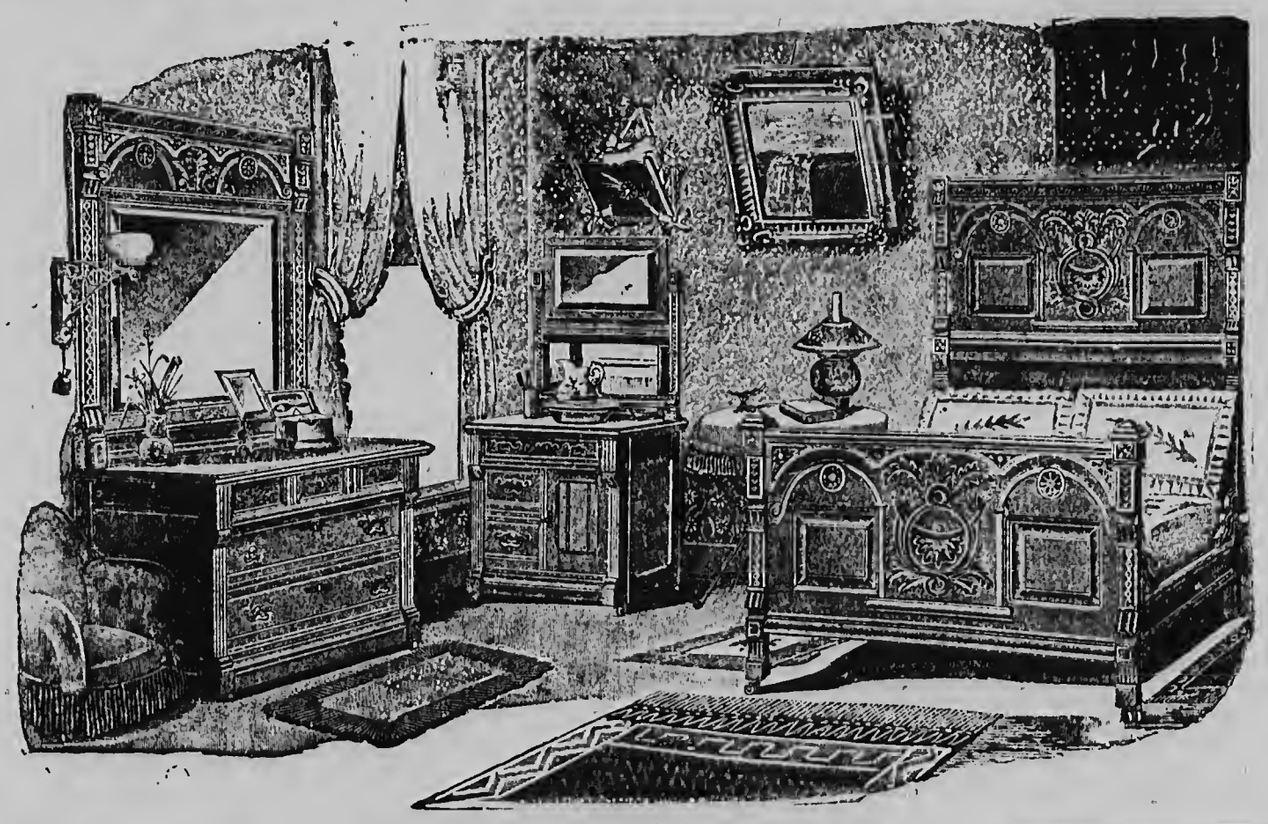
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Velours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs. I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Byhalia	Jan. 3, 4
Myrtle, at Pleasant Grove	10, 11
Cornersville, at Potts' Camp	17, 18
Shelby Creek, at Pisgah	23, 26
Red Banks	31, Feb. 1
Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove	7, 8
Early Grove, at Sylvestria	15, 16
Ashland	22, 23
Olive Branch	28, Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony	7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. BOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Shannon, at Shannon	Jan. 10, 11
Okolona sta	17, 18
Pontotoc, at Pontotoc	24, 25
Prairie, at Muldon	31, Feb. 1
Nettleton at Union	7, 8
Saltillo, at Mooresville	14, 15
Smithville and Fulton, at Greenbriar	21, 22
Aberdeen	Mar. 1, 2
Fremont, at New Salem	7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	13

A. H. STONE, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Tibbee, at Mayhew	Jan. 2
West Point	3, 4
Columbus circuit, at New Hope	10, 11
Columbus station	11, 12
Hebron, at Center Point	17, 18
Macon	18, 19
Sucquatak, at Salem	23
Mashulaville, at Macedonia	24, 25
Crawford, at Crawford	30
Brooksville, at Brooksville	31, Feb. 1
Starkville circuit, at Smyrna..(Thu.)	5
Tampico circuit, at Sulvan	7, 8
Pattsburg circuit, at Center Ridge	13
Louisville circuit, at Louisville	14, 15
Sturges circuit, at Bethel	20
Chester circuit, at Chester	21, 22
Mabeu circuit, at Maben	27
Walthall circuit, at Walthall	28, Mar. 1

The district stewards will meet at West Point, at ten A. M., Tuesday, January 13, 1891.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Kosciusko sta	Jan. 3, 4
Winona sta	10, 11
Winona cir	15
Greenwood sta	17, 18
Belzona cir	20
Poplar Creek cir	22
Valden cir	24, 25
Sallis cir	29
Richland cir	31, Feb. 1
Ebenezer	7, 8
Newport	11
Weir	15
Ethel	15, 16
West	21, 22
Rural Hill	21
Lexington	28, Mar. 1
Black Hawk	7, 8

The district stewards will please meet me in Winona, at the Methodist Church, Tuesday, January 27, at eleven A. M.

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Indianola	Jan. 3, 4
Shaw	10, 11
Cleveland	17, 18
Concordia	24, 25
Australia	Feb. 1, 2
Friar's Point	7, 8
Lula	14, 15
Jonestown	21, 22
Belen	Mar. 1, 2
Bolivar	7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Crahoma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lehrton	Apr. 4, 5

District stewards' meeting at Greenville, January 28, nine o'clock A. M. A full attendance is much desired.

R. M. STANDEFER.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sunnyside	Jan. 4
Minter City	10, 11
McNutt	17, 18
Water Valley	24, 25
Grenada	Feb. 1
Charleston	7, 8
Tillatoba	14, 15
Coffeeville	21, 22
Oxford	Mar. 1
Tocopola	(Tues.) 3
Abbeville	7, 8
Water Valley cir	(Fri.) 13
Banner	14, 15
Carrollton	21 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Cherry Hill	(Wed.) 8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Iuka station	Jan. 3, 4
Kossuth circuit at Kossuth	10, 11
Iuka circuit at Liberty	15
Harmony circuit at Harmony	17, 18
Booneville and Rienzi at Booneville	24, 25
Marietta circuit at Marietta	29
Pleasant Ridge circuit, at New Hope	31, Feb. 1
Corinth circuit at Mt. Carmel	5
Blackland circuit, at Wesley Chapel	7, 8
Blue Springs circuit, at Blue Springs	15, 16
Jonesboro circuit, at Ebenezer	19
Ripley and New Albany at Ripley	21 22
Guntown circuit, at Guntown	28, 29
Ripley circuit, at Pallet's Chapel	Mar. 5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove	7, 8

District stewards will please meet at Booneville, January 13, eleven A. M. A full attendance is desired.

W. S. LAGRONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sardis	(Sat. and Sun.) Jan. 3, 4
Senatobia	(Sat. and Sun.) 10, 11
Batesville	(Sat. and Sun.) 17, 18
Panola circuit	(Thurs.) 22
Como	(Sat. and Sun.) 24, 25
Cold Water mission	(Thurs.) 29
Lewisburg	(Sat. and Sun.) 31, Feb. 1
Cold Water and Hernando	(Sa. Su.) 7, 8
Arkabutla	(Thurs.) 12
Pleasant Grove	(Sat. and Sun.) 14, 15
Coc rum	(Thurs.) 19
Courtland	(Sat. and Sun.) 21, 22
Horn Lake	(Thurs.) 26
Chulahoma	(Sat. and Sun.) 28, Mar. 1
Mt. Vernon	(Sat. and Sun.) 7, 8

District stewards will please meet in Senatobia, at the Methodist Church, nine o'clock A. M., Jan. 21, 1890. J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

West Monroe, at West Monroe	Jan. 3, 4
Lind Grove, at Bartholomew	10, 11
Bastrop, at Bastrop	17, 18
Oak Ridge, at Prairie	21, 25
Richland, at Girard	31, Feb. 1
Delhi, at Delhi	7, 8
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	14, 15
Waterproof, at Waterproof	21, 22
Providence, at Providence	28, Mar 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

District stewards will meet at Delhi, February 2. H. O. WHITE, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Melville and Big Cane, at Big Cane	Jan. 3, 4
Simsport, at Simsport	10, 11
Bayou Benff, at Fairview	17, 18
Spring Creek, at Camp Ground	24, 25
Sugar Town, at Dry Creek	31, Feb. 1
Alexandria	7, 8
Pineville, at Hickory Grove	14, 15
Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	18, 10
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassau	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beulah	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Alexandria, February 7, 1891.

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Parker Chapel	Jan. 4
Carrollton and Greina	11
Dryades Street	18
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, at P	25
Algiers	Feb. 1
Moreau Street	8
Baton Rouge	15
Gross Tete and False River, at Har'y	22
Piaps Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma, at Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12-15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

New Iberia	Jan. 3, 4
Plaquemine Brulee	10, 11
Lafayette	17, 18
Opelousas and Washington	21, 25
Patterson and Morgan City	31, Feb. 1
Franklin	7, 8
Lake Arthur	14, 15
Lake Charles	21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bajou	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Lafayette, January 16, 1891. JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Minden, at Minden	Jan. 3, 4
Haynesville, at Haynesville	10, 11
Summerfield	17, 18
Arcadia, at Arcadia	24, 25
Ruston, at Ruston	31, Feb. 1
Vernon, at Vernon	7, 8
Gansville	14, 15
Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibsland, at Gibsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

District stewards will please meet me at Arcadia, January 24. A full attendance of official members earnestly desired.

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Natchitoches, at Natchitoches	Jan. 3, 4
Mansfield	10, 11
Caddo, at Keachie	14
Shreveport and Mission	17, 18
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	24, 25
Pleasant Hill, at Beulah	31, Feb. 1
Mooringsport, at Mooringsport	7, 8
South Bossier, at Fillmore	14, 15
DeSoto, at Bethel	21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Hilly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campti Bello	11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Saline, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 2d. HENR. J. HAMP, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Fannin, at Fannin	Jan. 10, 11
Brandon, at Brandon	11, 12
Clarksburg, at New Providence	17, 18
Forest and Morton, at Morton	18, 19
Homewood, at Grange Hall	24, 25
Lake, at Lake	31, Feb. 1
Rose Hill, at Rose Hill	7, 8
Newton and Hickory, at Hickory	8, 9
Westville, at Pleasant Hill	14, 15
Sulton, at Cato	21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron	10
Marvin, at Marvin	14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	21, 22
Raleigh, at Tilelly	28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton	29, 30

The district stewards will meet in Forest, Wednesday, Jan. 21. Let every charge be represented. P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Anguilla, at Angodila	Jan. 3, 4
Natchez, Jefferson Street	10, 11
Natchez, Wesley Chapel	10, 11
Washington at Washington (Mon.)	12
Fayette, at Fayette	17, 18
Martin, at Cane Ridge	24, 25
Port Gibson	25, 26
Mayersville, at Beulah	Feb. 1, 2
Warren, at Oak Ridge	7, 8
Rolling Fork, at Carey	15, 16
Rocky Springs, at Hermanville	21, 22
Burtonton, at Pisgah	(Mon.) 23
Utica at Utica	(Wed.) 25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 22

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Wilson, at Wilson	Jan. 3, 4
Woodville station	10, 11
Perry's Creek station	12
North Wilkinson, at Mt. Carmel	16
Gloster and Centerville, at Gloster	17, 18
Amite circuit, at Mt. Vernon	19
Bayou Sara, at Concord	24, 25
East Feliciana, at Independence	—, Feb. 1
St. Helena, at McLeod's Chapel	7, 8
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	14, 15
Live Oak, at Palmetto	17
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent	19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson station	25
Clinton station	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tallsheek	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Springfield, at Killian Chapel	21, 22
Amite City, at Amite City	23

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Raymond, at Raymond	Jan. 3, 4
Madison, at Madison	(Wed.) 7
Flora and Bownsville, at Flora	10, 11
First church, Jackson, (Wed. night)	14
Capitol street, Jackson, (Thu. night)	15
Bee Lake station	17, 18
Sharon, at Mt. Pleasant	(Sa.) 24
Camden, at Camden	(Sun.) 25
Mt. Olivet, at Fletcher	31, Feb. 1
Bentonia and Dover, at Bentonia	7, 8
Yazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel	14, 15
Yazoo City station, (Sun. night, Mon.)	15, 16
Benton, at Bowman's	21, 22
Edwards Station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

The district stewards will meet in the Sunday-school room of the First Church, Jackson, on Wednesday, Jan. 14, 1891, at eleven o'clock A. M.

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Furious wind and snow storms throughout the Eastern States have greatly impeded travel, and telegraph lines are down in many places.

A peace party sent to confer with the Indians in South Dakota by Gen. Brooke failed in their mission. The Indians agree to come back to the reservation if the government will not disarm them or take away their ponies.

One hundred and sixty cases of small-pox were reported in Houston, Texas, on Dec. 26. The city authorities have ordered all places of amusements, schools and places where crowds congregate closed.

The doors of the Maverick Bank, San Antonio, Texas, one of the largest financial institutions in the South, were closed on Dec. 26. The articles of assignment show the liabilities to be $900,000, and the assets are $1,500,000.

An attempt to disarm Big Foot's band of Indians in the Bad Lands, on Dec. 29, resulted in a battle, in which Captain Wallace and a few soldiers were killed and many wounded. About fifty Indians were killed or wounded. The engagement lasted an hour and a half.

Alaska wants a territorial form of government and asks to be authorized to sit as a delegate in the lower House of Congress. If the government does not grant this, the representative of Alaska, sent to Washington to ask the concession, will offer $1-4,000,000, twice the original cost, for the territory.

The charter for the Delta Cotton and Woolen Mills and Land Company, at Carrollton, Miss., has been received. Paid up capital, $1,000,000, with privilege of increasing to $10,000,000. The incorporators are prominent and wealthy citizens of Washington (D. C.), Boston and New York City.

At a banquet of the Tariff Reform Club, held in New York City, last week, Congressman Wm. S. Wilson, of West Virginia, in the course of his remarks, said that the next House would be Democratic not so much through the light made by the Democrats as through the crimes and blunders of the Republicans.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen of Jackson, Miss., in view of what they deemed the general inefficiency of the police force, asked the resignation of the entire force, which was tendered and accepted, to take effect Jan. 1. This action of the Board was precipitated by the failure to suppress lawlessness on Christmas eve.

It is said that frauds have been committed by the consuls and consular agents of the United States in Canada, and by the exporters of Canadian goods to the United States. Some twenty consuls out of about seventy, the larger number stationed in the province of Ontario, are implicated in the charges which are under investigation. The process of fraud has consisted in the appropriation of illegal fees and the under-valuation of exports by the exporters. It is estimated that the government has lost about $1,000,000 by this method in twelve months.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad shops in Nashville were closed on Dec. 26, and will shut down until Jan. 5, throwing about 500 men out of work. The order is general and extends from Louisville south. Counting section hands and the others knocked off from work the number amounts to about 1,000, a large number of whom come in between Monigomery and New Orleans. The railroad company recently purchased a road in Kentucky for $10,000,000, and will soon relay the track from Mobile to New Orleans, which will cost $50,000. It is said that the scheme is to shut down during the holidays to catch up on these outlays.

FOREIGN.

Sir John Pope Heunessey defeated Mr. Parnell's candidate for a seat in the House of Commons.

Owing to a general strike among railroad employees in Scotland, the railway traffic in that country is almost at a standstill.

The Italian government several years ago prohibited the importation of American pork and lard, and soon after extended the prohibition to all countries. It has just taken a step, however, which, it is believed, will result in the removal of restriction against the United States.

Two persons suffering from leprosy in Madrid have been inoculated with lymph according to the method of Dr. Koch. The doctors of the hospital where the lepers are being treated, report that the patients have apparently been rapidly improving since the new remedy was applied.

The majority of the Irish members hope to effect a compromise through O'Brien, who, it is hoped, will accept the leadership of the united party. Parnell declares he will not yield. He has declared that all the north was with him and he should defy the puny opposition of the bishops' command in the south. It is not expected that the proposed Paris conference will accomplish anything even if held.

It is announced that the conference between Messrs. O'Brien and Timothy Harrington has resulted in an understanding whereby the funds of the National League, now in the hands of that organization, are to be devoted to the maintenance of the tenants who were evicted for not paying their rents under the plan of campaign which was inaugurated in the different estates throughout Ireland by the National League.

It has been discovered that a spurious imitation of Prof. Koch's lymph is being manufactured, and a number of cases have been reported in which foreign medical men have been deceived into purchasing the bogus preparation. The agents of Prof. Koch have been unable to discover the manufacturers of the counterfeit. Prof. Koch, in an interview with an eminent English physician, who urged the Professor to disclose the whole process, got very wroth at the proposal and declared that he had the right to do as he pleased with his discovery.

For internal cramps and external chills, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment excels anything in use.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	6 9-16	@ — —
Ordinary	7 1-16	— —
Good ordinary	7⅛	— —
Low middling	8¼	— —
Middling	8 13-16	— —
Good middling	9⅜	— —
Middling fair	10¾	— —
Fair	11½	— —
Galveston middling	9 8-16	— —
Mobile middling	8¾	— —
Memphis middling	8⅞	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	3 9-16	3⅝
Fully fair	3 9-10	3⅝
Good fair	3⅝	3½
Common	3⅜	3¼
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3⅛	4⅛
Prime yellow	4⅜	4 13-16
Gray white	4⅝	—
Choice white	5	5⅛
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	30
Fair	15	20
Good common	15	20
SYRUP	20	23
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	4½	4⅝
Fair	4⅛	4⅜
Prime	4¾	5
Rough, ₩ bbl	2 00	4 00
POLISH, ₩ ton	20 00	— —
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 00	5 10
Fancy	4 60	4 70
Choice	— —	— —
Minnesota Patents	5 75	5 90
Winter wheat patents	5 25	5 87½
Minnesota bakers	5 00	5 25
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 00	— —
Cream meal	3 35	— —
Grits	3 40	— —
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₩ bushel	65	— —
Yellow	65	66
Mixed No. 2	64	65
OATS:
Western	53	55
Texas rust-proof	57	58
BRAN:
₩ cwt	1 10	1 15
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 50
Choice	15 50	16 50
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	9 75	— —
Prime Mess	10 00	10 25
Rumps	9 25	9 50
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8	8½
Shoulders	5¼	5⅝
Sides, short rib	6¼	— —
Sides, long clear	6¼	— —
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9¾	10
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4¼	— —
Sides, short rib	— —	— —
Sides, long clear	5½	5⅝
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
No. —	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	— —	31
Western Dairy	18	20
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	— —	5⅝
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9¼	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	20	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	50	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₩ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₩ 100	8 00	10 00
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 00	3 50
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	4 00	4 50
BAGGING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₩ yard	7¾	8
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₩ yard	6¾	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 85	t 87½
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	4 50
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 75	2 75
Turkeys, Southern	10 00	15 00
EGGS:
Western	22	23
Southern	— —	27
WOOL:
Lake, ₩ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₩ lb	3	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, December 30.

X-MAS

CARDS, BOOKLETS,

PRESENTS!

CHOICE! ELEGANT!

Call and examine my stock before buying.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,

106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

RELIGIOUS BOOKSUS

Churchmen and Women will find

At my establishment a large line of Christmas Cards, with Scripture texts—a specialty.

Full stock of Scripture Reward Cards, Wall-motioes, Wall-texts, Wall-rolls, etc.

Christian workers will find the goods they need. Moral persons can get good, attractive books for children or adults, or a present for Pastor, Teacher or Friend.

Genuine "Oxford" Teachers' Bibles (There are imprints I can show you), Baxter Bibles; Bibles, Testaments, plain or fine bindings.

E. S. UPTON,

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

GARMENTS GUARANTEED TO FIT PERFECT WITHOUT TRYING ON.

FREE

by return mail full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style to any measure for lady or child. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home with out pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 66½ Whitehall St.

INFANTILE SKIN SCALP AND DISEASES CURED BY Cuticura

EVERY HUMOR OF THE SKIN AND SCALP of infancy and childhood, whether torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, and every impurity of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, is speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood and Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Parents, save your children years of mental and physical suffering. Begin now. Delays are dangerous. Cures made in childhood are permanent.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Baby's skin and scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

Kidney pains, backache, and muscular rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25 cents.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO. DETROIT, MICH.

Largest Seedsmen in the world

Most Worthy Books for PURCHASE.

CHOICE AND POPULAR ALTO SONGS. 33 songs—each one a Gem. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

THE SONGS OF IRELAND. A new and carefully revised collection of the best and most celebrated Irish songs. Some of the best melodies in existence, and bright, spirited words. 60 songs. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

CHOICE SONG COLLECTIONS.

Song Classics. Vol. 1,	50 songs.
Song Classics. Vol. 2,	39 "
Song Classics. Low Voices,	47 "
Choice Sacred Solos,	34 "
Choice Sacred Solos, Low V'ce,	40 "
Classic, Baritone and Bass,	33 "
Classic Tenor Songs,	28 "
Good Old Songs We Used to Sing,	115 "

CHOICE PIANO COLLECTIONS.

Piano Classics Vol. 1,	44 pieces.
Piano Classics. Vol. 2,	31 "
Classical Pianist,	42 "
Popular Dance Collection,	66 "
Popular Piano Collection,	66 "
Operatic Piano Collection,	19 operas.

Price of Each Book, $1. Cloth, Gilt, $2. All are Valuable Collections of the Best Music.

Churchill's BIRTHDAY BOOK of EMINENT COMPOSERS. A handsome and useful book, $1.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price.

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York City

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,

Homeopathic Physician,

288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Caillope St.

Cases treated by letter.

P. E. Arline

At Home

January 1st to December 31st

Makes home cleaner, brighter and better. Cleaner—because it takes away what soap and other things leave. Brighter—because it does away with labor and hard work. Better—because it saves wear and tear on everything it touches, and nothing can be hurt by it.

Pearline "receives" every day. It gets blessing from millions of old friends—pleasant calls from a host of new ones. The best families welcome it. It goes everywhere. But it's "a stayer." When it once makes a call upon you, it stays forever—and you're glad to have it.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 245 JAMES PYLE, New York.

PIANOS P. WERLEIN, ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

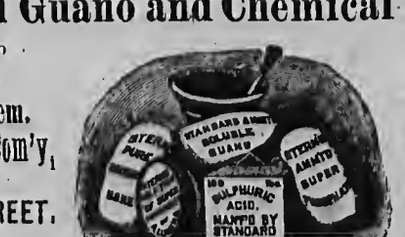
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.



MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition!

PIANOS From $25 Upwards.

ORGANS From $20 Upwards.

Mention this paper.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

H. Dudley Coleman Co., Lim'd

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS. Telephone—Office and Foundry, 638.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO., Limited, or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF

"High Grade Bone Fertilizers,"

"Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate,

"Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone,

"Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate,

DISSOLVED BONE,

ACID PHOSPHATE

Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc.

BONE BLACK.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 2. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1794.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. H. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. H. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

MY WELCOME BEYOND.

Who will greet me first in heaven,
When that blissful realm I gain;
When the hands have ceased from toiling,
And the heart hath ceased from pain;
When the last farewell is spoken,
Severed the last tender tie,
And I know how sweet, how solemn,
And how blest it is to die?

As my barque glides o'er the waters
Of that cold and silent stream,
I shall see the domes of temples
In the distance brightly gleam—
Temples of that beauteous city,
From all blight and sorrow free.
Who, adown its golden portal,
First will haste to welcome me?

Who will greet me first in glory,
Oft the earnest thought will rise,
Musing on the unknown wonders
Of that home beyond the skies.
Who will be my heavenly mentor?
Will it be some seraph bright,
Or an angel, from the countless
Myriads of that world of light?

Not these; for they have never
Gladdened here my mortal view.
But dear ones gone before me—
They the loved, the tried, the true;
They will walked with me life's pathway.
From m[illegible] by death were riven:
They who [illegible] me heal in this world—
Will be first greet in heaven.

—Selected.

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Washington Correspondent.)

Washington, Dec. 31, 1890.

The local churches are beginning to take some interest in the question of closing the World's Fair on the Sabbath day, and resolutions like the following, are being passed: "That the —— Church, with a membership of ——, a Sunday school of —— scholars, and about —— parents, hereby petitions the Columbian Commission to close the World's Fair Exhibition every Lord's day, in obedience to the divine command, which is binding upon every human being, thereby presenting to the other nations there represented the object lesson of a Christian nation publicly obeying God's law."

The intent of this resolution is good; but, in the first place, it is not strong enough; and, in the next place, it is not properly addressed. Congress is the authority to impress with the necessity for closing the Exposition on Sundays. It will be a much more forcible and useful object lesson to foreign nations for Congress to enact a law prohibiting the opening of the Exposition on Sunday—thus showing a dutiful recognition of God's law by our highest law-making power—than it will be to have the Exposition closed on Sundays by order of the Columbian Commission—a subordinate body; and besides that, if there is no law against its being open on Sunday, and the attendance should not be as large during the week as the commission anticipates, the commission might see fit to change their minds and authorize it to open on Sundays, when it would be too late to prevent it. There is only one safe way, and that is to demand of Congress the enactment of a law that will make it impossible to open the Exposition on the Sabbath day. Remember that, and address your petitions to Congress, and not to the Columbian Commission.

In no other city is the custom of paying New Year's calls observed as extensively as it is in Washington, and in no other city is wine offered to callers by as many women. This question has been uppermost in the minds of Christians and temperance people as the first of the year draws nearer, and earnest entreaty and prayer has been, and is being, used to lessen this evil and remove this great temptation from the paths of susceptible young men. The W. C. T. U. are this afternoon offering a "prayer for public awakening against social wine drinking," and many good men and women are engaged in trying to persuade those who will receive callers to offer them coffee or tea in place of wine, and some promises, unfortunately only a few, have been obtained.

More than a thousand public school teachers, from New York, Brooklyn, and Philadelphia, took advantage of the holidays to visit Washington this week. They inspected everything, and the President tendered them a special reception, after which they visited Mount Vernon in a body.

The American Historical Association has been in annual session here this week. This association, which has entered upon its sixth year of life, is in a flourishing condition, and its membership, which includes many of the ablest living Americans, is rapidly growing.

The American Economic Association, another notable organization, also held its annual session here this week.

Judas at the Last Supper.

BY W. H. ANDERSON, D. D.

What a beautiful and grand picture does "the last supper" present! Well named, because there Christ ate his last meal with his disciples. There the last change was made for the close of the Old Testament economy, and the preparation for the complete induction of the New Testament dispensation. Baptism had already taken the place of circumcision; now the Passover is merged in the grander sacrament of "the Lord's Supper"—"the Holy Eucharist."

Around the board in that Jerusalem chamber were the Master, the favored three, and the rest of the family of apostles. Here were the torches lit up by grace to be "the light of the world." What an hour for Jesus as the shadows of the agony of the cross fell all around him; as the future of "the church purchased by his own blood," with its sunshine and shadows, its conflicts and triumphs, its glorious ultimate success, and his coronation in heaven as its divine Lord, were presented to his mind in rapidly moving thought-panorama!

This is the farewell feast. The sun shall do his office but a few more measured hours, when it will blush into darkness, refusing to behold the dying agony of him who first lit it up. Every word from the lips of Jesus is now too precious to be measured by value of gold or gems. Would that some spiritual telephone had recorded to talk, and repeated it for the world's using. The sacrament is instituted [illegible] simplicity and force, the substance [illegible] saving as the typical Passover fades [illegible] The broken bread represents [illegible] nailed body of our Lord soon to be [illegible] of the cross. The wine is symbol[illegible] from aloe "blood which cleanseth and reconciles for human guilt, the open [illegible] God and man. Here evidence of [illegible] fidelity, the public [illegible] continual fellowship. It is to be a love, the memorial of divine death, the remembrance of his coming again. [illegible] pledge of his who listened, wonderful eleven, as Jesus announces [illegible] trembled death! That any should [illegible] and to give the innocent, Pilate as Christ to violence and death [illegible] holy of unutterable grief. But [illegible] cause informed them that one of them her should do this cruel, ignoble inexpressible astonishment and took possession of their minds hearts. There sat Judas with [illegible] science seemingly petrified. He joined in that outspoken cry of innocence, "Lord, is it I?" "Lord, is it I?" What should have been his sense of unutterable self-contempt as the sop, handed him by our Lord, branded him as traitor to his Master? He knew that he was a hypocrite, pointed out by Christ, and to his brother apostles. He had been base enough, secretly, unasked, to go to the Jewish authorities and sell his Lord for "thirty pieces of silver"—the price of a common Roman slave. Can earth, with its huge aggregations of sin and crime, present a more hideous, horrible sight—except a recent imperfection of one immediately from hell—than this base Judas Iscariot, with his lips scarcely dry with communion wine, betraying his Master by a kiss to the mixed mob, who came to take Jesus as "a lamb to the slaughter"?

What an hour for

Some time before we have seen him muttering about cheap piety and love of the poor, while loving Mary is anointing her Lord for his approaching burial with the "alabaster box of precious ointment," whose costly, delightful odor spoke her loving gratitude to him who had raised her beloved brother from the dead. Judas "carried the bag"—and a heart full of covetousness. His covetous spirit has culminated, and he has sold his soul, as well as his Master, for a very small pittance of silver. We do not take time to speculate on the treachery. Look at the recorded facts in his case. The money, so basely obtained, burned in his pocket, and awoke his conscience from its fearful sleep. With repentance he tried to return the blood-money, but in vain. The saddest commercial transaction the world ever saw was not recalled. The world's Redeemer was sold for thirty pieces of silver, and by one of "the twelve." Human nature shrinks from any effort to seek a profounder depth of depravity. Poor Judas, thy tears are too late; poor, tempted humanity, how great thy weakness! Earth was now too sad a place, too full of pungent sorrows for the Iscariot. Every act of busy memory associated with Jesus was a continued summons to the judgment bar and the experience of righteous punishment. Life itself was a mere mockery; it was the curse of a living death. He preferred to risk even the unknown, eternal future by suicide. "He went out and hanged himself." His blood money bought a potter's field, a burial-place for the poor; its chief monument of the name and deed of Christ's betrayer, a warning in all time.

Well would it have been for the church and the world if the Judas spirit and action had died with the Iscariot suicide. Alas! the sin of covetousness is still extant, even found among the avowed followers of Christ. The transaction of the betrayal of Jesus for varied, but stipulated, prices is still going on at the tables of the money-changers in the marts of trade, even in the temple of God. The Iscariot race, in character and conduct, have survived the disgrace of centuries, and "their name is legion."

Covetousness is branded as "idolatry" by the Holy Scriptures. It blights, it chokes to death every noble impulse, every pure affection and holy purpose of the soul. It readily plays the assassin to the best of friends, robs of many a grand opportunity for triumph of truth, deprives the soul of sweetest and purest pleasures, and takes from God the glory rightly his due. It is equally robber, murderer, and grave-digger. It is the complete association in unholy partnership of wrong in every form and degree. It often brings reproach and momentary disgrace on the Christian name and office, and is one of the most perfect machines ever patented by Satan for the ruin of souls.

The Bible calls covetousness "idolatry." It makes a heathen out of a nominal Christian. It repeats the stupid folly of the Israelites at the mountain, in the worship of the golden calf, with this difference: The original calf was made of molten gold. Covetousness, even in its religion, is too little, mean and stingy to afford any more gold than just enough to gild the so-called golden calf; but the image is made of wood, iron, or stone. Their god, like his worshipers, is a deceit, a hypocrite.

"Beware of covetousness, which is idolatry," comes with its original [illegible]ness and authority over the ages, [illegible] first uttered by inspired lips. Let [illegible]ely hear, and faithfully "watch [illegible]y, lest they enter into temptation, money, sanctified to God, and [illegible] most gentle, continually a living [illegible] of his altar, seems to have almost [illegible] prime[illegible]ous energy, in imitation [illegible] round the "doing good." It is a [illegible] captive for sending the gospel [illegible] Christ. And taking the place [illegible] gratify past and Savior Jesus [illegible]sed—used only to [illegible] an offering to avarice and self—ignores the claims of God, the ties of brotherhood, the duties we owe our Christ, our race, and ourselves. It is a grand perversion of benevolent object, and shows the true, selfish, ignoble spirit and behavior of sin.

Money is a fearful responsibility to man and to God for its proper use. If wise, we will "make to ourselves" friends with the mammon of unrighteousness, that when we fail they may receive us to everlasting habitations.

The lamb commemoration of the Passover of the destroying angel at sight of sprinkled blood on the door-posts and lintels, with its unbroken bones as sublime promise and prophecy of the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world, now gives place to the true "Lamb of God," Jesus the Christ. The Passover, with its grandest of celebrations by Christ and his disciples, now fades away into holy memory and history, and the true Passover is "the holy communion," and Christ "the paschal lamb" slain for us.

The supper is over, the hymn of praise is sung, and Jesus retires with a few of his disciples to agonize and pray and prepare for his trial and doom. Judas sneaks away in the darkness of midnight to find Christ's enemies, and betray him to an ignominious death. Judas carried the memory of that last supper to his grave, to the judgment, and to eternal years of shame and death. The sight and tones of the Master pointing out the betrayer, the agony and shame of his brother disciples, unite in the photograph of the scene which will forever bring down upon the Iscariot disgrace and infamy, growing with the lapse of eternal years. That grave, in the potter's field at Jerusalem, will be more fearfully lit up "by flaming fire" at the second coming than any other grave in this sin-scarred earth. No "wail" will be deeper, sadder, more heart-rending than that of Judas, looking at the Christ whom he betrayed coming attended "by all his holy angels."

Bardis, Ky.

Our Young People's League.

The General Sunday-school Committee have agreed upon the following Constitution and By-laws for the young people's league of our church, and send them forth with the hope that they will meet the approval of the church, and prove a great blessing to our young people. Final action was taken by the committee, after long and prayerful deliberation, on Dec. 18, 1890.

W. G. E. CUNNYNGHAM, Ch'n.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

The General Conference of the M. E. Church, South, at its session held in St. Louis, May, 1890, ordered the organization of "young people's leagues, having for their object the promotion of piety and loyalty to our church, education in church history, and their encouragement in works of grace and charity." The duty of preparing "suitable Constitutions and By-laws" was intrusted to the General Sunday-school Committee.

In obedience to said instructions, we herewith submit the Constitution and By-laws for the government of the leagues to be organized.

The committee has selected the name, "Epworth League," as being in every way appropriate for such an institution. 1. Because of its historical associations. It carries the mind back to the birthplace and early home of the founder of Methodism. The name also recalls the family life and godly training of the Wesley home—an example worthy to be kept in perpetual remembrance. 2. Because of its ecumenical character, being common to all the many branches of Wesleyan Methodism in this country, in Europe, and in all countries where it exists. From Epworth, as a geographical center, its lines have gone out through all the earth, and its words unto the end of the world.

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I. This organization shall be known as the Epworth League of the —— M. E. Church, South, —— Conference; and shall be under the control of the Quarterly Conference of said pastoral charge. The pastor shall have general supervision of the league.

ART. II. The object of the league shall be the promotion of personal piety, loyalty to the church, and the encouragement in works of grace and charity, among the young people of the church and congregation.

ART. III. The membership of the league shall consist of all persons over fifteen years of age, of good moral character, who are willing to obey the rules and regulations of the league, and to do any work assigned them.

ART. IV. The revenue of the league may be derived from the annual dues of members, or otherwise, as each league may determine for itself.

ART. V. The officers of the league shall be a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, and a treasurer. All the officers shall be members of the M. E. Church, South.

ART. VI. The president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, shall preside at all meetings of the league, preserve order, and see that the Constitution and By-laws are duly observed.

ART. VII. The secretary shall keep a faithful record of the proceedings of all meetings of the league, and conduct its correspondence.

ART. VIII. The treasurer shall keep all funds of the league placed in his hands on safe deposit, subject to his order as treasurer, approved by the president.

ART. IX. The work of the league shall be divided into three departments: 1. The Department of Christian Effort; 2. The Department of Charity and Help; 3. The Department of Literary Work. The work of each department shall be in the hands of a committee, of which one of the vice-presidents shall be chairman.

1. The Department of Christian Effort shall have charge of all the religious services of the league, such as prayer meetings, missionary meetings, temperance meetings, outdoor meetings, children's meetings, etc.

2. The Department of Charity and Help shall arrange for the systematic visitation of the sick, the needy poor, and strangers. It shall assist the pastor in all the charitable works of the congregation, and aid, as far as practicable, in collecting funds for charitable and church purposes.

3. The Department of Literary Work shall encourage the systematic and devotional study of the Scriptures, a careful study of the history, doctrines, and polity of our church, general church history, and superintend all courses of reading and study prescribed by the league. It shall also endeavor to extend the circulation of the books, tracts, and periodicals of the church.

ART. X. This Constitution is intended to preserve the organic unity of the league as an institution of the church. It can, therefore, be changed or amended only by the General Sunday-school Committee.

BY-LAWS.

1. The league shall hold a devotional meeting once a week at such time and place as the Committee on Christian Effort shall designate.

2. The league shall hold a business meeting on the —— evening of each month.

3. Every meeting of the league shall be opened with religious services, reading a portion of Scripture, singing, and prayer.

4. At every regular business meeting all the departments shall report, through their chairmen, the work under their care.

5. The order of proceeding at a regular business meeting shall be: (1) Reading of the minutes of the last meeting. (2) Reports from departments of work. (3) Reports from special committees. (4) Unfinished business. (5) New business. (6) Reception of new members.

6. At any business meeting — members shall constitute a quorum.

7. The annual meeting for the election of officers shall be held on —— evening in the month of ——. The election shall be by ballot.

8. The secretary of the league shall present to the Quarterly Conference of the circuit or station to which the league belongs a written statement of what has been done in each department of work once a quarter.

TO THE PASTOR.

Dear Brother: You observe that the Constitution of the Epworth League gives you general supervision of all its affairs. Its success, therefore, will depend materially upon the manner in which you exercise this supervision. If you show no special interest in it, your young people will likely look upon it with indifference, and you will have no organization in your congregation; or, if a league should be organized, it will languish and die. On the contrary, if you indorse it, and encourage your young people to organize and enter heartily into the work, it will flourish and become a mighty agency for good. We would, therefore, respectfully call your attention to the following facts and considerations:

1. The Epworth League is now an institution of the church, and, consequently, a part of the work placed under your care. It is local, and, therefore, entirely under your pastoral supervision, and under the control of the Quarterly Conference of your charge. It is not organically connected with the Sunday-school, and its management or work should not be interfered with by any attempt to combine the two. The league has its own officers, committees, etc., and is intended to promote the spiritual, intellectual, and social improvement of the young people of the congregation. It is not a substitute for the Sunday-school, nor should its operations in any way interfere with the work of the Sunday-school. All these points you will be expected to guard, so that no confusion or conflict may occur in the working of the league and the other institutions of the church.

2. The Epworth League is intended to benefit the young people of your congregation, by encouraging them to study the Scriptures systematically; the doctrines, polity, and usages of our church; also to acquaint themselves with general church history, the benevolent enterprises of the day, and whatever tends to promote personal piety and active benevolence. You will, therefore, be expected to aid them by your advice and counsel. They will be under your pastoral direction, especially in that part of their work connected with the "charitable works of the congregation."

3. Your relation to the organization is one of the ties binding it to the church, and you will, therefore, so sympathize with the work of the young people as to make them realize that they are a part of the church, and recognized as such, in close and filial alliance with all the other institutions of the church. You will see to it also that the league be left free to do the work assigned it, without undue restraint or unnecessary interference. There must be sufficient liberty of action in all associations to give scope for the development of individual character. Too much government is as dangerous as too little. We have made the Constitution and By-laws as flexible as possible, consistent with the order necessary to working efficiency. Guard the freedom and individuality of the league, without encouraging insubordination.

4. See to it that the spiritual element be nurtured by well-ordered devotional exercises, and that the work of charity and help be regulated by prudence. Encourage the timid, and restrain the forward. Guide all with a gentle and loving hand.

5. So soon as you receive a copy of the Constitution and By-laws, call the young people of your congregation together and organize them into a league. Be sure that a judicious person be placed at the head, and that the three departments of work be well organized. Youthful zeal and inexperience need a prudent and patient leader.

T. J. MAGRUDER,
J. H. CARLISLE,
GEORGE A. DAZEY,
J. D. HAMILTON,
J. R. PEPPER,
General Sunday-school Committee.

NOTE.—All communications asking for information concerning the league, or requests for literature, etc., should be addressed to the Sunday-school editor, Nashville, Tenn. He should also be promptly notified whenever a league is organized.—Nashville Advocate.

For the Disappointed.

It is just possible that some of our preachers are disappointed with the appointments given them by the Bishop. For the encouragement of such we publish the trials of a minister of another church seeking a field of labor. It is taken from the Christian Observer, of Dec. 31.

Judged by the fact that I have held an important church, receiving $1,000 in salary, and considering the character of my testimonials, I am led to believe that I am, at least, an average minister as regards qualifications. And I sought for nothing more than an average position, preferring a single point, but not refusing a two-point field; a charge that would yield a small family a reasonably good support, whatever the amount of salary and the locality. In hunting such a place, I traveled two thousand five hundred miles, being at some distance from probable openings, and one thousand miles of this was gone over in visiting different churches and centres of influence. Interested in my behalf were two brethren, of whom special mention is to be made, whose influence is second to none in the whole South; and yet two letters they wrote to different churches were not even favored with a reply, though the latter had widely advertised the fact that they wanted a minister, and were still vacant. From a central city I wrote a number of letters to representatives of churches that had made known that they were vacant, through the papers; also to several committeemen of presbyteries; and, in addition, visited some of the latter. Some of the churches had temporary supplies, some had from one to five other candidates, some wanted to wait awhile, for no particular reason discernible, some wanted to pay off a debt before engaging another preacher, some loved their former pastor so well that they could not think of having another man take his place so soon—in fine, had not gone out of mourning yet.

Some other churches did not even answer my letters, some actually keeping the enclosed stamp for reply. And two letters written to one who has charge of the mission work of a whole State, were not replied to at all. In hardly a case was the information received definite or satisfactory in any respect, though several of the brethren told all they knew of certain fields kindly and promptly. Positively, after all this, and much more that might be mentioned as the money outlay, I have not received the least encouragement; and so far as I can see now, am no nearer a settlement than at first.

This poor brother goes on to say that this terrible and humiliating effort cost him $200 in cold cash, and he has no "settlement" yet. Bro. Methodist, you have a place. Thank God for it. If it is not to your liking, what is to hinder you making it just what you want? Win the confidence of your people by working for their welfare, and next Conference you will report that you have had one of the very best works.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JAN. 8, 1891.

THE SWEETEST ROSE IS THE LAST.

O'er the mountains wild comes a little child,
And all the untrodden ways
Are blooming bright, 'neath his steps of light,
And the valleys ring with his praise;
And the morning glints on his brow, and tints
His cheek with its rosy rays.

His bright eyes beam and his tresses gleam—
Shot with the sunshine's dart
That mark his way through the gates of day—
As the dying year departs.
And the vacant throne is now his own.
And his kingdom is human hearts.

The songs he sings, and the joy he brings,
Are wonderful, sweet and rare;
And the future glows like a fragrant rose
'Neath the wand that he waves in air,
And with kisses sweet, and with smiles, we greet
The beautiful, glad New Year;

And cover the head of the old year, dead,
With a cold, cold shroud of snow.
Life is sweet, but time is fleet
And the years must come and go;
The beautiful years, with their smiles and tears,
The years that we all love so.

Kisses and tears for its joys and its cares—
The year whose steps have passed
Into silence sweet, where no fall of feet
Is heard in the Dim and Vast.
To the old—his due; but we love the New—
The sweetest rose is the last!

—Ladies' Home Journal.

Bible Characters.

We are told that the "proper study of mankind is man." The truth of the idea herein expressed was fully appreciated long before its embodiment in words. Amid an almost infinite number of lines of study opening up to the acute mind, perhaps, none affords such a degree of fascination as the study of the characteristics of our fellows. The constitution of the human mind is such that in its nominal state it craves knowledge; it is only the abnormal and unhealthy condition that is satisfied to remain in utter ignorance of attainable facts. No line of thought, purely human in its method and object, pays larger dividends than the course which leads to the study of the mind in all its various relations and functions. Outside of God himself, it is the grandest thing in the universe: a subject worthy of the closest study; a theme most inspiring and ennobling. It is in its essence the ego—the self, and hence appeals most powerfully to our consciousness; the something without which to us nothing would exist, in whose absence the knowing self would perish and life become one prolonged blank. No wonder the human mind has for ages been attempting to sound its own depths—an attempt as interesting as it is impossible.

This interest is not a whit abated when we come to the contemplation of the minds of other men. We recognize at once a strong bond of union. Under certain conditions of circumstances, an individual becomes, in our eyes, a hero; we appreciate his environment—perhaps, one of necessity; then, from our own experience, induced maybe by similar conditions, we receive and approximate reflection of the various moods and motives actuating him, and, finally, we obtain the result as worked out by the individual in the particular instance. If this result accord with our ideas of right and justice, we laud the actor as good, noble and true to himself; if otherwise, we denounce him as bad and unworthy of the esteem of righteous judgment. In either case he is a hero, the central figure of a great drama, in the progress of whose action the true worth or, as we name it, the character, of the actor is brought out with vivid distinctness.

Considering these well-grounded principles, we may not be at any great loss to define why so much of the Bible is given up to the delineation of men's characters. The Book is replete with biographies. There is pictured to us, successively, the life of poet, philosopher and statesman. We are carried from the king upon his throne through the intervening stages of society to the peasant in his hut. This great variety of representation merits attention. The Bible is emphatically "the Book"—the book for all times and all classes of people. It is cosmopolitan in its applicability to the needs and desires of the race. Having regard to this, we may well see the profitableness of the teachings thus conveyed. This method of teaching should gain our attention from two important considerations. The first is, that these biographies are the narrations of the lives of men of like passions as ourselves; they are the records of the doings and sayings of beings allied to us by the ties of human nature; hence a recital of their characteristics, whether on the side of weakness or on the line of strength of character, should excite our sympathies. The other consideration is this: These biographies are true in the full meaning of the term. The Holy Spirit is a true discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart, and hence he possesses the necessary qualifications for writing a faithful record of men's lives. When the pen of Inspiration begins to write the obituary of a man, there is no room for a maudlin sentiment to come in and divert it from the line of truth. The biographies of the Bible, unlike many from human hands, are true to the lives of the subjects considered, having as a guarantee of their veracity the truth of God, and the Omniscient Spirit for their dictator.

Considering what a great portion of Scripture is taken up in dealing with the lives of men and women, we may be sure that it is not a thing of chance, that there is a purpose in revealing to mankind the motives and consequent actions of the people of olden time. In a word, as laid down by Paul, this purpose may be said to be "for instruction in righteousness." Experience is the head master of the school of life; this may come to us personally, or it may fall to our lot from others. We profit by the example of other men as well as by our own acts. This is the view the Author of the Bible takes. The blighted lives and final disastrous end of bad men are held up in order to constrain us to shun their unhappy course; while the good deeds and noble acts of the saluted are portrayed in order to excite us to emulate their illustrious examples. Just how far we are to strive to emulate is determined exactly by how far the particular character is worthy of imitation. Where fault begins, there emulation must cease to be virtuous. This is, indeed, a stage reached in all the characters of the people who figure in the Bible. However much we may admire the grand nature of Moses and legitimately seek to follow his footsteps, our admiration must wane and our pattern must be set aside when, before the rock, he allows pride to rule his heart and sins away his entrance into the promised land. So of all others of the sons of men. However good their deeds, however noble their lives, however worthy of esteem and affection, there comes a point in their characters where the weakness of the individual stands apparent, and all honor must be withdrawn.

Local Option—A Protest.

I wish to be permitted to enter my protest against the local option clause in the resolutions adopted by the Methodist Conference at Canton, Miss. I object to local option because I believe it wrong in principle and bad in effect. I regret the effort, on the part of a Conference representing the church of which I am a member, to connect the church with a policy that gives aid and comfort to the worst combination—politics and the saloon—against God and man. There are two modes of getting rid of the combination advocated in Mississippi. One is local option, the other is constitutional prohibition; and no man or woman will say that the liquor men do not prefer local option. Few, if any, of undoubted veracity will pretend to say that the said combination, in the contest over the question of constitutional prohibition in the late convention in Mississippi, did not rely largely on the influence of leading church members to defeat a prohibitory clause. I was never more surprised than when it was told that influential Methodist preachers were opposed to putting a prohibitory clause in the Constitution of the State, and I was equally surprised when I heard that their reason for opposing it was that public sentiment was not ready for it. I have always thought ministers, great and small, took the gospel in one hand and the law in the other—Christ, our Savior; the law, our teacher—to bring us to Christ. I got this impression from hearing them preach, and from my knowledge of the commission they hold.

I have said that local option law, as applied to the liquor traffic, is wrong in principle and bad in effect. But let us see what it is. It is a law protecting the people in one county against a nuisance, and protecting the nuisance and crushing the people in the adjoining county. Is this right? I answer emphatically, No. Nor can it be sustained by the laws of God or the laws of these United States. What does the Supreme Court say in the Kansas brewery case, which is in accord with a number of other decisions? The decision referred to clearly establishes the right and power of the State Legislature to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage, and the court said this power can not be parted with or stayed. The Legislature that passed the local option law stayed prohibition in Mississippi. Local option, with several years of labor, much expense, and exciting elections, has carried about one-half the counties for prohibition, liable to be reversed, as it was done in Jackson, Meridian, Atlanta, and other places, leaving fewer friends for it, after it was tested, than before, because of the impossibility of preventing liquor from being brought in jugs from adjoining counties, and increasing the traffic in those counties, and producing drunkenness among them. It will be borne in mind that the Legislature, clothed with the power and charged with the responsibility of abating nuisances, were the representatives of the whole State, and every citizen was entitled to this protection against the liquor traffic as against other evils and nuisances. Nothing short of a statutory law could give the protection. The Legislature and some prohibitionists agreed on local option, thereby staying prohibition and depriving the helpless minority of relief, for which they are responsible. The objection of our friends to a statutory law is that public sentiment is not ready for it; that it is better to have no law unless it can be enforced. This is absurd and dangerous. A good law in the hands of faithful and true officers can be enforced. We must bear in mind that the great Law-giver intended laws to be made by selected men, not shifted off on the rabble and lawless, as in the case of local option law, where the majority of voters are allowed to protect crime and disorder, and compel the State, with all its legal power, to support it. To teach or encourage such sentiments is to lower and degrade our civilization.

HENRY WARE.

Pass Christian, Miss.

The Theory of a Gift.

Without doubt, to a great number of persons, the past week has been one of unlimited anxiety, in one aspect, at least. It is reasonable to suppose that great prominence has been accorded at this season to these three simple questions: "To whom shall I give?" "What shall I give?" and "What shall it cost?" Now, these questions are the natural outcome of our constitution, and the mere asking of them works no ill, but rather evidences a virtue. The desire to benefit has its origin in the appreciative faculty; the most natural outlet for a loving spirit is through the channel of liberality; the greater the esteem, the wider and deeper the channel, and the stronger the current. This is as true of human as it is of divine love; when God loved, he gave; so, in the relations of human society, the bestowment of a gift evidences a measure of regard issuing from the benefactor to the recipient.

In estimating the value of a present made to ourselves, two considerations come immediately into notice: First, the intrinsic worth of the gift; and, secondly, the character of the donor and the meaning of his gift.

On the line of thought upon which we are now treating the subject, the first consideration need not necessarily be insisted on. This statement must not be construed to mean that anything worthless, or nonsensical in its nature, is to have accorded to it the dignified name of a gift. It is merely meant to indicate that there is a wonderful amount of etiquette, as well as profound philosophy, in following the adage, "Do not look a gift-horse in the mouth." There is something higher to be noticed. This is brought to view by the second consideration, the regard which we have for the donor, and the meaning he wishes to convey by his gift.

We cherish a favor from one we love far more than when it comes from a mere acquaintance. Reduced to a general principle, it may assume this form: Our appreciation of the gift is dependent upon our regard for the character of the giver.

There is one other point to be brought out. The spirit in which a present is made must also be recognized, if we would measure its full significance. The fundamental principle of giving lies, as we have seen, in the desire to show forth esteem for the favored one. Now, appreciation, regard, esteem and love are qualities which, when unalloyed, have no market value; not because they are worthless, but because they are invaluable; hence it stands to reason that the intrinsic worth of the gift should have no place in the calculation at all. It may, indeed, indicate, but it can never, in the nature of the case, even faintly approximate the measure of regard felt.

These lines laid down contain, we believe, the true principles that should govern all giving and receiving. By following them out, while we do not rid ourselves of the attendant questions, yet we dismiss a great many perplexities and anxieties arising from the same.

A Correction.

MR. EDITOR: Please make the following correction: The Committee on the State of the Church, at the last session of the North Mississippi Conference, reported "over 5,000 conversions and 3,331 additions to the church on profession of faith during the past year." The ADVOCATE, of December 18, says we reported "over 5,000 conversions and 3,331 professions of faith." Please comply, and oblige,

Yours in love, J. A. BOWEN.

(We cheerfully comply with Bro. Bowen's request to correct the wording of the statement; but is there any difference between the two statements? If there were "3,331 additions to the church on profession of faith," were there not "3,331 professions of faith?"—EDITOR.)

They that spend their days in faith and prayer, shall end their days in peace and comfort.—J. Mason.

Mississippi Items.

Large fires during Christmas week in Vicksburg and Yazoo City.

The Mississippi Enterprise, published for some time past at Sumnit, has been removed to McComb City.

The corner-stone of the new public-school building in Brookhaven was laid December 29, with appropriate ceremonies.

Hon. R. W. Blanks has withdrawn from the editorship of the Columbus Index, and his daughter has taken charge of it.

The contract for the Consumer's Ice Company's building in Vicksburg has been let; the brick work to T. S. Gregory and the wood work to McGill & Barber.

The Mississippian is bowling along at a fearful rate of speed. Last week it said, "To-morrow is the last day of 1891." The flying machines are already eclipsed!

The mayor and aldermen of Jackson requested the police to resign, and they did so. Cause of the request—inefficiency. Many other places might follow that example with good results.

The fifth annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association was held in Jackson last week. Bishop Galloway delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by Prof. J. G. Dupree, president of the association.

Another investigation is shortly to be made of ex-State Treasurer Hemingway's books. This time the investigation is to be thorough in every respect. Col. Hemingway and his friends have never been satisfied with the investigations made of his books so far, claiming that they were not of the kind to unearth the complicated errors which they still believe exist. Negotiations have about been completed with an expert having a reputation in this line to take charge of the investigation. He is to be assisted by five clerks, and it is believed several months will be required to complete the examination.

Mr. W. W. Whittaker, who farms near Amory, in Monroe county, cleared this year $225 off of four acres planted in vegetables. It was his first venture, and next season he will give ten acres to this branch of industry.—Mississippian.

Some idea of the amount of real estate that has changed hands in this city and adjacent territory of late, may be gained from the statement that Mr. G. G. Pegram alone has sold over $60,000 worth in the present month. He is now negotiating two transfers, which will aggregate $85,000.—Vicksburg Herald.

Speaking of our pastors, Rev. R. J. Jones and Rev. N. B. Harmon, the Vicksburg Herald says:

The people of Yazoo City and of Meridian, among whom their several lots are to be cast, have great cause to congratulate themselves on their good fortune in securing such able and zealous pastors.

As an example of the prosperity which attends the industrious negro in this country the case of Solomon Cesar, who cultivates a small hill farm, is worth quoting. The past season he made and sold fifteen bales of cotton, and, after paying three bales rent and his supply account of $100, had the remainder, between $400 and $500, clear of all obligation. His good management and general thriftiness are highly commended by his white neighbors.—Vicksburg Herald.

The Water Valley Progress has this personal:

Rev. T. W. Dye, recently appointed by the North Mississippi Conference to this station, preached his first sermon at Wood Street Church last Sunday morning to a fair congregation. Mr. Dye is a fluent and interesting speaker, and his sermons last Sunday were greatly enjoyed by all who heard them. The congregation of Wood Street Church received their new pastor with a hearty Methodist welcome, will uphold his hands, and bid him God-speed in the ministerial and pastoral duties of his new charge.

Louisiana Notes.

Shreveport now has a fire department under the pay system.

New Iberia is now connected with Abbeville and St. Martinsville by telephone, and it is said to be in the highest degree satisfactory.

A cyclone visited Keachi, Jan. 1, and did $20,000 worth of damage, demolishing the postoffice, masonic hall and several stores and damaging other buildings.

The five-mill tax for the New Iberia, Vermilion and Western railroad has been refused upon the ground that it did not receive a majority of votes in the recent election.

The mandamus case to compel the Secretary of State to promulgate the Lottery Act of the last Legislature has been postponed until the ninth, owing to the illness of Judge Buckner.

The Webster Signal has this, of [illegible] of our preachers:

Rev. C. E. McDonald and [illegible] left Monday night for Lafayette, where Mr. McDonald has been stationed for the next ecclesiastical year. Mr. With the exception of two [illegible] of den has always been the [illegible] him McDonald, and he has [illegible] able friends here who are [illegible] sincere up. Lafayette re[illegible] preacher, a wise m[illegible] Christian.

The Telegraph-Bulletin, speaking of the new government building in process of erection at Monroe, says:

The massive foundations of the government building have been laid, and the bases of the walls are beginning to creep above the surface.

The congregation and friends of the M. E. Church, South, of New Iberia, (Rev. Mr. Parker) held a delightful reunion Wednesday evening, around a Christmas tree, in the church building. The tree was beautifully adorned, the presents rich and varied enough to set the little ones in ecstacy, which was reflected in the feelings of their seniors.—Sugar Bowl.

The Monroe Times, of December 24, says:

Compress cotton receipts up to noon yesterday aggregated 23,500 bales and the stock on hand amounted to about 3,000 bales. There was a steady influx of the staple, but it is safe to predict that the bulk of the cotton crop has been marketed and that those who calculate on a super-abundant production of the staple are going to be sadly disappointed on their estimate.

A special to the New Delta from Jennings, dated Dec. 28, says:

About one year and a half ago this village voted prohibition. The antis thought they could vote it wet and did by a small majority. Yesterday, after nearly a year wet, the prohibitionists have closed the polls of another election. Eighty-five votes were cast, of which 68 were for prohibition and 17 against, 51 majority in favor of keeping out the corporation any place to sell intoxicants of any kind. All the people of this or any locality needs is a test to contrast dry and wet to make it sure dry the third time. A vote on the lottery question in this locality would be anti as much or more.

Lake Charles has, perhaps, the finest public school building in the State. A public school is in successful operation, consisting of five teachers and 230 pupils.

Monroe has a fine public school in successful operation, with seven teachers and 270 pupils.

The two young cities, one in Southwest Louisiana and the other in Northeast Louisiana, are pointing at each other with railroads, and they expect to meet and shake hands in Alexandria about next June. Alexandria is already putting on airs, getting ready for the occasion.—Lake Charles American.

The Soul's Claim on Our Colleges.

Our readers are again reminded that we are most heartily in favor of Christian education and the Bible as a text book in our schools. We make this reminder by publishing a part of an article on the above-named subject contributed to the Christian Weekly by Rev. W. T. Sabine, of New York City. After stating what our schools are doing for the physical and mental training, he continues:

But all this said, it remains true that in none of our halls of learning of the higher grade and largest acknowledged influence does the spiritual claim of our nature receive that measure of attention which it justly demands, and without the due development of which under the gracious operation of the Spirit of God, no man can ever be the man he ought to be. It may be said it is not the province of the college to teach religion, it moves in another sphere. But this is precisely the point at issue. We maintain that it is the province of the college to teach religion (not denominationalism, he it observed), for the reason that it is impossible to turn out rounded men and women in the best way qualified to meet the claims and duties of life on any other basis. To ignore the spiritual in man is to ignore the principal factor in the whole problem. To deny its proportionate influence and relation in the training of the young is in the extent of that denial to dwarf and cripple them.

It was well said by President Stewart, of Berea College, Kentucky, in his inaugural address but a few weeks since delivered: "The Bible is the greatest classic in the world. Why should it have been for so many years the only great masterpiece of literature unrepresented in the average college curriculum of America? In the Gymnasia of Germany it is studied from beginning to end, not as a training for the Christian ministry, but as a part of the liberal culture which every educated citizen ought to possess. The true function of education is that [illegible] pare for right living, it follows its the training which does not [illegible] inspiration from the Christian, not tures, which fails to open [illegible] demerely to intellectual [illegible] duties of velopment, but to the [illegible] soe, misses love and worship, [illegible] ce, and the the very meaning of [illegible] women. So making of noble [illegible] on education, that I insist, not [illegible] on."

but on Christian [illegible] larger attention

This demand [illegible] the part of our to spiritual [illegible] e a trespass upon colleges is [illegible] lety. This asking the ground [illegible] and nobody need is quite [illegible]. It is a recognized blush in [illegible] ss distinctly emphanced [illegible] institutions as Berea sized [illegible] Mr. Moody's School, Collec[illegible] s an asking to which the more [illegible] nsidering their Christian coll[illegible] their large dependence upon or[illegible] ympathy and munificence in C[illegible] nd the present have no right [illegible] deaf ear.

Howard Crosby is quoted as saying: "Who founded Prague and Vienna, Heidelburg and Leipsic and Tubingen and Jena and Halle and Berlin and Bonn? Who founded Salamanca and Valladolid, Oxford and Cambridge and Aberdeen? When the rest of mankind were caring for the mere necessities of the physical life, Bible men were holding the torch of science, and these men were the predecessors of the Bacons and the Newtons. Who founded American colleges? With very few exceptions they were Bible men."

To the same effect the New York Independent stated: "It is one of the most significant facts of our civilization and one which marks it as Christian that it is religion which chiefly fosters and controls education. The old institutions of Europe were founded on the interests of religion. The time was when clerc and clerie were the same. One who read was taken to be a religious man. It is a remarkable fact the vast majority of the colleges and high schools of the country have been founded specially and avowedly as religious institutions and for religious purposes."

This being true (and who is there to deny it?) the colleges will certainly do no violence to their charters, nay, will best conform to what were evidently the aims and intentions of their founders and best friends, while seeking to give the spiritual along with the mental and the physical its due and proper place—the noblest because the noblest.

The Bible and the Higher Criticism.

The Word of the Lord endureth forever! We called attention last week to the fact that the hostile criticisms of Baur, Strauss, Renan, and the Tubingen school had been exposed by later and profounder scholars as unauthoritative and worthless. A great deal of the so-called "higher criticism" has been nothing whatever but an evolution of vague and fanciful theories from the imagination of certain men who set out with the predetermination to overthrow, if possible, the historical verity of the sacred books forming the canon of Scripture.

On the other hand, so far as the "higher criticism" inquires with candor, impartiality and clear-eyed judgment into the authorship, the date of composition, and the various original sources and traditions from which the inspired writers, acting under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, selected the materials of their narratives, it is to be cordially welcomed; for it renders invaluable contributions to sound learning, and helps every intelligent student to give a reason for the hope that is in him. The books of the Bible can stand any amount of investigation, no matter how severe, if only it be fair and just. Infidel researches have never yet been left in possession of the field, but have, in every case, without exception, been more than over-matched by the deeper and broader researches of Christian critics.

A notable instance of how the battery of the enemy has been captured and turned against himself is afforded in the case of the fourth gospel. For a time our friends—the enemy—triumphantly disputed its genuineness, and asserted that John was not its author, or, at least, that there was no proof that he was its author. The challenge was accepted by Christian apologists, and, after much discussion, Dr. Ezra Abbot, of Cambridge, came to the front with such a calm, judicial, exhaustive and irrefutable demonstration in favor of John as the author, that now the attacks have ceased and the question is regarded as at once and forever settled.

Another instance of the services rendered by our friends—the enemy—always, however, unintentionally, and because they were on the wrong side, is found in the matter of our Lord's resurrection. It has been the fond dream of the hostile critics to eliminate the supernatural features from Christ's life by denying the historic evidences of his resurrection, and explaining it away by mythical and other theories. This attempt to undermine the supernaturalism of the New Testament was, however, met, as it fully could be met, by the most keen and searching examination of the testimony of history. A question of such transcendent importance and magnitude was not to be denied by any apriori speculations, however ingenious, but by an unbiassed weighing of evidences.

Very well. The sifting process went on until Ebrard, of Germany, known as a scholar of the profoundest learning, and equally noted for his soundness of judgment, declared that no fact in history was so well attested and so indubitable as that of our Lord Jesus Christ. Not even Arnold, the unrivalled professor of history in Oxford England. Dr. Arnold, after an exhaustive investigation used for many years to say: "The history of other times, and study, mine and weigh the evidences of those who have written about them. I know of no fact in the history of mankind which is proved by better and fuller evidences of every sort, to the mind of a fair inquirer, than that Christ died and rose again from the dead."

With this fact of the resurrection fixed beyond a doubt, it follows also of a certainty, as Paul claims in writing to the Romans, that Jesus was divine—the Son of God—the supernatural Savior of the world. Our faith is not vain, nor are we robbed of the assurance of immortality and blessedness.

The biblical records are like the well-worn and battered shields that have felt the brunt of fiercest battles. Every assault on them has only served to reveal the temper and toughness of their metal, while, at the same time, showing up the weakness and inefficiency of the foe. Let no timid disciple, then, fear that the Philistine giant of "higher criticism" is going to overthrow the armies of Israel. God has always raised up scholars to meet any emergency. The greatest authorities in the field of textual criticism, and on the subject of the sacred manuscripts, are to-day, as the opponents of the Bible must confess, in the camp of the church, and, speaking largely, the commanding apologists of the scriptural canon are in possession of the citadels of genius and learning. Christ's disciples are the librarians of antiquity and the leaders of critical inquiries. Higher criticism, rightly understood and employed, will, in the future, as it has in the past, confirm and clarify, not destroy or obscure our faith.—Christian at Work.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant, treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.

IDOLATRY IN ISRAEL.

I. Kings xii, 25-33.

The first care of Jerobоam on receiving from the Ten Tribes the sovereignty over their wide territory, was to fortify his western capital, Shechem, the present Nablus. Its central position made it very suitable for a metropolis and state residence, apart from its sacred associations dating back to the time of Abraham and the patriarchs, and from its being the national gathering-place of the people when summoned on great political or religious occasions.

It was, moreover, one of the pleasantest spots in the country; for its very name, Shechem, means a shoulder, and hints at its being the water-shed of the land, abundant springs flowing from it, both east and west. He needed another stronghold, however, for the wide districts now under him east of the Jordan, and secured it by fortifying Pamiel, a place now unknown, on the north bank of the torrent Jabbok, which runs in a strong bright flood, beneath high cliffs, to the Jordan. Gideon had, long before, dismantled its walls, (Judges viii, 17), now rebuilt by the new king, doubtless by the same forced labor, for employing which Solomon had roused so much disloyalty as had cost Rehoboam the kingdom.

But the political relations of Israel to Judah and the nations round were not the only matters demanding the care of Jeroboam. Since the reign of David, who had raised a central tabernacle for the national worship in Jerusalem, but especially since the temple there had been finished under Solomon, the aim of the southern dynasty to make their capital the religious as well as political metropolis of all the tribes had become more and more successful.

It was imperative that the religious centralization planned by the house of David should, in some way, be counteracted, if the political independence of the new kingdom was to be permanent. He had no idea of introducing a new god; for through all the history of Israel the worship at Bethel and Dan was offered to Jehovah, as we see from the fact that when Jehu destroyed Baal worship through the land, in his zeal for Jehovah, he left the golden calves untouched, recognizing them as symbols of the God of Israel. The ox, from its great strength, striking usefulness, and from its fullness of life, was used very widely through the East as a symbol of the Godhead, and had, besides, in the case of Israel, the associations of remote antiquity to recommend it; for their forefathers had doubtless seen, in Mesopotamia, the ox-headed Moloch, and the human-headed ox forms at the gates of great palaces. They remembered the calf made at Sinai, and the sacred Apis and Mnevis of Egypt, the land from which Jeroboam had just come. It would, therefore, be easy to introduce a symbol with which the people were already more or less familiar, and to recommend it as supplying a visible emblem of Jehovah, which raised the holy place where it was set up far above the empty holy of holies in the temple at Jerusalem.

Two places were chosen for the worship of Jehovah under this symbol: Bethel, already holy from remote times; and Dan, where the idols of Micah had been venerated for centuries. The one spot would arrest the population of the southern districts, the other that of the north; and Jerusalem would thus no longer attract either and imperil its new loyalty. The calves were, apparently, made of copper, covered with thin plates of gold, and were set up in temples specially built for them—"houses of high places," in the Hebrew; splendid enough, no doubt, to be counter-attractions to the rival sanctuary at Jerusalem, and, like it, built on heights, as specially sacred from their elevation towards the heavens, as if thus, naturally, alighting-places of the higher powers, rather than the lowlier ground beneath.

A regular hierarchy was also established for the public rites of the new temples, but, as priests and Levites from the legal tribe were not available, Jeroboam admitted to the sacred offices men "from among all the people," though not belonging to the sacerdotal caste, the members of which, largely refusing to join the new movement, preferred to migrate to Judah, that they might be free to do duty at Jerusalem (II Chron. xi, 13). To the orthodox Jew, the rites of Bethel and Dan were thus corrupted at once, by the introduction of an imago as a sacred emblem, and by the officials of the two sanctuaries being irregular, and hence, as was supposed, unacceptable to Jehovah.

Next to the temple, the great feast of tabernacles was a special attraction to Jerusalem, which the new king felt it necessary for him in some way to counteract. It was the harvest-home of the year, and was known, by pre-eminence, as "the feast" (I. Kings viii. 2), because it was the greatest and most frequented of the three yearly festivals. It was held in the seventh month, answering, more or less, to our September; for the Hebrew year began with March, as the English one did till last century. Jeroboam, therefore, appointed his rival feast to be celebrated on the fifteenth day of the eighth month; that is, in our October. The journey of his people as pilgrims to the southern capital, for the great annual holiday, would thus, he hoped, be checked, if not entirely stopped. The fifteenth day was chosen, as that of the full moon—the Jewish year being regulated by the lunar phase.

The introduction of this new feast was made a great national event, in which the king himself took a prominent part, inaugurating the northern festival by going up the slope of the altar raised at Bethel, and burning incense to Jehovah—thus consecrating, in his own way, the institution he had created for political ends.—S. S. Times.

I. A. C. Hauchinger, do say consumption can be cured by Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. My mother, years ago, contracting a terrible cough soon became unable to attend to her household duties. Prominent physicians pronounced it incurable consumption. We knew of Dr. Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, and commenced giving it to her. Before two bottles had been taken an improvement was noticed, and by the time one dozen bottles had been consumed she was well, and has never been troubled since. We have recommended it to many and always have it in the house. For coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough, asthma, bronchitis, it is without a rival. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as 50c. bottles.

No Loss of Power.

The belief of many that the pulpit has lost its power, especially over the younger generation, is not borne out by the facts observable in London. There, at least, the word of the Lord has free course. Not to speak of the power of such men as Spurgeon, or of the fact that the congregation of his Tabernacle fills its vast spaces even when he is not the preacher, there are still more striking indications. A writer in the British Weekly describes an afternoon service in St. James Hall conducted by the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, Wesleyan preacher. "It was," he observes, "a remarkable and, perhaps, even an historical sight. A quarter of an hour before the time it was hard to get a back seat, and when Mr. Hughes took his place on the platform, a surging mass had stormed all the seats behind him, as well as every inch of room before, while hundreds clamored vainly for admission at all the doors. As usual, the immense majority of the audience consisted of young men from eighteen to twenty-five." The same writer reports his observation of an evening service, on the evening of the same day, at Dr. Parker's City Temple, "which was hopelessly crowded." And he concludes with these striking remarks:

"The effect of the day was very heartening. These great crowds of young people, with their attention and enthusiasm, proved that, get the right men to preach, and there is nothing to fear. They were an emphatic rebuke to pessimism. At the same time, one could not but wish that preachers like Dr. Parker and Mr. Hughes were multiplied. Are not young men of ability hanging back from the noblest form of Christian service? It is worth noting, also, that Dr. Parker's morning service lasted one hour and twenty minutes, and his evening service one hour and ten minutes, while Mr. Hughes was also commendably terse and brief. Neither allowed the audience to grow weary. Is there not a lesson here for many preachers who habitually abuse the patience of their listeners?"

"The right men to preach" are the men to whom God has given the ability to preach, and grace to speak in the power of the Holy Spirit. Such men are obtained in answer to prayer, and by suitable provision for aiding promising candidates for the ministry to obtain the due training of their powers for the work. No new gospel is needed, no mutilated Bible. The truth, appropriated and assimilated by faith, in a profound spiritual experience, and uttered with the power of such a faith and experience, will commend itself to the reason and conscience of the hearers, and will not want for hearers.—Watchman.

YOUR OWN PERSONAL WORK.—God has given it to you; he has called you to it; he has fitted you for it. You have learned how to do it; do not then be diverted from it. Do not neglect it through idleness. Do not overlook it by reason of the cares and burdens of life. Do not give it into other hands for courtesy's sake or through politeness. Do not be coaxed away from it by friends, or frightened out of it by foes. Stand fast and do your own work, whatever and wherever it may be. Know the voice of the Master. Know what he would have you do, and then make it your one great continual business to finish the work that he has given you to do. Do not turn aside for profit or for ease, or for wealth or fame. Let everything else stand aside that you may finish what the Master has given you to do. The working time is brief, the rest is coming, the sowing is but for a little while, but the reaping time and the harvest home is sure to come.—Selected.

It is singular that the name of God should be spelled in four letters in almost every known language. It is in Latin, Deus; in Greek, Zeus; Hebrew, Adar; Syriac, Adad; Arabian, Alla; Persian, Syrs; Tartarian, Tgan; Egyptian, Ammon or Zeut; East Indian, Esgi or Zeul; Japanese, Zain; Turkish, Addi; Scandinavian, Odin; Wallachian, Sene; Marglan, Esse; Swedish, Oodd; Irish, Dieh; German, Gott; French, Dieu; Spanish, Dios; and Peruvian, Lian. This is singular, but it would be more wonderful if all these names existed and no Being to correspond to them.

Books and Periodicals.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

PERIODICALS.

—The TREASURY, for January, has sermons, leading thoughts of sermons, Sunday-school lesson, prayer meeting topics, hints for workers, mission fields, etc. This is a good monthly for preachers and people. E. B. Treat, New York. Price, $2 50; clergymen,

—The FORUM, for this month, has an able corps of correspondents. President Porter writes on Formative Influences; Bishop Foss on the Shibboleth of N. S. Lilly, on the Shibboleth of The Revolution; Dr. Austin Flint, on The Revolution in Medicine; Rev. Dr. Boardman, on Conservative Progress. There are other up a fine number articles, and all make Company, New York. Forum Publishing Price, $5.

—The PULPIT, which has heretofore been published monthly, will commence Jan. 1 to be issued weekly. It will be, we think, the first weekly of the kind in this country; venture of from its past standard and, judging of similar publications no results water, it can not fail of such the will be sixteen large pages, given. It or six sermons in full each week be published at the price of $2 a year. Address, The Lakeside Publishing Co., Franklin street, Buffalo, N. Y., for sample copy.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING has also transformed itself into a monthly of good proportions, and contains the very best things in its line that money and special talent can procure. It has a substantial flavor, and its merit can not be excelled by any similar publication. Clark W. Bryan & Co., publishers, Springfield, Mass. Price, $2 40.

Assistant Preachers.

Some time ago we expressed a decided opinion on this subject. Some of the brethren agreed, while others twitted. Now comes the great Independent, and says:

It has come to be a rule among all our Protestant denominations, with the exception of the Episcopalians, that they will put the total burden of all the work upon one salaried pastor. It matters not whether it be a church of fifty members or of two thousand, that one man must conduct the whole of all the services on the Sabbath, must prepare all the sermons without exchanging, must do all the visiting, must bury all the dead. Of course, he can not do this work as it should be done in a large church. This is beyond the capabilities of human nature. It is a cruelty to ask it of any man.

But worse than all this cruelty to the pastor is the injury done to the church itself. The church ceases to be a well-managed organization; it becomes a mob flocking about a preacher, and a preacher who is unable to do anything more than provide an attractive pulpit. The minister is not for the church, but the church for the minister. The real work for which a church exists must in large part be neglected. It can not engage in aggressive work; or if aggressive work is undertaken, it must depend upon irregular and ill-organized volunteer services, supplemented, perhaps, by a Bible-reader or a nurse. It is not strange that the churches which conduct their business on business principles, and provide men to do their work, are the successful churches. They have their roots grown deep in the hearts of their people; they are not in danger of dissolution when one man goes. If the Protestant Churches of our large cities and towns propose to do good work and to reach the people they must increase their force of paid laborers. They must have a body of assistant ministers who have the time to do their duties, to visit the sick, to care for the poor, to conduct meetings, to direct mission operations, and to compose a council to consider all sorts of good church work. The newspaper which puts all its editorial work, mainly, on one man is fifty years behind the times, and the large city church which has but one pastor is as much behind the times.

The Name of Jesus.

Take the name of Jesus out of history, and what is left but a meaningless jumble? Take it out of poetry, and the most of what remains is as chaff on the threshing floors of time. Take it out of architecture, and how meaningless are all the cathedral wonders of genius and art in the world! Take it out of science by obliterating the thoughts and investigations of those called by his name, and what an incoherent wreck is left! Take it out of the politics of the nations, and what is the worth of the residue?

In a paper read before the Institute of France, M. Triplong said, "Christian philosophy lies at the root of our principles of right." Renan has also declared that "to tear the name of Jesus from the world would be to shake it to its very foundations." His name is as the water-mark on paper, written on every page of the world's progress, so that it can be read in the light which it produces. The power of that name resides in its influence on individual lives. The inspiration and formative power of Christ's love has purified and ennobled multitudes of the most degraded persons the world has ever seen. The very devils have been subject to him. It can not be denied that notable miracles in transformed character have been wrought by him all over the earth's surface. He has inspired a multitude that no man can number with a very passion to do and endure all that life imposes, rejoicing in suffering and turning their self-chosen tortures into a song of cheer in the house of their pilgrimage. None have reached perfection, but all have advanced; many have fallen by the way, but with faces turned from their guilty past, sometimes wandering, returning, falling and rising, yet always making advance towards their inspiring center.

Men, whether they know it or not, have been, to some degree, influenced by his spirit of self-abnegation. We might as well attempt to take the color from the light as that name, which is above every other name, out of human life. The best and noblest of those living on the earth, and who are doing most for those around them, whether openly marching under his banner or quietly doing his deeds without observation, in the form of sacrifice for their kind, have learned the secret of moral progress, and the joy which it gives through the power centered in this name.—Presbyterian, N. Y.

A faded and discolored beard is untidy and a misfortune. It may be prevented by using Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers, a never failing remedy.

If we study to honor God, we can not do better than by confessing our sins, and laying ourselves low at the feet of Christ.—Mason

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, Juniper Berries, and other well-known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has a peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass. here it is made, that whole neighborhoods druggists have taken it at the same time. Lowell of all other more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than Sold by druggists. Sarsaparillas or blood purifiers. C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

BRONCHITIS

is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes—the air-passages leading into the lungs. Few other complaints are so prevalent, or call for more prompt and energetic action. As neglect or delay may result seriously, effective remedies should always be at hand. Apply at once a mustard poultice to the upper part of the chest, and, for internal treatment, take frequent doses of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine, saying he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This indisputable evidence of the great merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me unbounded confidence in the preparation, and I recommend it to my customers, knowing it cannot disappoint them."

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a bad cough and my partner of bronchitis. I know of numerous cases in which this preparation has proved very beneficial in families of so that the medicine is known among them as 'the consoler of the afflicted.'"—Jaime Rufus Vidal, San Cristobal, San Domingo.

Young Children,

"A short time ago, I was taken with a severe attack of bronchitis. The remedies ordinarily used in such cases failed to give me relief. Almost in despair of ever finding anything to cure me, I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was helped from the first dose. I had not finished one bottle before the disease left me, and my throat and lungs were as sound as ever."—Geo. B. Hunter, Allouez, Pa.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

R. P. RANDALL,

Carriages and Harness,

54 and 56 Baronne Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

Canopy-Top Surrey, with Curtains, Apron, Whip and Shafts, at

$85, $112.50, $150, and $180.

CASH WITH ORDER.

Send for Catalog. Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY!

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

WE wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,

FUNK & WAGNALLS,

NEW YORK CITY

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex....8:00 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac....3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 8 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....8:45 pm
No. 7 Coast....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..8:00 pm
Lim. Express...4:10 pm	Fast Mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 10:30 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 8:00 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:05 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 8:15 pm
No. 5 Acc'm....8:10 am	No. 6 Acc'm....5:00 pm
No. 41 Fast Mail. 9:10 am	No. 42 Fast Mail. 7:00 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 Californ'a Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 Californ'a Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25 am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45 am
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15 pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd. 11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00 pm
No. 3, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:45 am

MOBILE AND OHIO.

(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am | No. 2, Limited...4:00 pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.

(Abita Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4.10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and into the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City. Luxurious Main Roudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.

J. C. GAULT, General Manager.

D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICES: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS, TEXARKANA, SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

R. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE, THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6:00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.

R. B. MAURY, Gen. Traf. Pass. Agt.

E. P. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.

A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

MENS' FURNISHING GOODS

Headquarters of the Celebrated McCown Shirt.

Boy's Clothing a Specialty.

Mens' and Boys' Hats.

Clothing Made to Order.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., New Orleans

☞ Discount to Preachers.

S. R. PERRY,

183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.

Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.

Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free.

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO., 39 & 41 West Broadway, New York.

Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

How Shall Churches Be Filled?

A MANUAL OF RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, DISCUSSED BY CLERGYMEN OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

No Minister Ought to Be Without It.

Price, $1, post-free.

Address

STATISTICAL BUREAU OF RELIGIOUS INFORMATION, } HEAD OFFICES: 1459 W. 21st Street, New York City.

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,

LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,

No. 101 Camp Street,

Telephone No. 211. New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

☞ Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

"The Methodist Steward."

BY Rev. J. J. Billingsley

Endorsed by prominent officials of the Methodist Churches, North and South. All stewards should have it. It will pay any pastor to circulate it among his people. Price, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH, 106 Camp St., N. O.

A. Brousseau's Son,

26 and 28 CHARTRES ST.,

CHINA MATTING, CARPETS, INGRAINS, LACE CURTAINS, WINDOW SHADES, UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Rev. O. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JAN. 8, 1891.

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT,
Publisher.

Briefs.

The communicants in all the Methodist Churches in the United States number 4,980,240, with 31,765 ministers and 54,711 church-houses.

The Independent says:

The Supreme Court of the United States has now been in existence for a hundred years; and in the course of this period eight chief-justices and forty-four assistant justices, making fifty-two in all, have been appointed to its bench. No court ever had a grander history.

According to the Living Church Almanac, for 1891, the Protestant Episcopal Church has 4,163 clergy, 299 candidates for orders, 2 330 parishes and missions, and 508,292 communicants. The number of baptisms last year was 61,665, of which nearly 47,000 were of infants. The contributions for the year are $12,754,767.

The Georgia Legislature has passed a bill "that each and every widow of a soldier who served in the Confederate armies during the late war, and who became the wife of the soldier before or during the war, shall be allowed a yearly pension of $100 from the State." The law goes into effect Feb. 1.

The constitutionality of the postal law prohibiting Lottery matter from going through the mails is to be tested in Washington. An indictment was made against an agent in Washington for violating the law, and his attorney has moved to quash the indictment on the ground of the unconstitutionality of the law. However the decision goes in the criminal court, the matter will be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The grippe still holds its grasp upon our community. Several of the preachers have had a touch of it, but not very seriously. Last Monday nearly all the preachers were at the preachers' meeting. The church year has opened well in face of the prevailing sickness. All our city pastors are at their posts, and have begun vigorous operations. The new pastors have all been well received by their several congregations, and we confidently expect the work to go forward and enlarge on each side as it goes forward.

Our brethren in the Louisiana Conference are reminded that the Conference, at Monroe, resolved to observe Sunday, Feb. 15, as Centenary Day, when the preachers in stations are to preach on the subject of Christian education and take collections for the endowment of Centenary College. The preachers on circuits are to observe for the same purpose that day, and as many more Sundays after, as will enable them to preach and take collections at every appointment. Let the brethren all make special preparation for this special object.

Our Domestic Mission Work.

After attending three Conferences in three successive weeks, and hearing reports from every section of our territory, we are more than ever convinced that we are not measuring up to our privileges and opportunities and duties in our domestic mission work. We are collecting a little money and disbursing it to enable us to hold a few places in each of our Conferences, but that is about all. We suppose it does amount to something to keep any place from slipping from our grasp by an annual appropriation of a little missionary money, but it can hardly be dignified with the name of "mission work." To us the principal idea in missionary operations is "aggression," and there is very little of that in our domestic mission work. As a rule, we appropriate so much to the districts to eke out the support of preachers who serve weak circuits. It is true that the collection for this fund is slowly increasing, and thus a little more is given now than was given five years ago; but this increase does not begin to meet the exigencies of the case, and no preacher, no member of our church should remain satisfied with the present condition.

We are not aggressive enough in this department of our work. Our preachers don't take hold of it with a grasp which shows that they mean something. If Christianity means anything, it means, "Go forward." The authorities in these matters act as if they feared those who supply the means to do this work will fail in the emergency of a "forward movement" on this line. We believe that our indecision, or, rather, our lack of aggressiveness, is the reason for our small collections for domestic work. If we were more in earnest, if those who supply the funds could see that earnest and faithful and wise work was being done, the collections would more than double in a short time.

Our Conference Boards help to keep the present condition as it is by the assessments which they put upon the church. The assessment for domestic mission work is about one-third of what it is for the foreign work. Can any man give a sound reason why it is that way? The domestic heathen seems to be less valuable than the foreign heathen by two-thirds! Our very assessments say to the church that we are not much in earnest in the salvation of the home heathen, and, of course, the church is not much in earnest in supplying the funds to do the work of converting him. Can any man give a reason why we should not give as much for mission work at home as for that abroad? Is the country so well Christianized that it needs no more work than we are doing? We are not writing against foreign missions. No one believes in them more heartily or works for them more cheerfully or has more openly showed faith by works than we; yet we can not cast off the fear that we are not doing what we can in the home mission field. The commission reads, "Go ye into all the world," and that includes the near as well as the far away, and why we should take it into our heads that we can fulfill the obligation arising out of that command by doing one-third as much for the near as for the far away is exceedingly hard to see.

During our visits to the three Conferences we saw about $3,500 pledged to be raised by April 1, for the purpose of sending five missionaries to the foreign fields. There was a definite purpose proposed—the givers were assured that their money would be expended to effect that purpose, and they gave willingly and promptly. Now, there are places near us just as destitute as heathendom, and there are people in those places just as sunken in sin as any Hottentot, and if our members knew that earnest and wise efforts are being made to reach them, they would give just as promptly and just as largely to make those efforts successful as they now give to foreign missions. Our policy seems to lack faith in the people, and for that reason it is not successful. It seems to lack faith in God also, and, therefore, can never be much of a success. If we keep on saying to our members that we don't expect them to do much, that expectation will surely be realized. We must change this if we are to make progress. We must quit dishonoring our people by asking them to do little things, when it is their privilege and duty to do great things, or else we will totter to our fall. If we do not that which God has appointed us to do, then he will give our work to some one that will do it, and we will lose our crown and the church will go to pieces. But if we do the Lord's work as he wants it done, then we may expect the necessary funds to carry it on. The silver and gold are his, and whenever his work is done aright there will be no lack of money. "Thy people shall be willing in the day of thy power." "I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

Two and Two.

Some time ago we published an article favoring a return, wherever practicable, to the Scripture policy of sending our preachers, "two and two" to their work. We advocated this because we thought it would benefit, not only the work itself, but two classes of preachers, the young men and the old men. Some of our preachers criticised us pretty sharply. We are glad to place before our readers parts of a leader in the New York Advocate, of January 1. After a paragraph, giving the plan operated by Jesus and his apostles, Dr. Buckley says:

Reasons for co-operation and copartnership in the gospel ministry in Christian countries are not wanting. The early Methodists appreciated this need and made provision for it. The old circuit system in which several churches and several ministers were associated together had unquestioned merit. Our modern plan of dividing the work so as to furnish every minister with a separate and independent church has certain advantages, but they do not compensate for the loss of a connectional spirit and sympathetic co-operation which the custom involves. There are many young ministers, just out of school, who lack the experience and discipline necessary to manage and build up a church. There are many old ministers whose days of usefulness are not yet over, but who on account of increasing infirmities ought not to be burdened with the responsibilities of a charge. Yet there is reason to believe that separate stations are sometimes created in order to accommodate these young men and these aged ministers with a place.

Here are the same ideas, expressed in almost the same words used by us several months ago, which shows that two men in widely separated places have almost the identical thoughts on this subject. This is evidence, at least, that there are some reasons for our thinking. The editor above quoted continues:

This modern policy makes weak churches and keeps them weak. It has grown up naturally without being promoted by ecclesiastical legislation. Large churches insist on being separate from others because they are abundantly able to pay their own way, and they want the pastors whom they have chosen to devote all their time and energies among them. They are unwilling to have other ministers in their pulpits. This makes it necessary for the weaker churches to become independent also, and as a rule they are not unwilling to have it so. Then it happens that men who are willing to work for a very small salary must be sent to the weak churches.

Referring to the work in cities, we have this:

When a preacher enters on a pastorate in one of these weak churches in a large city, what does he find? Instead of sympathy and co-operation he encounters the sharpest and most unwholesome competition. He must not only contend with Satan and the world, but he must compete with eloquent ministers and wealthy churches of other denominations, and with strong preachers and rich churches of his own denomination. The result is usually disastrous to the weak church.

To remedy this evil we have these suggestions:

Recently efforts have been made to maintain a fraternal and connectional spirit among Methodists in large cities by organizing social unions and city church extension societies. We hail these organizations with delight, and commend them for their good works. But they do not furnish that actual copartnership in church work which struggling churches need. Before wealthy men in strong churches can feel a proper interest in weak churches they must actually have an interest in them. The churches must be so united that the prosperity of one will be the prosperity of the other. Before a pastor can feel a deep interest in a neighboring weak church he must have an interest in it. He must be officially related to it.

A return to the old circuit system may not be practicable nor desirable, but some wise arrangement of actual copartnership among ministers and churches is necessary to a healthy growth of Methodism in cities. Were such a scheme effected, the absence of one preacher would not leave a church without pastoral care and preaching. Rivalry between churches being set aside, the preachers would have the strength now wasted in useless friction to devote to work which would tell for the good of the cause. Young men without experience in the pastorate and aged men could be furnished with fields of labor without the responsibilities which are beyond their strength. The strife between churches to secure members who are able to pay most for the support of the church would end. It would matter little to the associated pastors which particular church a member joined. A cluster of churches, strong and weak together, being united under one pastoral head and managed by one official board, would build each other up.

Those persons who criticised us so sharply when our article appeared, are respectfully requested to ponder these thoughts from the great official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

After Christmas.

What to do with a holiday is one of the unsolved problems of American life. The spirit of business dominates us even in our recreations. Our country presents so many avenues to prosperity that it sets every man scheming to be rich or fretting because he is poor. The "shop" projects itself into the most intimate intercourse of friends; the scent of the factory is in our Sunday clothes, and goes with us as strange incense into the sanctuary of God. The simple fete of our European neighbors, the family reunion, the birthday-festival and the marriage anniversary find little place amid the intense activities of our restless life. We take our picnics with a rush; we make a nuisance, with hideous noises, of the national holiday, and celebrate the birthday of the Prince of Peace with uproar and revelry. We lack, as a people, the faculty of being happy quietly. We know well enough how to be rich and great, to startle the world with ingenious invention and wonderful achievements of science and art. What we need more than these is the ability to stop work now and then and to drop back for a little while into the hearty pleasures of childhood. The American youth. The mature makes but an indifferent boy. He needs de-educating a little. The new and broader culture of the age will have come to stay when, in addition to preparing our younger people for manhood and womanhood, it shall teach us of maturer years to preserve more perfectly the child-spirit of innocent joy and trust.

The great Teacher insisted upon this. "Except ye become as little children," is not a solitary precept, but runs substantially through all his teaching. The effort of the average parent to take part in the Christmas sports of his children would be amusing if it were not so pathetic. It is something for which he has neither heart nor stomach. The stern demands of business, as he transacts it, have put him all out of sympathy with light-heartedness, and sport of every kind which does not present some chance of gain is a bore and a burden to him. The result of his best intended efforts to be happy with the children is, therefore, that he spends a frantic morning among squibs and toys, eats his Christmas dinner without appetite, sulks or storms through the evening, goes to bed in a huff, and wakes next morning with a headache.

But Christmas has gone! How was it spent? In hurtful excess or in humble recognition of the gracious event it is intended to commemorate? Have we been mindful of the poor and the stranger while remembering the Divine Wanderer who had not where to lay his head? Have we received our abundance with gratitude, our little without envy? Has the song of the angels echoed in our hearts while a heavenly Guest sat welcome at our board, as the inspiration of our joy and a partner even in our sports?

Well for us if the season passes with no worse consequence than a headache. The holiday test is, indeed, a crucial one. He who can observe it without excess or indifference has become very like to him who was in perfect sympathy with God and man. He who spends such a time like a glutton or a prodigal fails of its true purpose equally with him who regards it as a dies non, a day lost to business and worse than wasted in extravagance. God wants us to be glad. It is as much a duty to be happy as it is to be good, not merely to be happy soberly, but to be glad joyously, as little children are.

The Christmas season passes; the Christmas Event abides. It was a bright day for the world when a Savior was born in it, but not so bright as when he was two weeks old in it. It was something to have been a shepherd and to have bent in reverent wonder over the cradle in the manger; it is far more to be a co-worker with the living Christ, the Savior of the world.

Thank God for Christmas, the world's holiday! Through all its thoughtless noise and gaiety and grudging relaxation from money-getting toil there runs a golden thread of memory and hope. To the sordid question "Why this waste?" a voice never to be wholly hushed, when the world takes holiday in his name, answers, suggesting sweeter thoughts of Calvary and sweeter hopes of the home not made with hands.

After holiday work. In what spirit do we turn to it? Like a galley slave under the lash, or as a giant refreshed with new wine?

After all, the reason why we are so ill, may be that we take little pleasure in our work. Thank God for work, my brother; for its tonic effect for its incidental blessing, as a safeguard against folly, as an antidote to those morbid tendencies which need only the opportunity of idleness to develop into an endless train of troubles. The devil had not studied human nature in vain for four thousand years when he tempted the Son of Man to get bread without working for it. Thank God, also, for the burdens of life, and their wise adjustment.

Having spent our holiday in the work-day spirit, let us work henceforth in the true spirit of the holiday. Thus only may rest and labor, joy and sorrow—all the varied experiences of life, indeed—make one music of praise and thanksgiving to him who bore the burden of the cross for us. So shall the Star of Bethlehem brighten the darkness of every night, and every day be Christmas.

Notes.

In preparing our sermons we ought never to forget that in every congregation there are likely to be broken hearts, inquiring souls and burdened spirits.

Another observation we make on the same line: In preparing sermons, we ought to be sure that what we are going to say needs to be said at that time.

You are a minister of the gospel, and, as such, you are expected to lead others. Remember this: You can lead only by gaining the confidence. You, yourself, will follow no one in whom you have no confidence.

One of our exchanges says that Santa Claus was considerably fretted about Christmas time by the provisions of the McKinley bill, and that, in consequence, the little stockings by the chimney were not as full as usual. Shame!

A keen observer on the other side of the Atlantic says: "The newspaper has make it an impossibility for dull preachers ever to be respected, even if they are tolerated, and we do not expect them to be tolerated very long." That is, you must be fresher and sharper than the newspaper if you would "draw."

The Nashville Christian Advocate characterizes Prof. Drummond as a "fresh, captivating, but misleading writer." One of the ablest and foremost men in our church told us, not long since, that he considered Prof. Drummond one of the most dangerous writers now reaching the public ear. These two criticisms, so nearly agreeing, afford us the opportunity to warn our young ministers not to yield too readily to what is "fresh and captivating." Paul's rule is a good one: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."

Bro. Campbell, of the Texas Advocate, has opened a woman's column for the use of the Woman's Missionary and Church Extension Work. But, alas! hear him:

Our sisters will please be so kind as to remember that this gives them, during the year, fifty-two columns, but only one column at once. So "hoil down," sisters, make them short and sweet, and remember that the shorter the sweeter, and the more of you will get a chance to speak, and the oftener you will get to speak. Remember that you speak to 40,000 or 50,000 people, and be sure that you do not get mad when your communication is rejected, remembering how many others enjoy the same blessing.

We publish on the first page the Constitution and By-laws of the young people's league of our church. This has been gotten up by the General Sunday-school Committee in accordance with instructions from the General Conference. We hope that our pastors all over Mississippi and Louisiana will give the subject early attention. There is, to us, nothing so important to our progress as a church as getting our young people interested in church work. In these proposed leagues we think there is a fine training-school, where the young of both sexes can learn how to do the Lord's work in a proper way. See to it, brethren, that your young people are harnessed for service!

Some of our papers and people seem to be just a little foggy on what constitutes an immorality. They talk as if it takes a violation of one of the ten commandments to make an immorality. And it is just here that a great many church people are at fault, and a bad influence is exerted upon church life thereby. An immorality is considered to be a positive infraction of plain and known law. That won't do at all. "To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin." Is sin an immorality? An immorality is the result of violated moral obligation. A man may create the obligation himself, as in the case of a promise or vow; and if he fails to keep it, is he not guilty of immorality? Failure to perform voluntary vows is just as much an immorality as a transgression of the moral code. Some of our people need to move up a little on this line.

Personal and Otherwise.

In the article on the second page, entitled "Bible Characters," in the eleventh line from the top, read "normal" for "nominal."

Bishop Haygood is to preach the commencement sermon at Whitworth College, next June.

When a preacher rehearses his sermons, would you say that he "practices what he preaches"?

Last year the dividends from the Book Concern of the M. E. Church for Conference claimants amounted to $110,000.

Dr. Andrew Hunter, of the Little Rock Conference, was recently robbed of $190. His friends are making it up in $1 subscriptions.

Dr. Joseph Parker, of London, recently said: "When I find a minister who likes Monday morning better than Sunday morning, I give him up."

Our missionary to China, Rev. A. P. Parker, who has been on furlough for some months, will sail for China from San Francisco, Jan. 22, in the steamer Oceanic.

A note from Rev. John Pipes, at Grand Cane, La., says, "La grippe is prevailing as epidemic throughout this community; not very fatal, but some serious cases."

The Brookhaven Leader says, "The Methodist congregation remembered their pastor with a store-room full of good things." The pastor is W. H. Huntley, and a worthy man he is, too.

Bro. LaPrade and his congregation at Carondelet are observing the week of prayer inaugurated by the International Evangelical Alliance. The attendance is good and the services interesting.

Don't you know of some one to whom you would be pleased to make a lasting New Year present? Suppose you send them this paper as a New Year's gift. It will do them good for twelve months. What say you?

Rev. W. S. Lagrone, presiding elder of Corinth district, North Mississippi Conference, writes a brief note: "I will circulate the extra copies of the ADVOCATE. You have my hearty endorsement." That "endorsement" makes us feel good.

Rev. P. A. Johnston has been kindly remembered, as we learn from the Scott County Register, where he says, "Many thanks to our Morton friends who have a knack of making preachers and their families feel kindly toward them." Congratulations.

A note from Bro. Faunt LeRoy, at Alexandria, says: "I have been confined to the house for three weeks, ever since I reached this place." We trust la grippe will soon let go his hold on our brother, and that he may be the stronger for this attack.

Bro. Howen writes from Aberdeen, Miss.: "Our church paid for all purposes last year $6,500. Our people received us back in good Methodist fashion, and we are happy." And we are glad that he is happy.

Last week the New York Advocate published the returns of the voting on the question of allowing women in the Conferences of the M. E. Church. Returns are in from 337 presiding elders' districts, and the vote stands: for, 182,281; against, 109,033; and this in a membership of 1,531,624. We would call that a "light vote."

A couple of weeks ago we gave a short account of Mr. Fayerweather's will, by which he bequeathed very large sums of money to aid many colleges in their work. Now it is understood that the will is to be contested by his widow on the ground of undue influence and unsound mind. The question comes up, Why do not benevolently disposed persons give their money to benevolent objects while living? It does look like they give it because they can't carry it away with them. It certainly would be more satisfactory to the man himself to see his money operating in benevolent channels while he lives. We advise our rich readers to give their money while they are living.

The Vicksburg Herald has this personal:

Rev. F. M. Keen, who takes charge of the South Vicksburg M. E. Church, arrived yesterday and has secured a residence just across the street from the church. Mrs. Keen is visiting friends in Jackson.

Rev. S. S. Keener, the new Methodist minister recently sent here by the Conference, preached his first sermon last Sunday, and gave much satisfaction to the large congregation assembled to hear him. He is said to be an elegant and forcible preacher, who talks in a clear, vigorous and convincing way. We welcome him to our midst and hope he will accomplish much good.—Iberville South.

Rev. Mr. Lewis, his wife and two daughters arrived yesterday afternoon and were met at the train by the Board of Stewards of the Crawford Street M. E. Church, South, and Rev. Dr. C. K. Marshall and escorted to a carriage, which was driven to the pastoral residence. Here they were visited by the Committee of Arrangements and were given a hearty reception to Vicksburg. Rev. Mr. Lewis is well known here, and his pastorate begins under the most favorable auspices that could be desired.—Vicksburg Herald.

After the Festival.

The Christmas festival is just over, and the young people have had a gay time. They have been feasting, eating and drinking, dancing and playing cards, from house to house, for ten days or longer. This kind of festivity, except the promiscuous dancing and card playing, seems to have been common more than three thousand years ago, in the times of Job. "And his sons went and feasted in their houses, every one his day; and sent and called for their three sisters to eat and drink with them." They seem to have had a hilarious, good time of it among themselves in that early age of the world. "And it was so, when the days of their feasting were gone about, that Job sent and sanctified them, and rose up early in the morning, and offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all: for Job said, It may be that my sons have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts. Thus did Job continually." It is quite likely the boys did sin during these festal seasons. Much feasting leads to sin. Job seems to have been afraid of sin, of the bare possibility of it. A deeply pious soul is exceedingly sensitive of sin.

What a careful father Job was! What delicate sense of parental responsibility! How regularly, promptly and continuously he set apart his children for God, and made offerings and prayers for them; not because he knew they had sinned, but because they might have done so.

How many parents are thus careful now? What need for prayers for our children before, during and after the Christmas season! What a time of temptation this to young people! They get into the whir and whirl of the season, and so many of them fall into sin; so many go back to the world. They need to be sanctified again, to have burnt offerings made for them, and that, too, by Christian parents.

Many parents are not as sensitive of sin in their children as Job was in the case of his sons. The fact that they may have sinned was enough to send Job on his knees before God in prayer. This is all the more remarkable since the boys were all grown and had houses and homes of their own. They were away from the parental roof, where the father could not advise them nor restrain them.

Fortunately they feasted in their own houses, and not at a hotel, or in some public hall, as our children often do. Young hearts need old heads to guide them. GILDEROY.

Every bruise, every sore muscle, should be freely bathed in Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. W. S. Shipman writes: "I have been warmly received on my new work; have made one round. Have two appointments; a nice new church at each place—Cleveland and Shelby. Four years at McNutt and Sunnyside was long enough to teach me to love those good people much, and from them I had many evidences of appreciation, for which I feel thankful."

—Rev. Benj. S. Rayner writes from Durant, Miss., Dec. 29, 1890: "This morning, at 1:30 o'clock, my aged mother passed into the land of blessed spirits. We have great consolation in the assurance she gave us of her trust in our dear Lord. Some account of her long and useful life will be sent you soon for publication (D. V.). 'The Lord is my light.'"

Don't forget to take a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup with you to Florida this winter.

Donald Kennedy, Roxbury, Mass.

When we saw this name in our advertising columns, we felt like taking off our hats. We were also reminded of a debt of gratitude of long standing. There has never been any personal intercourse between this editor and the above-named gentleman, neither has he any knowledge of us as far as we are advised.

Our acquaintance, if it can be called such, began in this wise: It was a generation ago. We stood behind the counter in a tea store. A row of bottles in rod wrappers occupied a shelf, of which we knew nothing. The proprietor was equally ignorant, but, moved by curiosity, he had uncorked a bottle. We were courteously invited to partake. Before doing so we looked to see what the "discoverer" had to say for himself. We shall not repeat his story, though its main features are still fresh in mind. We were impressed by his spirit of candor. His remedy was not a cure-all. He had heard that dyspeptics were benefited by it, but he did not recommend it for such cases. It was just that little chance expression which fixed our attention. We had been struggling in the toils of the monster dyspepsia for years. Life was a burden. We had concluded our case was hopeless. But we seized upon this straw, as drowning men will. It was a lucky providence, or a fortunate accident, whichever you prefer. The first dose satisfied us that we had found a true remedy.

We had not expected to see the end of that year. We have seen the beginning and end of many since then. We never told this story to Mr. Kennedy, but have told it to scores who have acted upon the information and were benefited as we were.—The Prohibition Advocate, Nov. 15.

Louisiana Conference Apportionments for 1891.

	Conf. Claimants.	Bishops.	Education.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Council.	Church Extension
New Orleans District	$1,200	$ 320	$ 320	$2,350	$ 500	$ 62	$ 596 75
Shreveport District	900	235	235	1,350	360	85	313 75
Arcadia District	830	225	225	1,350	360	85	343 75
Delhi District	630	170	170	1,250	315	25	322 50
Opelousas District	520	135	135	1,100	315	23	283 75
Alexandria District	420	115	115	600	150	20	212 50
Total	$1,500	$1,200	$1,200	$8,000	$2,000	$200	$2,100 00

Literary Notes.

Messrs. Macmillan & Co. have had in preparation for some time past extra-illustrated editions of Mrs. Oliphant's well-known works, "The Makers of Florence" and "The Makers of Venice"—two books which will lend themselves very happily to pictorial adornment.

It is significant of the changed position which women occupy in this age that the title of the forth-coming new edition of "Men of the Time" is to be "Men and Women of the Time." George Routlege & Sons, who issue the book about once in five years, with additions to date, will publish this new edition in the spring.

A volume of poems by Ruskin is announced for early publication. It will be issued in two quarto volumes, illustrated with twenty-five plates, with fac-similes of the manuscript poem. The editor of the volumes is said to have had at his disposal the whole of Mr. Ruskin's early manuscripts and notebooks, ranging from childhood to the time when the success of his prose writings led him to abandon verse.

The greatest man of letters now living in Scotland is probably David Masson, professor of Rhetoric and English Literature in Edinburgh University. He was acquainted with Douglas Jerrold, Dickens, Thackeray and Carlyle; and is said to resemble the last-named in personal appearance. He is an effective lecturer and orator, and has made himself prominent as an advocate of woman's right to higher education and participation in the learned professions.

Students of the theology and philosophy of England and Scotland, Germany, Switzerland, France and Holland, will be interested in the announcement that Messrs. Scribner & Welford will supply to the American market a new quarterly review, published by Messrs. T. & T. Clark, of Edinburgh, Critical Review of Current Theological and Philosophical Literature, under the editorship of the Rev. Prof. S. D. F. Salmond, D. D., of Edinburgh. The subscription price for the year is $1 50, and the first number is now ready.

The publication of an important series of books, "Events of Our Own Time," has been begun by Scribner & Welford. The first volume in the series is "The War in the Crimea," by Gen. Sir Edward Hamley, K. C. B., with maps and plans and copper-plate portraits, and the second is "The Indian Mutiny of 1857," by Col. Malleson. Other volumes in preparation are "Achievements in Engineering," by Prof. Vernon Harcourt; "The Liberation of Italy," by Edward Dicey; "The Refounding of the German Empire," "The Exploration of Africa," "The Civil War in America," "The Opening of Japan," etc. The volumes will have plans, portraits, and other illustrations.

"The doctor said my faith in Johnson's Anodyne Liniment was correct," writes a lady friend.

Appointments at Night.

Dr. J. E. Edwards makes a good point, we think, against reading out appointments at night. He says:

The Conference ought always to close in open daylight. Disappointments always appear more forbidding at night. The preacher goes out in the dark. He has no friendly face to cheer him. He broods over his disappointment during the night. The more he thinks of it the more forbidding and gloomy it appears. If ever I am made Bishop I will never allow a Conference to close its session at night. Those who feel aggrieved by their appointments do not only receive them more cheerfully in the sunshine, but they carry away with them feelings less acidulated toward the Bishop. Our late Conference adjourned near midnight. The reader is left to make his own inference.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policyholders.

The Episcopal Diocese, of New York, has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and the Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the Insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Notices.

The societies of the Woman's Parsonage and Home Mission Society are asked to forward their quarterly reports and moneys in their possession to the treasurer of the State Board, elected at the late annual session—Mrs. Adele K. Widney, No. 1218 Magazine street, New Orleans.

J. M. BEARD,
Pres. Ch. Ex. Society, La. Conf.

All the members of the Mississippi Conference who take the Missionary Reporter will please send their address to Dr. I. G. John, Nashville, Tenn., at once, that there may be no complaints about not receiving the same. Mistakes will be corrected.

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.
Brandon, Miss., Dec. 31, 1890.

I would be pleased to have all the preachers of the Brandon district present at the district stewards' meeting, Wednesday, Jan. 21, two P. M., at Forest. P. A. JOHNSTON.

Jan. 3, 1891.

Growth of the South.

The Tradesman has compiled statistics showing the growth and development of the Southern States in the past ten years. The figures are based upon reports sent by officials of each State. The summary shows wonderful growth in the Southern States in population, wealth, capital, railroads, manufactories, agriculture and education since the census of 1880 was taken.

The increase in population has been 19.2 per cent. The total now being 17,550,920, divided as follows: Whites, 11,361,996; colored, 6,194,924.

The increase in the white population has been 26 2 per cent.; in colored only 10 per cent. There are 475,930 persons of Northern birth in the South, against 240,385 ten years ago. The assessed wealth is $3,814,057,164, and the actual wealth is estimated at $9,751,815,635. The State debts aggregate $96,460,126; county debts, $20,511,479; municipal debts, $66,800,748. Total public indebtedness, $183,773,353.

The capital invested in the South during the decade reaches $2,339,170,000. The mileage of the railroads is 41,118, and the men employed number 188,731. The number of manufacturing establishments is 56,174, with a capital of $551,483,800; hands employed, 537,086; value of product, $742 865,200. Of cotton mills, there are 334. The value of cotton produced during the decade is $8,991,936,833; tobacco, $31,278,524; total value of all farm products, $984,707,000. Amount given to negro education since the war, $56,181,370. Negroes at school, 1,102,039.

$100 REWARD. $100.

The readers of the Advocate will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Notice as to Changes.

Subscribers whose postoffice is changed will confer a favor if they will advise the business manager as to where their paper is changed from, as well as to their postoffice changed to, as early as possible, in order that our mail lists for 1891 may be correct.

A Common Sense Calendar.

The calendars that come in the fall are as numerous as the flowers that bloom in the spring. Many further resemble the flowers in that they come without being sent for, and fade after a very brief existence.

The most sensible and business-like Calendars that we have seen comes to us from N. W. Ayor & Son, Newspaper Advertising Agents, Philadelphia, and bears their "Keeping everlastingly at it" imprint. It is so large and clear that its dates can be easily distinguished across an office, and is printed in a manner to reconcile the most fastidious to its company for a year.

It is sent to any address, postpaid, on receipt of 25 cents.

Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Flux.

Maguire's Benne Plant for nearly 50 years the infallible cure. Thousands of testimonials; indorsed by the Western Sanitary Commission, U. S. army officers, hospital physicians, steamboat officers, etc. Taken in time a sure preventive of Asiatic cholera.

Business Notices.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentlemen widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. LYLE,
"Pastor First-Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is almost a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.

LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

W. H. KRONE,
BUILDER
586 Baronne St., - New Orleans.
Box 71, M., D., and L. Exchange.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

I have kept a Scrap Book for a good many years of letters received from patients; some are long, too long to publish; some are short, short and good. Rainy days I sit down and read them, and have learned a good deal about the human body from some poor, sickly woman or overstrained man. Here is one of them. I call it a good letter:

TRENTON, TEXAS, Sept. 28, 1888.

"To Kennedy of the Medical Discovery, Roxbury, Mass. I am so proud of my recovery as to express my feelings in thanks to you. The RHEUMATISM has made me four-legged for six years. At last I have traded off two of them to Hell—Druggist—for four bottles of Kennedy's Discovery. I am yours, gratefully and unsolicited, J. B. IVY."

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

LOUISIANA
STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

199, 201, 203, 205, 207 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

"THE PRINCE OF PEACE!"

AGENTS WANTED

A RICH HARVEST.

Everybody wants this "Beautiful Life of Jesus." By MRS. ISABELLA M. ALDEN (PANSY). 600 royal octavo pages; 300 superb illustrations, richly-colored lithographs, tinted photogravures, exquisite engravings, representing the best works of ancient and modern masters; a matchless Album of Sacred Art. The author is the acknowledged peer of all writers on this noble theme. She is safe, graphic, attractive; has spent 15 years in painstaking preparation for this crowning work. ENDORSED BY CHAUTAUQUAN, CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR, and SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS. Introductions by Bishop J. H. Vincent and Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark ("Father Endeavor"). By subscription only. Exclusive territory. Prospectus now ready. Send $1.00 for outfit. Name choice of territory. Insist on seeing "Prince of Peace!" Accept no other! Write quick. Address,

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Shepard & Butler,
94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.
BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

H. P. BUCKLEY,
Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

Heath, Schwartz & Co.

(LIMITED.)

Jobbers and Retailers,
116 Camp Street, . New Orleans.

Matting

Which we were selling at 10 cents has been closed out, but we have secured a better grade, which we are offering by the roll for $6.

Wall Paper,

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, Upholstering Goods, Rugs and Mats in immense variety.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman, Junius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S Kuhn & Son.

W. W. CARRE,
LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF
PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.,
Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,
NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

Tutt's Pills

CURE CONSTIPATION.

To enjoy health one should have regular evacuations every twenty four hours. The evils, both mental and physical, resulting from are many and serious. For the cure of this common trouble, Tutt's Liver Pills have gained a popularity unparalleled. Elegantly sugar coated.

HABITUAL CONSTIPATION

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

If THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS SENT TO US, WITH ONE DOLLAR, WE WILL SEND THE MUSICAL VISITOR TO ANY ADDRESS FOR ONE YEAR. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

—PUBLISHED BY—

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 156 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE

OF THE

Methodist Episcopal Church, South,

AT

NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Will fill an order for any book at its publisher's price. The profits of this House belong to the Church, and are disbursed to the Annual Conferences for distribution to their "Conference claimants"—superannuated preachers and the widows and orphans of their deceased brethren. Every order sent the House is an indirect contribution to this important and good. Methodists ought to keep this in mind.

BARBEE & SMITH,

AGENTS.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal" of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address with stamp,

AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH

Trouble of the Womb should try Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Failing of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Something new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Descriptive circulars and prices free. Address

DE KALB FENCE MFG. CO., Ridgeville, Ind.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES

$100. FOR AN INCURABLE CASE.

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration, causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to which acts directly on parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 50c Druggists or mail Circulars free. Bosanko Co. Piqua, O.

DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c Druggists HISCOX & CO., N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Pl'k, Nashville, Tenn. FOR Catalogue.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, Douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA—CURED DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE. SEND DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y. FREE

Our Young People.

SEWING SONG.

BY MARY J. JACQUES.

I have a little servant;
With a single eye
She always does my bidding
Very faithfully;
But she eats me no meat,
And she drinks me no drink,
A very clever servant as you well may think.

Another little servant
On my finger sits,
She the one-eyed little servant
Very neatly fits;
But she eats me no meat,
And she drinks me no drink,
A very clever servant, as you well may think.

Now, one more little servant,
Through the single eye,
Does both the others' bidding
Very faithfully;
But she eats me no meat,
And she drinks me no drink,
A very clever servant, as you well may think.

A needle and a thimble
And a spool of thread,
Without the fingers nimble,
And the knowing head—
They would never make out,
If they tried the whole day,
To sew a square of patchwork, as you well may say. —St. Nicholas.

New Year Words to Girls.

BY RUTH ASHMORE.

You are sitting quite quietly watching the old year as it fades away and the new one as it comes in. You think of all the joys and the sorrows that have come to you during 1890, and of your hopes and ambitions for 1891; you believe just as you did a year ago—that you will make a great resolve that the year shall be better and your life nobler and more unselfish than it was last year. Now don't do this. Don't make the big resolve. Think, hope and pray what you want to, but in its place, make a lot of little resolves that each one of which will in time tend to make you reach the goal you desire to.

Resolve to think a little less about yourself and a little more of the comforts of others.

Resolve to be less quick of speech and more certain in action than you have been.

Resolve not to let the wicked little demon of envy enter your heart and make you bitter and fault-finding.

Resolve to consider these of your own household; the inclination on the part of too many of us is to reserve our virtues and our graces for those outside, and this is all wrong.

My dear girls, you had better blush unseen, as good daughters and good sisters, than gain all the fame imaginable as bright talkers and great beauties without any homely talent. I like that word homely—I use it, perhaps, in a different sense from the one you give it. It means belonging to the home, and as the home is the place where love and charity should abide, so the talents that belong to it are best worth possessing. God bless every one of you and give you some day a home of your own! It may come in the new year. It may be in the years that are far off, but if it never comes just remember that the talent of making a home may be yours, and even though you can only exercise it in a single room you must not bury it and count it of no value. —The Ladies' Home Journal

WHAT MAKES A BOY POPULAR?—What makes a boy popular? Manliness, says Hezekiah Butterworth, in The Ladies' Home Journal. During the war, how schools and colleges followed popular boys! These young leaders were the many boys whose hearts could be trusted. The boy who respects his mother has leadership in him. The boy who is careful of his sister, is a knight. The boy who will never violate his word and who will pledge his honor to his own heart and change not, will have the confidence of his fellows. The boy who defends the weak will one day become a hero among the strong. The boy who will never hurt the feelings of anyone will one day find himself in the atmosphere of univeral sympathy. "I know not," once said the great Gov. Andrew, "what record of sin may await me in another world; but this I do know: I never yet despised a man because he was poor, because he was ignorant, or because he was black."

Shall I tell you how to become a popular boy? I will. Be too manly and generous and unselfish to seek to be popular; be the soul of honor, and love others better than yourself, and people will give you their hearts and delight to make you happy. That is what makes a boy popular.

Have a bottle of Salvation Oil always on hand. It may save you infinite pain. 25 cents.

What Little Artie Did.

Little Artie and his brothers. Three of them, and dear little fellows they were, all brave and self-reliant, and brought up by their parents in the right way.

As these children lived some distance from town it was often found necessary to leave them at home when father and mother attended meeting, especially was this the case in cold weather. Through the summer months the children were often taken along, to their great delight. And, as their parents were Methodists of the good old-fashioned kind, the boys were in the habit of hearing, at such times, the hearty "Amen" break forth from their father's lips when the sermon was particularly enjoyable.

One cold Sabbath-day these children were left at home, with many cautions to be careful; yet hardly had the parents left ere the wood-work near the stove-pipe was discovered to be on fire, and out of the children's reach; but, with wonderful activity and energy, the eldest climbed up on the table and put out the flames.

When the father and mother returned they shuddered to see the danger to which their dear ones had been exposed, and with thankful hearts praised them for their courage.

"How did you manage, Tommy, to reach the fire?" asked their father.

"Why," said Tommy, "I pushed the table up to the wall, and got upon that."

"And did you help brother, Jimmy?" to the next.

"Yes, sir; I brought him a pail of water and handed him the dipper."

"And what did you do?" said the proud father to his pet, the youngest of the group.

"Well, papa," said Artie, "you see I was too small to help put out the fire, and so I just stood up and holler'd 'Amen.'" —Kind Words.

WHY PICNICS ARE SO CALLED.—Everybody knows what a picnic is, but most folks would find it hard to say how it got that name, and yet it is simple enough when you come to learn it. When a picnic was being arranged for, the custom originally was that those who intended to be present should supply the eatables and drinkables. A list of those necessaries having been drawn up, it was passed round, and each person picked out the articles of food or drink that he or she was willing to furnish, and the name of the article was nicked, or ticked off on the list. The open air entertainment thus became known as a "pick and nick." The custom is said to date from 1802, so that the picnic is wholly an institution of the nineteenth century. As started, it must have strongly resembled what is now called a "surprise party."—Exchange.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little boy eight years old. My papa is the preacher at Columbia. I have a little brother two years old. This is my first letter to the ADVOCATE. I go to school every day. I study six books: spelling, geography, writing, history, reading, arithmetic. My teacher is Miss Emma Summer. It is holidays now. There was a sociable at Mrs. Lloyd's the other night for the children.

Your little friend,

WALDO MOORE.

Columbia, Miss.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS WATERPROOF.
A HANDSOME POLISH.
A LEATHER PRESERVER.
NO BRUSHING REQUIRED.

Shoes can be washed daily.

Used by men, women and children.

Look at my old chip basket, isn't it a beauty? I have just finished painting it with

PIK-RON TRADE MARK
A PAINT THAT ONE CAN SEE THROUGH. TRY IT.

Sold Everywhere.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

PIK-RON beautifies other things besides baskets. It makes a white glass vase any color you desire to match. It changes a pine table to walnut, a cane rocker to mahogany. It stains, paints, lacquers, Japans.

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,

Homeopathic Physician,

288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

Household.

The Management of Children.

If you would see a woman or a child graceful, beautiful and charming, you must find one that is loved. The child that dreads to be corrected or criticised for every word or movement never has a manner of elegance or an expression of charm. Fill your child's soul with an ideal of good manners, of benevolence and beauty; teach it abstractedly to dislike vulgarity, selfishness, rudeness, and to feel that you love and admire it, and expect charming manners, and the work is accomplished.

It is impossible for a slave to have any style. If you would have your child dignified, you must treat it with dignity!

It is wrong to correct a child in public. Any proud child feels degraded by it. It should be a case of dire necessity when you find fault with a child before strangers, and to destroy a child's pride is to do him an irreparable injury. Take advantage of some intimate hour when parent and child are alone together, and then let the parent tenderly explain how the child has behaved ill the day before or that morning, and why the child's conduct was wrong, and how it should have behaved, and show the child that the parent respects it and loves it and believes in its capacity to do all good things. This will have ten times the effect of punishment when the child is in a state of excitement and the parent usually angry. Get in the habit of explaining the reason of things to your child. Let there be as little confusion in its mind as possible. Above all, keep the fact of your love uppermost in the child's mind and let it understand that you have no wish to domineer over it, only that being older and wiser and loving the child so much, you would save it from its inexperience, that this is your duty, that you are teaching it to be its own master.

If your child is cross, do not punish him, but distract his mind from the subject that annoys him. If he continues to be cross, suspect his stomach, and assure yourself that this is in perfect order; a troubled digestion is the root of bad manner.—Harper's Bazar.

Cutting the Corners.

Mrs. Jones, who does her own work, was asked by one of her neighbors how she contrived to get so much done. "Contrive is the word," said she. "I cut all the corners, and I don't try in the least to do as Mrs. Any-body-else does. I know it's the orthodox way to get all your morning's work done up and then sit down to sew. But when I have a difficult piece of sewing on hand, if I do my housework first, I'm too tired to do my sewing justice, so I let some of the housework go, all that can be let go, and do my sewing first. Then it is a relief, when that is done, to fly round and finish up my housework. I know it's nice to iron all one's plain clothes, but I don't iron mine. Towels, sheets, and many other articles I fold neatly when they are dry and put them away without ironing. I am very particular to have the clothes washed clean and rinsed always in two waters, so they are sweet to the olfactories, but they are not smooth to the touch.

"When I get breakfast I plan my dinner and generally make the dessert, sometimes prepare the vegetables, and then it is an easy matter to get the dinner. Many a time I've rubbed out my clothes at night and scalded them, and then left them in the tubs till morning. This enables me to get them hung up early, and then by dividing the work I do not get so tired as if I did it all at once. I see to it that the wood and coal and kindling-box are kept full, so I can have a fire at short notice and without running round.

"I make a point of lying down in the middle of the day and getting perfectly still, perhaps I drop off to sleep a few minutes. This gives me two mornings every day, so to speak, and keeps me fresh for the evening, and I find that going to bed early enables me to rise early and push my work with vigor."

It is a mistake to try to cure catarrh by using local applications. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system.

The Natural Gas Supply.

The permanence of the natural gas supply was discussed in the American Association, which, meeting in the heart of the natural gas regions, visited some of the most famous stations at Noblesville, Marion, Muncie, and Anderson, where the new fuel is used. President Goodale warned the people at Anderson against waste of the gas, because, he said, it will surely give out some day. Dr. Edward Orton affirmed in a paper in the Economic Section that the supply in the Indian and Ohio fields is not only exhaustible, but is rapidly and surely being exhausted. It is not now being generated, and every foot that escapes to the surface leaves the quantity remaining for future use just so much smaller. This is proved by the fact that the pressure of the gas is steadily diminishing, the decrease having already amounted to thirty or forty per cent. Prof. P. H. Vander Weyde is of a different opinion. He believes that the gas is formed in much the same manner as water-gas; that the evolution of oxygen and hydrogen is constantly going on in the regions of the earth's interior, where the temperature of dissociation exists; and that when carbureted metals having great affinity for water are present within reach of the dissociated gasses, they will be oxidized by the ascending oxygen, while the hydrogen will combine with the carbon to form hydrocarbons. Thus the process of generating the gas is going on all the time, and the prospect for the continuation of the supply is cheerful. "Look," the author says, "at the burning gas-wells of Baku, where the gas escapes by fissures in the soil, and has been blowing and burning for centuries, and all for nothing thus far. There appears to be no diminution in their flow, while from the Chinese historical records it appears that natural gas has been evolving in more than one locality for at least a thousand years, and I expect the same here. It comes from regions far below the deepest coal mines, and may continue to flow when some mines are exhausted."—Popular Science Monthly.

TORNADOES AND VIOLENT STORMS.—A special investigation of the subject of tornadoes has been carried on by Prof. H. A. Hazen, of the Government Signal Service, during the past year. Prof. Hazen divided the tornadoes into three classes. First, violent storms causing destruction; third, the most severe tornadoes; and placed in the second class all other known violent storms. While there were about 1,000 tornadoes each in classes one and two, causing the death of 1,071 people, an average of one person to two storms, and a loss of about $23,000,000 in property, yet there were but 58 tornadoes of a very violent character, killing 755 people, and destroying property to the amount of $11,894,700, an average loss of 13 lives and over $200,000 of property to each storm of class three. It appears that in no State may a destructive tornado be expected oftener, on an average, than once in two years, and that the area over which the total destruction can be expected is exceedingly small. In the last eighteen years the death casualties from tornadoes averaged 182 annually. While this is a large number, it does not appear to be as great as the death casualty from lightning. It may be safely assumed that, dangerous as are tornadoes, they are not so destructive to life as are thunderstorms.—Scientific American.

A CARGO OF CATS.—There has just arrived from Alexandria at Liverpool, by the steamer Pharos, a consignment of nearly twenty tons of cats, numbering 180,000 feline species, taken out of an ancient subterranean cats' cemetery discovered about one hundred miles from Cairo by an English fellah, who accidentally fell into this cats' cemetery, which he found completely filled with cats, every one of which had been separately embalmed and dressed in cloth after the manner of Egyptian mummies, and all laid out in rows. Specimens of these have been taken by Mr. Moore, curator of the Liverpool Museum, where they can be seen. In ancient times the Egyptian cat was buried with all honors, but those consigned to Messrs. Leyington & Co., of Liverpool, after being purchased in Egypt at £3 13s. 9d. per ton, will be used in this country as manure. The curator of the Liverpool Museum fixes the date of their interment two thousand years before Christ.—Vick's Magazine.

PARSONS PURGATIVE PILLS

Make New, Rich Blood!

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them, and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cts. in stamps. Dr. J. F. JOHNSON & CO., 22 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., BOSTON, MASS.

If you have a
COLD or COUCH,
acute or leading to CONSUMPTION,
SCOTT'S EMULSION
OF PURE COD LIVER OIL
AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA IS SURE CURE FOR IT.

This preparation contains the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites and fine Norwegian Cod Liver Oil. Used by physicians all the world over. It is as palatable as milk. Three times as efficacious as plain Cod Liver Oil. A perfect Emulsion, better than all others made. For all forms of Wasting Diseases, Bronchitis, CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, and as a Flesh Producer there is nothing like SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is sold by all Druggists. Let no one by profuse explanation or impudent entreaty induce you to accept a substitute.

Most Worthy Books for PURCHASE.

CHOICE AND POPULAR AI TO SONGS. 34 songs—each one a Gem. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

THE SONGS OF IRELAND. A new and carefully revised collection of the best and most celebrated Irish songs. Some of the best melodies in existence, and bright, spirited words. 66 songs. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

CHOICE SONG COLLECTIONS.

Song Classics, Vol 1,	50 songs.
Song Classics, Vol. 2,	39 "
Song Classics, Low Voices,	47 "
Choice Sacred Solos,	34 "
Choice Sacred Solos, Low Voice,	40 "
Classic, Baritone and Bass,	33 "
Classic Tenor Songs,	16 "
Good Old Songs We Used to Sing,	115 "

CHOICE PIANO COLLECTIONS.

Piano Classics, Vol. 1,	44 pieces.
Piano Classics, Vol. 2,	31 "
Classical Pianist,	42 "
Popular Dance Collection,	60 "
Popular Piano Collection,	66 "
Operatic Piano Collection,	19 operas.

Price of Each Book, $1. Cloth Gilt $2. All are Valuable Collections of the Best Music.

Churchill's BIRTHDAY BOOK of EMINENT COMPOSERS. A handsome and useful book, $1.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York City

The Best, Swiftest and Lightest-Running Sewing Machine in the World is the

SINGER.

Especially Adapted for Family Use. In Elegant Convenient and Artistic Cabinet Work, with our New (patented) Stand, and all Modern Improvements.

THE ONLY PERFECT ATTACHMENTS

More Popular Than Ever,
They Defy Competition.

Sold on the Most Liberal and Easy Terms. Full Instructions Given and Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Send for Illustrated Price List.

Needles for all Kinds of Sewing Machines, 15, 20 and 25 cents per dozen; postage extra. Parts and Attachments for the Singer.

The Singer Manufacturing Company,

CENTRAL OFFICE:

185 Canal, New Orleans, La.

Branch offices at Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Dallas, Galveston, Houston, Marshall and San Antonio, Tex.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homeopathic Chemists,
LONDON, ENGLAND.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

Marriages.

PEMBERTON—STEWART.—At the residence of the bride's stepfather, Capt. N. C. Taylor, on Sunflower river, Dec. 20, 1890, by Rev. Ira B. Robertson, Maj. Pemberton to Miss Maude Stewart.

BECK—NEIL.—At the residence of Hon. Mr. Roberson, in the city of Cleveland, Miss., Dec. 25, 1890, at half-past ten A. M., by Rev. W. S. Shipman, Mr. W. M. Beck and Miss Mary Neil.

NEFF—FREEMAN.—At the residence of Mr. E. W. Freeman, Robeline, La., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr., Mr. Robert Neff, of Little Rock, Ark., and Miss Willie H. Freeman, of Robeline, La.

RITTA—SHELBY.—At the residence of the bride's mother, in Rolling Fork, Miss., Dec. 23, 1890, by Rev. Ira B. Robertson, Prof. Jas. Ritta to Miss Mollie Kate Shelby.

GILBERT—WILLIAMS.—At the residence of Mr. J. P. Williams, Franklin county, Miss., Nov. 26, 1890, by Rev. R. Bradley, Mr. J. T. Gilbert and Miss Lillie Williams.

VIDLER—BOYD.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Boyd, near Fort Jessup, La., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. H. J. Boltz, Mr. James E. Vidler to Miss Lou Boyd, all of Sabine parish, La.

IRBY—VIDLER.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. F. Vidler, near Fort Jessup, La., Dec. 18, 1890, by Rev. H. J. Boltz, Mr. James M. Irbey to Miss Nell Vidler, all of Sabine parish, La.

EVANS—VARNELL.—At the residence of the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. Monroe McFerrin, near Pelican, La., Dec. 25, 1890, by Rev. H. J. Boltz, Mr. John L. Evans, of Arkansas, to Miss Martha L. Varnell, of DeSoto parish, La.

REAMES—TURPIN.—At the residence of the bride's parents, near Bastrop, La., by Rev. H. Armstrong, Mr. Emmett Reames, of Dennison, Texas, and Miss Maggie M. Turpin.

KILLINGWORTH—HALL.—At the Methodist Church, Fayette, Miss., Dec. 17, 1890, by Rev. W. Bradley, Mr. N. A. Killingworth and Miss Edith Hall.

COTNER—ANDERSON.—At Andrew Chapel Church, Dec. 23, 1890, by Rev. J. A. Sage, Mr. W. H. Cotner, of Fiatersville, Ark., to Miss Willie E. Andersen, of Wilmar, Ark.

WELLS—CLARKE.—In this city, Dec. 30, 1890, by Rev. C. W. Carter, Mr. Hansel P. Wells, Jr., of Delhi, La., to Miss Nettie L. Clarke, of this city.

TADLOCK—CRAIG.—At the residence of the bride's father, Homewood, Miss., Dec. 21, 1890, by Rev. J. V. Pean, Mr. R. K. Tadlock to Miss Mattie Craig, all of Scott county.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

RICHARDSON—Bro. JOHN R. RICHARDSON was born in Upson county, Ga., June 16, 1806, and died in Grand Cane, La., Dec. 14, 1890, aged eighty-three years and six months.

In the death of Bro. Richardson the very last link of the chain that bound the former to this generation, of this community, has been broken. He was raised, educated and married, in Georgia, to Miss Martha A. Bandy. His early associates were among the hills, prominent in the State, and the fierces, renowned in the Church.

Following the multitude, he drifted westward: first to Alabama; thence, in 1861, to St. Landry parish, La.; thence, as a refugee, in 1863, to DeSoto parish, La., where he lived until, in the providence of God, he was taken from labor to rest. He filled with credit and honor all the various relations in life, as child, husband, father, citizen and Christian. He has left an enviable record of his integrity in all these relations in life. His large family of children and grandchildren are living epistles of how faithfully he discharged the responsible duties in all the departments of domestic life. He was led to seek religion early in life, and, like Thomas, nothing but conclusive evidence would satisfy his mind upon the subject. When converted he was simply overwhelmed with the power of the Holy Ghost, and his joy was inexpressible and full of glory. He never afterward, till the day of his death, doubted the genuineness of his conversion. He ever loved to talk of the comforts of religion and the hopes of immortality. Nor was he exempt from trouble. Two years ago he was bereft of the wife of his youth and the mother of his children; like Jacob, he parted with his beloved Rachel, and for awhile he wandered alone, but not without hope. His last illness was protracted and severe. "I shall soon be at home," was among his last utterances.

His funeral services took place at the Methodist Church, and were participated in by Dr. Courtney, Baptist minister. From thence his remains were followed by a large procession of friends and relatives to the cemetery, and was laid to rest amid the honors duly due the good man. J. P.

McCLANAHAN—Sister ELIZA A. MCCLANAHAN was born in McMinn county, Tenn., Dec. 5, 1823, and died Dec. 13, 1890, in Grand Cane, La. At 15 years of age she migrated to Shelby county, Ala. In 1838 she was happily married to Judge John M. McClanahan. Here they lived for many years, and raised a large and respectable family of children. In 1867 they moved to Mansfield, La.

Sister McClanahan professed religion in early life, and became a member of the Methodist Church, in which she led a devoted and faithful member until the day of her death. She maintained her dignity as a Christian during the various vicissitudes of life through which she was called to pass. The inscrutable providence of God she was called to pass through the deep waters of affliction. In a few months after coming to Mansfield she was bereft of her husband suddenly, by a stroke of lightning. This was a shock that only the few are ever called to endure; but the mystery was resolved into a faith that trusts God in life and death. Her faith was unwavering. She lived to support the church in all its interests, and to do good. Her last illness was severe, and for weeks she was conscious that her end was in the near future, and was well prepared for the change when it came.

On Saturday evening, Dec. 13, at seven o'clock, without a struggle, she fell asleep in Jesus. On Sunday evening she was followed to the Mansfield Cemetery by a large concourse of friends, and laid to rest till the day of eternity. J. P.

BONDS—

TAYLOR—Twice has death cast a gloom over our church and community. On Dec. 26, 1889, our hearts were made sad by the sudden and unexpected death of Bro. RICHARD W. BONDS, and on Jan. 12, 1890, by the death of Bro. CALEB W. TAYLOR, Sr.

By the death of these two brothers, the church has lost two of its best supporters; the community, two of its best citizens; their families, devoted husbands and fathers; therefore, be it

Resolved, By this Quarterly Conference, that, as our heavenly Father has taken our beloved brothers, we humbly submit to his will. Their long and useful lives were brought to a close at the Lord's appointed time, and we have every reason to believe "all is well," as they kept their lamps trimmed and burning.

Resolved, That we will ever cherish their memory and keep in our recollection their liberal and charitable hearts.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathies to their bereaved families and loved ones in this their sad affliction, pointing them to the Savior.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this Quarterly Conference, and published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

L. R. MOORE,
For Committee.

Morton, Miss.

DAVIS—The following resolutions were passed by the Sparta Sabbath-school:

Whereas, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from our midst our beloved sister and Sabbath-school companion, EULA, daughter of our beloved pastor, Rev. R. A. Davis; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in her death the Sabbath-school has lost one of its most earnest and useful co-laborers—a teacher and scholar, ever ready and willing to do that which would promote Sabbath-school interest and the cause of Christ; the church, a consistent and devout member, and society one of its brightest jewels.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved father and mother in their loss of a kind, loving and dutiful daughter, whose loss is irreparable here, but we have the consoling thought that he doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the Buenville News and the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication, and that a copy of same be sent to her bereaved parents.

J. W. TOOKE, Sup't.
R. M. TARVER, Sec'y.

A BEAUTIFUL EXAMPLE.—A beautiful story is told of Lady Stanley, wife of the late Dean Stanley, of Westminster Abbey: There is a hospital in London near the Abbey. Lady Stanley was in the habit of spending a good deal of time in this hospital—talking with the sick and suffering people there, and trying to cheer and comfort them. Among these was a poor woman suffering from a painful and dangerous disease. Lady Stanley's kind words had been a great comfort to her on her sick-bed. The doctor said that her life could only be saved by her going through a very painful operation. They told her that she must certainly die unless the operation were performed. "I think I could bear it," she said, "if Lady Stanley could be with me while it was being done." Lady Stanley was sent for. When the messenger arrived at her home, he found her dressed in the splendid robes which ladies wear when called upon to attend on Queen's Victoria. She had been thus summoned, and was just about starting for the Queen's palace. She received the message from the hospital. There was no time to change her dress; so she threw a cloak over her, and hastened to the hospital. She spoke some encouraging words to the poor woman, and stood by her side till the operation was over, and the poor, suffering patient was made comfortable. Then the noble lady hastened to the palace. She apologized to the Queen for her delay in coming, and told her what had caused the delay. The good Queen praised her for kindly waiting on one of her suffering subjects before coming to wait on her. This was noble both in the Queen and in Lady Stanley.

The Air We Breathe.

"Whom fire spares, sea doth drown,
Whom sea, pestilent air doth send to clay,
Whom war escapes, sickness takes away."

Modern science, if it has not greatly mitigated the horrors of war, has, at least, shortened its duration. The sea has lost some of its terrors, and many diseases, formerly considered incurable, now yield to medical treatment. But the "pestilent air" (Malaria), seems to hold its own. Read the testimony of patients who have been cured of malarial diseases.

Irouton, Mo., Dec. 26, 1883.—DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"I will write for another of your Compound Oxygen Treatments. The last treatment was of great benefit, not only to me and my son, but to my daughter, fourteen years of age. She lay dangerously ill with typhoid malaria. I got so disgusted with the strong medicines, that I quit all before she was able to sit up, and gave her the Compound Oxygen, and she improved slowly at first, but in a short time was the picture of health, looking better than before."

Send for our brochure of 200 pages. It will give you scores of testimonials, a history of Compound Oxygen, its nature, discovery and results. Besides, it is an interesting work, thoughtfully, carefully and conscientiously written. Address the sole manufacturers of genuine Compound Oxygen, DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans,

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, J. BORN, F. STRINGER, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $504,376.52.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - - $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, Jr., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

COME unto me, all ye that labor, and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me: for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.—Matthew xi, 28, 29, 30.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

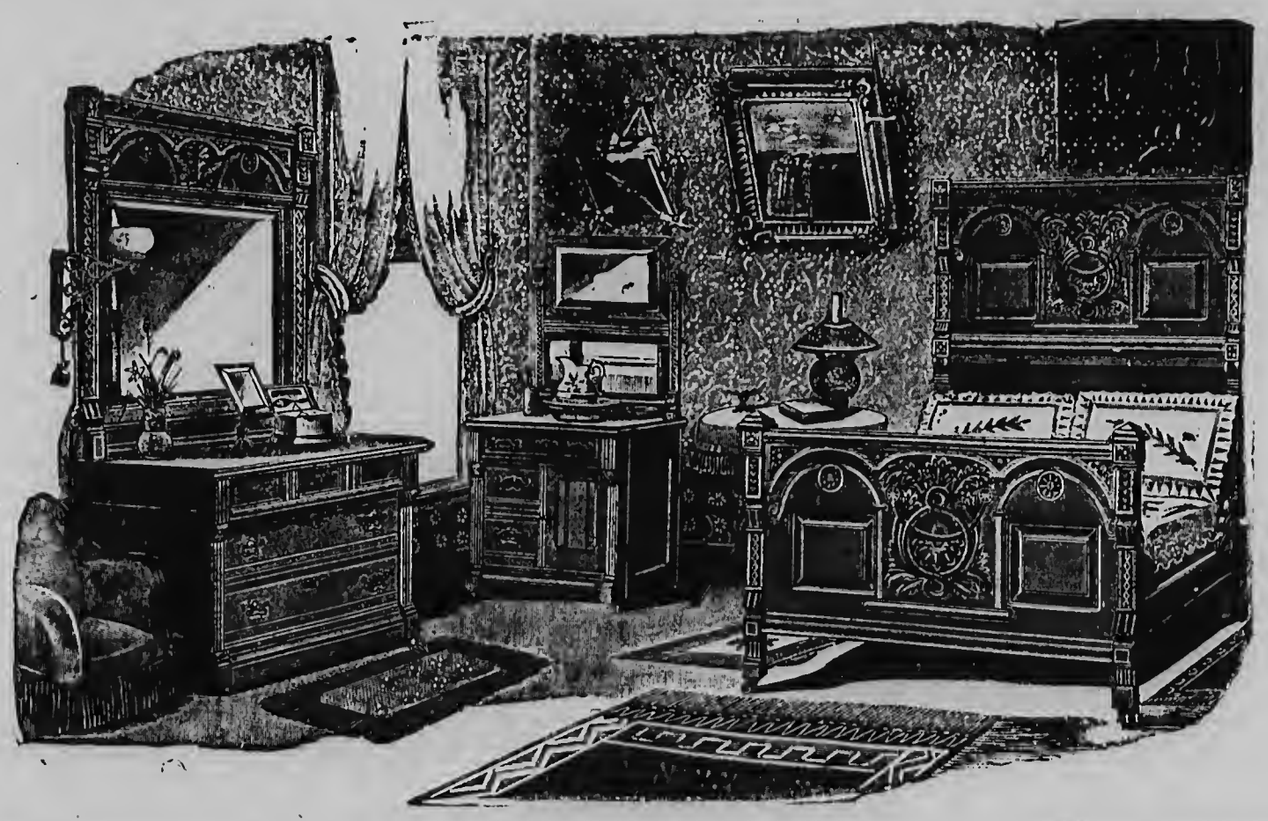
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Velours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

In all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Myrtle, at Pleasant Grove	Jan. 10, 11
Cornersville, at Potts' Camp	17, 18
Shelby Creek, at Pisgah	24, 25
Red Banks	31, Feb. 1
Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove	7, 8
Early Grove, at Sylvestila	15, 16
Ashland	22, 23
Olive Branch	28, Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony	7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. HOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Shannon, at Shannon	Jan. 10, 11
Okolona sta	17, 18
Pontotoc, at Pontotoc	24, 25
Prairie, at Muldon	31, Feb. 1
Nettleton, at Union	7, 8
Saltillo, at Mooresville	14, 15
Smithville and Fulton, at Greenbriar	21, 22
Aberdeen	Mar. 1, 2
Fremont, at New Salem	7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	13

J. B. STONE, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Columbus circuit, at New Hope	Jan. 10, 11
Columbus station	11, 12
Hebron, at Center Point	17, 18
Macon	18, 19
Sumpulak, at Salem	23
Mashulaville, at Macedonia	24, 25
Crawford, at Crawford	30
Brooksville, at Brooksville	31, Feb. 1
Starkville circuit, at Smyrna (Thu.)	5
Tampico circuit, at Silvan	7, 8
Plattsburg circuit, at Center Ridge	13
Louisville circuit, at Louisville	14, 15
Sturges circuit, at Bethel	20
Chester circuit, at Chester	21, 22
Maben circuit, at Maben	27
Walthall circuit, at Walthall	28, Mar. 1

The district stewards will meet at West Point, at ten A. M., Tuesday, January 13, 1891.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Winona sta	Jan. 10, 11
Winona cir	15
Greenwood sta	17, 18
Kelzona cir	20
Poplar Creek cir	22
Vaiden cir	24, 25
Sallis cir	29
Richland cir	31, Feb. 1
Ebenezer	7, 8
Newport	14
Weir	15
Ethel	15, 16
West	21, 22
Rural Hill	24
Lexington	28, Mar. 1
Black Hawk	7, 8

The district stewards will please meet me in Winona, at the Methodist Church, Tuesday, January 27, at eleven A. M.

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Shaw	Jan. 10, 11
Cleveland	17, 18
Concordia	24, 25
Australia	Feb. 1, 2
Friar's Point	7, 8
Lula	14, 15
Jonestown	21, 22
Belen	Mar. 1, 2
Rolivar	7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Ccahoma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lehrton	Apr. 4, 5

District stewards' meeting at Greenville, January 28, nine o'clock A. M. A full attendance is much desired.

R. M. STANDEFER.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Minter City	Jan. 10, 11
McNutt	17, 18
Water Valley	24, 25
Grenada	Feb. 1
Charleston	7, 8
Tillatoba	14, 15
Coffeeville	21, 22
Oxford	Mar. 1
Tocopola	(Tues.) 3
Abbeville	7, 8
Water Valley cir	(Fri.) 13
Banner	14, 15
Carrollton	21, 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Quarry Hill	(Wed.) 8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Kossuth circuit at Kossuth	Jan. 10, 11
Iuka circuit, at Liberty	15
Harmony circuit, at Harmony	17, 18
Booneville and Rienzi, at Booneville	24, 25
Marietta circuit at Marietta	29
Pleasant Ridge circuit, at New Hope	31, Feb. 1
Corinth circuit, at Mt. Carmel	5
Blackland circuit, at Wesley Chapel	7, 8
Blue Springs circuit, at Blue Springs	14, 15
Jonesboro circuit, at Ebenezer	19
Ripley and New Albany, at Ripley	21, 22
Guntown circuit, at Guntown	28, Mar. 1
Ripley circuit, at Paine's Chapel	5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove	7, 8

District stewards will please meet at Booneville, January 13, eleven A. M. A full attendance is desired.

W. S. LAGRONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Senatobia (Sat. and Sun.)	Jan. 10, 11
Batesville (Sat. and Sun.)	17, 18
Panola circuit (Thurs.)	22
Como (Sat. and Sun.)	24, 25
Cold Water mission (Thurs.)	29
Lewisburg (Sat. and Sun.)	31, Feb. 1
Cold Water and Hernando (Sa., Su.)	7, 8
Arkabutla (Thurs.)	12
Pleasant Grove (Sat. and Sun.)	14, 15
Cocamp (Thurs.)	19
Courtland (Sat. and Sun.)	21, 22
Horn Lake (Thurs.)	26
Chulahoma (Sat. and Sun.)	28, Mar. 1
Mt. Vernon (Sat. and Sun.)	7, 8

District stewards will please meet in Senatobia, at the Methodist Church, nine o'clock A. M., Jan. 21, 1890.

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Mansfield	Jan. 10, 11
Caddo, at Keachie	14
Shreveport and Mission	17, 18
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	24, 25
Pleasant Hill, at Beulah	31, Feb. 1
Mooringsport, at Mooringsport	7, 8
South Bossier, at Fillmore	14, 15
DeSoto, at Bethel	21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Holly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 2d. HOBT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Simsport, at Simsport	Jan. 10, 11
Bayou Boeuff, at Fairview	17, 18
Spring Creek, at Camp Ground	24, 25
Sugar Town, at Dry Creek	31, Feb. 1
Alexandria	7, 8
Pineville, at Hickory Grove	14, 15
Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	18, 19
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassau	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Hoyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Henlah	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Alexandria, February 7, 1891.

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Carrollton and Gretna	Jan. 11
Dryades Street	18
Pinquemine and Donaldsonville, at P.	25
Algiers	Feb. 1
Moreau Street	8
Baton Rouge	15
Gross Tete and False River, at Har'y	22
Crops Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma, at Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12-15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Plaquemine Brulee	Jan. 10, 11
Lafayette	17, 18
Opelousas and Washington	24, 25
Patterson and Morgan City	31, Feb. 1
Franklin	7, 8
Lake Arthur	14, 15
Lake Charles	21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Lafayette, January 16, 1891. JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Haynesville, at Haynesville	Jan. 10, 11
Summerfield	17, 18
Arcadia, at Arcadia	24, 25
Ruston, at Ruston	31, Feb. 1
Vernon, at Vernon	7, 8
Gansville	14, 15
Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

District stewards will please meet me at Arcadia, January 24. A full attendance of official members earnestly desired.

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lind Grove, at Bartholomew	Jan 10, 11
Bastrop, at Bastrop	17, 18
Oak Ridge, at Prairie	24, 25
Richland, at Girard	31, Feb. 1
Delhi, at Delhi	7, 8
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	14, 15
Waterproof, at Waterproof	21, 22
Providence, at Providence	28, Mar. 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

District stewards will meet at Delhi, February 7. H. O. WHITE, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Fannin, at Fannin	Jan. 10, 11
Brandon, at Brandon	11, 12
Clarksburg, at New Providence	17, 18
Forest and Morton, at Morton	18, 19
Homewood, at Grange Hall	24, 25
Lake, at Lake	31, Feb. 1
Rose Hill, at Rose Hill	7, 8
Newton and Hickory, at Hickory	8, 9
Westville, at Pleasant Hill	14, 15
Shiloh, at Cato	21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron	10
Marvin, at Marvin	14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	21, 22
Raleigh, at Trinity	28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton	29, 30

The district stewards will meet in Forest, Wednesday, Jan. 21. Let every charge be represented. P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Natchez, Jefferson Street	Jan. 10, 11
Natchez, Wesley Chapel	10, 11
Washington, at Washington (Mou.)	12
Fayette, at Fayette	17, 18
Martin, at Cane Ridge	24, 25
Port Gibson	25, 26
Mayersville, at Beulah	Feb. 1, 2
Warren, at Oak Ridge	7, 8
Rolling Fork, at Carey	15, 16
Rocky Springs, at Hermonville	21, 22
Burtonton, at Pisgah (Mon.)	23
Ethea, at Ullen (Wed.)	25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 22

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Woodville station	Jan. 10, 11
Percy's Creek station	12
North Wilkinson, at Mt. Carmel	16
Gloster and Centerville, at Gloster	17, 18
Amite circuit, at Mt. Vernon	19
Mayon Sara, at Concord	24, 25
Knot Feliciana, at Independence	—, Feb. 1
St. Helena, at McLean's Chapel	7, 8
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	14, 15
Live Oak, at Palmetto	17
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent	19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson station	25
Clinton station	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Talisheek	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Springfield, at Kirkian Chapel	21, 22
Amite City, at Amite City	23

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Flora and Brownsville, at Flora	Jan. 10, 11
First Church, Jackson (Wed. night)	14
Capitol street, Jackson (Thu. night)	15
Ree Lake station	17, 18
Sharon, at Mt. Pleasant	(Sat.) 24
Camden, at Camden	(Sun.) 25
Mt. Olivet, at Fletcher	31, Feb. 1
Bentonia and Dover, at Bentonia	7, 8
Vazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel	14, 15
Vazoo City station (Sun. night, Mon.)	15, 16
Benton, at Bowman's	21, 22
Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

The district stewards will meet in the Sunday-school room of the First Church, Jackson, on Wednesday, Jan. 14, 1891, at eleven o'clock A. M.

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

Hood's Calendar for 1891 is out, and it is certainly a beautiful production of the lithographers' and printers' arts. The subject represents three children playing musical instruments, and the posillons, expressions, coloring and general finish make a most charming picture. But to be appreciated, it must be seen. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla Calendar, or send six cents in stamps for one copy, or ten cents for two, to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	6 11-10 @	— —
Ordinary	7 3-16	— —
Good ordinary	7⅝	— —
Low middling	8⅝	— —
Middling	9	— —
Good middling	10⅛	— —
Middling fair	11	— —
Fair	11¾	— —
Galveston middling	9 5-16	— —
Mobile middling	8⅞	— —
Memphis middling	9	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	— —	3 11-16
Fully fair	3⅝	3⅝
Good fair	3⅜	3⅝
Common	3⅛	3¼
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3	4 13-16
Prime yellow	— —	4 9-16
Gray white	4¾	— —
Choice white	4⅞	4 15-16
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	30
Fair	15	20
Good common	15	20
SYRUP	20	25
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	4½	4⅝
Fair	4¼	4⅜
Prime	4¾	5
Rough, ₩ bbl	2 00	4 00
POLISH, ₩ ton	20 00	— —
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 00	5 10
Fancy	4 60	4 75
Choice	— —	— —
Minnesota Patents	5 75	5 90
Winter wheat patents	5 25	5 37½
Minnesota bakers	5 00	5 25
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 00	— —
Cream meal	3 35	— —
Grits	3 40	— —
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₩ bushel	— —	64
Yellow	— —	64
Mixed No. 2	63	64
OATS:
Western	54	55
Texas rust-proof	57	58
BRAN:
₩ cwt	1 10	1 15
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 50
Choice	15 50	18 50
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	9 75	— —
Prime Mess	10 25	10 50
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8	8½
Shoulders	5¼	5⅜
Sides, short rib	6¼	— —
Sides, long clear	6¼	— —
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9¾	10
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅜	4½
Sides, short rib	— —	— —
Sides, long clear	5½	5⅝
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
No. No	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	— —	31
Western Dairy	18	20
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5¼	5⅜
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9¼	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	20	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₩ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₩ 100	8 00	10 00
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 00	4 25
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	4 00	4 50
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₩ yard	7¾	8
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₩ yard	6¾	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 85	1 87½
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	5 00
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 75	2 75
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	23	24
Southern	26	27
WOOL:
Lake, ₩ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₩ lb	3	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, January 6.

Cuticura Soap

FOR BAD COMPLEXIONS RED ROUGH HANDS AND BABY HUMORS.

BAD COMPLEXIONS, WITH PIMPLY, blotchy, oily skin, Red, Rough Hands, with chaps, painful finger ends and shapeless nails, and simple Baby Humors prevented and cured by CUTICURA SOAP. A marvelous beautifier of world-wide celebrity, it is simply incomparable as a Skin Purifying Soap, unequalled for the Toilet and without a rival for the Nursery. Absolutely pure, delicately medicated, exquisitely perfumed, CUTICURA SOAP produces the whitest, clearest skin, and softest hands and prevents inflammation and clogging of the pores, the cause of pimples, blackheads, and most complexional disfigurations, while it admits of no comparison with the best of other skin soaps, and rivals in delicacy the most noted and expensive of toilet and nursery soaps. Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin soaps.

Sold throughout the world. Price, 25 cents.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Address POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Aching sides and back, weak kidneys, and rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER 25 cents.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO. DETROIT, MICH.

Largest Seedsmen in the world

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

General Miles has assumed command of the troops in the Indian country in person. Gen. Brooke, at the head of a detachment, is in the field.

A disastrous fire in the heart of New York City destroyed a whole block upon Broadway, on Jan. 3. Two theatres and a dozen stores were destroyed.

The steamboat E. W. Cole struck a snag and sunk at the Homestead Plantation, in St. James parish, last week. No lives lost and a portion of the cargo saved.

Twenty families of colored people have left Kemper county, Miss., for Oklahoma, I. T. It is said that this is the beginning of an exodus of colored people from the South to Oklahoma.

School-houses and churches are being burned in the Indian country by the hostiles. Several engagements between the troops and Indians have been reported, in which numbers were killed on both side.

The use of Kochine in the treatment of cases of leprosy and cancer appears just now to be of far greater interest to New York physicians than its administration in purely tuberculosis diseases. The pronounced reactions produced by it upon patients suffering from cancer in the New York cancer hospital has attracted attention not only in New York, but also in Europe.

The action of the Senate in displacing the Elections bill with the Financial bill was a complete surprise to the friends of the former measure, and several of the Republican silver senators who voted for the motion say it was without prior knowledge on their part. The Financial bill must now be displaced by a direct vote and has the coign of vantage, heretofore occupied by the Elections bill.

Chief Justice Bleckley has decided that the Antioch Baptist Church, Ga., must be sold to pay the salary of the preacher. In his decision, among other things, he said: "We think a court may well constrain this church to do justice. It is certainly an energetic measure to sell the church to pay the preacher, nor would it be allowable to do so if other means of satisfying the debts were within reach."

Captain John Betts, of the Cromwell Line steamer New Orleans, engaged in the New York and New Orleans trade, was given in Washington two beautiful presents, one from the Emperor of Germany and the other from the King of Norway and Sweden, which are conferred upon him in recognition of his gallant services in the rescue of the crew of a German bark in 1877, and the crew of a Norwegian bark in 1882.

FOREIGN.

The railroad strike in Scotland is about ended. The men have returned to work on the company's terms.

The Shah of Persia recently paid a visit to the American missionaries in Teheran, and evinced the greatest interest in the methods of the mission school.

It is said that the Pope has consented to act as mediator between Belgium and Portugal in connection with the disputes as to frontier limitations between the Congo Free State and Angola.

Mr. O'Brien will not resume his conference with Mr. Parnell unless the proposed negotiations obtain such sanction from the leaders of the majority of the Irish party as will justify the hope of a reunion of the party.

A disastrous explosion has taken place in a coal pit in Westphalia, Germany. The total number of lives lost is unknown. The bodies of two men killed and nine injured have been recovered from the pit, but it is feared that a number of other miners have perished.

The postal clerks of London have decided to go on a strike. The movement is nominally to test the question whether working over time shall be voluntary or not, but virtually it is a protest against the increased employment of female clerks. Many clerks who have been dismissed and their places filled with women had been in the service twenty years.

Since the excitement and bitterness attending the recent factional fight in the parliamentary division of North Kilkenny, which resulted in the decisive defeat of the Parnellite candidate, has had time to cool down, the prospects for an amicable settlement of the differences existing among the Irish leaders have considerably improved. The recent conference between O'Brien and Parnell in France is said to have been harmonious.

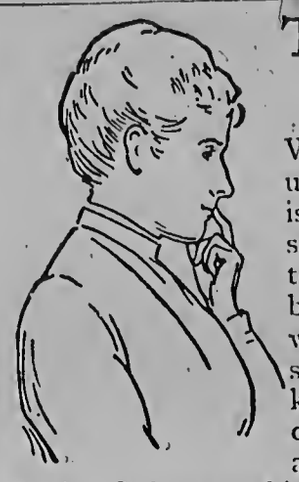
The Daily Telegraph (London), in the issue of Jan. 2, invites the followers of Mr. Gladstone to recognize manfully the distasteful fact that home rule for Ireland is defunct. The present policy of the liberal party, the Telegraph thinks, is certain to give way to a different programme, while the party itself will at the same time have to make new combinations. "After the next election," says the Telegraph, "home rule will barely be represented in Parliament, and will sink to the level of the radical fads—socialism, total abstinence and the vaccination craze."

Does Experience Count?

It does, in every line of business, and especially in compounding and preparing medicines. This is illustrated in the great superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla over other preparations, as shown by the remarkable cures it has accomplished.

The head of the firm of C. I. Hood & Co. is a thoroughly competent and experienced pharmacist, having devoted his whole life to the study and actual preparation of medicines. He is also a member of the Massachusetts and American Pharmaceutical Associations, and continues actively devoted to supervising the preparation of and managing the business connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hence the superiority and peculiar merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is built upon the most substantial foundation. In its preparation there is represented all the knowledge which modern research in medical science has developed, combined with long experience, brain-work, and experiment. It is only necessary to give this medicine a fair trial to realize its great curative value.



There must be some reason for it

We never have compelled anyone to use Pearline. We'd like to, but it isn't feasible. Besides, it isn't necessary. Millions use Pearline, and have tested and proved it. It's too old to be unknown, if it were a fraud, but where is the thing as popular and yet so young? If you know Pearline, you know the reason. In all washing and cleaning, there's nothing that saves as much labor and does as much work. It hurts nothing, saves wear on everything, costs no more than common soap and is more economical. Reasons enough for most women; think, are they not good enough for you?

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 176 JAMES PYLE, New York.

PIANOS P. WERLEIN, ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

Mention this paper.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition

PIANOS From $25 Upwards.

ORGANS From $20 Upwards.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

H. Dudley Coleman Co., Lim'd

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS.

Telephone—Office and Foundry, 688.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO., Limited, or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.

SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF

"High Grade Bone Fertilizers."

"Stern's" Ammoniated Bone Superphosphate.

"Stern's" Pure Ground Bone.

"Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate.

DISSOLVED BONE.

ACID PHOSPHATE.

Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc.

BONE BLACK.

X-MAS CARDS, BOOKLETS, PRESENTS!

CHOICE! ELEGANT!

Call and examine my stock before buying.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,

106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

N. C. Y. L. - 407!

N. C. Y. L. Patronage, 407 pupils from 15 States

THE NASHVILLE (Tenn.) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES is the leading Southern school for girls. Crowded all the fall; patronage refused for want of room. A few vacancies open for Second Term, which begins Jan. 19, 1891.

Apply at once to

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D., Pres't.

Opelousas Female Institute

Twenty dollars per month will pay for board, washing, fuel, lights, tuition and music at this Institute.

Persons desirous of placing their daughters or wards in a quiet, healthy home will do well to correspond for further particulars with Mrs. M. M. HAYES, PRIN., Opelousas, La.

Millwood Female Institute

JACKSON, LA.

This Boarding and Day School for Young Ladies is delightfully situated amid the hills of East Feliciana, five miles from Ethel, on the Mississippi Valley railroad. Collegiate Course complete. Seventy-five dollars will cover all expenses for a term of twenty weeks. Music, Languages, and Art extra. School opens September 1. Send for Catalogue.

(MISS) M. MCCALMONT, Prin.

Mansfield Female College

Conservatory of Music and Art.

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most popular and flourishing Institutions of the South. The Sixty-seventh Session opens September 10, 1890, and the Spring Term begins January 28, 1891, with an able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. The pianos are new and of the best make. The Tecumseh and the Techniphone are used to facilitate the work in the music department, placing the department beyond competition. Department of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

The location is unsurpassed for beauty and attractiveness, and the school is celebrated for its remarkable record for good health maintained. The climate is the best in which to educate, as the place is the safest for girls. The main building is of brick, massive and commodious, with large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, warmed and ventilated. Ample provision for the table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical. A new building with a large audience hall in contemplation, and extensive improvements in progress to make this the grandest institution in the State.

For catalogue and particulars address

A. B. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Mississippi Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wilson, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 3. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1795.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

FROM "THE DIARY OF AN OLD SOUL"

BY GEORGE M'DONALD.

"Thy will be done." I yield up everything.
"The life is more than meat"—then more than health;
"The body more than raiment"—then, than wealth;
The hairs I made not, thou art numbering.
Thou art my life—I the brook, thou the Spring.
Because thine eyes are open, I can see;
Because thou art thyself, 'tis, therefore, I am me.

No sickness can come near to blast my health;
My life depends not upon any meat;
My bread comes not from any human filth;
No wings will grow upon my changeless wealth:
Wrong can not touch it, violence or deceit;
Thou art my life, my health, my bank, my barn:
And from all other gods thou plain dost warn.

Care thou for mine whom I must leave behind:
Care, that they know who 'tis for them takes care;
Thy present patience help them still to bear;
Lord, keep them cleaving, growing, heart and mind;
In one, thy oneness us together bind.
Last earthly prayer with which to thee I cling;
Grant that, save love, we owe not anything.
—The Dawn.

The Religious Newspaper.

The invention of printing started a power to work among men, whose influence has been broadening and whose momentum has been increasing until this day. To-day the most tremendous fact in Christendom is the power of the newspaper. What makes this fact the more awful is, that this power may exert itself for evil as well as, and as much as, for good. The newspaper may be used with telling effect for righteousness, and it may be used with like effect for unrighteousness. The reason of this is, that the newspaper inspires, and then leads public thought; it creates, and then molds public sentiment; and in a country like ours public thought and sentiment are the real rulers—"the power behind the throne." This being the case, every newspaper "which makes for righteousness" deserves the sympathy and support and prayers of every lover of his race, for it is only in the spread and practice of righteousness that the highest good of the individual and the State can be attained.

Every true church paper is on the side of righteousness. It gives support to right; it battles for truth against error; it speaks out in the great cause of humanity; it seeks to mold public sentiment into a godly frame, and to infuse into the public conscience the tenderest regard for moral obligation, and to lead public thought into the healthful atmosphere of intellectual and spiritual independence. The religious newspaper, as a factor in training the mental faculties and developing the spiritual nature into a rounded completeness after the pattern of our blessed Lord, has an educational value which can not be computed.

In church work it is an ally whose help can not be dispensed with without detriment to the cause of God. In pastoral duties it is a helper whose weekly visits have enabled the pastor to lead forth many souls into the rich pasturage of Christian experience. Its bugle-call is heard ringing along the line of battle, calling the soldiers of the cross to the front, and inspiriting them with a holy daring which God delights to see. Ever watchful of the foe, it is the first to sound the note of alarm at the approach of danger, and the very first to strike the loud timbrel when the Lord triumphs over his enemies. Faithful to its trust, its warning words wake up souls sleeping over the tremendous issues of probation, and its encouraging tones infuse fresh courage into the minds of those who have become wearied in the terrific fight against sin. The religious newspaper scatters the flowers of hope along the pathway of childhood, awakes to vigorous life the religious convictions of young manhood, molds the blushing beauty of young womanhood into a "form divine," matures the intelligent faith of those who "bear the heat and burden of the day," supports with loving tenderness the tottering steps of age, and embalms in its columns the holy memories of the sainted dead.

This, brother, is the first instalment of the exhortation to induce you to work with wisdom and courage and patience and faith to give the religious newspaper a wider circulation than ever before. THE EDITOR.

Unfaithful Officials.

There is nothing more important to the community than a firm enforcement of the law. The whole fabric of society is dependent upon it. No matter whether the law is "good, bad, or indifferent," its enforcement is necessary to civil and social stability. The administration of law has an educational value in a community whose far-reaching results few people seem to comprehend. In these days there are many laws on the statute book which are really "dead letters." They are as effectually nil as if they never had an existence. One of the most notable is the Sunday law, as applied to this city. It is entirely ignored by everyone who don't want to keep it, and very little is said by those who favor its execution.

It is a curious question in connection with the utter disregard for the enforcement of any law, What has become of the oath which every law officer has taken to enforce the law of the land? When the police, from the highest down to the least one on the force, entirely ignore the Sunday law; when they know that it is openly violated in thousands of instances in this city every Sunday, and yet they make no effort to enforce it, what do the people think of the law officers' regard for the sanctity of the oath which they have taken? Are not these people teaching the community that a solemn oath taken to enforce the law means nothing? Are they not educating the community to believe that you need not keep the law unless you want to?

If this can be done without rebuke, then why should any law be a law? Why put ourselves to work to enforce any statute? Why not every man do as is best in his own eyes, without regard to any law of man or God? There seems to be no more motive to enforce one law than another; therefore, throw all laws to the wind! Well, that is the way it is going. One law entirely ignored "lets down the gap," and had men feel that they can break all others without fear of being called to account. Such is the state of the case now in this city. The non-enforcement of the Sunday law and other laws has made bad men bolder in their badness, and wickedness is rampant with no fear of the police before its eyes. To such a condition have we come that even the Picayune can no longer hold its peace. It brings some very grave accusations, and makes some severe insinuations against the law officers of this city. Perhaps these gentlemen would listen to the Picayune, if they do scorn to turn a listening ear to a religious journal. It seems that some one, favoring the enforcement of the Sunday law, had written a communication on the subject, whereupon the Picayune speaks as follows:

Elsewhere we print a letter from a barber on the question of closing the barber shops on Sunday.

The object of this correspondent is to secure the closing of barber shops on that day. He demands it on the just grounds that the barbers, whose hours of work are very long at best, are entitled to Sunday rest. The difficulty in the way of this closing is that some of the shops are kept open, and they carry off the customers and business of those that close. This virtually forces others, who would prefer to close their shops, to keep open against their own inclination. A man does not like to drive away his customers by refusing them the accommodation they can get elsewhere, and, therefore, many of the barbers are forced to work on Sunday, when the proprietors of shops would be glad to close them. It is necessary to secure a common agreement among all shop bosses, in order to inaugurate the adoption of a uniform custom of Sunday closing.

It sounds strange to hear these matters discussed when there is a State law positively commanding that the barber shops be closed on Sunday. But this law counts for nothing, because it is utterly disregarded by the authorities. It is impossible to get the law executed. No arrests are made; but if they were, there would be no prosecutions. The authorities refuse to pay the slightest attention to the law, and it will, therefore, be impossible for our correspondent to secure any uniform action in regard to Sunday closing. Matters will go on just as they are.

As far as the wickedness or criminality goes of a barber shaving a customer on Sunday, we can positively see nothing in it contrary to morality or good order; but since there is a law on the subject, it would be supposed that the officials who have solemnly sworn to execute the laws would pay some respect to them. But they set the example of lawlessness, and it would be manifestly out of the question to expect others to regard what the custodians of public order constantly neglect and violate.

Mark the words! The law is "utterly disregarded by the authorities;" "the authorities refuse to pay the slightest attention to the law;" the officials "set the example of lawlessness," and they have "solemnly sworn to execute the laws." These are very grave charges, and one of two things ought to result. Either these "officials" should contradict and disprove the charges, or the district attorney, backed by the people, should call these "officials" to answer before the criminal court.

The Impending Conflict with the Gambling Evil.

We read in Acts, second chapter, how, when the disciples were all with one accord in one place, they were filled with the Holy Ghost. There this promise was first fulfilled, and they were given that mighty spiritual power that enabled them to begin the conversion of the world to Christ. For many years there has not been in Louisiana such a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit as promised by Christ to those who ask it, and such as is recorded to have been granted to the waiting and praying disciples in the book of Acts. Is it because the Christians of Louisiana have not entirely deserved and earnestly asked for the gift of the Spirit of God?

A mighty conflict with the powers of darkness will be waged during this year of our Lord (1891), and the first four months of 1892, in which every man and woman will, of necessity, be engaged on one side or the other, because all the moral and spiritual force of society will be enlisted in it. The Lottery gambling concern is seeking a new lease of its baneful life and power for twenty-five years after the first of January, 1892, when, under existing statute, its charter expires. For twenty-two years past this octopus has been sucking the life-blood of the people. By its seductive temptations it has taught our women and children to gamble. It has raised up and trained a generation of gamblers. It has taught the people to abandon industry, economy and thrift, and to rely upon gambling for prosperity. It makes gambling easy, and brings its seductive temptations within the reach of countless thousands, who would never otherwise be tempted. Gambling not only impoverishes those who habitually engage in it, but it sears the conscience, hardens the heart, blunts and finally destroys the moral sense, until the gambler loses the ability of distinguishing between right and wrong. Evil becomes his good.

Every dollar poured into the capacious maw of this all-devouring Lottery is a dollar less of food and clothes and books for the children of the poor; is a dollar less for the cause of Christ and his church; a dollar less for Christ's poor, and a dollar more for the corruption fund to buy legislators and other public servants.

The government, in its legislative, judicial and executive departments, is society's organ of justice, the expression of the public conscience. Thus, this lottery gambling institution has corrupted the very conscience of organized society by bribing the legislators, by dictating by its money power the nomination of certain public officers. Can Christian men remain silent and inert in such a conflict as is impending? The hearts of all men are in the hands of God. He can turn them whithersoever he will. In such a moral, social and political conflict as is now upon us, we need first, and above all things, the outpouring of the Holy Spirit of God. We want that elevation of soul, that spiritual and moral power that makes men's hearts red-hot with the love of God, of Christ, and of his truth, and with love of mankind. This is to be had for the asking. Then let the Christians of Louisiana meet together with one accord in the places where they are accustomed to worship, and unite in public supplication for a great and abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon them, with special reference to this conflict with the power of evil. With such moral and spiritual power, the victory will be won!—Southwestern Presbyterian.

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 7, 1891.

"Nations and Their Rulers" is the subject for to-day in the annual week of prayer, which began with last Sunday in every civilized nation, and which was originated in far-away India more than thirty years ago by an invitation from the Christians of Sodiana Mission to all other Christians to join them in a week of prayer, that "God would pour out his Spirit on all flesh, so that all the ends of the earth might see his salvation."

When one reads the telegraphic news from the Indian reservations in the Northwest, it can not fail to impress upon his mind the need which this nation and its rulers have for the prayers of all Christians; therefore, it is a consolation to know that in every country in the civilized world, and in many that are only beginning to feel the first quickening effects of those twin sisters of light, Christianity and Civilization, good men and women are to-day offering orisons to the great Ruler in behalf of our nation and its rulers; and the knowledge inspires the hope that the authorities of the United States may be governed by true Christian charity and a forgiving spirit, and not by the savage and pagan idea of revenge, in their future dealings with the Indian.

The thought should never for a moment be lost sight of, that the United States is, in sentiment, if not in law, a Christian nation, and that our every act, be it for good or bad—there have already been too many bad ones—in dealing with a race far below the Anglo-Saxon in the scale of civilization, is telegraphed to the furthermost parts of the world, and analyzed with critical care by people who have been educated to look to America for that exact justice between man and man which Jesus taught his followers. Let us not disappoint the people who regard us as forming the front rank of the world's grand army of Christianity and enlightenment; rather let us justify that regard by our acts.

There is a disposition to justify unchristian acts upon the part of our officials in their dealings with the Indians by citing the acts of other nations in dealing with inferior or weaker races. Such a justification is worse than none at all, because it carries an implied approval of acts of which the nations that permitted them have become heartily ashamed, and of which no American has ever approved. If we are worthy, as a nation, to continue in the vanguard of the army of Christianity and civilization, let us demonstrate it to the world by our treatment of the Indians. It is a grand opportunity; we can not remain stationary, but must go backward or forward. Let every Christian pray that it may be forward.

Rev. Dr. Green Clay Smith, of Kentucky, who has accepted the pastorship of a Washington church, is a decided acquisition to both the religious and temperance people of the national capital. He has always been distinguished as a hard worker, and his wide personal experience as a soldier, teacher, congressman, prohibition candidate for President, and preacher, has given him advantages possessed by few men.

Postmaster General Wanamaker made a strong appeal to the audience at the Central Union Mission, Sunday night, to come out of a degraded and sinful life, and pursue the better way.

A temperance mass meeting, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., was held Sunday afternoon. Among the speakers were Dr. A. B. Leonard, of New York; Rev. Anna Shaw, and Representative Pickler, of South Dakota. It is particularly gratifying to note the large number of our public men who are aiding, by word and example, the cause of temperance at the capital.

The Epworth League.

This wise plan, arranged by the committee to interest and utilize the members, especially the younger portion, of our church, is destined to move Methodism closer to her great work of evangelizing the world than any step recently taken. It means complying with the motto, "All at it, and always at it." This effort, if rightly used, will bind our people more piously and intelligently to our doctrines, so that losses by our young people joining other churches will lessen year by year, because this important class of our membership will be thoroughly taught our doctrines, and introduced practically into Christian fellowship and work.

The three departments provided in the Constitution should be the means of attracting all kinds of church members, and others attending our Sunday-schools and churches, into all phases of Christ-life.

While many previous efforts in this direction have been in part successful, this promises progress and results unmeasured by finite thought, because it has in its plan the serving one another by love.

This should locally develop the connectional idea which in many places is not maintained as it should be. To do this may be easy, particularly in the New Orleans district, where the preachers will, doubtless, at once organize "Epworth Leagues" in their respective charges. Let there be, as an outgrowth of these separate leagues, a union league—say, composed of the officers and such delegates as may be elected by each league—which shall meet once every six months to discuss plans and methods of work, and once a year arrange an Epworth League celebration.

To bind these together, and give life and vigor to this movement, we must have a definite object of equal value to all. As this object, we suggest the establishment of a Methodist Home, where the poor, sick, needy men, women and children can be comfortably and economically provided for under the care of our own people.

Similar objects for binding circuits, districts and Annual Conferences will, doubtless, suggest themselves to the many Christian workers, clerical and lay, in our branch of Methodism. Let us hear from the brethren on this new departure. M.

In Memoriam.

MRS. ALICE C. HALE died in this city, on January 7, in the forty-eight year of her age; the wife of Doctor S. E. Hale, and daughter of the late R. W. Rayne. She leaves a husband, three children, and many affectionate relatives and connections to mourn her loss. She died after a long period of bad health: though active in the discharge of all the duties of life within two weeks of her death. She was a dutiful, loving daughter, a devoted wife and a watchful, painstaking, affectionate mother. She adorned the circle of her acquaintance with the graces of true sympathy and unfailing charity. She was firm in principle, and of high Christian integrity. To the poor, and, indeed, to all who needed help she was always a ready and thoughtful friend, giving constantly and freely. She inherited from her parents a generous disposition, which, like theirs, was baptized into the Spirit of the Master. She was developed and cultivated by the anointing of the Spirit of Love. There was nothing selfish, suspicious, or equivocal in her nature, but she was a joyous, ingenuous, hopeful Christian; only afraid lest she should not do enough for her Lord. But in a world of imperfectness who has shone forth more of the faith of Christ in all the evidences of a divine charity?

The honor of the church and the welfare of its people were always uppermost in her thoughts. She grew in the knowledge and experience of a renewed heart up to the very end of life. At the last she did not waver, but said: "All my life I have believed and trusted in the Lord; only I have been an unprofitable servant." She was intelligent, calm and tranquil at the approaches of death, as only a true believer can be. She looked to the gracious fullness and power of her Redeemer's blood, and trusted in that alone for acceptance and victory.

The full purpose of human life was contemplated by her during all its passage, and she held before her mind the one image and person of the Savior, until she achieved that sublime end, to glorify God in her body and spirit, which were his. Any sphere, every sphere of human existence is sufficient, by the Word of God, and the blood of the atonement, and the Spirit of Life, to accomplish this high aim. To have known her was a help and a blessing. Few persons of our knowledge could diffuse more brightness and cheerfulness in the circle where she moved. Her unselfishness and tender thoughtfulness were the sunshine of her loving nature, in all the offices of life, up to its close. Though suffering much, never a word of complaint passed her lips; only thanks for the least service that might be rendered her.

As the Savior reserved the brightest revelations of the unseen world until his last conversation with his disciples, so the triumphs of faith are specially seen in the dying hour of his saints. At the very point where the world suffers its last greatest defeat, amid the clouds that gather on the horizon, there the victory of the good man is fully assured, and he dies in the arms of Jesus.

When asked, "Have you no fear of death?" she replied: "Not the slightest fear. I know that I am in my dear Lord's hands. Whatever is his will is my will. I have always asked my dear Lord for grace, and to order my steps, and choose my changes."

Blessed be the Savior for this and all his mercies! Our people die well.

J. C. KEENER.

January 9, 1891.

Manhood, Not Scholarship.

The purpose of the college is to form manhood, and not scholarship; the purpose is to form manhood through scholarship. The public have not infrequently imagined that the purpose of the college is to promote scholarship. They have felt that this aim the college won, but won at the expense of manhood. They have, therefore, been inclined at times either to despise or to ridicule the college because of the unworthiness of its products. They have believed that the enlargement of the stores of knowledge furnish no adequate compensation for the dwarfing of physical energy, for the limitation of interest in human affairs, and for the apparent exhaustion of manhood. The type of the college man of a former time, conceived by the public, was a young man of big brow, sallow cheek, and weak knee. But opinion is changing rapidly for the better. The demand is becoming less common and less serious for scholarship, and the demand is becoming more common and more serious for manhood.

Such a change lies in the line with the best movements of the times. Such a change represents a proper largeness of conception of man's character and destiny. Scholarship is excellent; but scholarship is primarily a function of the intellect. The scholar is he whose intellect has the largest and most accurate knowledge. But the man is more than the scholar; the man stands for the heart as well as for the intellect, for the will and the conscience as well as for the acquiring and the reflective powers. It is also to be said that man represents the crown of the creation. To limit the discipline of his power to one range of faculties is unworthy of his place among created beings. The college is to be content with no purpose less broad or less high for man than God himself entertains for his creation—man.

The college man himself is tempted to be satisfied with scholarship. Memory is an agent of peculiar value in scholarship. It is one of the mental faculties capable of the easiest and apparently most astonishing training. The collegian is solicited, through his love of ease and his allurement toward short cuts to success, to cultivate the memory at the expense of the more important faculties. He is tempted to be first a scholar, and secondly a man. But against such unworthy limitations he is to brace himself. The college can not fulfill its function in American life if the collegian can not do his duty as an American citizen by being, or aiming to be, a scholar. He is far more than a treasury of facts. Let him aim to be a man.

The purpose of the college is not the purpose of the professional school. The purpose of the professional school is to fit one for a profession; its purpose is directly practical. In the school of law, or of medicine, the knowledge of these branches is an aim in itself; the knowledge fits the student for practice.

Let our colleges strive to form the finest members through the best scholarship; let our professional schools strive to form the best doctors and lawyers and architects through the securing of the finest training.—Advance.

BEQUEATHING AND GIVING.—Bequeathing is not giving; it is not parting with what you hold, for it is not bestowed till after death, when your stiffened hands can no longer hold; how can one give what has ceased to be his own? He can only divert his wealth from the heirs to whom it would go, under the statutes, in the absence of any will. So it is, the habit of bestowing posthumously—excluding those bequests which from the nature of the case can not be made available until the solemn hour of death—assumes and is actually credited with the character of virtue to which it is in no respect entitled. Already we see the terms "noble" and "generous" applied to a certain person's bequests by the daily press. But since nothing can be given which is not also taken away from the giver, and since nothing in the present case is taken away from the giver by any bequest, for he is already gone, how can he be credited with a generosity which takes nothing from him, or with nobility in bestowing what he can not use? The dying relinquish, but the dead have never yet been known to give.—Christian at Work.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JAN. 15, 1891.

AN OLD STORY WELL TOLD.

In Palestine, long years ago—
So runs the legend old—
Where Kedron's sparkling waters flow
Across their sands of gold,
And Mount Moriah lifts his head
Above the sunny plain,
Two brothers owned—as one—'tis said,
A field of golden grain.

And when the autumn days had come,
And all the shocks and sheaves
Stood waiting for the "harvest home,"
Among the withering leaves,
The elder brother said one night:
"I'm stronger far than Saul,
My younger brother. 'Tis but right
That I should give him all
These sheaves upon the plain
We own together, so
I'll put with his my stack of grain,
And he will never know."

Scarce had he left the sheaves of whiat
When quietly there came Across the field with stealthy feet,
On errand just the same,
The younger lad, who said: "I see
My brother Simon's need
Is greater far than mine, for he
Hath wife and child to feed;
And so to him I'll give my sheaves—
It is but right, I know;
And he will never think who leaves
These wheat stacks on his row."

Next morning, when the brothers twain
Began to count their store,
Behold! each found his stacks of grain
To number as before!
Why, how is this?" in great surprise
Each to himself then said.
"I'll watch to night to see who tries
Those tricks when I'm abed!"
And so, half way across the plain
They met—each one bent o'er
With shocks and sheaves of golden grain
To swell his brother's store!

God Saul and Simon! Would to-day
More brothers might be found
Who seek each other's good alway,
And in kind deeds abound.

From Wagoner, I. T.

We were transferred from the North Mississippi Conference at our last session by Bishop C. B. Galloway. We reached our home, or place of appointment, on Christmas night at 7:05 P. M.; found neither parsonage nor church. We are now boarding at the Valley House, until we can build a parsonage. The people are anxious for us to build at this place, and are giving very liberally to the cause. We will not be able to build without help; and if our brethren will present the cause to our people in Mississippi and elsewhere, we feel that they, knowing the importance of this mission field, will come to our rescue, and enable us to build both church and parsonage at Wagoner. Our town is situated where the K. M. and T., and St. L., I. M. and S. crosses in the Creek Nation, and is likely to be one of the largest towns in this country in a few years. It will be of great importance to us in our mission work to build now. The people here will help all they can, and will appreciate all that is done for them by their brethren. We have a few members here, and we expect to organize a society the second Sunday in this month. I will have five appointments, but only one organized society to commence with. Bros. Austin, P. E., and Brewer have been down to see us, and aid in getting a lot for church and parsonage. The cry is not only, "Come over and help us," but "send."

The brethren interested in the cause of Christ will please present this work to their people, and forward money to me at Wagoner, I. T. The amount received from each will be sent to the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE for publication.

We are laboring and praying that God may bring this people to the light and liberty of the children of God. Pray for us.

Your brother in Christ,

JOSEPH W. TREADWELL.

Peace or War.

The sentiment in favor of settling all national disputes and difficulties by arbitration rather than "the arbitrament of arms" is surely gaining influence in every section of the civilized world. Peace societies are being organized and peace congresses held in very many places. A great number of newspapers and magazines are zealously supporting this new departure, and everywhere with marked success. This, we believe, is the legitimate outgrowth of the wide dissemination of the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ, whose first word and whose last word is "peace"! We subjoin a short extract from an exchange showing the terrible waste and horror entailed by the last modern wars. Surely it is time for reasonable, sensible and civilized people to stop such carnage as is described in the extract.

According to the estimates of French and German statisticians there have perished in the wars of the last thirty years 2,500,000 men, while there has been expended to carry them on no less than the inconceivable sum of $13,000,000,000. Of this amount France has paid nearly $3,500,000,000 as the cost of the war with Prussia, while her loss in men is placed at 155,000. Of these 80,000 were killed on the field of battle, 36,000 died of sickness, accidents or suicide, and 20,000 in German prisons, while there died from other causes enough to bring the number up to the given aggregate. The sick and wounded amounted to 477,424, the lives of many thousands of whom were doubtless shortened by their illness or injuries. According to Dr. Roth, a German authority, the Germans lost during the war 60,000 men killed or rendered invalid and $600,000,000 in money, this being the excess of expenditure or of material losses over the $1,250,000,000 paid by France by way of indemnity. Dr. Engel, another German statistician, gives the following as the approximate cost of the principal wars of the last thirty years: Crimean war, $2,000,000,000; Italian war of 1859, $300,000,000; Prusso-Danish war of 1864, $35,000,000; Civil War in the United States (North), $5,100,000,000, (South), $2,300,000,000; Prusso-Austrian war of 1866, $330,000,000; Russo-Turkish war, $125,000,000; South African wars, $8,770,000; African war, $13,250,000; Servo-Bulgarian war, $176,000,000.

From the Work.

REHOBOTH, LA.

I wish to tell you how the spirit of religion has passed the trying season in our little church, Rehoboth, where Methodism is now new, and till yet hardly known or acknowledged as a Christian Church. One year to-day here was heads of families who never heard a Methodist preacher; so I, the writer, solicited Bro. B. H. Sheppard to visit this community, which he did in March. In June we organized with twelve members; in August, Bro. Mandeville, with Bro. Sheppard, held a meeting seven days, and raised our number to twenty-six, and before the Annual Conference we numbered thirty-one. Some have been discharged by letter. Our church is most all young people; but, so far as I now know, they are all true—true to the Lord and to the vows of the church. We have our weekly prayer meetings; we have one Sunday-school, and we are ready for preaching again.

Hope the new year (1891) will come showing forth the love of God in the beauty of holiness, and that the Lord will prosper his work here in our community, and all over the country wherever the name of Christ is preached.

JAMES GARRISON.

ABERDEEN, MISS.

Yesterday, the first Sunday of the year, 1891, was crowned with success. Eight persons united with our church by certificate, which was followed by the best communion service we have enjoyed. During the past year one hundred and seventy persons have joined our church. Our membership now numbers four hundred and ten. They paid for all purposes last year $6,500. We have enjoyed a revival in the church ever since Bro. Sam Jones was here last spring. One of the most remarkable means of grace in this charge is the "men's prayer meeting," every Monday night, with an average attendance of forty-five. Out of this prayer meeting God has called (within eight months) three promising young men to preach the gospel, and they are preparing for the work. One of these young men is a grandson of Bishop Paine. We expect great things from these young men. The cause of temperance grows all the time. We have two cases in the Supreme Court against saloons. Come to see us. Pray for us.

J. A. BOWEN.

A Long-Felt Want.

There is among us (as it were, in our midst) a long-felt want. What is wanted is a newspaper. But have we not already newspapers? Yes; but this is a newspaper of a peculiar kind. What is wanted is a religious newspaper that will express everybody's views, that will contain nothing from which anyone will ever dissent, which will publish all the sermons desired by the hearers or authors, which will plead everybody's cause, which will have all the articles printed in italics (except such as are printed in capitals), which will publish every article within two days after it is received, and which will put everybody's article in the first column on the first page, and will occupy the rest of the paper with directing attention to it.

Now, when such a paper as this is found among us, the Rambler does not hesitate to say that he will be willing to take one copy, at club rates, for ten years, payable at the expiration of the subscription, subject to renewal on the same terms, with a free copy thrown in.—National Baptist.

Singular.

Is it not a little singular, when a family feels constrained to practice a little more rigid economy in current expenses, that it commences the work of retrenchment in so many instances with the religious paper? Here is an expenditure of some five cents a week, giving in each issue nearly as much reading matter as the new volume that would cost one dollar. But the religious paper can be dispensed with, and this often in a family where there are many children to whom the paper represents the only pure and safe intellectual and moral stimulus. Why is it that, with so many, two dollars and fifty cents seems so large an amount when expended for a religious weekly, but so small and insignificant when devoted to some strictly selfish purpose, like luxuries in food and clothing, or some matter of personal amusement? Will those inclined to order their religious paper stopped, deliberate a little on the unreasonableness of such a course?—Zion's Herald.

Books and Periodicals.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

A YOUNG MACEDONIAN. By Rev. Alfred J. Church, M. A. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. Eyrich, New Orleans. Price, $1 25.

Mr. Church has written largely of ancient times. He is familiar with the manners and customs prevalent in Rome and Greece and Asia before the Christian era, and his style has a charm which causes the reader to linger delightfully over his pages. The Young Macedonian is a story connected with the stirring events of the reign of Alexander the Great, and is so well told that when you begin you will hardly stop until you come to the end.

INDICATIONS OF THE BOOK OF GENESIS. By Edward B. Latch. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. G. F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price, $1 50.

We are glad to get hold of something occasionally that we can't understand. It reminds us forcibly of the fact that we don't know everything. This book professes to tell us what is "indicated" by Moses in his first book. The author has evidently bestowed great labor upon this volume, and his method is so ingenious that to us it is "past finding out." The work is evidently done in a good spirit.

PHOTOGRAPHIC MOSAICS. By Edward L. Wilson. New York: E. L. Wilson.

This is an annual record of the progress of photographic art, and will interest all students of that mystery.

PERIODICALS.

—The KINDERGARTEN, for January, is a strong number, and is a prophecy of what the year will bring in good things to its subscribers. Alice B. Stockham & Co., Chicago. Price, $1 50.

—The GOSPEL IN ALL LANDS devotes the January number to The World. And there is given an interesting account of missions all over the globe. Hunt and Eaton, New York. Price, $1 50.

—OUR LITTLE ONES, for January, is the holiday number, and our little people will revel amid its rich variety of pictures and readings for several weeks. There is nothing better for the "wee ones" than this monthly. Russell Publishing Company, Boston. Price, $1 50.

—The BOOK-BUYER, for January, opens with an engraved likeness and a sketch of Constance Cary Harrison; then follow "Hints for Two $500 Libraries," "Literary Topics in Boston," and reviews of "The Newest Books," etc. Charles Scribner's, New York. Price, $1.

—The CENTURY, for January, is a distinguished number. Among the noticeable articles "The Memoirs of Talleyrand" will be read with great interest. "The Missions of Alta California," by John T. Doyle, and "A Romance of Morgan's Rough Riders," will be appreciated by all. Several interesting papers entitled "California" will while away the evening hours pleasantly. "Topics of the Time" are timely articles from the editor's pen. Century Company, New York. Price, $4.

—METHODIST QUARTERLY REVIEW, for January, has this table of contents: "Theism: A Survey of the Argument," by John J. Tigert; "Americanisms," by Charles Forster Smith; "Synods and Senates," by F. M. Edwards; "The Stem BAII- in Greek Literature to the Fourth Century B. C.," by Lalcus; "Life and Character of Antigone," by J. H. Kirkland; "Mexico as a Mission Field," by David W. Carter; "The Reality and Permanency of the Unseen," by M. B. Chapman; "Religious Frauds in the Nineteenth Century," by Jonathan Round O; "Preparatory Education from a Southern Standpoint," by Charles P. Curd; "Methodist and Pre-Methodist Principles of Education in New England," by William F. Warren; Editor's Table—Bishop Simpson as a Politician, Methodist Law and its Administration, The New England Centenial, The Ecumenical Conference. Barbee and Smith, Nashville, Tenn. Price, $2 50.

PAMPHLETS.

—Unmethodistic Methodism. By Joshua H. Harrison. Publishing House, M. E. Church, South, Nashville, Tenn.

This is a discussion of "the doctrine of sanctification in the light of today," in which the author combats the theory of the second blessing sanctificationists, and brings forward some objections which, in our judgment, have not been successfully answered. It is a strong argument against making experience a test of Scripture doctrine.

The Greatest Need.

With so much of unbelief and scepticism on every hand; so much of a spirit of worldliness in the church; such a forgetfulness of church vows and obligations; such a formality and coldness on the part of many who bear the name of Christian; such a sad departure from the "old paths;" so much of Sabbath desecration and every evil work; the thousands of precious, immortal souls pressing on to eternity, with hardly a thought of the future; a constant push and rush in the business world; a hastening to get rich; "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;" surely our greatest need in our cities, our villages, our towns, our churches is, not more of culture, of refinement, of education, but a true, sincere, heartfelt revival of religion.

We not mean a season of mere mental excitement, the work of only the passing hour; merely superficial surface work; but we mean a work begotten by the Holy Spirit, bringing the soul into direct, vital sympathy and union with a living, divine Christ. A revival that leads the church to cry mightily to God for help; that gives travail of soul to Zion; that leads the wanderer to confess and cry for mercy; and to realize to the unsaved their terrible danger, and soul-need of a present Christ.—Watchman.

Louisiana Notes.

The mills of the Riverside Lumber Company were destroyed by fire Jan. 1, total loss aggregating $25,000.

An election is to be held in Iberia parish, Jan. 17, to determine whether cattle shall run at large.

A new paper, the Brusley Light, has been started at Brusley Landing. It is said to be Democratic Anti-Lottery.

The property holders of Plaquemine have voted a special tax for ten years, the funds derived from which are to be devoted to water works and electric lights.

A large shingle factory in New Iberia was recently sold for $20,000 cash. It puts out nearly 3,000,000 shingles per month, and will be enlarged.

The largest cargo of sugar ever shipped from New Orleans was carried to Philadelphia last week by the steamship Mackinaw. It consisted of 15,000 barrels, 296 hogsheads and 551 bags of Louisiana sugar.

The grading of the K. C., W. and G. railway is going on in Rapides parish, and tracklaying will again commence on Jan. 15, next, and will continue until the road is completed to Alexandria, which will be, perhaps, in June.

According to Dr. Miles, of the Charity Hospital, in this city, 6,083 patients were admitted into the hospital the past year against 5,794 for the year before. He estimates that 20,000 patients, transient and regular, are treated yearly.

Postmaster Eston states that the receipts at the New Orleans office for the last quarter of 1890 show a decrease of twenty-eight and a third per cent., or a loss of over $40,000. He attributes the falling off of business to the passage of the Anti-Lottery Postal law. This will give our readers an idea of the enormous business done by the Lottery Company. This don't show, however, how much the buyers of Lottery tickets have gained by the enforcement of the law.

Commissioner of Agriculture Adams has completed his crop report for the year just ended. It shows the following total: Cotton—Acres, 709,880; yield per acre, 230 pounds; bales, 379,716. Sugar cane—Acres, 186,812; hogsheads of sugar, 250,007; gallons molasses, 17,617,174. Corn—Acres, 1,015,082; yield per acre, 15; number of bushels, 15,979,677. Rice—Acres, 83,343; yield per acre, 901 pounds; clean rice, 75,114,957. Sweet potatoes, 44,810; yield per acre, 82; bushels, 3,679,948. Irish potatoes—Acres, 23,547; yield per acre, 29; bushels, 674,632. Oats—Acres, 18,997; yield per acre, 12; total bushels, 587,361.

The Shreveport Times says:

Shreveport has accomplished wonders during the year 1890. Let the coming 1891 add still more largely to its strides in material growth and progress. The results must depend on the unity, energy and enterprise of its wide-awake citizens.

And the Caucasian says this:

Shreveport's possibilities are limitless; so are its probabilities, but no man can forecast the result. May the close of 1891 show a greater increase in solid enterprises than was reached in 1890!

We learn that a surveying corps is now being placed in the field to survey the line of a railroad to run from Alexandria via Delhi, La., to Brinkley, Ark. The Hoyt road very probably. Though on this point we are not certain, and, therefore, will prognosticate no further.—Monroe Times.

The following dispatch to the New Delta shows what is going on about Lake Charles:

Immigrants have arrived during the past week from Kansas, California, Missouri and Iowa, bringing quite a number of carloads of stock and household goods. Besides, there are quite a number of New York people here prospecting. One thing is noticeable among the new comers—they are all dead-shot against the Lottery.

Hitherto some have contended that our prairie lands were not as well adapted to cane as the river, bayou and wood lands. This year has fully demonstrated the perfect adaptability of both prairie and pine wood lands to cane. To show what Attakapas prairie lands can do, we learn that Mr. Emile Prevost, on Cypremort Prairie, obtained 60,000 pounds of sugar from twelve acres of cane, or an average of 5,000 pounds per acre.—Sugar Bowl.

The Times-Democrat, speaking of the penitentiary at Baton Rouge, says:

Recently the lessees have added a jeans' trousers' factory to the institution, and already a dozen machines are being run. Col. Samuel James said that he had started the factory so as to give employment to weak and sickly men who are unable to work on levees. It had been customary heretofore for men of this kind to remain idle within the walls. There was nothing as tiresome as doing nothing, and so the factory was started.

The following is a dispatch from Franklin:

Many new enterprises are on foot for accomplishment this present year, notably the extension of the Caffery Central Factory by erecting a diffusion plant, an ice factory, the establishment of a bank, the erection of a building by the Masons for lodge and other purposes, and many new residences in Franklin. All avenues of industry are occupied by busy workers and the prospects for 1891 are very flattering for an increased business in all branches.

The business of Monroe as shown by the cotton receipts from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, inclusive, is by no means discouraging. The stock on hand at the compress on the first day of January was 5,851 bales, the shipment to that date being 20,798 bales, placing the total receipts at 26,649 bales. The receipts for the same period in 1889 were 23,298 bales, disclosing an excess in 1890 over the previous year for the same time of 3,351 bales.—Telegraph-Bulletin.

The report presented by the New Orleans Clearing House of the business of last year is very satisfactory. The total clearances for 1890 were $528,883,431, as against $504,474,843 in 1889, an increase of $24,408,588, or about five per cent., while the bank balances were $63,177,658, an improvement of two and a half per cent. This is not a boom, but a very decided improvement, and New Orleans ought to be satisfied if it increases its business at the rate of five per cent from year to year. It should be considered, moreover, that the year wound up in some financial depression, which effected business everywhere.—Times-Democrat.

Mississippi Items.

R. W. Blanks, formerly of the Columbus Index, has purchased the Meridian Standard.

The Masonic lodge of Aberdeen has appropriated $2,500 a year for ten years to the Home for Widows and Orphans in Mississippi.

A section of school land in Harrison county, near Mississippi City, and containing 640 acres, was sold at public auction last week for $1,342.

The President has appointed Fred Collins, of Summit, United States marshal for the Southern District of Mississippi; vice, S. S. Matthews.

The Scott County Register says:

There must be a boom in Hattiesburg, judging from the number of people that are emigrating from Scott and Leake counties to that place.

On Oct. 24, 1890, the site now known as New Chicago, at West Pascagoula (formerly the Col. A. E. Lewis tract), was sold by John B. Lyons, trustee, to the Gulf of Mexico Land and Improvement Company, of Chicago, for one million dollars. This is, up to date, the largest real estate transfer ever made in any of the southern or piney woods counties.—Democrat-Star.

The following dispatch is from Brookhaven, Jan. 4:

The Methodist stewards, for the Brookhaven district, met here yesterday and decided to permanently locate the district parsonage at this place. A residence will be purchased or a new one built. Dr. R. S. Woodward, the new presiding elder, has arrived from Yazoo City with his family.

The Magnolia Gazette says:

The return of Rev. G. H. Galloway, as pastor of the Methodist Church for the ensuing year, is hailed with delight by his numerous friends in town and country, and the generous pounding which he received Thursday night at the hands of his church's members and friends, was an expression of appreciation for past services as well as good wishes for the future.

Speaking of the State Teachers' Association, recently held in Jackson, the Mississippian says:

This meeting was more largely attended than any before held, which is an encouraging evidence of the rapidly growing interest being developed in the cause of education, and shows that teachers are recognizing the importance of these annual gatherings and mutual interchange of ideas.

Referring to the length of the term of court in Lincoln county, the Brookhaven Leader says:

When Lincoln had saloons, the average length of a term of court was three weeks, and the additional cost to the tax payers was in proportion.

If prohibition shortens the term of the criminal court, ought it not to be classed among the "good things"?

A dispatch from Greenville says:

The short crop and the low price of cotton has demoralized the negro labor throughout this entire section. Many negro families have returned to their former homes in the hills of Mississippi and other States. The changing about from one plantation to another and from one county to another has always been customary with them, but this year it is more prevalent than ever. As yet no alarm is felt that there will not be sufficient labor to plant and cultivate the crop.

The following dispatch from Jackson shows how Bishop Galloway is working for the young people in Mississippi, while working for Millsaps College.

Bishop Galloway, as president of the Board of Trustees of Millsaps College, is publishing the endowment of scholarships in that institution for the benefit of the worthy young men. He says $1,000 will endow a scholarship, entitling the beneficiary to free tuition; $2,500 will secure board and tuition. The first of this latter class will be a missionary scholarship and named the "Clara Chrisman Scholarship" in honor of Miss Clara Chrisman, of Mississippi, who was lost in the Conemaugh flood while on her way to Brazil. Subscriptions are already coming into this latter scholarship, and the amount will be easily raised.

The Bishop has appointed March 2, 1891, the one hundredth anniversary of the death of John Wesley, as "Memorial Scholarship Day" throughout Mississippi, when a large sum is expected to be raised. Already over $31,000 on the endowment fund has been paid in, and Major Millsaps has paid in over $25,000, making over $58,000 now in the college treasury. The amount remaining necessary will be easily realized out of notes and subscriptions in hand. The Board of Trustees will meet early in February to consider the matter of location.

The Religious Newspaper of the Next Decade.

BY DR. W. C. GRAY,
EDITOR OF "THE INTERIOR."

The pioneer settlers of Kentucky and Southern Ohio were in possession before the government surveys were made; and the primitive crookedness of their lines was extended by the surveyors, so that all Kentucky and Southern Ohio was, and is now, an inextricable tangle of zigzag and oblique and curved lines. This produced a whole generation of litigation and a special class of "land-lawyers," of whom Thomas Corwin was one. Neighbors fought each other year after year, built "spite fences," and all that. You could tell where a lawsuit was in progress by noticing these "spite fences" between the litigants.

But there rolled the big river, flowing peacefully along among them, offering to carry them to lands inexhaustible in quantity and quality, to be had for the taking. If they had taken what they wasted in fighting each other, each of them could have had more land than he wanted.

The religious press is now in the "land-lawyer" occupation. They have not yet learned that they are not competitors and rivals, but fellow-helpers. The truth which they must learn and apply is, that the success of any one religious paper is shared by all religious papers. That religious journal which elevates the standard wins the respect of the public for religious journals as a class. When it increases its circulation it hews innumerable avenues through which its contemporaries gain access to the people.—During the last dozen years I have been making trails in the wilderness leading out miles in every direction from my summer home. Whenever I have spotted a new trail, I find that others use it more than I do. It is easier to get a man to subscribe for a second or a third religious paper than it is to get him to subscribe for the first. And so of advertising. The religious paper which increases the appreciation of business men for its columns as a medium, gives a lift to all its contemporaries. And so of literature. The religious press is sought by the best writers, because some of the best writers have been secured as contributors. As for the field: all of us together have hardly yet cut the first furrow. We have a patch of potatoes here and there, as there was along the margins of the Mississippi, in Illinois and Iowa, fifty years ago. Education is increasing, leisure for reading increasing with wealth, and taste for the best literature is extending and increasing with the increase of education and wealth.

And here comes in the grsvest blunder the religious press is now making. The leading newspaper of one of our denominations cheapened itself a few years ago, and the result is that the papers of that denomination all over the country are skinning and starving, and their people looking outside of their church for religious literature. The religious press must learn that the public will take it at its own appraisement. If the publisher says his paper is cheap, all the people will say, Amen! But the religious public is self-respecting. It wants, and is willing and able to pay for, the best. It does not buy cat-meat at the market for the family table. It does not frequent junk-shops nor second-hand clothing stores. We have not reached that class yet, and never will. They must reach us. It requires moral and educational and religious education for the appreciation of a religious newspaper.

Secular journals in this country have shot far ahead of anything abroad. It is a reasonable demand of the moral and religious public that we should be abreast with them, and that demand is not that we shall make all things out of nothing in the space of six days, and all very good. Like the good Father, they are more willing to give than we are to ask. That is my experience both with God and good men. I want to make a good paper, and to be able to pay writers and contributors for their toil; therefore, I have always refused to cut prices, and the result in the matter of circulation is better than with those who have taken the other and the mistaken policy.

The religious press must and will broaden in its religious sympathies, broaden by expansion and by elimination. The organs of cliques, and the exponents of fads, and the brass bugles of fanaticisms will die. The foundation on which we rest is the universal religious principle in the soul of man. The kinds of newspapers of which I now speak are a temporary itching rash upon the body of the church universal.

The religious press of the future will be, as now, evangelical, and increasingly so. It will be sound on the central doctrines. We shall learn, after a while, that a branch which has a vital connection with the true vine will not run to poisonous fruits. A man who is concentric to Christ will not go wild in doctrines. He may be elliptical, eccentric, variant in his orbit, pulled hither and yon by other influences; but he is sure to swing true to his regal luminary in his general course. The religious press will become, as it is rapidly becoming, Christ-like. It required two symbols to represent our Lord—the lamb and the lion. Though he was the gentlest of all beings, he was not only potentially, but actually almighty. The press will not abdicate its force nor its aggressiveness, but it will grow out of its bad-boy pugnacity.

The religious press will call into its service not only ability, but adaptability, and it will demand special training. It is already pretty well understood that eminence in theology, or in the pulpit, or in any other department of intellectual labor, is no indication of fitness for this work. It is of no use to put the wings of Mercury on the heels of an elephant. Lubber-lifting is out of date. The man who does logging now must have apikes in his shoes, spring in his legs, and a peevy in his hands; and have acquired a knowledge of the nature, disposition and habits of logs.—Independent, Jan. 1.

Chicago, Ill.

Sloth makes all things difficult, but industry all easy; he that riseth late must trot all day, and shall scarcely overtake his business at night; while laziness travels so slowly that poverty soon overtakes him.—Franklin.

Sunday-School Lesson—Jan. 18.

GOD'S CARE OF ELIJAH.

I. Kings xvii, 1-16.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"They that seek the Lord shall not want any good thing."—Psa. xxxiv, 10.

The sixth king now sits on the throne of the kingdom of Israel, Ahab by name. He is the worst of all his ignoble predecessors. In his reign the kingdom rushed headlong to ruin. From political motives he married a heathen wife, whom he made queen over the Lord's heritage. He established the religion of his wife, Jezebel, in Israel, made eight hundred and fifty priests for the new religion and cut off the priests of God. Things had come to a climax of wickedness. The career of Israel from Jeroboam till Ahab is typical of the downward progress of men and nations, when God is forgotten. O Lord, save us from the beginnings of evil!

I. Elijah before Ahab.—V. 1. (1) It was in the darkest days of Israel's apostasy that Elijah the Tishbite appeared on the scene of action to do a work for the cause of true religion, which was blessed not only to those degenerate times, but was also to all subsequent generations. (2) We learn that in the most hopeless epochs God has his strongest servants to cope with the evil and bring about a powerful revival of truth and righteousness. (3) It is often from the most unexpected source that these mighty men rise up to defend the church. Who was Elijah? (4) How bold a man is for the right when he feels himself God-appointed! What language this first verse shows, spoken to a tyrannical king from whom all the prophets of God were hiding, because of his wrath. Elijah was bold, for he felt safe in the care of his divine Master. (5) We learn here the universality of God's power and authority. The prophet of Tishba tells Ahab that it will not rain but according to his word; thus making all nature to be under the control of the Lord God. In verse four we have the brook, and the ravens also doing the Lord's will.

II. Elijah at the brook Cherith.—Vs. 2-9. (1) The first thought that strikes us is God's care of his servant at this critical time. As Ahab was slaughtering every one who opposed his religious and political measures, it would be natural to think of him setting to work to get rid, at once, of this stranger who had the audacity to declare judgment against him. In a strange, yet perfectly safe way does Elijah's God come to his aid, as we read in these verses. Let us know, that if we will only be bold in living and speaking for Christ, we will be cared for—cared for, too, notwithstanding we may make mistakes, as Elijah did. The whole history of this marvelous man is a monument to God as a care-taker of his people. (2) It goes without saying that Elijah had great faith in his God, and that obedience was a marked characteristic of his whole life. We see there two things standing out everywhere. We must expect nothing from our heavenly Father if we do not trust and obey him. His faithfulness to us can amount to nothing if we are unfaithful.

III. Elijah at Zarephath.—Vs. 8-16. (1) When one source of supply was about exhausted, the Lord had another ready for Elijah. It was as strange in some of its features as that of being sustained in the wilderness by the birds. It was in Zidon, the place from which idolatry in all its rankest form had been brought into Israel by Jezebel; and a widow woman, one ever noted in eastern countries for great poverty, was to be his means of sustenance. It is like God to command strange things, for he works in ways of his own. Blessed are we if our faith and obedience are equal to all that he says to us. (2) There is no doubt but that God will take care of us, but his plan of doing so is educational. To act up to his Word and providence will not only bring us the immediate thing needed, but will also cultivate all those Christian graces that are in the end of the highest importance. Not only did Elijah receive bread and shelter by going to Zidon, but what renewed confidence and joy in the Lord must have been in his heart when he saw how wonderfully all worked out that Jehovah had told him! (3) It is most instructive to see the great truth involved in the request of Elijah as he first made the acquaintance of the widow of Zarephath: "Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hands" (v. 11). In verse twelve we have her sad reply. One would have thought that her answer would have caused the prophet to say no more, but go and look for bread elsewhere. But no, he insists: "Fear not; go and do as thou hast said; but make me thereof a little cake first and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy son" (v. 13). The underlying truth here is that in every case God's claim must stand first. Elijah was God's servant, and he had in consequence the prior right. Jesus teaches the same truth in Matt. x, 37, and Luke xiv, 26, and Mark x, 29, 30. (4) The deduction from this is that if we acknowledge the superiority of the divine claim, God will supply us with all needed things. To put the Lord first is to put ourselves in the channel of all blessing (vs. 14-16). Elijah said to the widow, If you will provide for me first, your meal and oil will never give out. Here, too, was the secret of Elijah's own wonderful success: he put God first in all things.—The Treasury.

What Mr. Norton Says.

Dear Reader: Having read Mr. Morehead's experience plating with gold, silver and nickel, I feel it my duty to inform others of my success. I sent for a Plater and have more work than I can do. It is surprising the spoons, castors and jewelry that people want plated. The first week I cleared $37.10, and in three weeks $119.85, and my wife has made about as I have. By addressing W. H. Griffith & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, you can get circulars. A Plater only costs $3. You can learn to use it in an hour. Can plate large or small articles, and can make money anywhere. I now have a nice home and bank account, all the product of $3 invested in a Plater.

S. S. NORTON.

Letter from Brazil.

Bro. E. P. Mackie, of the Carondelet Street Church, in this city, has kindly placed the following private letter from Miss Sallie M. Phillips, our missionary in Brazil, at our disposal, and we give it to the readers of the ADVOCATE.

COLLEGIO PIRACICABANO, Piracicaba, Estado de Sao Paulo, Brazil, America do Sul, November 26, 1890.

Mr. E. P. Mackie, New Orleans, La.—

Dear Brother: Your letter, with draft for fifty dollars on New York Bank, was received several days ago. Please pardon the postponed answer. I had intended writing to you at once in acknowledgement of the same; then concluded it would be best to wait a few days until able to favor you and the children with a lengthy descriptive letter of the work. Since then I have been very unwell and busy; but this morning, before another day passes, I will write you these few lines to inform you that the money has been received, and to thank you for your generous gift. Thank one and all of those dear children for me. May the hearts of all be wholly sanctified through this lovely gift!

The money will be used in furnishing a Sunday-school room for the little children of our church. This room is now being constructed for a pastor's office and this above-named purpose. In our day-school there are many little ones who do not come to our Sunday-school. By an attractive Sunday-school room we hope to bring all of these little straying lambs into the fold. Your gift comes in the nick of time to furnish this much-needed lack in the present work. I beg that you all will still pray for God's choicest blessings upon this money that you have sent. Our hope for Brazil centers itself in the hearts of the children; for it is difficult to bring them to a knowledge of the truth after they are grown up in superstition and vice.

There are four other lady missionaries here in the college where I am. All the days we are working with the children to bring them to Jesus; but superstition and antipathy to Protestantism are so prominent in their minds that few are the ripe fruits of conversion that we see as results of our labors. Yet we do see that the large majority of these children of more than a hundred are convinced of the truths of the Bible that are taught them. When they leave school every day they return to their homes, where opposition or the greatest indifference chokes out the impressions received at school; but we believe these gospel impressions are dormant within their hearts and minds, and in God's own proper time he will bring them to make public professions of their faith; perhaps, not until these children are grown and we are dead. God's Word, we are told, will not return unto him void, and then so often in the Bible are we commanded to "wait on the Lord." So, brother, we workers in the Master's vineyard can afford to work on cheerfully, knowing that He is faithful who promised. At first I worked and looked for results, then became discouraged; but now I am learning the important lesson of "waiting upon the Lord." Oh, brother, pray that the Lord will make of me a vessel well fitted and fruitful for his honor and glory!

Last Sunday there were two persons who walked eight miles to hear the gospel preached that day at our church. The work is growing, and the opposition of the Jesuitism brotherhood grows also. Pray for us.

Yours in the faith,

SALLIE M. PHILLIPS.

Almost a century ago, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, a noble remedy, was first made known.

The Buried Talent.

Every church, in these modern days, is a cemetery of buried talents. In no department of life are so many precious gifts allowed to go to waste as in religion. There are men gifted with natural eloquence, who sit dumb in assemblies of Christians, week after week, year after year, and never utter a word for the Christ whom they profess to love. There are strongly attractive men, men of influence and winning power, who draw young men to themselves in politics, and business, and letters, like strong magnets; and yet in the church they are cold and unresponsive and inactive, unwilling, it would seem, to devote a tithe of their God-given power to the interest of the Master whose vows they have taken upon themselves. And—saddest of all—there are women possessed of all the sweetness of womanhood, the graces of loveliness, the charms of culture and good breeding, who call themselves Christ's, and yet spend all their talents in the service of the world, begrudging, perhaps, even the brief hours of Sabbath morning and evening, when they feel bound to gather with the people of God in his sanctuary. Young girls look up to such women, as young men look up to the brilliant, successful men of the community in which they live; and in either case, as the example is, so the influence will be. For every man's or woman's talent cast into the world's treasury, youth will ring in its two-score mites.

Such is the problem which confronts the minister of the gospel to-day, in nine out of ten churches throughout our broad land—the problem of the buried or mis-devoted talent. Why will not Christians use their gifts in the service of Christ? Why should they turn to inert blocks and stones the moment religion makes its gentle and reasonable demand upon them? There seems to be a strange and wholly unaccountable perversity about the gifted and the notably efficient people who come into the church of Christ. They stand back from the work, as a rule. If you will take a census of the active forces in our churches, you will find that the humbler and less ably equipped, and often, too, the younger, members perform most of the Master's service. If there are in the church great scholars, or eminent thinkers, or noted men of affairs, or men of great wealth, or influence, or social position, you seldom find them tending in church work. So far as Christ's service is concerned, their talents are folded away in elegant and aristocratic napkins. They have a great place in the world, but a small place in the kingdom. They patronize the church, but they inwardly feel that it is their prerogative to be served rather than to serve.

Every community is more or less cursed by men of negative Christian influence. They assent, rather than consent, to religious doctrine and religious observances. They conform, rather than reform. They seem to accept Christianity, with its privileges and obligations, rather because they must than because they desire to. There is hardly a church but has a sprinkling of these sullen captives of reason and hostages of conscience. And, as a rule, these men are men of ability and influence. But they lack the esprit de corps. They are not whole-souled, enthusiastic Christians. Somehow, they do not seem to belong in the church, and yet they do not feel safe and at peace without it. They come in half-heartedly and join half-earnestly in the ordinances of the church. They pay their dues, and walk circumspectly, and exercise a certain broad and indefinite benevolence. They join formally in the church services, and if they doze and nod in sermon time, it is to be understood that they nod approvingly.

But, alas! how can the church afford to be the receptacle for so many buried talents? How can it afford to have its life sapped by fruitless branches? For can it be denied that dead church members do subtract vitality and influence from the church? It must, it ought, to do something—either to make active, earnest Christians of all its members, or else to rid itself of the incubus of fruitlessness. It is wrong, it is disastrous, that so much of the capital of the church to-day should consist of buried talents. No worldly institution could prosper if it harbored such a mass of idle capital. Can we not somehow get these napkined talents into circulation? Can we not wake up the latent energy of the church?—Zion's Herald.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of the Advocate will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant, treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese, of New York, has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and the Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

Peculiar

To itself in many important particulars, Hood's Sarsaparilla is different from and superior to any other medicine.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its medicinal merit, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time. Do not be induced to take any other preparation. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

The Best Blood Medicine

So say Leading Physicians and Druggists, and their opinion is indorsed by thousands cured by it of Scrofula, Eczema, Erysipelas, and other diseases of the blood.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla has won its reputation by years of valuable service to the community. It is the best."—R. S. Lang, Druggist, 212 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass.

Dr. W. P. Wright, Paw Paw Ford, Tenn., says: "In my practice, I invariably prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla for chronic diseases of the blood."

Dr. R. R. Boyte, Third and Oxford sts., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "For two years I have prescribed Ayer's Sarsaparilla in numerous instances, and I find it highly efficacious in the treatment of all disorders of the blood."

L. M. Robinson, Pharmacist, Sabina, O., certifies: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has always been a great seller. My customers think there is no blood-purifier equal to it."

"For many years I was afflicted with scrofulous running sores, which, at last became so bad the doctors advised amputating one of my legs to save my life. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla and soon saw an improvement. After using about two dozen bottles the sores were healed. I continue to take a few bottles of this medicine each year, for my blood, and am no longer troubled with sores. I have tried other reputed blood-purifiers, but none does so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—D. A. Robinson, Neal, Kansas.

Don't fail to get

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists. $1, six $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

R. P. RANDALL,

Carriages and Harness,

54 and 56 Baronne Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

Canopy-Top Surrey, with Curtains, Apron, Whip and Shafts, at

$85, $112.50, $150, and $180.

CASH WITH ORDER.

Send for Catalog. Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY!

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

We wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 80,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,

FUNK & WAGNALLS,

NEW YORK CITY

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex.... 8:00 am.
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac... 3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....8:45 pm
No. 7 Coast.....8:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..8:10 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 am

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 10:30 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 8:00 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:05 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 8:15 pm
No. 5 Acc'm....8:50 am	No. 6 Acc'm....5:00 pm
No. 41 Fast Mail. 9:00 am	No. 42 Fast Mail. 7:00 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25 am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local.. 7:45 am
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15 pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd. 11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00 pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:45 am

MOBILE AND OHIO.

(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 2, Limited...4:00 pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.

(Abita Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City. Luxurious Main Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.

J. C. GAULT, General Manager.

D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS, TEXARKANA, SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE. THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6.00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.

R. B. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.

R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.

A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,

Homeopathic Physician,

288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

MENS' FURNISHING GOODS

Headquarters of the Celebrated McCown Shirt.

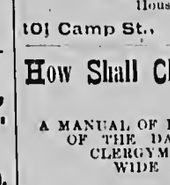
Boy's Clothing a Specialty.

Mens' and Boys' Hats.

Clothing Made to Order.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., New Orleans

Discount to Preachers.



S. R. PERRY,

183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.

Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.

Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO., 39 & 41 WEST BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

How Shall Churches Be Filled?

A MANUAL OF RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, DISCUSSED BY CLERGYMEN OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

No Minister Ought to Be Without It.

Price, $1, post-free.

Address STATISTICAL BUREAU OF RELIGIOUS INFORMATION, HEAD OFFICES: 459 W. 21st Street, New York City.

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Selues, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,

LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,

No. 101 Camp Street,

Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH

Trouble of the Womb should try

Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 69, Louisville, Ky.

Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JAN. 15, 1891.

Briefs.

April 14, New York will vote, at a separate election, on constitutional prohibition. There being no politics involved, the temperance men will have a square opportunity to show their strength.

Dr. Koch's remedy is still the talk among the medical fraternity, and several packages of the precious lymph have arrived in this country, and several hospitals are giving it a trial. Like all other remedies, it helps some cases and harms others.

The subject of the levees on the Mississippi river seems to be gaining the attention of Congress at last. Heretofore that body would not listen to levee talk, unless in connection with the work of river improvement. Now the question is before Congress on its merits, and the friends of the levee system have, for the first time, the opportunity to present their views. This is one step in the direction of Congress assuming control of the whole matter.

The eighth of January; though a dismal day, was duly celebrated in this city. There were drum-beats and marching of soldiers and flags flying and a general suspension of business. The notable event of the day was the formal transfer of the Howard Library Annex to the Historical Association of Louisiana. The building is to be used as a depository for Confederate relics and archives of the war of 1861-1865, and also for collection of matter connected with the history of Louisiana. The address of the occasion was made by Judge E. C. Fenner.

The war in the West against the Indians seems to be going all one way. Gen. Miles is gradually drawing a cordon of troops around the hostiles, and they are coming in by squads every day and giving up their arms. It was a hopeless fight on the part of the Indians from the first; but, being crazed and made fanatics by the dream of a Messiah coming to their help, they rushed into it with all the enthusiasm of fresh converts to fanaticism, and the result, when finally written up, will be, "Lo! the poor Indian!" The most pathetic history in the world is the history of the Indian in North America.

The young Emperor of Germany seems determined to make his people, and all the balance of the world, see that he is not only Emperor in name, but, in fact, the only and real ruler. In a very fatherly way he makes suggestions about various things, and he expects the suggestions to be accepted and acted upon, so that the laws of the empire shall be changed and executed according to his suggestions. He proposes to change the whole educational system which has dominated Germany for centuries and made it what it is. This proposal has raised quite a breeze. He also created a flutter among the journalists by his strictures on the conduct of the press. Nothing seems to escape his vigilant watchfulness, and, as is always the case, he is being attacked on all sides. So much does he run counter to the ancient customs of the empire, that there are persons who have not hesitated to express the opinion that it is time for Bismarck to be recalled, lest the empire go to pieces under the leadership of this young experimenter in imperial administration.

The Reporter and the Churches.

The secular press seems to have taken charge of everything beneath the skies. It has in a most patronizing way assumed supervision of everything that lives and moves and has its being. Being the self-constituted trustee of all terrestrial things, it is esteemed a "bounden duty" to keep the public informed of how the various things over all the earth are getting along.

One of the marvels of modern times is the newspaper reporter, and one of the most mysterious mysteries to an ordinary mortal is the manner in which the reporter does his work.

In writing up events abroad or local happenings he takes the palm over all competitors. As to style, he puts to shame all the rhetoricians from Longinus down to Bain. Mr. Maurice Thompson, discoursing on a "good style," says that "our new school of writers" affect what he is pleased to denominate "a grey style," "a sort of underdone style," a style intended to display an immense "reserve of statement," a style intended to display "infinite resources held in abeyance." In secular affairs, our reporter does not belong to this "new school of writers." In writing up such matters he certainly does not affect the "underdone style," nor does he regard "reserve of statement" as an evidence of strength. On the contrary, "felicities of diction," ornamentations of every conceivable quantity and quality, flash in words and shimmer along lines and coruscate in sentences and blaze out in paragraphs, until you feel that you have been caught in a shower of rhetorical pyrotechnics. Mr. Thompson has described one sort of style which exactly suits the reporter writing up secular matters. He calls it the "flamboyant style."

To illustrate: A foul murder is committed, or a cowardly lynching is perpetrated, or an expert stealage is performed, and the account appears in the morning paper in such glowing phrases and dressed in such rich diction as to envelop the whole affair in a glamour of heroism and make the reader question whether the old ten commandments had not been buried with Moses on Mount Nebo. What used to be considered by everybody as a lawless deed, deserving the condemnation of the community and the condign punishment of the law, is so presented by the reporter as to wear the appearance of heroic adroitness if successful, and if unsuccessful, exciting, but harmless and ludicrous in its failure. We do verily believe that a large percentage of the increase of crime is the result of the manner in which crimes are reported in the secular papers. The age is ruled by sensations, and the more sensational a newspaper article is, the better the paper sells. These sickening details enter morbid minds, and the result in many cases is a frenzied desire to imitate that very thing. What has been called "crimes of imitation" are largely on the increase. Certain crimes become epidemic, and the epidemic is largely due to the manner in which they are reported to the public. This process of gilding crime, or giving it the color of the ludicrous, or turning it into an exciting adventure, opens the way for its frequency, and the sensational reporter is in part responsible for it. Milton introduces to us a character, of whom he says:

> "His tongue
> Dropt manna, and could make the worse appear
> The better reason, to perplex and dash
> Maturest counsel."

Substitute the word "pen" for "tongue," and the poetry fits the case of a good deal of reporting done for the secular press.

There is a sphere, however, where the reporter deliberately lays aside the "flamboyant style." This is when a report is to be made of church assemblies. By some sort of rhetorical somersault the reporter vaults over into Mr. Thompson's "underdone style," and seems to think there is an immense display of power in "reserve of statement." It often happens in these cases that the reporter is the merest tyro at the business, a mere fledgling, who understands little of the language which characterizes all the proceedings of church assemblies, and cares less. He is master of the situation and proceeds to report the doings of the assembly in a language that never fails to produce a wrong impression. By not learning and adhering to the language of religious assemblies, he makes the body do what it never thought of doing, and the speakers say what they never dreamed of saying. This is often the case in reporting sermons, a notable instance of which occurred in this city. An eminent divine, a man known all over the continent, was to preach in one of our principal churches. Of course, the newspaper had its reporter on hand, and he "took down" the sermon, and it appeared the next morning; but, lo! not a hearer of the sermon recognized it in print. The reverend gentleman was made to utter sentiments that would have disgraced a school-boy yet in his teens, and to quote Scripture that never existed outside of the reporter's fertile brain. If such reporting had been done for a political convention or a business meeting of citizens, the reporter would have been dismissed in disgrace.

In giving the proceedings of a Sunday-school anniversary, another one of our "great dailies" in less than a half-column report made a half-dozen mistakes, reporting things done that had not been done and some things not even thought of. Churches do not object to their proceedings being reported. They want them published, but they want it done, at least, decently. They claim the right to demand that newspapers send to their assemblies competent reporters, that the world may get a correct account of what is said and done. But when the reporter sits in the assembly and reports things done that were not done, and words spoken that were not spoken, then the assembly has good cause to complain of the newspaper for sending an incompetent to "take down the proceedings."

Carondelet Parsonage.

Several years ago Mrs. W. W. Carre, president of the Ladies' Aid Society of Carondelet M. E. Church, South, put on foot a plan to secure a parsonage for that church. To her surprise, her own annual liberal contribution, which is likely to reach a large sum, was at once helped by Sister Jones, of that body, giving one thousand dollars for this purpose.

These noble efforts led to the recent purchase from our Church Extension Board of the choice property located in New Orleans, corner Jackson and Brainard streets, for a parsonage. This is one of the most valuable building sites in this city, and is likely to constantly increase in price. Dr. Morton kindly made the Boards of Trustees and Stewards a very liberal offer, which, being aided liberally by the ladies, made its purchase profitable.

Our city pastors have taken hold of the Epworth League idea, as promulgated by the Sunday-school Committee, and are preparing to organize societies and put their young people to work under this form of church activity. We think this is a good move, and we trust that, wherever practicable, our pastors in all our Conferences will inaugurate it.

Explanatory.

The appointments for Quarterly Conferences for several of the districts in the Mississippi Conference appear for the first time in this issue. This is quite late, but the presiding elders are not to blame for it. They made out their lists in ample time and put them in the mails; but those first lists never came to this office. We wondered why the elders did not send forward their appointments, and we suppose they also wondered why those appointments did not appear in the Advocate. They waited and we waited in vain. Then the elders made them out again, one elder sending three times before any reached this office. We can explain why they were not published before this week. The reason is they were not received. We can not explain why they failed to come in time. We received notes from the same parties on other matters, but the Quarterly Conference appointments failed to come.

We give, for the benefit of all concerned, the rule of the office in regard to church notices of every kind: They must appear in the paper in the next issue after they are received in this office, unless they come in on Tuesday evening. There is no deviation from this rule.

We hope this explanation will be satisfactory to all concerned.

Editor.

Centenary Day.

The Board of Education of the Louisiana Conference, at its last session, introduced a resolution, which was adopted by the body, to observe Sunday, Feb. 15, as Centenary Day. The observance is to consist in a sermon or sermons by every member of the Conference on the subject of Christian education, and taking a collection in every congregation, the receipts of which are to go to the endowment of Centenary College at Jackson, La. The Discipline makes it every preacher's duty to preach on the subject of Christian education in every congregation, at least, once a year. The Louisiana Conference, by resolution, has said that this sermon this year shall be preached in stations on Feb. 15, and in circuits on that day and on as many subsequent Sundays as it will require for the pastor to present the subject to every congregation on his circuit.

We trust that our pastors will carry out this resolution with earnestness and enthusiasm. The resolution contemplates preaching in the fullest meaning of that great word. A mere talk will not fulfill the spirit of the resolution. In order to preach there must be studious preparation. It is a great subject, almost infinite in its relations and bearings, and can not be handled in an effective manner without wide research and deep thinking. Let every preacher give the subject earnest and enthusiastic study during the intervening month and cry mightily to the Spirit of Wisdom for help, and then declare the counsel of God on this great subject, and we hesitate not to say that the result will be a revolution in Christian education in Louisiana. It will make an epoch in the history of our Conference schools.

Educational Aid for Young Preachers.

Mr. Editor: Please allow me space in the Advocate for a word to the Methodists of the Mississippi Conference. For many years past there has been connected with the Mississippi Conference an organization, known as the Ministerial Educational Association, the object of which has been to aid young ministers in defraying their college expenses. During these years we have assisted many young men in securing their education.

Hitherto this work has been done mainly through the voluntary contributions of the few ministers who compose this association, there being only an occasional contributor among the laymen of the church. The demands upon us have grown to such proportions of late that we feel compelled to call upon the church for help. The work we are doing for the church in aiding young ministers for more effective work in the pulpit and pastorate, we feel justifies us in this appeal; and so thoroughly convinced of this fact was the association at the last session of our Conference in Canton, that, as president of this association, I was instructed to write this appeal.

Brethren of the laity, we need your help. We are fully aware of the many demands made upon you in the support of the various causes in the church; but none, we are certain, is more worthy than this. We do not ask for large contributions from anyone. Give us your help in any amounts, large or small, and give it now. Money may be sent to Dr. C. G. Andrews, treasurer, Meridian, Miss.; Rev. M. L. Burton, secretary, Natchez, Miss., or myself, at Canton, Miss. All moneys will be acknowledged through the Advocate. Fraternally,

T. B. Holloman.

"Where Are the Nine?"

At the recent session of the Mississippi Conference, announcement was made that a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, living in the bounds of the Meridian district, desired to be one of ten who should each contribute $100 yearly for life to send a missionary to Japan and support him while there. "Where are the nine?" Surely they will quickly respond and join the one in thus glorifying God.

Already one has written me a conditional promise in his own behalf and agreed to get another friend to join him. I wish I were able to be one of the number, or that I might be the one sent; but circumstances are such that I can only act for the brother who made the proposition, and in his stead try to get the nine to join him. He is able to make good his promise and is desirous to see the missionary, not only on the way, but actually at work in Japan.

The missionary chosen and supported will, of course, be under the control of the Board of Missions; but he is expected to correspond with the band supporting him, and will thus keep them and himself in sympathy with each other and the work.

Anyone desiring to join in this movement and become one of the ten, will address,

T. L. Mellen.

1319 N. 22d Ave., Meridian, Miss.

The present membership of the M. E. Church is 2,236,463; itinerant ministers, 13,279, of whom 10,056 are effective; churches, 22,103. The benevolent collections are as follows: Missionary Society, $1,135,271 82; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, $220,339 96; Woman's Home Missionary Society, $112,970 20; which gives a total for missions of $1,468,581 98. Church Extension was given $185,902 82; Freedmen's Aid Society, $266,684 48; Sunday-school Union and Tract Society, $23,125; Board of Education, $69,368 21; American Bible Society, $34,965.

The amount paid for ministerial support, including Bishops and presiding elders, was $9,367,826, and for superannuated preachers, $234,149.—Pittsburgh Advocate.

The total number of barrels of beer sold in the United States last year was 26,826,953, being an increase of 1,722,188 barrels over the year before.

Notes.

Don't go to the dictionary before you begin to think. If you do, you may become an expert manipulator of words; but that does not necessarily imply thinking. Brilliant word-painting does not always convey vivid ideas. Get your thought first, and then clothe it. Don't get the clothes first, for they may not fit.

Dr. Pierson, in January Missionary Review, says of the Salvation Army: "From a somewhat extended study of the practical methods of the Salvation Army, especially in Great Britain, we were compelled to admit that, more than all the churches put together, this unique organization is bringing relief to the unfed, unhoused and uncared-for masses of the cities of Britain."

Bishop Foster, of the M. E. Church, is credited with saying,

With an army of over 12,000 preachers the cry comes up in vain from all over the land for men to take hold of this generation.

Thoughtful men are getting very serious over the present condition of things. "This generation" needs the guidance of the wisest and the controlling power of the most prudent.

The Wesleyan Christian Advocate appears as an entirely new paper; new editor, new publisher, new type, new arrangement of matter and a new place of publication. Its columns have been broadened, so that five instead of six columns make the page. We congratulate all concerned upon the neat appearance of the new paper, and wish the greatest success to the new editor and publisher.

Some queer things are done in and around Boston. For instance: A man, the most profane man in that section, died and bequeathed the bulk of his property to charities; whereupon his heirs contested the will on the ground that the testator was not of sound mind when he made it, and the judge agreed with the heirs and disallowed the will. This fable teaches that if you want to give anybody anything, you had better do it before you die.

This, from Dr. Cuyler, will fit some people hereabouts:

Dr. Horace Bushnell was an invalid during the last year of his noble and useful life; and when people in Hartford inquired of him "How is your health?" he used to reply playfully, "I have not got any." This might be the honest answer of many a professed Christian in regard to their souls. Their spiritual pulse is feeble; their appetite for God's Word is poor; they are more fit for the hospital than for service. They no more enjoy their religion than a fever patient would enjoy a slice of roast beef, or a plum-pudding.

Bro. Beard, of Rayne Memorial, and Bro. Clay, of Dryades Street Church, have inaugurated a new feature into their Sunday services which promises good results. They have started Sunday afternoon services in addition to the regular appointments for the day. The services at Rayne are conducted with special reference to the young people, and at Dryades for the special benefit of non-church-goers. So far the services at both places have been well attended, and both pastors are much encouraged. We trust our brethren will be able soon to report "crowded houses."

A note from Dr. Carradine tells us that the newspapers, in reporting his sermon on "Secret Societies," only reported about two-thirds of it. He says: "The strongest points I made were not even mentioned. Perhaps some of the points made were 'unpalatable.' "'Tis ever thus." The preacher who expects to be faithfully reported by the secular journal has built his expectation upon nothing. The reporter is such a "master of magicians," that from a few pencil marks on his cuff he can retire to his den and reproduce to exactness the sermon of an hour's length! Great is the modern reporter and greatly to be shunned by the preacher!

The following note from the Western Christian Advocate is good for Mississippi and Louisiana Methodists "at this time:"

The prime result of ample endowment is to emancipate the institution from the tyranny of students. A partial endowment, supplemented by term fees, makes merchandise of numbers. Every student stands for so many dollars. Being necessary, the student soon becomes important. He dictates the policy, and sometimes the discipline, of the school. Even when discipline and policy are heroically held in the hands of the faculty and regents attendance and uniformity are indispensable. Scant resources trammel all the plans and operations of the school. But now comes Dr. Harper, backed by the abundant resources of the new Baptist University of Chicago, and is able to formulate a college-extension plan, which makes the university the ganglion, with educational nerves distributed to every section of the country, by means of high schools and academies. Classes and uniformity are to be unheard of. A certain amount of work is required for a degree. If you can accomplish it in two years to my four, you get your sheepskin that much in advance of me. In a word, plenty of money makes the realization of the university idea an easy possibility.

O, Methodist men and women with money, lift our noble, but struggling institutions to this lofty plane!

Personal and Otherwise.

Rev. E. F. Edgar's postoffice is Camdeo, Miss.

The weather in England and the north of Europe is colder than it has been since 1831.

The best cure for doubt is earnest work in some part of the Lord's vineyard. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine."

We had a pleasant call last week from Rev. W. H. Huntley, the popular pastor at Brookhaven, Miss., and Peter James, Esq., of Bee Lake, Miss.

The New York Advocate, of last week, gave a list of the names of the ministers of several Methodist bodies in the United States who died last year.

It is said that Bishop Taylor's missionary funds were deposited with S. A. Kean & Co., Chicago, and that he lost about $10,000 by their failure.

Dr. J. L. M. Curry, of Washington City, has been asked to take the general agency of the Slater Fund, so long and well administered by Bishop Haygood.

A lay brother sends this wish: "May you be blessed in your efforts as your readers are greatly interested and benefited." That prayer encourages us.

We understand that the district parsonage has been located in Brookhaven, and arrangements have been made for procuring it as soon as possible.

The Nashville Advocate says that Bishop Fitzgerald has had a relapse of la grippe, and is a very sick man. We trust that the case may not be as bad as represented in this statement.

Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, of Baton Rouge, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, Dec. 31. The ADVOCATE tenders the compliments of the season, and wishes the professor may live to see as many more birthdays as he desires.

A brother sends ten cents for the ADVOCATE of ——, and says: "A borrowing fiend has mine of that date." We hope it will do the "fiend" so much good that he will become disgusted at his fiendishness and become a subscriber.

There were some lively little speeches in the preachers' meeting, last Monday morning, touching the Epworth League departure, preaching to Roman Catholics, lottery amendment, etc. We believe that all have now got loose from the grippe.

We make an apology to the North Mississippi Conference. We desired to publish the reports read at the Conference and made application to the secretary to obtain them. He promised to send them, but they have not yet come to hand. This is the reason we have not published them.

Brother, have you any idea how many of your parishioners are due this paper on subscription? Make a round of pastoral visits and ascertain this fact, and then multiply the number by the hundreds of circuits and stations in our territory, and you will see what an important matter this is to us. Will you?

Bro. Austin, from Jackson, La., gave us a call last week. He says the Methodists there are moving in the matter of a parsonage for their preacher. A fine lot of ground has already been obtained. That's right. Let our people everywhere build parsonages for the comfort of their preachers and for their own self-respect.

Rev. Dr. H. C. Settle, of Louisville, Ky., gave us a pleasant call last Monday. He preached in Felicity Church Sunday night, and attended the preachers' meeting and gave an interesting account of the work of our church in his section of the Lord's vineyard. From the Louisville Times we learn that the Doctor is on a vacation for several weeks in our Southland, seeking rest and recuperation.

The Lake Charles American says of our new pastor at that place:

Rev. T. J. Upton, the new pastor of the M. E. Church, South, occupied his pulpit for the first time last Sunday. The audience was fair, and he gave good sermons. Doubtless, he will succeed.

The following personal is from the Jackson (La.) Mirror:

Rev. L. Carley preached his first sermon in the Methodist Church at this point, on last Sabbath, to a large congregation. He was sent here to fill the pulpit by the Conference for the year. We trust he will be pleased with his new appointment and people.

Speaking of the new presiding elder on the Brookhaven district, Rev. R. S. Woodward, the Brookhaven Leader says:

Dr. Woodward and family arrived last week, and are temporarily quartered at the City Hotel, and it is needless to say Brookhaven is happy to receive such a valuable accession to her social and religious circles.

A note from Moss Point, Miss., says:

Our Methodist people seem well pleased with Rev. C. A. Powell, their new pastor.

It is quite natural for Moss Point Methodists to be pleased with their preacher.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. Wilson Brown writes from Warren circuit, Mississippi Conference: "We have arrived at the parsonage. Preached at Phœnix, Sunday morning and at night. Prospects are good."

—Rev. R. M. Blocker writes from Plaquemine Brulee, La.: "Christmas holidays are over with us, and I feel grateful to God that the dancing devil has given us but little trouble. Two wagons are rolling up with lumber and shingles for the repairs of our church at this place. Business is brisk in our towns, and the farmers are busy arranging for a new crop. La grippe and other sickness has reached our communities—and some fatality. Our public schools seem to be in fine trim and are doing good work. I believe the Lord is opening the way for the most successful year that I have had in this charge. I have secured four subscribers to the ADVOCATE since my return from Conference. Hope to have your prayers."

—Rev. T. B. Holloman writes from Canton, Miss.: "For a few days after Conference adjourned everything seemed so lonely and deserted. All were so full of the praise of the preachers sent them, and of the enjoyments of the Conference session, that it was useless to attempt conversation on any other subject. From the many thanks of the preachers for the 'best place in town,' I was satisfied that all were pleasantly located; but I was no little surprised to find that every family thinks they had the 'nicest preachers of the lot.' (Mutual admiration societies, I suppose.) That the brethren may not think that they got all the turkeys in the land, I want to say to them that one, at least, was held in reserve as a Christmas present for the new pastor; but so satiated were we with such diet by the end of Conference, that we postponed the day of execution until the new year. But I do believe, Doctor, that that was the last gobbler in all the region round-about. It is well there is a whole season until Thanksgiving Day. (Observers of Lent will suffer). The new year opens well, and, so far as heard from, Canton is willing to try her preacher another year. La grippe abounds. Many sick; no fatality."

Assessments for Mississippi Conference for 1891.

Districts.	For'n Miss.	Dom. Miss.
Jackson	$1,450	$650
Vicksburg	1,450	650
Meridian	1,450	650
Brookhaven	1,300	600
Woodville	1,200	500
Seashore	1,200	550
Brandon	1,000	400

J. P. DRAKE,
Sec'y Bd. Missions.

Districts.	Ch. Ex'n.
Vicksburg	$475
Jackson	475
Meridian	475
Brookhaven	475
Seashore	350
Woodville	330
Brandon	240
	$2,820

E. H. MOUNGER, Sec'y.

Hall's Hair Renewer enjoys a world-wide reputation for restoring the hair to bald heads and changing gray hair to the orginal color of youth.

State Sunday-School Association.

The Executive Committee of the Louisiana State Sunday-school Association, which is composed of R. H. Browne, chairman; E. P. Mackie, J. G. Grant, S. S. Prentiss, J. S. Talmage, A. T. Terry, Rev. H. H. Waters, and John E. Rodd, secretary, met last week and arranged a programme for the State Sunday-school Convention, which is to hold a session in this city, May 5-7, 1891.

The programme includes some of the best talent among the Sunday-school workers in Louisiana, as well as such Sunday-school leaders as Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds; R. F. Jacobs, of Chicago, and Mrs. Wilbur F. Crafts, of New York.

Efforts are being made to make this Sunday-school Convention not only extremely interesting, but very helpful to all endeavoring to bring children to Jesus.

Short, sharp, and decisive, in the cure of coughs and colds is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Take Notice.

The Opelousas District Conference of the Louisiana Conference will convene at Lafayette, La., March 19-22, 1891. Bishop A. G. Haygood will be present and preside. Recording stewards will bring up Quarterly Conference records for examination.

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

Lafayette, La., Jan. 7, 1891.

Buy your school books and stationery from Bro. Van Valkenburgh, 106 Camp street.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

Louisiana Conference Apportionments for 1891.

	Conf. Claimants.	Bishops.	Education.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Council.	Church Extension
New Orleans District	$1,200	$ 320	$ 320	$2,350	$ 500	$ 62	$ 583 75
Shreveport District	900	235	235	1,550	360	35	313 75
Arcadia District	830	225	225	1,350	360	35	344 75
Delhi District	830	150	150	1,250	315	25	322 50
Opelousas District	520	135	135	1,100	315	25	283 75
Alexandria District	420	115	115	600	150	20	212 50
Total	$1,500	$1,200	$1,200	$8,000	$2,000	$200	$2,100 00

Church in Mexico.

Previously reported	878 06
Mrs. C. L. Ray	2 00

Brookhaven District Stewards' Meeting.

The stewards of the Brookhaven district of the Methodist Church met, pursuant to call, Saturday, Jan. 3. Rev. R. S. Woodward, presiding elder, presided over the deliberations of the body, wisely and kindly. The usual business to be done at this early annual session embraces the fixing of salary for presiding elder, the apportionment to the charges of the district, of the various assessments put upon it by the action of the Annual Conference. Missions, foreign and domestic, church extension, education, sustentation for aged and disabled ministers and their families—all of these are considered, and amounts to be collected upon them are fixed and put upon the congregations comprising the district. These amounts are carried up in winter to the Annual Conference, and applied to their several purposes.

After the conclusion of the session, the chairman of the district parsonage trustees, Mr. C. E. Hudson, of Summit, assembled his committee for work.

The former action of this body, locating the district parsonage at Wesson, was reconsidered, and Brookhaven was selected as the place for the parsonage.

The chair appointed a committee to examine into saleable properties in the community, with a view to buying or building immediately. We may, therefore, look to the early and comfortable establishment of the presiding elder, Rev. Dr. Woodward, and his family in our midst.

The outlook for the church all over the district is fair and promising. Regretting the departure of Rev. W. B. Lewis, P. E., during the past two years, there is nevertheless cheerful submission to the genius of the Methodist itineracy; and all unite in welcome to the new presiding elder, and in prayers for his success during his stay with us. —Brookhaven Leader.

The Public Will Appreciate It.

The public are indebted to the Royal Baking Powder Company not more for having perfected and prepared a leavening agent that is pure and wholesome beyond a question than for its exposures, so boldly made, of the numerous impure, adulterated and injurious articles that are sold under the name of baking powders, bread preparations, etc., throughout the country. In making these exposures the company has, of course, made itself the target for all sorts of counter-attacks, but the animus of these attacks has been perfectly understood by the general public, and by their very virulence have served to more prominently call attention to the good work of the "Royal" Company.

Ordinary adulterations such as are found in coffee, spices, etc., although they are swindles in a commercial sense, are often tolerated because they do not particularly affect the health of the consumer. But when an article like baking powder, that is relied upon for the healthful preparation of almost every meal, is so made as to carry highly injurious, if not rankly poisonous elements into our daily food, it is the duty of the public authorities to take cognizance of it.

In this light for pure food made by the "Royal" Company, it is to be noticed that the most trustworthy scientific authorities are emphatically upon its side. In all the contests of this company with the alum and other impure baking powders the result has proved that every statement made by the Royal Baking Powder Company, both as to the purity of its own and the adulteration of other baking powders of the market, was fully authorized by the most competent chemical and medical authorities of the country.

In this contest two facts have been pretty conclusively settled in the minds of the public—the first that the Royal Company has found the means, and uses them, to make a chemically pure article of food; and the other that the market is full of poisonous, alum and other adulterated baking powders which, no matter how strongly endorsed by "commercial chemists," are to be studiously avoided.

A pure baking powder is one of the chief aids to the cook in preparing perfect and wholesome food. The recent controversy in the press has left it no longer a question with those who desire purity and wholesomeness of food what baking powder they shall use.

Literary Notes.

Rev. John McNeil, "the Scottish Spurgeon," now of London, is expected to visit this country next summer. The first volume of his sermons has already passed into a second edition. A second volume is to be published in January by Fleming H. Revell, New York and Chicago.

A second edition of Rev. A. J. Gordon's Ecce Venit is just announced. Although a controverted subject, Dr. Gordon couples with his elegant literary style such a thoroughly devotional spirit as to disarm criticism. If one differs from the author's views as to the second coming of our Lord, he feels a sense of regret in such a conclusion as he would fain enter into the exalted atmosphere of the writer's depicting.

The strife between protection and free-trade theories, which occupies so much of the attention of the people to-day, is, perhaps, one of the oldest controversies in the political arena of our nation. In the forthcoming Journal of William Maclay (Senator from Pennsylvania 1789-'91), edited by Edgar S. Maclay, and to be published by D. Appleton & Co., it is shown that this question occupied a large share of the attention of the first sittings of the American Senate.

Rev. F. B. Meyer, who is to visit this country next summer, has very rapidly grown in favor and prominence since his removal from Newcastle to London, England. Not so much in his pulpit efforts (although he has one of the largest churches in London), but more particularly as a devotional writer he has taken a first place. His several works, which in England have passed through edition after edition, are now being brought out in this country by Fleming H. Revell, New York and Chicago.

In the absence of any international copyright law, authors in England are seeking to join with American authors, and vice versa, in the joint preparation of their works, thus making it possible to secure a copyright in both nations which will protect, at least, the work of each author in his own country, and, as the uncopyrighted portion would be useless without the balance, this plan is an effectual check on the piratical publisher. Then, too, as the law does not compel a disclosure of the portion prepared by each author, there is no knowing which part may be free and which protected.

The author of "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life," Mrs. Hannah W. Smith, is a Quaker lady formerly of Philadelphia, but who has made London her home for several years past. Her remarkable little volume, which has been translated and printed in a number of different foreign countries, has been issued in Swedish and Norwegian, and is now being prepared in German by the publisher of the English edition, Fleming H. Revell, of New York and Chicago. The circulation in English has passed one hundred thousand, and the little work has evidently become an accepted devotional classic.

There was opened in this city, last week, the Woman's and Children's Hospital. This scheme has been on foot some time, and the ladies have been persistent in their efforts until the fact is now accomplished. There is in connection with the hospital a training school for nurses.

If your house is on fire, you put water on the burning timbers, not on the smoke. And if you have catarrh, you should attack the disease in the blood, not in your nose. To do this, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, which permanently cures catarrh.

Notice as to Changes.

Subscribers whose postoffice is changed will confer a favor if they will advise the business manager as to where their paper is changed from, as well as to their postoffice changed to, as early as possible, in order that our mail lists for 1891 may be correct.

Our young brother, Rev. Wm. B. Van Valkenburgh, has undertaken the canvass of this city for that valuable work, "Ridpath's Universal History of the World." This is the finest work of its kind in the English language. It is gotten up in elegant style, in three large octavo volumes, and our people should seize the present opportunity for supplying themselves with a set.

We take pleasure in commending both the book and Bro. Van Valkenburgh to our readers.

Business Notices.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. COLE,
"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is almost a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.

LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

DONALD KENNEDY

Of Roxbury, Mass., says

I have kept a Scrap Book for a good many years of letters received from patients; some are long, too long to publish; some are short, short and good. Rainy days I sit down and read them, and have learned a good deal about the human body from some poor, sickly woman or over-strained man. Here is one of them. I call it a good letter:

TRENTON, TEXAS, Sept. 28, 1886.

"To Kennedy of the Medical Discovery, Roxbury, Mass. I am so proud of my recovery as to express my feelings in thanks to you. The RHEUMATISM has made me four-legged for six years. At last I have traded off two of them to Bell—Druggist—for four bottles of Kennedy's Discovery. I am yours, gratefully and unsolicited, J. H. IVY."

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

H. P. BUCKLEY,

Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

Heath, Schwartz & Co.

(LIMITED.)

Jobbers and Retailers,

116 Camp Street, . New Orleans.

Matting

Which we were selling at 10 cents has been closed out, but we have secured a better grade, which we are offering by the roll for $6.

Wall Paper,

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, Upholstering Goods, Rugs and Mats in immense variety.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. H. Carradine, J. G. Grant, H. Fellman, Junius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

SHORTHAND

—AND—

TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

We believe we have a thorough knowledge of all the ins and outs of newspaper advertising, gained in an experience of twenty-five years of successful business; we have the best equipped office, by far the most comprehensive as well as the most convenient system of

Geo. P. Rowell & Co.

Newspaper Advertising Bureau,

10 Spruce St., New York.

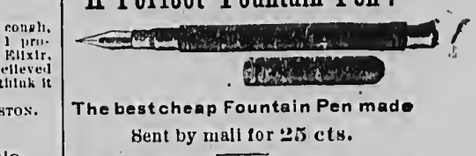
planning contracts and verifying their fulfillment and unrivaled facilities in all departments for careful and intelligent service. We offer our services to all who contemplate spending $10 or $10,000 in newspaper advertising and who wish to get the most and best advertising for the money.

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

A Perfect Fountain Pen!



The best cheap Fountain Pen made

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens and Stylographic Pens, from $1 50 to $3.50 each. Holders and Ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

NEW books

New Books every week. Catalogue, 96 pages, free; not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-basting. No Parboiling. No burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr. Prop'r, London, Tenn.

Intelligent Readers will notice that are not "warranted to cure" all classes of diseases, but only such as result from a disordered liver, viz:

Tutt's Pills

Vertigo, Headache, Dyspepsia, Fevers, Costiveness, Bilious Colic, Flatulence, etc.

For these they are not warranted infallible, but are scientifically so nearly so as it is possible to make a remedy. Price, 25cts.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

If this Advertisement is sent to us, with one dollar, we will send the Musical Visitor to any address for one year. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

—PUBLISHED BY—

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 246 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE

OF THE

Methodist Episcopal Church, South,

AT

NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Will fill an order for any book at its publisher's price. The profits of this House belong to the Church, and are disbursed to the Annual Conferences for distribution to their "Conference claimants"—superannuated preachers and the widows and orphans of their deceased brethren. Every order sent the House is an indirect contribution to this important and fund. Methodists ought to keep this in mind.

BARBEE & SMITH,

AGENTS.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal" of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Interesting new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best, and cheapest fence and gates made. Descriptive circulars and prices free. Address

KITSELMAN BROS., Midgeville, Ind.

BAILEY'S

For Gas. For Oil.

COMPOUND light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass

REFLECTORS,

A wonderful invention for lighting CHURCHES, Halls, etc. Handsome designs. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free. BAILEY REFLECTOR CO. 118 Wood st., Pittsburgh, Pa.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1 at Druggists.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, Church or write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Mf'k, Nashville, Tenn. — FOR — Catalogue.

Established 1857.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil or Electric, give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular & estimate. A liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations. I.P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N.Y.

25,000 SOLD

For introduction we will sell the Ladies' Friend Washer at cost where there are no agents. Ten days trial. Agents make $5 to $10 per DAY. FREE Receive nothing if it does not excel in quality and quantity of work. Circulars free. D.L. BATES & BRO., DAYTON, O.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, Couche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. Blosser & Co., Dalton, Ga.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS TO BLYMYER BELLS TO THE

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS.

BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

ASTHMA-CURED DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial WRITE AT ONCE. DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y. FREE

Our Young People.

A QUEER BOY.

BY W. H. S.

He doesn't like to study, it "weakens his eyes," But the "right sort" of book will insure a surprise.

Let it be about Indians, pirates, or bears, And he's lost for the day to all mundane affairs; By sunlight or gaslight his vision is clear. Now isn't that queer?

At thought of an errand, he's "tired as a hound," Very weary of life and of "tramping around." But if there's a band, or a circus in sight, He will follow it gladly from morning till night. The showman will capture him some day, I fear, For he is so queer.

If there's work in the garden, his head "aches to split," And his back is so lame that he "can't dig a bit." But mention base-ball and he's cured very soon; And he'll dig for a woodchuck the whole afternoon.

Do you think he "plays 'postum"? He seems quite sincere; But—isn't he queer?

—St. Nicholas.

"Nots" in United States History.

From Mr. Malcolm Townsend's unique collection of facts regarding the history and composition of the United States, and to which he has given the comprehensive title "U. S.," we glean the following "curios:"

The dismal swamp is not a swamp, neither is it dismal nor unhealthy. It is a beautiful stretch of pure water and "the healthiest place on the American continent."

The East river, flowing between New York and Brooklyn is not a river, but a sea strait connecting Long Island Sound and the ocean.

Manhattan is not the Indian name of New York island, but is directly traceable to a Spanish original: monas, "drunkenness;" monados, manadas, manatoes, "the place of drunkenness." Manhattan is but the Indian form of the word.

The Declaration of Independence was not signed on July 4 by the representatives whose names have become historic. It was given to the world on Monday, July 8, 1776, with but two signatures; John Hancock, president of the Congress, and Charles Thomson, secretary. The signatures of forty-five delegates were affixed to a copy of the original paper on Tuesday, Aug. 2, 1776.

There was not a bearded face among all the signers of the Declaration. "All the signers," says the record, "had smooth faces."

The word "God" does not appear in the Constitution of the United States, nor is there any reference to creeds or church beliefs.

Three delegates to the convention would not sign the Constitution. These were: Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts, George Mason and Edward J. Randolph of Virginia. Gerry feared a civil war; Mason, a monarchy, and Randolph objected to the powers conferred on the President.

Benedict Arnold was not the first or only traitor during the Revolution. His predecessor in that "Judas" office was Dr. Benjamin Church of Raynham, Mass., arrested, tried, and imprisoned at Cambridge, Mass., in 1775. He had been an active member of the provincial congress, and was trusted as an ardent patriot. He was released from prison in 1776 because of failing health, embarked for the West Indies, and he and the vessel in which he sailed were never afterward heard of.

The following States have not a State motto: Indiana, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio and Texas.

The dollar sign ($) is not a monogram of "U. S.," but dates from the days when the transfer was made from Spanish to American dollars, and accounts were kept equally in dollars and reals. Thus: one dollar ‖ eight reals (American and Spanish parallel accounts.) Later the eight was placed between the cancellation mark ‖8‖; then the perpendicular lines crossed the 8, and finally the 8 shaded into an S and combined with the cancellation lines evolved the pres-sign ($).

The head of a man does not appear on any coin of the United States.

Eight States do not observe New Year's Day as a legal holiday; seven States do not class Washington's birthday as a legal holiday.

Friday is not an "unlucky" day for the United States. At least forty great events in United States history fell on Friday.

The American Indian is not a "vanishing race." There is very nearly as large an Indian population in the United States to-day as at the time of Columbus.

Wanted—A Boy.

A jolly boy.
A boy full of vim.
A boy who is square.
A boy who scorns a lie.
A boy who hates deceit.
A boy who despises slang.
A boy who can say "No."
A boy who is above-board.
A boy who saves his pennies.
A boy who will never smoke.
A boy with shoes always black.
A boy with some "stick to it."
A boy who takes to the bath-tub.
A boy who is proud of his big sister.
A boy who has forgotton how to whine.
A boy who thinks hard work no disgrace.
A boy who does chores without grumbling.
A boy who stands at the head of his class.
A boy who believes that an education is worth while.
A boy who is a stranger to the street-corners at night.
A boy who plays with all his might—during playing-hours.
A boy who listens not to unclean stories from anyone.
A boy who thinks his mother above all mothers is the model.
A boy who does not know more than all the rest of the house.
A boy who does not think it inconsistent to mix playing and praying.
A boy who does not wait to be called a second time in the morning.
A boy whose absence from Sunday-school sets everybody wondering what has happened.

Mr. Editor: As I have not written to the dear old Advocate in a long time, I thought I would write. Well, it is the first day of 1891, and "old Santa" has come and gone. He brought me a writing box and a bottle of cologne, and my sister gave me The Little Worker. The good people of Brewersville (for they were good, I must say) gave us a nice dinner to-day.—Well, Conference did not move papa this year. I hope the pastor of our little friend was sent back, as the Bishop was asked to do. I am sorry to hear of Dr. McCoy's health failing him. We have a young ladies' prayer meeting on Wednesday, old ladies' prayer-meeting on Thursday, young men's prayer meeting every other Sunday evening, and class meeting the other, and general prayer meeting on Wednesday night. We had a good meeting in December, conducted by S. J. Williams, of Meridian; twenty-two conversions. I will close.

Your friend,

Carrie Patton.

Ceatopa, Ala.

The cheapest and best remedy on earth for pain is Salvation Oil. Only 25 cents a bottle.

Mary and Her Dog.—Such a pretty story I read the other day about a little girl, named Mary, who lives in Pennsylvania! In some way she fell and broke her arm, and had to keep in bed for a long while. Her playmates came to see her, and often brought her beautiful flowers, of which she was very fond. There was something else, too, which Mary loved dearly, and that was her dog, whose name was Bob. He seemed to feel very sorry for his little mistress, and he noticed how happy the flowers always made her. So he thought he would give her a bouquet, too. Away he went into the yard, and plucked a mouthful of plantain leaves. Then he hurried back to Mary, put his forepaws on her bed, dropped the leaves, and wagged his tail, saying as plainly as any dog could: "Don't you think my flowers are pretty too?" —Selected.

WOLFF'S ACME BLACKING

A PERFECT HARNESS DRESSING.
USED BY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.
A SHINE LASTS A WEEK.
LEATHER PRESERVER.
A HANDSOME POLISH.
IS WATER-PROOF.

EVERY Household EVERY Office
EVERY Mechanic EVERY Stable
SHOULD USE

PIK-RON TRY IT.

Will Stain Old a New Furniture
Will Stain Glass and Chinaware
Will Stain Tinware
Will Stain Your Old Sabbets
Will Stain Sary's Coach

and Varnish at the same time.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.
Ask in Drug, Paint and Housefurnishing Stores.

Household.

A French Woman at Home.

She helps to cook the dinner she has bought—for servants are wasteful with the charcoal, and she knows to an inch how little she can use. In that marvelous place, a French kitchen, where two or three little holes in a stove cook such delicate dishes, and perform such culinary feats as our great, roaring coal fires have no conception of, she flits about like a fairy, creating magical messes out of raw material of the most ordinary description. Yes, though a lady born and bred, refined, elegant and agreeable in society, a belle in her way, yet she does not think it beneath her dignity to lighten the household expenses by practical economy and activity. The dinner of a French family is cheap and simple. There is always soup, the meat of the stew-pan—sometimes, if not strict in expenditure, another plate of meat—generally two vegetables, dressed and eaten separately; and sometimes, not always, a sweet dish; if not that, a little fruit, such as may be the cheapest and in the ripest season.

But there is very little of each thing, and it is rather in arrangement than in material that they appear rich. The idea that the French are gourmands in private life is incorrect. They spend little in eating, and they eat inferior things; though their cookery is rather a science than a mere accident of civilization. At home the great aim of the French is to save; and any self-sacrifice that will lead to this result is cheerfully undertaken, more especially in eating than in the mere luxury of mere idleness. No French woman will spend a cent to save herself trouble. She would rather work like a dray-horse to buy an extra yard of ribbon, or a new pair of gloves, than lie on the softest sofa in the world in placid fine-ladyism, with crumpled gauze or bare hands.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Secret of a Long Life.

You sometimes see an old woman whose old age is as exquisite as was the perfect bloom of her youth. She seems condensed sweetness and grace. You wonder how this has come about; you wonder how it is her life has been a long and happy one. Here are some of the reasons:

She knew how to forget disagreeable things.

She kept her nerves well in hand, and inflicted them on no one.

She believed in the goodness of her own daughters, and in that of her neighbors.

She cultivated a good digestion.

She mastered the art of saying pleasant words.

She did not expect too much from her friends.

She made whatever work came to her congenial.

She retained her illusions, and did not believe that all the world was wicked and unkind.

She retained an even disposition, and made the best of everything.

She did whatever came to her cheerfully and well.

She never forgot that kind words and a smile cost nothing, but are priceless treasures to the discouraged.

She did unto others as one would be done by, and now that old age has come to her and there is a halo of white hair about her head, she is loved and considered.

This is the secret of a long life and a happy one.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Jewels of a Woman's Life.—There are so many jewels that may be worn day and night; so many gems that are always and only your own, that you need not grieve for those that show their brightness only by day. There is the jewel of Consideration, that you may wear just over your heart; there is the moonstone of Hope, that may glitter over your brow, filling your eyes with brightness; there is that brilliant stone of Sympathy, the emerald, that makes you put out your right hand of help; and there is the beautiful one of loving Kindness, that makes the left hand help the right. But above all, overshowing all, pinning down your tresses is the diamond of true Love—love which endureth all, suffereth all, hopeth all. Are not these better than jewels dug out of the earth? For, indeed, these jewels come from the heaven above.—Ladies' Home Journal.

An old family physician first recommended Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for colds, coughs.

The Speed of Insec's.

There are many insects which one would little suspect to be furnished with apparatus suited to swift and more or less continuous flight. House-flies frequent the inside of our windows, buzzing sluggishly in and out of the room. But what different creatures are they when they accompany your horse on a hot summer's day. A swarm of these little pests keeps pertinaciously on wing about the horse's ears; quicken the pace up to ten or twelve miles an hour, still they are there; let a gust of wind arise, and carry them backward and behind—the breeze having dropped, their speed is redoubled, and they return to their post of annoyance to the poor horse even when urged to its fastest pace.

But this example gives only a partial proof of the fly's power of flight, as the following will show: The writer was traveling one day in autumn by rail at about twenty-five miles an hour, when a company of flies put in an appearance at the car-window. They never settled, but easily kept pace with the train; so much so, indeed, that their flight seemed to be almost mechanical, and a thought struck the writer that they had probably been drawn into a kind of vortex, whereby they were carried onward with but little exertion on the part of themselves. But this notion was soon disproved. They sallied forth at right angles from the train, flew to a distance of thirty or forty feet, still keeping pace, and then returned with increased speed and buoyancy to the window.

To account for this, look at the wings of a fly. Each is composed of an upper and lower membrane, between which the blood-vessels and respiratory organs ramify so as to form a delicate network for the extended wings. These are used with great quickness, and probably six hundred strokes are made per second. This would carry the fly about twenty-five feet, but a sevenfold velocity can easily be attained, making one hundred and seventy-five feet per second, so that under certain circumstauces it can outstrip a race horse. If a small insect like a fly can outstrip a race-horse, an insect as large as a horse would travel very much faster than a cannon ball.—N. Y. Ledger.

The Submarine Cable.

The submarine telegraph system of the world is one of the wonders of modern achievements. It holds the globe in a network of cables, and has made its remotest distances responsive to the influences of civilization. There are no less than 120,070 nautical miles of cable soaking to-day in salt water and transmitting intelligence under the bellies of ocean fishes. Government administrations own 12,524 miles, while 107,546 are the property of private companies. The cost of these cables aproximates $200,000,000. No less than eleven cables are soused in North Atlantic brine, and all laid since 1870, the total length of cables including coast connections being more than 30,000 miles. The Eastern telegraph company covers the ground from England to India, and comprises 21,860 miles of cable, to which is an Eastern extension that exploits 12,058 miles more. West African cables have been laid from Cadiz to Cape Town, and the Dark Continent is in telegraphic touch with the centers of civilization. No less than 17,000 miles of cable were necessary to make this connection, that gives the trader in Africa a daily notice of the markets of the world, and keeps the colonist on the Orange river posted on the events transpiring along the Ganges, the Thames, and the Mississippi. The benefits of this world-encircling system can not be easily overstated, and it is a magnificent tribute to the service and progress of electric science.—Age of Steel.

Asthma can't be cured? Oh! yes it can. Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar will do it. I know it because it gave me relief. Every winter I was troubled with asthma, especially if the weather was damp, suffering severely. I took about six bottles of Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, and am completely cured. It is the emedy for asthma. CHAS. HEINES, 500½ Chippewa Street, New Orleans, La.

Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar is a sure and speedy cure for coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis and consumption, and gives immediate relief in cases of croup and whooping-cough. Try it. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

The only reliable vegetable substitute for calomel, which acts on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach, and best anti-bilious purgative is Maguire's Cundurango. Endorsed by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia; Rev. McNally, of St. Louis, and a host of prominent people.

Nothing On Earth Will MAKE HENS LAY.

LIKE

Sheridan's Condition Powder!

It is absolutely pure. Highly concentrated. In quantity it costs less than a tenth of a cent a day. Strictly a medicine. Prevents and cures all diseases. Good for young chicks. Worth more than gold when hens Moult. "One large can saved me $40, send six for $5 to prevent roup," says a customer. If you can't get it send us 50 cents for two packs; five $1. A 2 1-4 pound can $1.20 post-paid; 6 cans $5, express paid. "THE BEST POULTRY PAPER," sample copy free. Poultry Raising Guide free with $1 orders or more. I. S. JOHNSON & Co., Boston, Mass.

GAIN ONE POUND A Day.

A GAIN OF A POUND A DAY IN THE CASE OF A MAN WHO HAS BECOME "ALL RUN DOWN," AND HAS BEGUN TO TAKE THAT REMARKABLE FLESH PRODUCER,

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE COD LIVER OIL WITH Hypophosphites of Lime & Soda

IS NOTHING UNUSUAL. THIS FEAT HAS BEEN PERFORMED OVER AND OVER AGAIN. PALATABLE AS MILK. ENDORSED BY PHYSICIANS. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. AVOID SUBSTITUTIONS AND IMITATIONS.

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

199, 201, 203, 205, 207 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Jelling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

Branch Office: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

Most Worthy Books for PURCHASE.

CHOICE AND POPULAR AI TO SONGS. 33 songs—each one a Gem. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

THE SONGS OF IRELAND. A new and carefully revised collection of the best and most celebrated Irish songs. Some of the best melodies in existence, and bright, spirited words. 66 songs. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

CHOICE SONG COLLECTIONS.
Song Classics, Vol 1,	50 songs.
Song Classics, Vol. 2,	39 "
Song Classics, Low Voices,	45 "
Choice Sacred Solos,	34 "
Choice Sacred Solos, Low V'ce,	40 "
Classic, Baritone and Bass,	33 "
Classic Tenor Songs,	36 "
Good Old Songs We Used to Sing,	115 "
CHOICE PIANO COLLECTIONS.
Piano Classics Vol. 1,	44 pieces.
Piano Classics, Vol. 2,	31 "
Classical Pianist,	42 "
Popular Dance Collection,	66 "
Popular Piano Collection,	66 "
Operatic Piano Collection,	19 operas.

Price of Each Book, $1. Cloth, Gilt, $2. All are Valuable Collections of the Best Music.

Churchill's BIRTHDAY BOOK of Eminent Composers. A handsome and useful book, $1.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. Ditson & Co., 867 Broadway, New York City

PIANOS ORGANS SUMMER SALE 1890 SUMMER OFFER

BUY in August, September, or October and pay when crops are sold. Spot Cash Prices. The Lowest known. Just a little cash down, balance December 15th. No Interest. Our entire stock—any make—price or style. BEST Summer offer we ever made.

Write for Circular—SUMMER OFFER 1890

LUDDEN & BATES, SAVANNAH, GA.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a Specialty of all the Millinery Novelties of the Season.

Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.

Particular attention paid to orders.

Ladies, please examine our stock.

Marriages.

DUKE.—At the residence of Maj. J. Bentonia, Miss., Jan. 4, 1891, by Scarborough, Prof. Charles Parks, Jan, to Miss Josie Duke, near Me- Miss.

HOWELL.—At the residence of the r, Jan. 1, 1891, by Rev. H. D. How- . Magee and Miss Fannie Howell, county, Miss.

HATCHER.—At the residence of ther, Mr. W. C. Hatcher, in East ish, Dec. 31, 1890, by Rev. Wiley Willie Alvin Powers and Miss Mollie.

—WILSON.—At the M. E. Church, p, Miss., Dec. 23, 1890, by Rev. P. , assisted by Rev. I. L. Peebles, Rev. . G. Cammack and Miss Ethel Wilson.

NETTLES—STOCKWELL.—At the residence of the bride's mother, in East Baton Rouge Parish, Dec. 25, 1890, by Rev. Wiley Brown, Mr. J. E. Nettles, of Arkansas, and Miss Laura Stockwell.

MEEDS—JONES.—At the residence of the bride's father, in East Baton Rouge parish, Dec. 25, 1890, by Rev. Wiley Brown, Mr. John Meeds and Miss Mattie Jones.

MOORE—EASTERLING.—In the Baptist Church, at Fannin, Miss., Dec. 30, 1890, by Rev. D. P. Bradford, Mr. W. F. Moore to Miss Kate Easterling.

JOHNSON—CHAMBERS.—In Rankin county, Miss., Jan. 4, 1891, by Rev. D. P. Bradford, Mr. F. S. Johnson to Miss Bettie Chambers.

DAY—BIRCH.—Dec. 10, 1890, by Rev. P. Howard, Mr. Mallie P. Day and Miss Mary E. Birch, daughter of Mr. N. N. R. Birch, all of St. Helena parish, La.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

IVES—Bro. EUGENE BONNA IVES, son of Christopher and M. M. Ives, was born in Vernon, La., March 12, 1867, and at his home, in Ruston, La., on the morning of Dec. 25, 1890, his pure and spotless spirit took its flight to that bright and better world to join the blood-washed throng that stand around the throne of God, and was ready to sing his Christmas anthem in heaven. His voice was sweet here, but is sweeter there. Louisiana has never been honored with a more intelligent, nobler and Christ-like character than he was. In childhood he was noble and true; a devoted son and affectionate brother. In August, 1883, he was converted under Bro. Sawyer's preaching, and in October, following, he was converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, and ever afterwards lived a consistent Christian life. In 1888, during a protracted meeting in Ruston, held by Bro. Jas. A. Parker, he was "quickened," after which his zeal no laggor knew; but for seven months previous to his transplanting he enjoyed more of the fullness of God. His soul did magnify the Lord. He rejoiced daily in God, his Savior; he had presented his body a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God.

He bore four months of suffering patiently, waiting to be restored to health, to heed the call of his Father and go forth to labor in his vineyard; but, alas! that dreaded fever—typhoid—seized him as its victim. Only an all-wise God can understand why one so brilliant in intellect, so young, so noble and true should be taken when "the field is white unto the harvest, and the laborers so few." But God is too wise to err, too good to do wrong, and saw best, in his wisdom, to take him to himself.

Bro. Ives was a most excellent teacher. It was his endeavor to inculcate the most sterling traits of character, and was much beloved by all his pupils. And for Sunday-school superintendent and teacher, his equal is seldom found. He was an efficient worker anywhere. Truly he was loved by all who knew him; but we who knew him best loved him most.

But now, fond parents, brothers and sisters, let us bow in humble submission to our Father's will. Bro. Eugene is realizing the fulfilment of the promise of Jesus—"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." He lived every day as though it was his last. So let us follow his example, and we will meet him where parting, disappointments, suffering, sorrow nor death will be known no more. May the Lord comfort the hearts of the bereaved ones, and bless his death to the salvation of many souls!—for that would have been his life-work.

E. L. COLIER.

WALKER—Bro. J. B. WALKER was born in Upson county, Ga., Sept. 25, 1826, and died in Grand Cane, La., May 14, 1890, aged sixty-three years and eight months.

His earlier years, and until he reached his maturity, were spent in Georgia as a professional mechanic. Here he formulated a reputable character; that of a good man and true. Here also, in 1852, he was married to Miss C. H. Willis, a most estimable lady of good family. They were happily married, and their domestic career was one of peace and uniform happiness. They raised a large and estimable family of children—most of whom are living, but some are not. He became religious in 1855, and united with the Methodist Church, South. From that time his life was one of uniform piety, till the Master said, 'It is enough; come up higher.' In 1869 he came to Mansfield, La., where he engaged in mercantile life, and by an upright pursuit in business he gained the esteem and confidence of the whole community. He ever maintained the dignity of a well-rounded Christian character. He loved the church of his choice, and was one of its leading supporters. The last six or eight years of his life he spent here, in Grand Cane, where he was much beloved by the people.

In April, 1890, Bro. Walker was attacked with la grippe, and after lingering for some weeks, he yielded to the inevitable, and, in the midst of a devoted family and tried friends, he gently fell on sleep and was gathered to his fathers. No man ever lived or died in Grand Cane who has been missed more than J. B. Walker.

J. P.

SMITH—Died at Columbia, La., on Nov. 16, 1890, ANNIE MAY SMITH, daughter of C. and Annie Smith. Called hence in the morning of life, it seems hard to say, "Thy will be done." But we knew that he who doeth all things well loved her and took her to himself. Intelligent and bright, her sweet disposition and sincere, unaffecting ways were her friends everywhere. It could be truly said of her: "None know her but to love her." Ever willing to do all she could for others, her cheerful smile brought comfort to those in sickness and distress. Her bright face will be missed by many at Sabbath-school, where she was an earnest teacher.

Bereaved father and aunt: Annie May has escaped many of the trials and sorrows of this life, and we feel assured that her bright spirit is now joining the heavenly choir around the great white throne.

L. H. LUNEBERG.

DURHAM—At the residence of her brother, J. W. Durham, Dec. 3, Miss EMMA DURHAM, aged fifteen years.

Pale death has laid his rending hand upon this fair girl. The messenger has come and brought a whisper of grief, a shadow of woe. A gentle voice is hushed; the home that was gladdened by her merry laughter is lonely and desolate; but death loves a shining mark, and no fairer flower was ever called from earth for that bright city in paradise than was our darling Emma. She won by her gentleness the love of all who knew her; but we know that out of this world of sorrow and sin God will carry our Emma into a region of purer and more perfect bliss.

Her sorrowing friend,

FLORENCE.

Getting Ready to Be Happy.

Too many of us are looking forward to happiness in the future years instead of getting all the enjoyment possible out of the present. It is well to remember that the time never will come, in this world, when we shall have everything we want, just where and when we want it. The only way to be happy is to enjoy all we have, to the utmost, as we go along. It is right to lay up for old age in youth; right to prepare for a rainy day, but it is not right to bend all our energies to this end, and put off until the future the happiness we might enjoy every day. It is far too common to see people working and saving, denying themselves all recreation and many comforts, to lay up money to buy more land, to build a larger and finer house, or to save for their children, thinking that when they have accomplished this they will be happy, and begin to take comfort. The hoped-for point may never be attained; or if it is, sickness or death may have come first, and the dear ones whom we expected to be happy with may be gone forever.

How much better to use some of the good things of life as we go along; to make our humble homes as cheery and bright as possible now, instead of waiting for a better house! Don't starve to-day, either body, mind or soul, thinking that you will riot to-morrow. Don't hoard and scrimp through all the best years of your life, that you may be generous in your wills. Life is uncertain, and it is better to make your children happy while they are under the home roof; to call to that home every agency which will make their lives sweeter and better, than to deny them these that you may leave them a large bank account when you are gone.

Don't keep the parlor shut up and live in the kitchen, unless you want the boys and girls to be anxious to leave you. Take time to read, to rest and to enjoy the society of friends. Especially take time to enjoy the companionship of your children. It will only be a few years at best that they will be with you, and these ought to be years of happiness to both you and them. If we are ever happy in this life, we must enjoy what every day brings us. We must be grateful and glad for all the good which comes into our lives, and patiently bear our trials, believing that all, if rightly used, will fit us for the enjoyment of perfect happiness hereafter.—Selected.

There are only two genuine salves for sorrow—prayer and work. Trust in God and keep doing is the best recipe for every human care. There are no wounds of the heart which it will not heal. Strength, fortitude, patience, resignation are as sure to be vouchsafed to the unfortunates who earnestly pray for them, and at the same time are diligent in the performance of their temporal tasks, as the harvest is to follow the planting of seed. Duty is balsamic. Peace is the child of worship.—New York Ledger.

Man's Weakness.

"Man is but a reed, the weakest in nature, but he is a thinking reed. It is not necessary that the entire universe arm itself to crush him. A breath of air, a drop of water suffices to kill him." But, being a "thinking reed," he has been able not only to protect himself from his enemies, but to resist and recover from the attacks of disease and, by combining different elements, to make the forces of nature subservient to his will. Among the most beneficent of these combinations is the remarkable vitalizing agent, Compound Oxygen, which enables the system to resist disease, and also repair its ravages.

Here are a couple of samples of the hundreds of testimonials contained in our brochure and Quarterly. Send for them and convince yourself. Sent free.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"Your Compound Oxygen Treatment has been of incalculable benefit to me in hemorrhages and severe lung troubles." J. A. HOLMES, Spring Ridge, La., Sept. 12, 1889. DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"I certainly have great faith in the power of your Compound Oxygen Treatment in lung diseases." JOHN K. CLARK, M. D., Russellville, Ala. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, Cal.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. FOURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans,

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886, - - - - -	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887, - - - - -	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888, - - - - -	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889, - - - - -	$510,584.54

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, J. BORN, F. STRINGER, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

☞ See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $504,376.52.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT MCGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA, CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - - $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. R. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, JR., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

COME unto me, all ye that labor, and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me: for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.—Matthew xi. 28, 29, 30.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

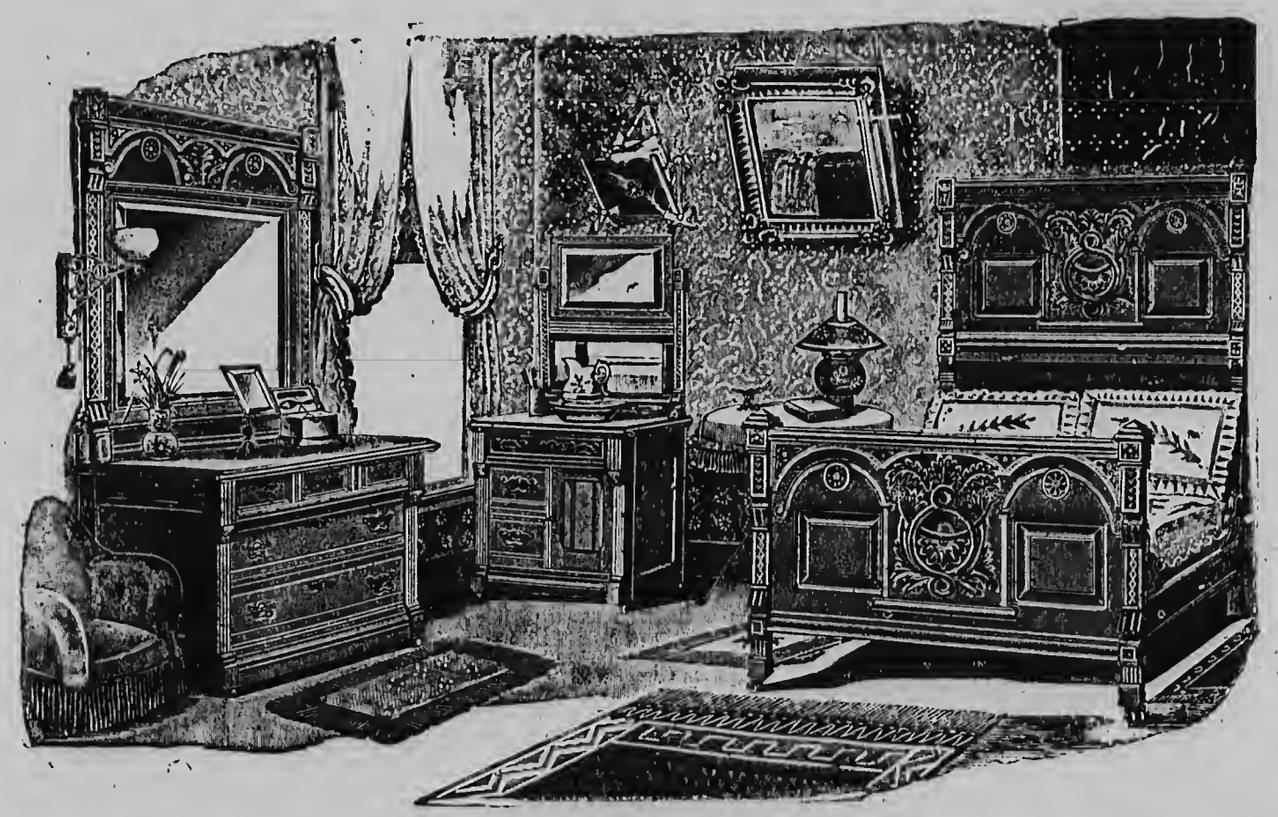
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Velours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

In all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Cornersville, at Potts' Camp	Jan. 17, 18
Shelby Creek, at Pisgah	25, 26
Red Banks	31, Feb. 1
Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove	7, 8
Early Grove, at Sylvestria	17, 16
Ashland	22, 23
Olive Branch	28, Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony	7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. ROSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Okolona sta	Jan. 17, 18
Pontotoc, at Pontotoc	24, 25
Prairie, at Mublon	31, Feb. 1
Nettleton, at Union	7, 8
Saltillo, at Mooresville	14, 15
Smithville and Fulton, at Greenbriar	21, 22
Aberdeen	Mar. 1, 2
Fremont, at New Salem	7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	13

d. B. STONE, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Hebron, at Center Point	Jan. 17, 18
Macon	18, 19
Shuqualak, at Salem	23
Mashulaville, at Macedonia	24, 25
Crawford, at Crawford	30
Brooksville, at Brooksville	31, Feb. 1
Starkville circuit, at Smyrna (Thu.)	5
Tampico circuit, at Sibley	7, 8
Plattsburg circuit, at Center Ridge	13
Louisville circuit, at Louisville	14, 15
Starres circuit, at Bethel	20
Chester circuit, at Chester	21, 22
Macon circuit, at Macon	27
Walthall circuit, at Walthall	28, Mar. 1

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Winona cir	Jac. 15
Greenwood sta	17, 18
Belzona cir	20
Poplar Creek cir	22
Walden cir	24, 25
Sallis cir	29
Richland cir	31, Feb. 1
Ebenezer	7, 8
Newport	11
Weir	15
Ethel	15, 16
West	21, 22
Rural Hill	24
Lexington	28, Mar. 1
Black Hawk	7, 8

The district stewards will please meet me in Winona, at the Methodist Church, Tuesday, January 27, at eleven A. M.

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Cleveland	Jan. 17, 18
Concordia	24, 25
Australia	Feb. 1, 2
Friar's Point	7, 8
Lula	14, 15
Jonestown	21, 22
Belen	Mar. 1, 2
Bolivar	7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Coahoma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lehrton	Apr. 4, 5

District stewards' meeting at Greenville, January 28, nine o'clock A. M. A full attendance is much desired.

R. M. STANDEFER.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

McNutt	Jan. 17, 18
Water Valley	24, 25
Grenada	Feb. 1
Charleston	7, 8
Tillatoba	14, 15
Coffeeville	21, 22
Oxford	Mar. 1
Tocopola	(Tues.) 3
Abbeville	7, 8
Water Valley cir	(Fri.) 13
Banner	14, 15
Carrollton	21, 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir.	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Cherry Hill	(Wed.) 8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Iuka circuit, at Liberty	Jan. 15
Harmony circuit at Harmony	17, 18
Booneville and Rienzi, at Booneville	24, 25
Marietta circuit at Marietta	29
Pleasant Ridge circuit, at New Hope	31, Feb. 1
Corinth circuit at Mt. Carmel	5
Blackland circuit, at Wesley Chapel	7, 8
Blue Springs circuit, at Blue Springs	14, 15
Jonesboro circuit, at Ebenezer	19
Ripley and New Albany, at Ripley	21, 22
Guntown circuit, at Guntown	28, Mar. 1
Ripley circuit, at Paine's Chapel	5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove	7, 8

W. S. LAGRONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Batesville	(Sat. and Sun.) Jan. 17, 18
Panola circuit	(Thurs.) 22
Como	(Sat. and Sun.) 24, 25
Cold Water mission	(Thurs.) 29
Lewisburg	(Sat. and Sun.) 31, Feb. 1
Cold Water and Hernando	(Sa., Su.) 7, 8
Arkabutla	(Thurs.) 12
Pleasant Grove	(Sat. and Sun.) 14, 15
Cocaruin	(Thurs.) 19
Coertland	(Sat. and Sun.) 21, 22
Horn Lake	(Thurs.) 26
Chulahoma	(Sat. and Sun.) 28, Mar. 1
Mt. Vernon	(Sat. and Sun.) 7, 8

District stewards will please meet in Senatobia, at the Methodist Church, nine o'clock A. M., Jan. 21, 1890.

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Shreveport and Mission	Jan. 17, 18
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	21, 25
Pleasant Hill, at Beulah	31, Feb. 1
Mooringsport	7, 8
South Bossier, at Fillmore	14, 15
DeSoto, at Bethel	21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Dolly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 2.

R. MT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bayou Rouff, at Fairview	Jan. 17, 18
Spring Creek, at Camp Ground	24, 25
Sugar Town, at Dry Creek	31, Feb. 1
Alexandria	7, 8
Pineville, at Hickory Grove	14, 15
Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	18, 19
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassus	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beulah	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Alexandria, February 7, 1891.

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bastrop, at Bastrop	Jac 17, 18
Oak Ridge, at Prairie	24, 25
Richland, at Girard	31, Feb. 1
Delhi, at Delhi	7, 8
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	14, 15
Waterproof, at Waterproof	21, 22
Providence, at Providence	28, Mar. 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

District stewards will meet at Delhi, February 3.

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Dryades Street	Jan. 18
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, at P.	25
Algiers	Feb. 1
Morgan Street	8
Baton Rouge	15
Gross Tete and False River, at Har'y	22
Craps Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma, at Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12-15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lafayette	Jan. 17, 18
Opelousas and Washington	24, 25
Patterson and Morgan City	31, Feb. 1
Franklin	7, 8
Lake Arthur	14, 15
Lake Charles	21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Lafayette, January 16, 1891.

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Summerfield	Jan. 17, 18
Arcadia, at Arcadia	24, 25
Ruston, at Ruston	31, Feb. 1
Vernon, at Vernon	7, 8
Gansville	14, 15
Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

District stewards will please meet me at Arcadia, January 24. A full attendance of official members earnestly desired.

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Enterprise and Stonewall sta	Jan. 3, 4
State Line cir., at State Line	10, 11
Waynesboro sta	17, 18
Clarke cir. at Liberty	(Tues.) 20
Shubuta cir., at Shubuta	(Wed.) 21
Lauderdale cir., at Soule's Chapel	24, 25
Meridian cir., at Sageville	31, Feb. 1
Manassas cir., at Energy	7, 8
Vossburg cir., at Vossburg	(Wed.) 11
DeKalb cir., at DeKalb	14, 15
Porterville cir.	21, 22
Meridian, at West End	(Thurs.) 26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar. 1
Meridian, at East End	28, 1
Daleville sta	(Fri.) 6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Blumsville and Wahalak	28, 29

District stewards will meet in First Church, Meridian, Tuesday, Jan. 27, at nine A. M. Full attendance is desired.

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Ellisville, at Ellisville	Jan. 10, 11
Purvis, at Lumberton	17, 18
Hattiesburg, at Hattiesburg	24, 25
Estabuchie, at Heltron	31, Feb. 1
Williamsburg, at Emluence	(Mon.) 2
Heidleburg, at Heidleburg	7, 8
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	14, 15
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs	(Tu., W.) 17, 18
Pearlington, at Pearlington	21, 22
Perry, at Isabella	28, Mar. 1
Americus, at Caswell Springs	7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point	(night) 8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove	(W., Th.) 11, 12
Whittington, at Whittington	14, 15
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	Mar. 21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, 29

District stewards will please meet me in Hattiesburg, Feb. 4, at ten A. M.

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Magnolia, at Magnolia	Jan. 17, 18
Adams, at Adams	(Fri.) 23
Summit, at Summit	24, 25
Beauregard, at Matthews	(Sat.) 31
Wesson sta	Feb. 1, 2
Brookhaven cir., at Adams	(Tues.) 3
McComb, at Tenisaw	7, 8
Crystal Springs sta	14, 15
Hazlehurst sta	21, 22
Rowerton, at Brandywine	28, Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon	(Mon.) 2
Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	7, 8
China Grove, at Waterholes	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton	(Tues.) 17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Baliala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Clarksburg, at New Providence	Jan. 17, 18
Forest and Morton, at Mor on	18, 19
Homewood, at Grange Hall	24, 25
Lake, at Lake	31, Feb. 1
Rose Hill, at Rose Hill	7, 8
Newton and Hickory, at Hickory	8, 9
Westville, at Pleasant Hill	14, 15
Shiloh, at Cato	21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron	10
Marvin, at Marvin	14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	21, 22
Raleigh, at Trinity	28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton	29, 30

The district stewards will meet in Forest, Wednesday, Jan. 21. Let every charge be represented.

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Fayette, at Fayette	Jan. 17, 18
Martin, at Cane Ridge	24, 25
Port Gibson	25, 26
Mayersville, at Beulah	Feb. 1, 2
Warren, at Oak Ridge	7, 8
Rolling Fork, at Carey	15, 16
Rocky Springs, at Hermonville	21, 22
Burtonton, at Pisgah	(Mon.) 23
Utica, at Utica	(Wed.) 25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	(Mon.) 14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 23

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

North Wilkinson, at Mt. Carmel	Jan. 16
Gloster and Centerville, at Gloster	17, 18
Amite circuit, at Mt. Vernon	19
Bayou Sara, at Concord	24, 25
East Feliciana, at Independence	—, Feb. 1
St. Helena, at McLean's Chapel	7, 8
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	14, 15
Live Oak, at Palmetto	17
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent	19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson station	25
Clinton station	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tallsheck	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Springfield, at Kiffian Chapel	21, 22
Amite City, at Amite City	23

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Capitol Street, Jackson	(Thu. night) Jan. 15
Bee Lake station	17, 18
Sharon, at Mt. Pleasant	(Sa.) 24
Camden, at Camden	(Sun.) 25
Mt. Olivet, at Fletcher	31, Feb. 1
Bentonia and Hover, at Bentonia	7, 8
Yazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel	14, 15
Yazoo City station	(Sun. night, Mon.) 15, 16
Benton, at Bowman's	21, 22
Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The retiring State treasurer of Arkansas is a defaulter for a large amount. It is thought the amount is $90,000.

A decisive battle between the hostile Indians and U. S. troops is regarded as imminent. The cordon of troops are drawn closer each day.

The Howard Library Annex, a building devoted to the preservation of the relics and records of Louisiana's war history, was dedicated on Jan. 8.

The chairman of the National Prohibition party's Executive Committee lectured in Birmingham, Ala., on Jan. 11, and reorganized the State party under favorable auspices.

The pig iron furnaces of the Shenango and Mahoning Valleys of Western Pennsylvania are shutting down. They can not continue business, owing to the large amount of Southern iron being shipped into that district.

A national bank will soon be organized in New Iberia, La. The papers have been received from the comptroller at Washington, and at a meeting of interested persons, on Jan. 10, the capital stock—$50,000—was taken up.

Gen. Miles, in command of the forces in the Indian country, sent a messenger to the hostiles on Jan. 12, saying they must come into the reservation in small squads, and go into camp near the friendly Indians. He refuses to parley with them. They must surrender, or he will go after them.

The Cunard Steamship Company has contracted for the building of two large fast steamers, of 12,000 tons each, which will make the voyages between New York and Queenstown in five days and eight hours, and New York and Liverpool under six days, at a speed of twenty-two knots an hour. The ships are to be built on the Clyde, to cost $2,000,000 each, and to be ready in 1892.

The gubernatorial situation in Nebraska remains unchanged. Governor Boyd is recognized by all the State officers, while Governor Thayer insists that he is still at the head of the State government. It is evident that Governor Boyd's warrants will not be honored by the auditor and treasurer, while Governor Thayer will not be able to have supplies for his militia men, pending the settlement to the controversy by the Supreme Court.

Representative Blanchard, of Louisiana, said, in referring to his resolution introduced on Jan. 12, to investigate the condition of affairs in New Hampshire, that as the Republicans had three times sent committees to Louisiana to examine into the politics of the State, he thought it about time the Democrats had a chance at a Republican State, especially when it was believed that the Republican party had deliberately stolen the State from the Democrats.

Assistant United States Engineer Douglass, at present in Natchez, has received orders from the War Department to make a preliminary survey and estimate of the cost of the work that is necessary to protect the harbors of Natchez and Vidalia, which are threatened with destruction by reason of the changes that are taking place in the current of the river, caving banks, etc. Mr. Douglass thinks the danger is imminent, and will at once commence the survey.

New York gamblers have counterfeited Louisiana Lottery tickets, and after the winning numbers are wired by a New Orleans confederate, they are placed on the tickets and offered for sale to the unwary. It is said Boston, Philadephia, and Harrisonburg, Pa., are also in the scheme, which has been worked successfully for three months. The Louisiana Lottery Company, being in an unlawful business, has no redress.

Bradford McGregor, the mechanical expert, of Cincinnati, has succeeded, after numerous experiments, in uniting aluminium with glass, and he claims to be the first who has done so. Heretofore no metal could be made to unite with glass in which the contraction and expansion were the same, and it is claimed this will create a revolution in the way of reducing the cost of incandescent lights, as it will take the place of platinum, which cost $320 a pound, while the new discovery will not cost $10.

FOREIGN.

The President of Chili refuses to make coucessions to the people, and a revolution is expected.

The relief fund raised in response to the recent declaration issued by the viceroy and Chief Secretary Balfour, concerning the condition of the poor in western Ireland, now reaches a total of £14,000. Among the latest contributions to the fund are £200 sent by Queen Victoria and £100 donated by Hon. J. J. Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer.

The London Standard says: "The present reticence of the two Irish parties is a sign that an energetic attempt is being made to patch up the quarrel, both sides realizing the difficulty of moving the national train with an engine at each end. The probable result of the conference of the Irish leaders will be renewal of the Parnell regime, after a short sham retirement."

The steamship Britannia, from Leith, came into collision with the steamer Bear, from Ganges Mouth, in the Frith of Forth, Scotland, on Jan 11. The Bear sank immediately, her crew having no time to launch a boat or make any effort whatever to save themselves. Of the fourteen men on board the Bear, twelve went down with the vessel. The two others were rescued by a boat from the Britannia.

In response to addresses Mr. Parnell delivered a lengthy speech to a vast multitude in Limerick, on Jan. 11. He said that Mr. Gladstone has caused the present trouble by issuing a mandatory letter directing that the Irish members depose their leader, and he asked the audience to disbelieve the paltry and contemptible motives attributed to him. As soon as the future of the Irish question is assured, he would cheerfully retire from the leadership of the Irish party.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	7	@ — —
Ordinary	7 1/16	— —
Good ordinary	7 15-16	— —
Low middling	8 11-16	— —
Middling	9 1/4	— —
Good middling	10 3/16	— —
Middling fair	11 1/2	— —
Fair	12 1/4	— —
Galveston middling	9 1/2	— —
Mobile middling	9 1-16	— —
Memphis middling	9 3-16	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	3 13-16	3 7/8
Fully fair	3 13-16	3 7/8
Good fair	3 9-16	— —
Common	3 5/8	3 1/2
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3 3/4	4 5/8
Prime yellow	4 15-16	5
Gray white	5	5 1-16
Choice white	5 1/4	5 15-16
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	33
Fair	15	10
Good common	15	10
SYRUP	20	23
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2 3/4
Good	4 7/8	5
Fair	4 1/2	4 3/4
Prime	4 5/8	5 1/8
Rough, ₱ bbl	2 00	4 25
POLISH, ₱ ton	20 00	— —
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 00	5 10
Fancy	4 60	4 75
Choice	4 25	— —
Minnesota Patents	5 75	5 90
Winter wheat patents	5 25	5 37 1/2
Minnesota bakers	5 00	5 25
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 00	— —
Cream meal	3 35	— —
Grits	3 40	— —
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	68	64
Yellow	— —	63
Mixed No. 2	62 1/2	63
OATS:
Western	— —	55
Texas rust-proof	— —	58
BRAN:
₱ cwt	1 10	1 15
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 50
Choice	16 00	16 50
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	11 25	11 50
Prime Mess	10 50	10 75
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8 1/4	8 3/4
Shoulders	5 1/2	5 5/8
Sides, short rib	6 1/8	6 1/2
Sides, long clear	6 1/2	6 3/8
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	10	10 1/4
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4 1/2	4 5/8
Sides, short rib	5 3/4	5 7/8
Sides, long clear	5 5/8	5 3/4
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20 3/4	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17 1/4	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	60
Ile-No	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	— —	30
Western Dairy	18	20
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5 1/2	5 5/8
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9 1/4	— —
Coal, cases	13 1/2	14
Cotton seed, crude	— —	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	8 00	10 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 00	4 50
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	4 00	4 50
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7	— —
Jute, 1 3/4 lb. ₱ yard	6 1/4	— —
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	8 1/2	12 1/2
TIES:
₱ bundle	1 35	1 87 1/2
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	5 00
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	21	22
Southern	23	24
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₱ lb	3 1/4	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₱ lb	— —	2 1/2
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, January 13.

Doughnuts.

You like doughnuts, try this recipe. Three eggs, two-thirds cup fine granulated sugar, half cup sweet milk, one teaspoonful cream tartar, half teaspoonful soda, half a nutmeg, salt to taste, and flour, to mix soft dough. If your stomach is weak and will not digest the food your appetite craves, assist it by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine gives tone and strength to the digestive organs, promotes a natural appetite, and benefits the whole system.

The advertisement, to become an efficient drummer up of new business, must be characterized by the freshness and impressiveness of a personal interview.—Nashville Banner.

Mr. Gladstone, in a recent letter, says: "The Irish parliamentary party has vindicated itself by putting an end to the leadership of Mr. Parnell, and has left us prepared to pursue as heretofore our duty in denouncing unequal laws and the odious system of coercion adopted by the government as a permanent law."

Style, symmetry and beauty in an advertisement always attract attention. —Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,

106 Camp Street, New Orleans,

EVERY SKIN AND SCALP DISEASE, whether torturing, disfiguring, humiliating, itching burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, from pimples to the most distressing eczemas, and every humor of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, is speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood and Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. This is strong language, but true. Thousands of grateful testimonials from infancy to age attest their wonderful, unfailing and incomparable efficacy.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Pimples, black-heads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains, and Muscular Weakness relieved in one minute by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25c.

Shepard & Butler,

94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.,

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

PIANOS P. WERLEIN, ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

Mention this paper.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition!

PIANOS From $25 Upwards.

ORGANS From $20 Upwards.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

H. Dudley Coleman Co., Lim'd

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President.

EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS.

Telephone—Office and Foundry, 688.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO., Limited, or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO

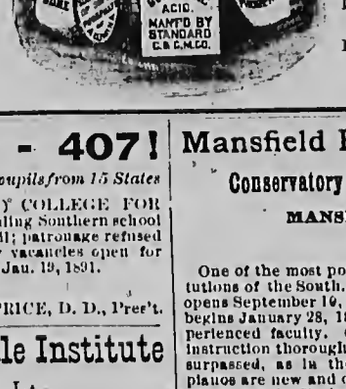
STERN'S

Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE:

14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.



MANUFACTURERS OF

"High Grade Bone Fertilizers,"

"Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate,

"Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone,

"Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate,

DISSOLVED BONE,

ACID PHOSPHATE

Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc.

BONE BLACK.

N. C. Y. L. - 407!

N. C. Y. L. Patronage, 407 pupils from 15 States

THE NASHVILLE (Tenn.) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES is the leading Southern school for girls. Crowded all the fall; patronage refused for want of room. A few vacancies open for Second Term, which begins Jan. 19, 1891.

Apply at once to

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D., Pres't.

Millwood Female Institute

JACKSON, LA.

This Boarding and Day School for Young Ladies is delightfully situated amid the hills of East Feliciana, five miles from Ethel, on the Mississippi Valley railroad. Collegiate Course complete. Seventy-five dollars will cover all expenses for a term of twenty weeks. Music, Languages, and Art extra. School opens September 1. Send for Catalogue.

(Miss) M. MCCALMONT, Prin.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

GARMENTS GUARANTEED TO FIT PERFECT WITHOUT TRYING ON.

FREE

by return mail full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style to any measure for lady or child. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

Mansfield Female College

Conservatory of Music and Art.

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most popular and flourishing institutions of the South. The Sixty-seventh Session opens September 10, 1890, and the Spring Term begins January 28, 1891, with an able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive, instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. The pianos are new and of the best make. The Technicon and the Techniphone are used to facilitate the work in the music department, placing this department beyond competition. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

The location is unsurpassed for beauty and attractiveness, and the school is celebrated for the remarkable record for good health maintained. The climate is the best in which to educate, and the place is the safest for girls. The main building is of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, warmed and ventilated. Ample provision for the table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical. A new building with a large audience hall is in contemplation, and extensive improvements are in progress to make this the grandest institution in the State.

For catalogue and particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

Centenary College

*JACK

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 4. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1796.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

The Religious Newspaper.

In a world where sin abounds, where Satan subsidizes men and money to unite his forces in solid phalanx to march in unbroken column to assault the line of righteousness, such an ally as the religious newspaper can not be ignored by any minister of Christ. In these days of hard and continuous fighting between rigbteousness and unrighteousness, the minister who does not bring all his forces upon the field is endangering his cause, and is as culpable as the general who perils victory by not ordering up his reserves. A minister's success depends largely upon his own information, and the spread of knowledge among his people. In the church history that is being made today, the religious newspaper affords the only available means by which to arrive at correct information in regard to the present church-life and the improved and approved methods of church work. The leaders in these matters are men and women who are watchful of the times, and studious to adapt their methods of work to the changing conditions of things, and thus keep in the lead; and it is only through the church paper that they can and do communicate their plans to the church. If any minister, or any private Christian, or any church would get the benefit of the thought and methods and work of these leaders, there must be some channel of communication between them, some point of contact. The religious paper is the only channel of communication, the only point of contact between religious leaders and their followers. The plain inference is, that we must use the church paper to "keep in touch" with the leaders, and thus go forward, or we will fall behind, and finally straggle from the ranks of God's army!

Another point we desire to make: It is a fact, established by observation and experience, that a church, imbued with the idea of its true worth in the world, and well informed as to the needs of the times, will always respond cheerfully to all judicious demands made upon her time and money. The pastors, among whose people the religious paper circulates freely, will, doubtless, testify that the influence of the paper has aided them much in the promotion of piety, in the ingathering of persons into the Christian fold, and in raising their collections. The reason is plain. While these matters have been placed before the people in an intelligent manner, and they have been kept informed as to the needs of the church, and as to their obligations to help supply those needs, and have been instructed in the best ways and means to do church work by the pastors, the horizon of view has been broadened, and the instructions of the pastors have been corroborated by the weekly visits of the church paper. Among a people where the religious journal circulates largely, it is true that the "conditions of a larger intelligence have been afforded, and a breadth of spirituality attained," which does not discover itself in those places where such a paper does not circulate. No one finds out this truth quicker than our presiding elders. Now, there is nothing so important in church progress as intelligence and spirituality. Growing intelligence and deepening spirituality are the two most potent factors in real church work; and if the religious paper promotes these, then it should be used everywhere for all it is worth.

If these things are so, the minister who is too indifferent to urge the claims of the church paper upon the attention of his people, needs to be waked up from his neutral condition. If these things are so, the minister who looks upon it as beneath his dignity to work earnestly and persistently to put the religious paper in all the homes of his people, had better begin to learn the lesson of true dignity from the Master, who put himself on the level with the lowest, that he might put his loving arms around them, and lift them up to higher planes.

This is the second instalment given to induce our pastors to redouble their efforts in behalf of that agency which is such a power for good among their people—the religious newspaper.

THE EDITOR.

Young Preachers—No. 1.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

A preacher of the gospel, of course, must be "a new creature in Christ Jesus," and a spiritual citizen of Christ's spiritual kingdom, before he can be called to the office of an ambassador, and sent forth to represent Christ's kingdom to rebellious men. It is contrary to all analogy and all wise policy to have an alien and a citizen of one kingdom represent another, especially if these kingdems are in a state of open and declared antagonism. "No man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God, even as Aaron." Upon the apostasy and defection of Judas, the disciples put forward two men, whom they supposed to be equally qualified to fill the vacated place; so they asked God in earnest prayer "to show of these two men the one whom thou hast chosen." Matthias was chosen, "and he was numbered with the eleven apostles." "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest." God gives the "pastors and teachers for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building of the body of Christ"—the church being his body, in which he dwells by the Holy Spirit.

The call to the work of the gospel ministry we understand to be an inward conviction or persuasion wrought by the Holy Spirit that to preach is my life-work, my divinely chosen mission, my imperative duty, and woe is me if I do it not. Men by thousands in the state churches choose the ministry as a profession and means of livelihood as they do the law, medicine, or any secular calling. Others go into this work simply as a good field of usefulness, and more agreeable to them than any other; but without any inward conviction that it is the divinely appointed and peculiar work of their lives. My young brother, do not preach merely because it may be a useful vocation. Unless inwardly moved by the Holy Spirit to take upon you the office and work of the ministry, do not do it; but if so moved, then, at your peril and at all hazards, "preach the Word," and let it be your motto, "Only Jesus will I know, and Jesus crucified."

Consider the exalted dignity of your holy calling, God's ambassador. You go forth in his awful, but gracious, name to convey and express to redeemed, but still rebellious, men the immutable, but gracious, conditions on which God is willing to pardon and save rebellious sinners. You are to speak as though God were entreating men; you beseech men, on behalf of Christ, to be reconciled to God. How unseemly to talk much of yourself in the sacred desk, when you should be supremely occupied in presenting the crucified Redeemer as the only "name under heaven that is given among men, wherein we must be saved!" You can see, at a glance, the unseemliness of obtruding the mention of yourself and your personal affairs when appearing as an ambassador before any royal or imperial personage with the credentials of your office, and the instructions with which you were charged to his government. Any ambassador who should so far forget the exalted purpose of his mission would be considered impertinent, frivolous, or daft, and unfit for the great responsibility of his high office. Yet there have been examples in the pulpit of men who seemed more anxious to represent themselves than the sublime and glorious Being in whose august name they claimed to speak to sinful and dying men. You will have before you congregations of hundreds and thousands of men—men for whom the Lord of all did heavenly bliss forego, and tasted death to save. You have the grand and honored opportunity to offer to them pardon and eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. How far it should raise you above the little thought of self; how it should engross your heart and mind, and burden all your words! You should be profoundly impressed with the value of opportunities, and with the unspeakable peril of permitting them to pass away unheeded and unimproved. Every Sabbath many are hearing their last sermon, and some are making their last offer of salvation to the guilty and the dying. You can never know but what you are preparing or preaching your last sermon. How truthfully candid, how lovingly earnest ought you to be, in view of these dread and solemn possibilities! May you be ever, as the great apostle, feeling that your heart's desire and prayer to God is, that your hearers may be saved!

A Negro Conference.

The North Mississippi Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church has just closed a pleasant, profitable and harmonious session in Senatobia, Miss.

Bishop R. R. Dizeny presided. His opening address—called annual address by the Conference—was a solid, sensible and spiritual speech. It was full of good sense, good advice, and practical wisdom. He gave strong emphasis to the fact that no man was qualified to teach the way of salvation, no matter what his attainments might be, unless he was himself a saved man, living in the constant enjoyment of religion, and having the direct witness of the Spirit. The Bishop urged the preachers to teach the people how to be virtuous, honest, honorable and trustworthy in all the relations of life. Character, said he, is worth everything; is everything in this world, and in the world to come. Teach your people to be virtuous, to have the highest respect and reverence for womanhood. No people have made any commendable advancement in civilization who did not respect, honor and protect their women. He gave the preachers to understand that he would not lay his official hands on the head of any man to ordain him to the ministry who had two living wives, unless he was divorced from one of them for scriptural cause. The time has come when we must set a premium on virtue, and on the sanctity of the marital relation. A higher civilization, to say nothing of Christianity, demands this. Teach your people to buy homes; to whitewash, if they can not paint, their house; to tidy up things in their homes and about their premises; and teach them to stay at home, to stop going on exoduses to the North and West. This is the best country in the world for the colored man. His best friends are here; and if he is honest, honorable and religious, he will be respected by all good people. You preachers, keep out of politics. You are men of one work, separated to the Christian ministry, and sent to save souls, and not to run the government. Politics, he said, if I know anything about it, is a science, a deep science; and negroes know but little about it. They are badly beaten when they come into competition, or conflict, with men who have been trained in this science. Let politics alone. Be true to God and to your work, and God will take care of you. My brethren, I am confident that our God has this colored race in training for some good end, for some mighty purpose. I do not know, can not divine, what it is; but his purposes will ripen as fast as we are made ready for his divine plans. As a people, we have done much, have made great advancement; but we are far short of what we ought to be, what God wants us to be. The future, the great and illimitable future, is before us, and upward and onward ought to be our motto. We have just begun, just fairly begun to see and understand what we can do and be. Take courage, my brethren, but be humble, for humility lies at the base of all true greatness.

In this strain, for more than an hour, the Bishop, who seems to be a saintly man, discoursed to the Conference. His speech fell with power on the preachers and people. It was attended with the demonstration of the Spirit. It put me in a happy frame of mind.

Bishop Dizeny seems to be a man of too much heart, too kindly a feeling, to preside well in a body where nine-tenths of the men want to speak on every question, great or small, that comes up. The negro likes to speak, and most of them spoke well, and used, in the main, good language. The old-time negro lingo is a thing of the past in this country. It is well enough to preserve specimens of it for coming generations. It will be a mile-stone to mark the progress made. If any man thinks the negro is not advancing, let him attend one of their Conferences a few days, with his eyes and ears open, and, if not rendered totally blind by prejudice, he will soon discover what a mistake he has made. He is moving forward; is crawling up out of the darkness into the light. He is building schools and colleges, enterprising and running publishing houses and papers, writing books and printing and publishing them; editing papers, magazines and reviews; enterprising missions, and managing the whole machinery of large ecclesiastical organizations. When I look back twenty-five years, and see him as he was, and then look at him as he is now, I can hardly believe my own eyes. See what God hath wrought!

I bought a book from the author, Dr. Coppin, a negro, on "The Relation of Baptized Children to the Church;" and a good book it is, worthy of a place in any man's library. It would be a helpful book to all Christian parents. Dr. Coppin is the editor of the Colored People's Quarterly Review, and a creditable review it is. He is a Republican in sentiment, and in all his utterances on public questions; but what of that? He lives in a Republican city, hails from a Republican State, and is situated in the midst of Republican surroundings. The wonder is, that he is as temperate as he is. I know of many hundreds and thousands of good men who are Republicans. Shall every man be of my party, of my political faith? If so, politics would be too monotonous to have any interest. Dr. Coppin came here as a Methodist preacher, as general manager of the publishing interests of his church, and as editor of the Quarterly Review, and he conducted himself as a Christian gentleman. I am glad I met him. He is a fine sample of what religion and education will do for the negro. He fills me with hope. He is a solution of the great unsolved problem of this Southland, in which I was born and reared, for which I served nearly four years in the army, where I have spent all my days, and under the sod of which I expect to be buried. The saving grace of God by Christ and Christian education will solve every problem that concerns the elevation and salvation of poor, fallen humanity in this country, and in every other country on the face of the globe. When God dies, and Christ ceases to be, and the Holy Ghost fails to perform his office, I'll give up hope; but not till then. No, no. GILDEROY.

Jan. 14, 1891.

Letter from Little Rock.

Prof. Drummond, in that admirable brochure of his, "The Greatest Thing in the World," asserts that anger is one of the most destructive elements in human nature. Its peculiarity is that it is the vice of the virtuous. It is often the one blot on an otherwise noble character. A Christian man who would scorn to be guilty of any of the grosser sins, and whose general conduct is consistent and upright, will allow his temper to gain the complete mastery of him, and to lead him into thoughts and words which are as certainly sinful as though he had committed some overt act of transgression. Solomon was never wiser than when he said: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." There are sins of the disposition as well as of the body; and while society condemns the last as the worst, I am not sure that the verdict is a correct one. It is certain that no form of vice or worldliness does more to unchristianize society than evil temper. It introduces discord into families, dissensions into the church, strife into business, and dissonance into all the relations of life. It breaks up communities, embitters life, destroys the most sacred relationships, sours men and women, takes the joy from childhood and the light from home. Its withering, blasting effects are seen in the destruction of Christian character, in "taking up a reproach" against a neighbor, in the drying up of all the fountains of love and charity.

Christ said to one of these unlovely characters, "I say unto you that the publicans and harlots go into the kingdom of heaven before you." A man with such a disposition would destroy the happiness of heaven, and Drummond is right when he says that to enter heaven a man must take it with him. If one of these grumbling, faultfinding, ill-tempered Christians should get to heaven, the first thing he would do would be to go around and stir up a fuss with Gabriel about the angelic choir!

We have been accustomed to talk about certain sins as venial, and so they are. "But to the eye of him who is Love, a sin against love may seem a hundred times more base." It is the soul, mind, disposition, character which are to be saved. What elements are there in a churlish, ill-natured, bad-tempered character, which will make it fit for heaven? So let us cultivate love, charity, meekness, forbearance. I heard it said once of a man that he seemed to have swallowed a lot of sunshine, and was giving it out as he went through the world. No higher compliment could have been paid.

The Nestor of our Little Rock Conference, Dr. Andrew Hunter, is just such a sunshiny man. In his peaceful old age he enjoys, to the fullest extent, the love and confidence of everyone who knows him—and that includes almost the entire population of Arkansas. The State Senate has done itself the honor of making him its chaplain. Another of our preachers, the Rev. F. A. Jeffett, presiding elder of the Searcy district, was elected chaplain of the House.

Our Conferences have now been over for a month, and the preachers have all settled down to work. Arkansas Methodism made progress along all lines last year, the Little Rock Conference alone reporting a net gain of 2,756 members.

We are looking forward with much pleasure to the church extension anniversary, which is to be held in our First Church, beginning March 27. We hope to have the editor of the ADVOCATE with us at that time. We trust that it will be an occasion of great interest, and that it will call a large number of visitors to our "City of Roses."

The church press is still occupied with discussions of the "Kelley case." We have a more quiet way of disposing of such matters here in Arkansas, and not a ripple was created by the White River Conference suspending Bro. Fizer, who ran for governor, and Bro. Ford, who was elected to the Legislature, both of these brethren leaving their work to make the canvass. By the way, our church has very clearly demonstrated its non-political bias in the case of these three brethren, Dr. Kelley being on the Prohibition ticket, Fizer on the Union Labor and Republican and Ford on the Democratic. It is devoutly to be hoped that after this our preachers will keep out of politics.

Longfellow says that "into each life some rain must fall;" but I think that people in this section get more than their share. We had nearly a month of bright weather before Christmas; but the clouds have been dripping enough since to atone for it.

M. B. CHAPMAN.

Little Rock, Jan. 15, 1891.

Mississippi Conference Minutes.

The printer promises to have them out in twelve days. I would like to have the postoffice of every minister, so as to make a complete roll with postoffices attached. Very few of the subscribers to the Minutes have sent their postoffices. The Minutes will cost about fourteen cents apiece, including postage. Many subscribers only paid ten cents per copy. They will please include four cents additional when they send the name of their postoffice.

This notice, together with the assessments, was sent to the ADVOCATE two weeks ago; but it seems that it never came to hand.

C. G. ANDREWS, Sec.

Meridian, Miss., Jan. 16, 1891.

Notice to Sunday-School Workers.

There will be a meeting of great interest to the Sunday-school workers held in the places named below, at the time stated.

These meetings will be Sunday-school institutes, held under the auspices of the International Sunday-school Convention, in connection with the Mississippi State Sunday-school Convention. They are to be held as follows:

Holly Springs, Miss., Feb. 23, 24 and 25, 1891.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 26, 27 and 29, 1891.

Brookhaven, Miss., March 2, 3 and 4, 1891.

Meridian, Miss., March 5, 6 and 7, 1891.

Hon. Wm. Reynolds (Illinois), ex-president of the International Sunday-school Convention, will conduct these institutes. He will have with him Rev. Chas. M. Morton, of Chicago.

Every Sunday-school superintendent and teacher should attend these meetings, as it is for them that they are being held.

All who attend will be entertained by the people of the town in which the institutes are to be held.

L. W. CURTIS, State Sec'y,
Tupelo, Miss.

For any additional information, address Rev. L. W. Curtis, State secretary, Tupelo, Miss., or John T. Buck, chairman Executive Committee, Jackson, Miss.

Spurgeon—Parker.

A writer in the Northern Christian Advocate thus contrasts these two eminent preachers of London:

Spurgeon spoke from the text, "As thou hast sent me into the world even so have I sent them into the world." Subject: The parallel commission of Christ and Christians. Parker spoke from the text "The sons of Eli were the sons of Belial," or hereditary Broken. Both speak extempore, each with a few notes before him, though with Parker I would not vouch that he had any. Spurgeon talks. Parker thunders. Spurgeon leads you like a shepherd from Scripture to Scripture, from green mead to running brook, till one feels the shadows of doubt and error lift on the hills and sees only Christ. An hour's walk with Spurgeon will cure any spiritual distemper. You will come back saying: "The old is all true. Jesus is all in all. 'In the volume of the book it is written of me.'" How this plain man, with one hand moving the chair by his side, the other in his vest, and without grace or art or style or rhetoric—how he does envy you! He? no; you scarcely think of him. Behind him is One greater, and it is his face you can see as plainly on a Sunday at the Tabernacle in Newington as in any spot on earth.

Parker is a poet as well as an actor and preacher. His sermons are epics. He is full of bird music, and now and then you seem to see English woods and meadows, and hear the falls of Niagara, even in the midst of London. Spurgeon is only a preacher. He attempts nothing else. His books are not books, but sermons. He is a messenger with a great volume of good news, and he delights to open and tell it. He links Scripture to Scripture. Bible names, figures, characters, are his alphabet. Parker knows Scripture, too. He has made a new Bible in his great work, "The People's Bible," but in his sermonizing he quotes rarely; but when he does, you are startled with the new meaning.

Spurgeon is a steady light; Parker is a fire, fitful and at times fearful. Spurgeon is a meadow with one winding stream—the River of Life. Parker seems a volcano with rumble and fire and quaking, and some ashes. But who can make volcanoes without ashes? And who minds, if at your feet you see the bay of Naples?

Both are masters and models. Anglo-Saxon conquerors and conquests. Six months under the shadow of their pulpit would surpass a year in any seminary for pulpit training. They are vast reservoirs of suggestion and uplift. They are the Wellingtons and Napoleons in the campaign of truth. The force and leadership they bring to Christianity can not be measured. Great contestants for the Book and its one Personage, what a strife they wage in the capital of the world, and the age of all ages material and mammon-led. For these twin towers of Protestant strength all the Anglo-Saxon world should lift hands of prayer and give only words of praise and blessing. The battle they wage is ours. Where by pen and voice they strike, the strife is fiercest for a pure faith and a high civilization. For these apostles in the true succession let the church thank God and take courage.

A heart in heaven will be a most excellent preservative against sin. It will keep the heart well employed. When we are idle, we tempt the devil to tempt us: as careless persons make thieves.—Baxter.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JAN. 22, 1891.

MY LEGACY.

BY HELEN HUNT JACKSON.

They told me I was heir: I turned in haste,
And ran to seek my treasure,
And wondered as I ran how it was placed—
If I should find a measure
Of gold, or if the titles of fair lands
And houses would be laid within my hands.

I journeyed many roads. I knocked at gates;
I spoke to each wayfarer
I met, and said, "A heritage awaits
Me. Art not thou the bearer
Of news? Some message sent to me whereby
I learn which way my new possessions lie?"

Some asked me in, naught lay beyond their door;
Some smiled, and would not tarry,
But said that men were just behind who bore
More good than I could carry—
And so the morn, the noon, the day, were spent,
While empty-handed up and down I went.

At last one cried whose face I could not see,
As through the mists he hasted:
"Poor child, what evil ones have hindered thee
Till this whole day is wasted?
Hath no man told thee that thou art joint-heir
With one named Christ, who waits the goods to share?"

The one named Christ I sought for many days,
In many places vainly;
I heard men name his name in many ways,
I saw his temple plainly,
But they who named him most gave me no sign
To find him by, or prove the heirship mine.

And when at last I stood before his face,
I knew him by no token
Save subtle air of joy which filled the place;
Our greeting was not spoken.
In solemn silence I received my share,
Kneeling before my brother and "joint-heir."

My share! No deed of house or spreading lands,
As I had dreamed; no measure
Heaped up with gold; my elder brother's hand
Had never held such treasure.
Foxes have holes, and birds in nests are fed;
My brother had not where to lay his head.

My share! The right like him to know all pain
Which hearts are made for knowing;
The right to find in loss the surest gain;
To reap my joy from sowing
In bitter tears; the right with him to keep
A watch by day and night with all who weep.

My share! To-day men call it grief and death;
I see the joy and life to-morrow,
I thank our Father with my every breath,
For this sweet legacy of sorrow;
And through my tears I call to see each, "Joint-heir
With Christ, make haste to ask him for thy share."

The Age of Organization.

BY M'KENDREE M. BLACK.

The tendency to organized effort for the accomplishment of various schemes, is a noticeable feature of the times. In itself, it is a healthy indication, a sign of prosperity; but we are in danger of overdoing the matter. As the English, during the South Sea Bubble, seemed possessed of but one desire, that of buying up stocks, so the people of to-day seem to have but one idea, and this is that everything can be done through the medium of organizations. Few are the trades and professions which boast not an organization of some kind; indeed, "societies" and "unions" have multiplied so rapidly of late as almost to defy enumeration.

It is true, that "in union there is strength;" but there is a limit in all things. A rich soil will support large trees when they are not too thick; otherwise, some of them must needs become dwarfed. Similary, the over-multiplication of organizations is likely to seriously check the growth and prosperity of the country. This tendency to excessive organization has even crept into some of the churches, and has so multiplied their machinery as to prove not only burdensome, but harmful. From several quarters comes the complaint that the multiplication of machinery is weakening the power of the churches by causing a division of forces. As yet there is no serious cause for alarm; but conservatism along this line would seem to be the best policy. In any case the more complex is a machine, the greater the friction, and the less effective is the force applied.

Within recent years it has become popular to relieve want and suffering through the medium of societies. Great good is often accomplished through such agencies; yet the fact remains that the unfortunate accept whatever assistance comes in this way as a matter of course. Unfortunately in relief societies, many of the members think they have discharged their full duty when they have made a contribution or paid their assessment. But kind words and hearty sympathy form a part of beneficence no less than pecuniary relief, and are oftimes appreciated even more. They are the sunshine which cheers the darkened lives of the poor and unfortunate.

Labor organizations, along with others, have sprung into existence within the last few years. Twenty-five years ago such were hardly thought of. What, we may ask, has caused this sudden birth and development? It is well known that for some time there has been deep-rooted dissatisfaction among the laboring classes. This has undoubtedly been caused by the growth of monopolies and the attempt on the part of capitalists to reduce the wages of the laborer to a minimum. Furthermore, workmen have often been required to labor longer than was just. Smarting under the arrogance and oppressions of wealth, workingmen have united in forming typographical, telegraph, and other trades' unions, whose primary object is to better the condition of the laborer by forcing employers to pay higher wages.

That men have the right to form combinations of this sort, few will deny; but is this always necessary, or even advisable? It is true, workmen have grievances; can they, however, obtain redress most successfully through their unions? If so, the past has not shown it. Nearly all, if not all, the great strikes which occur from time to time are ordered by labor organizations—and yet how few of these strikes have accomplished their ultimate design! In the first place, they cause hundreds and even thousands of workmen to be thrown out of employment for months at a time, reducing them, in many cases, to absolute beggary. Again, strikes, by stopping the wheels of trade, subject the public to incalculable discomfort, pecuniary loss and personal danger. In proof of this we mention the great railroad strike of '77, and the strike now in progress on the New York Central railroad.

In dwelling upon their grievances, men are apt to magnify them, and, without considering matters fully, sometimes make unreasonable demands. Great industries are now carried on almost exclusively by corporations; and because it is said that corporations have no souls, men think it permissible to get all they can from them, whether justly or unjustly. Even when strikes are successful, it is doubtful whether, after all, the laborer is benefited, for the money lost while he is idle frequently counterbalances his increased pay.

Among the recent organizations of prominence may be mentioned the Knights of Labor and the Farmers' Alliance. Strangely enough, the long-suffering, down-trodden farmer has been the last to organize. But if slow to organize, farmers have not been slow in accomplishing results since their organization. Having entered the field of politics in several States, the Alliance has already shown that it wields a power by no means to be despised, so that the crafty politician outside of its folds hath begun to say unto himself, "Whereunto will this thing grow?" Even when nothing can be achieved through direct effort, a powerful organization like the Farmers' Alliance exercises an unmeasured influence in overawing would-be oppressors of the public. No matter how rich a man may be, he is not entirely unmindful of public opinion, and usually he is exceedingly careful not to merit the condemnation of any large organization.

It is to be regretted that the tendency of the more powerful organizations is to enter politics; but such a thing could hardly be avoided. It is to be feared that much harm will result from this, for the instant organizations become political, they become the tools of tricksters and demagogues, who, under the cloak of furthering the interests of the order to which they belong, seek to ride into office. Again, the spectacle is presented of "unions," etc., contending against each other for no other reason than that each is an aspirant for political power and recognition. Another objection to the associations formed by the various trades and professions is their advocacy of class measures. The demand of the Farmers' Alliance for the passage of the Sub-Treasury bill is a case in point.

A feature of organizations rarely, if ever, considered is the cost of their maintenance. Halls must be rented; the salaries of various officers must be paid; besides many other items which necessarily arise. All these are expenses the average man can ill afford to bear. Again, such is the multiplication of organizations that men frequently belong to several, and where such is the case, not only does membership entail considerable expense, but also the expenditure of much time. However, the item of cost is not deemed of much importance; else certain organizations would not have prospered as they have.

The question, "Are organizations, in the main, beneficial to mankind?" we must answer in the affirmative. Undoubtedly, many of the schemes advocated are Utopian, and it is probable that we have entirely too many organizations; but could they always have wise leaders, and could they steer clear of politics, more commendable and visible results would be attained.

Greenwood's Island, which was recently transferred from the War Department to the Interior Department, will soon be put up and sold at auction. This land lies off East Pascagoula, Miss., and is an abandoned military reservation. It will be surveyed and appraised and then subdivided and sold at auction, provided the bids are not less than the appraisement. An act of Congress provides that abandoned military reservations shall be disposed of in this manner, and not under the general land laws.

A Visit to Two Conferences.

It has been my happy privilege to pay a short visit to the North Mississippi and Mississippi Conferences, which held their sessions in Grenada and Canton. The meeting with friends, both of my father and his family, brought a flood of recollections, which will be a sweet memory many days. The visit each time to a dear sister's home gave additional pleasure to the trip. We all enjoyed the lectures of the gifted Morrison, Parker and Palmore; and surely they will give new inspiration to the aspirations and efforts of our younger ministers. The talk of Bishop Galloway to those soon to be ordained deacons was full of tender sympathy and timely suggestion, and a benediction to all who were so fortunate as to be present. Memory reverts to the past, when a letter full of encouragement and hope came from him as a friend, and fanned the little flame of zeal which was then in the writer's heart, and helped to form what little Christian character is at present realized. Many times since then the cheering effect of a good letter has been witnessed.

Upon hearing the names of the Mississippi Conference, the dear, familiar ones of Drake, Watkins, Winans, Jones and others were recognized as household words at my father's home from earliest recollection. As he had been one of them, it was hard to refrain from wishing that a precious brother, who filled an untimely grave, had lived to perpetuate that father's name in that assembly of grand men. The sight of the venerable, white-haired Drs. Abbey and Marshall carried me back to childhood's hour, when first I knew of their precious Christian lives; and 'tis sweet to know they are still living, and pointing the way to the beautiful home above. The mild face of Rev. J. M. Pugh, who, in our school-days, as a professor in Madison College, used to be so kind and encouraging to all the feeble efforts of the young; now in the itinerancy, still giving his life and influence for the precious Savior. Then, last, but not least, the benevolent and intelligent faces of our beloved editor and business manager, who are always so kind and cordial to all whom they meet.

How thankful Methodists should be to our heavenly Father, who, through feeble mortals, has done such great things! We should thank him for our devoted, self sacrificing ministry; our heroic missionaries; the sweet, spiritual lives of our beloved Bishops, whose office is given them by the people who love them, and whose lives of deep piety and watchful care will be a blessing to the sacred interests of the church.

In conclusion, I will say that the discussions of the Conference; meeting with a precious mother, sisters and other relatives, gave an unspeakable pleasure, which we hope may again be realized "some sweet day, by and by."

Our new minister has made us a visit, and made a favorable impression upon the minds of all; and, in fulfilling a request made by him, we should do so for all, that "God would make him an humble minister, endued with the Holy Spirit, and direct the choice of every text for the greatest good of those who listen." We also pray that God may bless the ADVOCATE.

M. W. SYKES.

Duck Hill, Miss., Jan. 12, 1891.

Pounding at Coffeeville.

On last Thursday night, while holding a prayer service in the Methodist Church in the town of Coffeeville, the good brethren and sisters and others gave us a pounding, such as we have not had before in some time. They pounded us with hams, flour, coffee, sugar, butter, eggs, cheese, crackers, soda, soap, spice, pepper, rice, towels, handkerchiefs, and other things which make glad the home of a preacher and his family. We can not express in writing our grateful feeling for these tokens of their love for, and interest in, us. God bless the donors, and make his Word, which shall be dispensed by us, their servants, the element of power and upbuilding in divine things to them! This is our second year on Coffeeville circuit, and we have entered upon our work, looking to God for a successful year. Pray for us.

G. W. GORDON.

A Fable.

Three men journeying together fell into a pit, from which they could not recover themselves. A friend came along and offered to help them, and let down a rope for that purpose. One of the men in the pit refused to take hold of the rope, because he could not see who held it above; and withal he doubted the strength of the rope. Another was about to lay hold of the rope, but did not, for fear that he might let go and fall. The third man said, "The voice of him who offers to help us is the voice of a friend; I will trust him." So saying, he seized the rope, calling on his friends to follow him, and thus safely escaped from the pit, and went on his way rejoicing.

Mississippi Items.

The Bay St. Louis Ice Company has let out the contract for its buildings.

According to a special enactment of the Legislature, Macon became a dry town, Jan. 10.

The Georgia Pacific railroad proposes to run sleepers from Greenville to Washington City.

The Pickens Enterprise has ceased, and the editor, A. H. Mecklin, will soon begin the publication of a paper in Canton.

The postoffice at Brandon was broken into last week by an enterprising burglar, and one of the pouches rifled. About ten dollars was secured from registered packages.

A packing company has been organized at Jackson for the purpose of packing all fruits and vegetables brought to that market for shipment during the coming season.

A packing company has been organized at Hazlehurst. Machinery for the manufacturing of fruit and vegetable boxes has been received, and things are getting ready for the next crop.

The Board of Aldermen of Canton have contracted with the Sun Vapor Street Light Company, of Canton, Ohio, to light the city for five years with forty lights of sixteen candle-power each.

The total receipts in the State treasury from January to January were $1,518,455 52, and the disbursements for the same period, $1,195,271 27. Hence there were in the treasury, Jan. 1, $323,184 25.

A committee of resident machinists, who have been in the employment of the Illinois Central Railroad Company for fifteen or twenty years, have just returned from Chicago, where they have been to interview the officials as to the prospect of rebuilding the machine shops, which were burned down two weeks since. The committee was assured that the shops would be rebuilt at Water Valley upon a larger scale, with all the modern improvements. Work will begin at once.

Here is an interesting item from Bolton:

The new bank has been named the Citizens' Bank of Bolton, and bids fair to do an excellent business, being quite an acquisition to our mercantile and farming interests, which are yearly increasing. Cotton receipts, some 7,500 bales to-date, against 5,600 the whole of last season.—Clarion-Ledger.

The Magnolia Gazette, in its "Tylertown Notes," says this of our new pastor:

Bro. L. W. Wood, our newly appointed pastor, arrived with his wife Saturday. He preached two excellent sermons Sunday, delivered a nice talk to the students this morning, and left immediately for the parsonage at China Grove, where he will domicile this Conference year. We predict the churches in his charge will prosper.

The following dispatch from Greenville shows the condition of the levees and levee work in that region:

The following facts and figures concerning the work of rebuilding the levees in this district by this splendid organization, which is one of the greatest measures of public improvement in the whole Mississippi Valley, will be of interest to the general public who are interested in the welfare of this section and the whole South.

There are ten new levees now either finished or in course of construction. These are located at Buck Ridge, Catfish Point, Elston, Huntington, Offutt's Argyle, Skipwith's Shiplands, Hayes Landing and Albemarle. Six of these are intended to close actual gaps; these are finished. The others will be completed before March 1. The Levee Board have also let twenty miles of enlargement work, which is about two-thirds done, with large forces at work. The amount finished and under contract by the Levee Board is 1,541,427 yards, costing $348,644. The government work is all enlargement, and embraces the stretch from Huntington to Greenville, besides three detached pieces in the neighborhood of Skipwiths, Longwood and Clover Hill. The amount is about 68,600 yards. The allotment is $198,000. Total government and Levee Board work about 2,221,000 yards costing $546,644. This will give a continuous line of enlargement from Catfish Point to Greenville. Taken altogether this district is in a more enviable situation than ever before. Large forces are at work all along the line with the government in charge of a considerable portion of it. There is nothing at present to indicate that high water is probable.

Louisiana Notes.

A movement has been put on foot to start a bank at Donaldsonville, with every prospect of success.

The steamship Conemaugh recently left this port with 17,500 barrels and 190 bags of Louisiana sugar. The total shipped the same day was 41,200 barrels, 350 hogsheads and 190 bags.

The Lake Charles Echo says:

We are reliably informed that private enterprise and private capital is about to secure to the people of Lake Charles electric lights. No concessions of great value are required; no tax on property asked; only the necessary privileges from the corporate authorities, and a limited patronage in the way of city lamps at a fixed, reasonable valuation. We hope the council will meet the gentlemen half-way, and enable us to walk by the light of electricity in Lake Charles.

The City Council of Monroe have passed an ordinance imposing an annual tax of $5 "on each and every person plying the business of boot-black on the public streets or in the public places." Monroe has so many sharp lawyers, we would not be surprised to hear that the "shoe-blacks" got out of that tax!

The Southern Watchman chronicles a good deed thus:

On last Sunday a collection was taken up by the Methodists of Jackson, for the purpose of building a parsonage. Five hundred dollars was raised on the spot, and the balance of the amount necessary will be secured without any trouble. The good people of Jackson always were powerful givers.

That some enterprising people are taking up their abode in Southwest Louisiana is shown by the following dispatch from Lake Charles:

On Dec. 10 last a gentleman with a family of only twenty-seven members (this includes sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and their children) landed near the little town of Vinton, in the western part of this parish. A New Delta representative found the family settled in a beautiful prairie, and on the tenth of January, just one month from the time they landed, they had erected a two-story residence and were living in it, and had erected a large barn and stables to accommodate their eighteen head of horses, had about four miles of fencing up and some leveeing done for rice.

They had about 300 laying hens running about the yard, and they tell it as an actual fact, they hatched chickens in their incubators right along in the cars while on their way from Dakota.

They know something about the Morris proposition, which made a failure in Dakota last spring, and, like all the rest of the immigrants, they are dead set against the Lottery.

The Census Bureau has issued a preliminary bulletin on education, which shows that in Louisiana, in 1880, there were 8.62 scholars to each 100 persons, and in 1890 there were 11.11 scholars to each 100 persons, or a gain of 28.6 per cent. In the Louisiana public schools for the year ended Dec. 31, 1890, 71 per cent. of the teachers were white, while 29 per cent. were colored. The average number of pupils was 39 to each white teacher and 65 to each colored teacher. There are 145,960 pupils in the public, private and parochial schools of Louisiana, taught by 3,611 teachers. Of the teachers, 70 per cent. were in the public schools, 25 per cent. in the private schools, and 5 per cent. in the parochial schools. Of the pupils, 63 per cent. are in the public schools, 12 per cent. in the private schools, and 5 per cent. in the parochial schools. The average number of pupils to each teacher was as follows: In public schools, 47; in private schools, 19; and in parochial schools, 39.

College Removal and Location.

We give the short article below from the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, to show the danger that sometimes comes by removing a college from one place, and locating it at another. As this subject has been broached in regard to removing Centenary College, and as our friends in Mississippi have the delicate duty of locating Millsaps College, we commend the article to all concerned. It is headed,

A SIDE-LIGHT ON EMORY.

From a recent issue of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian we take the article below. It is signed "D. N. S.," which initials we find from an old catalogue of Oglethorpe University belong in this case to that wise man, Hon. D. N. Speer, ex-treasurer of the State of Georgia.

We copy the article for two reasons:

1. It in part explains why Emory College "heads all of our Georgia colleges."

2. In this indirect way we can emphasize, as we can not in any other, the extraordinary advantage the Methodists of Georgia have in this male college. This article, by one of the most astute men in the South, is full of suggestions on this line.

But to the article. It is as follows:

"I have heard with regret that some of the friends of Erskine College are agitating for its removal to some more active or progressive town. This leads me to recall to mind the sad history of the removal and death of Oglethorpe University from Midway to the live and progressive city of Atlanta.

"Oglethorpe University was chartered about the year 1838; owned and endowed by the Presbyterian Synods of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama. One of the ripest scholars, and most cultured and eloquent ministers of the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Knox Talmage (uncle of the eminent Dr. DeWitt Talmage, of Brooklyn, N. Y.), was made president, and associated with him as professors were Rev. Drs. C. W. Lane, James Woodrow, Robert C. Smith, and others. The college prospered, was well endowed, and graduated large classes. My father was one of its earlier friends, and sent his sons to be educated there. There I graduated in a class of twenty-eight, in the year 1858. The war came on—1861-1865—the president, Dr. Talmage, died; the endowment funds were seriously reduced; the progress of the institution became retarded. The college was located in the beautiful village of Midway, three miles south of Milledgeville, Ga.; the buildings, libraries, grounds, etc., were good, and surrounded by a refined and educated people—just such surroundings as Erskine College now has, at Due West, S. C. Some of the friends of Oglethorpe, soon after the close of the war, thought that Midway was 'antiquated,' 'behind the age,' etc., and began to agitate for removal of the college to a 'live and progressive city;' 'up with the times'—and about 1868 they succeeded in their purpose. Huntsville and Tuskegee, Ala.; LaGrange and Atlanta, Ga., each offered inducements for the location. Atlanta won the prize, and donated a building and grounds. The libraries, apparatus, personal property, etc., were removed to Atlanta. The college there graduated one or two classes, did not prosper, the remaining endowment faded away—commercial activity chilled it—friends lost interest, and Oglethorpe University died.

"Having looked on that sad picture, now turn and look on this. Emory College, in Georgia, was chartered about the year 1839 by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; located in the pretty village of Oxford, Ga., two miles north of the Georgia railroad. It prospered, graduated large classes; the war intervened, it struggled for existence for years. Now it booms, and heads all of our Georgia colleges, headed by men of remarkable ability. Emory College, like Erskine, is surrounded by a beautiful village, ample grounds, an educated and splendid people; but Emory, even now, has buildings inferior to Erskine."

Books and Periodicals.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

JEW AND GENTILE. Publisher: Fleming H. Revell, New York and Chicago. Price, seventy-five cents in cloth; fifty cents in paper.

This is a report of a conference of Israelites and Christians regarding their mutual relations and welfare. It contains papers by E. P. Goodwin, D. D., Rabbi Felsenthal, J. H. Barrows, D. D., Rabbi Hirsch, J. M. Caldwell, D. D., Rabbi Stolz, Prof. D. C. Marquis, and Prof. H. M. Scott. It was the most unique conference ever held, and is another evidence that the Christian religion, the better it is understood, the more closely it brings men of differing views to each other. Christ's life and work is the leaven that is leavening the world, and the time is coming in human history when that influence will be all-prevailing.

PERIODICALS.

—BOOK NEWS is full of news about books, new and old. This is a valuable monthly, and the price is only fifty cents a year. John Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

—CURRENT COMMENT AND LEGAL MISCELLANY is an invaluable journal to all interested in legal decisions and lore. D. B. Canfield Company, Philadelphia. Price, $1.

—The MISSIONARY REPORTER of our church is full of missionary news and items. It has six different departments, all well filled with interesting matter. Address I. G. John, D. D., Nashville, Tenn. Price, fifty cents a year.

—ENTERTAINMENT. This is a monthly journal of amusement, education and recreation, and we like it very much. It will give unobjectionable amusement and recreation to families, societies, etc. The Entertainment Bureau, Council Bluffs, Iowa. Price, $1.

—The SOUTHERN CULTIVATOR, for January, comes full of good things for farmers, gardeners, dairymen, stock-raisers, etc. This is a sterling periodical, and worth a great deal more than it costs. Southern Cultivator Publishing Company, Atlanta, Ga. Price, $1 a year.

—BIBLIA, for January, is at hand, and contains interesting papers. Among them, Preservation of Sacred Texts before Moses' Day, by Prof. Howard Osgood; and Scientific Word Play, by Rev. Edward Cowley, D. D. Subscription, $1 a year. Address Dr. Charles H. S. Davis, Meriden, Conn.

—The MISSIONARY REVIEW OF THE WORLD. Each number of this popular monthly contains eight or ten articles by the foremost writers in the mission world, intelligence and correspondence from all parts of the world-field, several papers in "international" department, monthly concert, survey of all the various fields, editorial discussions, organized mission work of the entire world, and a monthly bulletin of the progress of missions.

Broad in its outlook, hampered by no denominational or national lines, embracing all, it seeks to bind the brotherhood of Christians together in the one great work of evangelizing the world. It has the cordial endorsement of the leading pastors of all denominations, and of the secretaries of our missionary societies in all lands. "It is the peer of our best literary monthlies in quality and interest." Funk and Wagnalls, New York. Price; $2.

—The PREACHER'S MAGAZINE, for January, edited by the Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, of London, and Rev. Arthur E. Gregory, is received. The competency and world-wide fame of its distinguished editors secures for this new monthly consideration and commendation. Its various departments cover essential fields of study for the preacher, teacher, and Bible student. Its pages are full of suggestiveness, and we have no doubt that it will become an indispensable adjunct to the pastor's library. Among the many excellent articles in this number we note the following: "The Prophet's Work," by Archdeacon Farrar; "The Gospel of To-Day," by Rev. Mark Guy Pearse; "The Mediatorial Ministry," by Rev. J. R. Gregory. Among its many departments are, "The Theological Student," "Homiletics," "Notes and Illustrations," "The International Lessons," "Outline Addresses on the Golden Texts," etc. The magazine commands the attention of every Christian. Send fifteen cents for sample copy; $1 50 per year. Wilbur B. Ketcham, 13 Cooper Union, N. Y.

PAMPHLETS.

—Ritualism and Dogmatic Theology. By Thomas H. Speakman. Friends' Book Association, Philadelphia.

This is a series of essays on the causes of the declension in the Society of Friends. It also bears on the subject of creed, confessions of faith, and rational religion.

Sunday-School Lesson—Jan. 25.

Elijah and the Prophets of Baal.

I. Kings xviii, 25-39.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"How long halt ye between two opinions? if the Lord be God, follow him."—I. Kings xviii, 21.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Baal is Dumb (vs. 25-29). II. The Lord Answers by Fire (vs. 30-39).

MEMORY VERSES.—38, 39.

REFERENCE WORD.—"Prophet."

LESSON HYMN.—No. 492.

TIME.—About 900 B. C.

PLACE.—One of the summits of Carmel, whose long ridge skirts the whole south of Esdraelon.

INTRODUCTORY.

The time intervening between the present lesson and our last was spent by Elijah at Zarephath, where he and his hostess were miraculously fed during the famine from the barrel of meal that wasted not and the cruse of oil that failed not. In addition, there was another miracle as the outcome of his sojourn in this heathen village—that of raising the widow's son. These evidences of God's care and providence could not fail to have their legitimate effect upon the prophet's mind. By them his faith was strengthened for conflicts to come.

How long he remained here is not to be determined. The record declares that he had been for "awhile" in the valley of the Cherith; and the incident of our present lesson took place "after many days." From the subsequent utterances of both our Lord (Luke iv, 25) and James (James v. 17) we know that it had not rained for three years and six months. In Samaria, especially, the famine had been very sore, and the suffering of the country intense. But, whatever else it may have entailed, it certainly had not brought the inhabitants to a hearty repentance for their idolatry. Similar calamities had in former times humbled Israel under the hand of God; it remained to be formally demonstrated whether this affliction would result in a deep conviction of sin and a heartfelt contrition for it. No doubt, all the effect of the famine was not lost; the conscience of the people was being awakened by it, preparatory to the final rejection of their idolatry; the decisive step was yet to be taken; but who, conscious of the innumerable "priests of Baal," backed by the royal court itself, so bold to take it? History answers, none in the realm save Elijah, and, perhaps, not he, in the absence of the direct command of Jehovah, "Go shew thyself unto Ahab."

I.—BAAL IS DUMB.

Verse 25. The prophet, confident in him whose cause he championed, and possessing a faith in the result amounting almost to direct knowledge, could well afford to waive all advantage to the opposing side. At the same time his action took away all ground for cavil in case of failure. Moreover, he wished the prophets of the false religion to be held up in their proper light before assembled Israel. His desire was to exhaust them before he showed the power that he represented. An impression was to be made upon the king and the people, and he rightly judged that the impressiveness of the scene would be profoundly enhanced by the contrast between the long and vain attempts of his enemies and his own rapid achievements. "Ye are many; therefore, it is fitting for you to take the lead."

Verse 26. This verse details the actions of the priests of Baal; and wonderfully succinct it is! Where else in all history have four hundred and fifty men used up so much time and achieved so little? From morn till noon they called upon their god; yet no answer came.

Verse 27. At noon Elijah, more certain of the contest than ever, makes bold to offer a few suggestions to the false prophets. Laying hands on their anthropomorphic notions of God, he mocks them with scornful ridicule. Could anything have been more keen than the sarcastic utterances of this despised man to his very despisers: "Cry aloud: for he is a god; either he is talking, or he is pursuing, or he is in a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth, and must be awaked." Almost distracted by the delay of their deity, and well nigh frenzied by the taunts of Elijah, the priests of Baal "cried aloud and cut themselves after their manner with knives and lancets, till the blood gushed out upon them." No discount can be put upon their sincerity; the zeal which they displayed forbids it. They had thought that the sun god, when at his zenith, would send the consuming fire; but their hope proved groundless. But as long as he shone there was room for faith. Perhaps he was but testing the strength of his followers' faith; and so they "prophesied" until the time of the evening sacrifice; but "there was no voice nor any that regarded." The attempt ended in despair; that worn-out host of Baal's priests demonstrated the utter falsity of their own beliefs. Like results await with unerring certainty similar attempts on the part of any man or any class of men. How long will it take mankind to learn that nature is not God?

II.—THE LORD ANSWERS BY FIRE.

Verse 30. "Come near unto me." Elijah wanted eye and ear witnesses to what he was about to do, so as to avoid all suspicion of fraud. This was his object in inviting the people to draw near and view all his actions. "He repaired the altar" that had been broken down, perhaps, by the order of those whose worship he himself was about to root up.

Verse 31, 32. "He took twelve stones" of this same altar and built another, consecrating it duly by calling upon the name of the Lord. This is a significant fact. Elijah appeals directly to the old faith. He proposes to make no new departure, but has recourse to the ancient altar. His choice of "twelve stones" is declared by the text to be symbolic. It pointed to the fact that as far as the divine intent was concerned, the number of the tribes was still intact; they constituted not two kingdoms, but only one. The altar thus built and dedicated was surrounded by a small trench.

Verse 33. "He put the wood in order." Observe the minute care exercised in obeying the Levitical requirements. (Leviticus i, 3-9). This lesson was not to be lost upon the audience; by it they were to appreciate the fact that every particular of the divinely-given ordinance was binding upon them. "Fill four barrels with water." These "barrels" were in all probability the water vessels that were carried upon the head, and held from three to five gallons. They were filled three times and poured upon the altar, drenching it and the sacrifice, to remove any possibility of fraud and make the miracle more remarkable. The trench around the altar Elijah also caused to be filled with water. The question as to the supply of the quantity in a time of such general drought need give no trouble nor any occasion for quibbling. There was at the time and now exists at the eastern end of Carmel a never-failing spring. Any lack here could be supplied by the Kishon, which flowed past its northern base.

Verse 36. How unlike the frantic howlings of the priests of Baal was the simple, earnest prayer of the prophet of God! Through all the events of that memorable day we can see his faith constantly increasing, and when the time of the "evening sacrifice" came he put his faith in direct execution. After invoking the true God in a manner to declare to the assembly his true nature, he proceeded to make three distinct requests: that Jehovah would show himself as the true God; that he would justify the claim of his servant, and that the people, recognizing the divine manifestation, would be turned from their idolatry.

Verse 38. "The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Such was the petition that Elijah sent up. How could the result have been otherwise than it occurred? "Then the fire of the Lord fell." The conflagration was universal. The sacrifice, altar, wood, stones, dust and water in the trench were its fuel. But farther; the fire of the Lord stops not even when there is a lack of material substances. It goes on in its work of destroying and purifying. So it was in the present instance. After such a signal display of the divine Power and Presence, the vast army of spectators could no longer "halt between two opinions." There was now no time for further dalliance. The question had been fairly put, the test had been applied, and the answer had been honestly and publicly announced, Baal was overthrown, he was proved to be no god at all; hence their faith in him was gone, and their desire to worship him had been entirely destroyed. After trying the question on a plan whose fairness was universally conceded, their unqualified verdict, which the result of all the subsequent contests between truth and error but corroborates, was, "The Lord he is the God." With minds cleared of all doubt and hearts freed from all unbelief they will worship him and him alone.

Does every bone in your body ache? Then bathe in Johnson's Anodyne Liniment; rub brisk.

What Christianity's Fruits Are.

Christianity is our moral mother—the mother of our standards of justice; the mother of our noblest conceptions of duty; the mother of that spiritual sense which apprehends God; the mother of a civilization, more active, more moral, more progressive than any of which the world has a record. We speak of the waning interest in theological discussion. All this may be consistent with a growing interest in Christianity. Theology may need theologians to explain and defend it. Christianity needs only hearts to receive it, and lives to illustrate it. The Christian mind is outgrowing the need of striking symbols. It is also outgrowing the use of denominational barriers. The spirit is succeeding the letter of the law, the closer fellowship of religious denominations the more tolerant spirit, the larger charity which everywhere abounds, the liberal recognition of the normal differences which exist in the constitution and education of men show that the fruits of Christianity are constantly growing riper and richer. The spirit of Christianity is coming to dominate more and more the forces of the world. We dwell with satisfaction upon the achievements of our age; the progress which has been made towards national justice, even friendship; the wider diffusion of all forms of useful knowledge, the many ways by which the comforts of men have been multiplied. We realize that the present century holds more that may minister to the happiness and nobility of life than any that preceded it. There are no spasmodic movements before the people, but a peaceful flowing on of the current of progress, a steady rising of the tide of general intelligence. All this has come as Christianity has spread. Can it be continued without the aid of Christianity? Can this be done with the dumb, spiritless, nerveless, faithless principles of materialistic or pantheistic belief? They may build tombs and they may build temples, but can they comfort and strengthen and exalt the minds and hearts of men? Can they prepare this grand age for the duties and triumphs of the next? We stand looking into a future, richer in promise than any age which has preceded it. It will have the accumulated wisdom of all the ages. What will enable men to grasp that wisdom and apply it to the ways of life? The heavenborn light of Christianity. The light that shines upon the path of the humblest individual and which is also sufficient to light up the highways of nations; the light that will never go out, because it is held by the hand of God. There is a hope in the world which neither this age nor any other has as yet realized. This hope is slowly assuming the stronger forms of belief—the belief that with so much light in the world there should be less darkness; the belief that with so much wealth in the world there should be less poverty and less sorrow; that in the race of life there should be fewer handicaps; that somehow in some way the opportunities of men should be less unequal.—Christian Thought.

An Ohio lady was so frightened by a snake that her glossy black hair turned white as snow. It was soon returned to its original color by Hall's Hair Renewer.

Business Meaning of the Word "Limited."

Those who have seen the word "limited" appended to the titles of corporations, and have wondered at its meaning, will be interested in the following explanation, taken from one of our exchanges: The old principle of corporations created by legislative act, was that the entire property of every stockholder was liable for the whole of the company, as the whole property of every member of a general partnership is still liable for the debts of the firm. This system made every shareholder responsible for bad management, of which he might not be guilty, and deterred wealthy men from becoming interested in the shares of corporations. To remove this objection, the principle of limited responsibility was introduced; and in order to notify the public that only the separate property of the corporation was liable for the debts of the corporation, the English law requires that the word "limited" shall be used in every case by the company in connection with its title. Most American corporations are constituted on the principle of limited liability, and but few, if any, of the States enjoin the companies formed under their laws to append the word "limited" to their corporate titles. The matter is so generally understood in this country by business men, however, that it is not deemed necessary, though many companies do it of their own accord.

The most noteworthy exception to the general rule is the case of the national bank; but even in this instance liability is limited to an amount equal to the par value of the shares held. That is, if the national bank fails, each stockholder may not only lose what he has invested, but $100 more for each share of the stock he holds, if so much is necessary to pay the debts of the bank. Until within a few years all the Scottish banks were organized with unlimited liability; and when, some eight or ten years ago, a Glasgow bank failed disastrously, there were cases of men who only owned a share or two, valued before the failure at not much more than $100, who were assessed thousands of pounds of sterling to meet the debts of the bank. Since that time the Scottish banks have been allowed to reorganize on a limited liability basis.—Exchange.

$100 REWARD. $100.

The readers of the Advocate will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

During 1890 there were 22,008 arrests in New Orleans. Of these 6,894 were married, and 14,111 were single; 13,774 could read and write and 8,234 could do neither. Between the ages of ten and twenty there were 4 084; between twenty and thirty, 8,658; between thirty and forty, 4,918; between forty and fifty, 2,785; over 50, 1,563.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese, of New York, has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and the Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

N. B. Be sure to get only

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

The Voice

Is easily injured—the slightest irritation of the throat or larynx at once affecting its tone, flexibility, or power. All efforts to sing or speak in public, under such conditions, become not only painful but dangerous, and should be strictly avoided until every symptom is removed. To effect a speedy cure no other medicine is equal to

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

The best of anodynes, this preparation rapidly soothes irritation, strengthens the delicate organs of speech, and restores the voice to its tone and power. No singer or public speaker should be without it. Lydia Thompson, the famous actress, certifies: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been of very great service to me. It improves and strengthens the voice, and is always effective for the cure of colds and coughs."

"Upon several occasions I have suffered from colds, causing hoarseness and entire loss of voice. In my profession of an auctioneer any affection of the voice or throat is a serious matter, but at each attack, I have been relieved by a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy, with ordinary care, has worked such a that I have suffered very little inconvenience. I have also used it in my family, with excellent results, in coughs, colds, &c."—Wm. H. Quartly, Minlaton, Australia.

Magical Effect

"In the spring of 1853, at Portsmouth, Va., I was prostrated by a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia. My physicians exhausted their remedies, and for one year I was not able to even articulate a word. By the advice of Dr. Shaw I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and to my surprise and great joy, in less than one month I could converse easily, in a natural tone of voice. I continued to improve and have become since a well man. I have often recommended the Pectoral, and have never known it to fail."—George R. Lawrence, Valparaiso, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

10 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

R. P. RANDALL,

Carriages and Harness,

54 and 56 Baronne Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

Canopy-Top Surrey, with Curtains, Apron, Whip and Shafts, at

$85, $112.50, $150, and $180.

CASH WITH ORDER.

Send for Catalog. Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY!

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

WE wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,

FUNK & WAGNALLS,

NEW YORK CITY

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex....8:00 am.
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac... 3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 2 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....3:45 pm
No. 7 Coast....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..8:10 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 a m

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 10:30 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 8:00 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:05 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 8:15 pm
No. 5 Acc'm....8:50 am	No. 6 Acc'm....5:00 pm
No. 41 Fast Mail. 9:00 am	No. 42 Fast Mail. 7:00 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25 am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45 a m
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15 pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd. 11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00 pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:45 am

MOBILE AND OHIO.

(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00 am	No. 2, Limited...4:00 pm

P. AND P. EAST LA.

(Abita Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City.

Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Dis. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.

J. C. GAULT, General Manager.

D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS, TEXARKANA, SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE. THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville. In connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6:00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. B. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.

R. H. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.

B. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.

A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,

Homeopathic Physician,

288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

MENS' FURNISHING GOODS

Headquarters of the Celebrated McCown Shirt.

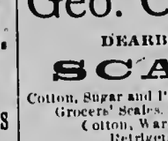
Boy's Clothing a Specialty.

Mens' and Boys' Hats.

Clothing Made to Order.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., New Orleans

10 Discount to Preachers.



S. R. PERRY,

183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried. Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25. Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1. Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GEM ELASTIC ROOFING CO., 39 & 41 WEST BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

How Shall Churches Be Filled?

A MANUAL OF RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, DISCUSSED BY CLERGYMEN OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

No Minister Ought to Be Without It.

Price, $1, post-free.

Address STATISTICAL BUREAU OF RELIGIOUS INFORMATION, 1459 W. 21st Street, New York City. HEAD OFFICES:

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,

LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,

No. 101 Camp Street,

Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH

Trouble of the Womb should try

Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; it will cure the worst case of "Whites:" it will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; it will cure Falling of the Womb; it will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; it will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-cent stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. O. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JAN. 22, 1891.

Briefs.

Dr. Koch's great remedy is still engaging the attention of the medical faculty, and is being tried in various hospitals. Some of the precious lymph has been received here, and several cases are being treated. Dr. Koch has published to the world the formula by which the remedy is compounded, and thus rendered an essential benefit to the cause of the afflicted, if that remedy is what he represents it.

We call special attention to the article, on the first page, entitled "Young Preachers." This is the first of a series that has been arranged for, and, as they embody the results of the observation and experience of more than a half-century in the itinerant work, we commend them to the thoughtful attention of our young ministers. They will find in these articles much to edify and instruct and broaden.

The Louisiana preachers of our church must not forget to make the very best preparations for Centenary Day, which is February 15. Let every preacher stand in his own pulpit that day and give his people the best sermon he can prepare on the subject of Christian Education, and take the collection for the endowment of Centenary College. We ought to arouse the whole church in Louisiana on that day, and if the preachers will all do as we know they can, we will do it.

The vote in the M. E. Church as to the admission of women into the councils of the church has progressed far enough to determine that the final result will be largely in the affirmative. This, however, does not settle the question. The vote is really a petition to the Annual Conferences to take up the question and vote on it, and if a sufficient majority is in its favor, to send it up to the General Conference, which meets in May, 1892, for final action. Both sides seem to be confident of victory in the Conferences.

Many have taken in hand to criticise General Booth and his great plan for reclaiming the "submerged tenth" in the London slums, but their criticisms have only proved the truth so often expressed, that it is much easier to criticise a thing than it is to suggest something better. The critics, while pulling down Booth, have not elevated the poor sinners of London an inch. Anybody can pull down, but not everybody can build up.

Much is also being made of the separation between Gen. Booth and Commissioner Smith of the Social Wing of the Salvation Army. As far as we can understand the matter, it is not a personal quarrel and the two part with reluctance. Mr. Smith, as we understand it, does not rebel against the authority of General Booth, but thinks that the different departments of the Army, while subject to the central authority, should not interfere with and hamper one another. The Social Reform Wing is essentially a business department, and, while conducted with Christian ends in view, should not be interfered with by the purely religious departments, for it is notorious that not every religious man is a man of business. While Mr. Smith's departure is regretted, yet General Booth is a man fertile in resources, and thousands are coming to his help, and we expect to see him go right along and put his magnificent scheme in practice.

John's Prayer for Gaius.

The little epistle of John to "Gaius, the elder," is quite a remarkable piece of writing. It has a great deal in a very small space. The opening prayer is something out of the ordinary routine of praying. We know of nothing like it, have never read, have never heard anything to compare with it. The revised version, which is the correct rendering, has it thus: "Beloved, I pray that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth." Hundreds of people have, doubtless, read this hundreds of times and have never seen anything remarkable about it. So it is, perhaps, with thousands of passages. We fail to see the beauty and force, because we fail to stop and think while reading them. By this skimming process we can not reach the deep things of the Word of God.

To us the remarkable part of John's prayer for Gaius is in this fact: Here is an aged apostle, one who had studied long and ardently everything connected with the Christian system and the Christian life, writing in the quiet and calm of his home to one of his converts and friends, and deliberately making the prosperity of the soul the standard by which all other prosperity must be measured. "I pray that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth." To a great many Christian people this is a new way to measure prosperity in business and physical health. But new or unique, or anything else, there it is, in as plain words as can be written. The generality of people see no connection between soul and business, or soul and bodily health. They never dream of measuring one by the other, or of making one a standard to which all the others must be brought. "My business prosperity is measured by my neighbors', or by my own at some previous period of my business life. My health is measured by my bodily feelings; but as for measuring either by the prosperity of my soul, why, I never thought of such a thing." That would be about the statement made by most persons on this subject. Indeed, some Christians have severed all connection between soul and business. They say, with all the solemnity of an oracle, "Business is business and religion is religion," and, having given utterance to such a wise sentiment, proceed as if the soul and its interests could have no possible connection with business or health or anything else. But John had seen too much and thought too deeply and had too clear a view of the chief thing of life, to make anything less than that chief thing the one and only standard by which everything else must be measured. The prosperity of the soul he considered the pre-eminent matter which must be secured before any other prosperity was thought of, and then advance on other legitimate lines was to be guaged by it.

John must have been well acquainted with Gaius and his business and bodily health and religious life, or he would not have made such a prayer. Like the prayer, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," this prayer of John's is a dangerous one to make sometimes. We refer to it in these columns to show that the standard of all prosperity, as laid down by the Scripture, is the prosperity of the soul. We do not advise our pastors to pray this prayer for their people, for if it is answered many of the churches would be turned into hospitals and poor-houses. There is many a man in the church, whose business, if reduced to the standard of the prosperity of his soul, would collapse in a very few hours! There are many men and women in the church whose bodily health, if measured by their health of soul, would become so emasculated of vigor that all the doctors and pharmacies in the land could do them no good. No, brother pastor, preach on this subject, but don't pray this prayer unless you know your case. John knew his case.

Clara Chrisman Scholarship in Millsaps College.

It is proposed by the Board of Trustees of Millsaps College to establish a number of endowed scholarships for the benefit of worthy young men. One thousand dollars will endow a scholarship entitling the beneficiary to free tuition. Individuals or families desiring to endow such a scholarship will have the privilege of naming it, and of indicating the beneficiary. Two thousand five hundred dollars will provide both tuition and board. We propose to name the first of this latter class the "Clara Chrisman Scholarship," in honor of Miss Clara Chrisman, the heroic young Mississippi missionary, who lost her life en route to Brazil. This will be a missionary scholarship, and the hope is, that each beneficiary will be an accepted student for the foreign field. No sooner was the fact stated, a few days ago, that such a scholarship would be established than a note was put in my hand with the first contribution thereto. Mrs. B. F. Lewis, wife of our pastor at Capitol Street, Jackson, Miss., heads the list with $100. A postal, just this moment received from Rev. T. L. Mellen, contains this sentence: "Dr. T. S. West says, put him down for $100 on the Clara Chrisman Scholarship in Millsaps College." We wish subscriptions to this and other such scholarships to be converted into notes payable in one and two years. Of course, those preferring to pay cash are allowed to do so. I am sure the missionary ladies throughout Mississippi will take pleasure in establishing this fund; and hundreds beyond the borders of our State, who revere the memory of the martyred missionary, will crave the privilege of having some part in this memorial.

My suggestion is this: March 2, 1891, is the one hundredth anniversary of the death of John Wesley. Let that day, or Sunday, the day before, be observed throughout Mississippi as "Memorial Scholarship Day" in Millsap College. Sermons and addresses on the life and labors of our great founder should be delivered, and offerings solicited for this and other scholarship funds. In the meantime, we hope those desiring to contribute to the "Clara Chrisman Scholarship" will send on their names at once. In no better way can we honor the memory of our founder, or pay more fitting tribute to the name of our sainted young missionary.

In England a fund of £10,000 has been raised in honor of this anniversary, to be used in refitting old City Road Chapel, and in erecting a monument to Mr. Wesley on the grounds adjoining. In some sections of American Methodism plans have been adopted for a proper observance of the occasion. Let Mississippi Methodists make it memorable by establishing educational scholarships, such as those to which Mr. Wesley himself was so much indebted.

CHAS. B. GALLOWAY.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 1, 1891.

—Nashville Advocate.

Is It too Much?

MR. EDITOR: I have said that the American people who legally establish and maintain the drinking saloon are, in the sight of God and of all wise-thinking men, more guilty than the Romans who cast men to wild beasts in their ampitheaters; more guilty than the Aztecs who sacrificed human beings by the thousand in Mexico; more guilty than the cannibals, who in Africa or elsewhere feast upon the flesh of their fellowmen.

Did I say too much? If so, will you or some other person show me wherein, and why?

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT.

Rev. C. K. Marshall, D. D.

Just as the last issue of our paper was being mailed, a dispatch from Rev. W. B. Lewis, of Vicksburg, came announcing the death of this eminent minister of our church. We little thought when we bade him good-bye at Jackson, Miss., three days before Christmas, that we would look upon his superb form and listen to his charming words no more. We had spent a delightful week together in attendance upon the Mississippi Conference, at Canton, in the hospitable home of Dr. Priestly. Dr. Marshall was just recovering from a severe spell of sickness, which had confined him to his house and bed for many weeks, and, judging it to be imprudent for him to attend the night services, he remained with the family and charmed young and old by his descriptions of sights and scenes abroad. We can never forget some of those descriptions.

We have a very vivid recollection of Dr. Marshall in his palmy days. He was a frequent visitor at Centenary College when the writer was a student there. He had a name and fame among the college boys that few could attain and none surpass. He was frequently called upon by the students to make an address, and never failed to respond with an eloquence that charmed all hearers. His address at the laying of the cornerstone of the center building at Centenary in July, 1856, was a masterly effort, and made a lasting impression upon many. Dr. Marshall was well known throughout the whole country, making frequent visits to Northern cities, where he preached with acceptance to all. It sometimes happens that a preacher finishes his work where he began it. We believe this was the case with Dr. Marshall. His first Christian work was done in this city. His last preaching was done last October in Carondelet Street Church.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family. May the God of all comfort give them consolation in their sorrow!

The following letter from Bro. W. B. Lewis gives a short account of the death of this eminent man:

MR. EDITOR: Dr. Marshall was taken down with la grippe on Monday, Jan. 5. He was feeble on Sunday, the fourth, but was at church, and assisted me in the communion service at eleven o'clock. His condition did not seem to be critical, though I learn since his death that it was so regarded by the family and his physician. On Monday, the twelth, he seemed to be better, though was not able to be up except for a few moments at a time. Tuesday, his condition seemed unchanged, except a slight improvement, as some thought. Tuesday night he was quite restless the forepart of the night, but got some good, refreshing sleep the latter part. After nine o'clock, Wednesday morning, he sat up on his bed and said he felt perfectly well, and called for his breakfast. While it was being brought to him he walked across the room. He had remarked that he thought he would be able to sit up the most of the day; but a fainting spell came on him presently. He had been having these spells since Monday, Jan. 5, whenever he excited himself. He rallied, but the spell quickly returned. He evidently saw his departure was at hand, as did his family. His sufferings were intense, but of short duration. The last words he uttered were, "My God, help us in this hour!" He died before anyone could get to him except the family. He will be buried from the Methodist Church in this city tomorrow at eleven o'clock.

Yours truly,

W. B. LEWIS.

Vicksburg, Miss., Jan. 15, 1891.

The following account of the funeral services we clip from the Commercial-Herald, of Jan. 17:

A very large congregation assembled yesterday morning at the Crawford Street M. E. Church to render the last tributes of honor and affection to the remains of Rev. C. K. Marshall. Every pew was filled and many stood throughout the entire service. The pulpit and vicinity were occupied by the assembled clergy, Rev. Dr. H. Sansom, rector of Christ Church, and for many years a contemporary of Dr. Marshall; Rev. Dr. R. J. Jones, for the past four years in charge of the church at this place, but now pastor of the Methodist Church in Yazoo City, a warm personal friend of the deceased; Rev. W. B. Lewis, Dr. Jones' immediate successor here; Rev. F. M. Keen, pastor of the South Vicksburg M. E. Church; Rev. J. A. Ellis, presiding elder of this district; Rev. Wm. Lewis, Rev. Mr. Jones, of Port Gibson, and Rev. J. E. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Several other clergymen were in the congregation. Bishop Galloway was expected, but he was attending a meeting of the Bishops in Nashville, Tenn., and his absence was unavoidable.

A long procession of carriages followed the funeral car to the church, the bells of nearly all the churches being tolled at the time and also after the services. The latter opened with the grand old hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," sung by a full choir, in which many of the congregation joined. Rev. Mr. Lewis and Rev. Dr. Jones read the funeral service. Dr. Jones then delivered an address on the life and labors of the deceased that was one of the noblest and chastest tributes ever paid the memory of a Christian minister. It was brief, yet complete; not eulogistic as such efforts generally are, yet paying due honor to the self-sacrifice and the magnificent ability of his departed friend, whose personal exertions as pastor and friend were eloquently depicted. Dr. Jones spoke extemporaneously, prompted only by his recognition of the mental and moral greatness of the departed. It is matter for regret that his remarks can not be presented in their complete perfection.

Rev. Mr. Ellis also made a short, but feeling address, and Rev. W. B. Lewis spoke of Dr. Marshall's services as a minister. He also delivered the closing prayer. Another beautiful hymn by the choir, "How Firm a Foundation," concluded the services. The choir was composed of volunteers from the ranks of the city's most gifted vocalists, Mrs. Jeff. Gray, Mrs. R. M. Bradford, Miss Sallie Cowan and Messrs. W. J. Rea and Thos. Searles. Miss Florence Bowmar was the organist.

The melancholy procession to the city of the dead was then formed. Many accompanied it and saw the honored remains laid to rest beneath the shadows of the hills which surrounded the city he loved so well.

Col. and Mrs. John H. Woolfolk and daughter, Miss Sara, were in attendance from their home in Lexington, Ky., and nearly every family of prominence in the city and all classes, without reference to denomination, were represented at the ceremonies.

The Barcroft Tablet.

At the last session of our Conference (North Mississippi), Bros. T. J. Newell, J. W. Honnoll and myself were appointed as a committee to secure means and place a tablet in the Holly Springs Church in memoriam of our dear Bro. John Barcroft. This the Conference gladly, unanimously ordered. In an hour, or little more, before the appointments were read it was placed upon me to collect the money. Before we left Grenada I received one dollar and fifty cents. Now, let me ask all the good friends of our pure, beloved Bro. Barcroft (twenty years our Conference secretary) to remit to me right away a small amount to put a neat tablet in the church where his family worship, and near which his body was laid.

J. M. WYATT.

Como, Miss.

This, from Archdeacon Farrar, is intended for every reader:

A life spent in brushing clothes, and washing crockery, and sweeping floors—a life which the proud of the earth would have treated as the dust under their feet; a life spent at the clerk's desk; a life spent in the narrow shop; a life spent in the laborer's hut, may yet be a life so ennobled by God's loving mercy that for the sake of it a king might gladly yield his crown.

To the Mississippi Conference Brotherhood.

One of our members, Rev. J. D. Hayes, fell on sleep, Monday morning, December 29, 1890. In addition to the notice served on you by our secretary, Rev. B. F. Jones, it becomes my duty, as president of the Brotherhood, to give this additional notice, and to urge you to pay promptly Assessment No. 13, which is now due. Remit your mortuary fee to Rev. I. W. Cooper, Hazlehurst, Miss. It is now in order to swell the list of our honorary members. Let each beneficiary member secure, at least, one honorary member, and send his fee along with his own, and his name to the secretary, Rev. B. F. Jones, Port Gibson, for enrollment. Fraternally,

W. B. LEWIS.

Notes.

Mr. Spurgeon says: "Many men owe the grandeur of their lives to their tremendous difficulties."

The quickest way to become miserable is to think about yourself, brood over your supposed mishaps, magnify your misfortunes, minify your blessings and look upon everybody as opposed to you. This is a recipe that has been tried and proved.

Our church is to have a memorial column in a building the Wesleyans are to erect this year in London to the memory of John Wesley. Five brethren of the North Carolina Conferences contributed $100 each for this purpose, and it was forwarded to Rev. D. J. Waller, the secretary of the Wesleyan Conference, by Bishop Keener.

And now another statistician has come and published to the world that the figures prove that dentistry has actually added five years to the average of human life. The philosophy back of the figures is, that old people with false teeth are able to eat nourishing food, and consequently stand the wear and tear better than if they "had to gum it."

The Pittsburgh Christian Advocate has this reference to a resolution passed by our Conference:

The Louisiana Conference of the Southern Methodist Church, at its recent session, passed strong anti-Lottery resolutions. If John Wesley knows what is now going on in the world, it must afford him a vast pleasure too see the "people called Methodists" arraying themselves against every great evil which rises to combat the armies of right. The days of the Lottery are few.

The Evangelical Messenger has this:

An old Methodist preacher once offered the following prayer in a prayer meeting: "Lord, help us to trust thee with our souls." "Amen" was responded by many voices. "Lord, help us to trust thee with our bodies." "Amen" was responded with as much warmth as ever. "Lord, help us to trust thee with our money," but to this petition the "Amen" was not forthcoming. Ah! very few people have converted pocket-books. The "Amens" are forthcoming until you touch the pocket-book, then, as Shakespeare makes guilty Macbeth say, "Amens stick in the throat."

Speaking of a controversy being waged by a Methodist and Baptist in Georgia, the Wesleyan has this wise utterance:

This kind of ecclesiastical prize fighting we very much deplore. Its tendency is to develop the lower and undesirable elements of our Christian life, while it contributes nothing to the higher and nobler manhood. We wish our brethren would arm themselves and go forth to contend against the hosts of sin and Satan instead of this unseemly war upon each other. It is too late in the world's history, and there is too much to be done in the great march of Christianity, to admit of such sad amusements.

The politicians may "poke fun" at the Farmers' Alliance, but some of the Alliance folks are exceedingly sensible. One of the Alliance Congressmen from Kansas has the credit of saying something that the politician might ponder to profit. It is this:

The people of to-day don't want to be governed by the people of yesterday. Washington and Jefferson were great men, because they solved the questions of their times. What we want now is men in office who understand the condition and needs of the people and are ready and able to solve them."

And that is precisely what the church needs, too.

Our Bishops have very wisely changed some things in the routine of an Annual Conference session. There is now manifesting itself a tendency toward another change which we will hail with pleasure, and we believe every preacher of the Conferences will agree to it without a murmur. Bishop Hargrove said at the North Georgia Conference that he "thought it cruel to give the Conference a long lecture before reading the appointments." You are right, Bishop; and if you will persuade your colleagues to leave off that "cruelty" entirely, you will have the thanks of every preacher expecting an appointment.

Personal and Otherwise.

The postoffice of Mrs. J. D. Hayes has been changed from Poplarville, Miss., to Terry, Miss.

Mrs. Amelia T. McTyeire, relict of the late Bishop McTyeire, died at her home in Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 14.

Judge Buckner, of Baton Rouge, has decided the Lottery mandamus case in favor of the Secretary of State.

The Louisiana Conference of the M. E. Church has been in session in this city during the past week; Bishop Newman, presiding.

The word "telephem" has been suggested as a proper designation of a message by telephone. It's meaning, literally, is to "speak afar off."

Bro. F. H. G. Taylor, writing from Lake Providence, says: "Bro. Isbell thus far has made a fine impression on our people. His wife is now down with the grippe. It is almost epidemic here."

Rev. H. M. Dubose has been elected editor of the California Advocate. Dr. Walker resigned, Dr. Boswell resigned. We think Bro. Dubose will stick. We are glad he is elected. We wanted him at first.

Dr. Marshall was the first pastor of the Baton Rouge Church, and the brethren there have arranged to hold a memorial service, Jan. 25, at 11 A. M. Prof. Magruder will read a memoir of Dr. Marshall.

Bro. Miller, presiding elder of the Opelousas district, writes: "The year is opening well. We had a good turnout at the district stewards' meeting. They set the ball in motion for a district parsonage."

Rev. E. T. Denson, our transfer from the Mississippi Conference, passed through the city last week with his family en route to his work, Thibodeaux and Houma. The brethren at Houma had already secured a house for him.

Rev. W. R. Lambuth, M. D., of our Japan mission, has returned to this country. We trust he will pay our section a visit, as his venerable father did when he was here some years ago, and as Dr. Allen did when he was over.

A private note from Bro. Mellen, presiding elder of the Meridian district, says: "While filling every appointment so far, the interim has been spent at home. La grippe has gripped me, and its grip has not yet been shaken off." We trust that our brother's stalwart physique will force la grippe to let him alone right quick.

Bro. Senrtock, of the Lower Coast Mission, gave us a call last week. He represents his work as in good condition. He has six regular appointments, and the people turn out very well. He supplements his preaching by the distribution of tracts all around the mission. That is a good way "to clinch" the word.

Pounded.

On the night of the fifteenth instant, the undersigned and his bride of nine years, upon their marriage anniversary, were pounded, and pounded, and pounded, greatly to their delight and profit by the good people of Rayne Memorial Church, young and old, great and small. Not only with the bare fists, but with all descriptions of arms and artillery; from the one-pound swivel to the ten-pound Parrott and twenty-pound siege gun, did they pound us.

"Cannon to the right of us,
Cannon to the left of us,
Volleyed and thundered."

It was as if the corner grocery had risen up in its majesty and projected itself upon our weak defenses of pantry and kitchen and dining-room until the beseiged were forced to cry out in the language of lofty drama, "Hold, enough!" From greenbacks to sugar in half-yearly supply, and sugar-cured hams in profusion, and cakes in the highest style of the confectioner's art, and boxes of lighter confectionery, and baskets of Louisiana oranges, they bombarded us, until we were forced upon a somewhat cursory census to declare that our pockets were full, our pantry was full, and, more than all, our hearts were full.

The preacher, sir, whatever you may think of that sentiment, who has alternately pounded and expounded the Scriptures during a long novitiate, and who has never in his turn been pounded by a suffering constituency, can always count upon the sympathy, not to say the heart-felt compassion, of the undersigned. We think that it may safely be set down as a fact worthy of axiomatic regard that the person in this calling of life who objects to "poundings," and the inferior humorists who indulge weak witticisms at the expense of the custom, have themselves never been pounded.

To our dear friends who made this determined assault upon us in such numbers and enthusiasm, and who, while hitting us hard, were as genial as May weather, not to say as hilarious as Minnehaha, or the romping waters for which she was nick-named, we owe an obligation for which we feel the historic "pound of flesh" would be a poor return. J. M. BEARD.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. C. Ellis, writing from Byram, Miss., says: "To-day is beautiful; quite cold last night. Had several rainy days. La grippe is very common. Some pneumonia; many having colds. I was called last Sabbath to attend the burial services of Maj. A. J. Bracy and son (W. M.), who died in Terry, Friday, Jan. 9. At the same place, Terry, Bro. Hayes passed away to his home a few days ago. Pray for us."

—Mrs. Emma Foster writes us from Opelousas, La.: "In the ADVOCATE, of Jan. 8, Dr. J. E. Edwards writes against reading the appointments at night. What he says is good; but I hope when he is made Bishop, he will not read the appointments on the Sabbath day. How much better it would be to devote the whole of the Sabbath to the salvation of souls, and then Monday morning give the preachers their commissions for another year of toil for the Master."

—Rev. S. J. Davies writes from Campo Bello, La.: "The year begins very auspiciously for church and preacher on the Red River circuit. When the weather has permitted good congregations have greeted the pastor. Our people are suffering very severely from the prevailing epidemic. In fact, it has practically stopped all church work for a season. We are not discouraged, however, in the least. The ADVOCATE's claim will receive merited attention. In public and in private circles this white-winged messenger of peace and wisdom will be heralded. The pastor's wants are supplied by a kind-hearted, generous people. The sky is clear up this way."

—Rev. E. F. Edgar writes: "We arrived at Camden (our new charge) on Jan. 1. Were cordially received at the parsonage by two consecrated young ladies (Misses Mattie Tucker and Maud Maxwell). Good fires and an excellent dinner were among the many blessings of which we were made recipient. We are much pleased with our field of labor; but the general aspect is very gloomy just now, on account of sickness and death being so prevalent. We buried Bro. T. G. Wilder, yesterday. He was one of our leading stewards, as well as a most liberal and useful man. Nearly every family has more or less sickness. We hope in God. Pray for us."

—Rev. R. C. Morehead reports from Sunnyside station: "I am at my post. Preached my first sermon at night of the first Sunday to a bright, attentive little crowd. I find here a hospitable, generous, educated, wealthy folk. Hope I shall in some way compensate them for the many kindnesses and courtesies which I have already and shall continue to receive. My predecessor, Rev. W. S. Shipman, was beloved by all, and we shall follow him in our prayers to his new charge. Pontotoc was my last work, and a more clever, intelligent and refined people are not to be found. When the time came to take leave of them I felt a little sad; but it is true of us, "We have other brethren." Rev. W. D. Bass, a good man and a strong preacher, is my successor. We expect a good year."

—Rev. P. H. Howse writes from State Line circuit, Mississippi Conference: "I reached my new work on the first instant. My family came in the advance about two or three days. We all found a home at Bro. Jesse Byrd's, where we fared sumptuously until our freight came, which was the seventh instant; then we moved to a house which the brethren had rented and partly furnished. This is a new work, and we have no parsonage; but we expect to buy or build during the year. We have a big-hearted people here, and the preacher feels safe in their hands. We held our quarterly meeting here last Saturday and Sunday. Bro. T. L. Mellen was with us. He preached for us twice; Saturday at eleven A. M., and Sunday at eleven A. M. He was quite unwell, but preached with power and demonstration of the Spirit. He preached Sunday from St. Luke ix, 25, and made a grand exhibition of it. Pray for our success on this new work.

'Let the tidings fly to every land beyond the sea,
Till all the nations find the salvation of Calvary.'

God bless the ADVOCATE and editor!"

Church Organs.

The following letter was received without any solicitation whatever, and explains itself:

FARRAND & VOTEY, Detroit, Mich.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Jan. 5, 1891.

Farrand & Votey Organ Co.

GENTLEMEN.—After nearly a year of trial of the magnificent organ you erected in our Church, I feel constrained to write to express my unqualified satisfaction with it in every respect. It is not only the finest-looking organ I have ever seen, being a grand ornament to the Church edifice, but the sweetest-toned instrument of the kind I have ever listened to. While it is fully as large as it ought to be, and fills the large audience-room with tones full of majesty, there is not a harsh or rough-sounding pipe in it. On the contrary, it is so soft and truly musical, that to listen to it is an unfailing joy. All our people concur in the above. Yours truly,

H. L. CHAPMAN,
Pastor of Methodist Episcopal Church.

P. S.—Give my regards to Mr. Wood, whose gentlemanly and genial manners, while engaged in erecting the organ, gave us all great pleasure.

Yours, etc.,
H. L. CHAPMAN.

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

Louisiana Conference Apportionments for 1891.

	Conf. Claimants.	Bishops.	Education.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Council.	Church Extension.
New Orleans District	$1,200	$ 320	$ 320	$2,350	$ 500	$ 62	$ 393 75
Shreveport District	900	245	245	1,350	350	35	343 75
Arcadia District	850	225	225	1,350	360	35	318 75
Delhi District	630	170	170	1,250	315	25	322 50
Opelousas District	526	135	135	1,100	315	23	283 75
Alexandria District	420	115	115	600	150	20	212 50
Total	$4,500	$1,200	$1,200	$8,000	$2,000	$200	$2,100 00

Mississippi Conference Assessments for 1891.

	Conference Fund.	Bishops.	Church Extension.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Conf.
Jackson District	$700	$270	$175	$1,450	$650	$35
Vicksburg District	700	270	175	1,450	650	35
Brookhaven District	700	270	175	1,300	500	35
Meridian District	700	270	175	1,450	650	35
Seashore District	425	160	350	1,200	550	22
Woodville District	425	160	350	1,200	500	22
Brandon District	375	150	240	1,000	400	16

For Ministerial Education—$1,000 for Centenary and $1,000 for Millsaps, to be assessed by the presiding elders upon the basis of the assessments for the Bishops.

C. G. ANDREWS, Sec.

Notices.

The district stewards of the Woodville district, Mississippi Conference, will please meet in the Methodist Church at Slaughter, La., at two P. M., Jan. 30, 1891. C. MCDONALD.

The District Parsonage Committee of Woodville district will please meet at the house occupied by me in Jackson, La., Jan. 29, 1891.

C. MCDONALD.

The district stewards of Vicksburg district, Mississippi Conference, will meet Wednesday, Jan. 28, at half-past ten A. M., in the basement of Crawford Street Church, Vicksburg, Miss.

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

To the Members of the Mississippi Conference Brotherhood—

DEAR BRETHREN: Bro. J. D. Hayes is dead. Assessment No. 13 is now due, and must be paid within sixty days. Remit to Rev. I. W. Cooper at Hazlehurst, Miss., by postoffice money order or registered letter.

B. F. JONES, Sec.

P. S.—Members of the Brotherhood will please send me their postoffice address immediately, and oblige

B. F. J.

Port Gibson, Miss., Jan. 16, 1891.

[Bro. Jones writes that this notice was sent two weeks ago, but the above is the only one that ever reached this office.—EDITOR.]

Carnival Visitors.

A party of ten or twelve can be pleasantly accommodated in a private family in a desirable part of the city. Location easily reached by the five lines of horse cars passing the residence. Apply to Mrs. M. E. Crocker, No. 234 Howard avenue.

The First League.

The Felicity Street Epworth League, organized on Sunday, Jan. 11, 1891, on yesterday elected by ballot the following competent corps of officers: George S. Brown, president; George Parker, first vice-president; Miss Lydia Klocke, second vice-president; Frank L. Billington, third vice-president; Miss Lilla Kennedy, secretary, and Miss Fannie Randolph, treasurer.

The League has a large membership, and will, doubtless, do good work for the Master.

JOHN T. SAWYER, Pastor.

Jan. 18, 1891.

Every factory and workshop in the land should keep on hand Salvation Oil. 25 cents.

Notice as to Changes.

Subscribers whose postoffice is changed will confer a favor if they will advise the business manager as to where their paper is changed from, as well as to their postoffice changed to, as early as possible, in order that our mail lists for 1891 may be correct.

Slush, dirt, wet feet; rheumatism and colds follow. Use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment freely.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

Opelousas District Conference.

A CHANGE OF PLACE.

At the meeting of the district stewards of this district on Jan. 16, for reasons satisfactory to them, it was decided to change the place of holding our District Conference from Lafayette to Lake Charles. "Take due notice thereof, and govern yourselves accordingly." Our District Conference will convene at Lake Charles, March 19, and continue till March 22, with Bishop A. G. Haygood, presiding.

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

Lafayette, La., Jan. 19, 1891.

Business Notices.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.

LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

LOUISIANA

STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Jelling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

THE TRUE MANETTIA VINE

Here shown is the most magnificent flowering vine in cultivation, either for the house or garden, for it is loaded with bloom every day in the year. In the house it can be trained all around a window, and will hang a solid wreath of bloom both summer and winter. In the garden, its charming beauty surpasses everything. Flowers, intense scarlet, tipped with yellow, the most brilliant and striking combination, and borne by the thousand, each flower keeping perfect over a month before fading. It is of the easiest culture, and sure to thrive for any one with ordinary care. It can be trained on a trellis strings, or used for drooping from hanging baskets. In any way a perfect mass of the most lovely flowers and foliage from the root to the tips of the branches. Its great beauty and novelty attract every eye. Supply limited, and this offer will not appear again. Order at once, and if you are not ready for the plants now we will send them later; just when you say. PRICE of strong plants, of the true variety, ALREADY BUDDED OR BLOOMING, by mail, post-paid, guaranteed to arrive in good order, 50 cents each, two for 50 cents, five for $1. To every order we will add another elegant novelty free.

THE GREAT SPIDER LILY. An elegant large bulb of the Amaryllis family which commences to bloom soon after it is potted, sending up great spikes of lovely, large pure white blossoms of exquisite fragrance and unsurpassed beauty. It is one of the oldest, sweetest, and loveliest flowers grown. Large bulbs which will soon bloom, 25 cents each, three for 50 cents, post-paid, or for 50 cents we will send Manettia Vine, Spider Lily, a Superb Seed Novelty and Catalogue.

SEEDS, BULBS, PLANTS, Extra Choice, by Mail Post-paid.

12 Extra choice mixed Gladiolus, flowering bulbs, 25c. | 5 Grand Lilies, 5 sorts, including Auratum, 50c.
6 New Double Pearl Tuberoses " " 25c. | 5 " Cacti, different sorts named, 50c.
5 Rare Chrysanthemums, 5 sorts named, 50c. | 20 Bulbs and 10 pkts. Flower Seeds, all different, 50c.

SPECIAL OFFER. The above liberal offers are made to introduce our superior goods. We will send, post-paid, everything offered for only $2.50: Manettia, Spider Lily, Gladiolus, Tuberoses, Chrysanthemums, Lilies, Cacti, Bulbs, Seeds, etc.

OUR BLUE CATALOGUE. SEEDS, BULBS, PLANTS, AND RARE FRUITS, is the finest ever issued. 128 pages, hundreds of elegant engravings, Stipple Lithograph Covers and 5 large colored plates. We offer the most novelties in Flowers, Vegetables and Fruits, notably our great Japanese Wineberry, Floral Park Plums, Butterfly Orchid, Star Phloxes, Water Plants, New Roses, Dahlias, Gladiolus, Chrysanthemums, etc. Also the greatest collection of rare Cacti and Flowering shrubs. This elegant and expensive Catalogue will be sent for only TEN CENTS, which is only a part of its cost to us, or if you order anything here offered and ask for a Catalogue it will be sent FREE. Address

JOHN LEWIS CHILDS, Floral Park, Queens Co., N. Y.

DONALD KENNEDY

Of Roxbury, Mass., says

I have kept a Scrap Book for a good many years of letters received from patients; some are long, too long to publish; some are short, short and good. Rainy days I sit down and read them, and have learned a good deal about the human body from some poor, sickly woman or overstrained man. Here is one of them. I call it a good letter:

TRENTON, TEXAS, Sept. 28, 1886.

"To Kennedy of the Medical Discovery, Roxbury, Mass. I am so proud of my recovery as to express my feelings in thanks to you. The RHEUMATISM has made me four-legged for six years. At last I have traded off two of them to Bell—Druggist—for four bottles of Kennedy's Discovery. I am yours, gratefully and unsolicited. J. B. IVY."

SHORTHAND

—AND—

TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman, Julius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MUNN & CO.
SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN AGENCY for
PATENTS
A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO.
361 Broadway, New York.

Mention this paper.

Books

New Books every week. Catalogue, 132 pages, free; not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York.

We believe we have a thorough knowledge of all the ins and outs of newspaper advertising, gained in an experience of twenty-five years of successful business; we have the best equipped office, by far the most comprehensive as well as the most convenient system of placing contracts and verifying their fulfillment and unrivaled facilities in all departments for careful and intelligent service. We offer our services to all who contemplate spending $1 or $10,000 in newspaper advertising and who wish to get the most and best advertising for the money.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co.

Newspaper Advertising Bureau,

10 Spruce St., New York.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr., Prop'r, Loudon, Tenn.

Dyspepsia is the bane of the present generation. It is for its cure and its attendants, Sick Headache, Constipation and Piles, that have become so famous. They act speedily and gently on the digestive organs, giving them tone and vigor to assimilate food. No griping or nausea.

Tutt's Pills

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

If THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS SENT TO US, WITH ONE DOLLAR, WE WILL SEND THE MUSICAL VISITOR TO ANY ADDRESS FOR ONE YEAR. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

—PUBLISHED BY—

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE

OF THE

Methodist Episcopal Church, South,

AT

NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Will fill an order for any book at its publisher's price. The profits of this House belong to the Church, and are disbursed to the Annual Conferences for distribution to their "Conference claimants"—superannuated preachers and the widows and orphans of their deceased brethren. Every order sent the House is an indirect contribution to this important aid fund. Methodists ought to keep this in mind.

BARBEE & SMITH,

AGENTS.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal" of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address, with stamp,

AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Incredibly new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Send for illustrated circulars and prices free. Address

DE KALB FENCE CO., Ridgeville, Ind.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. HISCOX & CO., N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. HISCOX & Co., N.Y.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Blk, Nashville, Tenn. FOR Catalogue.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES

$100. FOR AN INCURABLE CASE.

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration, causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to which acts directly on parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 50c Druggists or mail. Circulars free. Bosanko Co. Piqua, O.

DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE

DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

Our Young People.

BABY'S FIRST PRAYER.

Little fat fingers crossed meekly,
Mimicking patient mama;
Gracie looks up to our Father;
Charmingly lisping "Tah, lah."

This is the whole of her worship;
Yet He who promised to hear
Wee little lambs on his bosom
Listens to baby's first prayer.

Sweet little picture of heaven!
Well did the Good Master say,
"They must be like little children
Who would My Father obey."

Baby knows nothing of doubting,
Dark unbelief and despair;
All these she leaves to grown people,
Baby knows only her prayer.

So let it be, gracious Father,
All through her life's blessed day;
When clouds and darkness oppress her,
Teach her, great Teacher, to pray.

Tenderly lead and protect her,
Draw her with fatherly love,
Make her both perfect and holy,
Fit for the mansions above.

—Picture World.

A Bright Boy and What He Accomplished by Reading.

BY CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

I knew a boy, a scrap of a lad, who almost needed a high chair to bring him up to the general level of the dining table, who liked to read the encyclopedia. He was always hunting round in the big books of encyclopedia—books about his own size—for what he wanted to know. He dug in it as another boy would dig in the woods for sassafras root. It appeared that he was interested in natural history and natural phenomena. He asked questions of these books, exactly as he would ask a living authority, and kept at it till he got answers. He knew how to read. Soon that boy was an authority on earthquakes. He liked to have the conversation at table turn on earthquakes, for then he seemed to be the tallest person at the table. I suppose there was no earthquake anywhere of any importance but that he could tell where it occurred and what damage it did, how many houses it buried, and how many people it killed, and what shape it left the country it had shaken. From that he went on to try to discover what caused these disturbances, and this led him into other investigations, and at last into the study of electricity, practical as well as theoretical. He examined machines and invented machines, and kept on reading, and presently he was an expert in electricity. He knew how to put in wires, and signals, and bells, and to do a number of practical and useful things, and almost before he was able to enter the high school, he had a great deal of work to do in the city, and three or four men under him. These men with him had not read as much about electricity as he had.—St. Nicholas.

What Boys Should Learn.

Among other things that a boy should learn, an exchange classes the following, to wit:

Not to tease boys or girls smaller than themselves.

Not to take the easiest chair in the room, put it in the pleasantest place, and forget to offer it to the mother when she comes in to sit down.

To treat the mother as politely as if she was a strange lady who did not spend her life in their service.

To be as kind and helpful to their sisters as they expect their sisters to be to them.

The most reliable family medicine for coughs and colds is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BOYS AND MEN.—There is a difference between boys and men, but it is a difference of self-knowledge chiefly. A boy wants to do everything because he does not know he can not; a man wants to do something because he knows he can not do everything; a boy always fails, and a man sometimes succeeds because the man knows and the boy does not know. A man is better than a boy because he knows better; he has learned by experience that what is harm to others is a greater harm to himself, and he would rather not do it. But a boy hardly knows what harm is, and does it mostly without realizing that it hurts. He can not invent anything, he can only imitate; and it is easier to imitate evil than good. You can imitate war, but how are you going to imitate peace? So a boy passes his leisure in contriving mischief. If you get another fellow to walk into a wasp's camp, you can see him jump and hear him howl, but if you do not, then nothing at all happens. If you set a dog to chase a cat up a tree, then something has been done; but if you do not set the dog on the cat, then the cat just lies in the sun and sleeps, and you lose your time. If a boy could find out some way of doing good, so that he could be active in it, very likely he would want to do good now and then; but as he can not, he very seldom wants to do good. —W. D. Howells, in Harper's Young People.

MR. EDITOR: As I am compelled to stay in the house with the measles, I thought I would interest myself by writing to your valuable paper. I enjoy reading the young people's letters very much. As I am particularly fond of history, I also enjoy the letters of Dr. Carradine's description of the Holy Land. Conference has sent back to us our same preacher we had last year, Bro. Huntley. We all like him very much. We have a very fine Sunday-school, and the superintendent is President Fitzhugh, of Whitworth College. We all love and appreciate him very much. The District Conference has located the district parsonage here, and the presiding elder and his family have arrived. Don't you think Brookhaven is blessed in regard to religious people? Bro. Watkins came here to move his library, which is said to be as large as any preacher's in the State. I have two brothers and one sister younger than myself. Being as this is my first letter, I hope it will escape the waste-basket. I will close by asking a question: "Who was Joseph's mother?" I remain,

Your unknown friend,
MEREDITH WOOD.

Brookhaven, Miss., Jan. 10, 1891.

[This is the sort of letter we like to receive. We hope Meredith will keep a watch-out for some more news to send us.—EDITOR.]

MR. EDITOR: I have been reading the children's letters in the ADVOCATE for some time, and wish to write a short letter also. I have one sister and no buddie. I was born at Bastrop, La. Sister Jimmie was born in Franklin parish, La. I am nine years old, and sister is eleven years old, and we go to Sunday-school every Sunday. My teacher's name is Bro. McDaniel, and Sister Morris is sister's teacher, and we love them so much. Papa is our pastor, and we love him, of course; and had you seen the pounding our people gave us after papa was returned to Rockwall, you would have thought they were glad he was sent back to preach for them again. Now, Mr. Editor, if you will be so kind as to publish this letter, which is my first, I will tell the children of the ADVOCATE in my next letter what a grand country I think Texas is.

MARVIN MCREE.

Rockwall, Texas.

MR. EDITOR: I am a very young boy, and don't know much about such work as this; but I will tell you as much as I do know. We have a very nice country where I live, and very warm. We have had no snow yet, but lots of rain. I have a horse, and love to ride, and also a dog, and he is very playful. He will run the turkeys out of the house, and I think he will be able to go after my horse very soon. I am going to school every day. I am in the sixth reader and Robinson's Advanced Arithmetic. I will close with the question: "How many words in the Bible?"

Your unknown friend,
PAUL HARRIS.

Kelley, Miss.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS WATERPROOF
A HANDSOME POLISH.
A LEATHER PRESERVER:
NO BRUSHING REQUIRED.
Shoes can be washed daily.
Used by men, women and children.

Wait darling, your coach isn't dry yet. I have just painted it with

PIK-RON

TRADE MARK

AGAINST THAT ONE CAN SEE THROUGH. TRY IT.

Looks like a new coach, don't it baby?

Sold Everywhere.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

PIK-RON makes a plain white wood any imitation you wish to obtain.

Household.

How to Make a Good Wife Unhappy.

See your wife as seldom as possible. If she is warm-hearted and cheerful in temper, or if, after a day's or a week's absence, she meets you with a smiling face and in an affectionate manner, be sure to look coldly upon her, and answer her with monosyllables. If she forces back her tears, and is resolved to look cheerful, sit down and gape in her presence, till she is fully convinced of your indifference. Never think you have anything to do to make her happy, but that her happiness is to flow from gratifying your caprices; and when she has done all a woman can do, be sure you do not appear gratified. Never take an interest in any of her pursuits; and if she asks your advice, make her feel that she is troublesome and impertinent. If she attempts to rally you good-humoredly on any of your peculiarities, never join in the laugh, but frown her into silence. If she has faults (which, without doubt, she will have, and perhaps may be ignorant of), never attempt with kindness to correct them, but continually obtrude upon her ears: "What a good wife Mr. Smith has!" "How happy Mr. Smith is with his wife!" "Any man would be happy with such a wife!" In company, never seem to know you have a wife; treat all her remarks with indifference, and be very affable and complaisant to every other lady. If you follow these directions, you may be certain of an obedient and heart-broken wife. —New York Ledger.

THE COMING GIRL.—The coming girl will cook her own food, will earn her own living, and will not die an old maid. The coming girl will not wear the Grecian bend, dance the german, ignore all possibilities of knowing how to work, will not endeavor to break the hearts of unsophisticated young men, will spell correctly, understand English before she affects French, will preside with equal grace at the piano or wash-tub, will spin more yarn for the house than for the street, and will not despise her plainly clad mother, her poor relations or the band of an honest worker.

The coming girl will walk five miles a day if need be, to keep her cheeks aglow; will mind her health, her physical development, and her mother; will adopt a costume both sensible and conducive to health; will not confound hypocrisy with politeness; will not place trying to please above frankness.

The coming girl will not look to Paris, but to reason, for her fashions; will not aim to follow a foolish fashion because milliners and dressmakers decree it; will not torture her body, shrivel her soul with puerilities, or ruin it with wine and pleasure. In short, the coming girl will seek to glorify her Maker and to enjoy mentally his works. Duty will be her aim, and life a living reality.—Exchange.

GOOD MANNERS AT HOME.—The presence of good manners is nowhere more needed or more effective than in the household, and perhaps nowhere more rare. Whenever familiarity exists, there is a tendency to loosen the check upon selfish conduct which the presence of strangers involuntarily produces. Many persons who are kind and courteous in company, are rude and careless with those whom they love best. Emerson says, "Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices," and certainly nothing can more thoroughly secure the harmony and peace of the family circle than the habit of making small sacrifices, one for another. Children thus learn good manners in the best and most natural way, and habits thus acquired will never leave them. Courtesy and kindness will never lose their power or their charm, while all spurious imitations of them are to be despised.—The Republic.

The advertisement, to become an efficient drummer up of new business, must be characterized by the freshness and impressiveness of a personal interview.—Nashville Banner.

We the undersigned, do testify that we have used Dr Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar for years, for all throat and lung troubles, with the greatest benefit. For coughs and colds it never fails. When taken according to directions, it cures our children of croup and whooping-cough, and for serious lung troubles it always gives relief.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1, 1889.

C. A. Pfeffer, 201 Miro street; Emile A. Martin, 186 Johnson street; John Capdeville, Jr., 320 St. Philip street; L. Y. Petit, Bayou St. John; William Noonan, Carrollton; A. M. Ruh, 205 Miro street. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

Scientific.

Desirable Timber Trees.

BY DAVID Z. EVANS, JR., PENNSYLVANIA.

One of the most valuable native trees is the White Ash. The wood of this tree is always in good demand for oars, tool handles, etc., on account of its lightness, elasticity and strength, while its beautiful grain commends it for interior finish. It is a rapid grower on moist soils, and succeeds even on poor soils. A growth of ash has been known to realize for the planter a clear profit of $600 to $700 per acre, on tracts of ten to twenty acres from trees only twelve years old. As this would amount to more than fifty dollars per acre per year, aside from other considerations, the profit is a good one. Surely the rocky, hilly, and otherwise unprofitable lands in our older States could be, in this way, turned to a very profitable account. The only drawback would be having to wait for twelve or fifteen years for first returns. But they would then come with compound interest. The trees may be readily produced from seed, although the young trees of this, and all other kinds, needed for timber culture, may be obtained from most of our larger nurserymen at very reasonable prices in large quantities.

The Catalpa is a soft and fine-grained timber. It is very popular on account of taking a beautiful polish. It is one of the most durable kinds of timber. It is a rapid, vigorous grower, with rather straggling habit when alone, but straight and upright when grown in groves or close plantations. Cabinet makers are learning its desirability for their work, and are using it to a considerable extent. Of the different species, the Catalpa speciosa is the hardiest and best adapted to the North, producing large, white flowers, which give great beauty during the time of bloom.

The Willow is considerably planted, and can be grown profitably in situations too moist for the successful growth of other timber. It will, however, grow on poor or hilly spots. Its growth in such places may not be quite so rapid, yet it equals most other trees in similar situations. Its wood is used for furniture, for ox bows, for handles, and many other uses (especially basketmaking) where strength, lightness, and toughness are desirable; its closeness and evenness of grain admits of a handsome polish. Its bark is in demand for tanning, and the charcoal from its wood is used in the manufacture of gunpowder.

The European Larch has been but little grown in this country, being a native of the Alps, the Tyrol, and other European mountainous regions. In point of extreme hardiness, there is nothing to be desired, while it is a very rapid growing tree in land which is thoroughly drained, as are hilly and mountainous districts.

It is scarcely necessary to write at length of the profits to be gained in planting the American Sweet Chestnut and Black Walnut; both trees, besides producing valuable and salable timber, will produce, in a few years, crops of nuts which will, alone, pay a good percentage of profit annually, while the trees, for the timber, will be constantly increasing in bulk and value.

Among the several other kinds of trees which may be grown for timber, are the White Oak, Sugar Maple, White Pine, Elm, Butternut, Hickory, Cottonwood, Birch, Poplar, Box Elder, and the Soft Maple, all of which have their special uses. It need not be feared that timber culture will be overdone, for the distinctive American desire to get rich rapidly will prevent it for a long time to come. It involves the waiting (except in the case of nut-bearing trees) of from twelve to twenty years for returns. It would be well for young men, especially, to carefully look into this important matter; for in the new and almost treeless States of the "Great Plains" regions there is necessity for the cultivation of the more valuable timber trees. Though the first returns are slow, they are sure and very generous when they do come.—Agriculturist.

"Tried and true" is the verdict of people who take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The good effects of this medicine are soon felt in nerve strength restored, that tired feeling driven off, a good appetite created, headache and dyspepsia relieved, scrofula cured.

PARSONS PURGATIVE PILLS

Make New, Rich Blood!

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them, and you will always be thankful. One PILL A DOSE. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cts. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & Co., 22 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., BOSTON, MASS.

The Best, Swiftest and Lightest-Running Sewing Machine in the World is the SINGER.

Especially Adapted for Family Use. In Elegant, Convenient and Artistic Cabinet Work, with our New (patented) Stand, and all Modern Improvements.

THE ONLY PERFECT ATTACHMENTS

More Popular Than Ever,
They Defy Competition.

Sold on the Most Liberal and Easy Terms. Full Instructions Given and Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Send for Illustrated Price List.

Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines, 15, 20 and 25 cents per dozen; postage extra. Parts and Attachments for the Singer.

The Singer Manufacturing Company,

CENTRAL OFFICE:

185 Canal, New Orleans, La.

Branch offices at Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Dallas, Galveston, Houston, Marshall and San Antonio, Tex.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette"

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœpathic Chemists, LONDON, ENGLAND.

Most Worthy Books for PURCHASE.

CHOICE AND POPULAR ALTO SONGS. 33 songs—each one a Gem. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

THE SONGS OF IRELAND. A new and carefully revised collection of the best and most celebrated Irish songs. Joined the best melodies in existence, and bright, spirited words. 66 songs. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

CHOICE SONG COLLECTIONS.

Song Classics, Vol 1.	50	songs.
Song Classics, Vol. 2.	39	"
Song Classics, Low Voices,	47	"
Choice Sacred Solos,	34	"
Choice Sacred Solos, Low V'ce,	40	"
Classic, Baritone and Bass,	33	"
Classic Tenor Songs,	26	"
Good Old Songs We Used to Sing,	115	"

CHOICE PIANO COLLECTIONS.

Piano Classics Vol. 1,	44	pieces.
Piano Classics, Vol. 2,	31	"
Classical Pianist,	42	"
Popular Dance Collection,	63	"
Popular Piano Collection,	66	"
Operatic Piano Collection,	19	operas.

Price of Each Book, $1. Cloth Gilt $2. All are Valuable Collections of the Best Music.

Churchill's BIRTHDAY BOOK of EMINENT COMPOSERS. A handsome and useful book, $1.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York City

A Perfect Fountain Pen!

The best cheap Fountain Pen made

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens and Stylographic Pens, from $1 50 to $3.50 each. Holders and ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

Marriages.

NELSON—STRICKLAND.—At the residence of Rev. E. R. Strickland, Pike county, Miss., Jan. 8, 1891, by Rev. J. W. Ellison, Mr. Fred Nelson and Miss E la F. Strickland.

HOWELL—WEEMS.—At the residence of the bride's father, near DeSoto, Miss., Jan. 4, 1891, at 1:30 P. M., by Rev. J. P. Duke, Mr. James Howell to Miss Ella S. Weems.

CONERLY—RATLIFF.—At the residence of the bride's parents, on Thursday, Jan. 8, 1891, by Rev. L. W. Wood, Dr. Tilman S. Conerly to Miss M. Courtney Ratliff, both of Pike county, Miss.

MOORE—ABBEY.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Water Valley, Miss., Dec. 24, 1890, by Rev. J. M. Wyatt, Mr. W. H. Moore to Miss Alice Abber.

HAMILTON—McCLARTY.—At the residence of the bride's father, four miles east of Oxford, Dec. 21, 1890, by Rev. J. M. Huggin, Mr. J. F. Hamilton to Miss Jessie McClarty.

RUSHING—MORGAN.—At the residence of the bride's father, four miles east of Abbeville, Miss., Dec. 24, 1890, by Rev. J. M. Huggin, Mr. J. F. Rushing and Miss Annie Morgan.

DUNLAP—SLATE.—At the residence of the bride's mother, in Lafayette county, Miss., Jan. 6, 1891, by Rev. J. M. Huggin, Mr. T. D. P. Dunlap, of Indianola, Miss., to Miss L. N. Slate.

JONES—RABB.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. Rabb, near Hatton, Miss., Dec. 31, 1890, by Rev. T. B. Holloman, Dr. F. A. Jones, of Phœnix, Miss., to Miss Mary Bell Rabb, all of Yazoo county, Miss.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

HOSKINS—Died at Brookhaven, Miss., on Nov. 30, 1890, at 8:10 A. M., Mrs. LIZZIE A. HOSKINS, aged fifty years. She was the wife of Capt. James A. Hoskins, and the mother of thirteen children, twelve of whom live to mourn her death and treasure her memory.

Sister Hoskins' relations to our people and our place were of an unusually close nature. She was the eldest daughter of Milton J. Whitworth. Methodism knew him as a prominent exponent of her tenets, and shares with the genius of education the honor and profit of Whitworth College, which he founded. Passing away, he left this monument to education, with the endowment of rare, strong character to this, his eldest daughter. She possessed the graces of true womanhood. In and for the church, she was the warm and active adherent, friend and helper. At home she was the true and sufficient source of happiness to her husband and her children. Toward her community and her friends, she was noted in the exercise of broad and earnest sympathy and womanly attachment.

Of unassuming manner, gentle, faithful in all duty, strong and wise in her purposes and efforts to advance the loftier and better development of those around her, her absence from her wonted place fills her people with abiding sadness. The bereavement of husband and mate of many years, the unspeakable loss to children (some of them little ones) are beyond the medium of words to express.

Death sought and found a shining mark, summoning this spirit home And here the comfort to bereft ones lies. She has been summoned home. Husband mourns wife, children mourn mother, friends sigh for friend, for the casket of clay is at rest. But, heaven is happier for an angel won. She departed in peace. God moderated the grief of the sorrowing with this comfortable assurance. She fought a good fight, she has kept the faith; "henceforth for her is laid up a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, hath given her."

Wide mourning has followed the depature of this Christian woman. Yet distress is tempered by the excellence and permanence of her influence while she staid. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." She hath wrought out her destiny. She is at peace, and her memory will linger like the echoes of music and the fragrance of flowers with those who knew and loved her. May the Lord bless the husband and children and gather all home at last!

W. H. HUNTLEY.

VAUGHN—Entered into rest, at nine o'clock P. M., Dec. 27, 1890, CARLTON, a bright and lovely little three-year-old boy of Geo. P. and Carrie Vaughn. He came to take Christmas dinner with his grandparents, and during the day was taken quite ill, and for a night and two days the little darling sufferod intensely, till God, in his mercy, freed the spirit from its body of suffering. The bright eyes were closed; and what a sweet thought!—they opened in the city of God. Weep not, dear ones, over your loss; but look up, although gloom shrouds you here. The little star is shining above for you, and the little spirit beckons you to the other land, where peace and joy, uninterrupted by temporal sorrows, lives through eternal ages without end.

AUNT ANNIE.

ENOCHS—OSCAR NORRELL, son of E. A. and Laura F. Enoehs, was born July 26, 1887, and died Jan. 10, 1891. God has visited his flock again, and selected a lamb; one less on earth, one more in heaven. May God give grace to the bereaved parents, to know that their loss is his gain; and by and by, if they are faithful, they can make an unbroken family around the throne of God.

M. L. BURTON.

FLETCHER—On Sunday night, Jan. 4, 1891, Miss CARRIE FLETCHER passed from her home in Crystal Springs, Miss., to the beautiful beyond, leaving a circle of sorrowing relatives and friends to mourn the loss of one whose life had been to them a joy and blessing. An invalid from childhood, she endured much physical suffering with great patience and fortitude; while her cheerful spirit and ready sympathy in the joys and sorrows of others won for her the affection of all who knew her. In spite of frequent and severe illness, it could be said of her as of the virtuous women of old, "She worketh willingly with her hands;" and her patient industry, coupled with exquisite taste, make these works to praise her.

Whenever strength permitted, her seat in church was filled; but it was in the home circle that her virtues were most seen and felt. These were fraught with the peaceable fruits of righteousness. Oh! the blessed ministry of these suffering ones whom the Lord hath set apart for himself. Who can reckon its power and greatness? To him who hath said, "By their fruits ye shall know them," we commit her, trusting that his grace may comfort her sorrowing mother, and his presence fill the broken heart and home.

FANNIE M. MONTGOMERY.

A Preacher on Preaching.

The Christian World gives the following synopsis of Mr. Spurgeon's recent address to the Hackney students on "How to make a soul-winning preacher:" "Many young men began to preach before they knew what they were going to say. It would not do to hold theories about regeneration or original sin, a successful preacher must know them by his knowledge of himself. Conversion was sometimes wrought by a fluke, not because the preacher aimed at it. He had heard a sermon which would not have converted a mouse, and that not even omnipotence could have used unless it had been wholly reversed. Conversion should be aimed at in all the services, and not seldom, with bills announcing a special evangelical sermon. 'Give it to the sinners in the sermons to the saints,' said he; 'begin at the beginning when they don't expect it, and go at 'em in season and out of season.' If some preachers had a soul saved they would feel exquisitely delighted, whereas they ought to feel sad, that instead of one out of so many it wasn't a thousand. This could only be brought about by vehemence; when icicles hung on the preacher's lips people would not be saved. A warm heart was more than all the rhetoric of learning, and the only ornament the cross of Christ wanted was a big fire. The preacher who doubted whether some people could be saved had better go home to bed, for it was clear God had not sent him to preach. When a preacher had fired all his metal, he must ram himself home and fire himself at them. A bit of experience often did far more good than a lot of doctrine. A good preacher must kill himself by preaching, and then go home and pray himself alive. A good many men were like barrels with the tap at the top, people did not get much out of them. It was, however, the man behind the sermons that made them a success. He liked to get into gear with the text. Some brethren liked to harp on prophecy, and seemed to know so well when the Lord was coming that they took coals in by the scuttle. Others discoursed in words of seventeen syllables, but these came to no good end. They would do much better if they would boil the long words for their own eating, and pelt the sinners with pure Saxon—grand imperial Saxon. Some men went in for showing their paws and rings in the 'This complete, six guineas' style, but cats in gloves didn't catch mice, and men who preached the gospel must have done with fopperies."

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant, treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

BIBLE READING.—It is not enough to read the Bible constantly; we must read it properly also. Some men read the Bible daily who merely become more hardened every day by the process. Men can be found who are so well versed in Scripture that they can quote it readily and accurately, and yet they never quote it for any good purpose, and never consult it with the intention of obeying it. The condition of the heart has more to do with the effect of truth on one than the clearness of his head. The seed which falls in good ground brings forth bountifully, but that which falls by the wayside seldom grows. An honest heart cherishes the truth and profits by it, but a disloyal spirit is made worse by the same means.—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

Bound to Get on Top.

In spite of all discouragements good gets on top. It takes long sometimes—it wears patience, and sometimes sours the disposition—but genuine good meets with genuine success. That's gospel to anyone who knows the history of Drs. Starkey & Palen's Compound Oxygen Treatment. It is well known what obstacles had to be overcome at the outset, the most serious of which was the antipathy of physicians. But how is it now? To-day more than one thousand physicians use the Compound Oxygen Treatment in their practice. They have found it a faithful ally in their efforts to subdue disease, and they have admitted as much. A 200-page book, which is free to anyone, has the indorsements of many prominent physicians, besides the testimonials of clergymen and other professional men and women. It is over twenty years now that Drs. Starkey & Palen's Compound Oxygen Treatment has been doing its good work.

If you have anything that is good, you must say so; it is not enough to have value, the fact must be made known. So Drs. Starkey & Palen have given the Compound Oxygen Treatment its well nigh universal vogue by systematic and careful advertising. The troubles of introduction and general acceptance were over years since, but they wish to remind you that the Compound Oxygen Treatment is still available to assist the invalid.

Invalids need encouragement; it helps them to get well. The 200-page book above mentioned is filled from cover to cover with testimonials of grateful physicians and patients. It will be sent free of charge to anyone addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, Cal.

From Top to Bottom

The house is best cleaned that is cleaned with Pearline. It is done with little labor and with great results—with ease to yourself, and with no possible injury to anything that is cleaned. To use Pearline once is to want it always; you will want it always because it does what you want.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 177 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $504,376.52.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans.

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

☞ See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

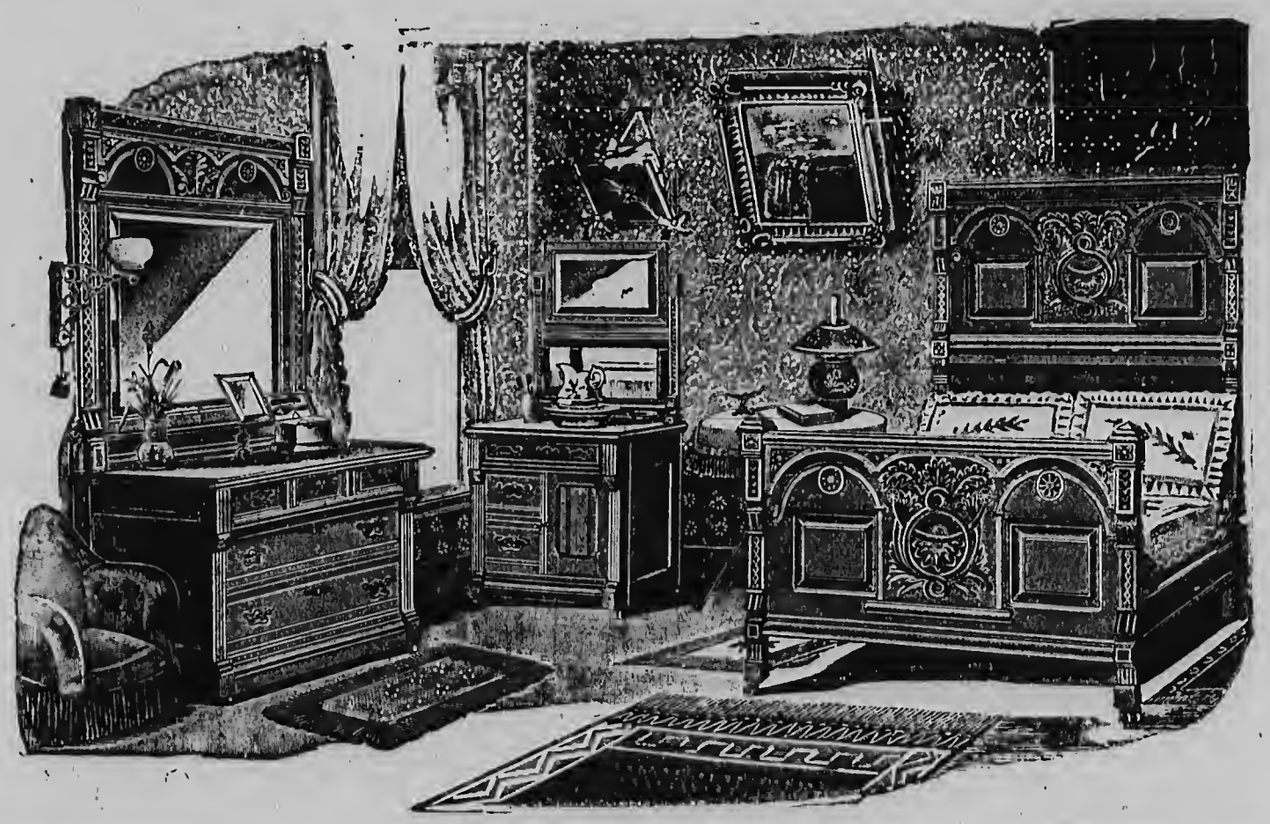
NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Valours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	Jan. 24, 25
Pleasant Hill, at Rendah	31, Feb. 1
Mooringsport, at Mooringsport	7, 8
South Bossier, at Fillmore	14, 15
DeSoto, at Bethel	21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Weaver, at Holly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 2d. ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Spring Creek, at Campbell's	Jan. 24, 25
Sugar Town, at Dry Creek	31, Feb. 1
Alexandria	7, 8
Pineville, at Hickory Grove	14, 15
Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	18, 19
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassus	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Bentah	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Alexandria, February 7, 1891.

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Oak Ridge, at Prairie	Jan. 24, 25
Richland, at Girard	31, Feb. 1
Delhi, at Delhi	7, 8
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	14, 15
Waterproof, at Waterproof	21, 22
Providence, at Providence	28, Mar. 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

District stewards will meet at Delhi, February 7. H. O. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, at P.	Jan. 25
Algiers	Feb. 1
Morgan Street	8
Baton Rouge	15
Gross Tete and False River, at Hilry	22
Craps Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma, at Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12 15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Opelousas and Washington	Jan. 24, 25
Patterson and Morgan City	31, Feb. 1
Franklin	7, 8
Lake Arthur	14, 15
Lake Charles	21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Arcadia, at Arcadia	Jan. 24, 25
Ruston, at Ruston	31, Feb. 1
Vernon, at Vernon	7, 8
Gansville	14, 15
Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

District stewards will please meet me at Arcadia, January 24. A full attendance of official members earnestly desired.

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lauderdale cir., at Soule's Chapel	Jan. 24, 25
Meridian cir., at Lakeville	31, Feb. 1
Manassas cir., at Energy	7, 8
Vicksburg cir., at Vicksburg	(Wed.) 11
DeKalb cir., at DeKalb	14, 15
Porterville cir.	21, 22
Meridian, at West End	(Thurs.) 26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar. 1
Meridian, at East End	28, 1
Daleville sta	(Fri.) 6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Bonneville and Whalak	28, 29

District stewards will meet in First Church, Meridian, Tuesday, Jan. 27, at nine A. M. Full attendance is desired.

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

A. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Hattiesburg, at Hattiesburg	Jan. 24, 25
Estabuchie, at Hebron	31, Feb. 1
Williamsburg, at Eminence	(Mon.) 2
Heidelberg, at Heidelberg	7, 8
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	14, 15
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs	(Tu., W.) 17, 18
Pearlington, at Pearlington	21, 22
Perry, at Isabella	28, Mar. 1
American, at Caswell Springs	7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point	(night) 8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove	(W., Th.) 11, 12
Whittington, at Whittington	14, 15
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	Mar. 21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, 29

District stewards will please meet me in Hattiesburg, Feb. 4, at ten A. M.

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Adams, at Adams	(Fri.) Jan. 23
Summit, at Summit	24, 25
Beauregard, at Matthews	(Sat.) 31
Wesson sta	Feb. 1, 2
Brookhaven cir., at Adams	(Tues.) 3
McComb, at Tepkaw	7, 8
Crystal Springs sta	14, 15
Hazlehurst sta	21, 22
Bowerton, at Brandywine	28, Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon	(Mon.) 2
Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	7, 8
China Grove, at Waterholes	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton	(Tues.) 17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Bahala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Homewood, at Grange Hall	Jan. 24, 25
Lake, at Lake	31, Feb. 1
Rose Hill, at Rose Hill	7, 8
Newton and Hickory, at Hickory	8, 9
Westville, at Pleasant Hill	14, 15
Shiloh, at Cato	21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron	10
Marvin, at Marsta	14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	21, 22
Raleigh, at Trinity	28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton	29, 30

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Martin, at Cane Ridge	Jan. 24, 25
Port Gibson	25, 26
Mayersville, at Beulah	Feb. 1, 2
Warren, at Oak Ridge	7, 8
Rolling Fork, at Cary	15, 16
Rocky Springs, at Hermanville	21, 22
Burtonton, at Pleasant	(Mon.) 25
Utica, at Utica	(Wed.) 25
Roats, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 22

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bayou Sara, at Concord	Jan. 24, 25
East Feliciana, at Independence	31, Feb. 1
St. Helena, at McLean's Chapel	7, 8
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	14, 15
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent	17
Live Oak	19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson Station	25
Clinton and Hetonville, at Clinton	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tallsheek, at Fitzgerald	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Amite City, at Amite City	19
Springfield, at Killian Chapel	21, 22

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sharon, at Mt. Pleasant	(Sat.) Jan. 24
Camden, at Camden	(Sun.) 25
Mt. Olivet, at Fletcher	31, Feb. 1
Bentonia and Dover, at Bentonia	7, 8
Vazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel	14, 15
Vazoo City station, (Sun. night, Mon.)	15, 16
Benton, at Bowman's	21, 22
Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Flux.

Maguire's Benne Plant for nearly 50 years the infallible cure. Thousands of testimonials; indorsed by the Western Sanitary Commission, U. S. army officers, hospital physicians, steamboat officers, etc. Taken in time a sure preventive of Asiatic cholera.

ALL SACRED.—We talk about the sacred ministry, the sacred desk, and the sacred calling; but we want sacred offices, sacred banks, sacred stores, and sacred shops, and every man in them who names the name of Christ to be an ordained minister of God—to do his work, bear his testimony, lift high the light of the divine life, and scatter the salt which saves the world from corruption; to be witnesses for godliness, righteousness and brotherly kindness. Every calling is sacred, and every line of business for the Christian is one in which the Master may be served, and testimony for the truth may be borne.—G. F. Pentecost.

Style, symmetry and beauty in an advertisement always attract attention. —Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

THE

Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

EIGHTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

In conformity with the requirements of its charter, the company publishes the following statement of its business for the year ending the 31st day of December, 1890:

Premiums received—
On fire risks	$484 476 26
On river risks	20,208 32
On marine risks	10,495 59
		$515,180 17
Add—
Unearned premiums of 1889		114,588 32
Total premiums		$629,768 49
Add—
Interest and profit and loss		19,211 53
Total income		$648,980 02
Deduct: Losses paid—
On fire risks	$192,120 81
On river risks	1,654 72
On marine risks	2,286 74
Total losses paid	$196,062 28
Return premiums and cancellations	56,833 23
Commissions	78,131 15
Reinsurances	36,760 84
Taxes and licenses	9,964 40
Expenses—Home office and agencies, salaries, Fire Underwriters' Association, Salvage Corps and Habcock engines, rent, advertising, etc.	42,172 01
Total disbursements		$419,663 91
Surplus		$229,316 11
Of which—
Reserved for unexpired risks	$136,231 10
Reserved for adjusted and unadjusted losses	41 952 31
Net profit	51,162 70
	$229,316 11

ASSETS

(At their market values).

Cash on hand, to wit:
In banks	$87,368 97
In office	4,228 46	$ 91,597 43
$100,000 City of New Orleans consolidated bonds (Crossman issue)		105,000 00
$120,000 City of New Orleans premium bonds (including drawn number		188,400 00
$25,000 United States 4 per cent. coupon bonds		30,000 00
$30,000 Louisiana 4 per cent. bonds		27,600 00
Demand loans secured by collaterals		47,610 00
One share N. O. Board of Trade stock		20 00
One share La. Sugar Exchange stock		150 00
25 shares N. O. Warehouse Co.		525 00
One share French Opera House Co.		200 00
One bond St. Bernard Steam Fire Engine Co.		50 00
Premiums in course of collection		66,185 68
Furniture and fixtures, safe, etc.		2,000 00
		$559,348 11

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock	$300,000 00
Reserve fund	40,000 00
Dividends unpaid	2,052 00
Reserved for unexpired risks	133,231 10
Reserved for adjusted and unadjusted losses	41,952 31
Balance (exclusive dividend July, 1890)	42,102 70
	$559,348 11

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the company.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President.
SCOTT MCGEHEE, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this day, New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1891.

M. T. DUCROS, Notary Public, 138 Gravier street.

We, the undersigned, members of the Finance Committee of the Southern Insurance Company of New Orleans, hereby certify that we have carefully examined the assets of the company, and that the above is a correct statement of the same.

A. H. MENGE,
FRANK RODER,
THOS. J. WOODWARD,
P. G. ERNST.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of this company, held this day, it was unanimously resolved to pay to the stockholders, on demand, the regular semi-annual interest dividend of FOUR PER CENT., and to place $20,000 to the reserve fund, making $60,000 to the credit of said fund.

SCOTT MCGEHEE, Secretary.

New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1891.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Hon. George Bancroft, the eminent historian, died at his home in Washington (D. C.) on Jan. 17, in his ninety-first year.

The hostile Indians have agreed to come in and surrender their arms to General Miles, but the disarmament is going on slowly.

A bill appropriating $9,000,000 for Mississippi river improvements will be reported favorably to the House by the Committee on Levees, etc.

The steamboat H. J. Dickey sunk in Bayou Macon, three miles above Delhi, La., last week. The boat and cargo were a total loss, but all lives were saved.

A large fire visited Fallow, a suburb of Philadelphia, on Jan. 17, and destroyed several large establishments. The total loss will amount to nearly $700,000.

Everything is reported quiet in the Indian country. Guns are being turned in by the hostiles daily, and the troops which formed a cordon around the hostiles are being withdrawn and ordered back to their stations.

An all-night session of the United States Senate was held on Jan. 17. The Republicans in a desperate attempt to pass the Force Bill prolonged the session; but, owing to a determined effort by the Democrats, and the lack of a quorum, nothing was accomplished.

The Hotel Marvin, at Finlay, Ohio, was wrecked by an explosion of natural gas on Jan. 17. Escaping gas filled a chamber under the dining-room. A hole was cut in the floor of the dining-room, and a match, being accidentally lighted the same instant, caused an explosion, which wrecked the building. Two persons were killed and fourteen seriously injured.

The army and navy officers who have been detailed as special commissioners to carry the invitation from the government of the United States to the other American republics and the West Indian colonies to participate in the Columbian Exposition, have received their letters of instructions from the Department of State and will start on their mission at once.

The United States marshal in Cincinnati has arrested four men in that city for using the mails for the purpose of circulating lottery advertisements. The accused have been operating as agents for the Louisiana State Lottery. One of the culprits has made a confession. He stated that circulars had been sent as far east as New York, and that the agency is the largest in the United States.

If the Senate should succeed in passing the Elections bill this present session, the Democrats of the House will precipitate an extra session, as they propose to resist the passage of every measure that may be brought up. It would be difficult for the Republicans to keep a quorum together, and the appropriation bills would fail to get through; neither would the free coinage bill have much show, as many Democrats who would support it under ordinary circumstances will not do so if the silver men in the Senate vote for the Force bill.

The Silver bill, passed by the Senate, Jan. 14, is a free coinage measure, pure and simple. The bitterest opponents of free coinage are predicting great evils to follow from the passage of the bill, contraction of the currency by the hoarding of gold, etc., but the most cautious and conservative are inclined to think that it will prove to have been a fortunate thing for the country. It may serve to satisfy the strong craving of the West and South for financial relief, and thus prevent recourse to more extreme measures in the way of sub-treasury schemes, flat money, etc., which are meditated so seriously by the Farmers' Alliance and rural political agitators in the interior of the country. There is very little doubt of the Silver bill's passage in the House, if it gets the floor.

FOREIGN.

Mr. Parnell was received at Tralee, where he made an address, with cheers and groans.

Prof. Koch will return to Berlin in March, after he makes a tour of Italy and Egypt. Upon his return the Koch Institute will be formally opened.

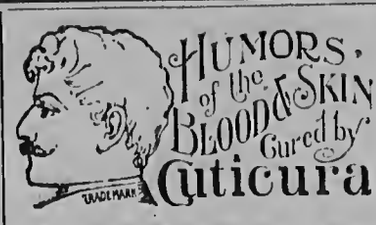
It is said that the revolt in Chili is spreading rapidly. The insurgents are very energetic, and said to be managing their campaign in a very skillful manner. They appear to be possessed of large resources, and the issue according to the dispatches is very doubtful.

The imperial commission on petitions has returned to London the memorial in behalf of the Russian Jews addressed to the Czar by the large representative meeting recently held at the London Guild Hall. The mayor of London is informed that the commission is not authorized to present such memorials to the Czar.

The terrible scourge, known as the "black death," is said to have reached the city of Tobolsk, the capital of Western Siberia. The whole of Asiatic Russia, from Samarkand to the mouth of the Obiss, is suffering from the scourge. Thousands are dying at Obdoreik, near the mouth of the Obiss, owing to the lack of physicians.

Prof. Koch's report, published on Jan. 15, describing the composition of his famous lymph, is comparatively brief. It says the lymph consists of a glycerine extract derived from the cultivation of tubercle bacilli. He claims that satisfaction has thus far resulted from the application of his remedy, and that the expectations of all will in time be realized.

Advices from Buenos Ayres state that financial circles in the Argentino Republic are excited by the proposal made by the Argentine government to tax the deposits of private banks at the rate of two per cent per annum. The American legation has lodged a protest against the government's proposal to tax foreign insurance companies at the rate of $20,000 a year for a license fee in addition to requiring a guarantee deposit of $200,000.



HUMORS OF THE BLOOD, SKIN AND SCALP whether itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, pimply, blotchy, or copper-colored, with loss of hair, either simple, scrofulous, hereditary, or contagious, are speedily, permanently, economically, and infallibly cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. CUTICURA REMEDIES are the only infallible blood and skin purifiers, and daily effect more great cures of blood and skin diseases than all other remedies combined.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Blood and Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Backache, kidney pains, weakness, and rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25 cents.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	7 1-16	@ — —
Ordinary	7 9-16	— —
Good ordinary	8	— —
Low middling	8¾	— —
Middling	9 5-16	— —
Good middling	10 7-16	— —
Middling fair	11 9-16	— —
Fair	12 5-16	— —
Galveston middling	9 5-16	— —
Mobile middling	9¼	— —
Memphis middling	9¼	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅛	4 3-16
Fully fair	4⅛	4 3-16
Good fair	3⅞	4 1-16
Common	3⅝	3¾
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3¾	4⅛
Prime yellow	5 1-16	5⅛
Gray white	— —	— —
Choice white	— —	5⅜
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	15	20
Good common	15	20
SYRUP	20	25
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2¾
Good	5	5¼
Fair	4¾	4⅞
Prime	5⅜	5½
Rough, ₱ bbl	2 50	4 75
Polish, ₱ ton	20 00	— —
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 00	5 10
Fancy	4 60	4 75
Choice	4 25	— —
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 25	5 37½
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 00
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 00	— —
Cream meal	3 25	— —
Grits	3 40	— —
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	63	64
Yellow	— —	63
Mixed No. 2	— —	63
OATS:
Western	55	56
Texas rust-proof	58	60
BRAN:
₱ cwt	1 15	1 20
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 50
Choice	16 00	16 50
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	11 25	11 50
Prime Mess	10 50	10 75
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8¼	8¾
Shoulders	5¼	5⅝
Sides, short rib	6⅛	6½
Sides, long clear	6¾	6⅞
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	10	10½
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4½	4⅝
Sides, short rib	5¾	5⅞
Sides, long clear	5⅝	5¾
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17½	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Ile-No	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	— —	30
Western Dairy	18	22
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5½	5⅝
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9¼	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	— —	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	8 00	10 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 00	4 25
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	5 50	6 00
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7¾	8
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₱ yard	6¾	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₱ bundle	1 35	1 37½
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	5 00
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	20	21
Southern	22	— —
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₱ lb	3½	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₱ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, January 20.

How to Make Money.

I read what Mr. Jones said about making $67 per month: I can beat that. I sent $5 to H. C. DELNO & Co., of Columbus, O., and received a fine plating machine. I tested it and plated a ring in five minutes. It plates on all kinds of metal with gold, silver or nickel. I made $3 90 the first day plating table-ware and jewelry; $20 70 the first week, and the first month $187 clear profit. My schoolmate makes $10 to $15 per day selling platers. Anyone can get circulars by writing the above firm. This is my first successful venture, and I hope my experience will benefit others.

Yours truly, H. D. EARL.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, ... $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. H. WEST, of Challe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, JR., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

PIANOS | P. WERLEIN, | ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

Mention this paper.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition!

PIANOS From $225 Upwards.

ORGANS From $120 Upwards.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,

(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS.
Telephone—Office and Foundry, 688.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Fine Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

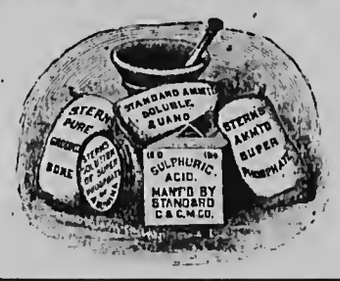
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO., Limited, or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

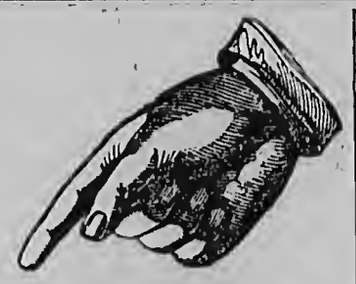
SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.



MANUFACTURERS OF "High Grade Bone Fertilizers," "Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate, "Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone, "Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate, DISSOLVED BONE, ACID PHOSPHATE Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc. BONE BLACK.



LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. COLE,

"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is a most certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and L. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

Heath, Schwartz & Co.

(LIMITED.)

Jobbers and Retailers,

116 Camp Street, . New Orleans.

Matting

Which we were selling at 10 cents has been closed out, but we have secured a better grade, which we are offering by the roll for $6.

Wall Paper,

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, Upholstering Goods, Rugs and Mats in immense variety.

H. P. BUCKLEY,

Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

N. C. Y. L. - 407!

N. C. Y. L. Patronage, 407 pupils from 15 States

THE NASHVILLE (Tenn.) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES is the leading Southern school for girls. Crowded all the fall; patronage refused for want of room. A few vacancies open for Second Term, which begins Jan. 19, 1891.

Apply at once to

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D., Pres't.

Millwood Female Institute

JACKSON, LA.

This Boarding and Day School for Young Ladies is delightfully situated amid the hills of East Feliciana, five miles from Ethel, on the Mississippi Valley railroad. Collegiate Course complete. Seventy-five dollars will cover all expenses for a term of twenty weeks. Music, Languages, and Art extra. School opens September 1. Send for Catalogue.

(Miss) M. MCCALMONT, Prin.

Shepard & Butler,

94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 5. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1797.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

The Religious Newspaper.

The minister who fails to use the religious newspaper as an assistant in his great work opens the gate for the entrance of the enemy, and thus invites defeat and disaster to his cause. This is not written at random. Look at the enemy, scattering his mind-polluting and soul-destroying literature with a lavish hand, and by the million pages. The land is literally being flooded with a pernicious literature; and if the minds of our people are not imbued with a pure literature, they will soon be filled with that which is evil. No force is so potent to stay this volume of evil literature as the ministers in charge of our circuits and stations, and upon no other class of people does a heavier responsibility rest.

When we look at the state of things as they really exist to-day in regard to our church literature and the godless literature that teems and swarms about us, we are impressed with this question, Would such a condition of affairs have been possible if the church had been awake to her duty in this important matter? It looks as if the church had permitted the enemy to go ahead, and thus given him the opportunity to take possession of the minds and hearts of our people, and he has not been slow to seize that opportunity. How long will it be before the church will learn from her Lord those lessons of wakefulness and watchfulness which are essential to her life and indispensable to her progress? Jesus said, "While men slept, an enemy came and sowed the tares." While the church is sleeping, the enemy, ever wakeful and diligent, is sowing the land down in a Christless and godless literature. The seeds are springing up all around us, and the fruits are ripening; and whether we will or will not, our souls are tasting their bitterness. All about us we see restlessness at the restraints of law—human law and divine law. The moral code is relegated to the limbo of a long-past barbarism, the Sabbath is ignored, human life is no longer looked upon as a sacred thing, blatant infidelity stalks about flaunting defiance against everything good and pure, and red-handed anarchy, with torch and dynamite, is getting ready to shiver the social fabric to atoms! These are the fruits of the seed sown in the Master's heritage while the church has been sleeping.

The question now is, How shall we stop this terrible growth of evil? The first thing to do is to listen to the admonition of Infinite Wisdom, "Knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep." But do we know the time?" Do we know that in every town and hamlet, in every community and neighborhood, in every social circle in this broad land, by day and by night, the enemy of God and man is persistently watchful and continuously busy in sowing his tares? Do we know that this malicious enemy is going about everywhere, poisoning the minds of the young, and pouring the deadly virus of infidelity into the hearts of the middle-aged, and withering, with the hot breath of hell, the last hope of the old? Do we know that the fruits of this pernicious literature confront the government to-day with problems of such magnitude and such far-reaching consequences that the wisest and boldest statesmen in Church and State stand appalled before them? What the church needs to do is to wake up to the real state of things. The alarm which the preachers ought to sound through the church to-day, like the blast of a trumpet calling to arms, is, "Awake, thou that sleepest"! And what the church needs to do is to go to work "with might and main" and money to counteract these dreadful influences. Let every man and woman turn out and diligently sow the seeds of pure literature in the virgin soil of our young people's hearts, and in the rich loam of manly and womanly minds about us. Not a sickly, sentimental literature, but a literature worthy of the church; a literature which "the glorious gospel of the blessed God" will not be ashamed to take along with it as his co-adjutor; a literature which the Holy Ghost can and will use for the advancement of the kingdom of righteousness among men! We can have it if we will!

This is the third instalment of the exhortation to the preachers—the leaders in church life—to arouse themselves to stay the threatening evils issuing from a godless press by interposing the blessings of religious literature.

THE EDITOR.

Galilee.

FIRST VIEW OF LAKE GALILEE—ITS BEAUTY AND LONELINESS—A SAIL TO CAPERNAUM—THE RUINED SYNAGOGUE—THE PLAIN OF GENNESARETH—THE LAND OF THE EAST.

From the heights back of Tiberias I obtained my first view of Lake Galilee. The sudden vision was that of a blue sheet of water surrounded by yellow mountains, and with two snowy-white sails resting tranquilly on its bosom. The lake was hundreds of feet beneath me; and as the descent was slowly made down the mountain-side I was enabled to take in the whole familiar outline of this inland sea, so dear to every Christian heart, and so well known to all in Christendom. There it lay before me and beneath me, thirteen miles in length, from five to seven in width, oval in shape, a protuberance of coast line on the upper western side; Mt. Hermon lifting up its head, thirty or forty miles away, over its northern edge; while, to the south, the two lines of the eastern and western shore contracted to form the banks of the Jordan. The yellow surrounding mountains have no forests upon them; only an occasional cedar or acacia here and there, looking like black specks in the distance. The eye eagerly searches for and finds the site of Capernaum on the far-away northern shore, the plain of Genuesareth on the west, and the "steep place" on the east bank, down which the swine rushed into the sea. Then the glance is directed toward the northeastern part of the shore, where Christ fed the multitudes, and then the mountains looked for in that neighborhood, where the Savior, from his place of prayer, observed the disciples in the storm, and came walking to them on the waves of the sea.

Many are the precious and holy memories that cluster about these sacred and now silent shores. Next to Jerusalem, I suppose it ranks highest in the heart.

I noticed but two boats on a lake that was once dotted with shipping. And of all the towns and cities that once shone by day and twinkled by night around these banks, but one small town is left to-day. This one exceptional town is Tiberias. It was a Gentile community in the time of the Savior, and he seems never to have entered it. Consequently they never rejected him, and were thus saved from the doom and judgment that has fallen upon all other cities of this lake-shore, and that seems, in its awfulness, to have settled upon the entire coast itself. It is true that Magdala, the reputed home of Mary Magdalene, is pointed out; but, on approaching it, such is the wretchedness of its stone hovels that you feel it scarcely deserves the name even of village.

No homes are seen on the shores of Galilee; no farms or vineyards are beheld on the mountain-sides; no home-loving and land-improving inhabitants dwell on the banks. Only a few tribes of Bedouins, living in black-skin tents, and wandering from place to place, appear at wide distances on the shore, or camping some miles back in the interior.

Everything seems to go by Lake Galilee. The caravans of camels come and go in long lines, journeying north or south; but they do not stop on these lonely shores. The traveler makes a flying visit; capital goes by; individuals seeking homes pass on to less solitary places. The Jordan itself rushes through the center of the lake without touching the shore, and hurries on southward as if escaping from the heart-moving associations and memories of the place.

Last night, in looking from my tent over the lake at the distant eastern shore, it was a scene of almost unrelieved blackness. I thought that if I had been thus gazing at the farther shore of Lake Geneva, or other bodies of water in Europe or America, I would have seen myriads of lights betokening comfortable homes and prosperous cities. But, as I looked across through the night toward the land of Gadara and the Gergesenes, I saw but two lights, that would gleam a moment and then die out. Both of them may have come from the two boats of Tiberias engaged in night-fishing, or may have been the twinkling camp-fires of a Bedouin tent on the side of the rocks.

No one can contemplate these silent, forsaken shores, and take on the spirit of the surroundings, without feeling that some remarkable dealing has been and is still visited on this land. It was once exalted to heaven; it has been cast down to hell. It knew not the time of its visitation; its house is now left desolate. It refused to receive the Son of God, and the hand of judgment has fallen heavily and unmistakably upon it.

And yet Lake Galilee is beautiful in spite of its loneliness and desolation. It is still lovely in its forsakenness, and beautiful still in this death-like trance into which it has fallen. Galilee and Bethany seem to have been best beloved by the Savior. His feet turned oftenest to the village near Olivet, and to the shores of this lake. This was done partly because of the loving hearts he found in both places, and also because he loved the peaceful, tranquil beauty of this blue inland sea.

All the evening and night the strain and words of a Sunday-school song have been floating through my mind—a hymn familiar to countless thousands in far-away America:

"Sweet Galilee, blessed Galilee,
Where Jesus loved so much to be."

My tent is pitched outside the north wall of Tiberias, on the banks of the lake. I am fully one hundred feet above the lake surface, and could cast from my tent-door a rock into the waves. Standing at this same tent-door, or sitting before it, I have the whole beautiful panorama of the lake before me.

Last night I watched it as it slept under the stars, and at ten o'clock I saw the moon arise over the distant mountains, and turn a lake of purple into a lake of silver. This morning I watched the sun rise upon it, and in this new spectacle saw fresh charms arise to greet the sight and gratify the love of the beautiful. But better and higher than all was the thought of him whose voice was once heard amid its storms, whose feet pressed its waves as a pavement, and whose tired head and body were lulled into repose by its billows. He, the loving, wonderful Christ, has given it a beauty diviner far than all its natural loveliness, and that will remain an imperishable treasure in memory when the lake itself is dried up forever by the fires of the last day.

Hiring a sail-boat, I left Tiberias for the ruins of Capernaum at seven in the morning. Passing Magdala and the plain of Gennesareth on the left, we reached Capernaum at ten o'clock, after three hours' rowing and sailing together. There were six boatmen forming the crew of the little vessel. After careful scrutiny, I could not discover among these native Syrians a single one whom I thought would answer for a Peter or John, or, indeed, any of the disciples. But when, on our return trip, one of the men fell asleep from weariness and lay on the floor of the vessel, I thought then of One whom the reader needs not for me to name. That must have been a profound exhaustion that enabled the Savior to sleep on undisturbed by a storm. Either the day had been one of great toil, or the night previous had been spent in unintermitting prayer, as was his custom. The sleep on the hard deck was the consequence. This picture of the sleeping Christ, and another of his sitting wearied on the side of the well, have always touched my heart with tender power.

And what shall I say of Capernaum? As I stood in the midst of the ruins of a city that evidently once possessed a population of ten thousand people, we saw that the words of the Master had been fulfilled. It has been brought down to the grave. I never saw completer desolation. In various places of antiquity that I have visited, I would see portions of walls left, or here and there a standing pillar or arch; but in Capernaum every stone seems to be on the ground and scattered in the wildest confusion. The material out of which the houses were built are stones of volcanic origin, and of a color bordering on black, and so adds to the sombreness of the scene. Standing on a hillock of rocks made by the Bedouins, I surveyed the ruined town whose streets Christ walked, and in whose synagogue he preached, and where the sick and afflicted were healed by him in great multitudes. A city that could withstand such grace and privilege and heavenly power deserved to be swept away, and—was. The ruins extend several hundred yards along the seashore and back for the same distance, and even up the slope of the mountain in one place.

Fifty yards from the seashore, on a swell of the land, stands the ruins of a synagogue, or church, that has interested all travelers and readers of travels. Here are pedestals, and heavy-carved cornices, and Corinthian capitals of marble, and portions of pillars all scattered about over a space, and with a certain outline, that betokens a place of worship. Was it the synagogue that the centurion built for the Jews, in which Christ preached? or is it a church of a later day built on the ruins, and with the ruins of the synagogue of Christ's time? Arguments which I read years ago predispose me to believe that these white, crumbling remains are what is left of the gift of the centurion, the wealthy friend of the Jews. I sat down on one of the pedestals and read the sixth chapter of John, which contains the sermon preached by our Lord on this spot, or somewhere very near. Finishing the discourse, I turned to the eleventh chapter of Matthew, and twenty-third verse, and read the prophetic words of the Savior, spoken when the city was at the height of its prosperity: "And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell." Oh, would not infidelity rejoice if Capernaum was flourishing to-day! The skeptic would point to it, and say, Where is the boasted prophecy? where is the foreknowledge of the Savior? As it is, the rocks are witnesses. The ruins confirm the Word. The very stones cry out in honor of the saying of the Son of God.

In rowing and sailing back to Tiberias, the boat stood in near the shore, so as to skirt the edge of the plain of Gennesareth. Once beautiful and fertile and populous, and witnessing the presence of Christ and his disciples, it has been favored above all other plains. It is still naturally beautiful, and the fertility is left, but the population is gone; and he who was the chiefest charm and glory, has been gone for nearly two thousand years. As the boat went slowly by the sacred place, I had a vision of the time it was covered with waving corn, breast-high in height, with the Master and his followers walking over its quiet fields; or treading the grain-fringed paths, visiting distant villages; or speaking to the multitudes that accompanied him on the way. The whole plain—as, indeed, the entire land of Galilee—speaks most eloquently of the Savior. I failed to see a single soul anywhere on the plain. It is at present cultivated in spots, and that cultivation is of a poor and superficial order. A green shrub, growing from five feet upward, dots the baked ground in every direction, and adds to the forsaken air of the place.

As we approached Magdala, a solitary shepherd, attended by a large flock of sheep and goats, descended the steep mountain-side back of it, and entered some distance into the clear waves of the lake. Even this spectacle of life somehow did not take away the loneliness of the shore.

I was informed that a Christian gentleman, the same who has purchased much of the plain of Esdraelon, has bought the site of Capernaum, and, I think, a part of the plain of Gennesareth. For the first time, it seems that the Bedouin sheiks, who are getting poorer, show a disposition to part with the land. If this continues, it may result in a marked change in this country in the near future.

Sitting in front of my tent in the evening, near the hour of sunset, I was looking over towards the mountains on the opposite shore, when I remembered that I was looking in the direction of "the land of the people of the East." This is what the Bible called them. This is where Jacob went when his mother caused him to flee from Esau. "And when he came to the land of the people of the East," he came upon scenes of flocks and herds, shepherds and fair women, dripping wells, spreading fields, and beautiful landscapes. Then I remembered still further beyond there is another Eastern land, filled with roving Bedouins, and shepherds with flocks, and turbaned millions who believe in the False Prophet, and know not the Lord. And the glance and thought swept on to those old Eastern countries of shadowy palms and dome-like mosques and slender minarets. I saw the turbaned men on the road, the veiled women at the well, the silent caravan threading the desert. Farther back still I saw the Eastern countries where Abraham lived, the ark rested, and Eden smiled. Still further on I saw, from my tent, the slopes of Persia, the steppes of Asia, the wild wastes of Siberia, and on through the heart of that vast land of the East until we reached the Chinese Wall, and come in sight of the Pacific, and, behold! the whole land was filled with the people of the East. What is to become of them? I mentally asked. What can we do for them? What is being done for them? I wondered if the people in America realized how much we are indebted to these people. Out of this land of the East came such a grand character as Abraham, and such lovely women as Sarah and Rachel. Out of this country came the four great religions of the world. Certainly they are not to be despised.

I can not explain, but as I looked over the eastern mountains that evening I had such a mental view of that far-away land, or lands, filled with teeming life, crowded with immortal souls unreached and unsaved, that my heart fairly sickened, and sank under the sight. The Lord save the people of the land of the East! May the church say, "Here am I; send me!"

I camped two nights and a day by Lake Galilee, and then one morning at sunrise struck tent, and departed in a southwesterly direction, turning many a longing, lingering look behind.

"O Galilee, blessed Galilee,
Come sing thy song again to me."

B. CARRADINE.

Young Preachers—No. 2.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

Being satisfied that you are called of God to preach, and that preaching is to be your life-work, and having resolved thus to devote your life, then prepare for it. Avail yourself of all the educational help you can secure. Many of us rush, or are rushed prematurely and unprepared, into the field of ministerial labor, and undertake to do what we are not competent to do. We must remember that genius is not experience, nor enthusiasm, knowledge. Now, we are to be "apt to teach;" but no man can tell what he does not know. All attempts to do so must be sad and unprofitable failures. The discouragement and humiliation of young itinerants, if at all sensitive, is almost crushing and unendurable. I would not endure, for a thousand dollars, the next three months what I did for the first three that I was trying to preach, or trying to do the impossible. I had read history, biography, travels, novels, poetry, and newspapers; but had, up to that period, paid but little attention to biblical learning. I had been a professed Christian but little over a year. My preaching material was crude, narrow, and shallow. My first circuit had twenty-four appointments; all the days were preaching days except Mondays. The week-day services were attended almost exclusively by the older members of the church. For a youth of nineteen years, with one year of Christian experience, to stand up before these venerable Christians, many of whom were "born from above" long before he was born at all, was a most embarrassing position, not to say almost ridiculous; much as if a freshman should attempt to advise and lecture the learned and venerable faculty on the duties and responsibilities of their several chairs. No words can fully express my awkward and painful position. I was glad of a rain, or any providential excuse for escaping the painfully embarrassing attempt to preach. I am quite sure it would have been far better for me (not to mention the much-enduring people) if I could have had, at least, some little training and preparation for my work. My colleague (long since dead) was a good and well-meaning man, but totally unfurnished for the work he was appointed to do. He did not help me, because he could not. On my first meeting him, when alone, I said: "My brother, as you see I am young and quite unfitted for the work I am called to do, give me some suggestions on sermon-making." He cleared his throat, and said in an oracular manner, "with all gravity:" "Select your subject, prepare it with care, begin calmly, and become more animated as you proceed." He said no more. He was laconic as Cæsar, clear as mud. It was all much as if I had said to an artist: "I desire to be a painter; give me some helpful suggestions," and he should have said, "Buy you some canvas, some brushes, some paints, select your subject (a sunrise, a landscape, or the assassination of Cæsar), and paint with care until the picture is finished." The trouble with my brother was, that he was a dry well; there was nothing in him. Get hold of some useful book on preaching—a short commentary like Whedon's; take such texts as seem to suggest useful reflections; take your pen and try to arrange these thoughts in consecutive order; do this sort of work as often as trains of thought may be suggested by your Bible, or other solid reading; do this for a season before you accept an appointment, and you will, I think, be far more useful than I was, and certainly far more comfortable. I heard Bishop Andrew say he had not much respect, and but little hope, for a young preacher who did not aim high, nor expect to be much or do much. Resolve on full consecration, and aim to fit yourself to do good work, and to do it well. If you have collegiate advantages, all the better; if you have not, and insuperable difficulties render such help impossible to you, do not despair. Cultivate yourself all you can, and resolve to be "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

Many have found it impossible to secure collegiate culture, but they have not found self-culture impossible, and have risen to honorable distinction and extended usefulness. We speak of "self-made men." There are no other sort, if made men at all. We may have the apparatus of hooks, professors, and college training; but without personal application and persistent study, we can no more be scholars than we can be Christians without personal repentance and faith. You may be going slow, but be always going, and you will surely get forward.

Who Will Be the Next?

A letter, dated Jan. 17, says:

"I will be one of the ten to contribute the $100 each yearly in accordance with the scheme as contained in your letter to the ADVOCATE (N. O.) . . . I shall be very glad, indeed, to be one of the ten in such an enterprise. I consider it a privilege to be a party to such a glorious enterprise. The truth is, that every district in the Conference ought to maintain one missionary outside of the regular Missionary Conference collection. Indeed, I do not think the day far off when every such church as you have in Meridian will appoint its own missionary in some foreign field. Think of the benefit to the church at home and to each of the members to read the letters from their own missionary, telling of his progress in proclaiming the tidings of salvation to such a people as the Japanese. Think, further, how each member of such a church would feel to receive the letters of the converts—say of a single convert—who should write that, under God's providence, he owed the salvation of his immortal soul to that church. Would not this tend to kindle such a fire of love and zeal at home and abroad as would call down a glorious blessing from on high? I pray that I may live to see many churches in our State, each with its own missionary abroad, personally known and loved by each church member, sending home every week the news of souls redeemed! Say to the brother who makes the proposition, that my $100 is ready any day to go with his to help the Japan Mission, whether we get another recruit or not."

I make no apology for quoting these eloquent sentences from a private letter. May God bless him who wrote them, and bless the words to the inspiring of responses from others! Who will be the next?

T. L. MELLEN,
1319 N. 22d Ave., Meridian, Miss.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JAN. 29, 1891.

SUNDAY.

BY HELEN MORRIS.

I.

Dear Lord, we thank thee for thy day,
The day that thou has made and blest
We lay aside our week-day toils and cares,
And greet, with joy, this day of rest.

II.

Make this a Sunday to our darkened minds;
Shine with bright beams of warmth and love,
Into our burdened, earth-bound hearts,
And draw us nearer to thyself above.

III.

Make this a Sabbath to our weary frames,
A rest-day full of glad and peaceful calm;
An emblem sweet of heaven, our better home,
And for the week to come, a cheering balm.

IV.

May this a First day be of nobler things;
A new beginning, in our work for thee;
And, in our busy lives and service here,
More wholly consecrated may we be.

V.

And so, dear Lord! may all our Sabbaths here
Bring light, and rest and hope, and peace,
To dark and weary hearts and troubled souls—
Till earthly work shall end and Sabbaths cease.

VI.

Then, in the light and joy of heaven, may we
Lay down our earthly cares, and toils, and fears,
And in the peace of God forever dwell,
Where there shall be no night, no grief, no tears.

—Christian at Work.

Letter from Bro. Trippett.

MR. EDITOR: Your kind letter of Dec. 9, 1890, together with bill of exchange for thirty pounds sterling—say, $150—came safe to hand some days ago, and the money has been duly paid by the bank at this place, for which accept our sincere thanks. I should have written to you sooner, but have been laid up with a severe cold and rheumatism. My dear wife and myself have suffered very much for the last six weeks, so that we have been unable to leave the house. We have had a very severe winter here. Some say there has been nothing like it for over seventy years. Some of the rivers have been frozen over, so the young people have had fine skating, and the end is not yet. I am able to sit up a little, and wife is some better, for which we feel thankful to our blessed Master. We have felt the Lord to be very near to us in our afflictions. Our heavenly Father doeth all things right. We are kept by the power of God. It is by faith we stand, and we daily realize that the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin. Your letter greatly refreshed us. Glad to hear that you had such a delightful session of Conference at Monroe. Pleased to hear that the town has improved so much, and that Bishop Haygood gave so much satisfaction as president. I received the ADVOCATE with the proceedings; quite a number of changes; many fresh names to me; some transfers, especially to Shreveport and Carondelet Street. I think our Louisiana preachers should have a turn sometimes at our first-class appointments; but maybe the Bishops and other brethren think differently. I have always held that the Bishops are the best judges in these matters.

I am sorry that the collections were behind this year. 'Tis true the Conference was held sooner than usual. The floods of last spring, and the drouth in the summer, have a very depressing effect, and both militate very much against collections for every object. Last year I received $230; this year $150. We shall try and make out, but rather short rations for three of us. We have learned to live economically in days past and gone; but hitherto "our bread has been given, and our water has been sure;" and, having had food and raiment, we have learned to be content. We sympathize deeply with the old preachers and the widows and orphans this year. I had to give up a little land in Richland parish because I could not pay taxes, and that was our last resort. I find that the same state of things obtains, in a measure, here among our Wesleyan brethren. Their old men are better taken care of, financially, than ours; but they have considerable trouble in raising the money. They have set on foot a plan to raise one hundred thousand dollars, as an endowment fund for widows and orphans and worn-out men, and they are succeeding finely.

How I wish to be back in Louisiana; but my family are too much afflicted ever to be able to leave here. My heart is with you; and, although unable to do much in the way of preaching, I am trying to live by faith in the Son of God, and hope, finally, to give a good report in the better world through Christ, who hath loved me and given himself for me. Live for Heaven, pray much, and may God bless you and yours! Love to the brethren. Again thanking you for your kindness, I am sorry I have no stamps to send for a copy of the published Minutes when they come out. Kind regards to your family. I remain,

Yours sincerely,

R. S. TRIPPETT.

51 Spring Gardens, Doncaster, England.

P. S.—We have never missed a single copy of the ADVOCATE since we came to England. "It is marrow and fatness to us." Send it along.

Application of Methodist Law.

Both by letter, and "by word of mouth," I have recently received many inquiries concerning the application of law in regard to the five grades of offense for which a Methodist itinerant preacher may be put on trial.

I have never set myself as "an ecclesiastical lawyer," and can not imagine why so many inquiries have come to me concerning this matter. However, I have an opinion which is the result of much reading and an experience of some thirty years as an executive officer in the church.

The law under which "a traveling preacher" is to be tried, is embraced in Sec. II of Chap. vii, pp. 146–155, Dis. (1890).

"Ques. 2. What shall be done when a traveling preacher is accused of immorality?"

This formal question written in the law, is answered in ¶¶ 251–258. In other words, there are eight paragraphs explanatory of the course to be pursued in case of immorality.

"Ques. 3. What shall be done in cases of improper tempers, words or actions?"

Paragraph 259 answers this question, refering it back, under certain conditions, to the eight preceding paragraphs, "to be dealt with as in case of immorality."

Question 4 relates to the dissemination of false doctrine.

This also refers the case back to the provisions of ¶¶ 251–258 "as in case of immorality."

Question 5 relates to unacceptability or inefficiency.

Here the case is different from either of the preceding cases. There is no committee nor formal prosecution, but a simple proceeding in open Conference, with all rights reserved to the defendant.

"Ques. 6. What shall be done in the case of a preacher who refuses to attend to the work assigned him?"

This is answered in ¶ 263 with no reference whatever to ¶¶ 251–258, and no formal charge nor citation required. The proviso, "Shall not be denied trial by committee," no matter how that language is construed, simply leaves the matter in the hands of the Conference which has "the final determination of all such cases."

Each of the five kinds of offense is, by the statute, made specific, and two or more of them can not be woven into the same legal web without express authority given under that special form of offense.

As a lawyer, trained to look at things of a legal character in the light of legal technicalities, I would say that the proviso in ¶ 263 inures to the advantage of the defendant, and is entirely at his option. "Provided such cases shall not be denied trial by committee."

To insist that this proviso was inserted for the protection of the Conference would be silly, because the Conference still has, under this law, as it has ever had, "the final determination of the case." If the proviso is of any affect then, it is for the accused and not for the Conference, and if the defendant demand a committee the Conference can not deny him "trial by committee." Surely the Conference is in no danger of being denied "trial by committee," whatever might be the stubborn imperiousness of the defendant. Any other construction sets one part of the law against the other.

It has been suggested that a preacher "who refuses to do the work assigned him," being put on trial therefor, must be tried "as in case of immorality."

If there is any such provision in the law, I fail to find it. In cases of "improper tempers, words, or actions," as well as in cases arising under Ques. 4, p. 152, the trial must proceed "as in case of immorality;" but all cases coming up under Ques. 5 and 6, p. 153-4, must be proceeded with at the pleasure of the Conference (as to the mode of investigation), with only the one restriction, that trial by committee "shall not be denied." However, whether or not a committee is appointed, the "final determination in all such cases is with the Annual Conference," and not with the committee as in other cases.

J. A. PARKER.

The Church Arraigned.

A writer from St. Bernard, in the last issue of the New Delta, takes the church of Christ to task for her silence on the momentous question now before the people of this State, viz: the Louisiana State Lottery proposition. The writer infers that "silence gives consent." He says, with the exception of the religious bodies passing resolutions, and a few earnest workers that have vigorously put their shoulders to the wheel, there has been little or nothing done by the ministers of the various religious denominations, and that their zeal in former times for a cause of less momentous results was great in comparison to the feeble efforts thus far put forth to put down the greatest swindle of the age. How far this sweeping arraignment of the church of Christ is true, this writer is not able to state; but the bare charge is enough to make every Christian blush with shame. "Tell it not in Gath," publish it not in the streets of any place that our "Boanergos" are afraid to thunder their anathemas against this prince of sub-rosa bribery. It is true that many, perhaps all, of our faithful preachers in our own branch of Christ's church have preached against this bribe-giving concern, but what is one sermon here and there against such a phalanx of foes as the progressive leagues are sending out to demoralize the people?

Can Christians afford to be but "lookers-on in Venice," while the enemy is building and filling the Trojan horse that will march in and destroy them and the very foundations of their teachings? This harpooned leviathan, with crimsoned wavelets rippling in its wake, opens its capacious maw and begs, in the name of its so-called charities, that its life may be renewed another quarter of a century.

Will Christians, with the united sentiments of the basal teachings of the whole Christian Church of this State and the world, rise up in their power and might, and sound the slogan that will reverberate from one end of the State to the other, and say, "This leviathan shall die"? or will they close their ears, and fold their hands, and sit with Laodicean inactivity, and let the prince of gamblers and lottery champion turn up his nose and laugh in his sleeves at a Christianity that is afraid to practice what it preaches?

"Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion." "Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew the people" that it is in their power to kill this octopus.

ATTEROL.

Gracie's Conversion.

"Miss Carrie," said my colored cook, "come in en' rest awhile after your walk. I want to tell you about Gracie. She has got religion, en' the elders are comin' to-night to 'zamine her; en' ef she's all right, she's gwine to be baptized next Sunday. Come here, Gracie; you aint afeared to talk to Miss Carrie."

The woman drew a chair for me into a shady corner of the porch, and a girl about fourteen years old, who was shelling peas, set down her basket and came timidly toward me, saying:

"I aint afeared to tell de whole wirl' what darkness I passed fru', and here I am a-stan'in' in de blessed light."

"Go on, Gracie," said I, encouragingly. "I am glad to hear you are a happy young Christian."

"I've be'n mighty down-hearted 'en low-spirited," said she, "for two weeks, I thought ev'ything 'en ev'y-body was 'ginst me, en' treated me bad, en' when I was pickin' cotton my sack was dat heavy I could hardly drag it along half-full. I was des mis'rable, but I kep' right on, prayin' en' groanin'. 'Peared like I was des in de woods, in de low grounds, en' I could not see my way out. Den it 'peared like I got into a open place, a sort o' clearin', en' my mind traveled right along until I come to a hill, en' de sun was a-shinin' on de top of it, en' I kep' a-prayin' en' struggled along, en' den I clum dat hill, en' de higher I went up, de nearer I got to Christ, de Lord of glory, until at last I reached de cross, whar he had suffered fer sinners like me, cu' I prayed to him to put my name in de book o' 'membrance, en' den des cried out for joy. I felt 'o my head, cu' I thought I had a crown on it, en' I looked 'round, en' seem like all the trees wus trees o' life, wid apples en' oranges hangin' 'round. I knowed I wus lost once, but I'd be'n found at las', en' I felt so happy I dos hollered, till de ferryman over de ribber come over to see whut wus de matter; en' when I kep' slappin' my hands en' goin' on, Sister Mary says to me, 'Gracie, is you gone plum' crazy?' But I did not keer whut she said. Dey all sot up wid me dat night till I got pacified en' went to sleep. Dis mawnin', when I got up en' went to de fiel', like I he'n a-doing, I des hardly knowed it wus me; I wus so happy. Seem like I love ev'rybody en' ev'rything in dis wirl'. I never seed de cotton so w'ite en' sof', as I rolled it in my sack wid bofe han's. Den I wus willin' to 'vide wid ev'rybody. Why, I wus willin' to give Nancy my rockin'-cheer, which I never would let her set down in hefo'. I even looked down on de po' little antses creepin' on de groun,' en' I wouldn't tromp on 'em 'cause God made 'em, like he did me, en' I loved God en' ev'rything he mado. He's be'n good to me. He's sabed my soul, en', Miss Carrie, if you goes to heaben, you gwine see me right dar."

I extended my hand, saying:

"Gracie, let me give you the right hand of fellowship now, for you have the greatest thing in the world—the spirit of love, which is the essence of Christianity, and the very spirit of Christ, the blessed Master."

The following Sunday Gracie was baptized.

CAROLINE E. MERRICK.

Mississippi Items.

A large fire in Grenada last week consumed eleven buildings. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

A Mogul switch engine of the Alabama and Vicksburg railroad burst its boiler at Vicksburg recently while pulling a train up the hill from the river. The engineer and fireman were both mortally wounded, and have since died.

The firm of Groome & Waggener, of Vicksburg, has been awarded a contract worth $3,000 by the Port Gibson Oil Mills. A part of the work is the building of an immense oil tank, to hold 5,000 barrels of oil. It will be 25 feet high and 40 feet in diameter.

We learn from the Mississippian that strong talk is being indulged in among the Jackson people favoring the establishment in that city of a factory for the manufacture of cotton ropes, twines, yarns, and such like goods. Enough stock has been guaranteed to make the consummation of the project more than probable.

The Board of Supervisors of Lauderdale county have awarded the contract for working the public roads to W. F. Buchanan, of Chickasaw county, for a term of five years at $10,000 per annum. This is under a plan formulated by the Board to work the public roads under contract. The county prisoners were also hired to Mr. Buchanan for a term of five years.

There was a fearful wreck on the Tchula branch of the Illinois Central railroad last week. The spikes had been pulled from the rails for about sixty feet and the whole train left the track, but fortunately no lives were lost. Somebody, of course, did the dastardly deed, and the railroad authorities should do all in their power to find him out and punish him.

During the year four important State bodies are to hold their annual meetings in Brookhaven. First will come the meeting of the State W. C. T. U., in May. Second, the Grand Lodge of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, in August. Third, the Mississippi Presbyterian Synod, in November. Fourth and lastly, but by no means least, the Mississippi Methodist Conference, in December.

The Picayune published this dispatch from Jackson:

The State superintendent of education is only required to make biennial reports to the Legislature, but the reports of Superintendent Preston for the last scholastic year have been seen by your correspondent and show the total number of children to be 325,862, of which 148,321 were white and 176,541 colored. The increased attendance of whites over the preceding year was 886, of colored 2,989. The increase in average daily attendance for whites was 3,520, for colored, 4,744. Total number of scholars taught, 6,107, of which 3,592 were white, and 2,515 colored. Number of schoolhouses built, 338; average length of school term, 83 days; number of teachers employed, 7,321, of which 4,190 were white and 3,131 colored. Total amount of school fund collected, $1,238,000, of which $600,000 was derived from local taxation. The total expenditures were $1,108,000.

Louisiana Notes.

The Standard Oil Company has purchased a lot in Donaldsonville, upon which to erect an oil depot.

The police jury of Acadia parish adopted in their annual budget an item of $1,000 for the support of the public schools. This will enable the schools to remain open for a longer period than heretofore.

The Postal Telegraph Company is erecting the poles and attaching the wires for the line on the wagon road between Forest and Lake. The new company have secured the right of way from Meridian to Vicksburg.—Scott County Register.

We understand that the Methodist Church of Farmerville have contracted with Mr. B. T. Christiancy for the erection of a parsonage on their church lot in town. The building, including all material, is to cost $675.—Farmerville Gazette.

The following comes from Shreveport:

A discussion of the school question, which means here the erection of new public-school buildings, is arousing considerable interest, and the friends of education hope that the School Board will be induced to push the work with more energy than heretofore.

And the Echo has this:

The Board of Trustees of Lake Charles has granted a charter for fifteen years to Messrs. J. A. Landry & Co. to erect and operate a system of electric lights in Lake Charles. Messrs. J. A. Landry & Co. are homo folks of energy, who have, during the past year, successfully established a first-class ice factory here, which not only supplied our home demand, but shipped large quantities of excellent ice to other points.

These two items are from the Lake Charles American:

The outer walls of the new courthouse are about complete, and the building begins to show up grandly. We will have one of the best courthouses in the State when this structure is complete.

Tracklaying is progressing on the Kansas City, Watkins and Gulf railway. The tracklaying machine arrived this week.

Gen. Casey, Chief of Engineers, has submitted to Congress, through the Secretary of War, preliminary surveys of three streams in Louisiana, all of which have been found unworthy of improvement.

The first was Bayou Caster, in North Louisiana; the second, Cain river, a cut-off of Red river, which runs from Colfax to Grand Ecore; and the third, Bayou Tigre, in Southwestern Louisiana.

The preliminary survey in each instance was made by Capt. Willard, who reports that the commerce, present or future, does not justify the improvement. In this opinion Gen. Casey concurs.

The Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad is now building an iron bridge over Bogue Phalia, to take the place of the bridge so successfully designed and constructed by Supt. A. A. Sharp, after the old bridge was swept away by the high water last year.

The new bridge, which is now well under way, is 300 feet long. The center, or swing span, is 150 feet long, and the shore spans are 75 feet each. The piers are 71 feet high from foundation to stringer, being the highest on the entire line. Where the bridge crosses, the stream is now forty feet deep. When Capt. Sharp drove the piling for the present bridge the water was 70 feet in depth, and running with the fury of a mountain torrent.—Vicksburg Herald.

Literary Notes.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell has put in the hands of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. the manuscript of "A Psalm of Death and Other Poems," one of them a poem of 500 lines, of which Francois Villon is the hero. Dr. Mitchell has also ready for publication a book called "Characteristics."

Mr. Eugene Field's' popular books, "A Little Book of Western Verse" and "A Little Book of Profitable Tales," published last fall, are now in their fifth edition with the Scribners. Col. Church's "Life of John Ericsson" is in its second, and Dr. Martin's "In the Footprints of Charles Lamb" in its third edition.

"The Science of Fairy Tales" is the newest volume of the Contemporary Science Series, now being issued by Scribner & Welford. It deals with those tales which contain a supernatural element, and which are known as Sagas or Nursery Tales, the study of which is now so important a branch of Folk-Lore.

The author of the popular translations for Plato, entitled "Socrates," "A Day in Athens with Socrates," etc., has just completed a new volume of a similar character—"Talks with Athenian Youths," now in press with the Scribners. It contains five dialogues translated from Plato, and selected for the purpose of illustrating the typical Athenian youth of the time.

Wilbur B. Ketcham, Publisher, New York, announces for early publication "Aleph, the Chaldean," or "The Messiah as seen from Alexandria," by E. F. Burr, D. D., LL.D., the famous author of "Ecce Coelum;" also a new work by Charles F. Deems, D. D., LL.D., entitled "The Gospel of Spiritual Insight," being a companion volume to "The Gospel of Common Sense," which is now in its third edition. The work will take up the Gospel of St. John and treat it in the author's fervent style.

Books and Periodicals.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

LYRICS: FJELDA, etc. By Joseph Hudson Young. Cloth, 181 pp., $1. New York and London: Funk and Wagnalls.

There are some very clever verses among these lyrics, and the measures are of sufficient variety to suit every taste.

ILLUSTRATIVE NOTES. A Guide to the Study of the Sunday-school Lessons for 1891. By J. L. Hurlbut, D. D., and H. H. Doherty, Ph.D. Hunt and Eaton, New York. Price, $1 25.

These are very full notes, original and selected. Each lesson, besides the notes, has illustrations for the use of teachers, teaching hints, and library references. We think that a teacher in possession of this book will have all the outside help that is needed. We commend it to all the teachers in our Sunday-schools.

PERIODICALS.

—OUR DAY, for December, is just to hand. It is full of various matters, some good and some not so good. It is edited by Joseph Cook, and published by Our Day Publishing Company, Boston; and the price for a yearly subscription is $2 50.

—The QUIVER, for February, opens with a complete story by M. E. Edwards; then follow many other very good and choice articles, such as, God in the Book of Nature, Self-Restraint, Sundays with the Young, Work in the Master's Name, etc. Cassell Publishing Company, New York. Price, $1 50.

—What could be more appropriate for the opening article in an art magazine than an illustrated paper on "The Portraits of John Ruskin," which ushers in the February number of THE MAGAZINE OF ART? Here we have the famous art critic from the tender age of three and a half years to his vigorous prime (his older age will be represented in the March number). The frontispiece of the number is a photogravure reproduction of Sir J. E. Millais' portrait of Ruskin, painted at just about the time when his writings were attracting their first attention. Another interesting paper describes "Mr. Brocklebank's Collection at Childwall Hall," including many valuable illustrations, among them one full page after Millais, called "The Wolf's Den." Harry Furniss contributes a paper on "The Illustrating of Books" from "the Humorous Artist's Point of View." Drawings by the author illustrate the text most amusingly. The Notes, both American and foreign, are as full as usual. Cassell Publishing Company, New York. Thirty-five cents a number; $3 50 a year in advance.

City Civilization.

We are of opinion that thousands of our readers have very dim conceptions of the conditions of real life in a great city. How can they know them, having never explored the city limits? We present for their thought a true picture drawn by the New York Herald.

We find in all our great modern cities the noblest products of social development and the worst examples of barbarism. They live near neighbors to each other. They cross each other's track every day on the street, hustle each other in every crowd, but are as perfect strangers as though they were separated by many degrees of latitude or longitude.

If you walk up Fifth avenue, for instance, or through the mercantile sections of the city, you will be impressed with the fact that there is something majestic in human nature. Our palatial residences, fitted with all the splendors of industrial achievement and adorned with works of art; our magnificent buildings for commercial purposes, marvels of architecture, seem to indicate refinement of public opinion, sturdiness of ambition and solidity of manhood.

You go into our churches, visit our hospitals, look over a thousand charities, all generously supported, and conclude that the world has had a new birth; that strife between classes has become obsolete; that the community is basking in the light of universal fraternity and that the Golden Rule is the law of the land. The consummation of human progress, you think, has been attained and there is nothing left to desire this side of the New Jerusalem.

But if you extend your journey and visit other sections of the city a curious and painful picture is presented. You leave the region of millions and explore the wilderness of want. The sight of plenty is exchanged for a view of untold wretchedness and despair.

You need not go far to find savages; they live within pistol shot of your own home. There are Sioux without war paint, but all the same with tomahawks; Zulus with white skins who prey on society without a qualm of conscience; rogues who never leave their dens till after dark, and then only to lie in wait for an opportunity to steal a purse and cut a throat; lions, tigers, stealthy wildcats, in human disguise, who have neither respect for property nor life.

Or, again, visit our tenement districts and let your heart ache. The Esquimaux of Labrador huddle around an oil lamp to keep themselves from freezing. Nobody cares whether they live or die. Well, there are Esquimaux in New York, whole tribes of them. In the winter months they scrape a few coals out of ash barrels, are half-clad, half-starved, half-dead.

There are working girls who stitch till their fingers and lips are blue, try to exist, as Balzac did in his youth, on eight cents a day. Do we know where they live or, for that matter, do we care? Have we the slightest interest in them, will we take any trouble to set the wrong right which oppresses them and dooms them to a crust? Does the upper half of society, the philanthropic men and women, the cultured, the refined and wealthy, do anything to make life less a burden to these poor creatures? Five minutes' walk will bring us to their miserable abodes, but we prefer to ride or walk in the Park.

There you have the contrast. You need not travel abroad to see it. There is misery enough to make the world's heart ache, if it has any heart, close at hand, but no tears are shed unless some novelist describes it, and even then we close the book, praise the author and think of something else.

We have in New York philosophers who represent the last victories of the human brain, and pirates who belong to the age of buccaneering. We have poetry, painting, science, inventive genius, abundant generosity and other priceless things which seem to show that the millenium is not far off. But stop a minute; we have also footpads from the Middle Ages, scurvy rogues whose hand is against every man.

We have citizens whose wealth is so far beyond computation that Aladdin's lamp is nowhere, who never need have an ungratified wish. We say, What a prosperous, contented, happy country this must be. Well, think a moment. We have other citizens, victims of a cruel fate, with not enough to eat, wretchedly housed, poorly clad, hungry, without work and without hope. The same city limits include all these folk, but they never come into personal contact, are strangers to each other, are not simply indifferent, but entertain a mutual aversion—the poor hating the rich, the rich despising the poor.

The gravest problem to Church and State is the problem that lies in the condition of things described in the above editorial in the great New York paper. It is just this problem that has wrecked many an empire in former days. Unbounded wealth and squalid poverty—large information and dense ignorance—refinement and barbarism—these contrasts brought in juxta position produce conditions of life and existence before which worldly wisdom is dumb. The wail of the cities—the sine qua non of the perpetuity of our institutions—the only hope for us and our children is the leavening influence of the gospel of Christ. We need and must have more men and more money for the evangelization of the cities. In the very city we have the very same conditions described by the Herald as prevailing in New York. While religious people in this and all other cities are doing something to relieve this condition, we are clearly of opinion that much more ought to be done and much more can be done. The cry to the Lord to the churches in the city is, "Awake, thou that sleepest."

Sunday-School Lesson—Feb. 1.

ELIJAH AT HOREB.

1. Kings xix, 1-18.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Fear not, for I am with thee and will bless thee."—Genes's xxvi, 24.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Elijah on the Way to Horeb (vs. 1-8). II. Elijah at Horeb (vs. 9-18).

REFERENCE WORD.—"Horeb."

MEMORY VERSES.—9, 10.

TIME.—About 906 B. C.

PLACES.—Jezreel, in the plain of Esdraelon; Beersheba, on the extreme south of Judah, and Horeb, in the peninsula of Sinai.

INTRODUCTION.

The descent of fire on Carmel was followed by the slaughter of the priests of Baal; then came the sacrificial feast on the summit of the mount, in which Ahab participated. After this Elijah heard the sound of abundant rain. Retiring apart and casting himself upon the earth, doubtless, in prayer, he sent his attendant to the edge of the hill seven times to look for results; on his return the last time he reported that a cloud had been seen rising out of the waters. The servant saw a "little cloud, like a man's hand." From the tone of this reply, we are not warranted in regarding his faith in a general deluge as very strong; but his master's was. The faith of the latter had gone through a course of severe training, and had, as is always the case, come forth strong and healthful. Elijah possessed an insight strangely lacking to some of his successors. He prayed long, but he recognized the answer when it did come. He did not wait for the heavens to be black with lowering clouds, but immediately sent word to Ahab, "Prepare, and get thee down that the rain stop thee not." The king drove rapidly to Jezreel, and Elijah, who a little while before had been giving orders, now, as a loyal subject, ran before the royal chariot.

ELIJAH ON THE WAY TO HOREB.

Arriving at his palace, Ahab quickly related to Jezebel, the queen, the exciting events which had just occurred. Well nigh frenzied on hearing of the destruction of Baal's priests, she made a vow against the life of the prophet, and sent him word of the determination she had reached. He had followed the king to the gate of the city, but had not entered. Hearing the threat of Jezebel, he dared not do so. A marked change seemed to come over his spirit; he forgot for the time all the teachings of his past experience of the dealings of Jehovah. He did not stop to consider the probability of God's affording protection even in this trying hour. For once his courage, which had blazed forth in the face of an angry monarch, and borne unflinchingly fierce persecutions, seemed to have gone completely out in the prospective presence of the infidel queen. "He arose, and went for his life." And how he did go! From Jezreel to Beersheba, a distance of over one hundred miles; out of Israel's domain altogether into Judah's. But not even here did he tarry; "the went a day's journey into the wilderness." Only then, it seems, in the vast solitude, away from unfriendly hands, did he think to pray over his case. James leads us to believe that Elijah was a man whose forte was effectual prayer. His action in delaying for so long a time but serves to emphasize the Bible teaching of human weakness, and is recorded, no doubt, in order that we might escape the consequence of such remission of plain duty. "And he requested for himself that he might die." Here was the strange case of a man fleeing for his life, and yet begging to die. Was it not a rebuke to the spirit of this prayer, and a complete answer to Jezebel's rash vow that this man was not permitted to die?

His reason for this strange request was none the less remarkable. "For I am not better than my fathers." Ah! here was a confession; a key, perhaps, which will effect a solution. Possibly up to this time, he had thought that he was "better." It is so hard for pride to be driven from the human heart. This was one lesson Elijah had yet to learn; perhaps, the last. The finishing touches had still to be given to his grand character. Not long after he was deemed worthy to be escorted from earth to heaven by cherubic hosts. His last journey was made not on weary feet, but in a chariot of celestial glory.

He was humiliated. After the signal victory of Jehovah's cause on Carmel, he expected all Israel to be converted from their idolatry to the pure worship. The action of the heathen queen had shattered this fond hope. Discouragement fell to his lot on this account; despondency came upon him like a dense cloud. Through this his now feeble eye of faith failed to pierce.

Verse 5. It was in accordance with the demands of nature that Elijah, worn out by his long journey, should sleep. While thus doing an angel "touched him." How true to the experience of all Christians was this occurrence. So far as we know, one of the chief duties of the angelic creatures is to perform services of mercy to man. They are the agents through whom God cheers and comforts his despondent children. And how solid was the comfort given in this case! Tired and hungry, he had need of rest and nourishment. He was told to eat the second time, since he had a journey before him. Being refreshed both in mind and body, he went in the strength of that meat forty days and forty nights unto Horeb, the mount of God.

ELIJAH AT HOREB.

Verse 9. Arrived at Horeb, he went into a cave and lodged there. Then came the word of the Lord with the question, "What doest thou here, Elijah?" Then followed the declaration of verse 10. The most remarkable part of the answer is that it does not answer the question propounded. The prophet failed to tell what he was doing in that place, but gave quite an extended account of his acts preceeding his arrival there. The words, "I, even I, only am left," are such as others besides the Tishbite have thought they had occasion to utter. It is quite easy for one who is very zealous to become exceedingly jealous; unless properly restrained, the lapse will naturally follow. To all such in this state of mind there must come from without something to reveal God's method of dealing with men.

Now, Elijah had, we may say, seen one side of the Divine Nature—its Omnipotence. He had witnessed during his stormy life many scenes calculated to impress indelibly upon his mind the inexorable sternness of Jehovah's decrees, and his ultimate vindication of violated law. On Carmel he had been eye-witness to a scene of dreadful carnage, which could not fail to bias his idea of the character of God. There had, indeed, been the grandest period of his grand life; but the deep lessons of spiritual truth were to be learned not in the noise and tumult of the world, but in the quiet solitude of his own soul. He was told to stand upon the mount. The Lord was going to answer the complaints of his prophet. The wind, the earthquake, the fire, were all manifestations of power, no doubt, grand and God-like, but they are by nature, destructive powers.

Hence the text declares that the Lord was not in any of these; at the same time that it previously says, "The Lord passed by." The meaning of the seemingly opposed statements is possibly that though these are manifestations calculated to inspire in us awe and terror, yet in depth of spiritual meaning they fall far short of the subduing power of the "still small voice." This was, no doubt, a figure.

Transferred to Christian times, we can not fail to realize its value. The condemnations of the Law and the lightning flashes of Sinai may strike terror to the sinner's heart, and arouse conscience, and produce conviction; but it is only the gentle voice of Jesus, full of grace and truth, saying, "Thy sins be forgiven," that can effectually bring about reconciliation and peace.

This was the lesson Elijah learned. The question of verse 9 was repeated. In words, the prophet's answer was the same; but we may well suppose that their spirit was entirely changed. Now he knew that the great sin of Israel was to be rooted out, not by one great revolution, but by the quiet, though powerful, workings of the Spirit of God.

His erroneous views of God's designs being corrected, he was again commissioned and his last tasks assigned him. After such an experience he was, no doubt, well equipped for any emergency. But there was still one other mistake to be set right. He had twice affirmed, no doubt, honestly, that he alone was faithful to Jehovah. If others do not measure up to our short-sighted views of necessary zeal, we are prone to draw a line leaving ourselves on the side of piety and our fellows on that of disloyalty to the cause.

Verse 18 gives words and proof to condemn this uncharitable course. They were the last words of God to Elijah; and how this emphasizes them! He came but one strong; he went away to his new-found duty increased seven thousand-fold! God always encourages his true servant.

Unscriptural Forms of Address to the Savior.

BY THE REV. W. W EVERTS, JR.

An instructive chapter in church history might be written on the forms used in addressing the Savior in the prayers and hymns of the ages. Such a chapter would show that piety could be traced by the use of certain forms of address which are conspicuously absent from ages of formalism and rationalism. Our Savior is jealous of his name, and his people are also. They rejoice when they hear his name honored and revered; but they are shocked when it is used too familiarly and chilled when it is refined into an abstraction. One of the chilling forms of address, affected by some evangelical men of to-day, is the expression, the Christ. This expression may be properly called affected, because its use in the New Testament is confined to the single issue as to whether Jesus of Nazareth fulfilled the Old Testament predictions concerning the Messiah. When this issue is settled the apostles no longer use the title, the Christ, but the proper name Christ.

Another of these chilling forms of address to the Savior is Master. This has more basis in Scripture than the other. "Ye call me master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am." But it is evident that this common title of every rabbi was not for permanent use as applied to Christ; for after the crucifixion the word disappears and the more reverent name Lord takes its place.

A third form of address, very common, especially in Sunday-school hymns, offends by unwarranted familiarity with the divine name. It is the bald name Jesus, standing alone or prefixed with my, dear, blessed, or kindred expressions that grate on the ear of the reader of the reverent apostles. Every one knows that though this name was given the Savior by an angel, it was a common name, not specially sacred, but rather associated with the earthly side of his life, until it become the name after the flesh. When it occurs in the Acts and Epistles, it commonly stands in contrast with or supplemented by some other title. Enemies, man or devil, may call our Lord, Jesus, but disciples call Jesus, Lord. Neither salutation nor benediction is uttered in the name of Jesus, nor is prayer addressed to that bare name.

What forms of address to the Savior are allowable to those who wish to speak, sing and pray as the apostles were inspired to do? The most common titles of the Savior are Lord and Christ, of which the latter is used in speaking of him and the former in speaking to him. No prayer is addressed to the Lord as Christ though Christ may be spoken of as Lord. In the formal opening and close of the Epistles, with one exception, neither Lord nor Christ appears alone, but the dignity and majesty becoming to the Son of God are ascribed by a combination of titles, and his name appears as Christ Jesus, Jesus Christ or the all-embracing Lord Jesus Christ.—Independent.

We will mail free, on receipt of two cents in stamps, a sample box of Dr. Davis' Liver Pills. They will cure costiveness, biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, and all disorders that arise from a diseased liver and impure blood.
JOHN H. COLLINS & CO.,
208 Market St., Phila., Pa.
For sale by all druggists at 25c. per box.

From the Mission Rooms.

The missionary secretaries met in council, Jan. 15, and made careful examination into our missionary affairs.

In view of the financial condition in portions of our connection, the results achieved have been beyond our anticipations. There has been a general advance in the collections under the assessments. The response to the special appeals for new missionaries and enlargement has been most encouraging. With this cheering outlook at home, there is even still greater encouragement from our mission fields. The work is expanding. From every mission calls come in for re-enforcement. The Master is leading us on.

The field secretaries will continue their work on the line of enlargement. We need, to meet the present and pressing wants of the field, forty new missionaries in addition to those already provided for. The Annual Conferences have responded. The Sunday-schools are falling into line. Many churches and individuals in our connection, in addition to their regular assessments, are well able to send out and support a missionary in some of our missions. Will each pastor take this matter on his heart? Will he, with his congregation, take it to the throne of grace?

The secretaries have planned a general canvass of the church. They are expecting the great Head of the church to move on the hearts of both pastor and congregation, that they may cooperate cordially in the work of extending the kingdom of Christ among the nations.

H. C. MORRISON,
W. H. POTTER,
I. G JOHN.

Mr. Joel Chandler Harris is writing a story of a boy's adventures on a Southern plantation during the war, which will be enjoyed by robust lads and healthy girls. It is mainly a story of outdoor life, though one of the characters, an old North Carolinian, tells a fairy story that is new and quaint.

$100 REWARD. $100.

The readers of the Advocate will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Gen Lew Wallace is writing with elaborate care a story of the conquest of Constantinople by the Turks in 1454. He intends it to be as good in its way as "Ben Hur"—and, doubtless, hopes it will be as successful, though it would be hard for any book to rival that tale in popularity.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese, of New York, has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and the Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122 000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Advertising is a gem in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

HOPKINS'
PRINTING OFFICE,
20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Wonders

Are wrought by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor in restoring gray hair to its original color, promoting a new growth, preventing the hair from falling, keeping it soft, silky, and abundant, and the scalp cool, healthy, and free from dandruff or humors. The universal testimony is that this preparation has no equal as a dressing, and is, therefore, indispensable to every well-furnished toilet.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair to use Ayer's Hair Vigor as a dressing."—Mrs. Lydia O. Moody, East Pittston, Me.

"Some time ago my wife's hair began to come out quite freely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

not only prevented my wife from becoming bald, but it also caused an entirely new growth of hair. I am ready to certify to this statement before a justice of the peace."—H. Hulsebus, Lewisburgh, Iowa.

"Some years ago, after a severe attack of brain fever, my hair all came out. I used such preparations for restoring it as my physicians ordered, but failed to produce a growth of hair. I then tried, successively, several articles recommended by druggists, and all alike fell short of accomplishing the desired result. The last remedy I applied was Ayer's Hair Vigor, which brought a growth of hair in a few weeks. I think I used eight bottles in two years; more than was necessary as a restorative, but I liked it as a dressing, and have continued to use it for that purpose. I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor possesses virtues far above those of any similar preparation now on the market."—Vincent Jones, Richmond, Ind.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

PREPARED BY
DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

CLARK & MEADER,
—DEALERS IN—
FINE GROCERIES,
16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and
Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,
234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,
Offers her services
TO SHOP
for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman, Junius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

Watches, Diamonds,
FINE JEWELRY!
Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,
SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES
Send for Catalogue.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
(Established 1817)
119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.
Readers of Books, Attention!

We wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 00,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address
STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

T. B. CARSON,
DEALER IN
Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,
Of the Best Quality of
ITALIAN AND AMERICAN
MARBLE AND GRANITE,
No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.
Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex.....9:00 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac....3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 8 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....3:45 pm
No. 7 Coast....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..8:10 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast Mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1, Local Mail and Express..7:40pm	No. 2, Local Mail and Express..7:00am
No 41, Chic. and St. L. F. Mail..8:25am	No 12, Chic. and St. L. F. Mail..3:00pm
No 45, Chic. and N. O. Lim....8:00pm	No. 36, Chic and N. O. Lim.,12:30 noon
No 11, Memphis and K. C. Ex..8:25am	No 42, Memphis and K. C. Ex..3:00pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 53 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45am
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor..4:15pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd..11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:15am

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am | No. 2, Limited...4:00pm
P. AND F. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.
Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.
FROM
New Orleans to Cincinnati.
94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City.

Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 31 St. Charles street.

H. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.
J. C. GUILT, General Manager.
D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.
GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.
Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to
CHICAGO,
Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.
The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.
The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.
The Shortest and Most Direct Route to
MEMPHIS.
The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change
To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and
KANSAS CITY.
ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS
FROM NEW ORLEANS TO
Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York
The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.
J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—
Texas and Pacific Railway Company.
SHORT LINE
—BETWEEN—
NEW ORLEANS,
TEXARKANA,
SHREVEPORT,
AND POINTS IN
Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address
B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.
Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.
NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE, THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6:00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.
Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.
P. B. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt. R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.
R. D. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt. A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,
Homeopathic Physician,
288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.
Cases treated by letter.

H. D. McCOWN,
DEALER IN FINE CLOTHING
—AND—
MENS' FURNISHING GOODS
Headquarters of the Celebrated McCown Shirt.
Boy's Clothing a Specialty.
Mens' and Boys' Hats.
Clothing Made to Order.
Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., New Orleans
Discount to Preachers.

S. R. PERRY,
183 Canal St.
Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.
Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.
Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.
Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

BROWNE & JENKINS
DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN
WALL PAPER
154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

ROOFING!
GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.
GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 WEST BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.
Geo. C. Logan,
DEARBORN PATENT
SCALES.
Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.
101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

How Shall Churches Be Filled?
A MANUAL OF RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, DISCUSSED BY CLERGYMEN OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.
No Minister Ought to Be Without It.
Price, $1, post-free.
Address
STATISTICAL BUREAU OF RELIGIOUS INFORMATION, HEAD OFFICES: 459 W. 21st Street, New York City.

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,
Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,
CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,
Rope Packing, Twines,
Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,
Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,
AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,
Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,
Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,
Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,
Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,
ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.
A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.
J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.
40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.
New Orleans Express Com'y,
LIMITED.
City Delivery and Transfer,
No. 101 Camp Street,
Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La
This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.
Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH
Trouble of the Womb should try
Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.
It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.
One month's treatment by mail, $1
Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS
BECAUSE THEY ARE
THE BEST.
D. M. Ferry & Co's
Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced
SEED ANNUAL
For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address
D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the World

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JAN. 29, 1891.

John Wesley Memorial Fund.

Some weeks ago Bishop Keener forwarded to Mr. Waller, the secretary of the Wesleyan Conference, the sum of $500 to erect a memorial column for our church in the Wesley Memorial Building, to be erected this year. The Bishop has favored us with the secretary's reply, which we are glad to give our readers.

3 Macaulay Road,
Clapham, London, Jan. 2, 1891.

Dear Bishop Keener: I duly received yours containing the £103.5s for the Wesley Memorial Fund. Enclosed is the official receipt for the above amount with our very best thanks.

Your sentiment in reference to John Wesley was much appreciated by the committee, and they directed that it should be printed in the Methodist newspapers.

Further I am instructed by the committee to inquire if there is any chance of your being at the celebration during the first week in March. If you or any one of your brother Bishops can make it convenient to be in England, you may be assured of a hearty welcome.

Ever yours affectionately,
D. J. WALLER.

Briefs.

Let every member of the Methodist Church in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference remember to be in his place in the house of God, Sunday, Feb. 15. The reason is that your pastor is taking special pains and making special preparations to give you a good sermon on that day on Christian education. Your presence, with helpful singing and prayers, will set fire to the thoughts which he has studied out, and those thoughts will warm your souls into an appreciation of the great subject of his discourse, and you will realize a new blessedness in that gospel whose fundamental principle is Christian education. By no means let such an opportunity slip by unimproved.

Mr. MacQueary, who has recently been tried for heresy in the Episcopal Church, is reported by a New York paper as having said in a late sermon:

I am not sure that I have helped a single soul to a higher and holier life, and the thought is more painful than I dare tell you, for no preaching, however profound or eloquent, is truly successful unless it improves the moral and spiritual character of men.

How can a preacher who denies the fundamental principles of religion ever hope to help souls to higher and holier living? The Holy Ghost don't help such preachers, and no preaching is helpful unless the Holy Ghost makes it so. Mr. MacQueary ought not to be surprised at his failure.

We have received a copy of the Minutes of the fifth session of the China Mission Conference. The statistics are: Local preachers, 6; native members, 345; foreign members, 25; infants baptized, 9; adults, 33; Sunday-schools, 22; teachers, 72; scholars, 742; contributed for missions, $364 01; number of churches, 8; value, $21,211; number of parsonages, 13; value, $46,890. Schools of the General Board, 15; foreign teachers, 8; native teachers, 21; pupils, 390; value of property, $65,400. Schools of the Woman's Board, 31; foreign teachers, 9; native teachers, 41; pupils, 611; value of property, $62,600. The financial exhibit of the schools and hospitals is good. The number treated in the hospital—in-patients, 67; out-patients, 3,979. The medical work thus seems to be an important part of the mission.

In this city, last week, was organized a State Union of the Christian Endeavor Society, Rev. A. E. Clay is one of the vice-presidents, and Rev. F. S. Parker is secretary and treasurer.

Endow the College.

We mean Centenary College, of course. The Mississippians have endowed their college before it has a location. It ought to be easier for Louisianians to endow their college, which already has a fine location and good buildings. It is idle to say that Louisiana Methodists have not the money to do this great thing. It is true that a great number have very little money, but it is also true that many have a great deal of money. And, putting the two classes together, there is enough money held by the Methodist Church in Louisiana to endow Centenary College so munificently that it will have no lack of means to carry on its grand work for generations to come. And this can be done, and every man and woman who helps in the enterprise will not only not feel poorer, but richer, for having given to accomplish it. Many of our Methodist people have more than they need. Some of them have more than they can manage. The very care of their money is wearing out their lives. Why can they not be persuaded to rid their lives of these burdens by giving largely to our college, and thus place their money where it will do a thousand-fold more good than it is now doing? Why not do this great thing now? Why wait, with the expectation of bequeathing something to the college, and run all the risks attendant upon waiting? Why work at this matter for weary months longer, as we have worked at it during the weary months of the past? Why not make Feb. 15, in the year of our Lord 1891, forever memorable by the fact that on that day Louisiana Methodism by her grace of liberality abundantly endowed her Centenary College? We can do this great thing in a day. Let that day be

FEBRUARY 15, 1891.

Centenary Day.

MR. EDITOR: Our Conferences are over, and we must set out on a new year's work. Reports showed that the church is advancing in all departments of her work. The statistics evidenced the fact that the Louisiana Conference has passed somewhat beyond twenty thousand members, while the members of the Mississippi Conference stretch rapidly toward forty thousand. Of course, the educational exhibit commanded my special attention. There is great and constantly increasing interest and enlargement in this field of church enterprise. Louisiana paid more for Christian education in Centenary than ever before, and the Mississippi Conference not only paid largely over her former figures in aid of Centenary, but made a liberal assessment for the same purpose for this year, notwithstanding the fact that she is concentrating her energies and resources on the establishment of Millsaps College. The Louisiana Conference appointed Feb. 15, (and as many Sundays thereafter as may be necessary on circuits) as Centenary Day, on which all her preachers are to preach on Christian Education, and take collections for the endowment of Centenary College. This move means a great deal. It means that every friend of Christian education in Louisiana is to be afforded an urgent opportunity of contributing for that purpose. It means that preachers and people are to be brought to think and pray and give for a most worthy and exigent cause.

If any reader of this thinks within himself, "If I were only rich, I would be delighted to aid largely in the endowment of Centenary College," let him think thus no longer. The question is not whether you are rich, or what you would do if you were, but whether you are willing to do what you can in aid of the college. Do you know how to induce the rich to give? Let those who are not rich give cheerfully, liberally and prayerfully as they have means, and those to whom God has given riches will see and feel the call of God to give according to their ability. No cause to which the poor contribute heartily will ever fail for lack of means. Give, hoping to provoke others to do likewise, and give while you live. Recently, a Mr. Fayerweather bequeathed $2,100,000 to nineteen American colleges. Scarcely had his body been laid in the grave and his munificence announced to the world, when interested heirs began the work of breaking his will and defeating his beneficent purpose. Everybody knows how signally Mr. Tilden failed in his effort to direct the use of his property after his death. Let the friends of Centenary rally to her as never before. She ought to be handsomely endowed and made the equal of any college in the land. Louisiana can not afford to be indifferent to this call, and she will not be.

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT.

The Scarritt Bible and Training School.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS.

The first meeting of the Board of Managers of "The Scarritt Bible and Training-school for Missionaries and other Christian Workers" was held in Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 30, 1890. The following members were present: Bishop E. R. Hendrix, president; Mrs. Julia Simpson, secretary; Miss Belle H. Bennett, Mrs. Ruth E. Scarritt and Mrs. Susan Jones, and Miss Mary Helm, ex-officio member.

In accordance with the Articles of Incorporation, the Board divided its members by lot into three classes. The members of the first year are, Mrs. Scarritt, Mrs. S. C. Trueheart, Mr. J. E. Chick. Second year: Mrs. I. J. Hendrix, Bishop Hendrix, Mrs. Jones. Third year: Mrs. M. D. Wightman, Mrs. Simpson, Miss Bennett.

Miss Bennett, as agent, gave a statement of her work and plans. She reported $13,446 75* in her hands, $10,000 of that amount being loaned at three, four and five per cent., subject to call; and $27,500 in subscriptions, the greater part of which is payable in five annual instalments. She stated her purpose to visit the larger churches in the different Conferences during the year to increase the building and endowment fund. Miss Bennett gave an interesting account of her investigations of similar institutions in Europe, and Bishop Hendrix of his in this country. The information thus received was helpful and encouraging.

Plans for the building were presented, and the Building Committee was given authority to select a design and proceed with the work as soon as it could be done without incurring debt. It can not be begun until the whole amount required is collected, and it will take eight or nine months to complete the building. After carefully considering the subject, the Board resolved to open the school not later than Sept., 1892, but earlier, if possible.

The following committees were appointed: Building Committee—Mr. W. C. Scarritt, Dr. J. J. Tigert, Bishop E. R. Hendrix, Rev. W. B. Palmore and Mrs. L. R. Moore. Committee on By-Laws and Course of Study—Bishop Hendrix, Mrs. S. C. Truehart, Miss Belle H. Bennett.

Bishop Hendrix was requested to prepare a circular letter to be sent to pastors and Sunday-school superintendents, with the program for the Easter services. Miss Helm was requested to publish in the church papers the resolutions adopted by the Woman's Board in its December meeting, in connection with an account of this meeting. The meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the president.

*In addition to this, Mrs. Wightman, assistant agent, has since reported in her hands $575 15.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE WOMAN'S BOARD OF MISSIONS.

The following paper was read before the Woman's Board of Missions at the meeting held December 5, 1890, and was indorsed:

The growing need of trained workers in the field, and the many applications of women desiring training for mission work, renders it very desirable that the "Scarritt Bible and Training-school for Missionaries and other Christian Workers" be opened at an early date—with the fall term of 1891, if possible. The provisions of its charter require the money to be in hand for the building before it is erected. As only one-half of the amount needed has been collected, the necessity for earnest, united, immediate effort to collect the remainder is apparent. Miss Bennett is doing fine work as agent, but can not, unaided, accomplish what every member of the Woman's Board of Missions is pledged to do. As a means to this end:

Resolved, That the Conference corresponding secretaries and all district secretaries are hereby urged to bring this matter before the people in such manner as to acquaint them with the character of the school, and their duty to aid in its establishment as God hath prospered them.

Resolved, That our brethren of the ministry are earnestly requested to bring the subject before their charges, with explanation and exhortation.

Resolved, That Easter Sunday is appointed as a time for special services and collections for the training-school; that a programme for this occasion be prepared by a committee, to be published in the Woman's Missionary Advocate, and in leaflet form distributed throughout the society; and that as a means of increasing the donations collection cards be printed and distributed in such number and manner as the above-ordered committee shall decide.

Mrs. Scarritt, Miss Mary Helm and Mrs. S. C. Truehart were the committee appointed to prepare the programme.

Scarritt Bible and Training-School.

At a recent meeting of the local Board, W. M. S., Easter Sunday was appointed as a time for special services and collections for the Scarritt Bible and Training-school.

We desire to call the attention of all members of the Woman's Missionary Society to this fact, and to the following earnest words of Miss Mary Helm, secretary of home affairs, W. B. M.:

"The Lord has done great things for us in the past. He is 'the same yesterday, to-day and forever.' We stood eighteen months ago, like the Israelites of old, with an impassable Jordan between us and the object of our desires: its waves were suddenly divided, and we came with rejoicing upon the borderland of our Canaan.

"Dr. Scarritt's munificent gift was of God. He also moved upon the hearts of the people, and over $12,000 are in the treasury. But the remaining $12,000 stands like the walled city of Jericho—in our way—and must be ours before we can possess that for which we have longed and prayed. Now, the word is given to complete the conquest and receive the reward. We can not sit down and wait to see what God will do. Let there be preparation throughout the camp of Israel—four months of praying, working and giving; let the host form in line and surround this Jericho; then, when the Easter time comes, let all the people give a great shout in the name of the risen Christ, and we shall find the wall of difficulty has fallen down in response to our faithful works. And the school will be built to stand ever, as an Ebenezer, to give faith and courage to those who labor at home, while from it go forth to the field women with faith and courage to labor there, feeling they are thoroughly furnished unto every good work."

We urge every member of the Louisiana Conference, W. M. S., to hold herself individually responsible for the success of this undertaking, and let the intervening time be full of prayer and work.

MRS. C. J. FOSTER,
Cor. Sec.

Letter from Bro. Pipes.

MR. EDITOR: La grippe is gradually giving way in this community to a better state of feeling. Last Sabbath was a bright, sunny day, which added greatly to the comfort of the people, having endured a week of solid rainy, cold weather. Our first Bible lesson, Sunday morning, was Moses viewing the promised land from Pisgah's top. Though he was not permitted to eat of the luscious grapes, nor drink of the crystal fountains, doubtless he was delighted to know that his people would have quiet and rest there from the toils and fatigue of their journeyings in the wilderness. It is said history repeats itself, and so it seems.

At eleven A. M. we heard Dr. Courtney, pastor of the Baptist Church, preach on the second coming of Christ to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe. The old man, borne down by the weight of seventy-five years, in his imagination rose to the mount of vision in the climax, and viewed the heavenly Canaan, in all its length and breadth, as the home of the good, where the saints of all ages in harmony dwell; crowned and robed, with tongues attuned to the song of redemption, to glorify Christ forever and forever.

More than three thousand years ago, Moses viewed the earthly Canaan from the top of Nebo; to-day the scene is re-enacted. The preacher from the mount of vision views the heavenly Canaan in all the grandeur and glory of the gospel dispensation, infinitely above that of the Mosaic.

The venerable man, as leader of his people for many years, became duly inspired with the grandeur of the theme. We could but feel the insignificance of creeds; they form no barrier to the union of hearts imbued with the love of Christ.

Bro. Lallance made his debut in his Sunday-school at nine A. M., heard the Bible class, and added words of cheer to his people. He preached his first sermon at night to an appreciative audience. We had not the pleasure of hearing him, but his sermon was well spoken of by those who did. He announced his first quarterly meeting for next Saturday and Sunday, but failed to add, "Friday preceding is set apart by the church as a day of fasting and prayer." Why leave off that time-honored announcement? Does it require less sacrifice to be a Christian to-day than it did in the days of our fathers?

Bro. Lallance and wife are, seemingly, in good working order. Prospects omen a prosperous and successful year for them. Just let the people adopt the motto, "Being forgetful of the things which are behind," etc.

J. P.

Our Shreveport friends have started on the right line in mission work in that city. The Quarterly Conference of the First Church, recently held, pledged $500 for the support of the mission lately inaugurated. That means business. Bro. Henry can now go to work with a will, and we are satisfied that success will crown his efforts. We would like to chronicle the fact that other Quarterly Conferences had done the same sensible thing.

Bishop Granbery has nearly recovered from a surgical operation to remove a bony excrescence from his jaw.

A Worthy Example.

MR. EDITOR: The publishing of the following may stimulate some to do likewise. The funds of the association are about exhausted. The letter was written by one of our faithful ministers who knows the value of an education and wishes to help his young brethren to obtain one:

Enclosed I send you a draft for twenty-five dollars, my contribution to the Ministerial Educational Association, which I suppose is in demand at the beginning of a new term. I think that the appeal through the ADVOCATE may bear fruit. We are much saddened by the death of Dr. Marshall. May God allow his mantle to fall on some of our members! * * * *

I trust that this good example may be followed, and that we may soon have funds sufficient to pay the way of our four excellent young men through this session.

C. G. ANDREWS,
Treas. Ministerial Educational Ass'n.

Notes.

It is said that Bishop Fitzgerald will move to California after May 1.

Our missionary secretaries have arranged for a Spring campaign. May they be as successful, and more, as they were in the Autumn and Winter.

A prominent layman said to us, the other day, that he thought the new year had somehow improved the reading matter of the ADVOCATE, and an old preacher wrote to the same effect last week. Encouraging!

We were much encouraged the other day when on opening that unique paper, The Ram's Horn, to discover under its heading, "Spear Points," three paragraphs that originated in this office, and when we got to the end, discouraged to find that we were not credited with our own work.

A friend in the country writes: "The Lottery concern is sowing money broadcast, and some of the very elect seem halting between two opinions." We trust that the "elect who are halting between two opinions" will soon have the like demonstration as to the true state of the case, as their original progenitors had on Mount Carmel.

The Epworth League was organized at Rayne Memorial Church, Jan. 17. The following are the officers elected: I. B. Ellis, president; Misses Kate Riggs, Susie May and Alice Schroeder, vice-presidents; Harry Russ, secretary, and Miss Mamie Wood, treasurer. The four o'clock Sunday afternoon meetings at this church for the children and the general public are proving a popular innovation.

H. M. McKnight, agent for our Pacific Methodist College, located at Santa Rosa, Cal., says:

The Holy Bible is a text book in the Pacific Methodist College, on which pupils are examined and graded as in other branches.

That is just as it should be in every Methodist College. The idea of giving a Christian education without the Bible is a grave mistake.

We commend this paragraph from the Richmond Advocate:

Fish do not bite at a hook stuck in a cork and put away in a drawer. Brethren, many would take the church paper if they had an invitation. Mention the Advocate from the pulpit. While the crowd is gathering at the church, allude to the paper. You know it would bless many, very many, families if it could go there. Help the cause of the Lord Jesus by urging the Methodists to subscribe.

Here is a "point well taken" in an editorial in the Wesleyan:

We have excused ourselves far too much by the lazy plea of the simplicity of the gospel. The gospel is simple, but the task of bringing the gospel and sinful humanity into a saving relation to each other is enough to exercise all of our powers as long as we live. The science of this work ought to engage us more than it has done, and ought to make us more Christ-like ourselves and more successful in saving souls and bodies. To save men is our work, our only work, and we should study the nature and true philosophy of that more critically and prayerfully than we have ever done.

We have kept account, as far as we were able, of the number received on trial in our Conferences. We may have missed some, and there is yet one Conference to be held. Up to date, according to our record, there have been received on trial into our ministry 302 preachers. The highest number in any Conference is 16; Holston, Memphis and North Texas having each received that number. The next highest is 14, received by the Florida Conference. Missouri and Western North Carolina received 13. Thus we see that we are making about one itinerant preacher to every four thousand members! Is that a good per cent. or not?

Personal and Otherwise.

Rev. George S. Inge is carrying on a successful revival meeting at Grenada, Miss.

A private note from Bro. Featherston, of Woodville, Miss., informs us that the wife of Bro. Hurst, our pastor at Percy's Creek, died Jan. 22. We tender our brother our sincere sympathy.

A sad note from Rev. W. T. Beall informs us of the death of his wife, Mrs. Louise M. Beall, on the morning of Jan. 25, after fifteen days severe illness. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved family.

We had a pleasant call last week from Prof. Magruder, of Baton Rouge. He is looking hale, and says he has not been sick in bed for twenty-five years. Prof. Magruder is the last one of the original Board of Trustees of Centenary College, and the last one of the original faculty!

Bro. Oakley, secretary of the North Mississippi Conference, informs us that all the reports for which we asked for publication were mailed to us. They never have reached this office. That was a most unfortunate period of time to us, as we have heard of several letters mailed at the same time that never reached us. We beg the secretary's pardon for seeming to cast reflection on his promptness.

The Mississippian publishes the following:

Rev. A. F. Watkins, of this city, has been assigned to temporary duty at Natchez, as assistant pastor to Rev. W. E. Ballard, who is in quite delicate health.

We trust that this arrangement will be only temporary, for how can the itinerancy do without Bro. Ballard, or the college do without Bro. Watkins? We hope our brother will soon recover his health.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. T. S. Randle, writing from Opelousas, La., says: "We have started off well in our new work; the prospects are encouraging. The people seem pleased with their new preacher and family. May our coming into their midst prove a blessing to them—the church and all with whom we have to do. We have had sickness since we left Lake Providence."

—A brother writes: "The pastor of Tillatoba circuit, North Mississippi Conference, has cause for encouragement. Stopping at the first home in the charge, to which he came after Conference, the sister handed him fifty cents, saying, 'I made this sewing, and I want to give it for missions.' 'She hath done what she could.' Did it cheerfully. Took the first opportunity. Let it 'be told' whereso ever the light of the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE shines. May Christ's people speedily carry his 'gospel to every creature!' The first eight days of the new year spent in the circuit, three new subscriptions for the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE, and two for the Nashville, were given."

—Rev. H. D. Howell writes from Purvis circuit, Mississippi Conference: "At the late session of the Mississippi Conference I was appointed to Purvis circuit. My surprise grew out of the fact that I did not know where it was. But without gainsaying I went 'as soon as I was sent for,' and found a people ready and anxious to hear a 'message from God.' I am now at the Hollieman Hotel, in Purvis, among a kind and noble-hearted people. Our first quarterly meeting was held at Lumberton, last Saturday and Sunday. Bro. Monnger was in his place, and filled it well. We had a pleasant and, I think, profitable meeting. It was agreed to locate the parsonage at Lumberton, and I am assured that within three weeks it will be ready for occupancy. To say that I am well pleased is putting it rather tamely. Afterwhile (D. V.) I will have something more to say of my work and the general outlook."

—Rev. J. F. Robinson writes from Steen's Creek, Miss.: "We moved into the parsonage at the thriving little village of Steen's Creek, the first day of the new year. We were greeted with smiling faces, and welcomed to a warm fire and a good supper. Our pantry contained good things, which lasted several days, and we felt like a real itinerant and family. We have supplied this, Marvin circuit, two years previous to this, but lived on our farm. What wonderful adaptability a Methodist preacher should possess! Think of a family of nine, leaving a commodious and comfortable home and confining themselves within two small rooms which have one fire-place! We will not, however, be compelled to remain so crowded. The contract has been let to build three rooms more to the neat little cottage that is already here. The lumber is being hauled here, and the workmen have begun to work a little. The contractor is to have it completed by the middle of February. The parsonage is prettily situated across the road from the Marvin Church, and far enough from the road for a grove of shade trees in front of the house. They, however, have not yet been planted. Christmas has come and gone, and I thank God the dancing devil has given us but little trouble in this charge. Business is brisk in our little town. Everybody seems to have as much as they can do. The farmers are arranging for a new crop. Our literary school seems to be well managed and doing thorough work. Prof. C. P. Gilmer, with his corps of efficient teachers, seem to be the right persons in the right places. He knows just what a boy or girl can and ought to do, and possesses the rare quality of knowing how to make them do it. I believe the Lord is opening the way for the most successful year that we have had on this work. We will finish up the first round of seven appointments on this charge next Sunday. Hope to have your prayers."

Delegates to the Ecumenical Conference.

The following is the list of delegates appointed by the Bishops of our church to the Ecumenical Conference, which meets in Washington City, October, 1891:

Clerical Delegates.—Bishop J. C. Keener, Bishop A. W. Wilson, Bishop J. C. Granbery, Bishop R. K. Hargrove, Bishop W. W. Duncan, Bishop C. B. Galloway, Bishop E. R. Hendrix, Bishop J. S. Key, Bishop A. G. Haygood, Bishop O. P. Fitzgerald. Rev. J. C. Simmons, D. D., Pacific Conference; Rev. George Needham, Denver Conference; Rev. D. F. Watkins, Central Mexico Conference; Rev. J. O. Keener, Alabama Conference; Rev. C. B. Riddick, D. D., North Alabama Conference; Rev. Horace Jewell, White River Conference; Rev. J. A. Anderson, Arkansas Conference; Rev. P. H. Whisner, D. D., Baltimore Conference; Rev. Josephus Anderson, D. D., Florida Conference; Rev. E. E. Hoss, D. D., Holston Conference; Rev. E. L. Southgate, Kentucky Conference; Rev. C. W. Carter, D. D., Louisiana Conference; Rev. J. W. Lewis, D. D., Louisville Conference; Rev. R. H. Mahon, D. D., Memphis Conference; Rev. E. H. Monnger, Mississippi Conference; Rev. J. D. Hammond, D. D., Missouri Conference; Rev. L. W. Crawford, Western North Carolina Conference; Rev. F. L. Reid, D. D., North Carolina Conference; Rev. W. B. Murrah, D.D., North Mississippi Conference; Rev. W. A. Candler, D. D., North Georgia Conference; Rev. W. P. Harrison, D. D., South Georgia Conference; Rev. James Campbell, East Texas Conference; Rev. J. H. McLean, D. D., North Texas Conference; Rev. W. W. Pinson, West Texas Conference; Rev. I. G. John, D. D., Texas Conference; Rev. S. B. Jones, D. D., South Carolina Conference; Rev. J. C. Morris, D. D., Southwest Missouri Conference; Rev. B. M. Messick, D. D., St. Louis Conference; Rev. J. M. Wright, D. D., Tennessee Conference; Rev. P. A. Peterson, D. D., Virginia Conference; Rev. T. S. Wade, Western Virginia Conference; Rev. C. F. Reid, China Mission Conference; Rev. Frank Richardson, D. D., Holston Conference; Rev. A. Coke Smith, D. D., South Carolina Conference; Rev. W. H. Potter, D. D., South Georgia Conference; Rev. W. V. Tudor, D. D., Virginia Conference.

Lay Delegates.—Gov. Thos. Seay, of Alabama; Gov. Thos. J. Jarvis, of North Carolina; Senator Alfred H. Colquitt, of Georgia; Asa Holt, Esq., of Texas; Judge A. D. Bright of Tennessee; Hon. E. B. Prettyman, of Maryland; Chancellor Edward Mayes, of Mississippi; Dr. James H. Carlisle, of South Carolina; Hon. Walter B. Hill, of Georgia; Chancellor Landon C. Garland, of Tennessee; Dr. J. W. Brown, of Arkansas; Col. C. E. Nelson, of Indian Territory; S. B. McCutchon, Esq., of Louisiana; Hon. W. L. Nugent, of Mississippi; John A. Carter, Esq., of Kentucky; Gen. Robert B. Vance, of North Carolina, and A. G. Clarke, Esq., of Montana.

A Chance for Ladies to Make Money.

[The following letter is taken from the Christian Index, and though properly belonging in our advertising columns we insert it here cheerfully with the hope of benefiting some of our lady readers.]

MR. EDITOR: I saw an advertisement that Cactus Co., East El Paso, Texas, wanted a few ladies to do writing, etc., for them at home and sent for particulars. I have been so well pleased with the business that I wish to advise other ladies wanting employment to give this business a trial. The work does not interfere with my household duties in the least, and yet I can earn real good wages. Full particulars can be had for a two-cents stamp. The address is Cactus Co., Box 27, East El Paso, Texas. I am sure all who write will thank me for calling attention to the matter.

Respectfully,

MRS. JANE WILCOX.

Opelousas District Conference.

A CHANGE OF PLACE.

At the meeting of the district stewards of this district on Jan. 16, for reasons satisfactory to them, it was decided to change the place of holding our District Conference from Lafayette to Lake Charles. "Take due notice thereof, and govern yourselves accordingly." Our District Conference will convene at Lake Charles, March 19, and continue till March 22, with Bishop A. G. Haygood, presiding.

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

Lafayette, La., Jan. 19, 1891.

Those visiting the Crescent City for Mardi Gras will do well to make note of the Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim., offerings advertised in this issue. The age and well-known standing of the house are a guarantee that any goods which they sell will be precisely as represented

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

Louisiana Conference Apportionments for 1891.

	Conf. Claimants.	Bishops.	Education.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Council.	Church Extension
New Orleans District	$1,200	$ 320	$ 320	$2,350	$ 500	$ 62	$ 596 75
Shreveport District	900	235	235	1,350	360	35	313 75
Arcadia District	850	225	225	1,350	360	35	313 75
Delhi District	650	170	170	1,250	315	25	322 50
Opelousas District	520	135	135	1,100	315	23	283 75
Alexandria District	420	115	115	600	150	20	212 50
Total	$4,560	$1,200	$1,200	$8,000	$2,000	$200	$2,100 00

Mississippi Conference Assessments for 1891.

	Conference Fund.	Bishops.	Church Extension.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Conf.
Jackson District	$700	$270	$175	$1,150	$650	$35
Vicksburg District	700	270	175	1,450	650	35
Brookhaven District	700	270	175	1,300	600	35
Meridian District	700	270	175	1,150	650	35
Seashore District	425	160	350	1,200	550	22
Woodville District	425	160	350	1,200	500	22
Braudon District	375	150	240	1,000	400	16

For Ministerial Education—$1,000 for Centenary and $1,000 for Millsaps, to be assessed by the presiding elders upon the basis of the assessments for the Bishops.

C. G. ANDREWS, Sec.

Unlike any other, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is for internal as much as for external use.

Woman's Work in Mississippi.

Severe and protracted sickness in the early part of last year prevented me, for a time, from the more active service of our beloved work. On Wednesday, Dec. 10, I held a most delightful meeting at Phœnix, Miss., and organized two auxiliaries to Parsonage and Home Mission Society, numbering fifty-four members. The meeting was not generally known, and inclement weather prevented larger membership. The Sunday-school superintendent very wisely requested the first meeting of the adult auxiliary to be held just after the close of the Sunday-school on the following Sabbath. Home Builders' meeting appointed for Saturday. Seven dollars and eighty-five cents dues was forwarded to the Conference treasurer, Mrs. O. S. Robbins.

MRS. E. D. JONES.

Carlisle, Miss.

L. Grunewald Co., Limited.

The attention of our numerous readers is called to the new advertisement of the Louis Grunewald Company, Limited, in another column of this paper. This is one of the largest as well as one of the most reliable dealers in pianos, organs, musical instruments and music of all kinds. Mr. Louis Grunewald has been in the business in New Orleans for over thirty years, and has accumulated a large fortune by his enterprise and fair dealing. Write or visit the firm if you want anything in their line.

Note from Colporteur Bachman.

I have been working two weeks in Aberdeen and Columbus districts. I visited eight pastoral charges, sold $200 worth of books. Found the preachers in place and at work. Bro. Kendall transfers from the presiding eldership to station work cheerfully, after twenty consecutive years of service in the former. He and Sister Kendall are happy in their parsonage home in West Point, and the people are delighted with them. Bro. J. B. Stone has purchased a residence at Verona, and will continue to live there. Bro. Sage has moved to Starkville. There are five resident Methodist preachers now in that town. Bro. Bowen is busy looking after all the church interests in Aberdeen, of which the publishing interests is one of no little importance with him. The church in Aberdeen is truly alive and growing. Space fails me to itemize more now.

G. W. BACHMAN.

Kosciusko, Miss.

Notice.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing a Conference Woman's Parsonage and Home Mission Society will be held at Jackson, Miss., on Thursday, Feb. 12, 1891. The district secretaries and other Conference officers are requested to attend. Each auxiliary in the Conference is urged to send a delegate. Those who will attend should send their names as soon as possible to Dr. W. C. Black, Jackson, Miss.

ADDIE V. MARSHALL,
Conf. Sec. W. D. Ch. Ex., Miss. Conf.

Brookhaven, Miss., Jan. 23, 1891.

The Carondelet League.

The Epworth League of Carondelet Street M. E. Church, South, which was organized Sunday, Jan. 17, has elected E. P. Mackie, president; J. G. Grant, first vice-president, and J. W. Blackman, secretary. The other officers are being selected by the pastor, Rev. Wm. H. LaPrade, who deems this movement so important, and the selection of proper officers so vital, that he is making haste slowly.

Last Sunday afternoon he organized a "Juvenile Epworth League," composed of those under fifteen years of age, placing this branch under the direction of an Advisory Board of experienced ladies, viz: Mrs. W. H. LaPrade, Mrs. H. W. Spears and Mrs. D. L. Mitchel. Nearly forty children joined this League, and next Sunday they will begin their work.

For severe colds, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment surely excels any remedy we ever used.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

The popular verdict is that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best in the world. 25 cents.

I have had occasion to observe that a warm blundering man does more for the world than a frigid wise man. One who gets into a habit of inquiring about proprieties, and expediencies, and occasions, often spends his whole life without doing anything to purpose.—Cecil.

Carnival Visitors.

A party of ten or twelve can be pleasantly accommodated in a private family in a desirable part of the city. Location easily reached by the five lines of horse cars passing the residence. Apply to Mrs. M. E. Crocker, No. 234 Howard avenue.

Business Notices.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.

LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

THE TRUE MANETTIA VINE

Here shown is the most magnificent flowering vine in cultivation, either for the house or garden, for it is loaded with bloom every day in the year. In the house it can be trained all around a window, and will be a solid wreath of bloom both summer and winter. In the garden, its charming beauty surpasses everything. Flowers, intense scarlet, tipped with yellow, the most brilliant and striking combination, and borne by the thousand, each flower keeping perfect over a month before fading. It is of the easiest culture, and sure to thrive for any one with ordinary care. It can be trained on a trellis, strings, or used for drooping from hanging baskets. In any way a perfect mass of the most lovely flowers and foliage from the root to the tips of the branches. Its great beauty and novelty attract every eye. Supply limited, and this offer will not appear again. Order at once, and if you are not ready for the plants now we will send them later just when you say. PRICE of strong plants, of the true variety, ALREADY BLOOMING, by mail, post-paid, guaranteed to arrive in good order, 50 cents each, two for 50 cents, five for $1. To every order we will add another elegant novelty free.

THE GREAT SPIDER LILY. An elegant large bulb of the Amaryllis family which commences to bloom soon after it is potted, sending up great spikes of lovely, large pure white blossoms of exquisite fragrance and unsurpassed beauty. It is one of the oldest, sweetest, and loveliest flowers grown. Large bulbs which will soon bloom, 25 cents each, three for 50 cents, post paid, or for 50 cents we will send Manettia Vine, Spider Lily, a Superb Seed Novelty and Catalogue.

SEEDS, BULBS, PLANTS, Extra Choice, by Mail Post-paid.

12 Extra choice mixed Gladiolus, flowering bulbs,	25c.	5 Grand Lilies, 5 sorts, including Auratum,	50c.
6 New Double Pearl Tuberoses "	25c.	5 " Cacti, different sorts named,	50c.
5 Rare Chrysanthemums, 5 sorts named,	50c.	20 Bulbs and 10 pkts. Flower Seeds, all different,	50c.

SPECIAL OFFER. The above liberal offers are made to introduce our superior goods. We will send, post-paid, everything offered for only $2.50; Manettia, Spider Lily, Gladiolus, Tuberoses, Chrysanthemums, Lilies, Cacti, Bulbs, Seeds, etc.

OUR BLUE CATALOGUE. SEEDS, BULBS, PLANTS, AND RARE FRUITS, is the finest ever issued. 128 pages, hundreds of elegant engravings, Stipple Lithograph Covers and 5 large colored plates. We offer the finest novelties in Flowers, Vegetables and Fruits, notably: Our great Japanese Wineberry, Floral Park Plums, Butterfly Orchid, Star Phloxes, Water Plants, New Roses, Bulbils, Gladiolus, Chrysanthemums, etc. Also the greatest collection of rare Cacti and Flowering shrubs. This elegant and expensive Catalogue will be sent for only TEN CENTS, which is only a part of its cost to us, or if you order anything here offered and ask for a Catalogue it will be sent FREE. Address

JOHN LEWIS CHILDS, Floral Park, Queens Co., N. Y.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO., L't'd,

18 Baronne and 127 Canal Streets, New Orleans, La.

SOLE AGENTS FOR ALL THE LEADING

PIANOS!

Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Sohmer, Behr, Mehlin, Fischer, Pleyel, Lowest Prices! | Pease, Shoninger, Sterling, etc. | Easiest Terms!

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO. (Limited), New Orleans.

W. H. KRONE.
BUILDER
586 Baronne St., - New Orleans.
Box 71, M., D., and L. Exchange.

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
834 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

My Medical Discovery seldom takes hold of two people alike! Why? Because no two people have the same weak spot. Beginning at the stomach, it goes searching through the body for any hidden humor. Nine times out of ten, inward humor makes the weak spot. Perhaps its only a little sediment left on a nerve or in a gland; the Medical Discovery slides it right along, and you find quick happiness from the first bottle. Perhaps it's a big sediment or open sore, well tottled somewhere, ready to fight. The Medical Discovery begins the fight, and you think it pretty hard, but soon you thank me for making something that has reached your weak spot. Write me if you want to know more about it.

Shepard & Butler,
94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.
BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

Tutt's Pills

This popular remedy never fails to effectually cure

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness

And all diseases arising from a Torpid Liver and Bad Digestion.

The natural result is good appetite and solid flesh. Dose small; elegantly sugar coated and easy to swallow.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

If this Advertisement is sent to us, with one dollar, we will send the Musical Visitor to any address for one year. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

—PUBLISHED BY—

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 200 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

MUNN & CO. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN AGENCY for PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO. 361 Broadway, New York.

SUMMER OFFER

PIANOS ORGANS

SUMMER SALE 1890

Buy in August, September, or October and pay when crops are sold. Spot Cash Prices. The Lowest known. Just a little cash down, balance December 15th. No Interest. Our entire stock—any make—price or style. BEST Summer offer we ever made.

Write for Circular—SUMMER OFFER 1890

LUDDEN & BATES, SAVANNAH, GA.

BAILEY'S Compound light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass REFLECTORS A wonderful invention for lighting Halls, Churches, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.

For Electric Lighter Gas — For Oil

Handsome designs. BAILEY REFLECTOR CO. 706 Penn Ave. Pittsburgh, Pa.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Best and new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Be sure to send circulars and prices free. Address DeKALB FENCE MFG., Midgeville, Ind.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, Mf'r, Nashville, Tenn. No. 8 Noel —FOR— Catalogue.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-Basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIFTON, Jr., Fruit Lands, Tenn.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, Couche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. Blossle & Co., Dalton, Ga.

25,000 SOLD

For introduction we will sell the Ladies' Friend Washer at once where there are no agents. Ten days trial. Agents make $5 to $10 per DAY. FREE to you if it does not excel in quality and quantity of work. Circulars free. D. L. BATES & BRO., DAYTON, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue and Price Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS TO BLYMYER BELLS TO THE BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS.

BELLS CHURCH SCHOOL FIRE ALARM

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1 at Druggists.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails. Send us your address, we will mail trial FREE WITH TESTIMONIALS. DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

Our Young People.

THE GIANT WHO WANTED TO WORK.

BY S. E. EASTMAN.

In a little Scotch kitchen, with rafters above,
And the wide open fireplace that grandmothers love,
The kettle was making a terrible din,
Would you guess that a giant was prisoned within?

No one knew what he said; no one heeded the noise;
People don't when they live in a house full of boys.
And, with grandma asleep, and James on the settle,
Small wonder they heard not the voice in the kettle.

"I'm a giant imprisoned!" the cry came again.
"I have strength for the work of a million of men.
Your ships I will carry; your carriages draw
(Jamie looked in surprise, but no giant he saw).

"I can print all your books, and your cloth I could weave;
Your grain I will grind, if you'll but give me leave:
Great weights I can lift, as you quickly will see,
Only give me more room. Come, my lad, set me free."

Just then grandma awoke, and she cried; "Lazy thing,
Have you nothing to do but hear the kettle sing?"
But he answered her gently, and told her his plan—
More room for the giant to do all he can.

Just a dream? No, indeed! You will own it was not,
When I tell you the name of the lad that James Watt.
'Twas the giant who's working for you and for me;
Aren't your glad that he listened, and then set him free?

Mr. Editor: I am a little girl thirteen years old. This is my first letter to the dear Advocate. I am a member of the church; have been for two years. I do not go to Sunday-school. I wish I did. I love to go so well. Bro. N. J. Roberts is our pastor. We like him so much. Papa takes the Advocate. I like to read it so much; it is always a pleasant visitor,

Your little friend,

Della Clark.

Oakley, Miss.

Slate Pencils.

Some one has picked up the following interesting facts about this useful little school friend:

As you nibble your slate pencil over a perplexing example, (a very bad habit, by the way), do you ever think how much labor it has cost? The stone, as it comes from the quarry, is first sawed into blocks from four to seven inches wide, according to the length desired for the pencils. These are split quite easily with a chisel into slabs a little thicker than the finished pencils—say five-sixteenths of an inch. These are passed through a planing machine and over an emery belt to make them flat, smooth, and of a uniform thickness of about three-sixteenths of an inch.

Next day they are pushed into the jaws of a "crocodile," which consists of a pair of steel plates, in the under one of which are six rows of curved knives, each set so as to cut a little deeper than the one that went before it. These plough out parallel grooves halfway through the slab, which a man then turns and lays on a steel plate having ridges which just fit these grooves. This slides back under the six rows of teeth of a second "crocodile" lying in wait alongside, which cut the grooves on the other side, and leaves the pencils side by side. Lastly, they are broken off and rolled an instant upon an emery belt to point them. A man can give this last touch to about eight thousand in a day.

The average daily output is about thirty thousand, and the mill gives employment to some twenty-five hands. The old plan was to saw out square pencils from the slab one by one. These were boxed and distributed among poor families, who whittled them round by hand at from a quarter to a half-dollar per thousand.—Youth's Companion.

Never Sorry.—Not long ago the writer asked a class of small boys in Sunday-school what was their idea of heaven. It was curious to note how their replies were influenced by their own circumstances in this life. A ragged little urchin, who had been born and brought up in a squalid city street, said it was tall grass and green trees. One from the richer quarter of Boston said it was like a big, broad avenue, with tall houses on each side. A sweet-voiced Episcopal choir-boy was of the opinion that people would sing a good deal in heaven. The last member of the class, a quiet, thoughtful boy, though one of the smallest in the class, answered, just as the bell was ringing for the close of school hours, "A place where—where—you're never sorry."—Our Sunday Afternoon.

Doing Errands for Christ.

"Mama," said a little five-year-old boy, "I wish Jesus lived on earth now."

"Why, my darling?"

"Because I should have liked so much to have done something for him."

"But what could such a little bit of a fellow as you are have done for the Savior?"

The child hesitated a few moments, then looked up in his mother's face and said: "Why, mother, I could have run on all his errands for him."

"So you could, my child, and so you shall. Here is a glass of jelly and some oranges I was going to send to poor old sick Margaret by the servant, but I will let you take them instead, and do an errand for the Savior; for when upon earth he said, 'Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me.'"

So remember, children, whenever you do any kind act for anybody because you love Jesus, it is just the same as if the Savior were now living on the earth, and you were doing it for him.—The Illustrator.

Tom's Gold Dust.—"That boy knows how to take care of his gold dust," said Tom's uncle often to himself, and sometimes aloud. Tom went to college, and every account they heard of him he was going ahead, laying a solid foundation for the future. "Certainly," said his uncle, "certainly; that boy, I tell you, knows how to take care of his gold dust."

Gold dust! Where did Tom get gold dust? He was a poor boy. He had not been to California. He never was a miner. When did he get gold dust?

Ah! he has seconds and minutes, and these are the gold dust of time, specks and particles of time which boys and girls and grown-up people are apt to waste and throw away. Tom knew their value. His father had taught him that every speck and particle of time was worth its weight in gold, and his son took care of them as if they were. Take care of your gold dust.—Young Reaper.

Light Hearts and Plenty Money.

Mr. Editor: I have just completed my first week's work with my Plating Machine and have $12 profit as a reward. I am charmed with the business; the work is easy and profits large. I bought my Plater from W. H. Griffith & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, for $3, and I feel confident if people only knew how cheaply they would get a Plater and how much money they could make with it, we would see many happy homes, "where penury now exists." It is surprising the amount of tableware and jewelry people want plated, and if persons now idle would send to the above address and get a circular, and go to work, they would soon have light hearts and plenty money.

Mrs. J. C. Noble.

I Wonder.—I wonder if there would be less work to do if Edward should hang up his hat, instead of leaving it for Mary! If Mary should carry her shawl with her to the carriage, instead of asking Edward to step back for it! If Anna could bring her book downstairs, instead of asking Alice to turn back to get it! Or if Alice did not say: "Please, Anna, run, turn off the gas; I forgot it!" If Frank had brought the dipper from the field, instead of sending little Ben (because he was only a boy) for it. If Lucy when she left the piano had shut it, instead of mother having to do it when bedtime came. If Alfred always closed the door after him, instead of wife having to get up!

I remember how willing we are to do these little things for each other—but—I just wonder!—Santa Claus.

EVERY Housewife
EVERY Counting Room
EVERY Carriage Owner
EVERY Thrifty Mechanic
EVERY Body able to hold a brush

SHOULD USE DIK-RON TRY IT.

PAINT THAT ONE CAN SEE THROUGH.

Will Stain Old & New Furniture
Will Stain Glass and Chinaware
Will Stain Tinware
Will Stain Your Old Baskets
Will Stain Baby's Coach

and Varnish at the same time.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

Household.

A Historic Figure Fading.

"The colored cook is fast passing away, and will soon become a lost art, so to speak. The kind hearted and reliable old 'auntie' of the past is already gone, and her successor, the 'colored girl,' is fast going—to school and the cotton patch. The 'white help' have not yet arrived, but they are surely coming, and so there is no other remedy in sight, but self-reliance and self-independence."—Covington Star.

In this fast age the "old auntie is a relic of the past," the "girl" is becoming "a lady," and the lady "a woman," but bless the woman who can manage her household affairs independent of the dictates of insolent and unreliable cooks. The white help will arrive when it will be considered as respectable to fill a position in a home as it to eke out a bare living in many departments attended with no less drudgery. Bless the noble-hearted woman—there is nothing shoddy or un-American in the name—the woman equal to every emergency, whose efforts are directed to the brightening of her home with love and the little attentions that fill life with cheerfulness. It is a grand thing to be a woman in anything.—Caucasian.

The Guest Chamber.—If the guest chamber be arranged with care before the arrival of the temporary occupants, it gives them a feeling of being expected, and thus adds much to their welcome. If the day is at all chilly, a bright fire, blazing on the hearth, is most welcome. And the closet-room should be free from incumbrance and ample.

It is a nice thing to provide every guest chamber with conveniences for writing a letter. And all such matters as toilet conveniences, particularly the bath, should have the personal attention of the housekeeper, lest the servant be in some way amiss, and thus cause discomfort where an easy hospitality was intended.

The bathing utensils should be clean, with fresh soap and plenty of clean towels provided.

Sometimes, when many guests are expected and the rooms are likely to be very full, it is well to set aside one room for a general sitting-room and a large closet for a cloak-room. If care be taken sufficiently early, this room can be the lady's own room; her own effects, finding a temporary resting-place in some out-of-the-way corner, and for the daytime, at least, be free for the entertainment of her guests.—Christian at Work.

A Home without Religion.—Can it be home, a child's home, without religion? It may be a house, beautiful, enriched with art, knowledge and music; but without religion, without thoughts about God, without prayer, penitence, sweet Sabbath, faith, love, and the seeking after a life of holiness—it can not be a home. This needs no argument. It needs much emphatic repetition, and it needs deep belief. All children are naturally religious. They have wonder, awe, reverence, trust, tenderness, the keenest sense of sin and love. No "learning" comes so naturally to a child as the learning of God. The talk of children about God is as the talk of wise men. There must be religion if there is to be a home. We who are asking that all education shall be religious are, of all people, bound to see that our children find their first faith, their first prayer, their first thought of God at home. When the schoolmaster gets our boys he ought to find that there is one elementary thing in their education well begun—religion. To send a boy or a girl into the "new world" of a school without prayer, faith, love, reverence, and some experience towards God, is to send those most precious to us into their first day in the world and in life as unfitted for that world and for that life as a heathen child.—Rev. G. S. Reaney.

Ask your friends who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor. Truly, the best advertising which Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends.

So long as thou art ignorant, be not ashamed to learn: he that is so fondly modest not to acknowledge his own defects of knowledge shall in time be so foully impudent to justify his own ignorance. Ignorance is the greatest of all infirmities, and, justified, the chiefest of all follies.—Quarles.

Scientific.

Paperopathy.

Experience has taught us that many of the small ills of the flesh can be prevented or cured by the timely aid of applied paper. Whenever there is a sudden pain or obstinate ache—stiff neck, a stitch in the side, a crick in the back, a "catch," or rawness in the chest, or a neuralgic twinge in the shoulder, we have got into the habit of pinning over the affected part, between the clothing, a few layers of soft paper. Any sort of paper will do, so that it be whole—sugar paper, writing paper, newspaper, manila paper, or even a bank note, if that be the kind most convenient; but the softer and tougher kinds will be found most durable and comfortable.

More readily procured than hot flannel, a mustard draft, or flaxseed poultice, paper is quite as good a remedy as these and much more available as a preventive. "Grandma" used to have an attack of dysentery every summer in spite of all caution and many sacrifices on her part; but after she was treated with this recently discovered opathy she passed several seasons without a physician's care. When the first symptoms declared themselves we would fold two or three newspapers lengthwise and wrap them about the abdomen over a soft flannel; keep her quiet (most of the time in bed) for a day or two, and with very little "doctoring," and that of the simplest kind, the danger was past.

Our paperopathy has the advantages of being "handy," easily applied, and not subject to disturbing changes. Its lightness as well as its local warmth is conducive to repose and restfulness in oppressive weather, and we believe it retains the electrical equilibrium of the body more perfectly than any other methods of heating affected portions. When the paper has been worn a day or two it should be removed gradually or allowed to wear off.

Baby during her second summer, and when teething, never had so much as one day of illness, nor lost an hour's play. When the infant's enemies assailed her, several wrappings of paper warded off the blows in her case as in grandma's.

Caught away from home in a sudden fall of the thermometer, or out without protection at a time of unlooked-for dampness, a paper or two worn as an invisible shield and buckler will be found worth many times its weight in gold; and in numerous exigencies a few scraps of paper may save a heavy discount to health and purse. A friend attacked at midnight with cholera morbus was hastily encased in newspapers while a fire was being built, and the new system so completely took the place of hot applications that the fire was not needed after all.

Paper has been recommended to one subject to pleurisy, with comforting results. Coarse strawpaper wet with vinegar is excellent for a sprain. A neighbor's son came in awhile after school one wintry afternoon with an eye and cheek swollen and purple from a playful but forcible meeting with a snowball.

"Put sugar-paper—wet with either hot or cold water—closely over the bruised flesh and lie down for an hour," was the advice given as he departed looking like anything but a model young man. In an hour and a half he returned, and we all conversed with him several minutes unmindful of his mishap; and it took his laughing sentence, "Well, I guess you've forgotten that I came in here awhile ago with a very black eye," to remind us of it.

Those who reside at a distance from a physician will be tempted to test paperopathy; and having done so, they will often have cause to bless the unknown friend who first suggested so simple a home-system of relief for every-day ailments.—Jessie MacGregor, in the Christian at Work.

It is a great misfortune for the young and middle-aged to be gray. To overcome this and appear young, use Hall's Hair Renewer, a reliable panacea.

The mind, by a sort of natural magic, raises the ghost of a departed pleasure, and makes it appear without any dependence upon space or time. This almost omnipresence of an advantage is a circumstance of value; it gives opportunity for use and repetition, and makes it so much the more one's own.—Robert Hall.

For speedy relief and cure of neuralgia and rheumatism use Salvation Oil. 25 cents.

Nothing On Earth Will MAKE HENS LAY LIKE Sheridan's Condition Powder!

It is absolutely pure. Highly concentrated. In quantity it costs less than a tenth of a cent a day. Strictly a medicine. Prevents and cures all diseases of fowls and chicks. Worth more than gold when hens Moult. "One large can saved me $40, send six for $5 to prevent roup," says a customer. If you can't get it send us 50 cents for two packs; five $1. A 2 1-2 pound can $1.20 post-paid; 6 cans $5, express paid. "THE BEST POULTRY PAPER," sample copy free. Poultry Raising Guide free with $1 orders or more. I. S. JOHNSON & Co., Boston, Mass.

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

199, 201, 203, 205, 207 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

Branch Office: No. 52 Carondelet St.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal" of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1.50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

Most Worthy Books for PURCHASE.

CHOICE AND POPULAR AI TO SONGS. 33 songs—each one a gem. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

THE SONGS OF IRELAND. A new and carefully revised collection of the best and most celebrated Irish songs. Some of the best melodies in existence, and bright, spirited words. 66 songs. Price, $1 in heavy paper, $1.25 in boards, and $2 in gilt binding.

CHOICE SONG COLLECTIONS.

Song Classics, Vol 1,	50	songs.
Song Classics, Vol. 2,	39	"
Song Classics, Low Voices,	47	"
Choice Sacred Solos,	34	"
Choice Sacred Solos, Low V'ce,	40	"
Classic, Baritone and Bass,	33	"
Classic Tenor Songs,	36	"
Good Old Songs We Used to Sing,	115	"

CHOICE PIANO COLLECTIONS.

Piano Classics Vol. 1,	44	pieces.
Piano Classics, Vol. 2,	31	"
Classical Pianist,	42	"
Popular Dance Collection,	66	"
Popular Piano Collection,	66	"
Operatic Piano Collection,	19	operas.

Price of Each Book, $1. Cloth, Gilt, $2. All are Valuable Collections of the Best Music.

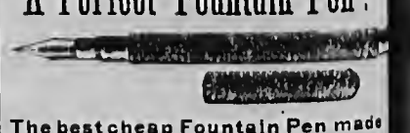
Churchill's BIRTHDAY BOOK of Eminent Composers. A handsome and useful book, $1.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. Ditson & Co., 867 Broadway, New York City

A Perfect Fountain Pen!



The best cheap Fountain Pen made

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens and Stylographic Pens, from $1 50 to $3.50 each. Holders and ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. Van Valkenburgh,

106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a Specialty of all the Millinery Novelties of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 842, 844, 846 and 848 Howard Ave.

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

Marriages.

WARDLOW—YARBROUGH.—In the Methodist Church, Como, Miss., Jan. 15, 1891, by Rev. J. M. Wyatt, Mr. J. B. Wardlow to Miss May B. Yarbrough, both of Como.

ROBERTS—SAUNDERSON.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Rankin county, Miss., Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. Isaac L. Peebles, Mr. J. S. Roberts to Miss Florence Saunderson.

HENDERSON—HOWARD.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Oscar Howard, in Claiborne county, Miss., Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. N. J. Roberts, Mr. G. R. Henderson and Miss May Bell Howard.

HUNT—MONTEZUDO.—At the Presbyterian Church, Zachary, La., Jan. 7, 1891, by Rev. R. W. Tucker, Mr. Samuel Hunt to Miss Alma Montezudo.

WARWICK—WARWICK.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Estes Mills, Leake county, Miss., Jan. 15, 1891, by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. C. L. Warwick, deputy sheriff of Leake county, to Miss E. V. Warwick.

BINNS—JEFFRIES.—In the Methodist Church, Barnett, Miss., Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. B. S. Rayner, Mr. G. E. Binns, of Lauderdale, Miss., to Miss Amelia Jeffries, of Barnett, Miss.

WESSON—POINTER.—In the Methodist Church, Como, Miss., Jan. 8, 1891, by Rev. J. M. Wyatt, Mr. M. W. Wesson to Miss Annie Pointer, both of Como.

MOBLEY—BLEDSOE.—At the residence of the bride's father, Dec. 25, by Rev. J. H. Brooks, Mr. John W. Mobley to Miss Mary F. Bledsoe, of Tate county, Miss.

MEADS—STEVENS.—At the residence of Mrs. Jane Handy, Vicksburg, Miss., Jan. 19, 1891, by Rev. F. M. Keen, Mr. Edward Meads and Miss Lizzie Stevens.

FORBUS—DAVIS.—At the Methodist Church, Madisonville, June 23, 1890, by Rev. R. W. Tucker, Mr. Willie Forbus to Miss Birdie Davis.

SMITH—HUNTER.—At the Methodist Church, Madisonville, Dec. 25, 1890, by Rev. R. W. Tucker, Mr. Robt. L. Smith to Miss Hunter.

SPIVY—HARRIS.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Sharon, Dec. 28, 1890, by Rev. R. W. Tucker, Mr. Reginald Spivy to Mrs. Kate Harris.

RAVENPORT—ALLEN.—At the residence of the bride's father, Walley, Bossier parish, La., Jan. 16, 1891, by Rev. Lewis A. Reed, Mr. W. A. Davenport to Miss Ella Allen.

FARLEY—SHARP.—In the Methodist Church, Gainesville, Miss., Nov. 19, 1890, at 7:30 P. M., by Rev. J. G. Sibley, Mr. S. G. Farley, of Gainesville, Miss., to Miss Mary Sharp, of New Orleans, La.

HOLLEMAN—LEE.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Nicholson, Miss., Jan. 15, 1891, by Rev. J. G. Sibley, Mr. Isaac Holleman to Miss Malissa Lee.

DAWSON—DAVIS.—At the residence of Miss L. M. Dawson, East Feliciana parish, Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. D. W. McLean, Mr. S. B. Dawson and Miss Lillian May Davis.

HORN—BURROW.—In the Methodist Church, Nov. 18, by Rev. J. H. Brooks, Dr. Elwin Booker Horn to Miss Callie Brooks Burrow, all of Byhalia, Miss.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

PEAVY—Mrs. SALLIE A. PEAVY, wife of the Rev. Jno. W. Peavy, was born in Union district, South Carolina, Jan. 12, 1842, and died in Lowndes county, near Columbus, Miss., Dec. 12, 1890. She moved with her parents to this State about the year 1852; was converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, at Pleasant Grove, Monroe county, Miss., in 1863; and soon thereafter, June 9, 1863, was married by Rev. J. B. Stone, then of the Alabama Conference, to the Rev. Jno. W. Peavy, her pastor, under whose ministry she had but recently been converted.

She had for many years been a consistent member of our church at Andrews Chapel, Columbus circuit, Miss., from which her influence and godly example will be greatly missed. Wholly uncompromising in her disposition and devotion to truth, she believed in meeting squarely every issue between right and wrong. She would often say the church was too lenient with offenders against its laws, and insist on her pastors rigidly enforcing the Discipline. Her idea of duty was that the life of a Christian should in every particular correspond with his profession. She had no compromise whatever to make with sin.

Sister Peavy was mother of three children—two boys and one girl. One son has crossed over before her; the other two children, John and Luella, still survive her, and are both members of our church, consistently walking in the footprints of her noble example.

For many years Sister Peavy has been a great, but patient, sufferer. Such Christian fortitude is but rarely witnessed in this life. Many times I have visited her, finding her afflicted and bed-ridden, and from her facial expressions could see she was in great pain, but have never heard fall from her lips one word or expression of complaint. I shall never forget my last conversation with her. She was suffering intensely, and seemed to realize that the end was near; but, as she took me by the hand in that last farewell, the heavenly expression that played over her face, and the perfect Christian resignation with which she said, "Pray for me," impressed me that there was a deep, inward consciousness of her acceptance with God, and a perfect submission of her will to his will. She was not only ready, but willing to depart, for she was frequently heard to say, "I am not afraid to die."

In the last moments of her struggle here, as she "walked through the valley of the shadow of death," the vail between the earthly and the heavenly, the seen and the unseen, was lifted, and she looked out upon the faces of the friends and loved ones who had gone before, and exclaimed with her latest breath, "Mother! mother! mother!" The angels and loved ones had come to take her home forever. She had lived like a Christian, suffered like a Christian, and she died like a Christian. May the sorrowing friends and relatives who followed her to the grave follow her also to the better, happy land!

F. P. SPENCER, P. C.

Alabama Advocate will please copy.

BOWMAN—Mrs. MARY E. RICHARDSON BOWMAN died in Morehouse parish, La., Dec. 26, 1890, aged seventy-eight years and four months. She was born in Wilkinson county, near Woodville, Miss., and was the second daughter of Col. John G. Richardson. She was mainly educated at Elizabeth Academy, Adams county, Miss. In 1835 she married to Ira Bowman, and lived for many years near Clinton, La., where their two children were born; then in Tensas parish, where she was left a widow in 1855, after which she lived with her eldest daughter, Mrs. Dorsey, in Morehouse parish.

Here this record might close, for her obituary is written on the hearts of all who knew her. Few have left a better record behind them from girlhood to the grave. She felt it to be her mission on earth to help dry up its sorrows and wipe away its tears. If in her efforts sometimes to do good she made the troubles of others too much her own, none doubted but that heart was all right. In Clinton, Tensas, and Morehouse she will long be remembered as a beautiful pillar in the church. "Concerning giving," she only lacked opportunity. Abounding in wealth, or in poverty's vale, it was all the same to her, and never did the widow's mite go further in doing good. Now that she has left us, what a multitude rise up to call her blessed! We recall her last Sabbath in her church at Oak Ridge, and see her wasted form, still lovely in decay, nestled in her Sunday-school class, and then her short, earnest prayer at the closing was a benediction to us all. A short time before her death she attended our Conference in Monroe with her twin brother, and greatly enjoyed meeting so many friends of other days and their descendants.

The closing came two weeks after her return home. It found her where she had long been, ready and waiting. Loving watchers were around her: daughter, grand and great-grandchildren. The end had come. The feet ever ready to run on errands of mercy could move no more. The hands which knew no rest or weariness when toiling for others were folded across her faithful breast. "Though I walk through the valley and shadow of death I fear no evil." All was over with the expiring words. What a life to live! what a death to die!

F. D. R.

Notice as to Changes.

Subscribers whose postoffice is changed will confer a favor if they will advise the business manager as to where their paper is changed from, as well as to their postoffice changed to, as early as possible, in order that our mail lists for 1891 may be correct.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant, treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

CHRIST IN ALL THINGS.—A German writer says: Look where you will, you will see scarcely anything beautiful and grand and lovely, which does not suggest the name of the Lord Jesus. Do you see the sun by day? Christ is the sun of righteousness. Do you gaze into the starry heavens by night? It is said of Christ, "A star shall arise out of Jacob." Do you see the morning star? It is said of him, "He is the bright and morning star." Is it noonday, when all things are bathed in a flood of light? Does not the gospel of John say of him, "That was the true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world?" Look around, and observe the creatures in the field. There is a sheep feeding. Is it not said of Christ, "He was like a sheep dumb before its shearers." Or a lamb. Is not he the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world? Do you see a shepherd? Christ says, "I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep and am known of mine." Do you come upon fountains, or streams, or great bodies of water? He is "a fountain opened for sin and uncleanness." Do you see a lovely tree loaded with fruit? He is the tree of life. Do you see a rose or a lily, or any charming flower? He is the "rose of Sharon and the lily of the valley." Do you array yourself in your own apparel? It comes again, he is a garment. "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ."

Health Resorts.

"Pyrhus was counselled to take the repose he was about to seek with so much fatigue." He must have had wise counsellors. And would it not be well for many in our day to take the counsel to themselves? For example, those not only, who seek repose from the cares and worries of business, but also, and more especially, those who go abroad to seek health, "with so much fatigue." A tour of one's own city or neighborhood will often afford more pleasure and recreation than one has ever dreamed of. How many are there in any of our large cities who have seen all the objects of interest. It is only strangers who do so. While enjoying home comforts, so necessary to the invalid, and making yourself acquainted with the attractions of your own neighborhood, try the Home Treatment of DRS. STARKEY & PALEN. If you wish further information, and to examine the testimonials of many who have tried it, write for our brochure, sent free. It is a book of 200 pages, giving a full account of Compound Oxygen, its nature, discovery and results. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St. Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

1888 1889 1877 1883 1884 1880 1881 1890 1886 1885 1879 1882 1887 1878

See it grow! You won't have to look back far. 1877 was the year when Pearline started in to take charge of washing and cleaning. It was a new idea; people didn't know about it; when they did find out, they were afraid of it.

But look at it now. Every year has been a big advance on the year before—and 1890 a bigger advance than ever. It's the biggest year, against the biggest opposition—smooth-tongued peddlers to fight against, cheap prices and poor quality, prize packages, imitations of all sorts. But Pearline started ahead and has kept there—and now it's farther ahead than ever. A poor thing can't grow like this. A dangerous thing can't. Find out for yourself why Pearline grows. Ask about it of some one who is using it.

Beware of peddlers and imitations. 383 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS, WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE, A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,
General Insurance Agency,
37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,
INSURANCE AGENTS,
No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans.
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIA, THOS. SEFTON

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

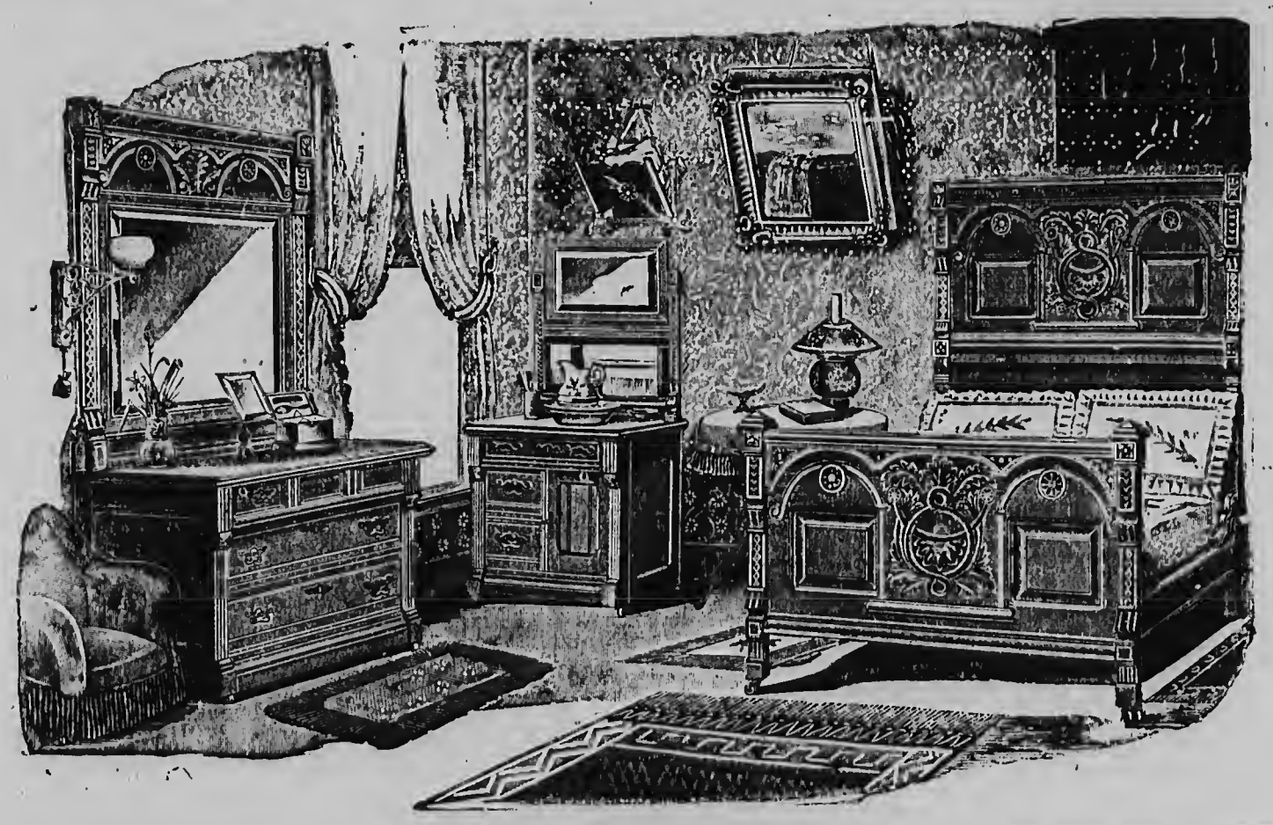
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.
I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Valours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK
in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES
are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.
A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.
I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,
28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.
Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Meridian cir., at Sageville	31, Feb.	1
Manassas cir., at Energy		7, 8
Vossburg cir., at Vossburg	(Wed.)	11
DeKalb cir., at DeKalb		14, 15
Porterville cir		21, 22
Meridian, at West End	(Hours.)	26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar.	1
Meridian, at East End	28,	1
Hale ville sta	(Fri.)	6
Inwood cir., at Bethel		7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon		14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion		21, 22
Hillsville and Wahalak		28, 29

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester next year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Estabuchie, at Hebron	31,	Feb. 1
Williamsburg, at Lindsey	(Mon.)	2
Hattiesburg, at Hattiesburg		7, 8
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis		14, 15
Ocean Springs and O. Spring	(Tue., W.)	17, 18
Pearlington, at Pearlington		21, 22
Perry, at Isabella	28,	Mar. 1
Amerieus, at Casswell Springs		7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point	(night)	8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove	(W., Th.)	11, 12
Whittington, at Whittington		14, 15
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	Mar.	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia		28, 29

District stewards will please meet me in Hattiesburg, Feb. 4, at ten A. M.

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Beauregard, at Matthews	(Sat.) Jan,	31
Wesson sta	Feb,	1, 2
Brookhaven cir., at Adams	(Tues.)	8
McComb, at Tepisaw		7, 8
Crystal Springs sta		14, 15
Hazlehurst sta		21, 22
Bowerton, at Brandywine	28,	Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon	(Mon.)	2
Crystal Springs cir. at Tabernacle		7, 8
China Grove, at Waterholes		14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton	(Tues.)	15
Caseyville, at Bethesda		21, 22
Providence, at Bahala		28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lake, at Lake	31,	Feb. 1
Rose Hill, at Rose Hill		7, 8
Newton and Hickory, at Hickory		8, 9
Westville, at Pleasant Hill		14, 15
Shiloh, at Cato		21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28,	Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove		1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence		3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove		7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron		10
Marvin, at Marvin		14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's		21, 22
Raleigh, at Tinnilly		28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton		29, 30

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Mayersville, at Rehobeth	Feb.	1, 2
Warren, at Oak Ridge		7, 8
Rolling Fork, at Carey		15, 16
Rocky Springs, at Hermonville		21, 22
Hurlonton, at Pisgah	(Mon.)	23
Utica, at Utica	(Wed.)	25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28,	Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's		7, 8
Vicksburg		14, 15
South Vicksburg		14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence		21, 23

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

East Feliciana, at Independence	31,	Feb. 1
St. Helena, at McLean's Chapel		7, 8
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water		14, 15
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent		17
Live Oak		19
Zachary, at Zachary		21, 22
Jackson station		25
Clinton and Retreville, at Clinton	28,	Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington		7, 8
Taunbeck, at Fitzgerald		9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon		14, 15
Amite City, at Amite City		19
Springfield, at Killian Chapel		21, 22

C. McDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Mt. Olivet, at Fletcher	31,	Feb. 1
Bentonia and Dover, at Bentonia		7, 8
Yazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel		14, 15
Yazoo City station, Sun. night, Mon.		15, 16
Benton, at Bowman's		21, 22
Edwards station	28,	Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi, at Lodi		7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City		14, 15
Canton station		21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge		28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Red Banks	31,	Feb. 1
Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove		7, 8
Early Grove, at Sylvestria		15, 16
Ashland		22, 23
Olive Branch	28,	Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony		7, 8
Pine Mountain		15, 16
Mount Pleasant		22, 23

JNO. W. BOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Prairie, at Muldon	31,	Feb. 1
Nettleton at Union		7, 8
Saltillo, at Mooresville		14, 15
Smithville and Fulton, at Greenbriar		21, 22
Aberdeen		Mar. 1, 2
Fremont at New Salem		7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista		14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tramuel		21, 22
Athens, at New Hope		28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley		Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer		11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship		13

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lewisburg	(Sat. and Sun.)	31, Feb. 1
Cold Water and Hernando	(Sat. Sun.)	7, 8
Arkabutla	(Thurs.)	12
Pleasant Grove	(Sat. and Sun.)	14, 15
Coc rum	(Thurs.)	19
Courtland	(Sat. and Sun.)	21, 22
Horn Lake	(Thurs.)	26
Chulahoma	(Sat. and Sun.)	28, Mar. 1
Mt. Vernon	(Sat. and Sun.)	7, 8

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Pleasant Ridge circuit, at New Hope	31,	Feb. 1
Corinth circuit, at Mt. Carmel		5
Blackland circuit, at Wesley Chapel		7, 8
Blue Springs circuit, at Blue Springs		14, 15
Jonesboro circuit, at Ebenezer		19
Ripley and New Albany, at Ripley		21, 22
Guatowo circuit, at Guatowo	28,	Mar. 1
Ripley circuit, at Paine's Chapel		5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove		7, 8

W. S. LAGRONE, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Grenada	Feb.	1
Charleston		7, 8
Tillatoba		14, 15
Coffeeville		21, 22
Oxford	Mar.	1
Tocopola	(Tues.)	3
Abbeville		7, 8
Water Valley cir.	(Fri.)	18
Banner		14, 15
Carrollton		21, 22
Chapel Hill		25
Grenada cir.		28, 29
Atlanta	Apr.	4, 5
Cherry Hill	(Wed.)	8
Pittsboro		11, 12

J. W. PEICE, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Australia	Feb.	1, 2
Friar's Point		7, 8
Lula		14, 15
Jonestown		21, 22
Relen	Mar.	1, 2
Bolivar		7, 8
Avon		14, 15
Scabooma		21, 22
Dublin		28, 29
Lebrion	Apr.	4, 5

R. M STANDEVER, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Richland cir.	31,	Feb. 1
Ebenezer		7, 8
Newport		11
Weir		15
Ethel		15, 16
West		21, 22
Rural Hill		24
Lexington	28,	Mar. 1
Black Hawk		7, 8

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Brooksville, at Brooksville	31,	Feb. 1
Starkville circuit, at Smyrna	(Thu.)	5
Tampico circuit, at Silvan		7, 8
Pattsburg circuit, at Center Ridge		13
Lendsville circuit, at Louisville		14, 15
Sturges circuit, at Bethel		20
Chester circuit, at Chester		21, 22
Maben circuit, at Maben		27
Walthall circuit, at Walthall	28,	Mar. 1

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

The only reliable vegetable substitute for calomel, which acts on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach, and best anti-bilious purgative is Maguire's Cundurango. Endorsed by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia; Rev. McNally, of St. Louis, and a host of prominent people.

Terrific snow storms have prevailed recently throughout the southeastern portion of Russia. Deep drifts have been formed in many localities, and as a result whole villages and numbers of isolated houses have been almost buried in snow. The railroad tracks are entirely useless from the piles of snow resting upon them, and the only means of communication between the villages and towns is by sleighs.

In the German Reichstag a motion was made to repeal the prohibition of the importation of American pork. After some discussion the motion was put to a vote and was defeated by 133 to 103.

THE

Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

EIGHTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

In conformity with the requirements of its charter, the company publishes the following statement of its business for the year ending the 31st day of December, 1890:

Premiums received—
On fire risks	$484,476 76
On river risks	20,208 32
On marine risks	10,495 59
		$515,180 17
Add—
Unearned premiums of 1889		114,588 32
Total premiums		$629,768 49
Add—
Interest and profit and loss		19,211 53
Total income		$648,080 02
Deduct: Losses paid—
On fire risks	$192,120 62
On river risks	1,654 72
On marine risks	2,286 74
Total losses paid	$196,062 28
Return premiums and cancellations	56,833 23
Commissions	78,131 15
Reinsurances	36,700 84
Taxes and licenses	9,964 40
Expenses—Home office and agencies, salaries, Fire Underwriters' Association, Salvage Corps and Babcock engines, rent, advertising, etc.	42,172 01
Total disbursements		$419,668 91
Surplus		$229,316 11

Of which—

Reserved for unexpired risks	$133,231 10
Reserved for adjusted and unadjusted losses	41,982 31
Net profit	54,102 70
	$229,316 11

ASSETS

(At their market values).

Cash on hand, to wit:
In banks	$87,368 97
In office	4,228 46	$ 91,597 43
$100,000 City of New Orleans consolidated bonds (Crossman issue)		105,000 00
$120,000 City of New Orleans premium bonds (including drawn numbers)		188,400 00
$25,000 United States 4 per cent. coupon bonds		30,000 00
$30,000 Louisiana 4 per cent. bonds		27,600 00
Demand loans secured by collaterals		47,610 00
One share N. O. Board of Trade stock		20 00
One share La. Sugar Exchange stock		150 00
25 shares N. O. Warehouse Co.		525 00
One share French Opera House Co.		200 00
One bond St. Bernard Steam Fire Engine Co.		50 00
Premiums in course of collection		66,195 68
Furniture and fixtures, safe, etc.		2,000 00
		$559,348 11

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock	$300,000 00
Reserve fund	40,000 00
Dividends unpaid	2,032 00
Reserved for unexpired risks	133,231 10
Reserved for adjusted and unadjusted losses	41,982 31
Balance (exclusive dividend July, 1890)	42,102 70
	$559,348 11

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the company.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President.
SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this day, New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1891.

M. T. DUCROS, Notary Public, 138 Gravier street.

We, the undersigned, members of the Finance Committee of the Southern Insurance Company of New Orleans, hereby certify that we have carefully examined the assets of the company, and that the above is a correct statement of the same.

J. H. MENGE,
FRANK RODER,
THOS. J. WOODWARD,
F. G. ERNST.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of this company, held this day, it was unanimously resolved to pay to the stockholders, on demand, the regular semi-annual interest dividend of FOUR PER CENT., and to place $20,000 to the reserve fund, making $60,000 to the credit of said fund.

SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1891.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The postoffice department has offered a reward of $1,000 each for the apprehension of the fifteen bandits who recently robbed a train on the railroad between Brownsville and Point Isabel, Tex.

King Kalakaua, late ruler of the Sandwich Islands, died while on a visit to this country, and, after funeral services in the Trinity Episcopal Church, San Francisco, last week, his remains were conveyed to the U. S. ship Charleston, and will be taken to the kingdom.

It is said that Congress is to be asked to make an appropriation for African colonization. Some prominent negroes, who are not politicians, regard the colonization idea with considerable favor, especially preachers, who desire to send out educated negroes to the Dark Continent.

In the joint Democratic legislative caucus at Madison, Wis., Wm. F. Vilas, postmaster general and secretary of the interior under Cleveland, was nominated for United States senator. It is expected that he will be elected, as the Republicans will cast but a small vote for their candidate.

Judge Chrisman, in Jackson, Miss., in disposing of gaming cases where he had reason to believe that the defendant was a "professional," in addition to imposing a fine, required the party to give bond in the sum of $250 to keep the peace and refrain from gambling in the jurisdiction of the court for two years.

A violent wind and snow storm in the Eastern States, on Jan. 24 and 25, caused much damage. Telegraph and telephone wires were blown down. The storm extended over the entire region from Boston through the lower Eastern States, Southern New York, Delaware and south of Maryland.

Representative Moody introduced a joint resolution in the Texas Legislature, on Jan. 23, opposing any appropriation to have Texas represented at the World's Fair should the Force bill, pending in Congress, pass. The resolution was referred, and if the force bill passes, it will certainly be adopted.

With a view to ascertaining the practicability and cost of extending the free delivery service to small towns, the Postmaster General has directed the establishment of experimental free delivery service in the following towns: Caldwell, Kan.; Robinson, Ill.; Monroe, Mich., and Sellersburg, Ind. The service to be established at these places will be performed by one carrier appointed by the postmaster.

Congressmen are commenting upon the action of several Southern Legislatures in declining to take steps to participate in the World's Fair, pending the consideration of the Elections bill. Representative Butterworth, of Ohio, said the question was a grave one, and if ten or a dozen of States should decline to participate in the fair, its success might be jeopardized. He hoped that the fair would be kept out of politics.

Mr. Burroughs submitted to the House, Jan. 24, his report on the bill recently considered by the Committee on Levees and Improvements of the Mississippi river, to appropriate $10,000,000 for the purpose of constructing, in conjunction with the riparian States, and in accordance with the plans and specifications of the Mississippi River Commission, a continuous line of levees from the head of the Passes to the highlands, thirty miles above Cairo.

FOREIGN.

Latin and Greek are to be dispensed with in the Prussian public high schools, beginning with the Eastern term.

The liquidator has closed the Workington Iron and Steel Works at Workington, Cumberland, on the ground that the rate of wages being paid by the company owning the works involved a loss of 5s per ton. About 1,400 men are thus thrown out of work.

Prince Baudouin, nephew of King Leopold and heir to the throne of Belgium, is dead. He died on Jan. 23. The case of his death is alleged to have been an attack of bronchitis. The prince was in the 28th year of his age. Prince Baudouin's popularity and brilliant talents and the bright hopes centered by the Belgians on his future career, make them feel the prince's loss in the keenest manner possible.

Emperor William wished to hold the German winter maneuvers on the Russian frontier, and preparations to that end were being made. The Czar, however, notified the Emperor that should he hold the winter maneuvers as proposed, he (the Czar) would in such an event mobilize the Russian first army corps and order important movements of troops to be made. Upon this representation being made to the Emperor, the latter abandoned his intention of holding the winter maneuvers on the Russian frontier.

The Irish Catholic is impatient and demands full disclosures as to what took place at the Boulogne and Paris conferences. It credits Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien with the noblest of motives, saying that it knows they accepted no settlement nor have they acknowledged Mr. Parnell's leadership. But, that newspaper adds, it is necessary they should make a prompt declaration as to what took place. The formation of the new national organization, which is to replace the discredited National League, adds the Irish Catholic, is nearly concluded.

Good for All Three.

The greatest good for the greatest number is the mark aimed at by all reformers, and to reach it secures the greatest acclaim of fame that can be had. It is a good thing for the consumer, for the manufacturer, for the newspapers, when an article of merit is put upon the market, is made known by newspaper advertising, and, through a series of years, proves its worth to lessen labor in millions of homes, profits the newspapers, and gives its makers a fair living. Pearline, the great washing powder manufactured by James Pyle & Sons, New York, has done all this. If it is not making labor easier in your home, it is your fault. Something of its history is made plain in an advertisement in another column.

INFANTILE SKIN SCALP AND DISEASES CURED BY Cuticura

EVERY HUMOR OF THE SKIN AND SCALP of infancy and childhood, whether torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, and every impurity of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, is speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood and Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Parents, save your children years of mental and physical suffering. Begin now. Delays are dangerous. Cures made in childhood are permanent.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases"

Baby's skin and scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

Kidney pains, backache, and muscular rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25 cents.

N. C. Y. L. - 407!

N. C. Y. L. Patronage, 407 pupils from 15 States

THE NASHVILLE (Tenn.) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES is the leading Southern school for girls. Crowded all the fall; patronage refused for want of room. A few vacancies open for Second Term, which begins Jan. 19, 1891.

Apply at once to

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D., Pres't.

GARMENTS GUARANTEED TO FIT PERFECT WITHOUT TRYING ON.

FREE

by return mail full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, to any style to any measure for lady or child. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.

Low ordinary	6 5-16	@ — —
Ordinary	7 7-16	— —
Good ordinary	7⅞	— —
Low middling	8⅝	— —
Middling	9 3-16	— —
Good middling	10⅜	— —
Middling fair	11½	— —
Fair	12¼	— —
Galveston middling	— —	— —
Mobile middling	— —	— —
Memphis middling	— —	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅜	4 9-16
Fully fair	4⅜	4 9-16
Good fair	4 5-16	4⅜
Common	3⅞	4¼
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3¾	4⅛
Prime yellow	5 1-16	5 2-16
Gray white	— —	— —
Choice white	— —	5½
Standard granulated	— —	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	15	18
Good common	15	18
SYRUP	20	25

RICE.

No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Head	5⅜	5½
Fair	5⅜	5¼
Prime	5⅛	5¾
Rough, ₱ bbl	3 25	5 10
POLISH, ₱ ton	22 00	24 00

FLOUR.

Extra Fancy	5 60	5 10
Fancy	4 60	4 75
Choice	4 25	— —
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 25	5 37½
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 60

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	3 00	— —
Cream meal	3 25	— —
Grits	3 30	— —
Hominy	3 50	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	62	63
Yellow	— —	63
Mixed No. 2	62	63
OATS:
Western	55	56
Texas rust-proof	58	60
BRAN:
₱ cwt	— —	1 15
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 50
Choice	16 00	16 50

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	11 12½	11 25
Prime Mess	10 50	10 75
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8¼	8¾
Shoulders	5⅝	— —
Sides, short rib	6¼	6⅜
Sides, long clear	6⅛	6¼
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9¾	10¼
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅜	— —
Sides, short rib	5½	— —
Sides, long clear	5½	— —

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
He-No	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	— —	30
Western Dairy	18	22
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5¼	5⅜
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	23	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	8 00	10 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 25	4 25
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	5 50	6 00

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7¾	— —
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₱ yard	— —	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	2½	12½
TIES:
₱ bundle	1 85	1 87½

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	5 00
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	17	18
Southern	19	— —
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₱ lb	3½	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₱ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, January 27.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000,

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. H. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Druggs.
T. J. WOOD, Jr., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

PIANOS | P. WERLEIN, | ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

Mention this paper.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition!

PIANOS From $35 Upwards.

ORGANS From $20 Upwards.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,

(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS.

Telephone—Office and Foundry, 685.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO., Limited, or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF "High Grade Bone Fertilizers." "Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate. "Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone. "Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate. DISSOLVED BONE. ACID PHOSPHATE Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc. BONE BLACK.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. COLE,
"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is almost a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

Mardi Gras Offerings.

Matting. The spring importations have just arrived, and a very handsome line will be shown to those visiting the store.

Wall Paper. The patterns for 1891 are unusually attractive, embracing many novelties in dining, parlor, bedroom and hall papers.

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, and Upholstering Goods.

We will offer Samson's celebrated make of Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents per square yard; Curtain Poles, with trimmings complete, 25 cents; and Dado Window Shades, from 35 cents each to $6 each, the latter being hand-painted.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim'd, 116 Camp St., New Orleans.

H. P. BUCKLEY,

Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

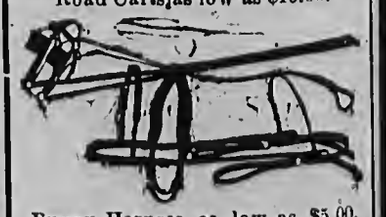
Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a specialty.

R. P. RANDALL,
Carriages and Harness,
Saddles and Bridles,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.

Road Carts as low as $10.00.



Buggy Harness as low as $5.00.
Our Prices Lowest on Market.
Goods Second to None for Price.
We can Furnish a Cheap Turn-Out, as Well as a Fine One.
We Will Give You a Bargain at Any Time for the Cash in Hand.
SEND THE MONEY.

Mention this paper.

Books

New Books every week
Catalogue, 132 pages, free not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 6. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1798.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. R. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

Two Congressmen on Sunday Opening of Columbian Exposition.

BY BISHOP C. B. GALLOWAY.

I have read with much interest the symposium in The Independent, of Jan. 15 and 22, as to whether the gates of the World's Fair at Chicago should be opened on Sunday. The opinions of Cabinet officers, senators, representatives in Congress, and governors, are given. Many have pleased me, some have disappointed me, and others have pained me. The weight of opinion is overwhelmingly against Sunday opening. But enough favor, to excite grave reflection and force to prominence the question of preserving the integrity of our national Sabbath.

The opinions of two congressmen—the Hon. H. Dudley Coleman, of Louisiana, and Hon. T. R. Stockdale, of Mississippi—are especially objectionable. They are not strongly stated, though with positiveness even to flippancy. In order not to do either gentleman the slightest injustice, they shall speak for themselves. Mr. Coleman says: "Should the Columbian Exposition be open on Sunday? I reply most emphatically, Yes! This Exposition is to celebrate the anniversary of the discovery of this country by an Italian, and in a country named after that Italian; and now, shall we insult his memory and his name by a violation of the customs of his native country, by attempting to close the Exposition to those who, from choice or necessity, desire to enjoy the advantages, the rights and the education of this Exposition by visiting it on Sundays? 'When in Rome we do as the Romans do.' Then, when honoring the memory of an Italian, why not remember his religion?" The rest of his short reply is in illustration of this position. That is certainly a frail support of his emphatic Yes! One can scarcely conceive anything more superficial and illogical in all the "folk-lore" of—the Congressional Record.

Passing by some slight historical inaccuracies, let us examine the reasons assigned for infracting the statute law of Illinois, outraging the moral sense of the nation, and surrendering what the Earl of Beaconsfield called "the corner-stone of civilization." Mr. Coleman would have the Exposition gates opened on Sunday as a compliment to Italy, from whose shores the discoverer of our country came. Not to do so, he says, would be an "insult" to his memory. And this he supports by repeating incorrectly an old saying, as follows: "When in Rome we do as the Romans do." Well, in the first place, we are in the United States, and not in Rome. Our visitors and guests from Italy and elsewhere will expect to see our type of civilization, and show respect to our laws and customs. It is a new canon of hospitality that we are to conform our customs to foreign visitors. I thought good breeding suggested that the guests should respect the manners and customs of the host. Wonder if Mr. Coleman would don the Chinese dress, shave his head, start a cue, and eat with chopsticks, as a compliment to the Chinamen who might have a seat at his hospitable board! And yet that is his proposition with reference to the Sunday opening of the Exposition gates. Not to open the gates on the Sabbath, Mr. Coleman says, will "insult" the memory of America's justly honored discoverer. Well, a sufficient answer to that is, that we should not do a moral wrong in order to indulge a sentiment. But the statement of the congressman is not warranted by the facts. Nothing in the life of Christopher Columbus justifies us in supposing that a desecration of the Sabbath day would be in accord with his principles and a tribute to his memory. His first act on landing on the island, which he named San Salvador, was to kneel in the sand and worship the God of the Sabbath. He was a devout man, who feared God and loved humanity. Mr. Coleman asks, "Why not remember his religion?" Well, what was his religion? and what is the deliverance of the Catholic Church on this question of Sabbath observance? The Catholic authorities in the United States thus interpret Catholic doctrine on this question: Pope Leo XIII., on March 20, 1881, at the suggestion of Archbishop Gibbons, of Baltimore, issued an address, in which were these words: "The observance of the sacred day, which was willed expressly by God from the first origin of man, is imperatively demanded by the absolute and essential dependence of the creature upon the Creator. And this law, mark it well, my beloved, which, at one and the same time, so admirably provides for the honor of God, the spiritual needs and dignity of man, and the temporal well-being of human life—this law, we say, touches not only individuals, but also people and nations, which owe to Divine Providence the enjoyment of every benefit and advantage which is derived from civil society. And it is precisely to this fatal tendency, which to-day prevails, to desire to lead mankind far away from God, and to order the affairs of kingdoms and nations as if God did not exist, that to-day is to be attributed this contempt and neglect of the day of the Lord." These are the strong words of His Holiness, and are, of course, authoritative and binding upon the whole church.

The Pastoral Letter of the Roman Catholic prelates of the United States, issued December, 1884, contains these utterances: "One of the surest marks and measures of the decay of religion in a people is their non-observance of the Lord's day. In traveling through some European countries a Christian's heart is pained by the almost unabated rush of toil and traffic on Sunday. . . . The church mourned, protested, struggled, but was almost powerless to resist the combined forces of popular avarice and Cæsar's influence, arrayed on the side of irreligion. The result is the lamentable desecration which all Christians deplore. And the consequences of the desecration are as manifest as the desecration itself." Surely, in face of such clear and noble sentiments, it will be no "insult" to the Catholic religion to close the gates of the Exposition on the Sabbath day. But, admitting Mr. Coleman's statement, those who revere the genius and memory of Columbus are not concerned to pay court either to Italy or Spain. The great discoverer was rewarded with persecution, chains, imprisonment, poverty, and an itinerant grave. He said himself, in old age, that he had "no place to repair to except an inn, and often with nothing to pay for his sustenance." It would hardly "insult" his memory, therefore, to preserve the moral traditions of our country, and, during the Exposition, pay ordinary respect to our constitutional and statute laws. On the other hand, it occurs to me that for the salutary influence our properly observed national Sabbath might have on foreign countries represented here, we should the more carefully guard against its desecration. DeTocqueville once said to an American gentleman: "France must have your Sabbath, or she is ruined." That these countries may have our Sabbath, they must see it. So much for Mr. Coleman's reasons for Sunday opening.

Mr. Stockdale, of Mississippi, writes a full column and more, and begins by saying: "I speak after reflection, and with due regard, I hope, for the sacredness of the Sabbath." He gives us a specimen of his scriptural exegesis in discussing the healing of the man with a withered hand, and the disciples plucking corn on the Sabbath day. From which he concludes that it would be right and scriptural to open the Exposition gates on the Sabbath, and says: "I believe that if the Savior himself would speak, seeing those multitudes gathered there hungry for knowledge, he would open the doors, and say: 'Many of the objects within testify of me; enter and be profited.'" It is hard to think that the congressman is really serious in uttering sentiments so at variance with the highest Christian scholarship and exegesis. And yet he says, "I speak after reflection." He certainly does not speak by authority—the authority either of the Word of God or of convincing argument. Mr. Stockdale's line of thought is, that whatever is good for man morally, intellectually, etc., is good for him on Sunday as well as any other day. A congressman and a lawyer ought to be logician enough to know that whatever proves too much, proves nothing. Now, if his argument is good for anything, it destroys our Sabbath altogether, and breaks down all distinctions as to a day of rest—a fact fundamental in the very constitution of human nature, civil society, and the kingdom of God.

Mr. Stockdale says: "All the exhibits will be in place, and the only question is: Shall the people be permitted to look at them with their eyes, or be locked out, and ramble to resorts, or go out on excursions? To hide them away and bar the entrance to those buildings, and present to the world the spectacle of that great International Exposition—collected from the four quarters of the globe—a very cosmos of itself, with its teeming avenues of information and marvelous lessons concealed from view, and all those multitudes of poor people, anxious to behold and learn, locked out from a scene worth a trip across the ocean to see, would be merely to gratify a sentiment of a few people, and which is without good reason. Surely those who would keep the people out will be expected to suggest some better means of employing the time."

Certainly the learned congressman does not "speak after reflection" when he says that regard for our national Sabbath, in closing the Exposition gates, "would be merely to gratify a sentiment of a few people." If he would reflect upon the membership and adherents of the Christian denominations of this country, and the strong deliverances of them all on the Sabbath question, he would not minify the number demanding that our laws shall not be violated and our Sabbath desecrated. To give the figures is unnecessary. They are known and read of all careful students of our social life. Had Mr. Stockdale read the discussion in connection with the opening of the Crystal Palace in England, and our own Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, he would not have repeated that plea for the poor. Six hundred and forty-one of the ablest physicians in London subscribed a petition to Parliament against opening of the Crystal Palace on Sundays, and in the interest of the working people. The congressman says this "sentiment of a few people" is "without good reason." As to weight of opinion, I fear the representative will suffer somewhat by comparison. Daniel Webster said: "The longer I live the more highly do I estimate the importance of a proper observance of the Christian Sabbath. It is the moral conservator of nations." Mr. Gladstone says: "From a moral, social and physical point of view, the observance of Sunday is a duty of absolute consequence." Mr. Justice Strong, of the United States Supreme Court, said: "There is abundant justification for our Sunday laws, regarding them as a mere civil institution, which they are, and he is no friend to the good order and welfare of society who would break them down, or who himself sets an example of disobedience to them." Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The Sunday is the core of our civilization." And so the testimony of jurists, from Sir William Blackstone to the present, might be given; the strong utterances of the highest judicial tribunals of the land, including the Supreme Court of Illinois, whose law is sought to be overthrown, might be reproduced, and the opinions of great leaders in science, literature, government and church might crowd these columns. In face of such judgment, it must cost courage for one to say this sentiment is "without good reason," especially as he speaks "after reflection."

Surely the law of the land will not be ruthlessly set aside, and our national conscience brutalized, without some weightier reasons than those given by Congressmen Coleman and Stockdale.

Jackson, Miss.

A Question Answered.

The Pittsburgh Christian Advocate asks us a question in the following paragraph:

According to report, the new Constitution of Mississippi "declares that all bequests to religious or ecclesiastical societies shall be null and void, even although they are made for benevolent purposes." Surely there is a misapprehension somewhere concerning this matter. Can the editor of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE give us any information?

We respectfully refer the editor of the Pittsburgh Advocate to the article of Bro. Spencer, on the second page of this issue. But that there may be no doubt about it, and for the benefit of people in Mississippi who are accumulating money for the purpose of leaving it to the church when they die, we print herewith the sections of the Constitution in which the subject is specially mentioned, and exhort our friends to give their money to church enterprises while they are living.

Article XIV., Sections 269, 270 of the Constitution are as follows:

SECTION 269. Every devise or bequest of lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any interest therein of freehold or less than freehold, either present or future, vested or contingent, or of any money directed to be raised, by the sale thereof, contained in any last will and testament or codicil, or other testamentary writing, in favor of any religious or ecclesiastical corporation, sole or aggregate, or any religious or ecclesiastical society, or to any religious denomination or association of persons, or to any person or body politic in trust, either express or implied, secret or resulting either for the use and benefit of such religious corporation, society, denomination or association, or for the purpose of being given or appropriated to charitable uses or purposes, shall be null and void, and the heir-at-law shall take the same property so devised or bequeathed as though no testamentary disposition had been made.

SEC. 270. Every legacy, gift or bequest of money, or personal property, or of any interest, benefit or use therein, either direct, implied, or otherwise, contained in any last will and testament or codicil, in favor of any religious or ecclesiastical corporation, sole or aggregate, or any religious or ecclesiastical society, or to any religious denomination or association, either for its own use or benefit, or for the purpose of being given or appropriated to charitable uses, shall be null and void, and the distributees shall take the same as though no such testamentary disposition had been made.

The Religious Newspaper.

When we charge the secular press with pandering to vicious tastes in its publications, the retort invariably comes, "We only give the reading public that which it demands, and is willing and eager to pay for." This is the sad truth, we must confess. We had an evidence of its truth only a few days ago in this city. A Sunday paper published a scandalous attack upon one of our preachers and his church, and all the reading Methodists in the town, with a few exceptions, had read the article, and were repeating the scandal by noon. One good brother got full of it before preaching time, and button-holed the poor preacher—the victim—on his way to his pulpit, and poured it into his ear, so that he might be the better qualified to preach the gospel. It is a sad truth that even many church people love to read the vicious literature of the day. It may be said of many of them, as Jeremiah said of those who listened to the false prophets, "They love to have it so." This is one of the most ominous signs of the day. When professing Christians revel in and gloat over the godless newspaper—one that delights in tarnishing all that is sacred, and makes heroes out of infamous scoundrels—the case looks well-nigh hopeless.

The charge is deliberately made and substantiated by facts that the reading public demand just what they get. It is a terrible case. We can see but one remedy, and that is, for the leaders in church life and thought to work incessantly on that line which will result in creating a demand for a different sort of thing. And when we look at the perils which environ us—perils that are the offspring of the godless books and papers of the present—we have a most powerful incentive to move us out with energy on this line of work. In this important matter the ministers are the leaders. In order to be successful leaders, they must study out these things in their relations to the kingdom of Christ among men. A few minutes' talk to the people on the subject of Christian literature does not begin to meet the demands of so grave a case. God said once, "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge," and it is as true now. What knowledge is that, the lack of which destroys? The knowledge of godly things is the only answer. One of the most important exhortations in the Scripture connects growth in grace with knowledge of godly things. A little preface to the sermon, or a small appendix to the sermon, on Christian literature, will not, by a long ways, meet the obligation resting upon the minister who would have his people grow in grace and truth. The people must be shown their own relations to this great subject, and the privileges and duties growing out of these relations. To do this efficiently, there must be study, earnest and deep, of the whole subject in all its branches and ramifications. Paul gives the text in his exhortation to Timothy, "Give heed to reading," and under proper study the subject opens in most delightful and astonishing trains of thought, and the Holy Spirit reveals things that can be revealed nowhere else, and the sermon comes with great liberty and in mighty power. Try it, brother. The Holy Spirit will bless an earnest sermon on Christian literature. He has already declared his mind on this subject. "That my people be without knowledge, it is not good." God calls upon a man for his best every time, and when we do our best, to inform our people, and to put a sound and healthy religious literature in their hands and homes and hearts, God will crown our best with success.

Christian literature is to Christian life what oxygen is to the blood. Then let us turn loose Christian newspapers and books all over the church, that their supply of oxygen may vitalize the blood that pulsates in the various means of grace which we are handling for the advancement of the cause of Christ.

This is the last instalment of the exhortation to our leaders to "be not weary in well doing" in the matter of spreading a Christian literature into every nook and corner of our beloved church. THE EDITOR.

The Educating Power of Religious Truth.

Education, in the largest sense of the word, consists in the development and training of all the mental and moral powers so as to make them effective for their highest uses. A man may be very well informed in one, or even several, departments of knowledge, and not be well educated. His knowledge may involve the activity of but a limited range of his faculties. It may imply careful observation, but little reflection; it may have required severe efforts of memory, but not have called into exercise the powers of the imagination.

When education is understood to mean, not mere information or facility in one sphere, but the culture of the total man, it must be evident that those subjects of study and reflection have the greatest educating power which call into action all the faculties, and inspire them to their highest and fullest exercise. Upon this principle a pre-eminence for the purposes of a liberal, as contrasted with a special education, has long been assigned to such studies as history, literature, and philosophy, because they are so wide in their scope, and call out the largest range of the human powers. They tax the acquisitive faculties, kindle the imagination, incite to reflection and discrimination, and, if rightly studied, arouse and ennoble the moral nature.

In the light of this conception of education, and of the means of its attainment, the highest claim, in respect to educational value, may be justly made for religious truth.

In the study of religious truth, as the term is commonly understood, we enter upon the study of literature. If it is our privilege to study the Bible in its original tongue, we have set before us a discipline which calls out every faculty which is enlisted in the critical reading of the masterpieces of heathen antiquity. As a study in linguistics, the Bible offers as inviting a field as do the literature of classic Greece and Rome. But if, as is the case with most persons, the truth of the Bible is reached through the medium of the English translation, and the object sought is not a technical pursuit, but edification and instruction, we have still before us the study of a literature which, for variety of form and subject, and for interest in its material, is unequaled elsewhere. Here is the history of a most remarkable ancient nation, whose life touches, at many points, that of the other Oriental peoples of antiquity—a people who, in their influence upon the development of mankind, are worthy to be compared with the great Anglo-Saxon race of which we are so justly proud. Here is poetry of various types, and representing widely separated periods. The Jewish people have left us not merely their annals, but numerous and rich examples of the best productions of their greatest poets and preachers. The hymns of joy which they sang on festal occasions, and the solemn chants in which they offered their worship to God, are preserved to us. Products of the imagination, composed to illustrate and enforce religious truths, are found, which, in some instances, as in the Book of Job, challenge, by reason of their elaborateness, the closest study; and in others, as in the parables of Jesus, excite admiration at once for their graphic simplicity and for the profundity of the lessons which they teach.

The Bible offers to us character studies of the highest interest, and, in connection with them, teaches the noblest lessons of life. How distinctly, yet in how few words, are such men as John the Baptist, Peter, and John the Apostle, portrayed before us, and their characteristic peculiarities of strength and weakness sketched so as to afford us object-lessons in life and duty. What biography in classic antiquity can surpass in the dignity of its subject and the heroism and importance of his achievements, that which the New Testament yields us of the Apostle Paul? But there is one character-portrait in the Bible which exceeds all others in the moral beauty, dignity, and perfection which it displays. The personality of Jesus, as depicted in the New Testament, is one which can not be attentively studied without exercising a most ennobling influence upon the mind and character. As the center of interest in the Bible, it entitles its contents to the highest rank as a means of elevating the mind by high thoughts of life and of purifying the heart by bringing to bear upon it the power of a spotless example.

When the mind begins to reflect upon the contents of the Bible, it perceives that there are certain fundamental ideas in it which have always been the subject-matter of human reasoning and speculation. Concerning God, this body of literature, which we know as one book, teaches that he is holy, wise, and gracious; that he made man for a noble destiny, and is ever seeking in his providence to conduct him to the goal of a pure and noble life. Concerning the world, we learn that it was made and adapted to man's uses in working out this divinely appointed destiny. Man himself is described as a creature of God, bearing his moral likeness, with freedom to choose and act, and, therefore, endowed with the dignity of responsibility and exposed to the perils of self-will. Into these perils he has fallen, and the course of history is a process of reclamation in which God is graciously seeking to win him back to obedience and likeness to himself. Such are some of the thoughts and truths which pervade the Bible and constitute its essential contents. It thus deals with the greatest subjects, and variously illustrates and applies the highest truths with which philosophy has sought for centuries to deal. Is there any range of ideas, any body of truth, which has so great power to elevate, ennoble and train the human mind, in all its faculties, as this? Here the loftiest conceptions challenge the imagination; the purest ideals and highest motives which can influence conduct rebuke our sins and failures, and demand our best exertions; the deepest mysteries of life and being invite our severest thought, and offer their problems to our powers of reflection, while these same religious truths, by the comforts which they minister and the hopes which they inspire, make their most powerful appeal to those religious emotions and affections which are wrought into our very being and perpetually crave satisfaction.

It is not claimed that the primary purpose of religious truth is educational, but that it has in this respect also a unique value which is too little appreciated in our ideas and methods of education. The purely devotional use of the Bible—no doubt its best use—has aided to create the impression among Christian people that the Bible has no other use; that it is too sacred to be studied as history or literature. Christian educators ought to assert the claims of religious truth as an educational force. The Bible, as literature, history, and in its great fundamental ideas in their philosophical bearing, ought to have a larger place in our systems of Christian education. The Bible should be studied in Christian colleges, not primarily as a religious exercise, but as an exercise in history, literature, philology, or philosophy, as the case might be. Many who would be prejudiced against its study as a religious exercise, would be favorable to an educational use of it, and would thus be brought under its power. Such a study of the Bible and its truths would tend powerfully to disarm prejudice against its critical investigation, and to remove the fears which many entertain concerning the results to faith of studying the Bible with the same boldness and candor with which other books and subjects are studied.

Great advantages would arise from giving the Bible and its essential contents the place which is due them in our education. The Bible would be brought out of the guarded seclusion where, in most Christian families, it remains—something almost too sacred to be studied or understood—and would be brought into close and living contact with the thought and life of those who should have been disciplined in its ideas and truths, and he thus left free to exercise its legitimate influence, not only upon the religious emotions, but upon the powers of imagination, discernment, and reflection.—The Sunday-School Times.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEB. 5, 1891.

THE MINSTREL.

BY CHRISTOPHER P. CRANCH.

He thought he once could sing
A song of love and spring,
But stammered, though he held a full-strung lyre;
Because he lacked the art
Which later years imparti;
Because the skill was less than the desire.

And now he seems to know
Just how the tune should flow,
But misses the young ardor once so strong.
The impulse of the heart
Is slower than the art:
The skill to sing is better than the song.

The sobering touch of time
Holds back the hasty rhyme
That in the heat of youth once spurned control;
For snared in webs of thought
His flying dreams are caught;
Age looks beyond the senses to the soul.

Ah, could the singer's art
Assume the loftier part
As once the lowlier in the realm of song;
Ah, could life's grander themes
Flow like the early streams,
What minstrel then would say he had lived too long?

—Harper's Magazine.

Are We Guiltless?

MR. EDITOR: Your remarks, published in the ADVOCATE some weeks ago, touching the cause of missions at home, were most timely, and, in my opinion, introduced to the attention of the public a question which deserves more than a passing notice.

Of course, I do not differ from you in regard to the importance of foreign missions, being fully persuaded that the church, as a general thing, is able to do what it is doing in that field, and largely increase its operations in the home work. I am not going to try to locate the blame for our failure in the home work; but there are some things which are known to every observant member of the church, which I believe have contributed to this state of things as it now exists.

As a church, we have, in a measure, lost our catholicity—i. e., we have "let up" on the main question of the hour—the conversion of souls—and concentrated all our efforts on the idea of extension. We have revised the great commission. We "go into all the world" (except our own part of it) "and preach the gospel" (of numbers and finances), "baptizing" (whom we can beg into it) "in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost" (and the M. E. Church, South).

The gospel of "repentance towards God, and faith towards our Lord Jesus Christ," as a means of escaping eternal condemnation, we have substituted by the gospel of giving and counting. We have well-nigh reached the point where "we compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he is made, we make him twofold more the child of hell than ourselves."

Formerly, the test of ministerial success was the number of conversions under his ministry; but now-a-days it is the number of dollars he collects for foreign missions. By this stage of the foreign work, our preachers and people have been educated to overlook the spiritual destitution at home, and forget that there are large portions of our Conference territory as destitute as Mexico or Brazil. Will some one explain how it is, and why it is, that Mexico and Brazil must be retrieved from the thraldom of Romanism and poor Louisiana left in slavery?

These foreign countries, to which we regularly send our "chief pastors" and tens of thousands of our money, have just as much religion, and just as good religion as thousands and thousands of Louisianians to whom we neither send men nor money. Sometimes, to insist on justice and right seems a sort of complaining; yet we must not be deterred from it on that account. If you take the whole church territory east of the Rocky Mountains (and, as for that matter, from sea to sea), you can not find a single Conference in the sisterhood of Conferences which is so completely dominated by Romanism as the territory of the Louisiana Conference.

In the New Orleans district and in the Opelousas district there are large sections of the country as destitute as any of the states of Mexico or provinces of Brazil. Still, with almost half of our Conference territory occupied exclusively by Rome, we are taxed by the Parent Board for the suppression of the priest-craft of these foreign countries, per capita, just as if we were as free from the evils fought against in these countries as Georgia, or Tennessee, or Alabama, "et al."

Nothing less should be done for these foreign countries than is being done, but I submit that these Conferences which have less to do at home should do more abroad. While the Louisiana Conference has Rome in its midst, and contributes its full quota to suppress Romanism abroad, she does not receive a single atom of support from the funds raised by the other Conferences. In some of the Northwestern Conferences, the territory of which is fully occupied by the M. E. Church, there are large appropriations made annually, while in Louisiana, right in the very heart of Romanism, not a single dollar is contributed by the Board! When the question comes up as to whether it is better to extend our territory or occupy what we now have, there seems but one answer possible. It may be disputed, because it is an unpleasant thing to believe; but an observation of the condition of things in Louisiana, covering a period of fourteen years, has revealed the fact that the M. E. Church, South, does not occupy as much of the territory of this State as it did in former years.

We have contracted our circuits and multiplied our churches in the Protestant settlements of the State, and, by influx and the natural increase of the population, greatly enlarged our numbers. But our development has been one of contraction and not of expansion. We are grasping at the bird in the bush, and letting go the one in our hand, while we continue our present policy.

How are we to do any better? Well, there's the rub. It is much easier to grunt, when one is sick, than it is to get well, albeit all sane people try to get well.

First, Pay more missionary money. Let the domestic collection equal the foreign collection.

Second, Let the Parent Board help us in this work, either directly by appropriations, or indirectly by decreasing the assessments against the Conference for foreign work.

Third, Quit spending money on old and well-established circuits, or anywhere else, in sums so insignificant as to be a significant failure.

Fourth, If nothing can be done for the present generation, work for generations to follow. Invest the domestic mission fund somewhere, till such time as it shall become an endowment, from which annual revenues may be derived for this work. Of course, I do not recommend this step, only as a last resort.

Very respectfully,

ST. BERNARD.

Temperance in Church and State.

Judging by the smoke of prohibition guns aimed at Bishop Galloway, and the mortar "protest" by Bro. Ware against the action of the Mississippi Conference, with reference to local option measures, there seems to be a misunderstanding. If local option is "a policy that gives aid and comfort to the worst combination—politics and the saloon—against God and man," as stated in that protest, the mistake of the Conference ought to be corrected; but if it can be shown that its action is sustained by the past developments of the temperance movement, the mistake is with that class of writers who place local option in opposition to constitutional prohibition. They seem to fix the responsibility of failure in the Constitutional Convention of Mississippi on "influential Methodist preachers" and "leading church members." These reflections do not come in good taste from the friends of the church and of prohibition. It is a misrepresentation of the Methodist Church. The principle of prohibition is in our church constitution. We want it in the constitution of every Church and State. But we do not say that every church shall have it because we have it, and like it in our system. The law of the church has not been strictly observed, and we see the necessity of preparation for the proper enactment and observance of prohibitory laws for the State. The influence of the church for prohibition would be much greater if its prohibitory laws on spirituous liquors were faithfully observed. The moral support of our church is committed to this principle, and the desire for the suppression of the traffic by law is almost universal among preachers and members. The Mississippi Conference recognized the good influence of local option, with other means, in promoting the desire of Christians concerning temperance. It is by local option that we have secured the legislation that we have in prohibitory laws. It is by working on this principle that half the counties in Mississippi have suppressed the traffic. All the tribunals of justice sustain this principle. It is consistent with the strictest demands of civil and religious liberty. It is operative for the ends of prohibition from a town council to the highest legislative body in the country. "Whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule; let us mind the same thing." Bro. Ware says that local option "is wrong in principle and bad in effect," and he tries to prove it; but his argument proves that local option has revealed the fact that the people are not ready for State prohibition; therefore, the responsibility must rest on the people, and not where objectors are trying to place it. The protest makes this surprising revelation: "The Legislature and some prohibitionists agreed on local option, thereby staying prohibition and depriving the helpless minority of relief, for which they are responsible." If this charge does not settle the failure of State prohibition on "some prohibitionists," I do not know what it means. They "agreed on local option." Why? There was a "helpless minority." Minorities do not form the Constitutions and enact the laws under our form of government, but "we, the people." Christians would be glad to have civil laws conformed to the teachings of the great Law-giver; but they expect them to come through the agencies of the gospel of Christ. They must reform politics by diffusing the spirit of the gospel among the people, and not by partisan combinations for political measures on a single principle. The principle of prohibition, as applied to the liquor traffic, is only one of many upon which we stand as a church; and while we express our appreciation of methods for dealing with the question, it is with the solemn conviction that we must recognize the rights of others according to "the perfect law of liberty." Bro. Ware says local option can not "be sustained by the laws of God or the laws of the United States." I would refer him to the Rechabites (Jer. xxxv, 2, etc.). He admits it is one of the two modes advocated in Mississippi; and the other, constitutional prohibition. He advocates the latter, but does not tell us how to get it without the aid of local option. We want the support of the laws of God and of our land. When prohibition sentiment, sustained by law and developed by local option methods, is stronger than the combination referred to, it will be overcome. The movement is enlarging, and it is best to recognize the magnitude of the interests involved. Having the principle in our system as a church, and being committed to no political party, we hope for the final triumph of this great cause. Temperance legislation has come in response to the demands of the people, moved by their convictions of its importance. If the work grows in the future as it has in the past, the demand for the suppression of the traffic must in time prevail. When it comes that way, the "jugs" will go. Let us strive lawfully. We have had a lesson in this country on doing a good thing in a bad way. Let our brethren be a little more moderate in their criticisms. The blows aimed at Methodist workers in this movement may hurt somewhere. Brother prohibitionist, "do thyself no harm, for we are all here."

J. W. SANDELL.

Magnolia, Miss.

"What Does It Amount To?"

This question has been suggested to me quite often for a number of years, and always in the same connection. It has always brought forth the same answer.

This question was put by the editor in an editorial of Jan. 8, headed, "Our Domestic Mission Work." From the results of this work I am compelled to answer this question in the negative. I take it that this work is second to none in the church. I think sometimes we make a mistake in the use of the word "foreign" in our nomenclature; missions are missions wherever found, whether China Mission or Louisiana Mission. The words China and Louisiana are good to use in the study of geography, but not always in marking out the line of duty. The command is pandemic—the near are included in the far.

Missions suggest aggression—a taking a position in the enemy's country. But can our home work be called missions in that sense? The editor said, "We are not aggressive enough in this work." This every thinking man will agree to. Every other denomination in this State is doing more real mission work than we. Why this lack of aggression? Why such a small amount of money appropriated for this cause by us, and that little so poorly used? The editor hinted that this lack of enthusiasm in our home work was due to the preachers. I think not. I think it is lack of confidence; first, of the Conference Board in the people, and, second, of the preachers in the manner of distributing the little that is raised. How is the lack of confidence on the part of the Board in the people shown? By the assessments. Compare them. Foreign missions, $8,000; domestic missions, $2,000. There seems to be a premium on "color and previous condition." No, say we; "it costs more to send to the heathen, and these at home already have the gospel in some form," and that last word makes the duty at home more urgent. $1,000 a year for five years, coupled with the best labors of consecrated men, will not do all the missionary work that ought to be done in Southwestern Louisiana, leaving out the rest of the State.

Where does the preacher's lack of confidence show? In the manner in which he presents and presses this claim among his people. What preacher can go before his people and point to any permanent good done with last year's money? Feeling as I do in this matter, I can not press the claim with the zeal I can all others. Why? Because I think it is misused, and the less wasted the better. We are doing no real mission work that I can hear of. And as long as the present plan of distribution is in operation we will do none.

What is to be done? Is there any remedy? Specialize. Choose certain places to work and develop them into self-supporting circuits, and then send your mission money to develop other fields. Let the people see the result of their giving and of the mission work, and then you can and will get all the money you need for all mission work. Maybe it is the lesson of home mission work that keeps our "foreign" collections down. You know people will draw comparisons. See!

JUNIOR.

Ministerial Education—No. 2.

MR. EDITOR: By your permission, I would like to add for information another article on Ministerial Education. Within the past few days I have received communications from both our worthy secretary and treasurer concerning this matter. There is no doubt, that my former appeal is in full accord with the urgent demands in our present situation. If all delinquences on notes now due were paid up, we would be much relieved, yet would not have enough to meet the increasing demands upon us. During the past five months we have been giving assistance to four young brethren, and now have applications from two others for aid in prosecuting their college course.

In the light of the present demands for a better educated ministry, we can not afford, as a church, to deny these applicants the aid they request. The Ministerial Educational Association is the only organized body through which this work has been undertaken, and, therefore, we feel that we have a perfect right to call upon the church throughout the bounds of our Conference for help in this time of need. The end of our first term for the collegiate year is near at hand, and we are anxious to have all of our plans so perfected that we shall not only keep our present force at college, but that we can also give assistance to other applicants.

Our secretary, Bro. M. L. Burton, will send out blank notes to parties who we hope will secure subscriptions to this worthy cause. This need not interfere, in the least, with the regular collections ordered by the various Conference Boards. At the beginning of the fall term this writer explained this cause to his congregation, whereupon a voluntary contribution was made by several parties who seemed greatly interested in the matter. All that is necessary in many instances is a simple explanation of the work. We do not wish to interfere with the regular collections ordered upon us. Prefer that anyone who would so construe should not contribute.

By the way, in the St. Louis Advocate, of Jan. 21, I find an account of a similar organization having been formed in the Southwest Missouri Conference at its last session. The first paragraph in the article begins with these significant words: "We recognize the importance of aiding young men who are preparing for the ministry, and as we have no regular fund for this purpose, we suggest that this Conference now form a society according to the following," etc.

Many years ago the Mississippi Conference saw and felt the same necessity, and has for the past fifteen or twenty years been doing good work for the church by means of exactly the same kind of an organization. In all this time little has been said in the public print on this subject. Yet the good work has, by the persistent efforts of a few, gone on. The time has come, we think, when the church should understand our needs and come to our aid in this great and important work. Brethren of the church, we need your co-operation and your money. We mean it. Send to Dr. C. G. Andrews, treasurer, Meridian, Miss.

Fraternally and truly,

T. B. HOLLOMAN,
Pres. Min. Ed. Ass'n.

Canton, Miss., Jan. 23.

Our Young People's League.

Some of us have been anxiously looking forward to the work of the committee on this organization, hoping for something tangible and practicable to meet a long-felt want. The report of a Constitution and By-laws made in our late papers gives us the result of their labors, but, at the same time, gives us a disappointment in something to efficiently meet the demands of the case. I am sure we have more members of the church between the ages of eight and fifteen than between fifteen and twenty, that come specially under our home pastoral training. The former have been my greatest solicitude in pastoral instruction and religious training. For these sometimes I have had something of a system, sometimes none—just simply trying to do the work in some way. It was in reference to these, I hoped for a system that would early develop them into active church workers with a definite knowledge of a religious experience. Above the age of fifteen they largely pass from under the care of the pastor; they are away at school, and some of them are actually wives and mothers. Many of the young men are in business, where, in many instances, they are practically hindered from an active co-operation in an organization of this sort. In many places the thing is a failure. For the sake of consistency I have one suggestion to make. It is that our next General Conference make a law that no person shall be received into the M. E. Church, South, under the age of fifteen.

J. D. NEWSOM.

Kossuth, Miss.

The Mississippi Constitution on Bequeathing Property to Religious Organizations.

MR. EDITOR: If no public notice has been given the church, through your paper, of the late section of our Mississippi Constitution in reference to wills and devises, it might be well to call attention to it now, as it may be worth something to us in future.

Article XIV., Sec. 269, provides that "every devise or bequest of lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any interests therein of freehold or less than freehold, . . . in favor of any religious or ecclesiastical corporation, . . . shall be null and void, and the heir-at-law shall take the same property so devised or bequeathed as though no testamentary provision had been made." Sec. 270, of the same article, similarly prohibits the gift by will of money or personal property to any religious society or corporation.

These may be—in fact, most probably are—good laws; for they will prevent much litigation over contested wills between churches and individuals, in which the latter are almost invariably the successful parties. And then, too, it will teach those who are charitably disposed to give of their substance while living, and not wait till death to bequeath to the Lord that which they can no longer use for themselves. But, whether good or bad, it is a stern fact that these laws do now exist in this State, and we must accommodate ourselves to the things that be. In the meantime, let our friends of charity take knowledge of these things, that their liberality may abound while in this life.

F. P. SPENCER.

Columbus, Miss.

Louisiana Notes.

A son of Secretary Windom has been in Alexandria selecting a site for a public building.

A new court-house, a handsome brick structure, costing $22,000, has been completed in Vermillion parish.

A new paper called Light has made its appearance at Plaquemine. It is an independent Democratic Caucasian paper.

The grading on the Kansas City, Watkins and Gulf railway from Alexandria to Spring Creek, a distance of thirty miles, has been let and the work will begin right away.

The citizens of Iberia parish are moving in the matter of establishing a large sugar factory near New Iberia. Various committees have been appointed to canvass the matter.

Natchitoches has an oil mill working a large number of employees, and the foundation for an ice factory has been laid, and the factory will be ready for work by March 1.

The dog and poultry show in this city last week attracted a great deal of attention. The exhibit was very fine, there being many dogs and chickens from a distance on exhibition.

Rev. A. P. Graves, of New York, closed a successful revival meeting last week in Lake Charles. The meeting was held in the Baptist Church, and quite a large number professed conversion.

The town authorities of Opelousas have contracted for an artesian well on the court-house square. The estimated cost is $3,000, and flow of water is expected to be not less than 40,000 gallons per twenty-four hours.

Assistant State Engineer Ker reported last week that the greater part of the levee work undertaken on the Atchafayla and Bayou Des Glaizes is finished, and the other work progressing well towards completion.

The Naval Commission has made a second survey of the harbor of this city, as to whether it would be a suitable place to locate the navy yard and dry dock. The general impression is that the commission will report in favor of New Orleans.

The Teachers' Institute of Rapides parish held a successful session at Alexandria, last week, and by unanimous resolution subscribed for three shares of the Louisiana Chautauqua Company stock, which gives them the right to erect a building upon the grounds near Ruston for their use.

A Bastrop paper has this to say of one of our new presiding elders:

Rev. H. O. White, who was pastor of the Methodist Church in this town in 1878, and who is now presiding elder of Delhi district, preached able sermons in Bastrop, last Sunday morning and night. The frosts of eleven winters have left their impress on the reverend gentleman, but have not diminished the vigor of his intellectual powers.

The electric lights in Baton Rouge don't seem to be lighting the city. The Truth says:

The electric lights, as now established, are nothing more or less than a delusion and a snare for those who are compelled to travel our streets at night. They are so few in number that they are much worse than none, and only serve to dazzle and blind the wayfarer instead of illuminating his pathway.

The Iberville South says of our new pastor at Plaquemine:

Rev. S. S. Keener, the new Methodist minister, has moved here and will live among us during the present year. He is a very frank, open-hearted, courteous gentleman, who makes friends of all whom he meets by his manly and friendly deportment. It is always a source of pleasure to us to note the acquisition of such citizens to our town, for they tend to advance its material interest in every way.

What do people up in the high regions think of this item published in the American?

The Bradish Johnson orange farm of one hundred acres, situated in Plaquemines parish, tells the story of oranges in Louisiana. What can be done in Plaquemine can be done here and in Cameron parish. The Bradish Johnson crop of oranges sold last spring, while the trees were in bloom, for $23,750. The purchaser up to two weeks ago had sold $80,000 worth of oranges, with fruit yet on the trees.

Mississippi Items.

Dr. H. Strickland has resigned the pastorate of the Baptist Church in Greenville, and accepted a call to Starkville.

Assistant Engineer Coppee, who has charge of the government work on the levees in the Greenville district, reports that both State and government levees will be completed by March 1.

The Ocean Springs Co-operative Company, for the purpose of erecting buildings for rent or sale, has been organized. The company is well officered, and premises much advantage to the place.

The Magnolia Gazette says of one of our new presiding elders:

Rev. R. S. Woodward, presiding elder of this district, preached two very fine sermons in the Methodist Church Sunday. His discourses were well prepared, abounding in rich veins of thought, with apt illustrations, and were eloquently delivered.

The Commercial-Herald says:

The history of the State, by Robert Lowry and W. H. McCardle, will be issued some time in April. Messrs. G. P. Putnam and Sons, of New York, are the publishers. There is great interest to see this work, and we have no doubt that it will be eagerly sought after. Such a work will prove of value to all the citizens of the State.

At a public meeting in Holly Springs last week, a subscription of $22,500 was obtained as a building fund for Millsaps College, in case it should be located there. A committee was appointed to secure further subscriptions, and also a committee to present the claim of Holly Springs to the Board of Trustees of the college, as a suitable place for its location.

The Clarion-Ledger says:

Tickets of the Louisiana Lottery Company can be bought at almost every railroad town in this State. It is against the law to sell them; still they are sold.

Then where are the officers who have sworn to execute the law? Where's Gov. Stone and all the balance of the executors of law?

The number of claimants on the Confederate Pension Fund, we learn from a dispatch from Jackson, is 1,284, who will receive $23 36 each. In 1888, the first year Mississippi remembered her soldiers, only 1,000 proved themselves entitled to the fund. For 1888 and 1889 the distribution was only $21,000. In 1888 they received $21 each. In 1889 the number of pensioners was 1,076, and the fund pro rated between them gave each one $17 85.

This dispatch from Jackson is interesting to many:

The governor is making more appointments now than usual, for the reason that the best authorities think that no valid elections can be held under the present Constitution.

The Constitution provides that none but electors shall hold office, and that no election shall be held without a new registration of voters, and that said registration must be made four months before an election. As there are no electors, it follows that no person is qualified to hold office by election. The Constitution, however, provides for the filling of vacancies by appointment.

A firm in Hazlehurst sold 800 bales of cotton in one day, last week; the largest sale ever made in one day.

Deeds executed by the Vicksburg Cotton Compress Company and the Planters' Compress Company, in favor of the Vicksburg Cotton Press Association, transferring the entire property of each company to the association, were recorded yesterday, having been filed the day before. The consideration, in the case of the Planters' Press, is $125,000 in shares in the association, secured by first mortgage bonds, running thirty years at six per cent. The stockholders of the Vicksburg Press received $100,000 in shares, similarly secured, and $90,000 in bonds. A deed of trust on the entire property to secure the bonds was filed yesterday for record by the association.

This is the legal consummation of the consolidation effected some months ago.—Commercial-Herald.

Sunday-School Lesson—Feb. 8.

AHAB'S COVETOUSNESS.

I. Kings xxi, 1-16.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Take heed, and beware of covetousness."—Luke xii, 15.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Naboth Refuses to Sell His Vineyard (vs. 1-4). II. Jezebel Plots the Death of Naboth (vs. 5-16).

REFERENCE WORD.—"Covetousness."

MEMORY VERSES.—15, 16.

TIME.—About 899 B. C.

PLACES.—Jezreel, 7 miles north of Samaria.

INTRODUCTORY.

The period intervening between this and our last lesson is about seven years. The record of events during this time is very fragmentary. Our information is limited to the account in the twentieth chapter of the two successive invasions of Israel by Benhadad, King of Syria. In these wars with this foreign power Ahab had, through the aid of Jehovah, been successful. He had gained signal victory, and, peace being restored, he now had leisure for extending and beautifying his palace grounds at Jezreel. Samaria was the seat of the kingdom; but from the account we think that the king divided his time of residence between the two places.

I.—NABOTH REFUSES TO SELL HIS VINEYARD.

Verse 1. Neither in this connection nor elsewhere are we told who this Naboth was. From the fact that he is denominated "the Jezreelite" we should suppose that he was fully identified as a citizen of that city, as his ancestors were before him. The possession of property near to the royal dwelling lends to the supposition that he was a man of some means.

Verse 2. "Ahab spake unto Naboth."—Despoile as these kings were, they could not refuse to respect a man's inheritance. There was still in Israel a more marked recognition of individual rights than was common in Oriental monarchies. "Give me your vineyard." How true was the warning of Samuel to the Israelites when they asked for a king! "He will take away your fields and your vineyards, even the best of them!"

Verse 3. "The Lord forbid it me." This verse is interesting indeed. (1) It shows that Naboth was a true worshiper of Jehovah, and, in spite of imminent persecution, he dared proclaim the fact to Ahab. Here was one of the "immortals" who had not bowed the knee nor given a kiss to Baal. (2) It shows that he had a firm regard for the law of Moses respecting the sacredness of a paternal inheritance. So deeply had this idea been wrought in the minds of the people that even a wicked Ahab dared not oppose it.

It is well to observe the reason of Naboth's refusal. It was not because of the worth of the plat of land, nor did it arise from any idea of maintaining his own sturdy independence; but its origin lay in the fact that he believed that the transaction would be wrong. This was the foundation for his subsequent action. And herein is the moral worth of the man evident.

Verse 4. "And Ahab came into his house." It is evident from what follows that the king returned to Samaria after failing to gain possession of the coveted garden spot. And in what a ludicrous as well as sinful light is he presented by the historian! A king who should of all beings be the embodiment of dignity behaving himself as a spoiled child. See the weakness of the man. Balked by causes whose force he could not deny, and yet not honest enough to confess them openly. You have often seen a child, in anger, kick against a door that it could not open. Such a picture this royal personage presents. Into what a pitiable littleness does his character shrink as compared with that of his subject just considered! Perhaps it would be an interesting problem to find out which was the greater—Ahab's wickedness of heart or his weakness of head.

II.—JEZEBEL PLOTS THE DEATH OF NAOTH.

Verse 5. Had it not been for Ahab's allowing this small matter to affect him so greatly, his character might have escaped the blot of an additional sin. But his peculiar behavior excited the curiosity of his wife. She, though a heathen idolater, was still a woman, and must have that curiosity satisfied. He, too weak to refuse, told her the whole story of his troubles. In an instant her reply came in the form of a question, full of irony and contempt, which the king could not fail to have felt, "Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel." "A fine king indeed to allow yourself to be ruled by a mean subject!" "I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth, the Jezreelite."

Verse 8. The means employed to accomplish this determination were well worthy of the diabolical spirit of Jezebel. She who could slay God's prophets with impunity could surely suffer no compunctions of conscience in getting rid of one of his humblest servants. Her sins were many in this one instance. In the first place, hatred comes to the front. No doubt, her hatred of Naboth for his loyalty to the true God was as great, if not greater, than her desire to gain the object of Ahab's desire. Then she committed the sin of abusing the power at her command. To this was added the sin of employing false witnesses. In the next place we see the result of these culminating in a most heartless murder of an innocent family. To all this there was added a most refined hypocrisy. She even appealed to the law of Jehovah to justify her in putting to death a man falsely accused of blasphemy.

This woman shows a resource of mind almost amazing considering her time and circumstances. The woful fact is that all of this marvelous wealth of talent was wholly devoted to the accomplishment of evil, and only evil continually. She displayed as much craftiness in effecting her design as utter lack of principle in concocting it. Possessing herself of the king's signet, she sent letters in his name to the elders and nobles of Naboth's town to "proclaim a fast and set Naboth on high." She told them to procure false witnesses, thus shifting, in a measure, the responsibility upon their shoulders. By this act, they all became party to the plot, and each felt bound to keep the terrible secret. She even had regard to the requirement of Moses in the number of the witnesses selected. To make sure of her purpose, she indicated what sort should be chosen. "Two sons of Belial"—worthless fellows who would not hesitate to perjure themselves for a small compensation. Surely this was the height of the iniquity; but the most wonderful thing is yet to follow.

Verse 11. "The men . . . did as Jezebel had sent unto them." That among all the "elders" and "nobles" of that city not one could be found of sufficient moral strength to oppose so heartless an undertaking is a fearful commentary on the moral degradation of the inhabitants of Jezreel; yet it could hardly be otherwise. This was the home of Jezebel; her influence was dominant. Truly "one sinner destroyeth much good." The wickedly devised plot was fully carried out in full; the assembly was called; the accused placed on high; the false witnesses brought forward; their testimony was received, and no denial heard. Naboth was condemned and carried forth out of the city and stoned to death, and the very dogs of the city were allowed to lick his blood. His sons, too, shared his fate. This dreadful crime has but one parallel in the whole Bible. It is a wonder to mortals that heaven did not utter its voice in condemnation of these fearful outrages of justice. Of a truth, in these two instances, the "wicked was spreading himself," but he that knoweth the end from the beginning, could allow these short periods of ascendency in order to make his final overthrow the more disastrous.

Verse 14. This contains the short message of the nobles to the queen: "Naboth is stoned and is dead." No reference at all is made to the legality of the trial, or the guilt of the accused. These omissions were overlooked, however, by Jezebel, and her eyes, no doubt, glittered with fiendish delight as she read the bloody sentence. She could now show Ahab a clear title to the coveted prize. It had been gained by her own ingenuity; she had conceived the plan and effectively carried it out. No conscience to condemn, no heart to feel the baseness of her deed, it was with supreme satisfaction that she at length reported to her husband, "Arise, take possession, . . . for Naboth is not alive, but is dead." As was his wont, he obeyed. He rose to go to take possession. He went in all pomp. Why not? His desire was fulfilled. Well could he take with him to share in his pleasure his officers of court, Jehu and Bickar! But, alas! for him—there was a limit to the power of even Jezebel. She could order; he could obey. She could commit the most fearful crime, and he silently acquiesce: but Ahab was to be taught the terrible lesson that there was a greater power to which an account for all these things must be rendered.

Scarcely had his eyes rested upon the beautiful coveted vineyard when there also appeared something that struck terror to his inmost soul. Nemesis, though delaying long, had finally overtaken him in his career of crime. He recognized this fact immediately; his conscience bore unimpeachable witness that he was to be rewarded for his deeds. His sin had at last found him out, and on the very spot of its commission. His confession was put in a peculiar form. He said to Elijah, "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?" The prophet assented, and then revealed to him the curse entailed upon his house by reason of his sins. What a fearful future lay before Ahab! Oh, yes, he had gained the object of his covetous desire—a small vineyard; but he had lost his kingdom and, perhaps, his soul in so doing! Was he profited or not in the transaction? After such an object-lesson who is there so foolish as to condone the sin of covetousness or seek to deny the superlative wisdom of the Tenth Commandment!

FROM THE WORK.

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

I finished four years' work on the Shiloh circuit with the close of the last Conference year, and was appointed by the Bishop and his cabinet to this circuit (Bowerton) at the last session of our Annual Conference (Mississippi). And I wish to say that my stay on the Shiloh circuit was very pleasant, indeed. The people were kind and good, and we had a nice time. We built two new church-houses (good ones), and finished the third; also fenced our (Shiloh) camp ground, and built a good, neat, comfortable parsonage, and partially furnished it. The circuit also went up financially from $275, for the pastor in charge, the year before I took charge, to something over $500 the last year, and from $40, or $50, for Conference collections, to $154, being their full assessment for all the Conference collections; and I received near three hundred members during my stay on the work; so we were greatly blessed in our work, for which we thank the great Head of the church. And, then, a few nights before we left some of our dear friends and neighbors came in and gave us a very highly appreciated pounding. May the good Lord bless them more and more till the perfect day! is my prayer. So you will know we regretted to leave our friends on the Shiloh circuit. But we are already assured by the kind reception the people of the Bowerton circuit gave us, that "the lines have fallen unto us in pleasant places, and that we have a goodly heritage." The day we arrived at the parsonage was a very cold day, indeed; but we met a very warm reception, as several ladies and brethren had preceded us, and had a good, warm fire, and the dining-table well supplied with many good things for the body; and, after they had left, we found the safe well filled with many good things. So we thank God and take courage, and pray the divine blessing to rest upon this good people every day and every hour, that they may be blessed spiritually and temporally, and that we may be able to do them a faithful good year's work. May God bless all his people! is the prayer of one that loves the ADVOCATE, with its editor, publisher, business manager, and all connected with it, and the cause of God everywhere.

A. D. MILLER.

Bowerton, Miss.

FARMERVILLE, LA.

As I did not have to move this year, I went from Conference to visit my mother in Natchitoches parish. The trip to the old homestead, and meeting with friends and kindred, and preaching for the first time in the new church which covers the spot where I was consecrated to God by Bro. Pipes, nearly thirty years ago, and then preaching to the negroes in Mason's Chapel on the following Sabbath, were sources of much joy and comfort.

After all, I reached my work in time to hear the bell chiming for the new year, and the death-knell of the old.

I have done but little pastoral visiting since Conference. My time has been occupied largely in seeing after the interest of the parsonage; and now, praise the Lord! we hope that in the near future Farmerville circuit will have a neat, comfortable habitation for her pastor. The contract for building has been made, and the lumber is being put on the ground.

The financial interest of the country is at a low ebb. Marriages are numerous. Influenza, or la grippe, is prevalent throughout this section. With some it is fatal.

W. J. PORTER.

Notice as to Changes.

Subscribers whose postoffice is changed will confer a favor if they will advise the business manager as to where their paper is changed from, as well as to their postoffice changed to, as early as possible, in order that our mail lists for 1891 may be correct.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese, of New York, has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and the Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA
COMPOUND EXTRACT
TRADE MARK

Hood's Sarsaparilla has by its peculiar merit and its wonderful cures won the confidence of the people, and is to-day the most popular blood purifier and strengthening medicine. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaint, catarrh, rheumatism, etc. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

HOPKINS'
PRINTING OFFICE,
20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

DON'T GIVE UP

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One bottle may not cure "right off" a complaint of years; persist until a cure is effected. As a general rule, improvement follows shortly after beginning the use of this medicine. With many people, the effect is immediately noticeable; but some constitutions are less susceptible to medicinal influences than others, and the curative process may, therefore, in such cases, be less prompt. Perseverance in using this remedy is sure of its reward at last. Sooner or later, the most stubborn blood diseases yield to

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad, at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, the least sudden motion causing me severe distress. Frequently, boils and rashes would break out on various parts of the body. By the advice of friends and my family physician, I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and continued it till the poison in my blood was thoroughly eradicated."—L. W. English, Montgomery City, Mo.

"My system was all run down; my skin rough and of yellowish hue. I tried various remedies, and while some of them gave me temporary relief, none of them did any permanent good. At last I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, continuing it exclusively for a considerable time, and am pleased to say that it completely Cured Me.

I presume my liver was very much out of order, and the blood impure in consequence. I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any one afflicted as I was."—Mrs. N. A. Smith, Glover, Vt.

"For years I suffered from scrofula and blood diseases. The doctors' prescriptions and several so-called blood-purifiers being of no avail, I was at last advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and now feel like a new man, being fully restored to health."—C. N. Frink, Decorah, Iowa.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists. $1, six $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Watches, Diamonds,
FINE JEWELRY!
Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,
SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
(Established 1817)
119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

Shepard & Butler,
94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

How Shall Churches Be Filled?

A MANUAL OF RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS OF THE DAY, DISCUSSED BY CLERGYMEN OF WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

No Minister Ought to Be Without It.

Price, $1, post-free.

Address

STATISTICAL BUREAU OF RELIGIOUS INFORMATION, HEAD OFFICES! 459 W. 21st Street, New York City.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex....8:00 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac... 3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 2 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 6 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....3:45 pm
No. 7 Coast....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..3:10 pm
Lim. Express...4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1. Local Mail and Express..7:40pm	No. 2. Local Mail and Express..7:00am
No 41. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail.8:25am	No 12. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail.3:00pm
No 45. Chic. and N. O. Lim....8:00pm	No. 46. Chic and N. O. Lim.12:01noon
No 31. Memphis and K. C. Ex.8:25am	No 42 Memph's and K. C. Ex.6:00pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B.Rouge, local.10:25am	B.Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MOREAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45am
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd .11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00pm
No.5, Fast Line.7:00am	No.6, Fast Line..8:45am

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No.5, Fast Line.7:00am	No. 2, Limited...4:00pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am	Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City.

Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.
J. C. GAULT, General Manager.
D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific
Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS,
TEXARKANA,
SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE, THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6:00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
R. U. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.
E. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.
A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,
Homeopathic Physician,
288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

MENS' FURNISHING GOODS

Headquarters of the Celebrated McCown Shirt.

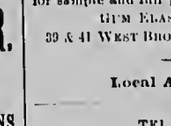
Boy's Clothing a Specialty.

Mens' and Boys' Hats.

Clothing Made to Order.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., New Orleans

10 Discount to Preachers.



S. R. PERRY,
183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.
Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.
Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.
Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

H. P. BUCKLEY,
Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 West Broadway, New York.

Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,
DEARBORN PATENT
SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

We wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.
40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,
LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,
No. 101 Camp Street,
Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS
BECAUSE THEY ARE
THE BEST.
D. M. Ferry & Co's
Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced
SEED ANNUAL
For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address
D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, FEB. 5, 1891.

Having lost a good many letters lately, we advise our friends not to send us money in letters or postal notes. Send by registered letters, checks payable to our order, or postoffice orders. If you have sent money, and have not received receipt from this office, let us know.

Briefs.

The Minutes of the North Mississippi Conference show some very gratifying results. Twenty years ago, 1870, the Conference was orgauized with 21,815 members,190 local preachers and 120 traveling preachers. The last Conference reported 40,830 members,160 local preachers and 147 traveling preachers. In 1870 there were—Sunday-schools, 200; teachers, 1,112; scholars, 8,072. Now there are 432 schools, 2,375 teachers and 19,669 scholars. In 1870 there was paid to Conference claimants, $1,757; last year, $2,699. In 1870 the foreign missionary collection was $1,486; last year it was $7,372. This is good and growing work.

Dr. Hunnicutt writes of Centenary: "Last year we had twenty licensed preachers among our students, and have as many this year. Several not licensed are studying for the ministry. We have fifteen sons of ministers this year." These all receive tuition free. See from this the necessity of a larger endowment, and remember that on Centenary Day, Feb. 15, you will have the privilege of contributing to that good cause. The Louisiana Conference expects everyone to come up to the full measure of ability in so endowing the college that the future of our Methodist boys shall be safe in regard to Christian education.

The W. C. T. U. Bulletin, for last week, contained this paragraph, which we commend to the temperance women of this city.

Mrs. Sallie F. Chapin, of South Carolina, writes that the Legislature, partly, at least, in response to her efforts, has passed a bill to found an industrial school for girls. Gov. Tillman recommended this in his message, and his wife, who is a leading temperance woman, is taking a great interest in the project. A law has also been adopted forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors under a heavy penalty. A W. C. T. U. Home has been opened in Charleston, which furnishes good lodging at low rates; a cheery room to sit in at night; and a good lunch-room intended as a substitute for the bar, where hot coffee is served at ten o'clock at night, in the effort to keep young men out of saloons and to help to protect reporters from temptation.

In the Cincinnati Presbytery, last week, a letter from Mr. Thos. McDougall was read, conveying $3,000 to the Presbytery towards the evangelization of Cincinnati; $2,000 goes to the salary of the Mohawk mission, and $1,000 for the employment of Lane Seminary students in various parts of the city where centers of Christian activity may be opened.—Mid-Continent.

That is precisely the sort of man we need in New Orleans. If there was ever a place beneath the sun that needed mission work, it is this city. We have Methodists, several of them, who are making thousands of dollars every year, and yet if anyone ever offered a thousand dollars for mission work in this city, we have never heard of it. What do our brethren intend to do with their money? Do they intend to keep it until it "shall eat their flesh as it were fire"? If so, then they may begin to "weep and howl for their miseries that are coming upon them."

Why Not?

There are four hundred persons in the Methodist Church in Louisiana who could give towards the endowment of Centenary College two hundred and fifty dollars apiece. Why not do it,and have a good conscience?

There are two hundred persons who might easily spare five hundred apiece for the same object. Why not do it, and thus lay up treasures in heaven?

There are one hundred persons who could give one thousand dollars each to the college. Why not do it, and thus have money doing a good work for future generations?

There are fifty persons who could, without feeling it, give two thousand each for this endowment. Why not do it, and thus show a true appreciation of money?

There are twenty-five persons who could give four thousand each to this old institution. Why not do it, and thank God for such a glorious privilege?

There is one person who could give the round sum of one hundred thousand dollars to this grand project. Why not do it, and thus step to the front as the second man in Southern Methodism who thinks the Christian education of Methodist boys is worth that much of his money?

We challenge anybody acquainted with our church in Louisiana to successfully disprove any one of the foregoing six propositions. If they are true, then the responsibility which the needs of Centenary College lays upon our Methodism is simply awful. The opportunity is offered us to do the grandest thing in our history. Why not meet the opportunity like Christians? Why should not the twenty thousand Methodists of Louisiana make Feb. 15 a day forever memorable in the future history of the Southern Church? Why should they not do this great thing in a day, and thus by one bound spring to the front of all the Conferences?

WHY NOT?

The Endowment of Centenary College.

MR. EDITOR: 1. Do the people really know that Centenary College needs to be endowed?

Do they realize that no college for boys can now be properly sustained without endowment? Do they perceive that the inauguration of State Universities has rendered it necessary that the church shall endow her colleges, or see them fail in the competition with State and other endowed institutions? Centenary needs a larger endowment, and must have it. The meager endowment she has only makes her need of an adequate endowment the more urgent.

2. Are the people aware that now is the time to endow Centenary?

She is on a rising grade from which we can not afford to let her descend. The establishment of a college in Mississippi, which must divide her patronage, and, therefore, prove to some extent a rival, urges upon Louisiana the necessity of endowing Centenary at once, if she would not see her disparaged in comparison with her neighbors.

3. Do the people believe that they can endow Centenary?

There need be neither doubt nor hesitancy here. They certainly can if they will. Only let them have faith enough to try, and the work will be done. Let not men of small means wait for men of large means, but let them provoke men of large means to love and good works by giving cheerfully and liberally themselves.

4. Do the people clearly understand how they can endow Centenary?

In several ways they can help do it. Some can give interest-bearing notes; others can give instalment notes, promising to pay so much in so many annual payments; still others can endow tuition scholarships by paying $800; again, others can endow board and tuition or complete scholarships by paying $2,500. Then others might endow and name professorships by paying $25,000. Finally, it is altogether possible that some might give $100,000, or even $1,000,000, with such results as only such large sums can command.

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT.

Centenary College, La.

Dr. C. K. Marshall.

MEMORIAL SERVICES IN BATON ROUGE.

As Dr. Marshall was among the earliest Methodist ministers to be stationed at Baton Rouge, and as Baton Rouge was among the earliest stations to which he was assigned in his ministerial work, it seemed eminently proper that suitable exercises, commemorative of his long and useful life should be conducted at this place, and especially in the very church which, though in a smaller and less imposing form, he had been so largely instrumental in building.

These services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. James A. Parker, with (I scarcely need say) becoming grace and propriety. The hymns selected were those which Dr. Marshall had especially loved, and, indeed, who does not love them?—those songs which live in the hearts of God's children everywhere—"Rock of Ages," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "How firm a foundation." We shall sing them in heaven when we get there, and not a note will jar upon the full harmony of the "new song."

The morning lessons were the ninetieth Psalm, commencing, "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling-place," and a portion of I Cor. xv, "And now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept." The text was Job xxix, 14, 15 and 16: "I put on righteousness, and it clothed me: my judgment was as a robe and a diadem. I was eyes to the blind, and feet was I to the lame. I was a father to the poor: and the cause which I knew not I searched out."

Never was text more fitly chosen—and its application to the life of our departed brother was an easy task. In fact, the speaker felt that he had merely to place the life beside the text, and the work was done. The difficulty was, as with all really great and good lives, lives great in their goodness, the unostentatious character of the life rendered the details obscure. But the speaker made the fitness clear from his own recollections, and numerous incidents were presented, showing how fully the garment of righteousness had clothed with heavenly beauty the life of the brother who had worn it so long and well. As he painted the character of Dr. Marshall, even those of his hearers who had never known the deceased felt that a true man had lived and died, and that the world was better for the life and poorer for the death.

This feeling was strengthened when, at the conclusion of the pastor's remarks, Dr. W. H. N. Magruder took up the theme, by special invitation, and spoke feelingly of his own recollections of the Doctor, and of the warm-hearted sympathy which made his life luminous with the light of Christian love.

If the writer had no personal knowledge of the fact from which to speak, the impression left upon his mind by these memorial exercises would have been, that Dr. Marshall was among the foremost of mankind in eloquence, in piety, and, best of all, in that loving, Christian sympathy which ever seeks to share the burdens of the weak and helpless, and which sees in every erring one the likeness of his Father's face. Bro. Parker mentioned an incident which had been told to him by Dr. Rivers, a year or two ago, which fully illustrates this quality.

Dr. Marshall was preaching at the penitentiary, many years ago, and, among other things, told the convicts that they must not think that they had placed themselves beyond the pale of human sympathy and love. "Remember," he said, "that, however sinful you may be, however low you may have fallen, Charley Marshall loves you." The remark had a strong effect upon one man in particular, who sought Mr. Marshall out after the exercises were concluded, and received from him a little pocket Bible, which he promised to keep and read.

Years after a soldier came back from the Mexican War, and, having sought out Dr. Marshall, presented him with this same Bible, now soiled with the dust of many a weary march and stained with the blood of him to whom Marshall had given it years before. The bearer said: "Do you remember this Bible and the man to whom you gave it in the penitentiary some years ago? He told me to find Charley Marshall and give it to him and tell him that he had died a Christian because of that Bible and the love that went with it."

God grant us so to live that our lives may be benedictions to those who need help the most!

"Our lives are songs. God writes the words;
And we set them to music at pleasure,
And the song grows sad or sweet or glad
As we choose to fashion the measure.

"We must write the music whatever the song,
Whatever the rime or meter.
And if it is sad, we can make it glad;
And if sweet, we can make it sweeter."

W. H. GOODALE.

Baton Rouge.

An Itinerary.

When the "wheels of time" and "fortune" are turned back twenty-five or thirty years a wonderful experience is realized. If one is not in sympathy with the cavalry of Methodism, he certainly now is. But, oh, the mud and rain! And the old-time ferry-boat, and the steep, muddy banks. Not cheerless and inhospitable homes. No! But the "spare room" is often the most unwelcomed. Many a poor itinerant has suffered by intended kindness. He is in "fastings oft—in perils by land and by sea—in perils among false brethren," and in the midst of storms of rain and sleet he pushes on to bear the glad tidings of salvation to the lost, not "counting his life dear unto himself if he can only finish his course with joy, and testify the gospel of the grace of God." And what a privilege then as now! The old and tried veteran who has planted churches in the wilderness, built and caused to be built many church-houses and parsonages, who has "endured hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ," might occupy and defend the fortress, while the young and more vigorous might sally out to the "front" to engage the enemy. Indeed, some have thought a Methodist preacher's education is incomplete who has not traveled large circuits, and fared roughly. But our itinerant economy has ways mysterious and wondrous wise.

Mrs. Bynum, who has bequeathed in her will her fine tract of land for the benefit of the superannuated preachers, their widows and orphans of the Louisiana Conference, has done a noble and Christian work, and her name will live in that timely and proper benefaction. The land—2,700 acres, mostly rich, alluvial Red river land—lies near here. It lies back from the river (the better for that), and running up into the pine hills. It is a very valuable tract; said to be worth, at least, $15,000. There are from 6 to 800 acres in cultivation, with some twenty cabins for the hands to live in, and will yield a bale of cotton to the acre without fertilizing. It has been yielding $1,700 a year in rents. Deducting taxes, improvements and manager's fees, it ought to bring an annual revenue of $1,200. I trust our Conference will come into possession of this valuable property without any legal difficulty.

How death is claiming as his victims our friends and loved ones! Who next? Ah, insatiate monster! What a mystery is just before us! We must solve it. Is death the introduction to joys eternal? Then it is not an enemy. If death be the deliverer from the evils that environ us here; then welcome, deliverer! "I would not live alway." If to die is to be "present with the Lord," then what greater boon! In the apostolic enumeration we have: "Death is yours." Yours—a precious gift from God. The soul, full-bent in its longings, is wont to say:

"O, if my Lord would come and meet,
My soul would stretch her wings in haste,
Fly fearless through death's iron gate,
Nor feel the terror as she past."

Blessed be God for these hopes!

Recently so many of the good and pure have crossed over. How the host of the blood-washed is swelling! We will not be strangers there! I have recently read of the death of my young Ruston friend and brother, Eugene Ives, and Dr. Bert Harper, of Minden, and Rev. Dr. C. K. Marshall, of Vicksburg, and Mrs. Dr. Hale, of New Orleans, and Mrs. Bishop McTyeire—all lovely and useful in their lives, and, no doubt, triumphant in their death. They have left a "good name, which is rather to be chosen than great riches." Of these and the unnumbered host of God's elect it can be said: "All these died in the faith." Oh, glory to God for salvation full and "complete" in Christ, and that triumphs over death!

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. I am now much better of la grippe, which has had me in its unrelenting grip since Conference. But no faltering in the Master's work. Pray for us here!

T. B. WHITE.

Important Notice.

Brethren of the Mississippi Conference:

I am just in receipt of a letter from one of our missionary secretaries—Dr. Morrison—which has been forwarded to me, in which he requests that as rapidly as possible the money subscribed for the special missionary be paid in, so that it can be forwarded to Nashville. I have the names of all subscribers taken in Canton, with amounts, and as rapidly as money comes in will make proper credits and forward to the treasurer at Nashville. Make all remittances payable to me at this place. (REV.) B. F. LEWIS,

Special Treas.

Jackson, Miss.

Opelousas District Conference.

A CHANGE OF PLACE.

At the meeting of the district stewards of this district on Jan. 16, for reasons satisfactory to them, it was decided to change the place of holding our District Conference from Lafayette to Lake Charles. "Take due notice thereof, and govern yourselves accordingly." Our District Conference will convene at Lake Charles, March 19, and continue till March 22, with Bishop A. G. Haygood, presiding.

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

Lafayette, La., Jan. 19, 1891.

Notices.

The subscribers to the special collection, taken at the Louisiana Conference for the support of a missionary in Mexico, who have not paid up, are requested to do so by March 1. Send to me at 112 Camp street.

C. B. CARTER, Treasurer.

Dear Brethren: I am now at Jackson, Miss., ready for business. I invite correspondence, solicit orders for books and your hearty co-operation in our efforts to establish our depository at Jackson. I will fill your orders on same terms of Publishing House, and hope to be of large benefit to you in this enterprise. Fraternally,

W. D. DOMINICK.

Jackson, Miss.

Notes.

Can any of our metaphysicians explain why a member of the church will subscribe for a religious paper, and yet be as ignorant of its contents as a Chinaman?

Our preachers of the Louisiana Conference must remember that Feb. 15 is not the day to take the regular education collection, but the day set apart by their Conference to take collections for the endowment of Centenary College. Don't forget this.

Our young people are engaging the thought and prayer and care of the church as never before. Leagues and Endeavor Societies for their benefit are being organized everywhere, and children's papers are springing up on all sides. We have just received Onward, a youth's paper started by the Canadian Methodists. It is bright and healthful and helpful.

We greatly appreciate the compliment when our paragraphs are quoted by our brother editors, but we like to have due credit for them. One of the funniest things that we have lately seen is a church paper in which eight of our paragraphs are appropriated as original, and not far from them is found a sneer at our lack of editorial ability. So goes the world.—Nashville Advocate.

Maybe the reason he found fault with your "editorial ability" is that you did not construct your editorials so that he could pass them off for his own without fear of detection. It is a bad case, but if "the world goes" that way, it is awful.

The following, from the Wesleyan, is food for reflection:

We knew a circuit not long ago to reject a local preacher as supply, because, as they said, "he had homesteaded on a merchant soon after the war." And yet, if there has been a year in the long history of that circuit when it did not "homestead" on some part, and often on a large part of the preacher's salary, we have not been able to find it. Why this strict sense of justice to the merchant? and why the loose sense of obligation to the pastor? Have we not educated them to consider the one as sacred and binding, while the other is of little moment? We fear so.

A writer in the Nashville, who signs himself as three stars, has this keen paragraph:

Against one danger, if you were a younger or weaker man, I would warn you: Confounding, in your own consciousness, anxiety for personal success with longing for the success of Christ's kingdom. I do not believe that pure zeal for Christ exhausts the vital forces; intense eagerness to sustain one's self does exhaust the vital forces. Collapse, as I suppose, oftener follows intense effort to satisfy one's ambition than protracted and earnest work to do the will of God. Some eager and ambitious men I have known who tried so hard for personal success that they had no strength left for the work of Christ in saving souls.

"How to reach the masses?" This question seems to be perplexing the whole church. It often happens that the solution of a question is so simple that it is overlooked. So it is with this. If we will look at the "great commission," we will read: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." The masses are in the phrase "every creature." Brother, the next man you meet is the "masses" to you. If the church should for one day literally comply with the commission to preach the gospel to "every creature," would not the "masses" be reached? But how many thousands of church people live for months and never preach to anybody! Under such conditions the question will be forever recurring. Let the church attend to the "every creature" part of the commission, and the question will never recur again. See the point?

The church does not "reach the masses" because the supreme effort is made to get the "masses" to church. This is not the apostolic way. The church met together in early days, but the "masses" were not there, and yet the early Christians were eminently successful in "reaching the masses." How do you account for it? This paragraph from the Watchman explains it:

In the early church the meetings of believers were, to the preaching of the gospel among the people, what the central dynamo is to the electric lights scattered through a city. There the power was developed which spent itself in the personal preaching of believers to those without Christ with whom they came in contact. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst had the right of it when, a few months ago here, in Boston, he said: "The stated sanctuary is first of all commissary department and parade ground; it is not battle except incidentally. Like the little upper room at Jerusalem, it is peculiarly for the saints: a place where laity and clergy alike may get renewedly into touch with God, and be recharged, re-Pentecosted with divine life, for the purpose of being in condition to go out into the world and come so into contact with men as also to electrify them with divine life."

What we need, is not to reach the masses, but to reach the church with a power that will lead or drive Christians to their duty of preaching the gospel to "every creature." The church services ought to generate such a power and fill every attendant with it. Then the question will be answered, for there will then be "personal preaching of believers to those out of Christ."

Personal and Otherwise.

The postoffice address of Rev. S. M. Thames is Winona, Miss.

Is is said that Bishop Fitzgerald will write the life of Bishop McTyeire.

Dr. Barbee has gone to San Francisco to complete the arrangements for the publication of our paper on that coast.

We are indebted to Rev. T. B. Malone for a copy of the Minutes of the North Mississippi Conference, held in Gronada, last December.

The afternoon lectures by Rev. Alfred E. Clay, at the Dryades Street Church, are drawing the largest crowds that ever attended that old-time temple.

A pleasant visit we had, last week, from Sister Fulton, of Houma, La. She represents Bro. Denson as having begun his work under favorable auspices.

Rev. Wm. Arthur, of the Wesleyan Conference, is to preach the opening sermon before the Ecumenical Methodist Conference, to be held in Washington City, next October.

A brother, sending a marriage notice, says: "They commenced their married life just right by subscribing for the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE." That is exactly right. Glad to get some more.

We call the special attention of the Louisiana preachers to the article on the first page—"The Educating Power of Religious Truth." It may help them in preaching the sermon on Christian Education, Feb. 15.

Bro. T. W. Adams, of Pearlington, gave us a pleasant call last Saturday. He represents his work as having been much hindered by sickness. The condition of things is vastly improved within a twelve-month.

Dr. McCabe, missionary secretary of the M. E. Church, said recently: "I sometimes think it would pay us all to stop everything else and go to work and secure a million subscribers for our church papers; then we could reach the people."

Mr. Spurgeon has the rare faculty of saying things "pat." This will do for some preachers to think about:

When a dog is not noticed he doesn't like it. But when a dog is after a fox he don't care whether he is noticed or not. If a minister is seeking for souls, he will not think of himself.

A good sister came into the office, last week, and told us we made a mistake by saying that "the brethren had procured a house for the pastor." It turns out that the "sisters did it," while the brethren stood by with smiling faces and their hands in their pockets. All honor to the sisters! They make the wheels of Zion turn!

A brother, having read the editorial of several weeks ago, on "The Reporter and the Churches," suggests a change. He says hereafter let the papers say this: "The following distort was taken down exactly as the affair did not occur by our special distorter, who was not on the spot." In many instances that would cover the whole case.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, used externally, cures rheumatism; not in a minute, however.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. C. Campbell, Covington, La., writes: "I am at my post; arrived here on Jan. 10. My family came on the sixteenth. We were met at the train by two young ladies, who led the way over to the parsonage, where we found supper, a nice warm fire, a hearty welcome and many other tokens of kindness for the pastor. We find here intelligent; clever people. We hope to have a prosperous year, spiritually. Pray for us, that we may win souls for Christ."

—Rev. R. H. Barr writes from Hillsboro, Miss.: "We have started off well. The people seemed glad at my return to this charge, and my prayer to God is, that this may be the year of the harvest. I feel that I am gaining new strength each day that gives me more zeal for the world's conquest. I want to preach with more power than ever before. We need more power in the pulpit. We need that power that is imparted to us by God's spirit, which is assured to all who trust him fully. I am happy in the work of the ministry. La grippe has been raging in this community. Pray for us."

—Rev. H. P. Lewis writes: "We are in deep affliction on the Benton circuit. Bro. Aaron King, our recording steward, and one who has been a warm friend and liberal supporter of his pastor, died this morning—Jan. 31—at two o'clock. He was one of the best friends I had on this circuit. He was one steward that never suffered his church to fall behind in anything in the way of finances. Some little time before he died he said to his brother, who was by his side: 'God is with me. I shall soon be with my little children.' We will bury his remains this evening at Midway Church, where rests the remains of two of his children. He leaves a heart-broken wife and seven children—five of them little boys. Pray for us."

—Rev. C. A. Powell writes from Moss Point, Miss.: "We (I mean Mrs. P. and the balance of us) are well pleased with this town of push and vim. The mills are crowded with orders for lumber, and the wharves are lined with schooners loading for all parts of the country. The outlook is cheering for successful work in the church; attributable in large measure to the faithfulness of my worthy predecessors in the pastorate here."

—Rev. Wm. G. Evans writes from Simsport, La.: "On last Friday, Jan. 23, at about six A. M., this place experienced a slight earthquake shock, which lasted for one-half to three-fourths of a minute and made the windows rattle. It was felt for some miles down the river. We are having a great deal of rain, which is keeping the farmers back in their work. Boats are now going up Bayou De Glaize to the joy of the farmers of that section. Most of the levees of this section have been completed."

—Rev. J. W. Honnoll, writing from Holly Springs, Miss., says: "I have just received a copy of the Minutes of the North Mississippi Conference, containing the familiar faces of our beloved Bishop and former secretary. All honor to the heart and head of Bro. T. B. Malone for this, the best copy of our Conference Minutes I have ever seen. It is a gem, and in the most convenient form. The church in Holly Springs is doing well every way. We have organized an Epworth League, which we have had at work under another name for twelve months. Our Sunday-schools and prayer meetings are well attended."

—Rev. H. P. Lewis writes: "So far since Conference but little has been done. Nearly everybody is more or less sick. In some communities there has been several deaths. My family have all been sick. La grippe is the general complaint. Our congregations are small, owing to so much sickness. Some of our people have sent us many nice things, eatables and other things, since Conference. God bless the good people who do not forget their pastor and his family! This is my third year here. I am going to try to do more and better work than I have done here before on this work. I ask an interest in the prayers of all who may read this, that I may be divinely guided in all my ministerial duties this year."

North Mississippi Conference Items.

La grippe prevails extensively. Some preachers and many people are its victims.

Bro. M. L. Harmon, of Goodman, an official and useful member of our church, died Jan. 26. His wife had died just seven weeks before.

Presiding Elder Thames is magnifying his office on Winona district. He and his family will soon be domiciled in their own hired house in Winona.

Revs. R. M. Davis and A. J. Jones have been exchanged, the former going to Toccopola circuit, and the latter to McNutt.

Bro. Morehead begins well on Richland circuit. G. W. BACHMAN.

Epworth League.

Last Sunday, Feb. 1, we organized an Epworth League at Purvis, Miss., with twenty members. The following officers were elected: J. P. Carley, president; Mrs. Lida McLeod, first vice-president; Mrs. S. E. Evans, second vice-president; Miss Louie Holloman, third vice-president; Charlie Carley, secretary; A. J. Clark, treasurer. H. D. HOWELL.

Epworth League.

An Epworth League of twenty members is now in active operation at the Dryades Street Methodist Church. H. S. Smith, president; Miss Emily Keller, first vice-president; Miss Mamie Murphy, second vice-president; Mrs. E. Willis, third vice-president; Walter Howard, treasurer; F. J. W. Pilug, secretary.

A Morbid Sentiment.

"Tis a misery to be born, a pain to live, a trouble to die." Rather a dark picture of the world that many of us find so alluring. We think a course of the Compound Oxygen Treatment would have caused the writer to take a more cheerful and hopeful view of things. But read for yourself what Compound Oxygen has done for patients who found it a "pain to live," but up to the present have been spared the "trouble of dying:"

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"I have this to say: Your Compound Oxygen Treatment has made me a new man. I wish that it was in my power to tell suffering humanity, far and near, of its good results." ROBT. C. ARMSTRONG, Winona, P. O., Jefferson Co., Ky.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"I am alive yet, thanks to your Compound Oxygen Treatment. I can cheerfully recommend it to anyone suffering from pulmonary diseases, insomnia, indigestion and loss of appetite." C. E. ELY, Lerado, Kans., Oct. 18, 1888.

We have given a few testimonials above, but our brochure and our quarterly, "Health and Life," are full of them. Send for them by all means. There is evidence enough to convince the most "refractory jury" in the world. Sent free. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

Louisiana Conference Apportionments for 1891.

	Conf. Claimants.	Bishops.	Education.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Council.	Church Extension
New Orleans District	$1,200	$ 320	$ 320	$2,350	$ 500	$ 62	$ 593 75
Shreveport District	900	235	235	1,350	360	35	343 75
Arcadia District	830	225	225	1,350	360	35	343 75
Delhi District	630	170	170	1,250	315	25	322 50
Opelousas District	520	135	135	1,100	315	24	283 75
Alexandria District	420	115	115	600	150	20	212 50
Total	$4,500	$1,200	$1,200	$8,000	$2,000	$200	$2,100 00

Mississippi Conference Assessments for 1891.

	Conference Fund.	Bishops.	Church Extension.	Foreign Miss'ns.	Domestic Miss'ns.	Ecu'l Conf.
Jackson District	$700	$270	$475	$1,450	$650	$35
Vicksburg District	700	270	475	1 450	650	35
Brookhaven District	700	270	475	1,300	600	35
Meridian District	700	270	475	1,150	650	35
Seashore District	425	160	350	1,200	550	22
Woodville District	425	160	330	1,200	500	22
Brandon District	375	150	240	1,000	400	16

For Ministerial Education—$1,000 for Centenary and $1,000 for Millsaps, to be assessed by the presiding elders upon the basis of the assessments for the Bishops.

C. G. ANDREWS, Sec.

Notice.

To the Preachers of the Louisiana Conference—

DEAR BRETHREN: We are trying to get up the history of the Greenwood Church, Caddo parish. All of the old members of the ante-bellum days are either dead or removed, and the records have been lost. Any of the brethren that can give any data of the early days of the church at Greenwood, La., will confer a great favor by addressing me at this place.

T. M. HORTON,
Chairman of Com.

Greenwood, La.

Literary Notes.

Miss Emma M. Connelly, whose "Story of Kentucky" has just been added to the Story of the States series which Elbridge S. Brooks is editing for D. Lothrop Company, is known as the author of that very clever Kentucky romance, for which this new volume should create a new demand, "Tilting at Windmills."

The Pulpit, for last week, contains sermons by Revs. R. S. Storrs, D. D., on "Immortality;" Wm. M. Taylor, D. D., on "Christian Manliness;" Dean Vaughan, on "Christ and the World of Suffering;" R. H. Haweis, on "The Bible;" and J. G. Merrill, on "The Christian Cadet" (a sermon to children). Weekly, $2 a year. The Lakeside Publishing Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

"Nature's Wonder Workers," is the title of some "Short Life Histories in the Insect World," by Kate R. Lovell, which the Cassell Publishing Company have ready. In this book the author's aim is to interest the reader in what are called the "useless insects." The information has been carefully collected from the best and latest authorities on entomology, and may be relied upon as far as it goes.

D. Lothrop Company make public the announcement that they have in preparation a new library edition of "The Arabian Nights," to be issued in four beautiful volumes, fully illustrated. This is really the first American edition of these wonderful old stories, and the editor, Rev. William Elliot Griffis, D. D., known as an accomplished Orientalist, is to prepare an elaborate introduction.

Choice Private Board.

A few gentlemen and ladies desiring the comforts of home, freed from the many annoyances of housekeeping, can be elegantly accommodated by the well-known Methodist lady,

MRS. M. M. AUVRAY,

No. 277 Josephine street, New Orleans, La.

Business Notices.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Mardi Gras Offerings.

Matting. The spring importations have just arrived, and a very handsome line will be shown to those visiting the store.

Wall Paper. The patterns for 1891 are unusually attractive, embracing many novelties in dining, parlor, bedroom and hall papers.

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, and Upholstering Goods.

We will offer Samson's celebrated make of Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents per square yard; Curtain Poles, with trimmings complete, 25 cents; and Dado Window Shades, from 85 cents each to $6 each, the latter being hand-painted.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim'd,
116 Camp St., New Orleans.

Church Organs.

The following letter was received without any solicitation whatever, and explains itself:

FARRAND & VOTEY, Detroit, Mich.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Jan. 5, 1891.

Farrand & Votey Organ Co.

GENTLEMEN.—After nearly a year of trial of the magnificent organ you erected in our Church, I feel constrained to write to express my unqualified satisfaction with it in every respect. It is not only the finest-looking organ I have ever seen, being a grand ornament to the Church edifice, but the sweetest-toned instrument of the kind I have ever listened to. While it is fully as large as it ought to be, and fills the large audience-room with tones full of majesty, there is not a harsh or rough-sounding pipe in it. On the contrary, it is so soft and truly musical, that to listen to it is an unfailing joy. All our people concur in the above. Yours truly,

H. L. CHAPMAN,
Pastor of Methodist Episcopal Church.

P. S.—Give my regards to Mr. Wood, whose gentlemanly and genial manners, while engaged in erecting the organ, gave us all great pleasure.

Yours, etc.,
H. L. CHAPMAN.

Carnival Visitors.

A party of ten or twelve can be pleasantly accommodated in a private family in a desirable part of the city. Location easily reached by the five lines of horse cars passing the residence. Apply to Mrs. M. E. Crocker, No. 234 Howard avenue.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

'Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.

LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

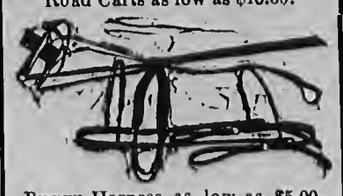
E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

R. P. RANDALL,
Carriages and Harness,
Saddles and Bridles,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.

Road Carts as low as $10.00.



Buggy Harness as low as $5.00.
Our Prices Lowest on Market.
Goods Second to None for Price.
We can Furnish a Cheap Turn-Out, as Well as a Fine One.
We Will Give You a Bargain at Any Time for the Cash in Hand.
SEND THE MONEY.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. COLE,
"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is almost a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

W. H. KRONE.
BUILDER
586 Baronne St., - New Orleans.
Box 71, M., D. and L. Exchange.

BROWNE & JENKINS
DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN
WALL PAPER
154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Write for prices. Samples sent to country free.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address, with stamp,
AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

My Medical Discovery seldom takes hold of two people alike! Why? Because no two people have the same weak spot. Beginning at the stomach, it goes searching through the body for any hidden humor. Nine times out of ten, inward humor makes the weak spot. Perhaps its only a little sediment left on a nerve or in a gland; the Medical Discovery glides it right along, and you find quick happiness from the first bottle. Perhaps it's a big sediment or open sore, well settled somewhere, ready to fight. The Medical Discovery begins the fight, and you think it pretty hard, but soon you thank me for finking something that has reached your weak spot. Write me, if you want to know more about it.

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.
Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.
WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Instruction by mail.

N. C. Y. L. - 407!
N. C. Y. L. Patronage, 407 pupils from 15 States
THE NASHVILLE (Tenn.) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES is the leading Southern school for girls. Crowded all the fall; patronage refused for want of room. A few vacancies open for Second Term, which begins Jan. 19, 1891.
Apply at once to
REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D., Pres't.

Mention this paper.
Books
New Books every week. Catalogue, 132 pages, free; not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.
Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

EASTER MUSIC
Of every description for the Church and Sunday School. Complete Lists mailed free to any address on application. ADDRESS,
The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Root & Sons Music Co., 200 Wabash Ave., Chicago | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

PIANOS | P. WERLEIN, | ORGANS
135 Canal Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.
Exciting Bargains!
Astounding Inducements!
My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition!
PIANOS From $25 Upwards.
ORGANS From $20 Upwards.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO., L't'd,
18 Baronne and 127 Canal Streets, New Orleans, La.

SOLE AGENTS FOR ALL THE LEADING
PIANOS!
Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Sohmer, Behr, Mehlin, Fischer, Pleyel, Pease, Shoninger, Sterling, etc.
Lowest Prices!! | Easiest Terms!
LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO. (Limited), New Orleans.

1891. Home Grown, Honest, Reliable. 1891.

I offer you my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1891 FREE. Note the immense variety of seed it contains, and that all the best novelties are there. Not much mere show about it (you don't plant pictures) but fine engravings from photographs of scores of the choice vegetables I have introduced. Would it not be well to get the seed of these from first hands? To be the oldest firm in the United States making mail and express business a specialty proves reliability. Honest and honorable dealing is the only foundation this can rest on. My Catalogue is FREE as usual. A matter on second page of cover will interest my customers. J. J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

Tutt's Pills

The dyspeptic, the debilitated, whether from excess of work of mind or body, drink or exposure in

Malarial Regions,

will find Tutt's Pills the most genial restorative ever offered the suffering invalid.

Try Them Fairly.

A vigorous body, pure blood, strong nerves and a cheerful mind will result.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

If THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS SENT TO US, WITH ONE DOLLAR, WE WILL SEND THE MUSICAL VISITOR TO ANY ADDRESS FOR ONE YEAR. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

PUBLISHED BY

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 40 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

MUNN & CO. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN AGENCY for PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO. 361 Broadway, New York.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH

Trouble of the Womb should try Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers in the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Something new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Descriptive circulars and prices free. Address MITCHELL BROS., Kingsville, Ind.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn. FOR Catalogue.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-Basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr. Prop'r, Loudon, Tenn.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. druggists. HISCOX & CO. N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. HISCOX & Co., N. Y.

IRON FENCE.

SIXTY STYLES FOR

Cemetery and Lawns

CATALOG FREE.

J. W. RICE, Atlanta, - Ga.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES

$100. FOR AN INCURABLE CASE.

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration, causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY, which acts directly on parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 50c. Druggists or mail. Circulars free. Bosanko Co. Piqua, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA—CURED DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE. DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

PLAYS Dialogues, Tableaux, Speakers, for School, Club & Parlor. Best out. Catalogue free. T. S. DENISON, Chicago, Ill.

Our Young People.

THE PET DOG.

BY M. A. MAITLAND.

Our Johnny had a little dog,
It's coat was black as jet,
And just where'er you saw the rogue,
You always saw his pet.

One day the boy sicle out to skate
Upon the ice so thin,
It cracked and parted with his weight,
And let poor Johnny in.

But Mungo followed at his heels,
And caught him by the hand,
A neighbor heard his lusty squeals,
And brought him safe to land.

A hull come tearing down the vale
When Johnny's kite was out,
But Mungo seized him by the tail
And turned him right about.

A chimney-sweep with sooty bag
Once tried to steal the lad,
But when he left, a tattered rag
Was all the clothes he had.

Yet though brave Mungo, all for love,
His master would defend,
I fear our Johnnie failed to prove
As faithful to his friend;

For sad to tell when lunch was spread,
And buttered well the loaf,
He slyly reached for Mungo's bread,
And licked the butter off!

Aunt Loretta's Letter.

Dear Nieces and Nephews: In your pleasant homes I would like to meet you, for I love all the children; but I would have to travel a longer time than Nellie Bly did, in going all around this big world of ours, to find you in your homes—so I will have to content myself with a chat in the dear old ADVOCATE. The editor is so kind; he gives us a cozy place in the children's corner whenever we happen around. And if I should happen to be as near the office as I was a few weeks ago, I may take a look at the editor's corner, and view the pigeonholes crammed full of copy. How many of you little folks' would like to meet me there? That sanctum would scarcely hold us all at one time; so we will not frighten the editor by hinting at such a calamity.

Sometimes I look at the boys and girls that are near me, and find myself wondering what the future years will bring them. I try, for the moment, to be a mind-reader, or a seeress. In one bright boy's face, manner and gait, I see the future man standing on a level at the top of the ladder, where there is, as Daniel Webster said, "plenty of room." Do you know why he said that? It was because he know that of the many that started up the ladder, but few had the perseverance and pluck to climb to the top; therefore, there was room up there. Any boy of grit can climb up a few rungs of the ladder of knowledge; but most of them get tired or dizzy, and climb down again. Once upon a time I was talking to one of my real nephews (who was an orphan) after this fashion, and told him he must drive his peg high, and then be sure to reach it. Not long afterwards I happened to turn my face to the ceiling of the room, and there, away up ever so high, I saw a wooden peg driven in the wall. It puzzled me at first, and then it struck me that my nephew had put it there, literally taking my words for a fact to be carried into effect. When questioned, he said he thought the peg up there would remind him of what I had said, and he would have a high aim for every day's conduct. To-day he stands on a high plane of character, and is a minister of the gospel, a noble father and husband. Perhaps his name may not live in story, but the world is better for his upright life and his high aim. How many of the ADVOCATE boys will try to do as that boy did?

There are some girls I meet often, and I try to peer into the coming years to see how far up the rugged rocks to the temple of fame I can see them, with an alpenstock of energy, pressing on amid the many hindering obstacles in a girl's pathway to the goal of her ambition. This one, I say to myself, will get there. She will build a character that will tell to future generations that such an one lived and left her impress on the lives of those with whom she came in contact. Her sphere may not be on the outposts, or a place where she may win a name; but her high aims and noble life will never die. The influence will go on and on down the ages. And that girl, I think, will never make her mark for good—not that I see any evil inclination, but she goes on in a sort of careless way, having no high aim in view.

Well, after all, one may be mistaken in judging that "the boy is father of the man," or the girl the mother of the woman; but every girl and boy that grows up with a noble, earnest purpose in view, will be a character-builder, and that is a grand work. You need not begin with a little hatchet, or drive a wooden peg on the ceiling; but just say to yourself: There is a ladder to climb, and if others have reached the top, I may, too; so I will try with God's help. Say that, and you will go on up.

May God bless and help you all! AUNT LORETTA.

MR. EDITOR: You did not publish my last letter, but I will try again. The Bishop sent papa to Hattiesburg. It is a place of 1,600 inhabitants, and growing all the time. We have a nice parsonage, or it will be when finished. It is not yet painted. We live next door to Bro. Mounger, the presiding elder. He has a little boy named Harvey, just my age—ten years old. We play together a great deal, and have lots of fun with my dog, "Stuffy." My brother brought him here, and he is the smartest dog you ever saw. He will do anything I tell him. He is named after a boy in Miss Alcott's book, "Little Men"—a boy who never could get enough to eat, and he is the same way. I go to school and study history, grammar, geography and arithmetic. We have a fine school, over 200 pupils. I like Hattiesburg very well. With best wishes for the ADVOCATE, and hoping to see my letter in print, I am,

Your little friend,
BENNIE PARKER.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

Originated by a physician, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is prescribed by many regular doctors.

MR. EDITOR: I enjoy reading the letters in the dear old ADVOCATE. The other children write about their homes, and so I will do the same. I can not say much for our Sunday-school because all the scholars are gone off to school—that is, all the large scholars. There are a few small ones left, but most of them have some excuse for not going to Sunday-school. But in the summer we most always have a large Sunday-school. Well, I will answer one of the questions that was asked in your last paper. The question was, "How many words are there in the Bible?" There are 773,629 words in the Bible. Now, I will ask one, and let some one answer it. How many times does the word "reverend" occur in the Bible, and where is it found? Hoping that my first letter will not reach the waste-basket, I remain, as ever,

Your unknown friend,
JNO. T. LEWIS.

Benton, Miss.

Go where you will, you will always find Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup conveniently. 25 cents.

MR. EDITOR: Having never seen a letter in the ADVOCATE from any of the children in this part of the country, I concluded to address a few lines to you. My mama is a subscriber of the dear old ADVOCATE. We enjoy its weekly visits very much. Although living in the country, we attend Sabbath-school regularly. Mr. A. Palmer Smith is our superintendent. We all like him very much. I have a little sister just beginning to talk, she is very dear to us; her name is Lucie Magnolia. If this is not thrown in the waste-basket, I will feel encouraged to "try again."

Your little friend,
JOHN ALLEN THOMS.

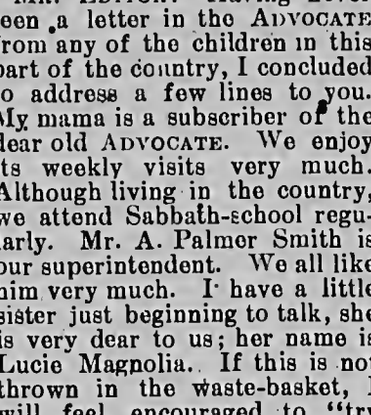
Jackson, La.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS WATERPROOF,
A HANDSOME POLISH,
A LEATHER PRESERVER.
NO BRUSHING REQUIRED.
Shoes can be washed daily.

Used by men, women and children.



Quite a surprise to you? Well, I heard so much of PIK-RON TRADE MARK TRY IT.

A PAINT THAT ONE CAN SEE THROUGH.

I concluded to paint this floor with it. Aint it a big improvement?

Sold Everywhere.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

PIK-RON will ornament your windows as well as your floor. Try it on glass, china, metal or any article you want to paint.

Household.

ONE DAY.

The fire to kindle, the table to set,
The coffee to make, the breakfast to get,
The dishes to wash, the floor to sweep,
A watchful eye on the children to keep,
And—there's the baby crying!

The baby to wash and dress and feed,
The cows and pigs attention need;
The beds to make, the cheese to turn,
The chickens to feed, the milk to churn,
And—there's the baby crying!

The baby to quiet, the table to set,
The meat to roast, the dinner to get,
The dishes to wash, the pies to bake,
The ironing then my time will take,
And—there's the baby crying!

The baby to rock and put to bed,
The little chickens again to be fed;
The cows to milk, the table to set,
The kettle to boil, the supper to get,
And—there's the baby crying!

The baby to soothe ere supper I eat,
The dishes to wash, the room to make neat;
Then down to the basket of mending I sit,
Attention divided 'twixt baby and it,
For—there's the baby crying!

God grant me patience and strength to bear
The every-day round of household care:
To govern my kingdom in love and peace,
Until my rule with death shall cease,
And I at rest am lying.

Kitchen Martyrs.

BY HATTIE F. BELL.

Some one asked a little girl whether her mother's hair was gray. "I don't know," was the innocent reply; "I can't see to the top of her head, and she don't ever sit down."

Solomon says of the good housekeeper, "She looketh well to the ways of her household." The woman who is always overrun with work, never seeing a chance to rest for a single minute, who is always bustling about, anxious, burdened, her whole aim being, to all outward appearance, to "get her work done," busy, busy, busy, catching the broom to whisk away an infinitesimal spot of dirt here, flourishing the dustbrush to tear down an imaginary cobweb over yonder, ripping open all the feather-beds in the house to see whether some stray moth has stolen a march on her and sought rest within the downy contents, scalding up all the preserves in the cellar once a week for fear they might begin to work when she didn't know it, running upstairs and down, out to the barn and into the attic, tiring herself and every one else in the house—we have all seen just such women, and probably not one of us believes such a one to be the woman to whom Solomon in his wisdom referred as looking "well to the ways of her household." There are better and nobler methods of doing this than cooking, washing, cleaning and scrubbing. A women's work is not finished, her duty not entirely performed for her family when she has made and mended their clothes, cooked their food and mopped the kitchen floor. If she looks well to the ways of her household, she will see to it that her husband has her companionship, as well as a starched shirt-front; that her children have food for their minds, as well as good dinners; that her own face wears the smile of love and contentment instead of the vexed frown and wrinkles of daily worry over the absorbing questions, What shall we eat, drink and wear?

No woman who is a drudge in her kitchen can do justice to her family. The husband of such a wife eats his meals as quickly as possible, and goes where he can find somebody to talk to him and with whom he can talk upon something besides bread and potatoes, and wood and water.—The Golden Rule.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS.—A great deal of unhappiness in home life comes from misunderstanding the people one lives with. Each of us is more or less affected by the personal impression of a conversation, incident or episode. The way it strikes us is very apt to push quite out of sight the way it may strike another. In consequence, we misinterpret moods, or attribute to our kindred, motives which have never occurred to them. The quiet manner is taken to mean irritation when it is simply weariness, or the impulsive speech is supposed to spring from anger, when it may have its origin in embarrassment, or in indiscretion.

Life would be smoother in many a home if everybody would endeavor to understand his or her neighbor in the home, and if everybody were taken at the best, and not at the worst, valuation.—Christian Observer.

To keep the beard from turning gray, and thus prevent the appearance of age, use Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers, the best dye made.

Scientific.

The Big Trees of California.

The sequoias dominate among splendid rivals only by a magnitude that has no comparison elsewhere in the world. I think no one can anticipate the effect that one of these monarchs will have upon him. He has read that a coach and six can drive through one of the trees that is standing; that another is thirty-three feet in diameter, and that its vast stem, 350 feet high, is crowned with a mass of foliage that seems to brush against the sky. He might be prepared for a tower one hundred feet in circumference, and even four hundred feet high, standing upon a level plain. But this living growth is quite another affair. Each tree is an individual, and has a personal character. No man can stand in the presence of one of these giants without a new sense of the age of the world and the insignificant span of one human life; but he is also overpowered by a sense of some gigantic personality. It does not relieve him to think of this as the Methuselah of trees, or to call it by the name of some great poet or captain. The awe the tree inspires is of itself. As one lies and looks up at the enormous bulk, it seems not so much the bulk, so lightly is it carried, as the spirit of the tree, the elastic vigor, the patience, the endurance of storm and change, the confident might, and the soaring, almost contemptuous pride, that overwhelm the puny spectator. It is just because man can measure himself, his littleness, his brevity of existence, with this growth out of the earth, that he is more personally impressed by it than he might be by the mere variation in the contour of the globe which is called a mountain. The imagination makes a plausible effort to comprehend it, and is foiled. No, clearly it is not mere size that impresses one; it is the dignity, the character in the tree, the authority and power of antiquity. Side by side of these venerable forms are young sequoias, great trees themselves, that have only just begun their millennial career—trees that will, if spared, perpetuate to remote ages this race of giants, and in two to four thousand years from now take the place of their great-grandfathers, who are sinking under the weight of years, and one by one measuring their length on the earth—From "The Heart of the Desert," by Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine.

The Electric Motor's Work.

The New York Sun thus speaks of electric power, in which the work of the motor is summed up as follows:

"In some cities, so far has the use of electric motors gone, that it is possible for a man to-day to drink at breakfast coffee ground and eat fruit evaporated by electric power. During the morning he will conduct his business with electrically made pens and paper ruled by electricity, and make his records in electrically bound books, his seventh story office, in all probability, being reached by an electric motor elevator. At luncheon he will be able to discuss sausages, butter, and bread, and at night eat ice cream and drink iced water due to the same electrical energy. He will ride all about the place in electric cars, wear shirts and collars mangled and ironed by electric motors, sport in a suit of clothes sewn and a hat blocked by the same means; on holidays ride a merry-go-round propelled by an electric motor, or have his toboggan hauled up the slide with equal facility; be called to church by an electrically tapped bell, sing hymns to the accompaniment of an electrically blown organ, be buried in a coffin of electric make, and, last of all, have his name carved on his tombstone by the same subtile, mysterious, all-persuasive and indefatigable agency. This may sound like a wild and exuberant flight of fancy, but it is simply a faithful statement of the manner in which electricity is being applied to every one of the necessities and luxuries of life in America."

Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar has made a name and record in the past fifty years that is enviable. Thousands of people having tried it for coughs, colds, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis and consumption know its value, and would not be without it. Why? Because it cures where other remedies fail. We recommend it for children subject to croup and whooping-cough. It will give relief and cause speedy cure. The medical profession recognize it, and physicians frequently prescribe it for lung troubles. These facts have pushed Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar to the front rank. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, all throat and lung affections, and no family should be without it. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

PARSONS PURGATIVE PILLS

Make New, Rich Blood!

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them, and you will always be thankful. One PILL A DOSE. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cts. in stamps. DR. J. F. JOHNSON & Co., 22 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., BOSTON, MASS.

The Best, Swiftest and Lightest-Running Sewing Machine in the World is the SINGER.

Especially Adapted for Family Use. In Elegant, Convenient and Artistic Cabinet Work, with our New (patented) Stand, and all Modern Improvements.

THE ONLY PERFECT ATTACHMENTS

More Popular Than Ever,
They Defy Competition;

Sold on the Most Liberal and Easy Terms. Full Instructions Given and Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Send for Illustrated Price List.

Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines, 15, 20 and 25 cents per dozen; postage extra. Parts and Attachments for the Singer.

The Singer Manufacturing Company,

CENTRAL OFFICE:

185 Canal, New Orleans, La.

Branch offices at Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Dallas, Galveston, Houston, Marshall and San Antonio, Tex.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, LONDON, ENGLAND.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Graut, B. Fellman, Junius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal," of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON
Religious Book Depository,
94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

A Perfect Fountain Pen!

The best cheap Fountain Pen made

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens and Stylographic Pens, from $1 50 to $3.50 each. Holders and ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

MARRIAGES.

IZARD–DANTZLER.—In the Methodist Church, Moss Point, Jan. 21, at eight o'clock P. M., by Rev. C. A. Powell, Dr. Geo. L. Izard, of Meridian, Miss., to Miss Emma A. Dantzler, of Moss Point, Miss.

COOPER–STUART.—At the residence of Mr. W. J. Stuart, Pulaski, Miss., Jan. 15, 1891, by Rev. J. V. Penn, Mr. R. D. Cooper, of Morton, to Miss Laura B. Stuart, of Pulaski.

CLARK–TURNER.—At the Farmers' Hotel, Greensburg, La., Jan. 10, by Rev. P. Howard, Wm H. Clark and Miss Hester D. Turner, both of Livingston parish, La.

LOFLIN–WADDELL.—At the residence of the bride's stepmother, Mrs. Eliza Waddell, Jan. 21, 1891, Mr. D. H. Loflin to Miss Lucy Waddell, of Thomasville, Rankin county, Miss.

POWELL–MURPHY.—At the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. G. E. Murphy, Oakland, La., Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. W. J. Porter, Mr. J. P. Powell, of Marion, La., to Miss Annie Murphy, of Oakland, La.

JOHNSON–DIGGS.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. P. M. Diggs, Jan. 15, by Rev. B. F. Phillips, Mr. Robt. P. Johnson to Miss Cora Diggs, all of Holmes county, Miss.

CADER–KING.—At the residence of the bride's father, E. L. King, Yazoo county, Miss., Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. H. P. Lewis, J. F. Cader, of Zeigler ville, Miss., and Miss Amma L. King.

MACK–JONES.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs Hester Jones, by Rev. P. Howard, Mr. Wm. H. Mack and Miss Minnie D. Jones, both of St. Helena parish, La.

REYNAUD–EVES.—At the residence of the bride's aunt, Washington, La., Jan. 6, 1891, by Rev. T. S. Randle, Mr. Louis Reynaud, of Lafayette parish, La., and Miss H. Eva Eves, of Washington, La.

BENNETT–BROWN.—On Saturday, Jan. 17, 1891, by Rev. John T. Sawyer, Mr. William J. Bennett and Mrs. Alice Rohrbacker Brown.

OBITUARIES.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

GUICE.—Mrs. LUCILLA GUICE, daughter of Isaiah Coleman and Telitha Montgomery, was born Oct. 15, 1825. She was married to Phillip H. Cameron in 1843; and, in 1848, by Rev. B. M. Drake, to E. J. Guice, who still survives her. She joined the M. E. Church, South, in 1847, but was converted before that time; and, though a timid, retiring woman, she was always ready to confess her Savior to saint or sinner, and for nearly forty-four years she lived a devoted Christian life.

For thirty years she was an invalid, and, therefore, to some extent, was deprived of church privileges; but she learned to meet with her Master in the privacy of her own home, and many were the precious seasons of grace she there enjoyed. Though a great sufferer, she bore it all with the greatest fortitude and Christian resignation, never allowing herself to murmur or complain. It was a great pleasure to me to visit her and enjoy her spiritual conversation, and my last pastoral visit before my illness was to her. At that time she said she had trusted her Savior so long that she was not afraid to lean on him in the last hour.

A few days before her death she said: "Now I am done. I put it all in the hands of my Jesus." From that time till she became unconscious she was contented and cheerful.

On the morning of Jan. 13, 1891, she was freed from her afflictions; her pure soul left its earthly tabernacle and took its flight to the celestial city, to rest forever with its Lord.

Were we disposed to write an extensive eulogy on a Christian's life, it would be hard to find one more worthy than that of our lamented Sister Guice; but we have preferred to state a few plain and simple facts concerning the life of this saintly woman, and to let them speak to others as they have been speaking to the loved ones of her household and community for nearly a half-century. May the Lord still prove these saintly lives as the best evidences of our holy religion! is the prayer of her pastor,

W. E. BALLARD.

ANDERSON.—Another father in Israel has been called from labor to reward, and from suffering to glory. October 30, 1890, Bro. THOMAS ANDERSON finished his course on earth and went home to await the crown which the Lord has promised "unto all them that love his appearing." He was born in South Carolina, March 21, 1812, but removed with his father to Georgia while he was but a child. There he grew to manhood's estate, and on March 20, 1839, he was married to Miss Anna G. Allen, of Griffin, Ga., with whom he lived a long and useful life, and who preceded him but a few years to the better world. He continued to reside in Georgia until about 1858, when he came west and settled first in Union parish, La., where he lived until about 1870, when he moved to Drew county, Ark., where he finished his earthly pilgrimage surrounded by his children, grandchildren and a host of friends.

Bro. Anderson was the son of a Methodist preacher, and had himself been a member of the Methodist Church from early life. He both knew and loved the doctrines and polity of Methodism, and to the very close of his life he took an active interest in all that pertained to the welfare of the church which he loved and served. But not only was he a loyal Methodist; he was also a devout and humble Christian, and in his life he ever sought to exemplify the virtues and graces of our holy religion.

His end was peace; with implicit trust in him who died to save him he gently breathed his last, and, we doubt not, went home to that heaven for which he had waited so long. May God help us all to meet him there!

J. A. SAGE.

SILLIMAN.—The subject of this notice, Mrs. E. H. SILLIMAN, died in Canton, Miss., Dec. 24, 1890, in the sixty-fifth year of her age, having been born in Natchez, Miss., Aug. 17, 1826. Her maiden name was Elizabeth H. Ely, and her parents were among the early settlers of the town of her nativity. On April 3, 1843, in the city of New Orleans, she was united in marriage to Bro. John I. Silliman, who in his age feels, oh! so keenly, the great sorrow that weighs upon him. For nearly fifty years they have trodden the pathway of life together, and who can tell how closely the cords of affection had bound them to each other in all these years! Then, too, another, her devoted daughter, Maggie—so attentive, so loving, so patient to her in her last long and painful illness—sorrows greatly for the departed "mama."

Sister Silliman joined the M. E. Church, South, in the town of Camden, Ark., in the year 1858, since which time she has been an active, consistent member of the same. A quiet, peaceful life has closed. God has called his faithful, suffering child to himself. May he supply grace abundant to those who mourn! T. B. H.

SMITH.—On Nov. 20, 1890, the angel of death made his appearance at the home of Bro. W. and Sister D. Smith, plucking from their fond embrace their precious jewel, little ALICE VOGHT, aged thirteen months and seven days. Her stay on earth to us seems short; but he who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not," said it was long enough.

Grieve not, dear parents; little Alice is not dead, but is only transplanted in a purer and better land, and now her little spirit is basking in realms of angelic bliss. It is hard, we know, to give her up; but God, by this, would draw you nearer him. He would make you lose your love for earth and draw your affections heaveward. Then take comfort in the hope of meeting her in that fair clime, where sickness and death are no more, and loved ones never part. Live for God and heaven, and one day, standing at the pearly gates, you will meet your darling Alice Voght. R. W. TUCKER.

BEALL.—Mrs. LOUISE MARTIN BEALL (nee Rind) was born in New Orleans, Dec. 12, 1835, and departed this life in Crystal Springs, Miss., Jan. 25, 1891, at nine A. M. She joined the M. E. Church, South, in girlhood, and lived a devoted Christian life to the end. She leaves a husband and eight children to mourn her loss; but they do not mourn as those who have no hope. She is "not lost, but only gone before." W. T. B.

Mexico City.

After many days of trial I greet the readers of the dear old ADVOCATE, wishing all a happy and prosperous year. If the old adage, "A bad beginning makes a good ending," be true, I also hope for great things this year. We are just getting settled in our home in the Mission House, and we are all at work. Our editor, Bro. Southerland, lives in the house with us, and is busy night and day. He also takes much interest in our new place of worship and lends our pastor valuable aid. Sunday was the first quarterly meeting service in this new church, and I went with Mr. Weems. Bro. S. preached for Mr. Weems at eleven o'clock. I felt wonderfully excited as I saw the crowds gather in the doors and windows, and watch curiously the strange man as he told them the old, old story of Jesus and his love. My mind reverted to the disciples gathered in that upper room, as told in the Bible. I counted our congregation. We were twelve in number, or rather those seated; but the crowd in the street and door I could not count. They came with their wares, their buckets of pulque, and other things, and my heart ached for the miserable woman and children, without God and without hope in the world. I am so eager to employ a Bible woman for this new church, to tell these miserable woman in the streets there is a God of love who cares for them, poor and wretched as they are. I can not see how I can do this alone. Who will help me? The woman I wish to employ is Refugio de Cruz—the same of whom I wrote some time ago, telling of her travels in Italy, France and England.

Ah! well I know the calls on our Christians at home are numerous; but I am sure no need is greater than this poor sin-cursed people, dying daily in heathen darkness. I read the Nashville Advocate to-day, and when I saw the "Clara Chrisman Scholarship for Missionaries," my first desire was to work and make a hundred dollars to send to Millsaps College in memory of the dear precious friend who gave her life for missions. After thinking and praying, I could not decide it was my duty, when the cry comes to me on every hand for help in this dark land of sorrow, sin and shame. I decided to try to discharge the duties nearest to me, and trust God to help me send my mite to Millsaps later on. For this fund I long to contribute; but my desires are greater than my means, and priest-ridden Mexico lies heavy on my heart. Oh! if I could only make you feel, as I do, the urgent need of pressing forward in the work here!

Mr. Weems is just finishing up his first round and, I think, has received fifty-six members this round. I went out one evening to a little town ten miles away, saw the floating gardens and the women in their boats laden with vegetables bringing them to market. The canal was full of boats; some pleasure boats in which the rich enjoy an evening gliding down the canal. I watched with pity the poor women in their miserable crafts, so scantily clad. Oh! if our dear women at home could see and realize what they suffer, their hearts would be moved to lend a helping hand. I long to see you face to face and plead with you for Mexico. Pray for us, and let your tender hearts respond to my call for Refugio de Cruz.

S. G. WEEMS.

Electric Belt Free!

To introduce it, the undersigned will give away to those who are sick or ailing or suffering from weakness or disease, and who would be likely to make good agents, if cured, one of our German Electro-Galvanic Belts; regular price $5 (U. S. Patent 357,647), invented by Prof. P. H. Van Derweyde, Pres. of N. Y. Electrical Society and late Professor of Chemistry of N. Y. Medical College. $500 Reward for any Belt we manufacture that does not generate a genuine Electric current. They are daily making most marvelous cures in cases of Rheumatism, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Diseases, Lung Troubles, Nervous Debility, and many other ailments in which medicine fails. Address at once,

German Electric Belt Agency, Brooklyn, N. Y.

LOUISIANA

STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR

FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Jailing, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home with out pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 66½ Whitehall St.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,

(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS. Telephone—Office and Foundry, 688.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers: Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO., Limited, or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF "High Grade Bone Fertilizers," "Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate, "Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone, "Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate, DISSOLVED BONE, ACID PHOSPHATE Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc BONE BLACK.

The Great Church LIGHT. FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

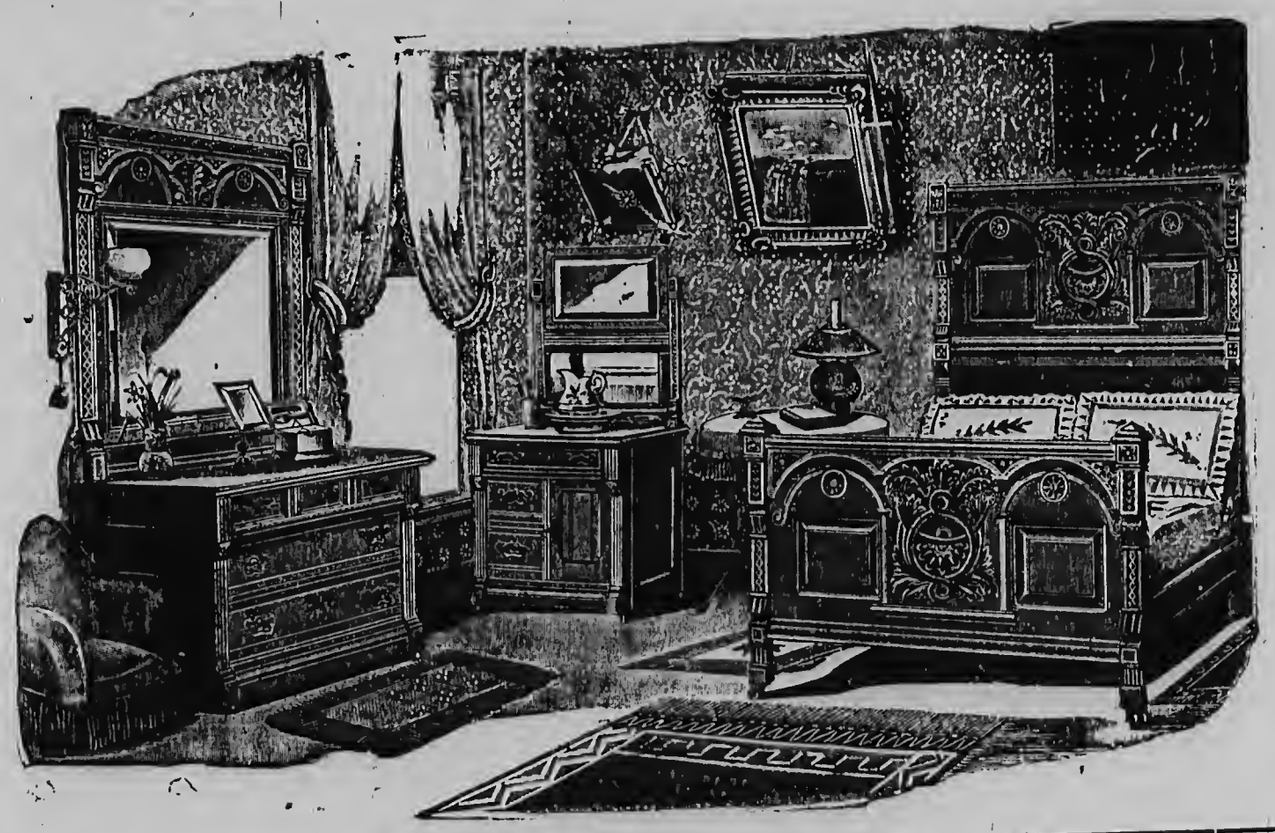
NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Valours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK.

In all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

German Electric Belt Agency.

An advertisement of this firm appears in another part of this paper. The proprietors of this Agency are well-known and responsible parties. Correspondence will receive prompt and satisfactory attention: write them and see for yourself.

The breath of prayer comes from the life of faith.—J. Mason.

Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Flux.

Magnire's Remedy Plant for nearly 50 years the infallible cure. Thousands of testimonials; indorsed by the Western Sanitary Commission, U. S. army officers, hospital physicians, steamboat officers, etc. Taken in time a sure preventive of Asiatic cholera needs the brightest and best of music. The 2,000,000 readers of this ad. are all invited to provide themselves with music or music books from our complete and varied stock.

This Bright New 1891

Send freely for lists and information.

SOME OF OUR NEWEST BOOKS.

SONGS OF IRELAND. $1 00. Choice, revised collection of very favorite songs. 96 songs. 144 pages.

POTTER'S RESPONSES AND SENTENCES. 75 cts.; $6 75 doz. A timely and good collection, which will be welcomed by many choirs. More than 50 short pieces, with a number of Glorias, Chants, etc.

PRAYER AND PRAISE. Captain Ballard. A good and easy cantata, for a Choir or Chorus. 50 cents; $4 50 per dozen.

MASONIC ODE. Fithian. A new most convenient book of easy and good music, perfectly fitted for the masonic ritual. Much needed. 60 cts.; $6 doz.

COMIC AND MINSTREL SONGS $1 00. 40 merry songs, well calculated to make time pass cheerfully.

BANNER FOLIO. Violin and Piano. Winner. Large number of popular melodies, skilfully arranged for Violin, with Piano accompaniment. $1 00.

MANDOLIN AND PIANO DUETS Winner. About 75 popular airs for Mandolin and Piano. $1 00.

Any Book mailed, post paid, for retail price

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York City

THE

Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

EIGHTH ANNUAL STATEMENT.

In conformity with the requirements of its charter, the company publishes the following statement of its business for the year ending the 31st day of December, 1890:

Premiums received—

On fire risks	$184,476 26
On river risks	20,908 32
On marine risks	10,195 39
		$515,180 17
Add—
Unearned premiums of 1889		114,288 32
Total premiums		$629,768 49
Add—
Interest and profit and loss		19,211 53
Total income		$648,980 02
Deduct: Losses paid—
On fire risks	$192,120 82
On river risks	1,654 78
On marine risks	2,286 74
Total losses paid	$196,062 28
Return premiums and cancellations	56,883 23
Commissions	78 131 15
Reinsurances	36,700 84
Taxes and licenses	9,904 40
Expenses—Home office and agencies, salaries, Fire Underwriters' Association, Salvage Corps and Bureau engines, rent, advertising, etc.	42,972 01
Total disbursements		$419,663 91
Surplus		$229,316 11
Of which—
Reserved for unexpired risks	$153,231 10
Reserved for adjusted and unadjusted losses	41,982 31
Net profit	34,102 70
		$229,81 11

ASSETS

(At their market values).

Cash on hand, to wit:
In banks	$87,268 97
In office	4,228 46	$ 91,597 43
$100,000 City of New Orleans consolidated bonds (Crozat an issue)		105,000 00
$120,000 City of New Orleans premium bonds (including drawn numbers)		188,400 00
$25,000 United States 4 per cent. coupon bonds		30,000 00
$30,000 Louisiana 4 per cent. bonds		27,000 00
Demand loans secured by collaterals		47,610 00
One share N. O. Board of Trade stock		20 00
One share La. Sugar Exchange stock		150 00
25 shares N. O. Warehouse Co.		625 00
One share French Opera House Co.		200 00
One bond St Bernard Steam Fire Engine Co.		50 00
Premiums in course of collection		66,195 68
Furniture and fixtures, safe, etc.		2,000 00
		$559,348 11

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock	$300,000 00
Reserve fund	40,000 00
Dividends unpaid	2,032 00
Reserved for unexpired risks	153,231 10
Reserved for adjusted and unadjusted losses	41,982 31
Balance (exclusive dividend July, 1890)	42,102 70
	$559,348 11

The foregoing statement is a true and correct transcript from the books of the company.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President.
SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this day, New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1891.

M. T. DUCROS, Notary Public, 18s Gravier street.

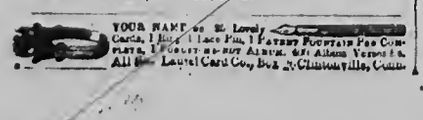
We, the undersigned, members of the Finance Committee of the Southern Insurance Company of New Orleans, hereby certify that we have carefully examined the assets of the company, and that the above is a correct statement of the same.

J. H. MENGE,
FRANK RODER,
THOS. J. WOODWARD,
F. G. ERNST.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of this company, held this day, it was unanimously resolved to pay to the stockholders, on demand, the regular semi-annual interest dividend of FOUR PER CENT., and to place $20,000 to the reserve fund, making $60,000 to the credit of said fund.

SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1891.



QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Manassas cir., at Energy	Feb. 7, 8
Vossburg cir., at Vossburg	(Wed.) 11
DeKalb cir., at DeKalb	14, 15
Porterville circuit, at Narkeeta	21, 22
Meridian, at West End	(1 hrs.) 26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar. 1
Meridian, at East End	28, 1
Daleville sta	(Fri.) 6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Hinnesville and Wahalak	28, 29

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Heidleburg, at Heidleburg	Feb. 7, 8
Hay St. Louis, at Hay St. Louis	14, 15
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Tu., W.)	17, 18
Perrington, at Pearlington	21, 22
Perry, at Isabella	28, Mar. 1
American, at Caswell Springs	7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point	(night) 8, 8
Vancleave, at Pine Grove	(W., Th.) 11, 12
Whittington, at Whittington	14, 15
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	Mar. 21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, 29

E. H. MOUNCE, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

McComb, at Tolusaw	Feb. 7, 8
Crystal Springs sta	14, 15
Hazlehurst sta	21, 22
Bowerton, at Brandywine	28, Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon	(Mon.) 2
Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	7, 8
China Grove, at Waterholes	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton	(Tues.) 17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Bahala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Rose Hill, at Rose Hill	Feb. 7, 8
Newton and Hickory, at Hickory	8, 9
Westville, at Pleasant Hill	14, 15
Shiloh, at Cato	21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron	10
Marvin, at Marvin	14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	21, 22
Raleigh, at Trinity	28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton	29, 30

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Warren, at Oak Ridge	Feb. 7, 8
Rolling Fork, at Carey	15, 16
Rocky Springs, at Hermonville	21, 22
Burtonton, at Pisgah	(Mon.) 23
Utica, at Utica	(Wed.) 25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 23

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

St. Helena, at McLean's Chapel	Feb. 7, 8
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	14, 15
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent	17
Live Oak	19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson station	25
Clinton and Betoville, at Clinton	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tailsheck, at Fitzgerald	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Amite City, at Amite City	19
Springfield, at Killian Chapel	21, 22

C. McDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bentonia and Dover, at Bentonia	Feb. 7, 8
Yazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel	14, 15
Yazoo City station (Sun. night, Mon.)	15, 16
Benton, at Bowman's	21, 22
Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Mooringsport, at Mooringsport	Feb. 7, 8
South Bossier, at Fillmore	14, 15
DeSoto, at Bethel	21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Holly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 25. ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Alexandria	Feb. 7, 8
Pineville, at Hickory Grove	14, 15
Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	18, 19
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassau	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beulah	21, 22

District stewards' meeting at Alexandria, February 7, 1891.

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Delhi, at Delhi	Feb. 7, 8
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	14, 15
Waterproof, at Waterproof	21, 22
Providence, at Providence	28, Mar. 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

District stewards will meet at Delhi, February 7. H. O. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Morgan Street	Feb. 8
Baton Rouge	15
Gross Tete and False River, at Har'y	22
Prairie Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma, at Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12-15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Franklin	Feb. 7, 8
Lake Arthur	14, 15
Lake Charles	21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Vernon, at Vernon	Feb. 7, 8
Gansville	14, 15
Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

If it's sciatica, bathe with Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, pressing the muscles and nerves hard.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Hon. John J. Ingalls, for many years in the U. S. Senate from Kansas, has been retired by the Kansas Legislature, and a Farmer's Alliance man will succeed him.

Hon. William Windom, Secretary of the Treasury, died suddenly, on Jan. 29, of heart disease, while at a banquet in New York City, and just as he had finished responding to a toast.

The World's Fair directors have discovered that nothing less than $15,000,000 will meet the necessities of the exposition, and but $9,928,000 are in sight. It is expected that the people of Chicago will raise the necessary balance.

The House Committee on Appropriations have agreed to the recommendation made by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Mason to appropriate $210,000 in order to carry into effect the sugar bounty provision of the present tariff law.

The Louisiana Agricultural Society, which met in Alexandria, last week, had a successful session. Numerous interesting papers on sugar were read by members of the society advocating the establishment of central factories for the better advancement of the industry.

Senator Dolph has reported favorably from the Naval Committee an amendment proposed to the naval appropriation bill providing $50,000 to enable the President to cause soundings to be made between San Francisco and Honolulu to determine the practicability of laying a cable between those points.

With one exception all the fruit canneries in California have formed a compact, with $5,000,000 capital stock, to last fifty years. All of the cannories will be purchased for two-thirds cash and one-third stock. They will then be under the control of a corporation which will be known as the California Fruit Canneries, Limited.

A large audience, which witnessed a test of the air-ship at the Chicago Exhibition Building, was decidedly inclined to declare it a success. To all appearances it was thoroughly demonstrated that a craft has at last been invented that permits feats of aerial navigation never before accomplished—propelling and steering. The ship is the one invented by William Pennington, of Mount Carmel, Ind.

The government Board of Control of the World's Fair, Chicago, has selected a site for the federal exhibit. The building is to be placed upon a plot of fifteen acres on the lake shore in Jackson Park, opposite Fifty-ninth street. The main building will cover four acres. The structure will be of stone, iron and glass, and the architecture will be elaborate and ornate. Its dimensions are to be 420 by 320 feet, with a center dome 120 feet in diameter and 150 feet in height, with an allotment of space for each department

FOREIGN.

At Marash, Turkey (in Asia), 1,500 deaths from the scourge occurred in six weeks.

Meissonnier, the distinguished painter, died in Paris on January 31, aged seventy-six years.

Mr. Chas. Bradlaugh, member of Parliament for Northampton, a famous social reformer, and atheist, died on Jan. 30.

Three regiments of infantry revolted in Oporto, Portugal, on Jan. 31, and, being attacked by royal troops, a fierce battle was fought in the streets of the city. The rebels finally surrendered and will be tried by court-martial. The leaders will probably be shot.

There are startling rumors current in Polish circles to the effect that Russian Nihilists are preparing for another political murder. The thirtieth of March, the anniversary of the assassination of Czar Alexander, is said to be the date determined upon by the Nihilists for the next coup.

According to Chilian advices received, there have been desperate and sanguinary battles fought in the provinces of Chili between the rebel forces and the government troops. There have been many killed on both sides, but the reports are conflicting as to which side proved victorious.

Telegrams from Greece tell of a horrible disaster wrought by an avalanche. One of these huge masses of snow, ice and earth came rolling down from the mountains upon the town of Athamana with terrible results. Twenty-five persons were killed outright and many were injured, while eighty houses were destroyed.

Prof. Koch, who is about to start for Egypt, gave a farewell reception to his laboratory assistants. The professor said that he will probably be absent from Berlin about three months. He explains that he only partially disclosed the method of the production of the curative lymph, because he desired to stop the rush of doctors to Berlin.

Mr. Shaw Lefevre (Liberal) moved in the House of Commons that the government use its influence in favor of the settlement by arbitration of the remaining disputes between the tenants and landlords in Ireland arising from the plan of campaign. He said that there were now only twenty estates upon which differences exist. Mr. Balfour, in an opposing speech, said that if the government was insane enough as to propose such an absurd bolstering of the tottering plan of campaign, the House would not be insane enough to adopt it.

To purify your blood,
Restore your strength,
Cure scrofula, salt rheum,
Dyspepsia, sick headache,
Catarrh, rheumatism or malaria—
Take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Alden—"Pansy"—is wintering at her usual cold-weather home, Winter Park, Florida. Her new volume, "Miss Deo Dunmore Bryant," just issued by D. Lothrop Company, is the latest and, therefore, the best work of her versatile and popular pen.

Use Salvation Oil at once for severe headache and neuralgia. Price only 25 cents.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.

Low ordinary	6 13-16	@ — —
Ordinary	7 5-16	— —
Good ordinary	7¾	— —
Low middling	8⅛	— —
Middling	9 1-16	— —
Good middling	10 3-16	— —
Middling fair	11 5-16	— —
Fair	12 1-16	— —
Galveston, middling	9⅛	— —
Mobile, middling	9	— —
Memphis, middling	9⅛	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅜	— —
Fully fair	4⅛	4 5-16
Good fair	4⅛	4 5-16
Common	3½	4
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3¼	4⅝
Prime yellow	5 1-16	— —
Gray white	— —	5⅛
Choice white	— —	5⅛
Standard granulated	— —	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	9	11
Good common	9	11
Syrup	16	28

RICE.

No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	5⅜	5⅝
Fair	5⅝	5¼
Prime	5⅝	5¾
Rough, ₱ bbl	3 50	5 30
Polish, ₱ ton	22-00	24 00

FLOUR.

Extra Fancy	5 10	5 20
Fancy	4 62½	4 87½
Choice	— —	4 35
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 50	5 62½
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 60

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	3 10	3 15
Cream meal	— —	3 30
Grits	3 35	3 40
Hominy	3 50	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	64	65
Yellow	— —	65
Mixed No. 2	64	65
OATS:
Western	56	57
Texas rust-proof	59	60
BRAN:
₱ cwt	1 17½	1 20
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 50
Choice	16 00	16 50

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	11 12½	11 25
Prime Mess	10 50	10 75
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8¼	8¾
Shoulders	5⅝	— —
Sides, short rib	6¼	6⅜
Sides, long clear	6⅛	6¼
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9¾	10¼
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅝	— —
Sides, short rib	5½	— —
Sides, long clear	5½	— —

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
No. —	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	23	— —
Western Dairy	18	20
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5¼	5⅜
OILS:
Coal, bbls	3	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	23	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	8 00	10 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 25	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	5 50	6 00

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7¾	— —
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₱ yard	— —	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₱ bundle	1 35	1 37½

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	5 00
Young Chickens	2 00	3 70
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	16	17
Southern	18	— —
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₱ lb	3½	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	80 00	82 00
Muriatic acid ₱ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, February 3.

Cuticura Soap

For Bad Complexions, Red Rough Hands and Baby Humors.

BAD COMPLEXIONS, WITH PIMPLY, blotchy, oily skin, Red, Rough Hands, with chaps, painful finger ends and shapeless nails, and simple Baby Humors prevented and cured by CUTICURA SOAP. A marvelous beautifier of world-wide celebrity, it is simply incomparable as a Skin Purifying Soap, unequalled for the Toilet and without a rival for the Nursery. Absolutely pure, delicately medicated, exquisitely perfumed, CUTICURA SOAP produces the whitest, clearest skin, and softest hands and prevents inflammation and clogging of the pores, the cause of pimples, blackheads, and most complexional disfigurations, while it admits of no comparison with the best of other skin soaps, and rivals in delicacy the most noted and expensive of toilet and nursery soaps. Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin soaps.

Sold throughout the world. Price, 25 cents.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Address POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Aching sides and back, weak kidneys, and rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER 25 cents.

KURSHEEDT'S

Marble Works,

120 and 122 Camp St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

The Success of the Original supports the imitations and there's a crowd of them hanging to Pearline. It saves work for them, as it does for everybody. It saves them talk, too. It's the one cry of the peddler that his imitation is "the same as Pearline," or "as good as Pearline." It isn't true, but it shows what he thinks of Pearline. He knows that Pearline is the standard—the very best for its purpose. So does everybody who has used it. Beware of the basket gang—be sure you get Pearline. Get it from your grocer—and send back any imitation he may send you. Pearline is never peddled, and is manufactured only by 178 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid In Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. DREDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans.

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.75
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,581.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - - $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HEILBINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, Jr., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 7. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1799.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

NEWS FROM OUR MISSIONS.

Letter from Japan.

AROUND THE INLAND SEA.

MR. EDITOR: A few days since I returned from a trip around the Inland Sea, having journeyed, by small steamers and jinrikishas, over one thousand miles. In company with Dr. W. R. Lambuth and Bro. Rollins, we visited our brethren in the interior, endeavored to strengthen their hands, opened a new station, and prospected in some unoccupied territory. Time will not permit a detailed account of the journey; so only a few points can be noticed.

In the interior, away from the open ports, where the foreigner seldom goes, and where his civilization has not yet been carried, a traveler can see much of Japanese life, of which a resident of a consular port has little conception. The reader should remember that the things now mentioned are not true of the Japanese as a whole—far from it—but only of a part of them. I have met many really elegant people among the Japanese, who, judging them by their own standard of politeness and refinement, will compare favorably with the best people of our own land; but there are "classes" in Japan, just as in other lands, and what I may say refers to things seen among "the common class," on whom Buddhism has its strongest hold, and who are steeped in its many superstitions.

MATSURI.

Shintoism is a governmental institution, which exists for the purpose of paying homage, by certain rites and ceremonies, to the deceased members of the royal family and the deified spirits of prominent men. Once or twice a year the Shintoist temples hold Matsuries, or festivals. It was our privilege to see a very large one at a place called Mitajiri, the port of Zamazuchi, the capital of Zamazuchi Ken. At Mitajiri there is a large temple dedicated to the memory of a departed hero, who lived in the ninth century, named Sugawara Michizane. A few words in regard to his history: He was a polished courtier, who rose, by the force of his talents and learning, to the position of inner court minister. He also had high rank as a scholar, and was the author of several histories, some of which are still extant. Like all men of ability and position, he had some associates who were jealous of his success. These poisoned the mind of the Emperor against him, and secured an edict banishing him to the island of Kiushiu. Here, in poverty and exile, he starved to death in the year 903. After his death the popular verdict turned in his favor, and he was deeply lamented. He is now worshiped as the patron god of letters and literature. Children at school pray to him, that they may become good writers, and students worship his spirit.

The Matsuri was in its second day, and was at its height, when we reached Mitajiri. The little town of two thousand inhabitants had, at least, twenty thousand people in it, many of whom had come from forty and fifty miles away. Of this number, two thousand were young men and boys who had made vows to pay particular homage to the departed spirit of Sugawara, some for as much as ten years, or more. These vows were made for all imaginable reasons. We met one young man who had suffered with a chronic headache, and who had vowed for a period of twelve years in hope of a cure. The crowning event of the Matsuri is the procession held in honor of the patron god, or deified spirit, and the vows of these young men are fulfilled by their acting as carriers for the different sacred articles displayed by the priests. Among these, in this instance, are the shrine, said to contain the spirit of Sugawara, an image of the old prime minister, his traveling-box, or clothes-chest, etc. A word about the dress, or lack of dress, of these young men: None of them had on any covering for their legs at all; some had on white gauze undershirts, with a narrow strip of cotton cloth about their loins, while many had no other dress save the strip of cloth.

The Matsuri proper did not take place till ten o'clock; but from eight to ten o'clock we witnessed a scene that we can never forget. Imagine, if you can, two thousand young men, on a cool November night, to all intents and purposes naked, trooping up and down the narrow streets, uttering a monotonous "Ji hi, ji hi," so closely packed together that, under the melancholy light that filtered through the translucent paper lanterns suspended from the trees and houses, they appeared like one solid moving mass, and you have a faint outline of the scene that was before us. Towards ten o'clock the excitement rose to fever heat, and the devotees acted more like demons than like human beings. Superstitious frenzy can not be put on paper; but I can hardly conceive that the inhabitants of the lost regions could act more wildly than did these young men. When the sacred articles were brought out for the procession, the feeling was so intense that I believe had they been a juggernautal car instead, scores, even hundreds, would eagerly have cast themselves under its ponderous wheels in sacrifice. As the procession moved through the street, carrying the different articles sacred to the memory of Sugawara, thousands of the people, perhaps all, bowed their heads and worshiped the spirit of this deified man, repeating their prayers in an audible tone of voice. At half-past ten we left the scene of this gross idolatrous worship, in order to secure a little needed sleep before we boarded the steamer at two o'clock in the morning. We went to bed sick at heart, but thankful that we knew God and had the hope of the gospel.

MUD IMAGE.

Our trip proved to be during the Matsuri season, and we passed through several towns where they either had been, or were to be held. At one place we saw a huge image, or idol, but recently erected, and made of common mud. It must have been ten feet high, and was of commensurate proportions. This was the first of the kind I had ever seen, and I was somewhat surprised at it; but I suppose that common mud is as good an article of which to make an idol as silver or gold.

HOT SPRINGS.

Japan is volcanic in origin. There are many proofs of this, there being numerous active volcanoes at present, and many extinct ones. Hot springs, always found in volcanic regions, abound. On the island of Kiushiu, near the town of Beppo, there are some large ones. At these two of us beheld a sight which, did it not show the great depth of degradation and superstition into which Buddhism can sink its devotees, would not be put on paper. Briefly, the scene was this: A number of men and women were seen bathing together in the same pool, after which they walked through the village together in their nude condition, and entered, by crawling on their hands and knees, a mud and straw hovel built over some natural steam vents, where they sat on stones, on which the name of Buddha had been engraved, and took a vapor bath for ten or fifteen minutes, after which they went down to the bath and washed off the mud and straw. On inquiry as to why they did this, the answer was given that Buddha put these springs there for them, and that by seating themselves on the stones on which his name was engraved, they would hasten the time of their entrance into Nirvana—that is, lessen the number of their transmigrations, thereby shortening the time till they are absorbed into Buddha.

I have already written too long a letter, so must close. I have given you some facts; more could be given, some even worse than any of the above; but enough. I need not tell you that we are in crying need of more laborers; many places are appealing for help; but our hands are full, and yet our hearts yearn over these people who are perishing for want of the gospel. What shall we do? We can not let them die in their sins; we must not! God will hold us accountable, and the blood of their souls will be on our skirts. Yet we who are here can not do more than we are doing; we are all working at the highest tension; we are constantly fearing that the cords will snap, and that some of our number will break down, for the human machine can not endure high pressure long. We should have help, and have it at once. Ten men with wives could be placed to-day at points already in hand. My brother, you have helped us nobly in the past; still give us your aid. Cry aloud, and spare not, until our beloved Zion shall come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty; until Southern Methodism shall be aroused to a full sense of her duty, and shall meet the responsibilities that God has laid upon her. I hope to tell you more of this trip in another letter. W. E. TOWSON.

Kobe, Japan.

Letter from China.

MR. EDITOR: A short time ago, at one of our little prayer meetings, several instances were given, by different members of our circle, of how the gospel was being disseminated throughout this part of China, and of how generally the people were getting a head-knowledge of the Christian religion; and also of how the Holy Spirit was working in the hearts of some of the converts, revealing to them that it is their duty, as well as their privilege, to tell the "old, old story" to those of their friends and relatives who know it not; and also the fact that the ear of the eternal Father is ever open to hear the petitions of his children, whether for personal blessings, or the presentation of the case of friend, loved one, or the whole of mankind.

Miss Haygood, at this meeting, told us that she had been in the native city of Shanghai (we live in the Concession) a day or two before, and that Mr. Fong had this pleasant information to impart. He said that, as he had been out walking the day before, he heard a youth telling and explaining, so far as he understood it, the doctrine of the Christian religion (as set forth in a little catechism used by Protestant missionaries very extensively in this part of China) to a crowd of interested listeners. Upon inquiry, he learned that the boy had formerly been a pupil in a day-school taught by a native Christian woman, and under the supervision of the Woman's Union Mission; but who had discontinued his studies to begin work. Oh, the possibilities for spreading the truth through the children who are thus brought together in day-schools! We have connected with our own mission, in Shanghai alone, eight such schools, having enrolled from between 150 and 200 names. Daily are they taught and drilled in the principles of the true doctrine. May the Holy Spirit come with the divine unction, and pour it out upon their heads! Miss Haygood also told of a little girl who had been attending one of our day-schools for months, and who had not always been noted for the best behavior, but who had lately given evidence of a change in manner and expression. During the course of a lesson with her, she declared that she did believe in Christ, and wanted to serve him. The gospel has the power, in China as well as in America, to effect radical changes in the lives and deportment of those who will yield themselves to its influence.

Mr. Loehr also had cheering news for us in regard to a teacher connected with the Anglo-Chinese College. This man said that he had for years been cognizant of the Christian religion, but that only during the past autumn had he accepted its precepts and teachings as true. He stated that he had thoroughly investigated all the religions of the East from his youth, and that he had found nothing that satisfied either his mind or heart, and that as old age crept upon him, he dreaded more and more the thought of facing the unknown future, and of crossing the river that knows of no return, without something more satisfying than Buddhism, Confucianism, or Taouism. At last he had turned his thoughts towards the Christian religion, and said that he was satisfied that the door to happiness, peace and justification was to be found only through the religion of Christ. Over sixty years has rolled over his head; yet the Holy Spirit has touched his heart, and made it glow and burn with love to Christ, and has given him hope to face what was before a dreaded future. You see how, through preaching and teaching, the truth is spreading, if only the Holy Spirit would come with all his quickening power, and convict and convert.

Miss Hughes also made us to rejoice, and gave us fresh encouragement to push forward by telling of how one of the girls in Clopton School was concerned about those of her kindred who were out of Christ, especially of a cousin who was sick, and who had heard of the truth, but had not accepted it. She felt that she, personally, must try to help him to an understanding of the truth; so she asked for books to send him, and on receiving them, dispatched them to him, and also said that she daily prayed for him. The man has since died; but whether he accepted the truth, is not known. I tell this to show that even amongst girls, who have been brought from heathen darkness, the desire to spread abroad the glad tidings is not lacking, and that in some instances personal effort to win souls is put forth.

These instances, that I have stated above, have all come under the observation and knowledge of members of our own mission within the past few weeks, and not unfrequently do we hear of similar examples from others. The rain-drops are falling; but, oh, for the showers of blessings! Pray for us, that we may be more consecrated workers, that our native helpers may be more efficient, and that our force may be reinforced by new additions, and that the Holy Spirit may work in our midst; and I doubt not but that soon we will have refreshing showers. MARY MCCLELLAN.

Shanghai, Jan. 31.

Letter from Mexico.

MR. EDITOR: I want to tell our dear ladies at home that our missionary society in Mexico lives. This afternoon we met, as usual, in the school-room. There were only ten of us present; but the Savior's promise to meet with two or three gathered in his name, was fully verified. We had the questions in the last Missionary Reporter translated, for the instruction of our women, and the answers. They were amazed to learn how much there is yet to do before the world is captured for Christ. They prayed very earnestly for the missionaries, and realized, more fully than ever before, their personal responsibility. Five women offered earnest prayers for the work and the workers, and the blessed Savior came and filled the hearts of these praying Mexican women, so that when we rose from our knees, ten hearts were full, eyes suffused with tears, and we parted, feeling that our meeting was not in vain. Pray for us; and I hope Dr. John will always have a short chapter of information as well suited as the last; then he can preach effectively in Mexico even when absent. I also trust our Woman's Advocate will come to us, bringing the help we need.

I have begged right royally for our church in Mexico, and have told you of our little hired room in that terribly heathen part of the city. Mr. Weems had a fine network of iron made to enclose the windows before he allowed the pastor to hold a single service. All went pretty well until last Tuesday night, when our preacher was holding his weekly prayer meeting, when the crowd outside insulted him, and threw mud and clods of dirt through the iron network, crying out in abuse all the time. The crowd increased, and cries of "Long live the religion of our Holy Virgin!" and "Death to the Protestants!" They grew to be a regular mob, and one of the brethren was most shamefully insulted and abused. The mob became so furious it became necessary for the pastor to glide through the midst of the mob to seek protection from the police headquarters.

Now, I appeal again in behalf of our preacher. Don't you think we ought to have a house to worship, where the minister and his little flock will have a better chance for their lives, than in this little room? Our preacher looks somewhat pallid, but he is deeply interested in this work, and is brave, but prudent: Poor fellow, he takes his life in his hand, for there are generally very few Christians near him, and he'd be completely at the mercy of the cruel mob. Thank the Lord no harm was done to him and his little handfull! Pray for him and us. You will see Roman Catholicism is not dead, for this daring act in the very center of our capital, near the governor's mansion, shows how deadly is their hatred of us. We need your prayers and your help. S. G. WEEMS.

"How Long Halt Ye between Two Opinions?"

Two more brethren are now seriously considering the proposition made by me a few weeks ago, and are almost persuaded to join the other two who are pledged each to contribute $100 annually to send a missionary to Japan, and support him while there. I am sure that they will join the band of ten. Others are thinking, thinking, and the Holy Spirit is striving with them; but they are halting, and selfishness is tempting them to say, "I pray thee, have me excused!"

I can count more than thirty people—yes, fifty—in the Meridian district who are able to contribute $100 a year to this special object, and yet how slowly do they respond! If they only loved the Lord Jesus a little more than they do! If they only had the "unspeakable gift," and counted it a privilege, and not a burden, to help in extending our Redeemer's kingdom!

And the man is ready to go. It is only necessary for the Bishop to say, "Go!" and he will quickly make his preparation. Besides him, there are four young men and two young ladies at Fairview College under pledge to go to any field when their schooling shall have been completed. They count not life dear, and yet some value money more than they value souls. Why this halting, brethren, when there is room for only one opinion? We must go or send, or—we die!

Let subscriptions be made at once; or, while you are halting, somebody else will subscribe, the opportunity be gone, and your blessing be forfeited. Don't halt. Step forward, join the band, and in six months, or even less, time the band of ten will be receiving letters from their own missionary in Japan, and, through him, be winning souls to Jesus, our Savior.

T. L. MELLEN.

1819 N. 22nd Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

Astrology and Astronomy.

The science of astronomy—though, perhaps, the most ancient of sciences—is itself an outgrowth of the pseudo-science, astrology. All the earlier observations and calculations on the appearance, position and movements of the heavenly bodies were made with reference to their supposed bearing on the events of the world's history and the destinies of men. It was not until after many years of observation that the ancients recognized any real difference between the planets and fixed stars, regarding the peculiar movements of the former, which they could not explain, as indicative of good or evil. The primitive Greeks are said to have soberly believed that the sun was a great torch, from which the stars, which they supposed to be candles, were periodically lighted and extinguished, while others held notions equally as absurd. It was not until superstitious inquiry had led to considerable observation that astrological investigation and study was at all systematized. Finally, natural astrology, having to do with the motions of the heavenly bodies, eclipses, and the like, was regarded as distinct, in a certain sense, from judicial astrology, which had, for its special province, the study of the influences exerted by heavenly bodies on individuals and nations. The sun, the moon, and the planets came to be regarded as deities, each exercising functions peculiar to himself. By the Egyptians the sun was considered as lord of the forehead, and the moon as mistress of the brain, while Mercury was given special charge over the tongue. The left eye was referred to Saturn, and the right to Jupiter; the right nostril to Mars, and the left to Venus. As the knowledge of the human body increased, the province of the god-stars was enlarged. Among the ancient Greeks the deities were made to serve as types of men and manners. Jupiter was regarded as the embodiment of authority, Mars presided over war, Venus over the passions, and to others were ascribed special functions.

Astrologers claimed that a knowledge of the position of the planets in the constellations at an individual's birth enabled them to foretell his fate; and some gave themselves over so completely to the illusions of astrology as to claim that, by observing the hair, complexion, and features of a person, they could determine under which planet he was born, and hence work out his horoscope. One physiognomist said of a person whom he had examined: "By his hair and his forehead it is easy to guess that the sun at his birth was in the sign Libra, and near Venus. Nay, his complexion shows that Venus touches Libra. By the rules of astrology, he could not lie." Cordan, a noted astrologer as well as physician, hated Luther, and so changed the reformer's birthday in order to give him an unfavorable horoscope. Some men even concealed the hour and day of their birth until they found an astrologer whom they thought very complaisant.

Comets were regarded with great aversion by the ancients, being considered as always ominous of evil, and their descriptions of them are scarcely to be trusted. The idea of the ancients as to the motion of these bodies must have been very vague. Aristotle and his school believed that they were inflammable substances thrown off from the earth and ignited in the upper regions of the air, hence rather meteorological than astronomical in their nature. It was not until 1577 that it was shown (by Tycho Brahe) that comets are farther distant than our moon; and it was more than a hundred years later before their orbits began to be understood. The great comet that appeared in 1456, and which was thought to resemble a saber, caused great alarm. The Turks had taken Constantinople just three years before, had established themselves in Greece, and were then threatening all Europe, and this comet is said to have called forth the prayer, "From the comet, the Turk, and the devil, good Lord, deliver us." This same comet had appeared in 1066, at the time of the Norman conquest, and was regarded by some as a favorable omen for William the Conqueror. It may be added here that this comet is known to astronomers as "Halley's Comet," which appeared last in 1835, within two days of the predicted time, and will next appear about 1911, the exact calculation as to its return not yet having been made.

J. M. SULLIVAN.

Centenary College.

In Memoriam.

Dr. F. M. Featherstun, pastor of our church in Woodville, Miss., died Jan. 30, at 3:30 P. M., aged sixty-three years four months and six days. For four or five months he had been complaining from the effects of a bilious attack. Being generally of unusually robust health, and yielding reluctantly to the necessity of taking care of himself, he, frequently imprudently, overtaxed himself. He was exceedingly systematic and prompt in attending to his regular duties, besides being called on in all conditions of the weather to attend a number of funerals. In the midst of his labors he was stricken with the prevailing epidemic. It was not long before his physicians and attendants began to fear the end was near. He was not slow to discover it himself. When he discovered that one of his lungs was seriously involved, he said bravely that he would die. There was not a cloud seen in all his sky during the whole of his sickness. He was cheerfully and pleasantly taking it all in, and had to be restrained from talking about the prospect before him. A number of times unspeakable joy filled his soul. He rebuked anything like sombreness about him. No one could doubt his readiness. Was that not a brave, triumphant death, and an abundant entrance through the gates of life? He had preached his last sermon from John xiv, 2: "In my Father's house are many mansions," etc. He was exceptionally luminous on his theme, and stated that of late he had been thinking much about it. The last words of his sermon were: "May God bless you all, and may we all get safely home to heaven!" He did not know, then how close the Spirit was leading him to the golden gate, through which he was so soon to pass.

Another hand will prepare a sketch in memoriam. The church at Woodville is in sorrow. He had won many friends, and admirers in this community, impressing all with the feeling that he was a true, strong, and good man. His remains were taken to the little church, and thence to the new cemetery, in the midst of a storm of rain and wind fearful almost beyond description, Dr. Hunnicutt officiating at the grave from his seat in a covered buggy, and the ground afloat with water everywhere. Nature was in one of her most awful moods, as the faithful men, ankle-deep in water, lowered the remains into the grave, there to await, but not forever. Let not the church forget the bereaved left behind.

THOS. W. BROWN.

Woodville, Miss.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEB. 12, 1891.

LATTER DAY WARNINGS.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

When legislators keep the law,
When banks dispense with bolts and locks,
When berries—whortle, rasp and straw—
Grow bigger downwards through the box—

When he that selleth house or land
Shows leak in roof or flaw in right—
When haberdashers choose the stand
Whose window hath the broadest light,

When preachers tell us all they think,
And party leaders all they mean—
When what we pay for, that we drink,
From real grape and coffee-bean—

When lawyers take what they would give,
And doctors give what they would take—
When city fathers eat to live,
Save when they fast for conscience sake—

When one that hath a horse on sale
Shall bring his merit to the proof,
Without a lie for every nail
That holds the iron on the hoof—

When in the usual place for rips
Our gloves are stitched with special care,
And guarded well the whalebone tips
Where first umbrellas need repair—

When Cuba's weeds have quite forgot
The power of suction to resist,
And claret bottles harbor not
Such dimples as would hold your fist—

When publishers no longer steal,
And pay for what they stole before—
When the first locomotive's wheel
Rolls through the Hoosac Tunnel's bore—

Till then let Cumming blaze away,
And Miller's saints blow up the globe;
But when you see that blessed day,
Then order your ascension robe!

—The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table.

Dr. Abbey to Dr. Hoss.

In a recent article, in the Nashville Advocate, Dr. Abbey writes a strong endorsement of an editorial by Dr. Hoss on Church Polity.

We think, while Dr. Abbey takes the position almost universally received by our ministers, and the unmistakable position of our church on the subject, he makes some sweeping statements that I feel should call attention. He creates the impression that he, principally, and two other minor lights are all to be found in all Episcopal Methodism who have embodied in brochure-form the idea that Christ and his apostles never ordained nor instituted a stereotyped form of ecclesiastical polity. He gives Dr. Hoss the credit of being the only editor of the Episcopal Methodist press for sixty years who has ever advanced this view.

Moderation would require great certitude before making such an arraignment of our authors and editors. Everyone who has ever been intimately connected with the prevailing sentiment of our church on this subject, must know that this is the dominant view of our authorities.

Before I joined the itinerancy I had the great privilege of being a student under our beloved Bishop Granbery, who was a strong advocate of this doctrine, and embodied his position in lectures on church polity.

I desire to call Dr. Abbey's attention to a modest work that it might do well to examine before he has any more dreams over the seeming monopoly which he holds on this doctrine—before he dreams to the dimming the ken of reasonable investigation. The author, it is presumed, is either unknown to Dr. Abbey, or so obscure that he considers it not worth the trouble to read. If he will send to the Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South, he will get the work in two small volumes. "Systematic Theology," by the Rev. Thos. O. Summers, D. D., LL.D., contains some utterances which indicate that, for a man of his limited information, he had heard of this novel departure of Methodist thought and had given it some consideration.

In Vol. II., of this work, and on page 461, we find this utterance: "We do not, indeed, deny that any company of Christians, small or large, may unite together on an independent platform, and agree upon a form of doctrine, discipline and worship to suit themselves." Again, page 493, "Christianity makes no provision for solitary discipleship. It develops itself into a living organism."

It may be possible that Dr. Summers may have read some of Dr. Abbey's books in his youth. It is evident, however, that he aligns the principles of his pedagogics with Dr. Abbey. Further, I think that Dr. Abbey grossly misrepresents Dr. Ralston. Dr. R. does not maintain a cast-iron theory of church polity. He says, in reference to his argument, that certain propositions will be maintained. Among these propositions are the following:

"The Scriptures do set forth, so far as some leading foundation principles are concerned, a form of church government; and thus far all churches should be conformed to the Scriptural model.

"In much of the detail pertaining to church polity, the Scriptures give no specific instructions, and in relation to all such matters churches are left to be guided by the principles of reason and expediency." Elements of Divinity, p. 858.)

This is open to no valid objection, judging by the standards recommended by our Bishops on this point. I refer Dr. Abbey to Meander and Jacobs, as it is not my purpose to raise a controversy with him, but only to show that he is doing our church and its authors on doctrine an injustice in ignoring all but himself on this very important question. I am not as old as Dr. Abbey, and have not read all the issues of the church press for sixty years, and can not assert that there has been a single editor during that time in all our realm who has advanced this view by a single short utterance, and I do think before Dr. Abbey makes such a heavy arraignment of our church again, he will try to plant his assertions on fact.

Young preachers run many risks of being poisoned on doctrines and authors, and before men of such learning and reputation as Dr. Abbey proceed to berate and minify our own editors and authors, he should be sure he has the truth by the right hand.

ALEXIS BOWMAN.

Centenary College.

At our last Conference, in December last, I intended to have said a few words that, so far as I know, have not been publicly said, touching this school, on considering the report on education. We of Mississippi have, of late, had a good deal to say about colleges—advantages and disadvantages, pro and con. The drift of public opinion seems to be, that to make a first-class college, all you need is, first, a good endowment; second, a good location as to health and geography; third, Conference and other public resolutions.

Now, while all these things are more or less useful, none of them, nor all together, are of prime necessity. They don't make a college—they only make a place to have a college; but most certainly they sometimes fail to make a good college. The prime necessity for a good college is yet to be named. That depends wholly on the man you put at the head of it. Not the faculty, but the man. My own belief is, that, as yet, not many first-rate college presidents have been born. Get a first-rate natural-born man, and put him in a cabin somewhere on a roadside, and he will build up a college and produce a surrounding of well-educated people. You can't educate a man into a college presidency. He must be to the manor born.

My opportunities of knowing the qualifications of President Hunnicutt for this office, since his early manhood, have been good. He is eminently apt to teach. He rules with a rod of iron; but the iron is so covered over with silk velvet, and festooned with white ribbon, that the boys never dream of iron about it. I have been his presiding elder, and seen him have more children and youths in his train of religious instruction than all the other pastors in the district. To take the kinks out of boys, to inculcate manliness and give a good religious education, he is the best college president I ever chanced to know. And last, but not least, by, perhaps, a favorable Providence, his wife has most unusual prudence and religious control over boys in or near her household.

R. ABBEY.

Yazoo City, Miss.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Louise Martin Rind Beall, wife of Rev. Dr. W. T. Beall, was born in the city of New Orleans, Dec. 2, 1835, and died in Crystal Springs, Miss., Jan. 25, 1891.

I esteem it a great privilege to place before the readers of the ADVOCATE a tribute to the character of one so blameless and so meritorious as was that of the beloved sister deceased.

Having lost her mother when an infant, she was reared by her aunt, Mrs. Clementine Mount. She joined the Methodist Church in early childhood, and was a consistent, godly member to the day of her peaceful death. There were many shining virtues adorning her symmetrical Christian character, but none were more noticeable and prominent than her unusual and extraordinary unselfishness. This glowing trait was evinced with an uniformity and a regularity observable by all who knew her. If she could render assistance to anyone, she never seemed to consider for a moment the self-sacrifice or the personal discomfort to which she might be subjected. I have known her to devote many long days and weary nights with her husband in the homes of the suffering, doing all she could by cheerful, careful watching and nursing to make effectual the remedies prescribed by him.

Gratitude was also one of her conspicuous qualities. But she would never consent that anyone was under obligation to her. She was the personification of patience and humility. An intimacy with the family, rarely enjoyed by one not related, for fifteen years, five of which as pastor, gave me an opportunity to know her perfectly. I hesitate not to say that I have never known a purer-minded woman, nor a more humble, trusting Christian.

She was the fond mother of ten children, two of whom were standing on the shining shore, beckoning her onward when she left that sunny cottage home, that beautiful Sabbath morning, for her destination in the city of God.

My heart saddened and my eyes moistened when I read these words from the sorrowing husband: "I write to ask you to prepare an obituary of one of the warmest friends you had on earth." May great grace be given to the bereaved husband and daughters, and to the dutiful and loving son, Sammie, who is now at Centenary College, preparing to preach that Jesus who was so precious to his dying mother! C. A. POWELL.

Mississippi Conference Book Depository at Jackson, Miss.

At the late session of the Mississippi Conference, and on the unanimous recommendation of the Colportage Board, Bishop Galloway appointed the Rev. W. D. Dominick to be our general colporteur. The Conference instructed Bro. Dominick to establish, as soon as practicable, at Jackson a book depository, and invited the cordial co-operation of our North Mississippi Conference brethren in sustaining the depository. It is expected that Bro. Bachman and Bro. Dominick will work harmoniously together. With commendable zeal and energy Bro. Dominick has gone to work. Any of our Nashville publications can be had of him at Publishing House rates—the usual discounts being given or allowed to preachers. Bro. Dominick will keep a full line of Bibles, hymn books, Disciplines, etc. Not only will he take subscriptions for the Quarterly Review, and any of the Advocates, but also for a few leading secular papers, special terms being granted to preachers.

Now, brethren, let us order all our books, etc., through Bro. Dominick. We can make our depository a grand success. Bro. Dominick will do his part, as he does not know how to fail. The depository is commended to Methodists everywhere, and to the public generally. T. L. MELLEN, Chair'n Colporiage Board, Miss. Conf.

The Pew Protests.

Much is being written now-a-days about the lack of interest manifested by the greater part of those composing the congregations of our churches. Believing it wrong to be censorious without just ground for complaint, I think I may assign some reasons for this state of things. Let it be understood also that I enter no plea for idleness in the Master's vineyard. In the first place, I would mention natural disability for doing certain kinds of work. Every preacher knows how sorely he is hindered in his sphere of Christian activity by lack of necessary gifts and qualifications.

Some of these, unfortunately, are irremediable. How can a man who has neither ear for music nor voice in singing lead the service of praise? Or other natural defects may stand forever in the way. These things hinder many earnest, consecrated members in our churches. And frequently it requires more grace to stand still than to shout and join the procession. I verily believe there are many anxious, waiting souls among our people who would go to work gladly and willingly if an opportunity were afforded. I know there are many pretty little stories current in church papers about making opportunities, but, in many instances, the difficulties, like Banquo's ghost, will not down at any human bidding. Leading men to Christ is no child's play. It requires patience, courage, fine judgment and experience. The great army of men and women trying to do this work are inexperienced. I am sometimes amazed that they succeed as well as they do; and this can only be accounted for on the ground that God overrules their blunders and ignorance for good. I know a woman, living in a far-away country hamlet, devoted, consecrated, with a fair degree of culture, whose pent-up soul cries out for a suitable field of labor for the Master. Yet such are her surroundings that she is compelled to "stand still and see the salvation of the Lord."

I enter this protest in behalf of the many who are fettered by life ties, by natural disabilities, by secret cares, and by thousands of hindering causes that neither the church nor the world ever will know, from doing prominent, showy work. S. J. DAVIES.

What Is Your Desire?

Your answer to this question will determine your growth in the divine life. Man's growth in grace is bounded by nothing but his desire for growth. God nowhere limits the religious experience or growth of any individual. If your experience is shallow, or your growth dwarfed, it is because you are content for it to be so. Christ placed no bounds to Christian perfection this side of the perfection of the Infinite Father. These various states and stages of perfection and growth are for whosoever will. God has no favorites but those who make themselves his favorites. You can be as good as you desire to be. You can never be any better, no matter what force is employed, or means used. I make these assertions on the Savior's words. He is the authority. He puts this question to everyone that calls upon him for help: "What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?" But we are so busy making our general supplications that we fail to hear it, maybe; or hearing, fail to catch its import. The import is, "Specify your want; I will supply it." What a moment was that in the life of Bartimeus when, in answer to his cry, the Lord said, "What wilt thou that I should do unto thee!" As much as to say, "Bartimeus, there are thousands of mercies I might show unto thee, and yet your desire would remain unsatisfied." Christ might have done innumerable things for Bartimeus, and none of them would have caused Bartimeus to think he was any great help to him. There was but one thing that Christ could do that would satisfy him; hence his question. The answer that Bartimeus gave would reveal himself in showing what he valued most. He made known his desire, and Christ granted it. We might learn something from this little conversation about special wants and special prayers. You can get your prayers answered just as quickly and as satisfactorily as Bartimeus. Christ has removed all barriers; there is nothing to separate you from Christ but yourself. "Ask what you will," and I will grant it. I think Christ must have had some thoughts like these in his mind when he said, "All things (in the spiritual life) are possible to him that believeth."

AM. I. WRIGHT.

Important Decision.

MR. EDITOR: Enclosed I send you a most important opinion rendered by our Supreme Court, Monday last, on the liquor question. By this it will be seen that in counties not under the local option law it is entirely optional with the Board of Supervisors and the city authorities whether or not licenses are granted to applicants, even though the petition may have a majority of the registered voters of the supervisors' district or the incorporated town upon it, together with all of the other necessary requirements, the language of the law being "may" issue, and not shall, as heretofore erroneously supposed. Yours,

H. H. HINES.

W. H. PERKINS, ET AL., VS. M. V. B. LEDBETTER.

From the Circuit Court of Monroe county: Hon. Loch E. Houston, Judge; Sykes & Richardson for the appellant; E. H. Bristow and Houston & Reynolds for the appellee.

Ledbetter, a citizen of Aberdeen, filed with the Board of Mayor and Aldermen a petition for license to retail. On the same day a counter-petition was filed. The Board refused to grant the license on the ground that Ledbetter did not have a majority of the legal voters on his petition, after they had scratched off several who were registered voters. The circuit court overruled the action of the city authorities, and ordered the license issued, whereupon the signers of the counter-petition appealed to the Supreme Court, where the action of the City Council of Aberdeen in refusing the license was upheld in the following language:

BY CAMPBELL, J.:

All that has been urged in support of the action of the circuit court, in reversing the order of the municipal authorities of the city of Aberdeen, and granting license to sell vinous and spirituous liquor by retail in Aberdeen may be admitted, and still the judgment of the circuit court must be reversed and vacated, and the order of the city authorities reinstated.

The circuit court proceeded on the erroneous conception of the admirable law entitled, "An act in relation to the sale of vinous and spirituous liquor," in the Code of 1880, by which, happily, this case is governed, since it has not been superceded in Monroe county by that mischievous law, approved March 11, 1886, miscalled a "local option" law.

The Code chapter cited provides a simple, direct, inexpensive and complete system by which the will of every local community constituting a supervisor's district, or an incorporated town may be manifested to prohibit the retailing of liquors in such territorial limits. It is made unlawful to sell without license, and obtaining license is made impossible, if a majority of the legal voters are not actively in favor of it, for the applicant for license must present a petition for it, signed by a majority of legal voters resident in district or town, and it has to lay over one month and be published, so as to show what names are on it, and give time for counter-petitions, and any name on both petitions is to be counted against the granting of license. Besides this, a majority of the legal voters in district or town may at any time, and without reference to any person, quietly and without expense or excitement, by the easy process of signing a petition, absolutely inhibit the granting of license to anybody, under any circumstances (even though they themselves might afterwards petition for license), for twelve months. Thus difficulties are placed in the way of obtaining license, and efficient provision made for an expression of the will of the legal voters against granting license, and yet, if every legal voter signs a petition for license, and all the conditions of law are complied with ever so strictly, a right to have license as the result is not given, for while power is conferred to grant license, when everything required is done, no obligation is imposed to grant it, and it may be legally refused.

It is unlawful to sell without license, and severe penalties are provided, and license can be obtained only in a certain way, requiring the action of a majority of legal voters in favor of it, with time and publicity to prevent a community being taken unawares, and preclude imposition by using the names of voters without authority, and after all, it is discretionary with the Board of Supervisors or town authorities to refuse license, even when it would be lawful to grant it, but, if a majority of legal voters petition against granting license, none can be had.

The liquor traffic is condemned, and prohibited, except upon condition, and there is discouragement and hindrance to its pursuit, while the prohibition of the traffic is encouraged, and the way made easy for any community not in favor of retailing to interdict it.

The Code does not, as the act of 1886, cited above, does, make it obligatory upon a Board of Supervisors or town authorities to grant a license in any case.

We are aware of the doctrine that in some cases permissive statutes are construed to be obligatory, but this is not a case of that character, as was long since held. John Giles case, Strange's Rep., 881, which was a proceeding in the fourth year of the reign of George II., to compel the granting of license for an alehouse.

The scheme of the law, set forth in detail above, is to permit the evil of retail shops, if all the difficulties thrown in the way are surmounted, and the county or municipal authorities see proper to exercise the authority conferred to grant license. They have power to grant license, if a majority of the legal voters are actively in favor of it, and say so, in the manner prescribed, but are not compellable to do it. In the exercise of their discretion they may withstand the pressure of universal desire for retailing.

The judgment of the circuit court is reversed, the petition for certiorari dismissed, and the order of the municipal Board of Aldermen left in full force, and all costs in both courts adjudged against the appellee.

Macon, Miss.

We begin the new year in Macon with encouraging prospects. This has been one of the worst "saloon-ridden" towns in the State for several years. The effects are manifest all around us. But, on Jan. 9, a five-mile prohibition law, passed by the last Legislature, went into effect. The good results are already manifest to impartial observers. We only need that the law be enforced to reap great benefit from it.

We are moving on well in the church; services seem to be enjoyed. Have received three into the church since Conference. We are praying for a revival. This congregation is thoughtful of the preacher and his family. We have a good parsonage, furnished better than any I have ever seen. Last Wednesday the ladies filled the larder with good things enough to do us for some time. May God reward and bless this good people!

J. H. MITCHELL.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

LIVING HYMNS. Compiled by John Wanamaker, assisted by John R. Sweney. Published by John J. Hood, Philadelphia. Price, fifty cents per copy, postpaid.

These hymns are for use in Sunday-schools, Christian Endeavor meetings, the church and the home. There are over four hundred hymns and nearly as many tunes in this book, and they compare favorably with the general run of such books.

MEMORABILIA OF GEORGE B. CHEEVER, D. D., AND WIFE, ELIZABETH W. CHEEVER. John Wiley and Sons, New York.

Dr. Cheever won notoriety by his famous drama, "Inquire at Amos Giles' Distillery," and also thirty days in jail as a penalty for its publication. He was an industrious writer, an able preacher, a good poet and an earnest anti-slavery speaker. Some of his best thoughts in poetry and prose are found in this volume.

MISS DEE DUNMORE BRYANT. By Pansy. Boston: D. Lothrop Company. 1891. Price, $1 50.

Pansy's last book, Miss Dee Dunmore Bryant, possesses, in a high degree, all those qualities which have made her works so popular—earnestness, directness and purpose—and, besides these, an interest which will carry the reader, old or young, from the first page to the last without abatement. Miss Dee Dunmore Bryant is a doll. How she came into existence, where she got her name, and the mission she accomplished, makes up the story. Miss Dee Dunmore Bryant takes its place at once among the very best of the very many excellent books from Mrs. Alden's pen.

A MODERN EXODUS. By Faye Huntington. 12mo. Cloth, $1 50. Boston: D. Lothrop Company.

A judicious critic says of this book: The quaint, but not inappropriate, title of this book grew out of the idea that a family which is described in trouble and in debt might be likened to the ancient Hebrews in their bondage in Egypt; the trouble and the debt being the Pharaoh; a noble young son, full of courage and purpose, Moses; a helpful and willing sister, Aaron; the difficulties to be overcome, "making bricks without straw;" and the successful issue, the deliverance from bondage and the possession of the promised land. The incidents of the story are natural and intensely interesting; and the influence of the book is calculated to be encouraging, helping and uplifting. It is instinct with biblical truths and principles, which hang around it like a halo. The author makes her work distinctly favorable, and in an attractive manner, to the cause of temperance and the Society of Christian Endeavor.

PERIODICALS.

The following February magazines have been received:

POPULAR SCIENCE. D. Appleton and Co., New York. $5.

CHAUTAUQUAN. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Pa. $2.

HOMILETIC MAGAZINE. E. B. Treat, New York.

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE. Cassell Company, New York. $1 50.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE. James Vick, Rochester, New York.

ST. NICHOLAS. The Century Company, New York. $3.

THE TREASURY, E. B. Treat, New York. $2 50.

THE FORUM. Forum Publishing Company, New York. $5.

THE KINDERGARTEN. Alice B. Stockham & Co., Chicago. $1 50.

THE ARENA. Arena Publishing Company, Boston. $5.

MISSIONARY REVIEW, Funk and Wagnalls, New York, $2.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL. Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. $1.

CENTURY MAGAZINE. Century Company, New York. $4.

WIDE AWAKE. D. Lothrop Company, Boston. $2 40.

HOME-MAKER. Home-Maker Company, New York. $2.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING. Clark W. Bryan & Co., Springfield, Mass. $2 40.

THE GOSPEL IN ALL LANDS. Hunt and Eaton, New York. $1 50.

OUR LITTLE ONES. Russell Publishing Company, Boston. $1 50.

BOOK-BUYER. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. $1.

Louisiana Notes.

A bed of coal, closely resembling Pittsburgh coal, has been struck about fifty feet below the surface on the lot of Judge Falk, within the corporate limits of Lafayette.

The Lake Charles American says:

Rev. T. J. Upton delivered interesting discourses to good audiences at the M. E. Church, South, both morning and evening. The congregations are increasing since Bro. Upton's coming here.

The Guardian-Journal says:

The Lottery virtually has no support in this parish. If all the parishes were as sound on the Lottery as Calhoun, that gambling concern would not want to submit its amendment to the people.

Bishop Grant, of the A. M. E. Church, has taken all the initintory steps to start a college for the training of colored youths in industrial education. Money has been subscribed, and a site purchased in the city of Baton Rouge.

A number of citizens of the parishes of Iberia and St. Mary will soon procure an injunction against the sugar mills and refineries along the Teche to prevent them from polluting the waters of the bayou with acid fluids and chemicals, which have, during the last season, caused such a stench in the bayou, and which has been prolific of disease. A decree of court will stop this nuisance once and for all.—Sugar Bowl.

The Caucasian says:

Modern architecture is becoming the fulfillment of the promise of progressive people, who formerly described a particularly fine specimen of the building art as a poem in stones. In other words, these "poems" are becoming more numerous—in fact, usual, and Shreveport can show some of the finest specimens of the architectural poems that are to be found in many days' travel. The court-house, government building and a dozen homes give the town an appearance which commands respect from visitors.

Mississippi Items.

A national bank has been organized at Tupelo, with a capital of $50,000, and will begin operations Feb. 15.

A negro boy, in the circuit court at Raymond, has obtained judgment against the Alabama and Vicksburg railroad for $5,000, for injuries received.

Vicksburg has a new hotel with 108 rooms. It is called Hotel Plazza. It is said to be beautiful, even magnificent. We think it is time for a good hotel in that city.

The county Alliance, through their committee, have purchased an eligible lot on Pine street, on which to erect a co-operative store and a hall for their meetings.—Hattiesburg Courier.

The artesian well of the Lewis Brothers has struck an elegant vein of water at a depth of 728 feet. It is thought the flow will be one hundred gallons per minute, and the water first-class.—Democrat Star, Scranton.

The Jackson delinter, invented by the late Dr. Marshall, of Vicksburg, and built by Mr. H. B. Evans, of Cincinnati, is now perfected, and Mr. Evans has turned over the machine to the stockholders. The feed-attachment, invented by Mr. Evans, does its work to perfection.—Clarion-Ledger.

The Mississippian says:

The lands between Hattiesburg and Brandon—a strip thirty miles wide and one hundred miles long—embraced in the grant of the Gulf and Ship Island railroad, will be thrown open to settlement on March 2, 1891. But for Senator Walthall's bill of two years ago preserving all non-mineral lands for homesteaders, and protecting it against speculators under the cash pre-emption act, this land, which contains the finest yellow pine in the South, would soon be gobbled up by speculators.

Sunday-School Lesson—Feb. 15.

ELIJAH TAKEN TO HEAVEN.

II. Kings II, 1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"And Enoch walked with God, and he was not: for God took him."—Gen. v. 24.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Preludes to Elijah's Translation (vs. 1-8). II. The Translation Itself (vs. 9-11).

MEMORY VERSES.—9-11.

REFERENCE WORD.—"Heaven."

LESSON HYMN.—No. 641.

TIME.—About 896 B. C.

PLACES.—Gilgal and Bethel, in Ephraim's territory; Jericho, in Benjamin's, and the region on the east side of the Jordan opposite Jericho.

INTRODUCTORY.

After Elijah's meeting with Ahab on the site of Naboth's vineyard, we have but one more notice of him until the present lesson. This intervening incident is his rebuke to the wicked Ahaziah for sending to consult the god of Ekron in regard to his recovery from sickness. The king, incensed at this seeming insult, sent a company of fifty men to bring him down. The prophet called down destructive fire upon them. Another band of the same number met with the same fate. The king sending a third time, the Lord made known to Elijah that he should go and pronounce judgment upon Ahaziah for his gross wickedness. How and where the time between this occurrence and our present study was spent we know not. The time for the completion of his earthy mission had come to Elijah, and his departure from the scene of action was to surpass in suddenness even his strange entrance upon his prophetic career.

I.—PRELUDES TO ELIJAH'S TRANSLATION.

Verse 1. It seems from the wording of this verse that the time for the occurrence of this most extraordinary event had been definitely determined. Also that, by some means, the design had been communicated to both Elijah and Elisha; though neither, it seems, knew the other possessed the knowledge. Elisha had for some time been a constant companion of Elijah; he was being schooled in order that he might prove a fit successor to such a worthy master. He had accompanied him for the past ten years in his missions thoughout the nation as an assistant. These two now started from Gilgal on their last journey together.

Verse 2. "Tarry here, I pray thee." The motive of this request is not exactly plain. Perhaps it was made through humility. He had premonitions of some extraordinary occurrence in which he himself was to be the central figure; he wished no witnesses of his great honor. But there is another view to take of it. He did not wish to leave this life without being assured of a true follower to carry on his work. Probably these repeated requests for Elisha's tarrying were but tests to try his friendship and prove his fidelity to the cause. Elisha, however, did not comply with the request of his superior, but in very strong terms asserted his determination not to leave him.

Verse 3. Arriving at Bethel, about eight miles distant from their starting-point, the "sons of the prophets came forth to meet Elisha," and showed by their questions that they, too, had a knowledge of what was about to take place. These were simply pupils of the prophets. They sat at the feet of their masters; hence the words, "The Lord will take away thy master from thy head." We see here, too, that the relations between Elijah and Elisha were more intimate than those between Elijah and the rest of the prophets. The solemn event so quickly approaching precluded conversation with Elijah; so they speak of him to Elisha as "thy master." Here was acquiescence on their part to receive him as their leader upon the translation of Elijah. The only answer these "sons of the prophets" got to their questions was, "Hold ye your peace"—as if to say, "Do not disturb the sacredness of these closing hours by your idle words. There come times when silence, above all things, is a most exemplary virtue.

Verse 4. Here the request of Elijah given in verse 2 is repeated, and with the same result. Though conscious of the fact that his master was to be withdrawn from him, Elisha was determined that he would not forsake him.

Verse 5. They at length arrive at Jericho. This was the largest city in the valley of the Jordan. Here also was a school of the prophets, who put the same question as those at Bethel had propounded, and with no other result than the reiterated reply, "Hold ye your peace." Here it was, too, that Elijah made a third and equally unsuccessful attempt to proceed on his way to Jordan alone. Elisha remained firm in his former pledge of faithfulness.

Verses 7, 8. From Jericho it appears this band of fifty followed the prophets some distance until they reached an eminence from which they could view the crossing of the river. At last "they two stood by Jordan." The old prophet was almost at his destination; and it is well for us to note the way in which he arrived there. It was step by step. "The Lord hath sent me to Bethel,....to Jericho,.....to Jordan." And how true this is of the experience of the Christian! It is a steady onward and upward growth—an advancement from one stage of spiritual activity to another still higher and nobler. Every forward step carried Elijah still nearer the heaven-mounting chariot. So with the Christian. Every cross borne and every duty performed brings more of heaven into the soul, and brings into fuller view and more strikingly enhances the crown of glory awaiting the finally faithful. Elijah stood by the Jordan, it is said. But the virtue lies not in the standing. Many an individual has come almost in sight of some grand, soul-enthusing experience, and has nevertheless failed to realize it. There are a great number that stand most wonderfully and awfully still even when a simple outreaching of faith would bring untold blessings. Not so Elijah. He recognized the fact that a barrier was between him and his most glorious blessing. As full of grandeur as his life had been heretofore, he realized that the grandest thing was yet beyond. On the other side of this unbridged river is the scene of his coming glorification. God has called him to this rich experience. Surely he has the right to expect his assistance in attaining it! There is no room for despair, but a living, rock-like faith takes possession of his whole nature? "Elijah took his mantle and wrapped it together and smote the waters," and the two went though dry-shod. This was the old prophet's last miracle. It shows that all the persecutions, trials and fatigues through which he had been forced to pass had not weakened his faith nor dimmed the brightness of his hope. Truly "the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

II.—THE TRANSLATION ITSELF.

Verse 9. "Ask what I shall do for thee." The joyful anticipations of his approaching departure do not quench his regard for his faithful companion. Even though about to enter heaven there lingered in his heart the sympathies and memories of earth. "Before I be taken away." Henceforth there will be no personal communion between us; therefore, let your request be made known now. So Elijah seemed to speak—a point for some of our saint-worshipers to ponder! Elisha's prayer was a wise and commendable one. He realized that he was to assume the responsible cares of the office of head prophet of Israel, and was not at all ignorant of the requisite qualifications for the successful performance of its duties. "Give me a double portion of thy spirit." There is no argument from this of any superiority on the part of Elisha to his predecessor. It simply means this: You have by your words and fatherly advice treated me as a son; with your own hands you anointed me as your successor. Now, in view of these facts, let me have the portion that, by law, pertains to the eldest son—give me a double part. Transfer it to our own times, if you will. How can it logically be said that anyone is a better Christian than another. The term admits of no qualification whatever. It is a case of reality or utter unreality. The Christian is one that fulfills his mission in a manner actuated by the spirit and teachings of Christ. Elisha's temperament was wholly unlike that of Elijah; hence the part performed by each was peculiar. The hero of Mount Carmel carried out the role of a destroyer, while his successor assumed that of a restorer.

Verse 10. Elijah disclaims all power to grant the answer to Elisha's prayer on his own authority, but assures him since he alone of all the prophets has been allowed to remain until his removal, that it is evident that God had chosen him to continue in the prophetic office. Furthermore, as he has been called to his position of great responsibility, he may be sure that the needed measure of spirit will not be lacking.

Verse 11. "Behold, there appeared a chariot of fire." These chariots and horses of fire are, in Scripture, symbols of the presence and power of God. It is not so declared, still the inference is plain that Elijah rode in the chariot, and that the whirlwind was simply the instrument by which both he and it were carried from the earth.

The question of the hour.—Can any better remedy exist than Salvation Oil? No, sir.

The Blind.

The attention of the people of the State is earnestly called to the following circular, which will explain itself:

The beautiful building for the "use of the blind" (recently completed) is capable of accommodating 100 of these unfortunates; but there are now within its walls only 24—18 of them being pupils, and 6 in the industrial department.

The fact is well established that, under proper methods, the moral and intellectual faculties of the blind are as susceptible of development and improvement as are those of persons who are favored with sight; and it is a duty we owe the afflicted to provide them an asylum and give them the benefits and blessings of education.

W. H. JACK,
State Superintendent Public Education.

Papers throughout the State please copy.

Mr. P. D. D. Delacroix, Cypremort P. O., La., Nov. 30, 1888, says: "Three years ago an agent representing Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar came into my store. Being busy, was unable to give him any time. Before leaving he gave me a sample bottle of Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, asking me to give it to anyone suffering with a cough or cold. Several days afterward I caught a heavy cold. Remembering the sample, thought I would try it. Six teaspoonfuls cured me. Ordered a supply at once, and have sold it with satisfaction to all. It acts like magic on all my family, and I would not be without it. I take pleasure in recommending it at all times." One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as 50c. bottles.

Indian Mission.

I am now ready for the first payment on subscriptions for the Indian Mission. We have an assurance that we can get a missionary at an early day; so we want the money now. I have made arrangements to deposit it in the bank at Jackson, under the care of Maj. Millsaps, and have already deposited what I had on hand.

Now, brethren and sisters, you that have subscribed and have not paid the first payment, please forward it to me at once by registered mail, to Barlow, Copiah county, Miss.; and any that have not subscribed to the worthy cause, will you please send me any amount you are willing to give? Let us commence the work at once; let us not delay any longer. We have already delayed too long now. Delay is death, not only for the Indians, but for us; for I do not believe we can be Christians and neglect these poor Indians, heathens in our midst. May the great Head of the church move every Christian heart to contribute something to this great work of soul-saving! Please send me at once as directed.

A. D. MILLER.

Barlow, Miss.

Anti-Lottery.

The following was passed by the Evangelical Union of this city:

Whereas, The Louisiana State Lottery Company (to prevent whose re-charter for twenty-five years longer we have determined to use every legitimate means) is the foe, not only of our beloved State, but of all the States as well; And, whereas, in order to its utter destruction there should be national action; therefore,

We, the Evangelical Ministers' Union of New Orleans, La., do hereby petition Congress to submit to the people of the States an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, forever prohibiting all lotteries.

Resolved, That our senators and representatives in Congress are requested to take the necessary action in the premises.

HOLINESS AND GIVING.—I have often wondered how it is that some who profess great enjoyment in the possession of this pearl of great price, can do so little for the cause of God. Sum up their entire contributions, and it only amounts to a mere trifle for each week. Perhaps two, or three, or four cents per week would include the entire amount. Now they talk about all being the Lord's; they sing that hymn, "Take my life," etc., "Take my silver and my gold," etc.; and then they can profusely decorate the home, the body, the children, but dole out a mere pittance for Christ and his cause. Where is our zeal for Christ? Where is our self-sacrifice. Where is our surrender of all to him? All lavished on the house, the garden, the farm, the carriage, to say nothing of the pipe, etc., and the merest trifle doled out for God and his cause. When we are wholly the Lord's, and realize that the blood of Jesus cleanseth from all sin, it will come to be reckoned among the hallowed privileges that are ours, to help forward the work of the Lord by our time, talents, gifts and means. It is only when we are all the Lord's that this matter of giving gets to be a precious privilege. When we feel that all we have and are is his, then all work for the Master is blessed, and what was once duty becomes our delight.—Christian Guardian.

DEVELOPMENT.—I like to study the development of ministers; or the failure of ministers to develop. A good many ministers I meet not oftener than once a year. Such infrequency of meeting gives better ground for testing the progress of ministers than a frequent meeting. I have been struck by what seems to me to be the failure of ministers to develop in mind and heart. I find that several of them do not now speak as well as they spoke five or eight years ago. This decline, I think, is more common among ministers of large churches than of small; more common among ministers that have large relations with the public than among those who live more private lives. I infer, therefore, that the minister whose relations are many and the calls for whose services are diverse and frequent, has a much harder task to develop himself than the minister whose labor is more secluded. If I were to utter a word of warning to any of the popular preachers of the time, it would be, "Your intellect will go to pieces upon this rock of popularity. At fifty-five, when you ought to be in your prime and still growing, you will be in your decline, if you do not give heed to yourself."—Advance.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the underaigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

Attention! If you desire a fine head of hair of a natural hue and free from dandruff, Hall's Hair Renewer is the best and safest preparation to accomplish it.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It cannot sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, Juniper Berries, and other well-known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has met peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. Lowell druggists sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other sarsaparillas or blood purifiers. Sold by druggists: $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

BRONCHITIS

Is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes—the air-passages leading into the lungs. Few other complaints are so prevalent, or call for more prompt and energetic action. As neglect or delay may result seriously, effective remedies should always be at hand. Apply at once a mustard poultice to the upper part of the chest, and, for internal treatment, take frequent doses of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine, saying he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This indisputable evidence of the great merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me unbounded confidence in the preparation, and I recommend it to my customers, knowing it cannot disappoint them."

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a bad cough and my partner of bronchitis. I know of numerous cases in which this preparation has proved very beneficial in families of so that the medicine is known among them as 'the consoler of the afflicted.'"—Julius Rufus Vidal, San Cristobel, San Domingo.

Young Children,

"A short time ago, I was taken with a severe attack of bronchitis. The remedies ordinarily used in such cases failed to give me relief. Almost in despair of ever finding anything to cure me, I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was helped from the first dose. I had not finished one bottle before the disease left me, and my throat and lungs were as sound as ever."—Geo. B. Hunter, Altoona, Pa.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY!

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

Mardi Gras Offerings.

Matting. The spring importations have just arrived, and a very handsome line will be shown to those visiting the store.

Wall Paper. The patterns for 1891 are unusually attractive, embracing many novelties in dining, parlor, bedroom and hall papers.

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, and Upholstering Goods.

We will offer Samson's celebrated make of Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents per square yard; Curtain Poles, with trimmings complete, 25 cents; and Dado Window Shades, from 35 cents each to $6 each, the latter being hand-painted.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim'd,
116 Camp St., New Orleans.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

124 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:45 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:00 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....6:00 pm	Vicksb'g Ex....9:00 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac....3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....3:45 pm
No. 7 Coast.....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..8:10 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1. Local Mail and Express..7:10pm	No 2. Local Mail and Express..7:00am
No. 41. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 8:25am	No 12 Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 6:00pm
No 45. Chic. and N. O. Lim....8:00pm	No. 46. Chic and N. O. Lim.12:01noon
No 41. Memphis and K. C. Ex. 8:25am	No 42 Memphis and K. C. Ex. 6:00pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25am	B. Rough, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45a m
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd .11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:45am

MOBILE AND OHIO. (Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 2, Limited...4:.00pm

P. AND F. EAST LA. (Abita Springs.) Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am	Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City.

Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.
J. C. GAULT, General Manager.
D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS,
TEXARKANA,
SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

R. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE. THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:45 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:00 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 6:00 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:00 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pass. Agt.
R. B. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.
A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

LOUISIANA

STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

199, 201, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Jelling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

H. P. BUCKLEY, Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 WEST BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

We wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,

LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,

No. 101 Camp Street,

Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. Ferry & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, FEB. 12, 1891.

Briefs.

Our Methodist brethren in Mississippi have raised $50,000 for their Millsaps College. Our Baptist friends in the same State have, in a few weeks, raised $52,500 for their college at Clinton, Miss. Now it is entirely in order for the Methodists in Louisiana to surpass both by raising a larger amount for the endowment of Centenary College. Sunday, Feb. 15, is the day appointed for this work to be done. Let everybody give according to ability, and the great work will be done.

Bishop Galloway has suggested that the Mississippi pastors observe March 2, or the day before, as Memorial Scholarship Day for Millsaps College. That day is the centenary of Wesley's death. As Wesley was eminent for his efforts to promote Christian education, there would be a peculiar fitness in celebrating the centenary of his death by preaching or making addresses on Wesley's life and work and taking collections to found scholarships in our new college. We trust all the preachers will carry out the Bishop's suggestion.

The Saint Louis preachers' meeting, last week, passed a resolution "requesting the presiding elders to call a conference of the official members of the two districts for the purpose of considering plans toward organizing a City Church Extension Society." That is exactly what we want and have asked for in this city. We will never do much in the way of evangelistic work until we have a conference of workers and start some sort of organized effort. Let there be a coming together and a consultation about the work needed to be done. Let all the churches join in this matter, and the quickening impulse will be felt throughout the whole district. Let us continue as we are and we are certain to die.

This country is to be treated to a sight never before seen. The British government came into our Supreme Court, not long since, with a petition asking leave to file an application for a writ of prohibition in the Bering Sea matter. Very few persons thought the court would grant the permit, but it has granted it, and a rule requiring the Alaska court to show cause why the writ of prohibition should not issue, was made returnable the second Monday in April. That day will witness a sight never before seen—one great government seeking redress from another through that other's highest judicial tribunal. At any rate, that is better than cutting each other's throats about a few seals in a frozen sea.

Col. Jack, the superintendent of public education for this State, calls attention, in another column, to the Institute for the Blind, located at Baton Rouge. Our old friend, Dr. W. H. N. Magruder, is the principal. We understand that "all young persons in the State of so defective vision as to be unable to get an education in the ordinary schools, and of good health and sound mind, will be received, well cared for and instructed in all branches usually taught in schools for youth with sight, besides being carefully trained in music and calisthenics. Girls may learn sewing, knitting, and much of domestic work. Boys are taught several trades. There are no charges for either board or instruction." If you want to know further, write to Dr. Magruder, at Baton Rouge.

Reception of Persons into the Church.

However different denominations may differ on many points, from reading our exchanges, we gather that nearly all are agreed upon one point. That is, there are a great many people in the church who are not converted people. And they also agree that this is not a good thing, for nearly all our religious exchanges are bewailing the fact of having such a mass of unconverted people to carry. It would be a curious question, how such people get into some churches; but we do not propose to ask such a question, nor try to solve it. We suppose there have always been such people in the church, but the fact appears to be that, in these days, they are becoming too numerous. There was Judas among the Twelve, but that was only a small fraction; and if to-day the churches had eleven converted people to one unconverted one, perhaps, we would not hear so much about the matter.

That a great many of these unconverted church members seem to be entirely satisfied with simply being members, is one of the alarming symptoms of this bad case. It is not only bad for themselves, but bad for their fellow-members, for they leaven others with their own condition of church life. If some process could be started by which these people would be converted and brought into a living relation to Christ as well as a nominal relation to the church, it would be a thing to be celebrated with universal rejoicings.

But we think the matter may be somewhat mitigated and remedied in the future by exercising a little more care in the reception of persons into the church. We think sometimes preachers are in too much haste in this matter. We have known pastors to invite persons forward to unite with the church, and right then, or at the next service, receive them into full membership, without ever having said a word in private on the subject to such persons. We can not see that this is the best way. It is true that the rule of probation has been abolished, but we don't think the probation itself has. The preacher has a larger discretion under the law in this matter now than formerly; but that does not mean that he is to receive the applicant immediately. On the contrary, the preacher who receives an applicant immediately upon his application goes against the express letter of the law provided to govern such cases. Here is the law:

When persons offer themselves for church membership, let the preacher in charge inquire into their spiritual condition and receive them into the church when they give satisfactory assurances of their desire to flee from the wrath to come and to be saved from their sins; and also of the genuineness of their faith and their willingness to keep the rules of the church.

Some preachers seem to think that all the requirements of the above-quoted section are met by the formal reception after the prescribed form. Such could not have been the intention of the law-maker, for if so, there could be no meaning to the section immediately following. That section reads:

When satisfied on these points, let the minister bring the candidates before the congregation whenever practicable, and receive them according to the prescribed form.

According to the plain letter here, he is to be satisfied on the points mentioned in the first-quoted section before he brings them before the congregation to be received. As we understand this chapter in our Discipline, the preacher who receives members without complying with its requirements, does wrong. Anyone can see that it opens the door too widely, and, perhaps, that accounts, in part, at least, for so many unconverted people in the Methodist Church. Let our pastors think of these things, and while being careful to secure the conversion of applicants, remember that the unconverted people in the church are not yet saved.

Young Preachers—No. 3.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

ON READING.

If you have not the reading habit, form it. If you can not form a taste for reading, can not acquire the habit, then I think you may conclude that you have made a mistake in supposing you were called to preach; for you must be "apt to teach," but you can not be unless you have something to teach, and you can not have much unless you read. It is reading that makes a full man, and you can not be full of instructive matter unless you read. Of course, you will carefully and diligently read the four years' course ordered by the General Conference. This "course" has been carefully selected by men made competent by study and ripe experience to select just the books and subjects you most need to read and understand. These books should be read and re-read until you have made their contents substantially the furniture of your mind. I found it helpful to me to express in my own language, with my pen, condensed statements of the chapters of these various books. I wrote some two hundred pages of foolscap to express in a condensed form what I had got out of Watson's Institutes, and so of other books in the course.

There have been a great many specialists who have devoted themselves to particular branches of knowledge. This knowledge, laboriously pursued, has been systematized and stored in books. We can, in a comparatively short time, grasp and appropriate what it has cost the antiquarian, the historian, the biographer, the anatomist, the botanist and the traveler long years to learn and arrange in the readable form in which we find it in their books.

Books are the true levellers; they introduce us to the great immortal names that were not born to die. In their books we meet them in their best moods, in the discussion and presentation of their best thoughts. In books we can escape being bored with unprofitable and unpleasant subjects. We can choose our man, and choose the theme.

It has been said, and, I think, truly, that reading is one of our most pleasant, lasting and cheapest earthly pleasures—a great resource in solitude, or confinement. I often say, "Thank God for good books!" But reading with preachers of the gospel, especially young preachers, should be for instruction and usefulness; occasionally, not habitually, for amusement and relaxation.

While our reading should be most thorough in the direction of our needs as teachers, it should have sufficient breadth to give spice and variety to our teaching and illustrations; otherwise we are in danger of being dry and narrow. We can not read everything, but we should read the standard theologians, historians, poets and scientists. Some books are only to be tasted, some chewed and some taken into our mental stomach, digested and assimilated.

As life is too short and its opportunities too few to read many of the millions of books, let us read the best, and read as thoroughly as we can. Some readers read by quantity rather than quality or benefit. The author's thoughts pour through their minds like water through a sieve, and the valuable residuum is almost nothing. Unless our reading interest us we do not remember, and what we forget is near akin to that which we never knew.

In order to read a book with interest we should ask ourselves, What is it I wish to know which this book will tell and teach me? Then let us read with the defined purpose of learning some special thing we desire to know. This will concentrate attention and greatly assist our memories. In reading history, it is not most profitable to read straight through, but to read some part, that for some reason is interesting to us. This interesting period, or event, will have connections in its antecedents or results that you will want to know. For example, you may be interested in Oliver Cromwell; but in reading of him you will be drawn backward to Charles the First, or forward to Charles the Second. Thus from an interesting centre there will spread out an ever-widening circumference of attractive reading.

But we must remember, as students, we must read with reflection, and with constant reference to the application and use of what we learn from books; otherwise it is much as if we swallowed without chewing, digesting or assimilating our food. What we save makes us richer; so what we remember makes us wiser.

Millsaps College.

We present our readers the following dispatch in regard to the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Millsaps College, held in Jackson, Miss., Feb. 4:

The committee appointed to locate the Methodist College, known as "Millsaps College," met here to-day, not to locate finally as was supposed by many, but to consider the bids of the various places offering donations for the location, and to hear the special claims, eligibility and advantages of such places as they might desire to be heard. Winona was represented by Capt. D. L. Sweatman, Dr. Cameron and Col. Moore, who argued in behalf of their town, and offered a bonus of $25,000 and twenty acres of land.

Grenada, through a delegation of seven of her leading citizens, headed by the mayor, Hon. B. C. Adams, tendered $27,000 and twelve acres of land.

Holly Springs then came to the front with her delegation, headed by Gen. W. S. Featherston, offering $40,000 and 100 acres of land; the money to be put in negotiable paper as soon as the location there might be determined upon.

Dr. W. H. White offered $10,000 and eighty acres of land for Brandon. Mayor Henry, on behalf of Jackson, read a paper from the Jackson committee on subscriptions asking for information as to the time of payment. Verona had no representative present, but had in a written offer for $24,000 in personal subscriptions and an additional sum of $10,000 and eighty acres of land by the corporation.

Each spokesman plead earnestly for his town. Each leading competitive locality will be visited and the advantages of its site considered in connection with the money bid before final decision will be made. The money consideration will have to be made secure before the selection is made.

The impression prevails here that either Holly Springs, Grenada or Winona will be selected, with the chances in favor of Holly Springs. The committee, at seven o'clock, adjourned to meet at eight o'clock P. M.

The following resolutions were adopted at the night session:

Resolved, That in response to the inquiry made of this Board as to the terms of payment of moneys offered as bids for locations, we answer that one-half the offer must be paid in bank before the contract for building is let, and one-fourth by Oct. 1, 1891; the remaining fourth by Jan. 1, 1892, and each town or city competing for this location shall give good and acceptable security for the performance of the above conditions, and said security must be given before the question of location is settled.

Resolved, In view of the fact that there is uncertainty about our ability to erect adequate buildings for the use of the college by Oct. 1, 1891, we state further that the offer by any town of buildings for the use of the college for a period of six months from Sept. 1, 1891, will be considered by the Board a valuable adjunct to the offer of money and grounds.

Resolved, It is the sense of this Board that Millsaps College ought not to be erected on a lot of less than twenty acres of land.

Resolved, That it is the intention of the Board to expend upon buildings and equipments all the money offered and paid for that purpose by the town where it is located, and we believe that this work ought not to be undertaken with less than $30,000, but ought to be, at least, $50,000.

Resolved, That as many of the bids are informal, the Board adjourn till Feb. 18, to give the towns time to frame their offers according to the terms required herein.

Important Announcement.

The General Sunday-school Committee announce in this issue of the Advocate the course of reading arranged for the members of the Epworth League during the first year, beginning March 1 and ending Dec. 31, 1891. The Book Agents will furnish the books in the course of reading at the lowest possible price. The whole course will not cost four dollars a year. See Agent's announcement:

Course of Reading for Epworth League for the year 1891, beginning March 1 and ending Dec. 31:

1. Biblical—The four Gospels. History of Our English Bible.

2. Historical—Bishop McTyeire's "History of Methodism," Vol. I. "Life of Wesley," by Curnock.

3. Biographical—"Scenes in Pioneer Methodism," Vol. I., by Miss Barnes. "Heroines of Methodism," by Miss Martin.

4. Miscellaneous—"Foster's Essays." "Christian Growth," by Bishop Fitzgerald. "Doc's Cross," by Ruth Argyle, 60 cents.

W. G. E. CUNNYNGHAM, Ch'n.

TO THE EPWORTH LEAGUES.

The books mentioned in Dr. Cunnyngham's note above are all bound in good cloth, and will be sent post-paid at the prices indicated below. The entire course, if ordered at one time, will be delivered at $4. Should a League order as many as ten sets at one time, they will be delivered at $3 50 each. All orders should be sent to Barbee & Smith, Agents, Nashville, Tenn. This course of reading will begin March 15, 1891. Books will be ready Feb. 15, 1891.

The Four Gospels, ——; History of Our English Bible, 40 cents; History of Methodism, by Bishop McTyeire, Vol. I., $1; Life of John Wesley, by Curnock, a member of the British Conference, 40 cents; Scenes in Pioneer Methodism, by Miss Barnes, Vol. I., 75 cents; Heroines of Methodism, by Miss Martin, 40 cents; Foster's Essays, 60 cents; Christian Growth, by Bishop Fitzgerald, 50 cents; Doc's Cross, by Ruth Argyle, 60 cents.

BARBEE & SMITH, Agents.

—Nashville Advocate.

To Joint Boards of Finance.

The fiscal year will have ended April 1, and after that we wish to make our calculations for the apportioning of the Calvin Fund and Publishing House produce among the Conference claimants. We can not do this intelligently without a knowledge of the number of claimants on these funds, and only four Joint Boards have given us any information on this question to date. Brethren, please send us the following facts promptly:

1. The number of widows and orphans of deceased traveling preachers who died in the traveling connection.

2. The number of superannuated preachers in your Conference.

The widows and orphans of deceased preachers only are claimants on the Calvin Fund. Superannuated and worn-out preachers and the widows and orphans of deceased traveling preachers are claimants on the produce of the Publishing House. The wives and children of living superannuated and worn-out preachers are not to be counted. If the husband and father be living, there is but one claimant in that family.

BARBEE & SMITH, Agents.

—Nashville Advocate.

Notes.

Somebody has called Mardi Gras "the Devil's Christmas."

W. T. Stead, the editor of the Review of Reviews, declares that "Methodism is the greatest common denominator of all the evangelical churches."

Dr. Koch's lymph still continues to attract attention. In various places it has been successful. In other places it has proved a disadvantage, some patients, it is said, having died from its effect. In the meantime Dr. Koch, without disclosing the specific formula by which it is compounded, has gone to Egypt for a visit of several months.

The pastor of Rayne Memorial Church reports that several of his young people have joined the church since the Epworth League was formed. The afternoon meetings are a great success. He will address the boys, next Sunday, at four P. M., on the unsensational topic, "Nothing," and the girls and the grown people are cordially invited to be present.

The Epworth Enterprise, published at Memphis, Tenn., is the first paper started in the interest of the Epworth League; at least, the first we have seen. It appears to be the organ of the Epworth League of our First Church in Memphis, of which Dr. W. G. Miller is pastor. It is a bright little paper for fifty cents a year, and we wish it great success in its work among and for the young people.

An important and significant amendment has been made to the school laws of Michigan. It is significant in that it is a public recognition of a fact that has become well known to the medical fraternity. Children suffering from consumption or catarrh are to be excluded from the public schools. This recognizes the fact that these diseases are contagious, and the exclusion is to put a stop to their extension.

One of our exchanges has a very curious sentence. Speaking of the views of MacQueary, the Episcopal clergyman, who has been tried for heresy, it says, "Our readers may be pleased to see the havoc which is made of the system of grace in the following exposition of his views given by himself." What sort of readers of a Christian paper are those who are "pleased to see havoc made of the system of grace"?

Bishop Keener passed his seventy-second birthday last Saturday, Feb. 7. On Monday morning he gave the preachers a most edifying and delightful talk about his ministry of fifty years. He emphasizes the fact that a minister called of God has at his disposal the tremendous resources of grace, and ought to be a tremendous power wherever he preaches and works. The Bishop was a little indisposed on Sunday.

The Committee of Revision of the Methodist Protestant Church, appointed to revise the Articles of Faith, have finished their work and reported the revised Articles in the last number of the Methodist Recorder. We understand that the Articles as revised are to be voted on by both the General Conference and the Annual Conferences. Some changes have been made in the original twenty-five Methodist Articles, and the number has been increased to thirty.

We listened to the masterly speech in the preachers' meeting, last Monday morning, by Dr. I. S. Hopkins, on the duty of building up and strengthening the weaker churches in our larger cities. This can be done in every city if the Methodists who live near these churches would unite with them. We know of a good many churches that are in danger of "spiritual suffocation."—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

And it is the thing that ought to be done everywhere. "Strengthen ye the weak hands," is the exhortation of God.

This city has been filled to overflowing with people from every section of our country. They came to see the Mardi Gras pageant. We don't know why it is, but there seems to be something in human nature that responds readily to the spectacular. New Orleans is famous for its processions, and the Mardi Gras exhibitions make the culmination for the year, and thousands upon thousands visit us at this time to see the sights. Very many people here and elsewhere consider the whole thing senseless. An eminent man from the country said to us, the other day, "It is the silliest thing I know of." That is the opinion of many.

The Pittsburgh Advocate has this paragraph, which ought to be pondered by you, reader.

The best of all means of grace is helping others. Preaching is a means of grace, but it does not accomplish its divinely intended mission unless it inspires the hearers with holy ardor in the Master's service. Christian testimony is a means of grace to those who bear it and to those who hear it. But the object of Christian fellowship and testimony in social meetings of the church is to stimulate activity on behalf of the unconverted. Christianity is not a thing of the lip merely; not a matter of profession and mutual congratulation on the joys of religion, but of earnest effort to bring men to Christ.

Personal and Otherwise.

The good people of the Crawford circuit are delighted with their new pastor, Rev. K. A. Jones.

Bishop Galloway occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church, Columbus, Miss., recently and preached to delighted audiences.

The congregation at Vaughn's Chapel, Columbus circuit, is building a new church, which will be dedicated in the early summer by Dr. W. T. J. Sullivan.

Do our pastors of the North Mississippi Conference remember that they passed a resolution at Grenada that they would endeavor to secure 1,000 new subscribers for this paper?

The dispatches report the death at Elmsboro, La., of Mrs. S. Munholland, wife of Rev. C. T. Munholland, of the Louisiana Conference. We knew her well. The family have our sympathy.

Bro. Jackson, one of the leading men of our Shreveport Mission, gave us a call last Tuesday. He represents Bro. Henry and his Mission as developing nicely, which we were expecting to hear.

We are sorry to hear of the misfortune that has come to our venerable St. Abbey. A note from him says, 'Almost my entire library of some 1,500 volumes went in flames a short time ago.' That is a serious loss, certainly.

A brother writes, "Some people get mad with the presiding elder and take it out by not paying the pastor; others get mad at the pastor and take it out by stopping the church paper." Well might Puck exclaim, "What fools these mortals be!"

Rev. Amos Kendall, our pastor at West Point, Miss., was appointed a presiding elder in 1870. He has just retired from the "eldership" after a term of twenty years. During that long period Bro. Kendall only missed two Quarterly Conferences.

In the death of Dr. Featherstun our pastor at Woodville, Miss., the church has sustained a great loss. We sympathize with the bereaved in their great sorrow. This makes two preachers and two wives of preachers of the Mississippi Conference who have died since Conference.

We were pleased to have a call last week from our young friend, J. Walton Drake, of Houma, La. He says the pastor at Houma has appointed him superintendent of our Sunday-school at that place, and we say that is a good position for the son of a Methodist preacher, and hope he will succeed.

Nothing else can equal Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for any form of sore throat. Try it once.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. D. C. Foust, West, Miss., writes: "The Minutes of our last Conference—North Mississippi—shows West circuit assessed for church extension $23; paid, ——. It should read, 'Assessed, $23; paid, $23.' I think it the West circuit to correct."

—D. Senrborough, Feb. 2, 1891, writes: "A powerful revival is now going on at Centenary. Christians are being revived, backsliders reclaimed, and sinners converted. Never before have I seen the power of God move so forcibly upon the hearts of men. We will hold services in the Y. M. C. A. hall every night this week, and hope to accomplish much good for the Lord. Pray for us, that we may bring all our fellow-students to Christ."

—Nicolas Joiner writes from Centenary College: "The Lord has begun a revival in our college. We were praying for a revival, and intended to commence one in a few weeks; but, thank God! the Lord has begun it himself, and souls are being converted and Christians are happy. Three meetings have been held so far, with fifteen conversions and many professing Christians reclaimed as a result. Pray for the boys at Centenary."

—Rev. R. M. Blocker writes from Paquemine Brulee, La.: "Perhaps it would be well for you to call the attention of our pastors to the change in the Discipline relative to the direction which the 'Bishops' funds' take (page 97). I am the treasurer of the Joint Board of Finance in the Louisiana Conference, and will receive said funds and remit. Ask the pastors to send it to me at Rayne, Acadia parish, La., as Paquemine Brulee is not a money order postoffice."

—Rev. J. W. Treadwell writes from Wagoner circuit, Indian Mission Conference: "We now have three organized societies on the Wagoner circuit, with a membership of forty-five. Moved into our new parsonage last Wednesday. We only owe, after collecting all due us, about $70. I am fasting and praying and working that I may pay the indebtedness soon by the help of the Lord, and then we will go to build a church. Hope our brethren will not forget us. The good people of Wagoner gave us a pounding last Wednesday evening, such as many have in the States. We are on the advance on every line. Our NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE is as highly appreciated as ever. Pray for us."

—Dr. W. L. C. Hunnicutt writes: "A remarkable revival of religion is now going on among the students of Centenary College. It began with them, and has been, so far, conducted by the young men themselves. It seems to be a deep and thorough work of grace, whose effects will be lasting. While Mississippi towns are bidding for the location of a college, Jackson, La., proposes on next Sunday, Centenary Day, to give some token of her appreciation of the college she already has."

—Rev. A. W. Moore writes us the following from Winnsboro, La.: "During the month of January we had a great deal of rainy, disagreeable weather, and withal a great deal of sickness—more than we have had in the same length of time for ten years. The kind of sickness is mostly pneumonia, generally preceded by la grippe. There have been thirty-eight deaths in this parish that I have heard of, and others sick not expected to recover. Among the number gone are some of our best and most useful citizens. I fear the end is not yet."

—Rev. Roht. Randle writes from Homer, La.: "The people of the Homer charge have kindly received us, and I trust that by God's grace I shall accomplish the work for which I am sent. This has the reputation for being one of the best charges in the Conference. May it, by the grace of the Master, well sustain its character. I believe that it will. We have had a great deal of sickness through all of this country—colds and la grippe. But health is now improving. The health of my family is good, and we are contented."

—Rev. J. C. Carnline reports: "I write you a few lines from this work (Anacoco). We think that Anacoco is awake to the interest of the preacher, and we have been well provided for. We think that Anacoco is waking up to the interest of the church and the salvation of sinners, and we pray that Anacoco will stand in rank with every work in this district. There is a good deal of la grippe in this country now. Pray for us, that we may take hold of the work as la grippe takes hold of us, and then we will see the wheels of Zion roll and souls will be saved."

—Rev. W. W. Hurst writes from Woodville: "Please permit me, through the ADVOCATE, to express my gratitude and earnest thanks to the many kind friends who have written me letters of condolence and Christian sympathy in my deep sorrow and sad bereavement—especially yourself, Dr. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, and my beloved elder, Rev. C. McDonald. The waters are deep and chilly, and our Divine Master alone can apply the balm in Gilead to hearts all bleeding and torn. May the great Head of the church sustain us in this our great loss, but the eternal gain of our dear loved one!"

—Presiding Elder C. McDonald writes us as follows: "The Scriptures require us to 'weep with those who weep,' which calls forth our sympathy for those who are afflicted. We have had, indeed, sadness in this district since Conference. There has been sorrow in three of our itinerants' homes. First was the death of Rev. J. D. Hays on Dec. 30, 1890. A true man, an eloquent preacher, one who, although blind, was always cheerful and happy. There are many stars in his crown. With vision clear and tongue more eloquent, he rejoices in his glorious reward. The faithful wife of Rev. W. W. Hurst died Jan. 22, leaving our beloved brother and children in deep sorrow. Also on Jan. 30, Dr. F. M. Featherstun died at Woodville. At the first quarterly meeting for his charge we had sweet communion as brethren beloved. Little did I think it would be the last on earth! A brave and mighty warrior has fallen, and has gone to receive his bright reward. May God comfort the sorrowing ones!"

—Rev. J. G. Cammack, writing from Carthage, Mississippi Conference, says: "Having written to the ADVOCATE some time since, and not hearing from it, I will write again. We arrived here the first day of January after a day's travel through mud and rain and over rough roads. We reached here about dark and found a number of ladies at the parsonage waiting to receive us. After an informal introduction (for we were all strangers) we were invited to a nice warm supper that awaited us. After supper we proceeded to the church, where we knelt in prayer to Almighty God. After singing several hymns, and joining in several prayers to God for past blessings, and invoking a continuation of his blessings in the future, we returned to the parsonage, where we were left to spend the night in our new home by ourselves. After all had gone, we decided that we would see what was the prospect for breakfast; when we found our store-room filled with such a supply of nice things that they have not all given out yet. This is a nice place; nice people, nice church and parsonage, and we hope that this will be the most pleasant and prosperous year of all our ministry. We hope to do a good work for the ADVOCATE this year."

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

—Rev. J. W. Ellison writes from McComb City: "My first Quarterly Conference was held last Saturday, Feb. 7. Bro. Woodward, our new, but energetic, presiding elder, was present, preaching with the power of the Spirit, and with great profit to us all. We had a good meeting, and the outlook for the year is quite promising. Our people take hold of the enterprises of the church with a cheerful and strong hand. Pray for us, brethren. There is a great work to be done here. We hope that the brethren in the ministry will arrange to be at our camp meeting at Topisaw. They are now invited."

—Rev. O. L. Savage writes from Australia and Duncan circuit: "We have made the first round, and have much to be thankful for. Plenty of work to do; a kind and appreciative people. We have received five members since Conference. I moved my family here last Friday, Jan. 30. Was met with conveyance at the landing and carried directly to the parsonage, where we found that liberal provision had been made for us in the way of a good, comfortable fire. In a short time the ladies came with their boxes and baskets, and supplied us with everything necessary. We hope to be able, in some degree, to show our appreciation by a faithful year's work. We are very happy in the Lord."

—Rev. H. C. Morehead reports: "We have received from the good people of this entire charge a most cordial welcome. No pounding or storm as yet, but many expressions of a substantial kind. We are getting a good start in the work. Our first Quarterly Conference has just closed. Bro. Thames is one of our most efficient presiding elders. Was on hand in good time and attended to all of the work. At the close of the sermon this morning the congregation was called on for $50 for missions. In a few minutes we received $76 45. Well done for Goodman! This is but a prophecy of what is to come. Bro Bachman is with us, looking after the publishing interests of the church. Praise God from whom all blessings flow!"

—Mrs. Rev. J. D. Hays writes from Terry, Miss.: "I wish to write a few lines, through the ADVOCATE, to those of my friends who have written to me in sympathy in the loss of my dear companion. Oh! how hard it is to read letters of such a sad character, though they give words of great consolation, and language can not express my appreciation of them. Mr. Hays suffered intensely for two weeks before death relieved him; but not a murmur escaped his lips. Though he was blind here on earth, all is light and happiness to him now. I feel, as one of my friends wrote me in a letter of sympathy and consolation, 'that the trials and bereavements of this life do not fall on me with the weight that I once thought they would.' My attention seems drawn to the place where my husband has gone, and heaven seems more real to me now, and the way seems more plain."

—Rev. Wm. G. Evans reports from Simsport, La.: "I have this week finished my first round. So far I have met the most of my members, and find most of them in the mind to work. The congregations have all been small; but the prospects at all places are for better ones on the next round. I think from what I have seen of the people, I can truthfully say: The Lord is with us, and we are going to have a good year. I found two Sunday-schools on the work, and have organized one since reaching here. They are all doing well. Our first Quarterly Conference has been held, and the finances have been arranged to the satisfaction of, at least, the preacher in charge. The Lord has been very kind to me in placing me among such nice people. I have never met nicer people anywhere. Yet of some of them it might be said, 'One thing thou lackest.' I am praying, and want our people to pray with me that I may help these people to find the Lord this year. I am looking for big things before the next Conference."

The only reliable vegetable substitute for calomel, which acts on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach, and best anti-bilious purgative is Maguire's Cundurango. Endorsed by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia; Rev. McNally, of St. Louis, and a host of prominent people.

Important Notice.

Brethren of the Mississippi Conference:

I am just in receipt of a letter from one of our missionary secretaries—Dr. Morrison—which has been forwarded to me, in which he requests that as rapidly as possible the money subscribed for the special missionary be paid in, so that it can be forwarded to Nashville. I have the names of all subscribers taken in Canton, with amounts, and as rapidly as money comes in will make proper credits and forward to the treasurer at Nashville. Make all remittances payable to me at this place. (REV.) B. F. LEWIS,
Special Treas.

Jackson, Miss.

Notices.

The subscribers to the special collection, taken at the Louisiana Conference for the support of a missionary in Mexico, who have not paid up, are requested to do so by March 1. Send to me at 112 Camp street.

C. B. CARTER, Treasurer.

Dear Brethren: I am now at Jackson, Miss., ready for business. I invite correspondence, solicit orders for books and your hearty co-operation in our efforts to establish our depository at Jackson. I will fill your orders on same terms of Publishing House, and hope to be of large benefit to you in this enterprise. Fraternally,

W. D. DOMINICK.

Jackson, Miss.

Church Organs.

The following letter was received without any solicitation whatever, and explains itself:

FARRAND & VOTEY, Detroit, Mich.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Jan. 5, 1891.

Farrand & Votey Organ Co.

GENTLEMEN.—After nearly a year of trial of the magnificent organ you erected in our Church, I feel constrained to write to express my unqualified satisfaction with it in every respect. It is not only the finest-looking organ I have ever seen, being a grand ornament to the Church edifice, but the sweetest-toned instrument of the kind I have ever listened to. While it is fully as large as it ought to be, and fills the large audience-room with tones full of majesty, there is not a harsh or rough-sounding pipe in it. On the contrary, it is so soft and truly musical, that to listen to it is an unfailing joy. All our people concur in the above. Yours truly,

H. L. CHAPMAN,
Pastor of Methodist Episcopal Church

P. S.—Give my regards to Mr. Wood, whose gentlemanly and genial manners, while engaged in erecting the organ, gave us all great pleasure.

Yours, etc.,
H. L. CHAPMAN.

There wants nothing but a believing prayer to turn a promise into performance.—J. Mason.

Carnival Visitors.

A party of ten or twelve can be pleasantly accommodated in a private family in a desirable part of the city. Location easily reached by the five lines of horse cars passing the residence. Apply to Mrs. M. E. Crooker, No. 234 Howard avenue.

Choice Private Board.

A few gentlemen and ladies desiring the comforts of home, freed from the many annoyances of housekeeping, can be elegantly accommodated by the well-known Methodist lady,

MRS. M. M. AUVRAY,

No. 277 Josephine street, New Orleans, La.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.

LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. COLE,
"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is a most certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

INTER-STATE FIRE ASSOCIATION,

58 Carondelet St., NEW ORLEANS.

Mutual—Divides Profits amongst Insurers.

BREEDLOVE SMITH, President. ALBERT MACKIE, Vice-President.
R. L. EMERY, Secretary.

Assets—Jan. 1, 1891.—
Guarantee fund	$173,050 00
Other assets	10,555 00
Total	$183,605 00
Liabilities—
Unearned premium reserve	$ 8,478 12
Other liabilities	2,779 51
	$ 11,257 63
Net surplus for policy holders, Jan. 1, 1891	$172,347 87

Board of Trustees.

JOHN I. ADAMS, A. BONNECAZE, N. D. WALLACE, ALBERT MACKIE, ROBERT MANSON, M. T. ELFERT, RICHARD FURMAN, JAS. G. DUNCAN, HENRY G. BUSH, BREEDLOVE SMITH, R. R. ONG, S. HERNSHEIM, HENRY HAAG, JOHN S. TALMAGE, C. C. EMERY, HENRY WELLMANN, ANDREW JACKSON, ISIDORE HECHINGER, L. H. GARDNER, R. L. EMERY, W. W. SUMNER.

Shepard & Butler,

94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

DONALD KENNEDY

Of Roxbury, Mass., says

My Medical Discovery seldom takes hold of two people alike! Why? Because no two people have the same weak spot. Beginning at the stomach, it goes searching through the body for any hidden humor. Nine times out of ten, inward humor makes the weak spot. Perhaps its only a little sediment left on a nerve or in a gland; the Medical Discovery slides it right along, and you find quick happiness from the first bottle. Perhaps it's a big sediment or open sore, well settled somewhere, ready to fight. The Medical Discovery begins the fight, and you think it pretty hard, but soon you thank me for making something that has reached your weak spot. Write me if you want to know more about it.

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,

Homeopathic Physician,

288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

S. R. PERRY,

183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.
Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.
Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.
Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

This Bright New 1891

needs the brightest and best of music. The 2,000,000 readers of this ad. are all invited to provide themselves with music or music books from our complete and varied stock.

Send freely for lists and information.

SOME OF OUR NEWEST BOOKS.

SONGS OF IRELAND. $1 00. Choice, revised collection of very favorite songs. 66 songs. 141 pages.

POTTER'S RESPONSES AND SENTENCES. 75 cts.; $8 75 doz. A timely and good collection, which will be welcomed by many choirs. More than 50 short pieces, with a number of Glorias, Chants, etc.

PRAYER AND PRAISE. Cantata. Ballard. A good and easy cantata, for a Choir or Chorus. 50 cents; $4 50 per dozen.

MASONIC ODE. Fithian. A new most convenient book of easy and good music, perfectly fitted for the masonic ritual. Much needed. 80 cts.; $6 doz.

COMIC AND MINSTREL SONGS $1 00. 46 merry songs, well calculated to make time pass cheerfully.

BANNER FOLIO. Violin and Piano. Winner. Large number of popular melodies, skilfully arranged for Violin, with Piano accompaniment. $1 00.

MANDOLIN AND PIANO DUETS Winner. About 75 popular airs for Mandolin and Piano. $1 00.

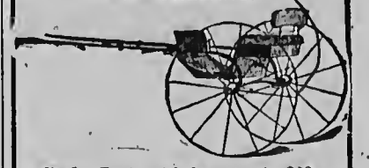
Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price.

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

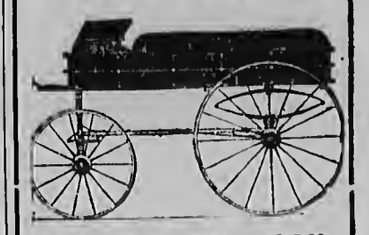
C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York City

R. P. RANDALL,

Carriages and Harness,
Saddles and Bridles,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.



Body Cart, with lazy back, $20.
A good, substantial article, which we can recommend to give service.



3-Spring Delivery Wagon, $67.50.
TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER.

SHORTHAND

—AND—

TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

Mansfield Female College

Conservatory of Music and Art.

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most popular and flourishing institutions of the South. The Sixty-seventh Session opens September 10, 1890, and the Spring Term begins January 28, 1891, with an able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive, instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. The pianos are new and of the best make. The Technicon and the Techniphone are used to facilitate the work in the music department, placing this department beyond competition. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

The location is unsurpassed for beauty and attractiveness, and the school is celebrated for the remarkable record for good health maintained. The climate is the best in which to educate, and the place is the safest for girls. The main building is of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, warmed and ventilated. Ample provision for the table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical. A new building with a large audience hall is in contemplation, and extensive improvements are in progress to make this the grandest institution in the State.

For catalogue and particulars address
A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

EASTER MUSIC

Of every description for the Church and Sunday School. Complete Lists mailed free to any address on application. ADDRESS,

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 200 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

Improved EXCELSIOR INCUBATOR

Will hatch larger percentage of fertile eggs at less cost than any other hatcher. Send 6c for Illus. Cata. GEO. H. STAHL, Quincy, Ill.

YOUR NAME on 25 Lovely Cards, 1 Ring, 1 Lace Pin, 1 Fancy Fountain Pen Complete, 1 Forget-me-not Album, 40 Album Verses &c. All 10c. Laurel Card Co., Box 20 Clintonville, Conn.

A Planters Experience.

"My plantation is in a malarial district, where fever and ague prevailed. I employ 150 hands; frequently half of them were sick. I was nearly discouraged when I began the use of

Tutt's Pills

The result was marvellous. My men became strong and hearty, and I have had no further trouble. With these pills, I would not fear to live in any swamp." E. RIVAL, Bayou Sara, La.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, New York.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscriptinn price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS
AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

IF THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS SENT TO US, WITH ONE DOLLAR, WE WILL SEND THE MUSICAL VISITOR TO ANY ADDRESS FOR ONE YEAR. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

PUBLISHED BY

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 246 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

MUNN & CO
SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
AGENCY for
PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO. 361 Broadway, New York.

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH

Trouble of the Womb should try Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Something new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Descriptive circulars and prices free. Address KITSELMAN BROS., Ridgeville, Ind.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8, Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., FOR Catalogue.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-Basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr. Prop'r, Loudon, Tenn.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

BAILEY'S REFLECTORS

Compound light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass. A wonderful invention for lighting Halls, Churches, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free. Handsome designs. BAILEY REFLECTOR CO. 709 Penn Ave. Pittsburgh, Pa.

25,000 SOLD

For introduction we will sell the Ladies' Friend Washer at cost (where there are no agents). Ten days trial. Agents make $5 to $10 per DAY. FREE Incloses you nothing if it does not excel in quality and quantity of work. Circulars free. D. L. BATES & BRO., DAYTON, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS TO BLYMYER BELLS TO THE BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS.

BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE. DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE STRAIGHT AND NARROW WAY.

BY M. H. C.

The train was swiftly flying on,
And curled up on a seat
I saw a lovely little one,
Now wrapped in slumber sweet.
Her round cheek on her dimpled hand
Glowed like a sweet spring rose,
Her small face, framed with golden curls,
A picture of repose.
The conductor passing on his way,
With wonder viewed the child,
For no one there had claimed the waif,
So he said in accents mild,
As he roused the pretty sleeper,
"Baby, who brought you here?
Where are you going, come tell me?
Now, don't be frightened, dear.
Where is your ticket, little one?
Wake up and pay your fare;
Or is this all the gold you own?"
Touching her silken hair.
"My fare? O, yes, 'twas paid, you know,
By Jesus when he died
Upon the cross, long, long ago,
When he was crucified.
And no one brought me here, sir,
But, you see, I wish to go
To the Celestial City,
Where mama has gone, you know.
This road was straight and narrow,
So I knew 'twould take me there;
Then I saw your pretty carriage,
And climbed the little stair.
Here I waited all alone, sir,
But, O, I did not mind it.
I said, Yes, 'narrow is the way,
And few there be that find it.'
When all these people crowded in
I feared 'twas not the way,
But ere I could get out again
Your big horse ran away;
And he's been running ever since—
I hope he's going right.
Does your road lead to heaven, sir,
Where there is no more night?"
Here the conductor bowed his head,
And vainly tried to speak,
And quickly brushed away the tear
That sparkled on his cheek.
While the childish voice continued:
"Why, sir, when we get there
We shall never know a sorrow,
And never feel a care;
When we reach the New Jerusalem
I'll find my dear mama.
Is there someone also that you love
Who's waiting for you there?"
"Yes, yes, dear child," he answered,
"And with God's help, I say,
My train shall run hereafter
The straight and narrow way."
"Then when you reach the city
Whose gates are made of pearl,
Will you call me if I'm sleeping?"
Questioned the little girl.
"You'll know it by its streets of gold,
It's shining jasper wall,
The river flowing from God's throne,
The tree of life so tall.
And then the gates are never shut,
Because 'tis always day;
O, I'm so glad I've found at last
The straight and narrow way!"
Now here the tired, tiny form
Sank on the cushioned seat,
And soon her eyes again were sealed
In slumber calm and sweet.
As the conductor read the name—
Alice Eugenia Hale—
On the small handkerchief she dropped,
His face grew very pale.
"The Judge's only child," he said,
"Is this dear little waif,
I'll send a telegram at once
To tell him she is safe.
Surely a guardian angel
Was sent to me this day
By the fond mother who once taught
My infant lips to pray.
And when my final run I've made,
And all life's stations past,
O, may God's holy city be My terminus at last."

—Southern Churchman.

MR. EDITOR: I have been reading letters from the cousins. They were very nice. Conference has sent back to us our same preacher we had last year, Dr. West. We all like him very much. We had a little snow Saturday morning. We have a nice library in our Sunday-school. My oldest brother is a minister. His work is in Amite county this year. He has four churches to preach at. Mr. Edgley, the boss of the spinning-room, is going to leave us, and I am proud of it. I guess I had better stop on this. I will answer Meredith Woods' question: Mary was the mother of Joseph. I am going to ask a question: How far is the sun from the earth? Yours,

HATTIE I. WOODWARD.

Weston, Miss.

MR. EDITOR: I am a girl fourteen years old. This is my first letter to the ADVOCATE. I like to read the young people's letters. I am living with my uncle, George Lynch, in Bunkie, La. My mother is dead. I have a father and also a brother in Fort Worth, Texas. My brother is a cowboy. He is fifteen years old. I am going to start to school very soon. Now, Mr. Editor, please be so kind as to publish this letter.

Your unknown friend,

CHARLES D. GREEN.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little boy thirteen years old. My grandpa takes your paper, and he and I like to read your paper, and I like to read the letters; so I thought I would write one, too. My grandpa is a prayer meeting superintendent, and he is a member of the Methodist Church. Our preacher is named Brown. He is a good preacher. I think we have a nice Sunday-school here, and also an Episcopal Sunday-school, too.

O. SMITH.

MR. EDITOR: I am a girl fourteen years of age. My papa takes the dear ADVOCATE, and I enjoy reading the children's letters very much. Our pastor this year is named Pilly. I have two pets—a dog and a cat. Their names are Fido and Tom. I have three sisters and two brothers. I have been to see my dear grandmama. She has been very ill, but is getting well. She is seventy-eight years of age now, and I think she has been getting along very well for an old lady of her age. My youngest brother is going to school now, and I think he likes it very much. The nearest school is about three miles, and our church is about seven. I have not been to church this year; but I think I will go soon. I must come to a close now, for fear it will reach the waste-basket.

Yours ever,

E. J. HOFFPAUIR.

Duson, La.

MR. EDITOR: I have been thinking for some time I would write to your valuable paper. I enjoy reading the young folks' letters very much, and I always read Bro. J. W. Lambuth's letters. My papa has family prayer, and I read with him. I have read through the Book of Psalms twice, and am now reading through the New Testament. I am eight years old; but don't go to school. I wish there was a school here. Mama says I ought to be going every day. Bro. D. P. Bradford is our pastor. We all think he is a good pastor, a good preacher and a good man. My mama has been quite sick four weeks; but I am glad she is improving some. Santa Claus brought me an autograph album and several other little things. I will close by answering Paul Harris' question: The Bible contains 773,446 words.

Your little friend,

WALLACE SUMMER.

Morton, Miss.

A clergyman says, "Johnson's Anodyne Liniment cured me of diphtheria." One among many.

"TRUST IN BREECHES."—I have a little neighbor six years old, who often runs in, in a neighborly way to chat with me. One hot Sunday afternoon last summer, I took my book to a shady spot in the yard for a quiet time. Soon I heard the patter of little feet along the board walk—then a click at the gate—then my pet stood at my side. Jumping into my lap, for we are fast friends, he said, "Oh, you ought have been to our Sunday-school to-day—it was such a nice lesson." "Tell me about it then." "One time ten men had the small-pox——" "Small-pox, Eddie?" "Yes, or else it was diptheria—I don't know which—and they went to God to be cured, and God told them to go to their preacher, and before they got to the preacher's house, the small-pox left them, and their hands were white and clean like yours and mine. Then one of them went back to God and thanked him—and God said, I cured ten of you—where are the rest of you——? But oh—you'd a-liked the other lesson—I know you would—the lesson last Sunday." "Tell me about it, Eddie." "Oh, I don't know anything but the golden text—it was so pretty—It was 'Trust in Breeches.'" "Oh, Eddie, you don't mean that." "But I do," letting his hand come down on his knee, by way of emphasis, "it was, 'Put your trust in breeches.'" The little lad was then wearing his first pair of knee breeches—little wonder that, "How hard is it for them that put their trust in riches," etc., came to him, "Trust in breeches."—A. L. H., in Mid-Continent.

WOLFF'S ACME BLACKING

A PERFECT HARNESS DRESSING.
USED BY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.
A SHINE LASTS A WEEK.
LEATHER PRESERVER.
A HANDSOME POLISH.
IS WATER-PROOF.

EVERY Household EVERY Office
EVERY Mechanic EVERY Stable
SHOULD USE

PIK-RON PAINT TRADE MARK

Will Stain Old & New Furniture
Will Stain Glass and Chinaware
Will Stain Tinware
Will Stain your Old Baskets
Will Stain Baby's Coach

and Varnish at the same time.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.
Ask in Drug, Paint and House-furnishing Stores.

HOUSEHOLD.

For the Mothers.

As boys grow up, make companions of them; then they will not seek companionship elsewhere.

Let the children make a noise sometimes; their happiness is as important as your nerves.

Respect their little secrets, if they have concealments; worrying them will never make them tell, and patience will probably do the work.

Allow them as they grow older to have opinions of their own; make them individuals, and not mere echoes.

Remember that without physical health mental attainment is worthless; let them lead free, happy lives, which will strengthen both mind and body.

Bear in mind that you are largely responsible for your child's inherited character, and have patience with faults and failings.

Talk hopefully to your children of life and its possibilities; you have no right to depress them because you have suffered.

Teach boys and girls the actual facts of life as soon as they are old enough to understand them, and give them the sense of responsibility without saddening them.

Find out what their special tastes are, and develop them, instead of spending time, money and patience in forcing them into studies which are repugnant to them.

As long as it is possible, kiss them good-night after they are in bed; they do like it so, and it keeps them very close.

If you have lost a child, remember that for the one that is gone there is no more to do; for those remaining, everything; hide your grief for their sakes.

Impress upon them from early infancy that actions have results, and they can not escape consequences even by being sorry when they have acted wrongly.

As your daughters grow up, teach them at least the true merits of housekeeping and cookery; they will thank you for it in later life a great deal more than for accomplishments.

Try and sympathize with girlish flights of fancy, even if they seem absurd to you; by so doing you will retain your influence over your daughters, and not teach them to seek sympathy elsewhere.

Remember that although they are all your children, each one has an individual character, and that tastes and qualities vary indefinitely.

Cultivate them separately, and not as if you were turning them out by machinery.

Encourage them to take good walking exercise. Young ladies in this country are rarely walkers. They can dance all night, but are tired out if they walk a mile. Girls ought to be able to walk as easily as boys. Half the nervous diseases which afflict young ladies would disappear if the habit of regular exercise were encouraged.

Keep up a light standard of principles; your children will be your keenest judges in the future. Do be honest with them in small things as well as in great. If you can not tell them what they wish to know, say so rather than deceive them.

Reprove your children for tale-bearing; a child taught to carry reports from the kitchen to the parlor is detestable.

Send the youngest to bed early; decide upon the proper time, and adhere to it.

Remember that visitors praise the children as much to please you as because they deserve it, and that their presence is oftener an affliction than not.—Selected.

From Seven Thousand Dollars to Twenty-One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Three Dollars.

Twenty-one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three dollars has just been paid by The Mutual Life Insurance Company on an original $7,000 insurance policy.

A result never equaled or even approached by any other company in the world. The fortunate assured was Mr. Charles Dellinger, of Mobile, Ala., who was forty-one years old when he became a member of the company.

RECAPITULATION.

1—Cash value of the dividends 100 per cent. of premiums.

2—Additions to policy 143 per cent. of premiums.

3—Insurance paid 312 per cent. of original amount.

4—Investment, 3 per cent. compound interest.

5—Insured 44 years, from age 41 to age 85.

6—No taxes, care or expense connected with the insurance.

Remember this company is purely mutual; all profits belong to the members. It is also the largest and most profitable company in the world. Mr. T. H. Bowles is the general agent, 120 Common street, New Orleans, La.

SCIENTIFIC.

Jastrow on a Writing Test.

In a paper entitled, "A Study in Mental Statistics," Prof. Jastrow describes the results of a mental test in which fifty students of a class in psychology, at the University of Wisconsin (twenty-five men and twenty-five women), took part. The task consisted in writing 100 words as rapidly as possible. The material thus collected was utilized to shed light upon (1) the similarity of our ideas and habits of thought, (2) the links that bind our ideas together, and (3) the time required for these processes.

1. The general tendency to regard one's mental habits and products as singular and original, and consequently to look upon every evidence of similarity of thought as a strange co-incidence, receives a set-back from the result of the present and similar studies, for it is found that these fifty persons, independently writing one hundred words from the many thousand with which they are acquainted, all in all, select from the same 2,024; i. e., of the 5,000 words written, only 2,024 are different. Again, 1,266 words occur but once in the aggregate lists, and omitting these we find that about 3,000 of the words are formed by the repetition of only 758 words. Passing to an analysis of this "mental community," it becomes clear that it is greatest at the beginning of the list, and becomes less toward the end; i. e., the habit is to write first the most common, and when these are exhausted, the more unusual words. A very interesting point is the comparison of men and women is their tendency to repeat one another's thoughts. The evidence is unmistakable that the lists of words drawn up by the women are much more like one another than are those written by the men. The women use only 1,123 different words, the men 1,376. The women write but 520 words that occur but once in the lists, the men write 746 such words.

2. A study of the processes involved in these lists bases itself upon a careful analysis of the ideas therein represented. The relative sizes of such classes, in a measure, indicate the prominence of different classes of objects in the minds of the writers. It may be interesting to mention that the five best represented classes (of the twenty-five adopted in the paper) are "Names of Animals," "Articles of Dress," "Proper Names," "Actions," "Implements and Utensils." The sexes present characteristic preferences for the various classes. The women contribute most largely to "Articles of Dress," writing 224 such words, while the men write but 129. They show an equal favoritism for "Articles of Food," writing 179 such words to but 53 for the men. The men, on the other hand, show fondness for "Implements and Utensils," "Names of Animals," "Professions," "Abstract Terms," etc.

Of the various links by which the one word suggests its successor, it may suffice to indicate as prominent types, (a) association by sound, in which words are rhymed, or begin with the same letter; (b) by belonging to the same class, as when a series of animals or articles of dress is formed; and (c) by more general but not briefly describable relations. One may combine the two inquiries (1) and (2) to ask how often the same word is associated with the same word in different lists. If we take the twenty words most frequently occurring, we find over 500 mentions; and if we examine in each case the word preceding the given word, we find it to be the same in 111 cases, and the succeeding word the same in 145 cases—certainly a remarkable result. Here, again, the women are found to repeat one another more than the men.

3. Regarding the time occupied in the process, the result reached is that (roughly speaking) it takes, on the average, 308 seconds to write such a list of 100 words; that 210 seconds are consumed in the mere act of writing, 114 seconds in thinking of what to write, and 16 seconds in which both may be done.

These results are offered, in addition to whatever value they may possess, as an illustration of how, by simple experimental methods, we may become more intimate with the processes that we constantly but unconsciously perform.—American Naturalist.

The safest and best remedy that can be found for family use is Johnson's Adoyne Liniment.

Nothing On Earth Will MAKE HENS LAY LIKE Sheridan's Condition Powders

It is absolutely pure. Highly concentrated. In quantity it costs less than a tenth of a cent a day. Strictly a medicine. Prevents and cures all diseases. Good for young chicks. Worth more than gold when hens Moult. "One large can saved me 14; send six for $5 to prevent roup," says a customer. If you can't get it send us 50 cents for two packs; five $1. A 2 1-4 pound can $1.20 post-paid; 6 cans $5, express paid. "THE BEST POULTRY PAPER," sample copy free. Poultry Raising Guide free with 3 orders or more. I. S. JOHNSON & Co., Boston, Mass.

44,000 PIANOS AND ORGANS

Placed in Southern Homes since 1870—Twenty successful business—sales over Six Million Dollars and yearly increasing. Why? Because the Country flooded with Cheap, Interior Instruments, but

TO SELL—NOT TO USE

and the public has found out that

WE DON'T SELL THAT KIND

Our Instruments lead the world. Our Prices, Terms than factories. Terms, Easiest. Methods, Fair Inducements, greatest, and we pay freight. Write for Free Catalogues and Circulars explaining fully—all in plain print. Easy to buy from us.

LUDDEN & BATES
Southern Music House,
SAVANNAH, GA.

Mention this paper.

Books

New Books every week. Catalogue, 132 pages, free, not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Gray, B. Feilman, Junius Hart, D. H. Holmes, Jos. Kuhn & Son.

Books by Subscription!

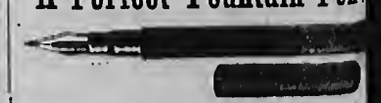
I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal," of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON
Religious Book Depository,
94 Camp St., - - New Orleans

A Perfect Fountain Pen!



The best cheap Fountain Pen made.

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens, Stylographic Pens, from $1.50 to $5 each. Holders and ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

W. W. CARRE,
LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF
PLANTATION CABINS, STORES,
Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.
NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

MARRIAGES.

BUTLER—FELPS.—At the residence of Mr. Thad. Evans, Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 3, at nine o'clock A. M., by Rev. J. A. Parker, D. D., Miss Adelia M. Felps, of East Feliciana, La., to Mr. John B. Butler, of St. Landry.

SYKES—McKINZIE.—At the residence of Mr. C. Curry, Duck Hill, Miss., Feb. 1, 1891, by Rev. D. W. Babb, Mr. C. E. Sykes to Miss Sue H. McKinzie.

JONES—TAYLOR.—At the residence of Mrs. E. Newman, East Carroll parish, Jan. 22, 1891, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, Mr. S. P. Jones, of Greenville, Miss., and Miss Troupe Tayler, of Lake Providence, La.

SMITH—WHITE.—At the residence of Mr. L. White, Jan. 15, 1891, by Rev. W. W. Simmons, Mr. J. P. Smith and Miss A. G. White.

BUCHANAN—SHARP.—At the residence of Miss Sharp, Feb. 1, 1891, by Rev. W. W. Simmons, Mr. Robert E. Buchanan and Miss Dellar Sharp.

FLY—JELKS.—At the residence of Mrs. Jelks, Feb. 2, 1891, by Rev. W. W. Simmons, Mr. Antony Fly and Miss M. A. Jelks.

CULLOM—McQUEEN.—At the residence of Mrs. Davidson, Springfield, La., Jan. 26, by Rev. Jervie Mellard, Mr. E. T. Cullom to Miss S. A. McQueen.

JENKINS—CARSON.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Yazoo City, Miss., Jan. 29, 1891, by Rev. J. T. Moody, Mr. R. C. Jenkins, of Durant, Miss., and Miss Ida Carson, of Yazoo City.

LEE—REDMOND.—At Redmondville, Yazoo county, Miss., Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. H. P. Lewis, Mr. Jas. W. Lee, of Winnsboro, La., and Mrs. A. Redmond, of Redmondville, Miss.

BATSON—BADON.—In the Methodist Church at Lumberton, Jan. 29, 1891, by Rev. H. D. Howell, Mr. Nathaniel Batson to Miss Lucille Badon, both of Lumberton, Miss.

PROUTY—HUGHES.—At the home of the bride's mother, Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. J. M. Pugh, Mr. J. W. Prouty and Miss Sallie M. Hughes, all of Daleville, Miss.

FARR—McWILLIAMS.—At the residence of the bride's brother, Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. J. M. Pugh, Mr. Ephran Farr, of Houston, Miss., and Miss Annie McWilliams, of Lauderdale county, Miss.

McGUFFEY—WILSON.—At the Methodist Church, Pleasant Grove, Jan. 4, 1891, by Rev. R. Travers, Mr. J. D. McGuffey and Mrs. V. A. Wilson.

OBITUARIES.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, ten cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

SPAIN—Died at her home, in Madison county, Miss., Jan. 15, 1891, Mrs. BETTIE ANN SPAIN, aged fifty years. Her maiden name was Nimmo. She was born Jan. 1, 1841, in Louisville, Miss.; removed to Madison county when twelve years of age. In 1858 she professed religion and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and four years ago she and her husband united with the M. E. Church, South.

Sister Spain was twice married; first to G. A. Moore, in November, 1858. By this marriage she had one child who survives her. Dec. 24, 1868, she was married to her second husband, Jno. W. Spain. By this marriage she had four children—two sons and two daughters—one son having preceded her about eighteen months to that better land and was in waiting for the coming of his mother. She died of pneumonia. Her last illness short, but very painful. She suffered greatly; but a short time before she died her sufferings seemed to pass away and her spirit quietly took its flight.

May the God of all comfort pour out His choicest blessings upon, and bind up the wounded hearts of the husband and children who remain to mourn her death!

And now that this wife and mother and the son and brother have passed over the river, may those who remain press on with renewed strength to meet them on the other shore!

JAS. G. GALLOWAY.

ROBERTSON—Mrs. CAROLINE E. ROBERTSON, daughter of the late Hon. L. W. Robertson, of Baton Rouge, La., and wife of E. S. Robertson, Esq., of Calahoula parish, La., died at the residence of her mother, in the city of Baton Rouge, Jan. 25, 1891. She joined the M. E. Church, South, at the age of thirteen, and soon after became very active in all church work, especially as a Sunday-school teacher. She was always conscientious and faithful, full of prayer and good works, and when death came she was ready. She was married to Mr. Robertson, Nov. 11, 1880, and since that time has resided in Calahoula parish, except the last month of her life, during which time she was in Baton Rouge under medical treatment. Her last and unfinished work was the building of a church-house in her neighborhood. She leaves her husband and five little children to mourn her. May they meet her in heaven! P.

JONES—SUSANNAH JONES, consort of Alford Jones, and daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth King, was born in Alabama, Aug. 3, 1828. She moved to Mississippi in early life. She was married in Pontotoc county, Miss., Oct. 12, 1845, and moved to this county (Montgomery) in the year 1847. She joined the church at Bethesda in 1854 or '55, in which she lived a consistent Christian until the day of her death, which took place on Jan. 25, 1891.

Hers was a beautiful life; not demonstrative, but silently ripening for the home of the good and the true. It was not until a short while before her death that she ever gave vent to expressions of overflowing joy and praise. She urged her good husband to do more for the Master, that others might be saved. So victorious was the last moment, her friends do not sorrow as those who have no hope.

She leaves a husband, a large family of children and grandchildren to mourn her departure. R. A. ELLIS.

HAYS—The committee of the Ladies' Aid Society, of Covington, St. Tammany parish, La., appointed to draft resolutions in reference to the death of Rev. J. D. Hays, our expected pastor for this circuit during the present year, beg leave to submit the following:

Whereas, It hath pleased God, in the order of his providence, to take from us our expected pastor, Rev. J. D. HAYS, who died at Terry, Miss., Dec. 28, 1890, before reaching the field of his labor, he having been assigned to this circuit as pastor in charge for the present year by the Mississippi Conference, M. E. Church, South; therefore be it Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Hays the Conference has lost an able worker; the cause of Christianity, a warm advocate; the church, an efficient minister, and we, a faithful pastor.

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the dispensation of God's providence, we deplore the loss of our brother and pastor. Yet we mourn not as those without hope, but look forward to a joyful reunion in that house not made with hands. Knowing that our loss is his gain, we humbly acquiesce in the summons that called him from his labor to his reward.

Resolved, That we extend to his bereaved companion our warmest Christian sympathy, and bid her be of good cheer, knowing that if faithful to the grace given, she will find him "waiting and watching" at the pearly gate.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the society, and a copy thereof sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication, and another to the bereaved widow.

MRS. J. E. SMITH,
For Committee.

McKNIGHT—On Dec. 8, 1890, at his home in New Orleans, Bro. CHAS. H. McKNIGHT joined the church triumphant, aged forty-nine years. During revival services, while a student at college in Kentucky, Bro. McKnight professed conversion and united with the M. E. Church, South. He continued an active member to the last. Bro. McKnight served throughout the Civil War in the Confederate Army, in the fourteen Louisiana.

The last two years of his life were under my pastoral charge at Parker Chapel. Here he served as steward and trustee. Bro. McKnight was a thorough Methodist. He loved to converse on the subject of experimental religion. He was active in all branches of church work, and took pleasure in it. During the weeks just preceding his death he was busily engaged in arranging for the establishment and extension of the church to which he belonged.

In the latter years of his life his health broke down; he was sorely afflicted. In all he trusted in God, realizing the sustaining power of faith in the Invisible. To the end a great sufferer; yet in the midst of darkness he testified that his soul had been committed to a faithful and sufficient Savior.

As my personal friend, I loved and honored him. I enjoyed delightful seasons of prayer and communion with him. His dear wife and children will have the sustaining grace of their Lord. We commend them to God and the word of his grace. F. N. PARKER.

LEWIS—Near China Grove, Pike county, Miss., Thursday, Jan. 15, 1891, at 6:45 P. M., W. BEN. LEWIS, aged forty-six years two months and eight days. Bro. Lewis was born within a mile of the place of his death, Nov. 7, 1847, and at the age of seventeen united with the M. E. Church, South, on Pearl river, under the ministry of Bro. Lane, and a few days afterwards entered the Confederate Army, where he served as a faithful soldier till the close of the war.

About twenty years ago he entered his membership in the China Grove Church, and at the time of his death was one of the trustees. He was a faithful and loving husband and father, and strove to implant in the hearts of his children, by precept and example, the truths of the holy religion in which he had lived. He leaves a wife and seven children—four of whom are members of the China Grove Church. He said he was not afraid to die; and the end came without a struggle. He was laid to rest in the China Grove Cemetery, on Saturday morning, by the side of three of his children. "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be his holy name!"

L. W. WOOD, P. C.

ADAMS—LITTLE SAM JONES, son of J. R. and P. J. Adams, was called Jan. 10, 1891, by him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Plucked away in the morn of his life, a budding blossom in its mother's bosom, a child of joy in its father's breast, truly it seems hard to say, "Thy will be done." Yet we know that he loves us, and "doeth all things well." Our tenderest sympathies attend them in their bereavement.

S. E. LANCE.

The Origin of Diseases.

"As to the origin of diseases that must be obvious." This was written over two thousand years ago, but now, after twenty-two centuries of experiment and investigation, the origin of diseases is not obvious at all. Not knowing the cause, it should seem difficult to find the proper drug to administer. As we have no time to await the result of other centuries of scientific research, why not try a remedy which is not a drug, but a vitalizer, inhaled into the lungs, absorbed into the blood, and which, reaching every organ of the body, gives strength to resist and repel the disease? Such a remedy is Compound Oxygen. We have hundreds of testimonials.

Our brochure of 200 pages contains a mass of evidence, testimonials, and interesting reading matter, even for well persons. Sent free. It gives the history of Compound Oxygen, its nature and results with records of cases pronounced incurable, but still they were cured by our Compound Oxygen Treatment. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1520 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, Cal.

1888 1889 1881 1883 1884 1880 1881 1890 1886 1879 1882 1887 1878 1885

See it grow! You won't have to look back far. 1877 was the year when Pearline started in to take charge of washing and cleaning. It was a new idea; people didn't know about it; when they did find out, they were afraid of it.

But look at it now. Every year has been a big advance on the year before—and 1890 a bigger advance than ever. It's the biggest year, against the biggest opposition—smooth-tongued peddlers to fight against, cheap prices and poor quality, prize packages, imitations of all sorts. But Pearline started ahead and has kept there—and now it's farther ahead than ever. A poor thing can't grow like this. A dangerous thing can't. Find out for yourself why Pearline grows. Ask about it of some one who is using it.

Beware of peddlers and imitations. 333 JAMES PYLE, New York.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,
(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.
(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS. Telephone—Office and Foundry, 658.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers: Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Fine Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO. Limited or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO., L't'd,
18 Baronne and 127 Canal Streets, New Orleans, La.

SOLE AGENTS FOR ALL THE LEADING
PIANOS!
Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Sohmer, Behr, Mehlin, Fischer, Pleyel, Pease, Shoninger, Sterling, etc.
Lowest Prices!! | Easiest Terms!
LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO. (Limited), New Orleans.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,
92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.
COAL AND COKE
We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,
OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.
Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF
"High Grade Bone Fertilizers,"
"Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate,
"Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone,
"Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate,
DISSOLVED BONE,
ACID PHOSPHATE
Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc
BONE BLACK.

1891.

1891.

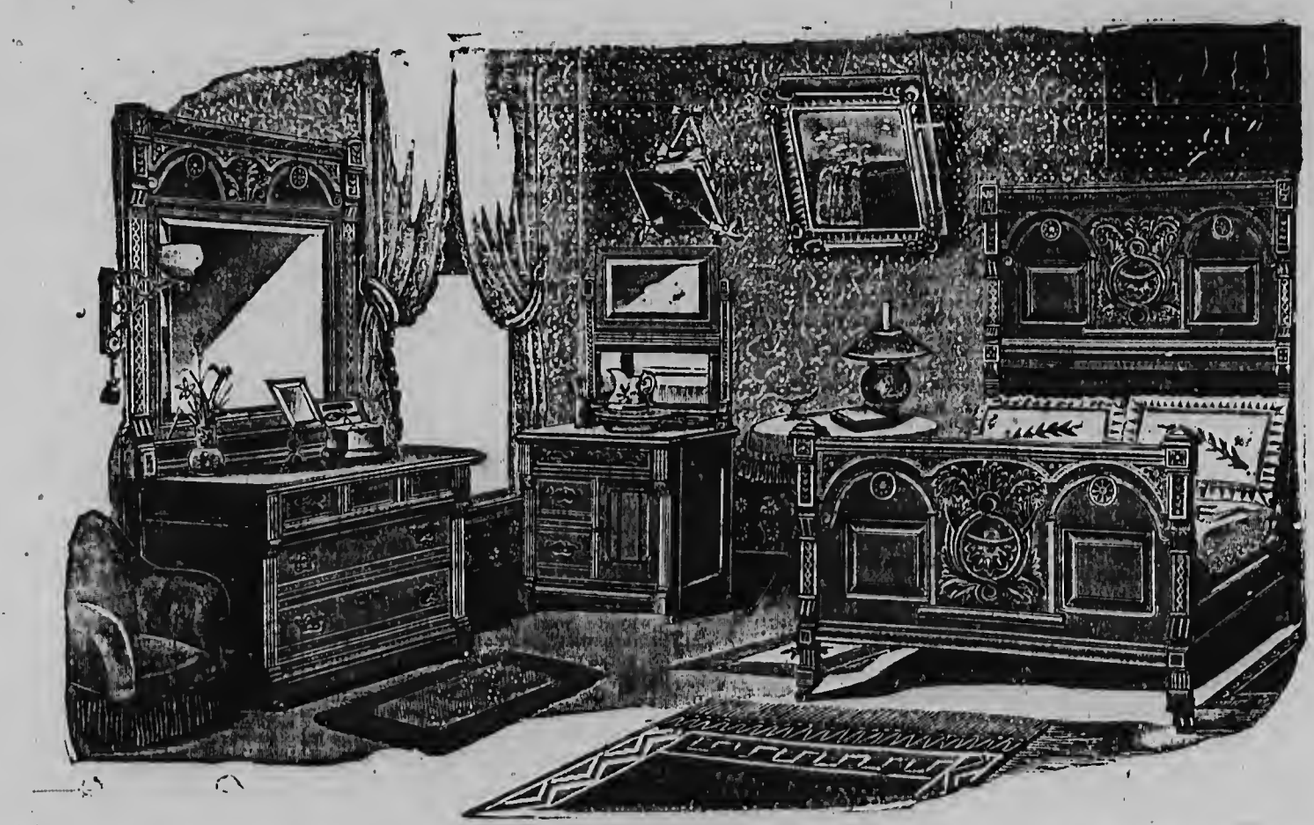
Home Grown, Honest, Reliable.
I offer you my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1891 FREE. Note the immense variety of seed it contains, and that all the best novelties are there. Not much mere show about it (you don't plant pictures) but fine engravings from photographs of scores of the choice vegetables I have introduced. Would it not be well to get the seed of these from first hands? To be the oldest firm in the United States making mail and express business a specialty proves reliability. Honest and honorable dealing is the only foundation this can rest on. My Catalogue is FREE as usual. A matter on second page of cover will interest my customers. J. J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.
I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Valours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK
in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES
are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.
A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.
I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.
I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,
28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.
Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Spring Is Coming—Planting Time Is at Hand.

If you are thinking of planting Roses, Hardy Shrubbery, Climbing Vines, Bulbs or Seeds of any kind, write The Dingee & Conard Co., West Grove, Pa., for their New Guide—124 pages beautifully illustrated—free on application. This house is well known as one of the most popular and reliable in the country. They make a specialty of all the Newest and Choicest Roses, New Hardy Plants, New Bulbs, New and Rare Flower and Vegetable Seeds of all best kinds—almost everything you can need for home planting is offered post-paid to your door. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address the Dingee & Conard Co., West Grove, Pa., and please mention this paper when you write.

Over 44,000 Pianos and Organs Placed in Southern Homes.

If any of our readers are thinking of buying a Piano or Organ they will be interested by the advertisement of Ludden & Bates Southern Music House, of Savannah, Ga. The enterprise and reputation of the house is so well known as hardly to need mention. They have been doing business in every Southern State for upwards of twenty years, and have sold the enormous number of 44,000 instruments. Their prices are always as low as those of the factories—they handle the best known instruments of America—and their terms are the most liberal known. Write them. They will take pleasure in corresponding with you.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption.

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Cranden & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

Don't trust or try every one's remedy; use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and be cured at once.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Tillatoba	Feb. 14, 15
Coffeeville	21, 22
Oxford	Mar. 1
Tocopola	(Thurs.) 3
Abbeville	7, 8
Water Valley cir.	(Fri.) 13
Banner	14, 15
Carrollton	21, 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir.	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Cherry Hill	(Wed.) 8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Early Grove, at Sylvestria	Feb. 15, 16
Ashland	22, 23
Olive Branch	28, Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony	7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. BOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Saltillo, at Mooresville	Feb. 14, 15
Smithville and Fulton, at Greenbriar	21, 22
Aberdeen	Mar. 1, 2
Fremont at New Salem	7, 8
Buena Vista, at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	13

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Arkabutla	(Thurs.) Feb. 12
Pleasant Grove	(Sat. and Sun.) 14, 15
Coc. rum	(Thurs.) 19
Courtland	(Sat. and Sun.) 21, 22
Horn Lake	(Thurs.) 26
Chulahoma	(Sat. and Sun.) 28, Mar. 1
Mt. Veraon	(Sat. and Sun.) 7, 8

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Blue Springs circuit, at Blue Springs	Feb. 14, 15
Jonesboro circuit, at Ebenezer	19
Ripley and New Albany, at Ripley	21, 22
Guntown circuit, at Guatown	28, Mar. 1
Ripley circuit, at Paine's Chapel	5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove	7, 8

W. S. LACRONE, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lula	Feb. 14, 15
Jonestown	21, 22
Belen	Mar. 1, 2
Bolivar	7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Ocaboma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lehrton	Apr. 4, 5

H. M STANDEFER, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Weir	Feb. 18
Ethel	15, 16
West	21, 22
Mural Hill	23
Lexington	28, Mar. 1
Black Hawk	7, 8

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Plattsburg circuit, at Center Ridge	Feb. 13
Louisville circuit, at Louisville	14, 15
Sturges circuit, at Bethel	20
Chester circuit, at Chester	21, 22
Mabea circuit, at Mabea	27
Walthall circuit, at Walthall	28, Mar. 1

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

GARMENTS GUARANTEED TO FIT PERFECT WITHOUT TRYING ON.

FREE

by return mail full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style to any measure for lady or child. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

DeKalb cir., at DeKalb	Feb. 14, 15
Porterville circuit, at Markeeta	21, 22
Meridian, at West End	(Thurs.) 26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar. 1
Meridian, at East End	28, 1
Daleville sta	(Fri.) 6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Blumsville and Wahalak	28, 29

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	Feb. 14, 15
Ocean Springs and Springs (Fri., W.)	17, 18
Pearlington, at Pearlington	21, 22
Perry, at Isabella	28, Mar. 1
American, at Caswell Springs	7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point (night)	8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove (W., Th.)	11, 12
Whitfington, at Whittington	14, 15
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	Mar. 21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, 29

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Crystal Springs sta	Feb. 14, 15
Hazlehurst sta	21, 22
Bowerton, at Brandywine	28, Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon	(Mon.) 2
Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	7, 8
China Grove, at Waterholes	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton	(Tues.) 17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Bahala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Westville, at Pleasant Hill	Feb. 14, 15
Shiloh, at Cato	21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	7, 8
Decatur, at Hebron	10
Marvin, at Marvin	14, 15
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	21, 22
Raleigh, at Trinity	28, 29
Trenton, at Trenton	29, 30

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Rolling Fork, at Cerey	Feb. 15, 18
Rocky Springs, at Hermonville	21, 22
Burtonton, at Pisgah	(Mon.) 23
Utica, at Utica	(Wed.) 25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
Sonth Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 23

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	Feb. 14, 15
Port Vincent, at Port Vincent	17
Live Oak	19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson station	25
Clinton and Betoville, at Clinton	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tallaheek, at Fitzgerald	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Amite City, at Amite City	19
Springfield, at Killian Chapel	21, 22

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Yazoo circuit, at Mt. Carmel	Feb. 14, 15
Yazoo City station (Sun. night, Mon.)	15, 16
Benton, at Bowmen's	21, 22
Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

South Bossier, at Fillmore	Feb. 14, 15
DeSoto, at Bethel	21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Holly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 25. ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Pineville, at Hickory Grove	Feb. 14, 15
Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	18, 19
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassau	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beniah	21, 22

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	Feb. 14, 15
Waterproof, at Waterproof	21, 22
Providence, at Providence	28, Mar. 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Baton Rouge	Feb. 15
Gross Tete and False River, at Har'y	22
Craps Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12-15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lake Arthur	Feb. 14, 15
Lake Charles	21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Gansville	Feb. 14, 15
Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

HERE IS A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY.

I bought a machine for plating gold, silver and nickel, and it works splendid. When people heard about it they brought more spoons, forks and jewelry than I could plate. In a week I made $33 25, and in a month $172 50. My daughter made $31 in five days. You can get a Plater for $3 from W. H. Grillith & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, and will, we trust, be benefitted as much as I have been.

R. M. GRAY.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The Louisiana Annual Conference of the African M. E. Church convened in Tangipahoa, La., on Feb. 6, and was called to order by Bishop Grant.

The Ways and Means Committee of the National World's Columbian Exposition has decided to ask Congress to appropriate $5,000,000 in aid of the World's Fair. The matter will be laid before the next Congress, as the present one is too near the end of its session to get it through.

The two Louisiana items in the sundry civil bill were adopted by the National House, on Feb. 5, being appropriations of $70,000 and $40,000 to complete the public buildings at Baton Rouge and Alexandria, these amounts being in addition to $30,000 and $20,000 appropriated last session.

The Iowa Temperance Alliance is closing up saloons in localities where the local authorities have neglected or refused to enforce the prohibitory law. In Fort Dodge applications for injunctions against twenty-five saloons have been filed by the Temperance Alliance. Detectives have been at work gathering evidence, and the Alliance hopes to close every saloon.

In the council of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union, held in Washington (D. C.), last week, Mr. T. S. Adams, president of the State Alliance of Louisiana, introduced a resolution, which was adopted, asking Congress to enact a law in accordance with the memorial adopted by the Ocala conference in opposition to the Louisiana State Lottery.

It is announced that a reciprocal treaty with Brazil has been negotiated under the authority of the Tariff act. Treaties with the other South American republics and Mexico are expected to follow the agreement with Brazil, under which their sugar, molasses, coffee, tea and hides are to be admitted free in consideration of an open market for the productions of this country.

The great strike in the Connellsville region, Pennsylvania, was inaugurated on Feb. 9, and it is expected that every mine and coke works in the region will be closed down. It is estimated that 16,000 men will be out. The strike is for an advance in wages of 12½ cents per ton and against a ten per cent. reduction. Both sides are firm, and a long struggle appears to be inevitable.

The bill to incorporate a pan-American transportation company will probably be voted on finally by the Senate Commerce Committee on the twelfth. Senator Gibson has caused some important modifications to be made in the bill, which in its original form referred only to Galveston and Mobile, New Orleans being overlooked. There is at present no representative of New Orleans named among the incorporators.

The Indiana Senate has passed a bill aimed against trusts in that State. The measure provides that all trusts, pools, contracts, combinations, arrangements or corporations which attempt to decrease outputs, control prices or limit production shall be as conspiracies to defraud the people, and any person being a member of such organization shall be subject to a fine of $1,000 to $5,000 and imprisonment from two to five years.

A conference with the Sioux Indian delegation is now going on. Commissioner Morgan said he thought they had already heard all that was necessary in regard to the past. What was wanted now was to hear their plans for the future. He was prepared to issue the $100,000 worth of beef to the Indians entitled to receive it, which was out off in the past. Little Nose, from the Cheyenne River Agency, said that his people wanted more and larger schools where the children could learn the white man's education. He protested against the appointment of military attachments.

FOREIGN.

The Russian minister of finance has obtained a suspension of repressive measures against the Jews by pointing out to the Czar the vexatious financial results which such measures might involve.

It is reported that a secret alliance has been signed between Guatemala and Honduras against San Salvador. Guatemala is prepared for war, and bringing her army up to the standard required by law.

It is said that the revolutionists in Chili are successful at all points, and that the members of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies who are not imprisoned are in hiding. The wheat crop is being lost, there being no hands to work.

A pastoral letter from the Catholic primate was read in the Catholic Churches throughout Ireland, on Feb. 8, condemning Mr. Parnell's conduct, and warning those engaged in the Boulogne negotiations to take care that the compromise reached was definite.

The government officials in Spain are thoroughly alarmed and are making preparations to resist a popular uprising. The military authorities have been ordered to hold the troops on the alert. It is understood that the military authorities have been instructed in the event of a disturbance to act with promptness and vigor.

The steamer Chiswick, from Cardiff to St. Nazaire with a cargo of coal, struck a sand bank off the Sicily Islands, and sank. The captain and ten seamen were drowned. Eight men who had life-belts around them clung to an upturned boat seven hours until they were rescued by boats from a lightship. A steamer conveyed them to Penzance.

After several ineffectual attempts it appears that King Humbert of Italy has at length succeeded in securing a new ministry, with the Marquis di Rudini as premier. Although it has been generally predicted that the fall of Crispi would in no way affect the relations of Italy to the triple alliance, there is reason to believe that the crisis is not viewed with satisfaction either at Berlin or Vienna. Although the fall of Crispi was ostensibly brought about by some intemperate remarks on his part against one or more of his colleagues in the ministry, the real trouble grew out of a fiscal question, or rather an attempt to increase taxes.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	6¾ @	— —
Ordinary	7⅛	— —
Good ordinary	7 11-16	— —
Low middling	8 7-16	— —
Middling	9	— —
Good middling	10⅛	— —
Middling fair	11¼	— —
Fair	12	— —
Galveston middling	9 3-16	— —
Mobile middling	9	— —
Memphis middling	9	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅛	4 9-16
Fully fair	4 7-16	— —
Good fair	4 7-16	— —
Common	4	4⅛
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	8¾	4⅞
Prime yellow	— —	5⅛
Gray white	— —	5⅛
Choice white	— —	5⅛
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	9	11
Good common	9	11
SYRUP	— —	— —
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	5⅜	5⅝
Fair	5⅜	5⅝
Prime	5⅝	5¾
Rough, ₩ bbl	8 50	5 25
Polish, ₩ ton	22 00	24 00
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 10	5 20
Fancy	4 87½	4 87½
Choice	— —	4 35
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 50	5 62½
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 00
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 10	3 15
Cream meal	— —	3 30
Grits	3 35	3 40
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₩ bushel	— —	67
Yellow	— —	67
Mixed No. 2	— —	66
OATS:
Western	56	57
Texas rust-proof	— —	60
BRAN:
₩ cwt	1 20	1 25
HAY:
Prime	15 00	16 00
Choice	16 50	17 00
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	— —	11 50
Prime Mess	10 25	10 50
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8¼	8¾
Shoulders	5⅛	— —
Sides, short rib	— —	6⅛
Sides, long clear	— —	6⅛
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9½	10
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅛	4⅛
Sides, short rib	5⅜	— —
Sides, long clear	5⅜	— —
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17⅛	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
He-No	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	27	28
Western Dairy	17	18
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5⅛	— —
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	28	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₩ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₩ 100	8 00	8 00
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 25	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	5 50	6 00
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb, ₩ yard	7¼	— —
Jute, 1¾ lb, ₩ yard	— —	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 85	1 87½
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	4 50
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	18 00
EGGS:
Western	23	24
Southern	24	25
WOOL:
Lake, ₩ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₩ lb	8¼	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, February 10.

EVERY SKIN AND SCALP DISEASE, whether torturing, disfiguring, humiliating, itching burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, from pimples to the most distressing eczemas, and every humor of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, is speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood and Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. This is strong language, but true. Thousands of grateful testimonials from infancy to age attest their wonderful, unfailing and incomparable efficacy.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Pimples, black-heads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains, and Muscular Weakness relieved in one minute by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25c.

KURSHEEDT'S

Marble Works,

120 and 122 Camp St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman, L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans,

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.0
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.7
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.5
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.5
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.8

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TEN POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $559,348.11.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, Joseph Schwartz, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

PIANOS P. WERLEIN, ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition

PIANOS From $225 Upwards.

ORGANS From $90 Upwards.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finley & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, Jr., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

THE DINGEE & CONARD CO'S SEEDS

Yes our Seeds are THE BEST there is, that's all—none can be better, and if you plant them once, you will want them again, no fear of that. OUR SEEDS, ROSES, especially Roses, Bulbs, Hardy Plants, etc., are known everywhere and sent everywhere post-paid. If you don't know a better place, send your orders to us, but first write for our NEW GUIDE—a valuable Book 124 pp. FREE, and see how much a little money will do. THE DINGEE & CONARD CO. WEST GROVE, P.

The ADVOCATE Is 40 Years Old. It Is the Most Influential and Widely Circulated Religious Paper in the Southwest. It Reaches 40,000 Readers Weekly.
It is the Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Annual Conferences. Number printed this week, as per press register, 8,952.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 8. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1800.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. C. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payment may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AIRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. F. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

The Rev. F. M. Featherstun, D. D.

BY BISHOP C. B. GALLOWAY.

The Rev. Francis Marion Featherstun, son of Burwell and Rebecca Adams Featherstun, was born in Robertson county, Tenn., Sept. 24, 1827. Born in a Christian home, and carefully trained, he early made an open confession of Christ, and was admitted to the communion of the Methodist Church. When yet a boy he came to Mississippi, and settled in Warren county. Having limited educational advantages, he found time, amid the exacting and fatiguing duties of farm-life, to make rather extensive acquaintance with the best literature. His mind was vigorous, alert and practical, readily assimilating what he so industriously read. In June, 1848, he was married to Miss Mary Eliza Randell. To them were born ten children, three of whom survive.

Obeying the divine call to the ministry—a call loud, clear, unmistakable and authoritative—he was licensed to preach in the summer of 1853, and in the autumn of the same year was admitted on trial in the Mississippi Conference. His first appointment was the Warren Colored Mission. From 1855 to 1857 he served the Big Black Colored Mission. He thus belonged to that honored roll of apostolic laborers, at the head of which stands the name of Bishop William Capers—missionaries to the people of color in the South. The religious condition of the negro to-day is the result of their self-denying toil. Their works do follow them.

From 1858 to 1862 he traveled the Ebenezer, Mt. Olivet and Yazoo circuits, his ministry attended with great revivals and large additions to the membership of the church. Amid the excitement and demoralization of the war, he continued in the active pastorate, except one year, which was spent as a missionary in the country contiguous to Vicksburg, and then in the Federal lines.

In September, 1865, he transferred to the Tennessee Conference, and for two years—1866 and 1867—served the Antioch circuit with such marked ability and success that several hundred were converted during his pastorate there. In December, 1867, he returned to the Mississippi Conference, and was appointed to the Yazoo circuit. On account of the depressed financial condition of the country, rendering it exceedingly difficult to get adequate support for our preachers, he thought it advisable to purchase a home and settle his large family. He located them on a farm in Warren county, and from there served the charges to which he was regularly appointed.

For two years he was city missionary in Vicksburg, one year was presiding elder of the Starkville district, four years on the Vicksburg district, and two years on the Jackson district.

In 1878 his home was made desolate, indeed, by the epidemic of yellow fever which wrought so much destruction and sorrow all over the Southwest. The "pestilence that walketh in darkness" not only wasted the city, but spread through the secluded, and supposed to be secure, country districts. The disease appearing in the family of a neighbor, he went to their relief, and, counting not life dear unto himself, watched by the dying and shrouded the dead for burial. At such a time demoralization is so great that friendly attentions are very few. The fear of carrying death to one's own home, in an epidemic of yellow fever, occasions neglect even to heartlessness. But, at the peril of life and loved ones, Bro. Featherstun ministered to his sick and dying neighbors. In a few days his own home circle was invaded by the fell-destroyer, and in less than two weeks, out of a happy family of ten, only two remained. Hearing of their distress, Dr. C. K. Marshall and myself visited the stricken home, some eighteen miles from Vicksburg. When near the house, we met a wagon containing the corpse of his little daughter, Laura. We walked up the hill to the cemetery, and there, in the presence of Dr. Marshall and three negroes, I read the burial service, and saw the little one lowered into the grave. Near her slept four other members of the family who had just died. Arriving at the house, we found that his youngest son had only, an hour before, passed peacefully away. His wife was dying in one room, a little grandchild in another, and his widowed daughter and himself critically ill. I shall never in life look upon another such scene of desolation. But, amid all, our brother never faltered in faith, nor murmured at a providence he could not understand.

In the winter of 1879 he went to California, and remained five years serving two important stations, and the San Francisco district in the Pacific Conference. Returning to Mississippi in 1885, he spent four years in Brandon station, one year at Clinton, La., one year at Woodville, and was entering upon his second appointment to that charge when called from labor to reward, on the afternoon of January 30. Just before leaving for California, he was married to Miss Virginia Markham, of Warren county, Miss., who, with one little daughter and three children of the first marriage, remain to cherish his honored memory and emulate his many virtues.

Bro. Featherstun had a broad, well-poised mind, and unusually clear judgment. His wide observation and discriminating knowledge of men, together with his strong, practical, business views, made him the trusted counsellor of his neighbors and the revered pastor of his congregations. His attachments were warm, and his friendships lasting. He loved young men, and ever showed generous interest in the young preachers of his Conference. Genial and companionable, he was ever a welcome guest in the homes of his many friends, and found a cordial greeting in visiting from house to house as a faithful pastor.

His preaching, like that of most men unaccustomed to the use of the pen in preparation, was irregular. At times he failed to meet expectation, and then again reached the realms of real eloquence and power. He had one strong evidence of a successful preacher and pastor—among those to whom he ministered longest he was most popular. His piety was even and cheerful; he grew in grace constantly; his feelings were not subject to much depression or great exaltation, but his hold on God was firm, his love for humanity was strong, his zeal knew no abatement, and his faith felt no flagging.

His son, the Rev. H. Waller Featherstun, who was with him at the last hour, thus writes me: "After last Conference father got almost well of his attack of jaundice, which kept him from meeting the brethren. He preached once. Two weeks before his death he was taken violently with the prevailing influenza, and, after a long struggle, grew rapidly worse, and died on Friday afternoon, Jan. 30. His last sermon, three weeks before he died, was on John xiv, 2. It was a very striking one, and much delighted his people. I looked upon it with a secret suggestion that 'Coming events cast their shadows before.' I found myself asking: 'What led him to speak of heaven? And what inspired him to talk of it more sweetly, tenderly, beautifully than I had ever heard him before?' During his last illness, while we constantly encouraged him to think of getting well, he would talk of dying, and he ever spoke of it cheerfully, oftentimes joyously."

Thus he ended his earthly ministry, and entered upon his heavenly rest and reward.

Jackson, Miss.

Young Preachers—No. 4.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

THE BIBLE.

Inspiration and the best human wisdom enjoin the reading, searching and study of the Holy Scriptures, because they testify of the Lord Jesus, make wise unto salvation, and promise eternal life. Above all books, you should be most familiar with the Bible, because, above all men, ministers are expected to know most about the Bible. You should give to it daily meditation and constant study. Biblical literature is a vast field. No man can fully cultivate and grasp it all. It has been said no man lives long enough, has learning profound and broad enough, to write an exhaustive commentary on the Bible. As the sun eclipses the stars by its superior splendor, so the Bible eclipses all other books by its brighter light. No book treats of themes so sublime, so original, and so important. Single sentences are more important to us sinful men than whole libraries of uninspired human compositions. The glorious statement that "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," would, in the weight of its infinite value, weigh down the whole Alexandrian library, and make it kick the beam. The Bible reveals the first and most important of all truths, the Being, of the Unoriginated, the Self-existent, the Eternal and Infinite God. It reveals him as creating the magnificent material universe by the word of his power. He spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast. It declares that, as God exists from eternity to eternity, so he is present from infinity to infinity. The Bible reveals our glorious origin, our duties in all relations, and the immeasurable grandeur of our possibilities as moral and immortal creatures. It explains the mystery of woe and death, and points man to his only remedy and his only hope.

The Bible, says one, has God for its author; truth, without the admixture of error, for its matter, and salvation for its end. The Bible has sublimer poetry, more tender pathos, more beautiful and touching narratives, and more magnificent descriptions of sublime and awful scenes, than any other book; and there are more profound, pithy, and felicitous expressions, quoted in a thousand books, than any other book can show. The Bible is the oldest and best-preserved book in all the world. It is historic of the first-born days of time. It tells of Damascus, Nineveh, Tyre, and Assyrian and Persian rule; and the Old Testament was complete before the Macedonian had ceased to govern, and the last book of the New Testament was written while Rome was in the palmiest days of imperial power.

As the doctor is expected to be familiar with the text-books of his science, and the lawyer with laws of his country and the decisions of courts, so you are expected to be familiar with the Bible; and as no knowledge of astronomy or geology would excuse ignorance of medicine in the doctor, nor no knowledge of architecture and engineering would excuse a want of legal learning in the lawyer, so no knowledge of general literature or travel will excuse your ignorance of the Bible. While the Bible is a book for all, it is eminently and emphatically your book—the book to which all your various attainments must be subsidiary, and help to its better understanding and clearer explanation. Make its contents familiar, the very furniture and wealth of your mind. Quote it more than any other book; illustrate with it more than from any other source. Know its history, its enemies, its contests, its victories and vast achievements as the illuminator of the benighted, the civilizer of the savage, the uplifter of the fallen, and the purifier of the depraved. Be as able, as you can make yourself, to explain its contents, to clear up its seeming mysteries, and to answer the objections of its enemies. Study its pure and exalted morals; be familiar with its curious, wonderful and instructive biographies; learn its promises to miserable and sinful men in all the necessitous conditions of life; learn something of its inspiring and immortal hopes, that you may know how to cheer the despairing, and point the weary and sad to the rest that remains for the people of God.

Respect for Authority.

BY W. H. ANDERSON, D. D.

This is not only the dictate of reason and right, but is also a prominent feature of Bible instruction, and a lovely characteristic of our holy Christianity. It speaks alike from the Decalogue, the teachings of Jesus, the writings of the apostles. "The powers that be are ordained of God" is an inspired announcement, including both the authorities of the State and of the Church. "To speak evil of dignities" is the antipode of the duty "to pray for all that are in authority." Respect for God, the great Father of all, and "the high and mighty ruler" of all things, is designed, in smaller degree and more limited sphere, to mark human behavior, and especially Christian behavior, in reference to all, under providential guidance or permission, who are called on to administer rule, to carry out the requirements of law. Officers, especially in the church of God, are supposed to be invested with qualifications and ability properly to understand, and firmly, but in the spirit of true "brotherly kindness," to carry out the responsible duties committed to their care. Church officers, unless unworthy of their position, ought to be recognized as acting from the best light within their reach, and influenced by no low, little personal animosity in carrying out the duties of their office, and especially in the decision of what is the law, and in the inflicting the penalties of violation or neglect of law.

Our chief pastors, the Bishops, from their age, experience and wisdom, are in condition to arrive at the intent of law and the correctness of its application. We certainly credit them with the best love of the church as the controlling motive in their official acts and decisions. Self-respect, regard for the purity and benefits of their office blend with sense of profound responsibility to the church of the present and of the future, and to the great Head of the church, to guard from any impulse of momentary feeling to which all are subject, and to direct in the open, manly, God-fearing performance of what is accepted as law and duty. These good men, of course, are but men. Human partisanship, in the height of its folly, would not dare to claim for them infallibility, either in act of reason or in decision of judgment. They need the sympathies, co-operation and prayers of the church to aid in bearing the burden of "care of all the churches." They are the subjects of law equally with the humblest official or member. The same Discipline decides their duties, office, position, that each preacher in his ordination vows promises to accept and obey. More than this, they are members neither of Annual Conferences nor of General Conferences. They are the agents of the latter in carefully guarding the purity of the church, executing the laws of the church, or seeing it done, and in the protection of the mutual rights of individual members and officers, and of the church, the entire church with which they are connected. If there be wrong in decision or administration, that is soon settled and rectified by appeal. The decision of the college of Bishops and of the General Conference determine what law, right and privileges are. Injustice can not be done—if supposable at all—only for a very limited period.

In the application of the above evident simple truths and principles, allow us to express a regret at the manner and spirit of some of the recent criticisms of the press upon certain episcopal decisions in, at least, one Annual Conference. We admire, we glory in the spirit and enjoyment of true religious liberty and rights. It is our noble privilege and duty to resist any invasion of either our liberty or our rights. Manly independence should mark Christian character and conduct; zeal should not outrun discretion; moderation should temper impulse; "sober second thought" is an indispensable requisite. We have seen some articles which have startled us. They have not only gone so far as, apparently, to attack episcopal intelligence as to what is law in itself and its administration, but even to impute wrong, seemingly irreligious, motives—the gratification of personal anger, the desire for revenge of some real or supposed injury—in the conduct of the trial of an accused minister. Criticism is right and proper as to what law means—its verbiage, its usual application, the circumstances of its creation, or the associate influence of church usage or common law. "Comparisons are odious," especially if the newspaper writer assumes superiority (impliedly) to the Bishop. The matter grows worse and sadder if the criticism, not satisfied there, must endeavor to sit in judgment on the motives of action of our chief pastors, and attribute action to motives unworthy of a good citizen, much less to a Bishop of the church of God.

Let us not forget we do ourselves, the church, the general community—especially our children around us—immense evil to present in one widespread public church press any suspicion of integrity of our church officials. You chill the confidence of the church in itself; you weaken respect of the outside world; you create distrust in the minds of those we love most tenderly, and whom we hope to enter the same fold with us, and take our places when we are gone. Infidelity adds a new note to its joy, while the true and the tried weep at the sorrows of our troubled Zion. Our mother—her name is sacred; our mother—her honor must not be jeopardized to gratify some momentary emotion.

Hasty, immature placing of ourselves in print may be a source of future and deep regret. As an old minister, we charge nobody, we blame nobody. We utter words of caution. Reverence for authority underlies all true loyalty, intelligent obedience of rule. Through this principle the child instinctively obeys its parent; the good citizen, from principle, obeys his government; the Christian loves and serves his God. Remove or destroy, in whatsoever degree, this reverence for authority, you mar the beauty and joy of the home-life, you enfeeble the bonds of good society, you weaken even the church of God itself. Impair respect for the church of God by lessening respect for its high authorities, and the gospel loses its attractive beauty and force; the influence of Christianity is limited, and the crown of Jesus is deprived of its stars, or those stars are robbed of their divine lustre.

Woman's Missionary Society, Louisiana Conference.

Some one has said, "Government is only housekeeping on a large scale." The same thing may be said of Church as well as of State. A model home has a master and mistress, and the well-being of the household depends on the faithfulness of both. The man may plan and provide liberally, but the woman's part necessitates equal work and vigilance if the whole machinery moves smoothly. The failure of either party installs one a mere figure-head, and involves double duty for the other. This copartnership is a recognized fact in the household of faith. I once heard a young married woman say to her husband:

"I want such a perfect home that the domestic machinery will move on oiled hinges so systematically and noiselessly that I can drop out for a day, or a month, or even a year, if necessary, for a pleasure tour, and find it still going like a clock on my return."

"In that case," replied her husband, "you would soon become a very unimportant personage, and not be missed at all."

After many years of experience I heard that same wife say:

"I want to be the motive power of my household, the central pivot on which revolves husband, children, servants, friends; so that when I am gone for a day, they will miss me, and long for my return."

The moral of the simile is apparent.

Sisters, our work is waiting for us. If the Master finds all things ready for his coming, we must be about our duties. "What the hands find to do" is our calling. Life is a grand whole when it is made up of small duties faithfully performed. Missionary chariot wheels are made of dollars, and the dollars are made of consecrated dimes—our dimes. Where are they? Our dues? In the treasury?

Ah! these long winter months have kept most of us from our monthly meetings, and our treasury is empty. Meanwhile, our missionaries have been hungry and cold. Their needs don't go into winter-quarters. Let us hasten to send them our tardy help.

But, during this season of necessitated (?) inactivity, have we kept our own souls well nourished and built up in the most holy faith? Have we read our church papers and kept abreast of the needs of the work at home and abroad? Have we studied our Bibles and sought earnestly to know the will of the Master concerning us? Have we given our missionaries the support of our earnest, faithful prayers to God, that spiritual feasts might be spread on barren Foreign Boards?

Dear sisters of the household of Christ, if we care to be of any worth to the Master of the home, let us bestir our slothful energies, and do with our might this work which our hands have found to do.

MRS. THOS. P. EPPS LOVE.
Pres. W. M. S., La. Conf.

An Address.

PROMULGATED TO THE PROHIBITIONISTS OF MISSISSIPPI BY THE COMMITTEE.

Meridian, Miss., Feb. 3, 1891.

I desire to call attention to the immediate effects of the new Constitution on the cause of prohibition in our State, both under the local option law and the old petition law.

1. There can be no local option election till there is a new registration, and not then until four months have elapsed after said new registration. And as there can be no local option election within sixty days of a general election, and there is to be a general election in November, it is hardly possible to have any local option elections this year.

2. In counties where no local option elections have ever been held, the old petition law obtains. This requires the saloonist to secure a petition signed by a majority of all the voters qualified to vote for members of the Legislature, in the town or supervisor's district where license is sought to be obtained. Under the new Constitution there are no qualified voters till a new registration is had, and, therefore, no lawful petition can be secured. This works an estoppel in all non-local option counties. I call special attention to this point. A majority petition of voters under the old registration is worth nothing in law. Prohibitionists in many places can close up the saloons for the time being if they will insist on the observance of the law, and be in better position to fight the traffic when the time comes round for an election under the new Constitution. Under a decision of Supreme Court just rendered (W. H. Perkins et al vs. M. V. Bledbetter), in all counties operating under the old petition law it is not obligatory upon Boards of Supervisors and Municipal Boards to grant license, even though petitioned to do so by a majority of the legal voters. In the language of the court: "They have power to grant license, if a majority of the legal voters are actively in favor of it, and say so, in the manner prescribed; but are not compellible to do it. In the exercise of their discretion they may withstand the pressure of universal desire for retailing."

Thus, in counties where no local option election has been held, such Boards have the final settlement of the question exclusively in their own hands.

I would also remind prohibitionists that they have reserved the right of counter-petition in counties where local option elections have already been held. For instance: if a county has voted in favor of license, before any license can issue, the applicant must file his application endorsed by twenty-five real estate owners living in the supervisor's district or municipality where the license is sought to be obtained. It must then lie over, at least, thirty days before final action can be taken thereon; and during these thirty days, if a counter-petition is presented signed by a majority of the qualified voters of the supervisor's district or municipality, as the case may be, no license can be legally granted.

Again, I would call your attention to the law passed by the Legislature of 1890, entitled, "an act to secure the benefits of prohibition to counties and municipal corporations in this State when the sale of intoxicating liquors is prohibited by law."

Under this act it is made unlawful for any person to act as an agent, or to be assistant of either seller or purchaser in effecting the purchase or sale of liquor in prohibition territory, or to solicit orders for the sale thereof, whether to be delivered in or out of the State, provided the parties, or either of them, contemplated that such liquor is to be thence transported into such prohibition, in spirit intent, is in close sympathy with law. It is our true policy to compel saloon men to stand by the law. I call on all the friends of prohibition to be alert and firm at this important juncture in public affairs. J. B. GAMBRELL, Chair'n Ex. Com. State Prohibition Con.
—Mississippian.

Hymn No. 300, 24 mo.

The editor of the new hymn book was napping when Hymn No. 300, 24 mo. edition, was marked "C. M." instead of "L. M." 12 mo. has it marked right. I call attention to it, as it caused confusion in a late service at one of my churches. Let the brethren that use the 24 mo., all bindings, erase "C." and place "L." in its place.

R. B. DOWNER.
Ellisville, Miss.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEB. 19, 1891.

THE HAPPY LAND.

BY LILLIAN GREY.

There is a land somewhere in God's creation,
Within the circle of his love and care—
A land that human eye hath never visioned,
Nor mortal feet essayed its boundaries fair.

There is a land that needs no fleeting splendor
Of sun or moon or star to give it light,
Where nothing enters that is sad or sombre,
And all its dwellers walk in robes of white.

There is a land across whose guarded borders
No alien footsteps stray, or chill winds blow,
Whose skies are never overcast with tempest,
Whose days move on with even, peaceful flow.

There is a land where sin can never enter,
To stain and mar, and rule with baneful sway,
Where is no sore temptation or besetment,
Or strange forbidden paths to lead astray.

There is a land where tears are never welling
From depths of stricken hearts that vainly sigh,
But joy and bliss too deep—too deep for telling,
Fill every heart and brighten every eye.

There is a land so sheltered and so shielded,
That even care and fear are kept without,
There is no thing to dread, no cross to carry,
No loss to meet, no harassment of doubt.

There is a land where death has no dominion,
No grave is found in all that broad extent,
No gleaming marbles, and no yew or cypress,
But all is life, eternal, full content.

There is a land where pain is all forgotten,
Where hopes meet with fruition full and sweet,
Where treasures lost are found, and prayers are answered,
And the glad crown of blessing is complete.

O, Happy Land, the goal of all our striving!
We know not where thy shining borders rise,
But somewhere, sometime, pray we yet to find thee,
And be at home for aye, O Paradise!

The Parsonage and Home Mission Society.

The Central Committee will hold its annual meeting, April 9. There will be before this committee over thirty applications for aid to parsonages, calling for several thousand of dollars more than we shall have to give, unless the Lord opens the hearts of his people to give generously before that time; and we are determined to leave that with the Master and those who love his appearing. But we ask those who feel with us in this matter, who appreciate the facts that lie back of these thirty applications, to unite with us in earnest prayer that these much needed funds shall be sent in before the time of our meeting, that none may be turned away with an unanswered petition because there are no funds.

These applications do not come to us as debts we owe, as far as financial obligation goes, for we do not go into debt. We can simply help to the extent of our funds, and say, "There is nothing more; with our best endeavor we have been unable to get more;" and there the matter would end so far as our responsibility is concerned. But we can not keep our hearts from going with those to whom we must say, "We have no funds;" from seeing the "suffering of each member of the family;" from feeling the dampness and the cold of the northwest wind that finds ample entrance into the poor, unfinished house, notwithstanding there are "bed-quilts over some of the windows and rags stuffed in the cracks." We can not forget the fact that these good men are enduring all these things for the love of our Savior, when only a few hundreds of dollars gathered from as many people (the dues of our society are one dollar a year) would make their families comfortable and strengthen their spirits to labor for the cause of Christ.

Neither can we banish from our minds the conviction that each Christian church must go forward with unremitting zeal if our land is saved from spiritual death; nor close our eyes to the fact that at every step the progress of our church is checked by the need of a home for the missionary who must shelter his family while he preaches the gospel, for they are beings with needs like our own. He is sent and must go, yet he is puzzled and burdened and hindered, and his purpose in going often absolutely defeated by that one unavoidable obstacle—the necessity of sheltering his family. Heretofore he has not known in this emergency which way to turn for help, and simply fell back from his post when hardships became unendurable; and often turned back to die a sacrifice offered up to improvidence. This cruel improvidence of the past the church proposed to remedy by organizing "The Parsonage and Home Mission Society" to gather funds and provide the homes so essential to successful progress. Now he comes to us saying, "There is none other to whom I may go." And we must lay this matter before God's people. There are but two ways by which we may gather funds to help these who come to us because "there is none other to whom they may go." One is to make special appeals; the other is to organize auxiliaries, with members paying dues. The last we greatly prefer, because the income is regular and enables us to help promptly, for delay is often fatal to the man applying, though his successor may reap the benefit. But we have from some undiscovered cause been hindered from organizing auxiliaries as rapidly as we had reason to hope we should. It is impossible for us to know the inside workings of each charge and discover this cause, and it is also impossible for us to organize or retain an auxiliary in any charge without the hearty co-operation of the pastors and the women. We can not think this hindrance lies with the preachers, for they, of all others, should see the need, should appreciate the meaning of this effort to make the pastors the center of all mission work; besides so many of them have written words of encouragement and invoked the blessing of God upon our efforts. And one may always rely on the hearts of Christian women.

The Bishops, in their address, earnestly commend our work to the church as a most important matter. Bishop McTyeire once said of it, "There is nothing before you more important." Dr. John says the work done by this society gives great relief to the Board of Missions. All predict future success for "so wise a movement;" and if there be any opposition, "it is to the few restricted." What then?

The trouble must lie in that tendency of human nature to feel without acting, to which all are liable to yield. This tendency keeps many a man from Christ, keeps many a Christian from reaping the reward of faith. It is very hard for the individual to say, "It is I who must do this thing."

Brethren, pray with us and for us; pray publicly and privately that God will so stir the hearts of his people that they shall act in this matter. Let us pray definitely that we may, before our meeting in April, receive funds sufficient for the need.

LUCINDA B. HELM,
Gen'l Sec.

1500 3d Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Sunday-School Work in North Mississippi.

The journal of the late session of the North Mississippi Conference furnishes the following Sunday-school statistics: Officers and teachers, 2,379; scholars, 19,353—making a total of 21,732 who are actually engaged in the Sunday-school work. This makes a fair showing when looked at alone. Place it by the side of 40,711 actual church members, and it will show up under quite a different aspect, even if all the 21,732, who are in actual service, were members of the church. This leaves a membership of 18,979 who are taking no active part in the work of the Sunday-school. But let us bear in mind that, at least, one-third of the Sunday-school scholars are not members of the church. This increases the unengaged church membership to 25,230. From this it is seen that more than half the members of the church within the bounds of the North Mississippi Conference are doing little, or nothing, for the Sunday-school cause. Is this what it should be? Certainly not. Something, then, should be done; just what I can not tell. The Sunday-school work is to be done principally by the laity; and, in order to increase the number of Sunday-school workers, a deeper interest must be awakened in the minds and hearts of those who are already enlisted in the work. In order to effect this, what can be done? Would not this be a good topic to discuss in our District Sunday-school Conferences? In the discussion of these topics, would it not be a means to the desired end to engage more of our able lay Sunday-school workers?

W. W. MOSS.

Pettit, Miss.

Why Is It?

I have just received the Minutes of the North Mississippi Conference. They are neatly gotten up and well edited. We owe Bro. Malone many thanks for his painstaking work. The statistics are well tabulated. I have just been studying these tables of figures, and find that we have much for which to be grateful, but much also to lead us to self-examination, prayer and fasting. Every district except Greenville paid less last year than the year before for the support of the ministry. One district runs as low as ninety-two cents per member. The average for the entire Conference is only $1 79½ per capita. This is less, by several cents, than was paid last year. But the true test of liberality is foreign missions, and here we have a still greater falling off. In 1888 the North Mississippi Conference paid 23½ cents per capita. If we had held up at that rate, we would have been equal to, if not in advance of, any other section of the church; but in 1889 we came down to 20½ cents per member, and last year, strange to say, we fell still lower, to 17¾ cents. This is nearly 6 cents per capita less than we paid three years ago. What is the trouble? Are we growing poorer, and really not able to pay more? or is the liberality of our people on the wane? The Parent Board still thinks well of us, as they have increased our assessment $1,550. But, with all this had financial showing for missions and ministerial support, we are making material and numerical advancement. The Minutes show an increase over last year of five churches and nine parsonages, and 2,004 in membership.

J. W. MALONE.

Coldwater, Miss.

Our Paper.

TO ALL FR'ends of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE—Greeting.

Dear Friends: Do we want a religious paper first-class in every particular? Is such a paper a necessary adjunct to a successful ministry? If so, let us resolve that we will have just such an one. Resolve! resolve! Do you ask me what I mean by resolve? I answer, first, I have no allusion to the so-called resolves that are adopted on Annual Conference occasions merely as a passing compliment to the editor and publisher, and then to be incorporated in our Minutes, and never thought of again. But I do mean this: Let us say in our own heart, "I, as an individual member of the great Methodist family, and a friend in particular of the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE, will do just everything this Conference year in my power to make it a success. If I can't get 100 subscribers, I will try for 50; if I can't secure 50, I will try for 25; if I fail in that, perhaps, I can secure 10, and I am resolved if I can't get 10 new subscribers, I will not let the year close without sending one new subscriber." It does seem, to my mind, that after the very handsome premiums offered by our enterprising publisher, and the promise on the part of our editor, that every preacher (to say the least of it) ought to bestir himself in behalf of our Conference organ. Some of our preachers fail to do their duty for fear of financial loss. Let me figure a little for you, my brother. We are offered fifty cents commission on all new subscribers. Now four new subscribers will cost us at the ADVOCATE office just $6, and on our own subscription book our assets will be for four new subscribers just $8, or a margin of $2. This secures us against loss, for certainly a community of Methodists in which more than one-fourth are too poor or too mean to pay for a church paper is, indeed, a community to be pitied and prayed for. And if it ever happens to my lot that I am honored to work in such a field, I will do all I can to improve matters by scattering broadcast our Conference organ.

Then you stand a good chance of getting one or the other of the three nice premiums, and, best of all, if you do your work faithfully you will feel that the approving smiles of the Master are upon you. And I had rather feel thus than gain the first premium, and know that I failed to do my whole duty. Let us do our whole duty. Let us secure the subscribers for the paper. Let us do all that we can, individually and collectively.

B. F. PHILLIPS.

In Memoriam.

MRS. T. H. FULLILOVE.

"The path of the just is as a shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

Tabitha Holmes was born in Oglethorp, Ga., June 6, 1811; married to Jas. G. Fullilove, Jan. 3, 1832; removed with her husband to Noxubee county, Miss., in 1834; thence to Caddo parish, La., in 1846, where she died, Oct. 24, 1890, in the eightieth year of her age, leaving to her surviving family and the church that most enviable patrimony, the blessed record of a pure and spotless life and radiant Christian example, more to be desired than all the gold that misers ever hoarded.

Sister Fullilove was converted and joined the Methodist Church soon after her marriage, in 1832, and with her most excellent husband, who is now left to mourn her loss, traveled the "path of the just" for nearly sixty years.

Beautiful was the harmony and constancy of her Christian character. Prudence, simplicity and devotion were the conspicuous graces which adorned her life, cheered the home of connubial bliss and sent out streams of the sublimest and most far-reaching influences through her social surroundings for all these years.

One has said: "Honest, loving hearts constitute God's greatest gift to the world next to his own Son." What the church needs, what society needs, what the nursery needs is heart, more heart. No one acquainted with the subject of this memoir could fail to recognize the fact that love was the dominating principle, the divine passion of her life. Her steadfast adherence to religious principle in her duties and intercourse with the world, in affluence as well as in poverty, softened by the unselfishness of her disposition, and sweetened by the mildness and gentleness of her manner and expression, caused her light so to shine that others were led to "glorify our Father who is in heaven." She was meek, modest and unconscious of the universal reverence and affection with which she was regarded, and wholly unaware of exerting any influence upon anyone outside of her family circle; yet the world was brighter and better, and heaven will be richer for the life of one who found her greatest pleasure in contributing to the pleasure of others; who was a friend to the friendless, a counsellor of the unfortunate, and whose loving admonitions restrained the erring.

The woman that "feareth the Lord shall be praised in the gates." The unostentatious hospitality of the home in which Sister Fullilove presided was especially grateful to itinerant ministers, who were frequent guests; and in the last years of the life of this saint of God the recollections of E. M. Marvin, Linus Parker, J. C. Burrus, and others, whose repeated presence was regarded as a benediction to the family, were recalled as among the most delightful memories of other years, which she was never weary of relating.

Still fresh in the memory of the writer is the broad hearth, the blazing fire and happy faces, with which he was greeted on his first pastoral visit to James and Tabitha Fullilove in 1847. The forty-four years of vicissitude and mutation, which have intervened, detracted nothing from the sweetness and beauty of a flower born to blush forever embalmed in immortal associations in the paradise of God. Still more beautiful was this aged woman in her piety and meekness, with the chastened memories of other years blending, as they now were, with the hallest hopes of heaven, than when presiding with such admirable discretion and dignity over her young family.

When we were summoned to her bedside with the assurance that the time was near for her to pass over the river, it was only to witness how beautiful may be the sunset of life on a cloudless horizon—how a child of God who, for sixty years had walked by faith, could calmly contemplate the dissolution of the long-cherished tabernacle, in buoyant hope, of one "eternal in the heavens."

When asked, a few hours before her death, "Are you now trusting in Jesus?" "Is he precious to you?" though the tongue refused to obey the will, and the lips remained closed, the features grew brighter, and the increased pressure of the hand was the response which betokened the divine presence and support.

A husband and two sons, with their families, and a large number of friends are made to mourn at her loss; among whom is her pastor for the four years preceding her death, and who ever felt that her presence in the congregation helped his efforts by the magnetic power of a divinely luminous example to which the pulpit could triumphantly point as a verification of the highest claims of the gospel.

May this beautiful model of character, refined by divine grace, be ever before the minds of her posterity for their imitation! is the prayer of the writer,

ROBT. J. HARP.

C. K. Marshall, D. D.

MR. EDITOR: Your admirable portraiture of Dr. Marshall sets him forth as he really was—one of the best and greatest of those whose lives and deaths have blessed the church and the world in recent years. There will, doubtless, be many other tributes expressive of his merit and our loss, for when such men are removed, the world can not be indifferent to it. When a goodly star goes out, the heavens lose a brightness which is felt, though other stars are shining still.

One striking feature of Dr. Marshall's character was the ease with which he was great. Some men climb to greatness by painful effort, and some men are self-assertive; but Dr. Marshall appeared to a looker-on to be easily preeminent. For two generations he has been conspicuous by reason of those great abilities which all knew him to possess. His was a full-celled honeycomb of eloquence; but the gift of popular oratory was not all of his power, for his mind, opulent in native thought, was stored with varied knowledge, gathered from the best books and men and nature. He loved nature, and his paths were in the fields, wet with God's dews and bright with the light of the morning. He did not allow his talents to rust unburnished, but till the last they shone in use. He delighted in preaching, and delighted to render those services that were everywhere eagerly sought after. No notice of him would be complete without a mention of the kindness of his heart. For him to do good deeds was as natural as to breathe. He was a courteous gentleman—

"From spur to plume a star of tournament."

You felt that his bearing among men was the fruit of a noble nature and a loyal mind.

No one who heard his address to the graduating class of Port Gibson Female College, last summer, will ever forget his grand and impressive declaration of his conviction of the immortal life of the soul.

A noble life finished is what we must say of him, and we must still think of that life being pursued elsewhere. There is he among those who, in higher places, do God's will, or, amid crowded courts, study his eternal ways, and ever, as they study, sing. Such a life has wholesome and lasting influences.

"For when a great man dies,
For years beyond our ken,
The light he leaves behind him lies
Upon the paths of men."

E. H. MOUNGER.

Female Colleges.

I have been musing for some time, and the fire has burned. Consequently some utterance must be made.

Some months ago a gifted woman said: "I am sick of hearing of female schools and female colleges. Why not say '—— College for Girls and Young Women.'" And that started me off on one line of thought, and the mental inquiry was made: Are not all such schools and colleges conducted on the idea that women are only females, and are to be made superficially accomplished, graceful and captivating, because incapable of logical thought? Does not this account for the fact that in a certain female college in Tennessee, having three "Rt.-Rev. Bishops" (not Methodists) on the Board of Trust, dancing is scientifically taught and is represented by a "professor" in the faculty. Does not this account for the fact that in another female college the degrees of A. B., A. M., and Ph. D. are conferred with a reckless prodigality that promises in the near future to be as liberal with the venerable honors of D. D., D. C. L., and LL.D., and even to lay irreverent hands on S. T. D., and adorn it with bangs and petticoats? Does not this account for the fact that the leading female college in Mississippi has heralded to the world the employment of a professional opera singer to teach—not the music one should expect to be taught in a Christian school under the control of the M. E. Church, South—but that style of music which is associated with opera houses and theatres?

Why not recognize the fact that women are living souls and have intellects which can be cultivated and strengthened without detriment to true womanliness or disqualifying them for wifehood or motherhood? If church schools are to fit our young women for the stage, either the operatic or theatrical, or to graduate them for partners in the lustful German or lascivious Boston, then the sooner all higher education is relegated to the State, the better for our churches and our homes.

Is it not time to call a halt? Is it not time to reform the curriculum of female schools and make them schools for young women?

T. L. MELLEN.

The Adams School.

Since the establishment of a high school at this place by the District Conference, last year, to be known as the Adams District High School, little or no mention of the resolutions of that honored body was made to the people (the Methodists) who reside in this district.

The school has recently issued its first annual catalogue, and many of these have been distributed throughout South Mississippi; yet we are satisfied that many Methodist families in the Brookhaven district, as well as in Southern Mississippi, are ignorant of the fact that we have in active operation at this place a permanent training-school for boys and girls.

Every father and mother who contemplate sending their boy off, will do well to consider the advantages that the Methodist High School, of the Brookhaven district offer to its patrons and supporters. This site as a location for a high school has many merits worthy of mention; but, to say the least, the surroundings are quiet and congenial, the atmosphere healthy, good association, country fare and "country life," free from the environments of railroad and city, paternal care as to health, manners and morals—all of which contribute no little to the welfare and ultimate success of the pupil in after life, and very often in the formation of such good habits as will cling to him permanently.

The present school-building is ample, and students are offered every available facility that conduces to ease and comfort. A boarding-house and postoffice are situated on the school grounds.

The school is graded, and has three teachers. Besides the regular English branches, music, calisthenics, book-keeping, telegraphy and Latin are taught. The total enrollment of the school up to date is eighty-six. The foreign patronage is steadily growing, and notwithstanding the fact that the Baptist brethren have "hemmed" us in on several sides, we are still able to cope with them in numbers.

Methodist families and others who have boys and girls to educate are earnestly solicited to write for catalogue and full particulars.

M. SMITH, Principal.

Auburn, Miss.

FROM THE WORK.

LAKE PROVIDENCE, LA.

I have been so busy during the past month, I have denied myself the pleasure and privilege of writing even a short letter to the ADVOCATE. We arrived here on the last day, but one, of the old year, and were met at the landing by some of my stewards, with carriage and hack, to convey us and our baggage to our parsonage home, where we found some of our sisters awaiting us with a blazing fire, and every necessary arrangement made for our reception and comfort.

The present site of the town of Lake Providence is more picturesque than the old one, which the Mississippi river claimed for its own a few years ago. The town having been moved back, lies, to some extent, on the lake; and Lake street is now the chief thoroughfare and business portion of the town. We have here some fine dwellings and business houses, and some not so fine. I discover a good deal of dilapidation in certain parts. I suppose this is owing, in a large measure, to the uncertain tenure of the land, as the Mississippi river seems to have a mortgage on a great deal of land in this section. Our town is well laid off and drained, though we have had so much rain during the past month that our streets could not have been otherwise than muddy and sloppy. In good weather the drive on Lake street and around the lake is just splendid. A large proportion of our people is equal to any in the land in every respect, and, while sin abounds, I find the faithful few here, and a large number who love to hear the gospel preached, and attend the regular ministrations of the Lord's house.

Notwithstanding the continued rain and fearful roads, I have met all appointments on my work. The people have cheered me by their presence, and comforted me by their kind attentions. My stewards have assessed a liberal sum for the support of the pastor and family, with the assurance that the amount will be obtained. So far I have never had more attentive congregations, or met with a people who seemed to appreciate the gospel more. The outlook, religiously, is encouraging; and we are praying for a glorious revival wave to sweep over his people.

We have a very comfortabe parsonage here, with an acre of ground, more or less, left to our church by will of the death of a good sister, a member of the Episcopal Church. We as a church, feel very grateful for his expression of good will on the part of our deceased sister. By the acquisition of this property we are now in a condition to more rapidly extend our borders, and do the work God intends for us to do among this people. I am fully persuaded that nothing but incessant prayer, backed by a zeal denominated, "Methodism in earnest," will save this people. There is much to be done before our parsonage property will be in a satisfactory condition. We have a comfortable dwelling—well, may say elegantly furnished; that is all. No necessary outbuildings or fencing of any consequence. Some of the brethren and sisters have taken in hand to put this property in good condition, and supply what is needed, and I hope to report soon that the same has been done. We have a most excellent and well-equipped church built during the administration of Rev. T. J. Upton. This church was built under many difficulties, and is a monument to his untiring energy and zeal. May the Lord grant him the opportunity to build many more like it!

La grippe has been sweeping over this section of country, prostrating some in nearly every family, without respect to persons. Most are convalescing; some have died. My wife had a severe attack, and is now suffering from its effects. God has blessed me with health and some success in his vineyard.

R. S. ISBELL.

MEADVILLE, MISS.

I think that a brief note from my work would be of interest to you. I was assigned to Meadville circuit, Mississippi Conference. This work I find is in an undeveloped state, both financially and spiritually. But the material is here to make this one of the best works in the Mississippi Conference. As far as I have gone I never found more generous people, who seem to be thirsting for the gospel. I find but a few copies of the ADVOCATE—our church organ—among my people. I have found four stewards who do not take any religious paper, and one who takes the St. Louis Advocate. I send you five names—two new subscribers. I am going to try to get it into as many homes as possible. I have not been able to occupy the parsonage as yet on account of one of my little daughters being sick with a severe attack of acute rheumatism. But, thank the good Lord! she is better, and I think I will be able to occupy the parsonage by the twentieth of this month. We have a very good parsonage, and tolerably well furnished. I expect a gracious revival all along the line on this work this year. We have had a fearful month of weather; and, as this is a very hilly country, it is somewhat difficult to get around on account of the slippery roads. Look out for more subscribers to the ADVOCATE all along.

J. R. WHITTINGTON.

Consciousness is the immediate knowledge which the mind has of its sensations and thoughts, and in general of all its present operations. We can not properly be said to be conscious of our own existence; it being only suggested to us by those sensations and operations of which we are conscious.—Wollaston.

Sunday-School Lesson—Feb. 22.

ELIJAH'S SUCCESSOR.

II. Kings ii, 12-22.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts."—Zech. iv, 6.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. The Mantle of Elijah (vs. 12-15). II. The Search for Elijah (vs. 16-18). III. The Cleansing of the Spring (vs. 19-22).

MEMORY VERSES.—12-14.

REFERENCE WORD.—"Elijah."

LESSON HYMN.—No. 556.

TIME.—About 896 B. C.

PLACE.—At or near Jericho and the Jordan.

INTRODUCTION.

The induction of Elisha into the prophetic office immediately followed Elijah's translation. The work of the latter was finished; Jehovah's was not. There were other agencies needful for the full realization of the divine plans. There was to be a change in the administration of affairs, and hence there was a call for a new man. The supply was equal to the demand, as is always the case in God's dealings with men. Ten years previous, Infinite Wisdom had selected a ploughboy to succeed Elijah. In all likelihood there went forth a good many sneers when the choice was made known; but fortunately they were based on shortsightedness and error. His long intercourse as attendant upon the older prophet supplied Elisha with the experience requisite for his assumption of the high office. He was a "junior" for quite a while; but who can doubt the beneficial effects of his early training? Would not like results follow a like custom in regard to modern "sons of the prophets?"

I. THE MANTLE OF ELIJAH.

Verse 12. What an impression this wonderful scene must have made upon Elisha! But the whirlwind, the chariot of fire, and horses of fire, however awe-inspiring, did not cause him to forget the sorrow that had come upon him. "My father!" was a cry of intense grief. Truly, as with Paul and Timothy, these two had been father and son in the faith. But his own personal loss did not exhaust his mourning. Israel itself had suffered. In being deprived of Elijah the kingdom had lost him that had been more than all chariots and armed horsemen in its time of need. As a manifestation of the sorrow of his heart he "took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces." His sorrow, though truly genuine, was not carried too far. He did not, as many, build a temple of his grief, and worship. Though a man of tender emotion, he was yet a man of action. A burden rolled itself upon him. Israel was without a prophet. He had requested that he might be found worthy to discharge the duties of a servant of God. From indications, scarcely dubitable, he was constrained to believe that his prayer had been granted. He had seen Elijah as he was caught up. The moment of trial had come. Would his faith stand the test? The answer is apparent from his action. "He took up the mantle of Elijah." That saint, as he mounted heavenward on wheels of celestial glory, had thrown off forever the burden of his earthly mission. Henceforth he was to rest from his labors. Elisha, by his acceptance of the prophet's robe, evinced his determination to assume the duties of the prophetic office. He is no longer a servant, but a successor, and must adapt himself to his new circumstances. His commission received, his business on that sacred spot was at an end. He set out to perform the duties that lay before him, although it might have been more pleasant to remain amid so many hallowed associations. In this regard, the average Christian is prone to follow Peter rather than Elisha. Undoubtedly "it is good" to be on the mount of glory; but it is better to walk in the path of duty, though it may lead through the vale of humiliation.

We next find Elisha on the bank of Jordan, in full sight of the "sons of the prophets." He is to perform his first miracle as a messenger of Heaven. Perhaps, a man of less faith would have chosen a place more secluded, where none could witness his first "effort" and possible failure. But Elisha's confidence rose supreme. He calls upon the Lord God of Elijah. He knows that there resides no virtue in himself, nor any in the mantle, but that "power belongeth unto God." His action was an evidence of his faith; he "smote the waters," and God honored his trust, and the waters "parted hither and thither, and Elisha went over." As a result of this miracle, the prophets that were watching him were compelled to acknowledge his successorship. "They said, The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha." They had seen his bold act of faith, and could not fail to render him due respect and reverence. His very look and his every word betokened his true spiritual status. The spirit of Christ, like Himself, can not be hid. What we, as Christians, should strive after is not so much profession, but rather seek to make more impression.

II.—THE SEARCH FOR ELIJAH.

Verse 16. Though reverencing their newly appointed master, the sons of the prophets had some difficulty in accepting his report of the translation of Elijah. Perhaps it was merely a carrying away to Horeb, or some other secluded spot. They were affected by rationalistic ideas; they would not accept the theory of a direct journey to heaven. They were prone to believe that even if his spirit had gone, yet the body of Elijah remained upon some one of the peaks or vales near by the scene of his ascent. They broached their speculations to Elisha, and desired him to permit the institution of a search. At first the prophet refused; but afterwards, in order, it might be, to fully satisfy any doubts they might have, he allowed their request. They sent out fifty men who searched for the body three days, but all in vain. At their return they all were forced to rely upon the incident as related by Elisha. This shows us that doubts will at times come up and must be wisely met. It also proves that what God does can always stand the most rigid observation. The skepticism of these prophets was fully destroyed by a means proposed by themselves, and Elisha could rightly rebuke them in the words, "Did I not say unto you, Go not?" It is always a mistake to question the dealings of God. It discloses a woful lack of faith on our part. Also these prophets learned that old methods and teachers, however cherished, must sometimes be put aside and new ones received in their stead. The day of the "whirlwind" had passed, and the time for the administration of the "still small voice" had arrived.

III.—THE CLEANSING OF THE SPRING.

Verse 19. "The men of the city" mentioned here were probably the chief citizens of the place. Their city, well laid out, was beautiful for situation. There was but one drawback to its desirability as a home. The water was "naught." This fact brought everything to a standstill. The soil, otherwise fertile, was rendered unproductive; consequently agriculture, the mainstay of the people, was almost abandoned, and unless something interposed nothing but ruin was promised for the future. In their extremity they applied to Elisha for aid. He immediately assented to their request, and called for a "new cruse," with salt in it. The miracle was then performed, not so much by this as means, but rather as a symbol. Certainly the small dish of salt had not the power to restore the purity of the fountain for one hour, let alone for all time. This is a type, with possibly one exception, of all the miracles that he was instrumental in performing. They have, as a marked characteristic, their beneficent nature. Though no prayer to Jehovah is recorded in this instance, we are not to suppose its absence. He said simply, "Thus saith the Lord, I have healed these waters." God honored the human instrumentality, and the work of healing the spring was completed. This incident can not fail to thrust some suggestions upon our minds. Every life, however surrounded by blessing, nevertheless has something to mar its felicity. Many a heart is burdened by some desperate sin. There is no human arm to save. God alone is the source of help. The "new cruse" is symbolical of the gospel. The old letter of the law will not suffice. God has delivered a "New Testament," wherein are more "precious promises." It is to this new vessel that we must look for deliverance from the bitter waters of this world's sin. The salt is typical of the doctrine of Christ. And there is no limit to its purifying power. Carried in the hearts, and manifested by the lives of his followers, it should permeate every strata of society and prove itself, indeed, to be the "salt of the world." This sanctifying element is disseminated by the human ministry relying upon the power of God for ultimate success.

Queer world! Queer people! Here are men and women by thousands suffering from all sorts of diseases, bearing all manners of pain, spending their all on physicians and "getting no better, but rather worse," when right at hand there's a remedy which says it can help them because it's helped thousands like them. "Another patent-medicine advertisement," you say. Yes—but not of the ordinary sort. The medicine is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it's different from the ordinary nostrums in this:—

It does what it claims to do, or it costs you nothing!

The way is this: You pay your druggist $1.00 for a bottle. You read the directions, and you follow them. You get better, or you don't. If you do, you buy another bottle, and perhaps another. If you don't get better, you get your money back. And the queer thing is that so many people are willing to be sick when the remedy's so near at hand.

Extemporaneous Hearers.

Dr. Joseph Parker, of London, has started this phrase on its rounds. In his lecture on preaching he said, "There is extemporaneous hearing as well as extemporaneous preaching;" and a writer in the Canada Presbyterian has drawn the portraits of several extemporaneous hearers in the following paragraphs:

Here is a man who listens with much interest to a sermon on missions. As the preacher goes on making one good point after another he begins to think that he has not done his whole duty by the missionary work of his church. It dawns upon his mind that the work in the Northwest is most important. He sees points in foreign mission work that he never saw before. The reflex influence of mission work is a matter that escaped his attention. He partly believes now that the more a congregation does for others, the more it can do for itself. Sermon over, the good man goes home and thinks little or nothing more about it. He was an extemporaneous hearer. He paid as little attention to the sermon after delivery as some extemporaneous preachers do before delivery.

Here is a parishioner who occasionally indulges in beverages stronger than tea. He may not drink much liquor, but he always knows where it is. He listens to a sensible sermon on temperance—all temperance sermons are not sensible—and he wonders whether, after all, it would not be better for the sake of his family and for the sake of his example on others to shut down on the use of liquor. By the time the sermon is over he about concludes he will become a total abstainer. He goes home and practically decides that he will not. He was an extemporaneous hearer.

This good man has never done much in the way of giving. Giving was always a tender point with him. It is a tender point with many. The pocket is the most sensitive organ of the human frame. This man we speak of belongs to the class who can not be much blamed for not being liberal givers. He never was taught any better. One day, as he listened to a good sermon on Christian liberality, he resolved to turn a new leaf. He almost concludes he will double his contribution to every good cause. The sermon ends, he goes home, cools down and continues giving just the sums he gave before. He is an extemporaneous hearer.

This other parishioner attends church very irregularly. The only thing certain about him is that he will not be in church every Sabbath. He hears a good sermon on public worship and concludes while hearing to mend his ways. Next Sabbath morning his pew is empty. His bed isn't. He was an extemporaneous hearer—very extemporaneous.

There are two particularly saddening kinds of extemporaneous hearers that have not been noticed. One is the unconverted hearer who seems to be deeply impressed with the truth as long as he is hearing it, but as soon as the service is over he feels no more. His serious impression lasts as long as the sermon lasts, and no longer.

The other is the hearer who is, perhaps, converted, and while under the influence of powerful truth resolves to be a better man and a more useful Christian. No doubt he means for the time being all he says. He is earnest enough while the heat lasts. But for some reason or another he never becomes the kind of man you expect, perhaps, indeed, not the kind of man he himself expected. He is an extemporaneous hearer of the most discouraging kind.

Obituaries.

Some time ago I saw the notice of the death of a babe. The child was about a year old. The notice contained twenty-six lines. And yet there was not a single incident in the life of the babe mentioned, and not a word about the character of the child. It was wanting in all those things that people interested in a child ask about. It was not stated if it could stand up by a chair, if it had begun to walk alone, or how many teeth it had, or if it could begin to speak a word or two, or who baptized it, or whether it had been baptized at all; and yet the notice contained twenty-six lines. This was more space than I took up in the ADVOCATE in obituary notices last year for any three of my members. I attended twenty-seven funerals! the deceased varied in age from seven months to seventy years. If all the babies that die within the range of the ADVOCATE are given twenty-six lines, the obituary columns will have to be lengthened. If a babe, a year old, is given twenty-six lines, how much space ought to be given to a ten-year-old boy? Twice or thrice as much, at least. Then how much ought to be given to a mother in Israel of seventy, who has been a worker in the church fifty years, reared and educated seven or eight children, etc.?

How would it do to have obituary notices like marriage notices?—a mere statement of the date of birth and death, and the places. And then separately write a memoir, stating interesting facts in the life of the individual, such as would be edifying to the church.

TOM STERLING.

Uvalde, Texas.

For over fifty years Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar has cured coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, throat and lung affections. It is the regular prescription of a physician of extensive practice, who, after prescribing it for twenty years, was induced by the gratifying results to make it a proprietary medicine. Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar soon became known as the best remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Why? Because it has merit and will cure. A. C. Hafflefinger, Philadelphia, says: "I know a man suffering with his lungs who was in the hospital a year without benefit. I induced him to take Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, and to-day he is well. I know it saved his life." Try it.

Change—Not Quit.

"An idle brain is the devil's workshop." And a boy or man who can do nothing, is not worth a cent. Human nature is something like water; it may be controlled, but not forced. We warn and entreat the young people to quit the bar-room, to quit the pool-room, to quit the ball-room, to quit novel-reading. Our watchword seems to be, "Quit." Let us make it, "Change." We can not make our young people too active. Give them work. When they quit the pool-room, give them a reading circle. When they leave off the ball-room, give them an entertainment of a religious spirit. Make for them Chautauqua circles, Epworth Leagues, and other societies. "Cry aloud, and spare not," against all evils; but spend some time in showing the virtues of these institutions. Do not become negative preachers. We admire Thackeray and Shakespeare for their genius. They can show us the lowest depths of human degradation, and even the miseries of hell. Jesus only can show us this wretched state, and, at the same time, show us the divine of human life—the noble, the good. It is much easier to tear down than to build up; to see defects than to see virtues.

GEE AITCH TEA.

Peculiar

To itself in many important particulars, Hood's Sarsaparilla is different from and superior to any other medicine.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its medicinal merit, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time. Do not be induced to take any other preparation. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

By All Odds

The most generally useful medicine is Ayer's Pills. As a remedy for the various diseases of the stomach, liver, and bowels, these Pills have no equal. Their sugar-coating causes them not only to be easy and pleasant to take, but preserves their medicinal integrity in all climates and for any reasonable length of time. The best family medicine, Ayer's Pills are, also, unsurpassed for the use of travelers, soldiers, sailors, campers, and pioneers. In some of the most critical cases, when all other remedies have failed, prove effective.

Ayer's Pills

"In the summer of 1864 I was sent to the Annapolis hospital, suffering with chronic diarrhea. While there, I became so reduced in strength that I could not speak and was compelled to write everything I wanted to say. I was then having some 25 or 30 stools per day. The doctors ordered a medicine that I was satisfied would be of no benefit to me. I did not take it, but persuaded my nurse to get me some of Dr. Ayer's Pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon I took six of these pills, and by midnight began to feel better. In the morning the doctors came again, and after deciding that my symptoms were more favorable, gave me a different medicine, which I did not use, but took four more of the pills instead. The next day the doctors came to see me, and thought I was doing nicely, (and so did I). I then took one pill a day for a week. At the end of that time, I considered myself cured and that Ayer's Pills had saved my life. I was then weak, but had no return of the disease, and gained in strength as fast as could be expected."—F. C. Luce, Late Lieut. 55th Regt. Mass. Vol. Infantry.

"Ayer's Pills are

The Best

I have ever used for headaches, and they act like a charm in relieving any disagreeable sensation in the stomach after eating."—Mrs. M. J. Ferguson, Pulliam, Va.

"I was a sufferer for years from dyspepsia and liver troubles, and found no permanent relief until I commenced taking Ayer's Pills. They have effected a complete cure."—George W. Mooney, Walla Walla, W. T.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,

106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY!

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

Mardi Gras Offerings.

Matting. The spring importations have just arrived, and a very handsome line will be shown to those visiting the store.

Wall Paper. The patterns for 1891 are unusually attractive, embracing many novelties in dining, parlor, bedroom and hall papers.

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, and Upholstering Goods.

We will offer Samson's celebrated make of Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents per square yard; Curtain Poles, with trimmings complete, 25 cents; and Dado Window Shades, from 35 cents each to $6 each, the latter being hand-painted.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim'd,

116 Camp St., New Orleans.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

HOPKINS'

PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:55 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:15 pm
Vicksb'g Ex... 5:45 pm	Vicksb'g Ex.....8:30 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac...3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex.7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....8:45 pm
No. 7 Coast.....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..8:20 pm
Lim. Express...4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 p m

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1. Local Mail and Express...7:10pm	No. 2. Local Mail and Express...7:00am
No. 41. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 8:25am	No. 42. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 6:00pm
No. 45. Chic. and N. O. Lim....8:00pm	No. 46. Chic and N. O. Lim. 12:01noon
No. 41. Memphis and K. C. Ex. 8:25am	No. 42. Memphis and K. C. Ex. 6:00pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 53 California Express. 7:00pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45a m
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd .11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:45am

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 2, Limited...4:00pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City.

Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.

J. C. GAULT, General Manager.

D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS, TEXARKANA, SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

E. W. McCULLOGH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE. THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:55 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:15 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 5:45 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:30 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
R. B. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.
A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

LOUISIANA

STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR

FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Crozier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Jalling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

H. P. BUCKLEY,

Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $3.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 West Broadway, New York.

Local Agents Wanted.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

We wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,

LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,

No. 101 Camp Street,

Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. Ferry & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, FEB. 19, 1891.

Briefs.

We fear that the rain last Sunday interfered with the program in regard to Centenary Day. Let the brethren not indefinitely postpone this important service, but hold it as early as they can, and report results by postal card to the ADVOCATE.

Bishop Galloway is preparing a sketch of the Life and Work of Dr. C. K. Marshall, for the Quarterly Review. We know of no one better qualified for such a work.

The Czar of Russia must be a crazy man. A memorial from the Lord Mayor of London in favor of the persecuted Jews of his realm has been returned "without note or comment," and fresh vengeance is being wreaked upon the unfortunate Jews. British sympathy, expressed in a respectful memorial, has really aggravated their hard lot, and their wretched condition is worse than ever. The new severities practiced upon the unoffending men, women and children seem almost incredible. And yet one word from the Czar would stop it all. The Czar of Russia must be a crazy man.

A peerage is again talked of for Mr. Gladstone. Everybody, friend or foe, believes that the country would honor itself by conferring upon him the distinction. He declined several years ago, feeling that to enter the House of Lords would be the extinguishing of his career. He says now the triumph of the Liberal party and the success of home rule are the sole objects of his ambition. He sees no hope of either during his life. There would be some hope with a united Ireland, but none without. Until he sees some prospect of the fulfilment of his wishes, he believes it to be his duty to remain in the House of Commons.

The literary world is delighted and excited over a discovery just made in the British Museum. The Museum recently purchased a roll of papyrus from Egypt, and, lo! the celebrated, long-lost "Constitution of Athens," by Aristotle, was unearthed. Competent judges do not doubt the authenticity of the manuscript. Of course, it will be translated into English, and we shall have a "description of the first great democracy of the world by the greatest thinker of antiquity." Think of the statesman of today having side by side in his library, Aristotle on the Constitution of Athens, and Story on the Constitution of the United States!

There are many people who believe that a new era in politics has dawned on the nation. The signs seem to be that the old sectional issues are about over. It is certain that there are plenty of new issues to engage the attention of statesmen. There are economic questions and social problems of the gravest character already at the front, and they must be solved, or else further discontent and distress and disaster will ensue. These things are impressing themselves upon the public mind in a terrible way. The people are becoming restless and impatient under their heavy burdens, and calling for relief. Men are needed who can understand the times and who will bravely face the present, and who are wise enough to use the past only as a factor in the solution of present exigencies. We need a new race of statesmen.

Spiritual Exercise.

The Apostle Paul seems to compare bodily and spiritual exercise. He says to Timothy: "Exercise thyself unto godliness; for bodily exercise profiteth little, but godliness is profitable unto all things." There is, according to all the physicians, profit to the body in bodily exercise. Well-regulated, prudent and temperate exercise is now considered one of the essentials to physical health. Inactivity of the bodily organs works a serious impairment of those organs. They become weak and sickly by disuse. Their functions become deranged and they perform their offices so poorly that, in the end, the health of the whole body fails. This is the teaching of the whole medical faculty, and it is but a confirmation of Paul when he says, "Bodily exercise profiteth little." The apostle's statement is substantiated by the study and experiments of the physiologists. We accept it, then, as true.

Now, why don't we accept the other statement as true also, "Godliness is profitable unto all things"? The two statements are made together, and why accept one and not the other? The apostle is not talking of godliness, but of the "exercise unto godliness;" just as he is not talking of the body, but of "bodily exercise." He brings these two "exercises" into comparison, and then says that while "bodily exercise is profitable for a little," the "exercise unto godliness is profitable unto all things." We gather from the way in which the apostle has made these statements that there is a law in the spiritual life like to that which obtains in the physical life. In other words, if exercise of the bodily organs promotes bodily health, Paul's opinion is that exercise of the spiritual faculties promotes spiritual health. Then it follows, if this exercise is omitted, there must be a decline in spiritual health. The soul will become weak and sickly if the spiritual faculties are not exercised regularly and prudently.

The physicians tell us that a man may refuse to exercise an organ of the body, and persist in that refusal until he will actually lose the power to use the organ at all. This same law holds in the spiritual life. The persistent neglect to "exercise unto godliness" produces a paralysis of spiritual forces. Paul noted this among the Corinthians, some of whom were "weak," some "sickly" and some "asleep." Here is a regular gradation downward in spiritual health, and a gradual weakening of spiritual power.

From this it is easy to see the appropriateness of the apostle's exhortation, "Exercise thyself unto godliness," for there is no robust spiritual life without it. It is amazing to think how people will trifle with the laws of their being. And yet all intelligent people know that every law has its penalty for violation. In the natural realm they expect these penalties when they violate nature's laws. Why should they not expect them when they violate the laws of spiritual life? A man will trifle with these laws with impunity, and then marvel and wonder when the penalty comes. If a man puts his finger in the fire, does he wonder that he is burned? No. If he neglects to exercise the muscles of his arm, does he wonder that the arm grows weaker? No. Why then should he be surprised when, having neglected spiritual exercise, he grows weak in spiritual power?

We believe that many church people are neglecting this "exercise unto godliness," and the result is seen in their sickly lives. They seem to think that "going to meetings" is an "exercise unto godliness," and, being regular attendants at the church, they wonder why they are so weak as spiritual forces. "Going to meetings" is not an "exercise unto godliness." Those are the places where we learn how to perform such an exercise. A man does not practice bodily exercise by studying anatomy and physiology, but those studies show him how to do the thing. The church services are simply to get us ready to practice the "exercise unto godliness."

If there ever was a time when Paul's exhortation to spiritual exercise was appropriate, that time is now. Then let every Christian who reads this wake up, and every day exercise himself unto godliness, and thus promote his soul's health and strengthen his spiritual power.

A Hint about Revivals.

The question how to promote a revival is frequently asked, and nearly everyone who replies gives a different answer. So diverse are these answers that a simple-minded pastor becomes very much perplexed. The idea with a good number of people is that you must resort to something novel—first, in order to draw the crowd, and second, to keep it after you have drawn it. Various preliminary steps must be taken. Christian people must come together in prayer meetings, choirs must rehearse, dodgers must be posted about town, the columns of the newspapers must be levied upon as advertising mediums, etc. We believe that the conditions of success are the same now that they were in early days. Imagine Peter going up one street and Andrew down another with an armful of posters and plastering the walls of Jerusalem with invitations to come to the gospel meeting. Imagine Philip and Nathaniel "beating up" singers and practicing them in the songs to be sung at the revival! Imagine Luke calling upon the editor of the Ephesus Enterprise, and requesting him to publish in his evening edition a reading notice that Dr. Paulus, the world-renowned evangelist, will begin evangelistic services this evening at eight o'clock in the Synagogue on Adelphic avenue! No, you can't imagine any such thing! And yet those very men had tremendous revivals—revivals that shook multitudes as the hurricane shakes a forest. They resorted to no such claptrap as obtains frequently these days.

Human nature has not changed since then. Sin is the same; religion is the same; God is the same; and we believe the conditions for a revival are the same. The same practices that were effective then are effective now. People are getting too far away from "The Acts of the Apostles." Say, brother, have you read that little treatise lately? Go and do so at once. Read it with special reference to revival work, and you will have your eyes opened before you read five pages. But, lest you forget it when you lay down this paper, we call your attention to a few passages where the conditions requisite to a genuine revival are laid down in plain words. Acts v, 42: "And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ." Here is teaching and preaching; publicly, "in the temple," and privately, "in every house."

When our pastors and members go at the work after that manner, then the revival will come and it will come with power! Paul was an eminent revivalist, and this was his method. He said to the elders of the Ephesian Church: "I kept back nothing that was profitable to you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publicly, and from house to house, testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Grecks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ." (Acts xx, 20, 21.) Again, in verse 31, he says, "I ceased not to warn *every*one night and day with tears." These are the old conditions for successful ministrations, and they are the conditions now. We don't need any "sanctimonious clap-trap." A straightforward earnestness that goes from house to house with a heart full of love and eyes running over with tears, and preaches the gospel of "repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ," will insure a successful revival of pure religion. Brother, has the hint been made plain? Will you take it?

A Few Words to the Preachers and People of the North Mississippi Conference.

As fellow-laborers for the advancement of Christianity and the salvation of souls, we all recognize the great need of a more thorough circulation of the Holy Scriptures and wholesome religious literature; also of more efficient Sunday-school work within our bounds.

During the past few years our progress on these lines has been quite gratifying. The Sunday-school interest has largely developed and the demand for good reading matter has greatly increased. But much remains to be done in these departments of church work in order to fulfil our mission, "to spread scriptural holiness over these lands," and to save the people from ignorance and sin. While we sleep the enemy is awake and actively engaged in sowing seeds of vice and capturing our children for sin and Satan. It behooves us, therefore, to be up and doing while we have life and opportunity. "The night cometh when no man can work." Then let us begin now and endeavor this year:

1. To put a Bible, Discipline (new edition) and standard church hymn book into every Methodist home, and, if possible, into the hands of each individual member of the church.

2. To put one of our church papers in every family that is in whole or in part connected with our church.

3. To organize a Sunday-school "wherever ten persons (not children only) can be collected for the purpose;" and where this can not be done see that all the families of the church have and study our catechisms and current Sunday-school literature in their homes.

To carry out these purposes I am ready, as much as in me is, to do my part as the servant of the church, and I do most sincerely invoke the co-operation of the preachers and church members of the North Mississippi Conference, that we may attain greater success this year than ever before. To this end, brethren, you can help in the cause by complying with the following directions:

1. Those wishing my services, either where we have no Sunday-schools, or for any other purpose connected with my work and ministry, will please to write to me.

2. Pastors or others desiring help for needy Sunday-schools will send their orders to me, stating in the application the state and prospects of the school, with name and postoffice address of the superintendent.

3. Send me your orders for books and any of our church publications, including the Sunday-school literature, which I furnish at Publishing House rates. Send to me for the Epworth League course of reading. Address all communications to Kosciusko, Miss., where they will receive prompt attention.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporteur and S. S. Agent.

Christ, a Man of Prayer.

The great Master was a man of prayer. He was praying when the heaven opened and the Holy Ghost came upon him. Heaven opens only to those who pray, and the Holy Ghost comes in answer to prayer. God has promised to give the Spirit to them who ask him. The Spirit should be sought after diligently and prayerfully.

The Master went up into a mountain, apart, to pray. He needed the silence of solitude in order to acceptable worship. He wanted to commune with God. He separated himself from his disciples, and from the multitudes that thronged him, day after day, that he might have time and opportunity to be alone with God. He needed rest, refreshment and strength for the great work before him.

Prayerful meditation, alone and in silence, is exceedingly helpful and strengthening to a devout human spirit. The great and good men of all ages have been given to seasons of prayer and meditation apart from the busy, babbling throngs that press along the public thoroughfares of this world. Here they gather strength for great undertakings.

Thus it was with the Son of God, and so it is with his best followers down to this day. In exceptional cases the Master continued all night in prayer. He was not in a hurry to get through. The weight of a world's sins pressed upon him. The magnitude of his work drove sleep from his eyes and slumber from his eyelids. He gave his time and strength to men in the day, and his heart of prayer to God in the night season. He robbed himself of sleep that he might have time for devotion and worship. How few do this now, and yet a night spent in prayer would often be worth more to the burdened spirit than many spent in sleep.

We do not pray enough; not often enough nor long enough. We cease praying before we have fairly begun. It might be well for some of us to try an all-night prayer service alone with God. There was something in the prayers and praying of Christ that arrested the attention of the disciples and begot in them a longing to pray as he did. When he had ceased praying, his disciples said unto him, "Lord, teach us to pray." The contrast between their prayers and the Master's made them feel their ignorance and their need of instruction.

So now we often meet with devout men and women whose prayers make us feel as if we did not know how to pray at all. So tender, so humble, so pleading, so trustful, so full of unction, we are awed and thrilled and melted by them.

No human mind can understand the agony of Christ when he separated himself a little space from his followers to pray in the garden of Gethsemane. Being in an agony he prayed, and sweat, as it were, great drops of blood falling down to the ground. That scene is beyond the comprehension of man.

It would seem that Christ cried aloud and shed tears when he prayed. Here and there the blessed book gives us glimpses of Christ as a man of prayer.

* * *

Plans for the government buildings at the World's Fair, in Chicago, have been completed in Washington. The buildings, which will be nearly square, will cover nearly 150,000 square feet, and have a main entrance and ornamented arcade resembling the Arc de Triomphe at Paris. In the middle a handsome, pagoda-like tower will rise, beneath which will be a great rotunda. The building will cost $400,000, and $1,000,000 will be spent on the exhibition and in its annexes. The government buildings at the Centennial cost only $80,000.

Notes.

As a Christian, have you heard of the five p's? They are prayerful, patient, persevering, philanthropic, powerful. These all enter into the character of the live Christian.

Several weeks ago we sent out cards to some of our Sunday-school workers, asking for their views on Sunday-school work, and we have received only one reply. Did the other cards miscarry?

Elsewhere we have said that the country needs a new race of statesmen. Look at this and be convinced: According to the postal laws, it costs eight times as much to send a book on religion, science or literature through the mails as it does to send a trashy novel. Cheap postage for cheap books is playing havoc with mind and morals.

Think on this from the Nashville Advocate:

It comes with a poor grace from a man that has never put his hand to any distinctly religious enterprise in his whole life, to sneer at the ineffectiveness and the inconsistency of those who, with all their admitted limitations of mental and moral ability, have at least sought to glorify Christ, and have shown their sincerity by the general tenor of their lives.

Dr. Thompson, of the Presbyterian Church, writing in the Mid-Continent, says that "if Jesus Christ were to come to New York, as I recall his visits to the homes of sorrow and sickness, I believe his first visit would be, not to the theological school, but the hospital." One thing is certain: Our Lord evidently loved to do good to the sick and suffering, and in this has left us "an example that we should walk in his steps."

There is one class of people who are overlooked in our prayers. There is no man who stands so much in need of prayer as the man who is getting rich. He is surrounded by the most peculiar and powerful temptations, and yet he is very seldom thought of in public or private prayers. We have heard of one preacher who found on his desk a slip of paper containing this request, "The prayers of the congregation are requested for a man who is getting rich." It was most appropriate.

The sneers of the London Times and the scientific seathing from Prof. Huxley seem to have had very little effect upon Gen. Booth. That remarkable individual is simply holding on his course and applying his energies to work out the great problem he has given himself to solve, and help is coming in from many quarters. Already a "labor colony" has been established at Liverpool, and the development of the whole wonderful scheme goes on. Success to Gen. Booth!

The Western Christian Advocate aptly illustrates the differences of style thus:

With emotions well-nigh over-mastering in their intensity, his quavering voice registering every surging wave of feeling that swept over him, his fair blue eyes suffused with copious tears, he spoke the reverent farewells, whose sadness even yet fills the scene with cadences of woe, to her whose maternal blessings had been his matin and vesper experiences in each succeeding day of his strangely eventful career, and departed in the shadowy gloom that enveloped all."

What the writer intended to say is this:

He said good-by to his mother and went away.

Another organization has been effected. It it called The Christian Stewards' League. It looks to a revival in which the stress shall be laid upon the consecration of property. It is certainly time for such a revival. The amount of money held by Christian people is enormous. The amount given for benevolent and religious purposes is relatively small. The pledge of the Christian Stewards' League is:

We covenant with the Lord, and with those who enter with us into the fellowship of this consecration, that we will devote a proportionate part of our income—not less than one-tenth—to benevolent and religious purposes.

And this we do in his name who hath loved us and hath given himself for us, our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

The scheme is elaborated in a supplement to the Standard.

An exchange says:

A missionary crusade is ever the life of the church that engages in it. The spirit of missions has done more for modern Christianity than any other influence employed by the Holy Ghost within the last hundred years. A really bold missionary crusade, if undertaken by the united churches of Protestantism, would bring about such a revival as has not been known since the apostolic days.

If we could convince every individual church of the truth of the first sentence in the above quotation, it would not be long before we would see a "really bold missionary crusade undertaken by the united churches of Protestantism," and the apostolic revival would come in power. Mission work is the life of the individual Christian and the individual church and the whole connection. The individual or the church not engaged in this work "has a name to live, but is dead."

Personal and Otherwise.

"One thing thou lackest," Doctor Hoss! Thou hast never been to Boston.

Those who write long communications for the press are now styled "correspondents whose terminal facilities are bad."

You have heard many prayers; but did you ever hear a man cry out in agony, "God be merciful to me, a miserable, covetous sinner"?

We have received a poem from Dr. Fumble, of Jugville. While it fairly sparkles with gospel truth, it is entirely too long for our columns.

Dr. Morton, secretary of our Board of Church Extension, spent several days of last week in our city, looking after the interests of his society.

Mrs. Harriet Merritt, widow of Rev. G. W. Merritt, formerly of the Kentucky Conference, left our Board of Church Extension $2,000 by will.

Bishop Galloway passed through our city, last Friday, en route to Ocala, Florida, to dedicate a new church. The Bishop has had a light spell of the grippe.

A note from Bro. E. T. Denson, our pastor at Houma, La., brings us the news of the critical illness of his wife. May the Lord spare the preacher his helpmeet!

Dr. T. S. West, our pastor at Wesson, showed us his genial face and made us feel his cordial grip, last week, en route home from a visit to his brother in Uvalde, Texas.

Bro. Kirkland says that a thoughtful layman said: "Some of our preachers write more enthusiastically of a pounding than they do of a revival." Think of that, will you?

We regret to state that Dr. Harmon, of the Mississippi Conference, has been quite ill in this city for several days. An attack of the grippe brought on a more serious complaint, but he is better.

Rev. E. H. Mounger, presiding elder on the Seashore district, gave us a pleasant call last week, en route to his quarterly meetings on the Seashore. His district work is progressing well.

The Independent, of Feb. 5, and the Mid-Continent, of Feb. 12, had the same editorial on "Immoral Literature." The New York Advocate, of Feb. 12, had the same article signed by Thomas H. Creel Curious!

We are exceedingly pained to hear of the death of Mrs. George Lake, of Grenada, Miss. She died suddenly of heart failure, and was buried Sunday, Feb. 8, Bishop Galloway conducting the funeral services.

Rev. Simeon Shaw, of the North Georgia Conference, goes as a missionary to Japan as a special worker among children. He is sent out by the Sunday-schools of the Augusta district! That is a good example for some other districts.

The courteous secretary of the Mississippi Annual Conference, Dr. C. G. Andrews, has our thanks for a copy of the Minutes of the seventy-seventh session of that fine old Conference. It is gotten up in good style, and the various tables are well arranged.

Our brethren will help us by observing the rule in regard to obituaries. We don't wish to offend anyone, but we shall certainly condense all obituaries over thirty-five lines, unless the excess is paid for. This is not our rule, but the rule made by the Publishing Committee.

Attention, Secretaries!

It will greatly aid in preparing the annual report of the Board of Missions if each secretary of the Conference Boards will send us, without delay, a copy of his annual report. Please give the number of missions and missionaries in the domestic field of your Conference; also the number of members in each mission, with number of Sunday-schools and Sunday-school scholars. Also, if you can furnish it, the net increase in members in the domestic missions in your Conference. We wish to give a full and accurate report of the domestic missions of our church. We must rely on the secretaries of the Conference Boards for this information.

We will be grateful, in case the Conference Minutes are published, if each secretary will send two copies to the Mission Rooms. It will aid us greatly in our work. I. G. JOHN,
Sec. B'd of Miss., M. E. C., S.

To the Mississippi Conference.

I wish to request all parties who may have moneys to remit me, as the treasurer of the Board of Church Extension of the Mississippi Conference, to do so by postoffice order or bank check on Vicksburg. I have my deposits there, and by doing this there will be saved to the church the expense that necessarily attends the collections of money, and it will relieve me of unnecessary labor. A part of the subscription taken at Canton, Miss., during the last Conference, remains unpaid. The parties will oblige me by remitting. The money may be needed soon. My postoffice address is Phœnix, Yazoo county, Miss.

THOS. A. HOLLOMAN.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. R. A. Burroughs writes from Okolona, Miss.: "On last night, Feb. 9, at nine o'clock, Bro. W. W. Allen passed from labor to rest. His body will be laid by the side of his three children in the cemetery at Guntown, Miss., to-day. The church here loses one of her most efficient members and the town one of its best citizens."

—Rev. J. G. Sibley, writing from Summit, Miss., says: "I am delighted with my charge. We enjoyed a warm reception, and tokens of kindly remembrance are regularly presented at the parsonage. On second Sabbath we had enjoyable services, good congregations, undivided attention to the Word preached and four accessions. The outlook is bright and full of promise. My health continues moderately good."

—Rev. R. A. Davis, writing from Downsville, La., says: "I believe my work is prospering; people supplying my needs, the congregations, and ten accessions to the church to date—nine received and one to be received. Have filled all my appointments but one; rain prevented. A fine prospect for revival around the work. I expect to hold a camp meeting at the Downsville Camp Ground, and want you present. Can you come?"

—Rev. I. W. Cooper writes from Hazlehurst, Miss.: "We were met at the train by kind brethren and were led to the best parsonage in the Conference—thanks to Bro. J. T. Nicholson—where we were welcomed by kind ladies, and a warm supper and cheerful fires were the order of the evening. This was the more appreciated as Mrs. C. was quite sick. We have a good salary. Thirteen stewards on the Board; nearly four hundred members to look after; much worldliness to fight, and brethren to encourage us in the battle. Bro. Geo. Inge will be with us in May."

Be wise in time. You have too many gray hairs for one so young looking. Use Hall's Hair Renewer, the best preparation out to cure them. Try it.

Louisiana Notes.

An $8,000 ice factory will soon be started in Houma.

New Iberia has another National Bank with $50,000 capital.

A $40,000 ice factory and refrigerating plant will soon be established in Baton Rouge by a New York company.

The Southern Watchman, of Clinton, has changed hands; W. W. Wall retiring from the editorship, and B. H. Keruan taking charge.

The Chautauqua is preparing to erect a $3,000 tabernacle on the grounds near Ruston. Chautauqua subscriptions amount to $1,800 in cash.

An $80,000 transfer boat is being built at Dubuque, Iowa, for the use of the Mississippi Valley and Texas and Pacific railroads at Baton Rouge.

The Times-Democrat states that the manufacture of unleavened bread for the Passover has become a large and flourishing industry in New Orleans; 4,000,000 matzos, valued at $200,000, are marketed here from the middle of January to the middle of April.

One effect of the anti-Lottery act passed at the last session, it is stated at the postoffice department at Washington is shown by the falling off in the volume of money order, postal note and registered letter business at the New Orleans postoffice. A statement last year and this year shows a decrease in number of orders of 16,643, and in amount of $80,000. During the same period the number of postal notes paid fell from 82,593 to 8,876, and the amount paid decreased $110,000.

A Girl Worth Having.

After reading Mr. Gray's experience in the plating business, I sent $3 to W. H. Griffith & Co., Zanesville, Ohio, for a Plater, and cleared $36 in a week. Isn't this pretty good for a girl? There is tableware and jewelry to plate at every house; then why should any person be poor or out of employment with such an opportunity at hand?
MARY BRITTEN.

A Correction.

I see by the Minutes of the last Mississippi Annual Conference that the Woodville Sunday-school is credited with $12 60 for foreign missions, whereas it should be $72 60. Knowing no other remedy, I appeal to you to put us right on the record.

G. T. MCGEHEE,
Supt. Woodville Sunday-School.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.
WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

Mississippi Items.

Mississippi has sixty-six newspapers.

Lumberton is putting in a system of waterworks.

Winona has received 12,374 bales of cotton up to date.

The Crystal Springs public school is now domiciled in a beautiful and elegant new building.

The State Convention of Y. M. C. A. will meet at Natchez, April 30, and continue till May 3.

The sundry civil bill, reported in Congress, appropriates $50,000 for a public building at Meridian.

The Mexican Gulf Hotel, at Pass Christian, has been bought by Frank T. Howard for $40,000, and will be enlarged and improved.

A dispatch from Vicksburg says: "Less than one-half of the males of voting age in this county have paid last year's taxes; consequently about 3,600 voters will be disfranchised for the next two years."

A reception took place last evening in the Sunday-school room of the Crawford Street M. E. Church, and was a very agreeable affair, being attended by the greater part of the congregation, which assembled to meet the pastor, Rev. Mr. Lewis.

Such receptions have been given by this church, time out of mind, in order that a newly-appointed pastor may have an opportunity to become acquainted with his people, en masse. The time-honored custom was never more appropriately observed than last night, and the hearty welcome accorded the pastor must have been very gratifying to his feelings.—Vicksburg Herald.

The following dispatch from Oxford will be of interest to the friends of education:

One wing of the university building is occupied by the Mississippi Historical Society, of which Chancellor E. Mays is president; Prof. F. R. Fulton, archivest, and Prof. Sims, secretary. The Board of Trustees has approved of an appropriation of $10,000 for the purchase of a twin telescope, which has been ordered from the establishment of Sir Howard Gruhb of Dublin. It will be here in one year. It will be two telescopes mounted on one support, moved by the same works. One will have a 15-inch place for visional purposes, and the other with 9 inches for photographic purposes.

Notice.

We are contemplating publishing a volume of sermons, about twenty in number, from the Mississippi Conference preachers. To this end we invite the brethren who so desire to help us to send us a sermon, fresh, suggestive, and from the heart. From the number sent us we will make the selection. We want the book to contain the pictures of all our ministers and some of our prominent laymen. Brethren, help us to make a book that will do good.

I. W. COOPER.
Hazlehurst, Miss.

The Mississippi Conference Minutes

Were mailed to subscribers to-day. A number of copies remain on hand, which will be sent by mail to any persons remitting twelve and a half cents per copy. C. G. ANDREWS.
Meridian, Miss., Feb. 11, 1891.

Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Flux.

Maguire's Benne Plant for nearly 50 years the infallible cure. Thousands of testimonials; indorsed by the Western Sanitary Commission, U. S. army officers, hospital physicians, steamboat officers, etc. Taken in time a sure preventive of Asiatic cholera.

Choice Private Board.

A few gentlemen and ladies desiring the comforts of home, freed from the many annoyances of housekeeping, can be elegantly accommodated by the well-known Methodist lady,

MRS. M. M. AUVRAY,
No. 277 Josephine street, New Orleans, La.

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,
Homeopathic Physician,
288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.
Cases treated by letter.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years
MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose. M. C. COLE,
"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is almost a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.
LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.
E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

The Best, Swiftest and Lightest-Running Sewing Machine in the World is the

SINGER.

Especially Adapted for Family Use. In Elegant, Convenient and Artistic Cabinet Work, with our New (patented) Stand, and all Modern Improvements.

THE ONLY PERFECT ATTACHMENTS

More Popular Than Ever,
They Defy Competition.

Sold on the Most Liberal and Easy Terms. Full Instructions Given and Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Send for Illustrated Price List.

Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines, 15, 20 and 25 cents per dozen; postage extra. Parts and Attachments for the Singer.

The Singer Manufacturing Company,
CENTRAL OFFICE:
185 Canal, New Orleans, La.

Branch offices at Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Dallas, Galveston, Houston, Marshall and San Antonio, Tex.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

My Medical Discovery seldom takes hold of two people alike! Why? Because no two people have the same weak spot. Beginning at the stomach, it goes searching through the body for any hidden humor. Nine times out of ten, inward humor makes the weak spot. Perhaps its only a little sediment left on a nerve or in a gland; the Medical Discovery glides it right along, and you find quick happiness from the first bottle. Perhaps it's a big sediment or open sore, well settled somewhere, ready to fight. The Medical Discovery begins the fight, and you think it pretty hard, but soon you thank me for making something that has reached your weak spot. Write too if you want to know more about it.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well-fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
LONDON, ENGLAND.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,
234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman, Julius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

W. H. KRONE,
BUILDER,
586 Baronne St., - New Orleans.
Box 71, M., D., and L. Exchange.

INTER-STATE FIRE ASSOCIATION,
58 Carondelet St., NEW ORLEANS.

Mutual—Divides Profits amongst Insurers.

BREEDLOVE SMITH, President. ALBERT MACKIE, Vice-President.
R. L. EMERY, Secretary.

Assets—Jan. 1, 1891,—
Guarantee fund	$173,050 00
Other assets	10,555 00
Total	$183,605 00
Liabilities—
Unearned premium reserve	$ 8,478 12
Other liabilities	2,779 51
	$ 11,257 63
Net surplus for policy holders, Jan. 1, 1891	$172,347 37

Board of Trustees.

JOHN I. ADAMS, A. BONNECAZE, N. D. WALLACE, ALBERT MACKIE, ROBERT MANSON, M. T. ELFERT, RICHARD FURMAN, JAS. G DUNCAN, HENRY G. BUSH, BREEDLOVE SMITH, R. B. ONG, S. HERNSHEIM, HENRY HAAG, JOHN S. TALMAGE, C. C. EMERY, HENRY WELLMANN, ANDREW JACKSON, ISIDORE HECHINGER, L. H. GARDNER, R. L. EMERY, W. W. SUMNER.

Shepard & Butler,
94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.
BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

S. R. PERRY,
183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.
Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.
Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.
Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

In answering advertisements please mention the Advocate.

This Bright New 1891

needs the brightest and best of music. The 2,000,000 readers of this ad. are all invited to provide themselves with music or music books from our complete and varied stock.

Send freely for lists and information.

SOME OF OUR NEWEST BOOKS.

SONGS OF IRELAND. $1 00. Choice, revised collection of very favorite songs. 66 songs. 111 pages.

POTTER'S RESPONSES AND SENTENCES. 75 cts.; $6 75 doz. A timely and good collection, which will be welcomed by many choirs. More than 50 short pieces, with a number of Glorias, Chants, etc.

PRAYER AND PRAISE. Cantata. Ballard. A good and easy cantata, for a Choir or Chorus. 50 cents; $4 50 per dozen.

MASONIC ODE. Pitman. A new most convenient book of easy and good music, perfectly fitted for the masonic ritual. Much needed. 60 cts.; $6 doz.

COMIC AND MINSTREL SONGS $1 00. 46 merry songs, well calculated to make time pass cheerfully.

BANNER FOLIO. Violin and Piano. Winner. Large number of popular melodies, skilfully arranged for Violin, with Piano accompaniment. $1 00.

MANDOLIN AND PIANO DUETS Winner. About 75 popular airs for Mandolin and Piano. $1 00.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price.

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York City

GOLDEN MEMORIES

OF THE BOOK OF BOOKS IN PICTURE, SONG, AND STORY.

8 Col'd Plates, 50 Full-page Engs., 200 Illustrations

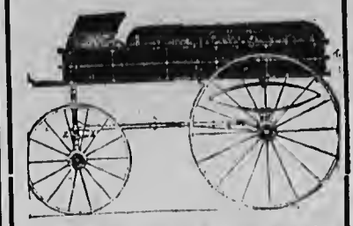
A MASTERPIECE of LITERATURE and ART!

A Gallery of Pictorial Art, a Library of Sacred Literature, and a Life of Christ from Cradle to Crown, sold at a price within the reach of all.

AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY TOWNSHIP.
HUNT & EATON, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York.

R. P. RANDALL,
Carriages and Harness,
Saddles and Bridles,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.

Body Cart, with lazy back, $20.
A good, substantial article, which we can recommend to give service.



3-Spring Delivery Wagon, $67.50.
TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER.

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
834 St. Charles Street. near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

Mansfield Female College
Conservatory of Music and Art.
MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most popular and flourishing institutions of the South. The Sixty-seventh Session opens September 10, 1890, and the Spring Term begins January 28, 1891, with an able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive, instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. The pianos are new and of the best make. The Technicon and the Techniphone are used to facilitate the work in the music department, placing this deparment beyond competition. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

The location is unsurpassed for beauty and attractiveness, and the school is celebrated for the remarkable record for good health maintained. The climate is the best in which to educate, and the place is the safest for girls. The main building is of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, warmed and ventilated. Ample provision for the table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical. A new building with a large audience hall is in contemplation, and extensive improvements are in progress to make this the grandest institution in the State.

For catalogue and particulars address
A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

Centenary College
JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Munnicutt, President.

YOUR NAME on 25 Lovely Cards, 1 Ring, 1 Lace Pin, 1 Fancy Fountain Pen Combined, 1 Forget-me-not Album, 400 Album Verses &c., All 10c. Laurel Card Co., Box 2, Clintonville, Conn.

Tutt's Pills

FOR TORPID LIVER.

A torpid liver deranges the whole system, and produces

Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Rheumatism, Sallow Skin and Piles.

There is no better remedy for these common diseases than Tutt's Liver Pills, as a trial will prove. Price, 25c.

Sold Everywhere.

CUT THIS OUT

And hand it to your Choir Leader, because it is

WORTH 50 CENTS

toward the Subscription price ($1.50) of

THE MUSICAL VISITOR,

A Monthly Magazine whose music pages are devoted to

CHOIR ANTHEMS AND ORGAN MUSIC.

The Literary portion of the Musical Visitor deals with all the live musical topics of the day, and has essays, criticisms, etc., of special interest to Choirs and Choir Leaders.

If this Advertisement is sent to us, with ONE DOLLAR, we will send the Musical Visitor to any address for one year. Write for terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copies of the "Musical Visitor," 10 cents each.

—PUBLISHED BY—

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 246 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

MUNN & CO. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN AGENCY for PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO. 361 Broadway, New York.

LADIES afflicted with Trouble of the Womb should try Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; it will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Something new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Descriptive circulars and prices free. Address KITSELMAN BROS., Ridgeville, Ind.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-Basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr. Prop'r, London, Tenn.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. Blosser & Co., Dalton, Ga.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

Established 1837.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

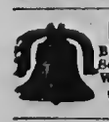
Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil, or Electric, give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular & estimate. A liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES

$100. FOR AN INCURABLE CASE. Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration, causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY which acts directly on parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 60c Druggists or mail. Circulars free. Bosanko Co. Piqua, O.

Improved EXCELSIOR INCUBATOR

Will hatch larger percentage of fertile eggs at less cost than any other hatcher. Send 6c for Illus Cats. GEO. H. STAHL, Quincy, Ill.



BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Our Young People.

Why Sixty Seconds Make a Minute.

Why is our hour divided into sixty minutes, each minute into sixty seconds, etc.? Simply and solely, replies Max Muller, in Fortnightly Review, because in Babylon there existed by the side of the decimal system of notation another system, the sexagesimal, which counted by sixties. Why that number should have been chosen is clear enough, and it speaks well for the practical sense of those ancient Babylonian merchants. There is no number which has so many divisors as 60; it being divided without a remainder by 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 12, 15, 20 and 30.

The Babylonians divided the sun's daily journey into 24 parasangs, or 720 stadia. Each parasang or hour was subdivided into 60 minutes. A parasang is about a German mile, or a little more than four and a half English miles; and Babylonian astronomers compared the progress made by the sun during one hour at the time of the equinox to the progress made by a good walker during the same time, both accomplishing one parasang. The whole course of the sun during the 24 equinoctial hours was fixed at 24 parasangs, or 720 stadia, or 360 degrees.

This system was handed on to the Greeks, and Hipparchus, the great Greek philosopher, who lived about 150 B. C., introduced the Babylonian hour into Europe. Ptolemy, who wrote about 140 A.D., and whose name still lives in that of the Ptolemaic system of astronomy, gave still wider currency to the Babylonian way of reckoning time. It was carried along on the quiet stream of traditional knowledge through the Middle Ages, and, strange to say, it sailed down safely over the Niagara of the French revolution. For the French, when revolutionizing weights, measures, coins, and dates, and subjecting all to the decimal system of reckoning, were induced by some unexplained motive to respect our clocks and watches, and allowed our dials to remain sexagesimal—that is, Babylonian—each hour consisting of sixty minutes.—Exchange.

It is not what one says, but everybody who knows it praises Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

See This, Young Folks!

Send twenty-five cents in stamps, or by postal note, to Miss Sallie V. Stewart, Oxford, Ga., for one year's subscription to the young folks' charming new missionary paper, The Little Worker. You are sure to be pleased with it. Eight pages, and fully illustrated. Don't miss the next issue, for it has an unusual supply of good things.

The quickest way to banish a cough is by using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents

Children's Sayings.—Soon after getting settled on our farm in Minnesota we bought some chickens, which were a source of great amusement to Arthur, two years old, who talked very plain.

One morning he watched them eating their breakfast from the ground (Arthur was very particular about his food), and after we went in the house, there was quite an outcry from the chickens.

"Perhaps," said Arthur, "I had better go out and see what the chickens are talking about."

After being out a few minutes, he came back and said, "They told me to tell you they don't like to have their breakfast in the dirt; they want it put on something clean."

A little boy was given a hen and a sitting of eggs, with the privilege of owning the chicks when they were hatched. He was so eager that he could hardly wait. One morning he said: "I believe my hen has hatched, for I smell chickens."—Youth's Companion.

"I Like to Help People."—A lady was walking out one windy day, when it began to rain. With her hands full of parcels it was difficult for her to raise her umbrella.

"Let me, please let me," said a bright-faced boy.

He put up her umbrella, then took a string from his pocket and tied her packages together.

As she thanked him, telling him he was very polite to do so much for a stranger, he replied: "Oh, it's no trouble, ma'am; I like to help people."

Mr. Editor: I have been reading the children's letters in the Advocate for some time, and wish to write a letter also. I have two brothers younger than myself. Conference has sent back the same preacher we had last year, Bro. F. P. Spencer. We all like him very much. We have a very nice Sunday-school, but had to call it in on account of building a new church. I am so sorry, for I love to go to Sunday-school. It won't be long before the church will be finished. I will be so glad. Our superintendent is G. W. Vaughn, my grandfather. Christmas was the saddest I ever spent. Aunt Carrie lost one of her little boys. Little Carlton was as sweet a child as I ever saw. I saw his obituary in the Advocate. Being as this is my first letter I hope it will escape the waste-basket. I will answer Meredith's question. Rachel was Joseph's mother. I will close by asking the friends a question: How many times is the word "river" spoken of in the Bible? I remain,

Your unknown friend,
Eva Boston.

Cherokee, Miss.

Mr. Editor: As I am a constant reader of your good paper, and see so many good letters from the young folks, it has induced me to write one. We live in the country, and are poor, and our opportunities are limited; but I am so proud to tell you that we had such a good school for two sessions, but sorry to say that it has suspended for the present session. Bro. Eugene Steed was our principal, but could not stay with us any longer. He is now at Nashville, Tenn., preparing for the ministry. We hope to meet him this summer again. We are having a great deal of la grippe and pneumonia in our community; fatal with some. So, as this is my second letter, and six years between dates, and for fear it may find its way into that greedy waste-basket, I will close by answering Meredith Woods' question. It was Rachel, the mother of Joseph. Will also ask one: Where is "death in the pot" found in the Bible?

Yours as ever,
Ella E. Griggs.

Ruston, La.

Mr. Editor: I am a little boy twelve years old. I go to school every day to Miss Annie McLauren, who I love very much. I go to Sunday-school whenever there is one to go to. Children are so scarce in our neighborhood that we can not keep up a Sunday-school. I love to read the Advocate, especially those letters that I was reading this Sabbath morning. Paul Harris asked the question, how many words were in the Bible; I answered, 775,746 words. I ask, How many letters in the Bible?

Otis Marvin McDonald.

Jefferson county, Miss.

What a change is wrought in people who suffer from rheumatism when they take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The acidity of the blood is neutralized, the blood is purified, the aching joints and limbs rest easily and quietly, and a feeling of serene health is imparted.

Mother's Arithmetic.—"And now, children," remarked Prof. Hailes, in one of the public schools the other day, "if a family, consisting of father, mother, and seven children, should have a pie for dinner, how much would each one receive?" "Why," remarked a bright boy, "each one would get an eighth." "But there are nine persons, you must remember." "O, I know that; but the mother wouldn't get any; there wouldn't be enough to go around."

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS WATERPROOF. A HANDSOME POLISH. A LEATHER PRESERVER. NO BRUSHING REQUIRED. Shoes can be washed daily.

Used by men, women and children.

Why Alice, when did you get a Walnut sideboard? When? Never, just this moment finished transforming our old Chestnut one to Walnut, to make it correspond with our other furniture. Did it with TRADE PIK-RON MARK. AGAINST THAT ONE CAN SEE THROUGH. TRY IT.

Sold Everywhere.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

PIK-RON will stain glassware as well as sideboards, and will lacquer tinware.

Household.

Economical Living.

One of the subjects talked and written about a good deal at the present time is how to live cheaply. Prices of all the great staples of life are high. Rents are enormous. Fashions are exacting. Wants multiply while resources diminish. How to make strap and buckle meet is the problem which presses on hundreds of housekeepers. It is what is done to keep up appearances that destroys the equilibrium between outgo and income, and makes life a drudgery and vexation. How to live cheaply is a question easy enough to answer if one will be content with a cheap living. Substitute comfort for show. Put convenience in the place of fashion. Study simplicity. Refuse to be beguiled into a style of living above what is required by your position in society and is justified by your resources. Set a fashion of simplicity, neatness, prudence and inexpensiveness, which others will be glad to follow, and thank you for introducing. Teach yourself to do without a thousand and one pretty, showy things which wealthy people purchase, and pride yourself on being just as happy without them as your rich neighbors are with them. Put so much dignity, sincerity, kindness, virtue, and love into your simple and inexpensive home that its members will never miss the costly fripperies and showy adornments, and be happier in the cosey and comfortable apartments than most of their wealthy neighbors are in their splendid establishments. It does not follow that in order to live cheaply one must live meanly. The best comforts of life are not costly. Taste, refinement, good cheer, wit, and even elegance, are not expensive. There is no trouble about young people marrying with no outfit but health and love and an honest purpose, provided they will practice the thrift and prudence to which their grandparents owed all their success, and make their thought and love supply what they lack in the means of display. Those who begin life at the top of the ladder generally tumble off, while those who begin at the foot acquire steadiness, courage and strength of arm and will as they rise.—Anon.

Drudgery.

Many a young married woman finds the romance of life fading out as she is confronted day after day with the ever-recurring tasks of daily life. Said such a one the other day:

"I do hate to do the ordinary routine drudgery of housekeeping! I never was systematic. Things get out of order, and there they stay till I get round to pick them up. It takes so long, especially the dishes. I seem to be doing dishes a good deal of the time; they seem like climbing up a high mountain, the top of which I never reach."

The friend to whom she was talking make this reply:

"I really have learned to enjoy my dishes. I made it a point to have abundance of clean cup-towels. I know that artists and musicians obtain their fine effects by tireless attention to details. I take this principle into my every-day life. While I am doing the dishes I study the best method of doing them—the quickest, the easiest, the most agreeable. Generally I attack the pots and kettles first, and get them all scraped as clean as cold water will do it. While my hands are busy with the routine I have time to think. I plan my other work, think what needs doing most, and what can wait; think up pretty styles for my dresses, think over my Sunday-school lesson, the last new book or magazine I have read, recall my own actions and think how I could have done better. Thus the time passes quickly, if my mind is profitably occupied. It is not spent alone in getting my work done.

"You know we have a great many stockings to be mended, and I used to hate to darn stockings, but now, while doing that I make a practice of sewing with my open Bible near me. Proverbs is a good book to study when sewing; for there is so little connection between many of the verses. I have learned, while thus quietly repairing stockings and mending, to talk to God as I can talk to no one else. I take all my doubts and fears straight to him. I have found the most disagreeable tasks made really pleasant by trying to see how much I can please him by doing them well."—Rocky Mountain Christian Advocate.

Scentific.

Points on the Pneumatic System.

If one of the suggestions of Mayor Cregier in his recent message to the council is realized, there is a possibility that the postmen, the messenger boys, and all other people who make their daily bread by toiling through the streets with their arms full of letters and packages, and the like, will have to hunt up other jobs. The pneumatic tube, in various styles and sizes, is soon to be introduced in Chicago, and its possibilities are almost beyond calculation.

A company has been organized and incorporated at Springfield, and in a few days will receive its charter. The concern is capitalized at $1,000,000. There is now an ordinance pending before the city council, and in all probability the company will receive permission to go ahead with its work of piping the city in a very few days. As soon as such permission is granted the work will be pushed with all possible haste, and probably in less than a year letters and packages and nail kegs and dried beef will be shooting in all directions through the city in the pneumatic tubes which lie under the streets.

It is the intention to run tubes all through the city, and one of the ultimate intentions is, of course, to secure from the government the contract for the delivery of the local mails. The scheme is thoroughly practicable, for it has been tried in various cities, and has given excellent satisfaction. Mr. Kelly has been working for twenty years to put the scheme into operation, and has at last practically succeeded.

"It would be much easier," he said, "to tell the use to which pneumatic tubes could not be put than to detail those to which they can be applied. They might be and will be set up in stores to supplant the present tedious cash system. Customers would then be relieved of the sharp and startling rap of irate saleladies' pencils and of the annoying, ear-rasping cry of 'Cash!' For the delivery of newspapers there could be hardly anything better. Every morning or evening newspaper in the city could deliver its papers through the tubes, and there is not one of them that could run them off the presses faster than the tubes would carry them away. The editions would not be delivered to the news-stands alone, but to private houses as well. Dry goods merchants would find them almost priceless in the delivery of small packages, and the time will come when parcels of any size can be transmitted with equal facility. It is now practicable to work an 8-inch tube and to send through it packages of three-fourths that thickness and twice the length. The tubes will, of course, be run underground, and will be connected with any house whose owner is willing to pay the price, and will land in kitchen, hall, or pantry, as desired. Thus householders would be spared the nuisance of answering the bell every five or ten minutes to receive a package from a delivery-man. The postoffice department could send its mail matter from the main office to sub-stations, and when the system is perfected could deliver mail at the houses for which it was destined.

"One fact which is not understood, I think," continued Mr. Kelly, "is that the delivery through the tubes would be continuous, the same as pushing cartridges in a repeating rifle. There is no waiting for the carrier or box holding the article to get to its destination, but one after another, as fast as the sender can put them in, these boxes may be carried off, and thus form almost an uninterrupted stream. The possibilities of magnitude in delivery for a day, or even an hour, are almost infinite. It should also be understood that there are two tubes instead of one. For instance, the Western Union office is connected with the Board of Trade. A tube starts from the former, runs under ground to the latter, where it makes a turn and runs back to the starting-point. In this way sending and receiving can be carried on at the same time without cessation. The old plan of compressed air as the propelling force has been abandoned and the vacuum system has been adopted as far more preferable. The preferred plan of transmission is by means of a leather box, both ends of which are covered with sheep skin, with the wool still on. In this box is fitted another of the same material. By means of cut-offs, switches and other appliances, taps to an almost indefinite number might be made with the main underground line. In round numbers, I would say that an 8-inch tube system could be placed for $50,000 a mile, running through the various portions of the city. Residence and business houses along the route might connect with them as they now do with electric wires, water and gas mains. Anything which could be got within the carrier of boxes would go safely except, as I have said, liquids.

"Those who estimate the common carrier of the future without considering the pneumatic tubes, are making a sad mistake. They are destined to prove the most reliable, most economical and fastest mode of conveyance. It is not stretching it too far, I think, to say that the time will come when man himself will travel by this means. Strange methods have been used."—Chicago Herald.

PARSONS PURGATIVE PILLS

Make New, Rich Blood!

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No other like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them, and you will always be thankful. One PILL A DOSE. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cts. in stamps. Dr. J. C. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass.

Mention this paper.

Books

New Books every week. Catalogue, 132 pages, free; not sold by Dealers; price too low; buy of the Publisher, John B. Alden, 393 Pearl St., New York.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal," of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

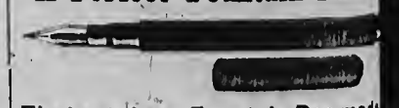
Address

E. S. UPTON

Religious Book Depository,

94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

A Perfect Fountain Pen!



The best cheap Fountain Pen made

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens and Stylographic Pens, from $1.50 to $3.50 each. Holders and ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. Van Valkenburgh,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a Specialty of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate.
Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES,

Nos. 842, 844, 846 and 848 Howard Ave.

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

MARRIAGES.

CULLOM-McQUEEN.—At the residence of Mrs. Davidson, Springfield, La., Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. H. Mellard, Mr. E. T. Cullom to Miss S. A. McQueen.

WOOTTEN-HEGGIE.—At the residence of the bride's father, Maj. J. L. Heggie, Carroll county, Miss., Feb. 8, by Rev. B. F. Phillips, Mr. T. B. Wootten, of Athens, Ga., to Miss Ophelia C. Heggie.

SEALS-MORGAN.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Homer, La., Jan. 1, 1891, by Rev. Robert Randle, Mr. P. C. Seals to Miss Gertrude Morgan.

HARRIS-MYERS.—At the residence of the bride's father, Arizona, La., Jan. 11, 1891, by Rev. Robert Randle, Mr. Harris to Miss V. E. Myers.

VANCE-HAMILTON.—In the Union Church, West, Miss., Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. D. C. Foust, Mr. J. H. Vance, of Eupora, Miss., to Miss Laura J. Hamilton, of West, Miss.

HOWARD-MAYFIELD.—At the residence of the bride's father, Feb. 5, 1891, by Rev. D. C. Foust, Mr. M. M. Howard to Miss Cora Mayfield, both of Attala county, Miss.

OBITARIES.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, two cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

SMITH—"Mrs. JESSE SMITH died yesterday." The above anouncement, in a letter from Mt. Lehanon, of Jan. 16, was to me a shock which aroused a crowd of latent memories and excited the deepest emotions of my heart. Later came a letter, asking me to write an obituary for the ADVOCATE. This selection was made, not because of any family ties of kindred or connection between the dear departed and myself. There is no blood or marriage connection. Not because we had labored together in promoting the interests of the same church. She was an uncompromising Methodist, and I as decided a Baptist. The reason is given in the letter announcing my selection by the family as the writer as follows: "You wrote the obituary of our father, and I presume knew and appreciated more fully our mother's character than any other friend."

Yes, I knew her long and well. In January, 1853, I made her acquaintance, and, being for long years her family physician, was thus brought into association with her, in which I could not fail to note almost every phase of her character.

When I first knew her, she was the wife of an honorable and earnest Christian man, the owner of a large property, including a large number of slaves. I knew her as the mother of a large family of children. She was earnest and faithful in the discharge of the onerous duties of a mother and mistress. I have seen the sacrifices she made in nursing the sick among her children and slaves, and witnessed her diligence in contributing to their comfort and welfare. More than all, I have noticed the care she manifested in giving religious instruction to all around her.

I knew her at the bedside of her sick and dying husband, and when she had done all in her power to shield him from the poisonous pangs of death, I noticed her Christian resignation to the will of her Master.

I knew her during the terrible struggle of reconstruction times, when her large fortune was swept away—how she met the emergency with calmness and fortitude, and struggled on almost unaided till she secured comfort and a competence.

I knew her as the great bulwark of her church in Mt. Lehanon, and that to the end she maintained her Christian integrity.

But she has gone to her reward and leaves behind her a name untarnished and a reputation that is truly enviable.

Emily Antoinette Bryan was born in Georgia, March 22, 1819; married to Jesse Smith, Sept. 4, 1836; moved to Mt. Lebanon, La., in 1848, and died at Mt. Lebanon, Jan. 15, 1891. She was the mother of fifteen children; twelve of whom grew to maturity, married and had families. She had over fifty grandchildren. She joined the Methodist Church at sixteen, and continued a consistent member until her death. May her many children emulate her example in piety and godliness!

F. COURTNEY.

HUNTER—Died, on Jan. 4, 1891, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. A. P. Martin, at Waterproof, La., PETER HUNTER, at the advanced age of ninety years one month and twenty-six days. He was born in Franklin county, Va., Nov. 12, 1800. His family moved to Kentucky in 1807, where the subject of this sketch was reared, and where he married in 1822. With his own family, and in company with other members of his father's family, he moved to Louisiana in 1847, and settled in Tensas parish, where he lived and labored for forty-three years, seeing his children's children to the third generation—some in the innocence of childhood, some in the bloom of youth, and others in the vigor and prime of life, while he, like a venerable patriarch, bowed low with the weight of years, passed peacefully from their midst to renew his life in the bright realization of a Christian's faith and joyous fruition of a Christian's hope. Though in evil long he took delight, yet that melting view of Calvary's suffering scene smote his breast with a conviction of his guilt, "melted his heart to tenderness and dissolved his eyes in tears." This was in 1872, under the ministration of Rev. B. Clegg, P.C., assisted by the Rev. John Mathews, at a revival meeting held at Waterproof. He accepted the offer of salvation through repentance and faith, and henceforth he walked by faith in a better way.

By reason of his long familiarity with things which he now hated he was often cast down, but never forsaken. Often for a moment overcome by the impetuous charge of his foes, whose name was legion, he as quickly rose triumphant through faith, and in the agony of prayer he clung to the Rock. Thus his last years were spent in conflict with the power of darkness, but panoplied in the armor. A Christian soldier, he was enabled to fight a "good fight." In the midst of "wars without and fears within," he pleaded the promises, till finally, in the sunset of life clouds disappeared, the smoke of battle drifted away, and in happy contemplation of a gracious victory through his Lord and Master, he heard the voice, "Well done!" and he fell asleep.

To all his surviving children, relatives and friends there burns a light along the shore, which, though lit late in life, shines brightly in attestation of an acceptable saying, which Uncle Peter himself often quoted—that "While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return."

B. F. B.

HOLTZCLAW—Mrs. MARY J. HOLTZCLAW, whose maiden name was Daugherty, was born in Talbot county, Ga., July 1, 1832; was married to R. Holtzclaw, Dec. 10, 1850, and died of consumption, at Cotton Valley, La., on the evening of Dec. 24, 1890. When young she joined the Methodist Church.

Thus we see that a few months over fifty-eight years made up the sum of her human existence. "Thou takest away their breath; they die, and return to their dust."

It seems the deceased was favored in that the first day spent in heaven, after quitting the stormy shores of time, was Christmas Day, for if there be a time of more holy joy in those blissful realms than another, it was meet that one, freed from long suffering, should enter upon eternal life amidst the grand hallelujahs of sanctified souls.

Mrs. Holtzclaw gave but little dying testimony, save to tell the loved ones and friends that her "lights were brightly burning," and all was well; and enough this, for her life, as a trusting child of God, stands out a living witness of the saving power of grace through faith. Ever ready to give a reason for the hope of glory, we feel the assurance that, though we no longer see the familiar face in the church militant, she is now numbered with the redeemed of the church triumphant.

May the comforting power of the Spirit abound unto the consolation of the bereaved!

FRIEND.

Texas Christian Advocate please copy.

CALHOUN—Died, near Mt. Olive, Covington county, Miss., Dec. 16, 1890, MARY C. CALHOUN, aged twenty-three years and ten days.

It was our pleasure to know the deceased some years. She was one of the most amiable children we ever knew. She always had a kind word and a pleasant smile for everyone she met. From childhood she loved her Bible, and the wholesome influence of its teachings was seen in her life. She united with the M. E. Church, South, when about fourteen years of age. From that time until her death she was a devoted member of the church.

She bore her afflictions with a degree of saintly fortitude that is characteristic of the true child of God.

We extend to the grief-stricken family our deep sympathy, and commend them to the care of the Great Comforter, who alone can give real comfort.

E. J. CURRIE.

LAUGHRAN—LUENNA MAY LAUGHRAN was born Oct. 6, 1886; was dedicated to God in baptism, Dec. 12, of the same year, and died Jan. 14, 1891. Little Luenna was a child of unusual grace of mind, manners, form and feature; and those qualities, combined with a most lovely disposition and a remarkable readiness to talk sweetly, made her a great favorite with all who knew her and caused her fond parents to almost idolize her. To them she was the light, the joy and hope of life. May God comfort them in their great sorrow, and may the memory of their bright, precious little darling be to them a guardian angel to lead them to the beautiful home to which she has gone!

J. W. MCLAURIN.

COBB—Mrs. TABITHA A. COBB, wife of John S. Cobb, was born Aug. 30, 1855, and died Jan. 21, 1891. Another pure Christian and sweet-spirited wife and mother has crossed over the river of death to rest under the shade of the tree of life.

Just before she breathed her last she said to her sorrowing husband: "All is peace, peace! Don't weep for me." Her gentle voice is hushed in the home on earth. The sweet presence of mother is no more, but is waiting in heaven for the heart-broken husband and children to come. God bless Bro. Cobb and the children, and save them at last in heaven!

G. W. HUFF.

"The Survival of the Fittest."

Almost any man of fifty, in our time, has led a life more crowded with events than the more than nine centuries of Methusaleh. Within the last half century most of the inventions that have revolutionized the world have appeared, with, perhaps, the exception of the steam engine and its application to different modes of conveyance. A middle-aged man can remember when the canal boat was considered a luxurious conveyance, and the journey from Philadelphia to New York required several days. The telegraph was not known, and the wonderful inventions of Edison and others not even dreamed of. But this picture has its dark side. With all the labor-saving appliances and inventions, there is none to relieve the mind. Its activity is increased to meet the demands made upon it. Methusaleh at the age of forty or fifty, with over nine hundred years of life before him, and the consciousness that a trifling sum placed at compound interest would enable him to spend his last days in comfort and even in affluence, could afford to lose an hour, or even a day or two. But now, "time is money," and money is everything. Neither mind nor body can bear the strain, and disease is the result. This is the penalty we pay for our high state of civilization. But is nothing to be done to restore and revitalize us?

If you wish to investigate this subject, send for our brochure of 200 pages. It gives the result of 20 years of study and experience, and is a carefully written work. There is collected, also, a mass of evidence, irrefutable and convincing. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans.

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886, - - - -	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887, - - - -	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888, - - - -	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889, - - - -	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890, - - - -	$551,897.82

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIA, THOS. SEFTON

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $559,348.11.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT MCGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, Joseph Schwartz, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,

(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS.
Telephone—Office and Foundry, 638.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO. Limited or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

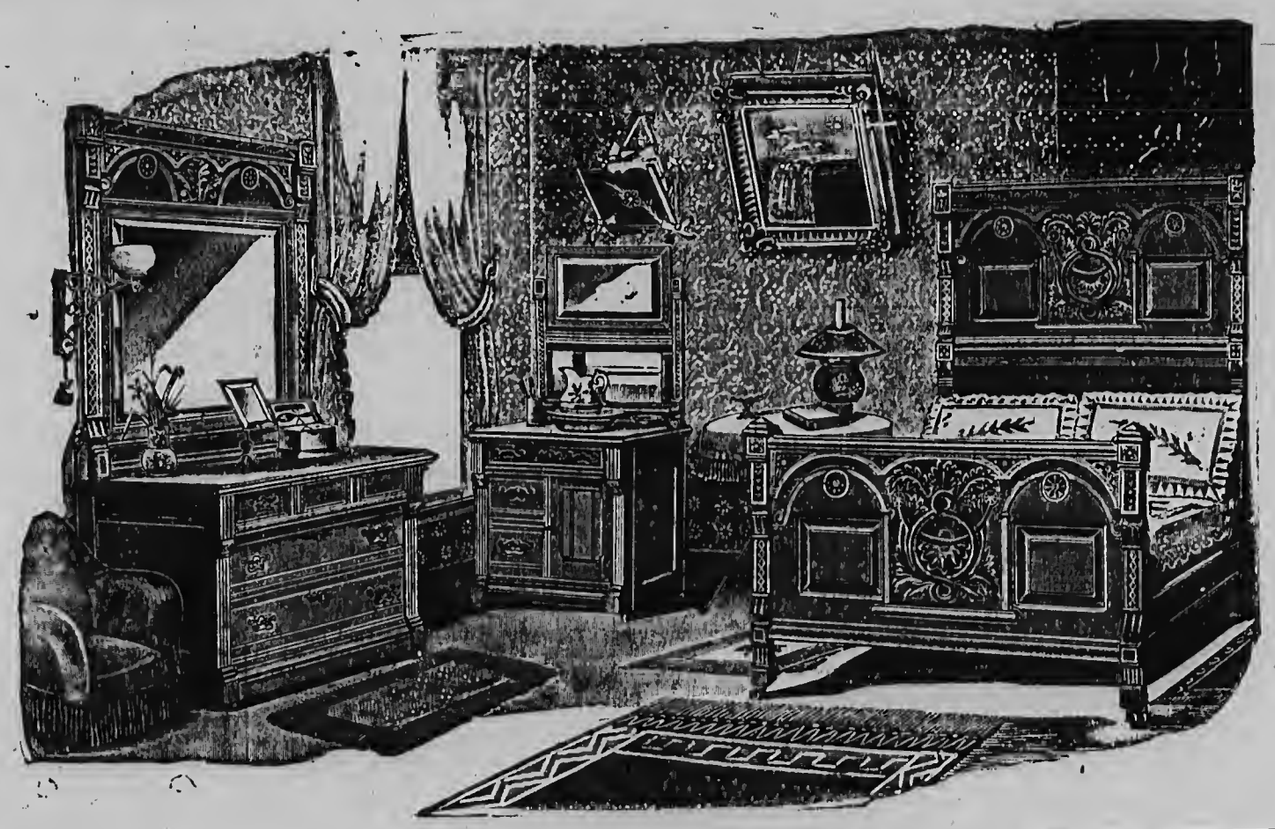
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Velours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Coffeeville	Feb. 21, 22
Oxford	Mar. 1
Tocopola	(Tues.).. 3
Abbeville	7, 8
Water Valley cir.	(Fri.).. 13
Bauner	14, 15
Carrollton	21, 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir.	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Cherry Hill	(Wed.).. 8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Ashland	Feb. 22, 23
Olive Branch	28, Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony	7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. BOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Smithville and Fulton, at Greenbriar..	Feb. 21, 22
Aberdeen	Mar. 1, 2
Fremont, at New Salem	7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	13

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Cockrum	(Thurs.).. Feb. 19
Courtland	(Sat. and Sun.).. 21, 22
Horn Lake	(Thurs.).. 26
Chulahoma	(Sat. and Sun.).. 28, Mar. 1
Mt. Vernon	(Sat. and Sun.).. 7, 8

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Jonesboro circuit, at Ebenezer	Feb. 19
Ripley and New Albany, at Ripley	21, 22
Guntown circuit, at Guntown	28, Mar. 1
Ripley circuit, at Paine's Chapel	5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove	7, 8

W. S. LAGRONE, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Jonestown	Feb. 21, 22
Belen	Mar. 1, 2
Bolivar	7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Coahoma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lebrton	Apr. 4, 5

R. M STANDEFER, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

West	Feb. 21, 22
Rural Hill	24
Lexington	28, Mar. 1
Black Hawk	7, 8

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sturges circuit, at Bethel	Feb. 20
Chester circuit, at Chester	21, 22
Maben circuit, at Maben	27
Walthall circuit, at Walthall	28, Mar. 1

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Porterville circuit, at Narkeeta	Feb. 21, 22
Meridian, at West End	(Thurs.).. 26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar. 1
Meridian, at East End	28, 1
Daleville sta	(Fri.) 6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Blunsville and Wahalak	28, 29

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Pearlington, at Pearlington	Feb. 21, 22
Perry, at Isabella	28, Mar. 1
Americus, at Caswell Springs	7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point	(night).. 8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove	(W., Th.).. 11, 12
Whitfington, at Whitfington	14, 15
Columbia, at Columbia	21, 22
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	28, 29

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Hazlehurst sta	Feb. 21, 22
Bowerton, at Brandywine	28, Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon	(Mon.).. 2
Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	7, 8
China Grove, at Waterholes	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton	(Tues.).. 17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Bahala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Shiloh, at Cato	Feb. 21, 22
Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Mt. Rose, at Holder's	7, 8
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	14, 15
Decatur, at Hebron	17
Raleigh, at Trinity	21, 22
Trenton, at Trenton	22, 23
Marvin, at Marvin	28, 29

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Rocky Springs, at Hermonville	Feb. 21, 22
Burtonton, at Pisgah	(Mon.).. 23
Utica, at Utica	(Wed.).. 25
Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 23

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Live Oak	Feb. 19
Zachary, at Zachary	21, 22
Jackson station	25
Clinton and Betoville, at Clinton	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tallabeck, at Fitzgerald	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Amite City, at Amite City	19
Springfield, at Killian Chapel	21, 22

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Benton, at Bowman's	Feb. 21, 22
Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

DeSoto, at Bethel	Feb. 21, 22
North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Holly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

District Stewards are requested to meet at the Methodist Church, in Shreveport, at ten o'clock A. M., Feb. 25. RUFF. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Centerville, at White Sulphur Springs	Feb. 18, 19
Vidalia and Black R., at Jonesville	21, 22
Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassus	4
Montgomery, at Atlania	7, 8
Colfax and Hoyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beulah	21, 22

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lake Charles	Feb. 21, 22
Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Howasville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

PASTOR'S BOOK—NOW READY.

Messrs. Shaw & Blaylock:

The J. T. L. Annis Pastor's Book has just reached me. I can not commend it too highly to Pastors. In revising it has been brought to a high degree of perfection. No Methodist Pastor should be without it. I am thankful for such a book.

Respectfully, T. L. ADAMS.

The above book, revised and enlarged, can be bought only from the undersigned. Price, postage paid, 50 cents per copy.

SHAW & BLAYLOCK,
Publishers Texas Christian Advocate,
Dallas, Texas.

The railroad which connects the State of Washington and British Columbia was completed on Feb. 14.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption.

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

"For sixty years," says a Baptist deacon, "I have known of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment."

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It can not sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

For pain in the neck and sore throat rub with Salvation Oil. It kills all pain. 25 cents.

For the first time since the rupture the Irish leaders were grouped together in the House of Commons on Jan. 16.

From Seven Thousand Dollars to Twenty-One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Three Dollars.

Twenty-one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three dollars has just been paid by The Mutual Life Insurance Company on an original $7,000 insurance policy.

A result never equaled or even approached by any other company in the world. The fortunate assured was Mr. Charles Dellinger, of Mobile, Ala., who was forty-one years old when he became a member of the company.

RECAPITULATION.

1—Cash value of the dividends 100 per cent. of premiums.

2—Additions to policy 143 per cent. of premiums.

3—Insurance paid 312 per cent. of original amount.

4—Investment, 3 per cent. compound interest.

5—Insured 44 years, from age 41 to age 85.

6—No taxes, care or expense connected with the insurance.

Remember this company is purely mutual; all profits belong to the members. It is also the largest and most profitable company in the world. Mr. T. H. Bowles is the general agent, 120 Common street, New Orleans, La.

A characteristic advertisement in its straightforward business talk is that of J. J. H. Gregory, the veteran seedsman of Marblehead, Mass. Mr Gregory's reputation for fair dealing and exact fulfillment of promises is a hardy annual, and has never failed to justify the entire confidence of his customers. All who want reliable seeds should be sure to send for his 1891 catalogue.

For Fireman's Parade

At New Orleans, March 4, the Mississippi Valley Route will on March 3 and 4 sell round-trip tickets from all stations in Louisiana to New Orleans and return at one and a third fare, good to return until March 5. For rates call on nearest ticket agent, or address P. R. Rogers, General Passenger Agent, Memphis, Tenn.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Admiral David D. Porter, U. S. N., died suddenly on Feb. 13, aged seventy-eight years.

The Louisiana delegation are making every effort to secure a hearing for the levee appropriation bill in the House.

Mr. Blanchard's bill authorizing the Rapides Bridge Company to build a bridge across the Red river at Alexandria has passed the House.

Mr. Blanchard, on Feb. 16, took occasion to rise in the House and denounce as false the story revamped by a correspondent in the Washington Post that 500 negroes were held in chains in Sabine parish. He paid a high tribute to the industry, peacefulness and other good qualities of the people of Sabine.

Gen. W. T. Sherman died in New York City, on Feb. 14, aged seventy-one years. The end was peaceful. The body will be taken from New York on Thursday morning, arriving in St. Louis on Saturday, where it will be buried with military honors. Ransom Post, G. A. R., of which Gen. Sherman was a member, will act as guard of honor.

The proceedings in both Houses of Congress are moving along now as if the prevailing desire was to transact all the necessary business and adjourn. The free coinage question is still a live issue, but the advocates of the measure are not sanguine of success in the face of the small remnant of the session, the opposition of the anti-silver men, and the certainty of a presidential veto.

A committee has been appointed by the joint committee representing all the organizations of union labor in Chicago to confer with the management of the World's Fair, with a view to securing a recognition of union labor in the work to be done on the Fair buildings. If their claims are not recognized they threaten to turn the antagonism of the solid labor element against the enterprise.

The World's Congress Auxiliary of the World's Fair, after three months' work, has just completed and laid before the directory a comprehensive plan for a series of international congresses during the Exposition. The co-operation of distinguished men in politics, science, religion, education, moral and social reforms, literature, law and the artistic in learned professions, has been enlisted.

Parties from the southeast portion of Montague county, Texas, report considerable excitement over a gold and silver find. The vein is six feet wide, and assays $400 to the ton. Coal is found under the ledge of silver, the vein being thirty-seven inches thick, underlaid with nickle, gold and magnetic vein ore. A company has purchased machinery, and expects to begin operations in a few days.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the St. Louis Board of Trade a petition was prepared, asking the Interstate Commission to take some action as to a universal bill of lading, to be used by all the rail transportation lines, that will fix the liability of the carrier according to law, and at the same time furnish the shipper with a proper receipt that will protect his property in transit and secure its delivery or its value to him at the point of destination.

The committee of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States on the revision of the confession of faith, after a harmonious session in Washington, D. C., lasting eleven days, completed its work on Jan. 16, and adjourned. The changes made have generally met with unanimous approval. Its work will be reported to the assembly in Detroit, next May, and by it referred to the Presbyteries for their approval or rejection. The changes made in the statements of the confession have not been of great importance, the committee having in no way impaired the system or doctrines long held by the church.

FOREIGN.

In an interview Mr. Parnell declared that he would not recede from his position, which, he said, was consistent. He would not submit, he said, to the dictation of Mr. Gladstone and the priests. He believed that the general election would not be had for two years yet.

Mr. Wm. O'Brien, the Irish envoy to America, has published a manifesto, claiming that both factions of the Irish party have acted without forethought. He feels confident that the patriotism of the Irish members will lead to any sacrifice of personal feeling for the restoration of national unity.

Emperor William has said that the attacks inspired by Bismarck, while nominally directed against the chancellor, were in reality aimed at himself. He was deprived, he said, by his position, from publicly responding to these attacks. He feared that he would soon be obliged to take severe measures to suppress these attacks, as they were dangerous to the government and the empire.

An unfortunate phase of the dissension in the Irish parliamentary party is that the tenants who refused to pay the rents demanded of them, and who depended upon the leaders of the party for support when they were evicted as a consequence of their refusal, are now unable to secure any assistance, owing to the legal questions which have arisen concerning the ownership of the money deposited in Paris by the National League leaders.

The Cuban delegates who were sent to Madrid to demand a revision of the present system of taxation have returned. They were not very successful. Among the concessions upon which they were instructed to insist was the negotiation of a treaty of reciprocity with the United States to insure the free introduction of sugar and molasses permanently, and to facilitate the exportation of tobacco to the same market.

Very Superior for catarrh and bronchitis, is the verdict for Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	6¾ @	— —
Ordinary	7⅛	— —
Good ordinary	7 11-16	— —
Low middling	8⅜	— —
Middling	8 5-16	— —
Good middling	10⅛	— —
Middling fair	11⅛	— —
Fair	12	— —
Galveston middling	9 8-16	— —
Mobile middling	8⅞	— —
Memphis middling	8 15-16	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4¼	4 5-16
Fully fair	4⅛	— —
Good fair	4⅛	— —
Common	3½	3⅝
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3¾	4 9-16
Prime yellow	5	5⅛
Gray white	— —	— —
Choice white	5⅜	— —
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	— —	— —
Good common	— —	— —
Syrup	— —	— —
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	5⅜	5⅛
Fair	5⅛	5¼
Prime	5⅝	5¾
Rough, ₱ bbl	3 50	5 00
Polish, ₱ ton	22 00	24 00
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 10	5 15
Fancy	4 62½	4 87½
Choice	— —	4 35
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 50	— —
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 00
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 10	3 15
Cream meal	— —	3 30
Grits	3 35	3 40
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	66	68
Yellow	66	67
Mixed No. 2	66	66
OATS:
Western	56	— —
Texas rust-proof	— —	60
BRAN:
₱ cwt	1 20	1 25
HAY:
Prime	15 00	16 00
Choice	16 50	17 00
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	10 75	— —
Prime Mess	10 25	10 50
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8¼	8¾
Shoulders	5	5⅛
Sides, short rib	6	— —
Sides, long clear	6	— —
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9¾	10¼
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅜	4⅝
Sides, short rib	5¼	— —
Sides, long clear	5⅜	5¼
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Ile-No	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	29	30
Western Dairy	17	18
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5⅛	— —
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	28	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	6 00	8 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 25	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	4 50	5 00
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7¾	— —
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₱ yard	— —	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₱ bundle	1 35	— —
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 25	4 50
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	18 00
EGGS:
Western	18	19
Southern	19	20
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₱ lb	3¼	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₱ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, February 17.

HUMORS OF THE BLOOD, SKIN AND SCALP whether itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, pimply, blotchy, or copper-colored, with loss of hair, either simple, scrofulous, hereditary, or contagious, are speedily, permanently, economically, and infallibly cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. CUTICURA REMEDIES are the only infallible blood and skin purifiers, and daily effect more great cures of blood and skin diseases than all other remedies combined.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Blood and Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Backache, kidney pains, weakness, and rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25 cents.

KURSHEEDT'S

Marble Works,

120 and 122 Camp St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Maid for easy Housework—Pearline.

Made to save work and wear in all kinds of washing and cleaning. Made into a powder for your convenience. Made as cheap as pure soap for economy. Made harmless for all purposes for which soap is used. What a friend—a friend who did half your washing and cleaning and made the other half so easy that you did not get too tired to enjoy the time saved; besides made things last longer and look better. That's just what Pearline will do for you if you'll let it. On the back of each package you'll find how it will best befriend you. Every grocer keeps Pearline, and many of your friends use it—ask them about it. You'll use it sooner or later—the sooner the better for both of us.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline," IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back.

180 JAMES PYLE, New York.

PIANOS | P. WERLEIN, | ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition

PIANOS From $325 Upwards

ORGANS From $30 Upwards

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO., L't'd,

18 Baronne and 127 Canal Streets, New Orleans, La.

SOLE AGENTS FOR ALL THE LEADING

PIANOS!

Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Sohmer, Behr, Mehlin, Fischer, Pleyel

Lowest Prices!! Pease, Shoninger, Sterling, etc. Easiest Terms

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO. (Limited), New Orleans.

$20 Odell Typewriter $20

Double Case, 78 characters. A Practical Business Machine. Writing equal to a $100 Machine. Copper faced, Metal Type. No Ribbon. Send for circular.

H. C. WRIGHT, 402 N. 3d St., St. Louis, Mo.

EASTER MUSIC

Of every description for the Church and Sunday School. Complete List is mailed free to any address on application. ADDRESS,

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati,

Root & Sons Music Co., 220 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, ... $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, JR., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.

SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF

"High Grade Bone Fertilizers,"
"Stern's" Ammoniated Bone Superphosphate,
"Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone,
"Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate,
DISSOLVED BONE,
ACID PHOSPHATE,
Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid,
BONE BLACK.

1891. Home Grown, Honest, Reliable. 1891.

I offer you my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1891 FREE. Note the immense variety of seed it contains, and that all the best novelties are there. Not much mere show about it (you don't plant pictures) but fine engravings from photographs of scores of the choice vegetables I have introduced. Would it not be well to get the seed of these from first hands? To be the oldest firm in the United States making mail and express business a specialty proves reliability. Honest and honorable dealing is the only foundation this can rest on. My Catalogue is FREE as usual. A matter on second page of cover will interest my customers. J. J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 9. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1801.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

Young Preachers—No. 5.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

READING THE BIBLE.

There is a many-sidedness in the Bible that no other book possesses. In the matter of variety, no historical, biographical, or religious book is equal to the Book of books. The Bible may be, and has been, read for purposes various and quite distinct. It may be, ought to be, and often is read for devotional purposes. No book is equal to it in this respect. It brings us nearer to God than any human composition. God knows his character better than any finite creature. He can give us more original, thorough, higher and comforting conceptions of his love, holiness, truth and mercy than we can glean from any other source. So the Bible, especially the Psalms, the parables and discourses of our Lord, have been the favorite reading of devout souls seeking to draw nigh to God. The Bible has been carefully read simply to find and enumerate its "great and precious promises," and actual count has shown them to abound to the extent of thousands, and suited to all possible needs. The Bible has been read through to enumerate and study its wonderful prophecies—prophecies extending from the fountain, all along down time's far-wandering stream, until its floods are lost in the ocean of final and eternal consummations. These prophecies relate, as first in importance, to the "seed of the woman"—the "manifesting of God in the flesh;" the light of promise shining more and more, until the "Sun of righteousness" rises, full-orbed, upon a benighted world. These prophecies extend through long ages and many generations. They relate to eminent persons who are to enact great parts upon the stage of human history. They relate to the great kingdoms and empires that have successively led the van of civilization and ruled the world. They relate to the great cities, the mighty centers of vast populations, commerce, wealth and power, as Tyre, Nineveh, and Babylon, and foretell their decay, downfall, ruin, and utter extinction; as improbable, then, as such predictions now would seem about London, Paris, or New York. These prophecies foretell the reception, the opposition, the spread and glorious triumph of the gospel.

The Bible may be read for its descriptions of ancient topography, climates and productions, manners and customs. In no book is oriental scenery and oriental life more graphically or beautifully described. I remember once to have read over the book of Job, supposed to be one of the most ancient of books, in order to see what notices of art and civilization it contained, as marks of the progress of that early time. So also the Holy Scriptures may be read to ascertain the extent and character of its teaching in relation to any important doctrine, as human depravity, divinity of Christ, of the Holy Spirit, extent of the atonement, repentance, justification by faith, regeneration, and the like. Remember, my brother, you are not only to be a reader of the Scriptures, but a close and diligent student of the Scriptures. The Bible contains more curious and wonderful things than any other book. In the course of an extended ministry you will be asked a thousand questions by the curious, and by sincere seekers after light. As a minister, you will be presumed to know and be able to explain much that the masses do not know. It has been said that the Bible is itself the best commentary on the Bible, and practice will convince you that close reading, and comparing one part with another, will explain and clear up many an apparent difficulty. But you will need helps in order to the better understanding of the inspired Word. Such a book as Thompson's "The Land and the Book" will pour light and make luminous many an obscure text. Much in oriental life and surroundings was quite unlike Western Europe and America. The commentaries, the biblical dictionaries, and, above all that I have met with, McClintock's and Strong's Biblical Literature and Biblical Dictionary, combined in one, will help you to understand everything peculiar to the ancient oriental world. Remember the Bible is the great object of your study; upon it all your light must be focalized. Its study is the work of a lifetime, affording continual employment and continual interest, ever increasing your interest and your power to interest others.

(Editorial.)

Leaders Wanted.

Any man under thirty to whom the choice is open between embarking on the actual work of life, and giving more time to preparation and training for it, ought to choose the latter. Never mind the people who say, "A place in the ranks awaits you." Leaders are wanted in the battle of life a great deal more than privates; and if you have opportunity to fit yourself for a higher place, you will, by doing so, best serve God and your neighbor. There is terrible competition for all the positions that anybody can fill; but the world goes hunting for men able to do its most important work, and fit to take command. And to a very large extent, the same thing is true in the church. There are many who are asking that some good work may be given them to do; but there are very few capable of skillfully planning and boldly executing new enterprises which shall further the gospel.—Methodist Times, London.

There is much truth in the above paragraph from our neighbor over the water. "Leaders are wanted in the battle of life a great deal more than privates." This is true of the church of to-day. There are thousands of people in the church to-day who, as far as church work is concerned, amount to so many ciphers. It is even worse than that. They are not only negative; they are positively in the way! Why? Because they have no leaders.

"The world goes hunting for men able to do its most important work, and fit to take command." The church is on the same hunt. The most important work can not be done in the best manner without a trained intellect and a consecrated life. No man is "fit to take command" who does not know the times, and who has not a comprehensive view of the needs of humanity, and who has not placed himself in reach of all resources, and who has not the faith and courage to draw liberally upon those resources.

"There are very few capable of skillfully planning and boldly executing new enterprises which shall further the gospel." In the matter of planning and executing new enterprises, the world outside of the church has far outstripped the world inside of the church. The skillful plans and bold executions which meet us at every turn in the various departments of life's labor fill us with amazement. So rapidly do these achievements flash upon our vision that we stand aghast at our inability to guess what will be the history of to-morrow. Men of that stamp the church greatly needs. The men who plan and execute in the scientific, or mechanical, or other fields, are the men who have made elaborate preparation and had proper training. Let the church prepare and train her leaders, and we shall see what wonders God will bring to pass through their instrumentality.

We believe the Epworth League, if properly managed, will be a good college for training leaders for church work.

Next to the immediate guidance of God by his Spirit, the counsel and encouragement of virtuous and enlightened friends afford the most powerful aid in the encounter of temptation, and in the career of duty.—Robert Hall.

A Haste That Makes Waste.

BY REV. J. P. DRAKE.

MR. EDITOR: I wish to thank you warmly for your well-timed editorial, of February 12, on "Reception of Persons into the Church." I have longed to see some one in your influential position directing attention to this great and growing evil. You say that "sometimes preachers are in too much haste," etc. I fear this has become the rule rather than the exception. Some of our leading men set the example, and very many others follow. The excuse frequently given is, that the candidates may not be back to the next service, or, "You ought to string your fish as you catch them." Not every adage of the angler is applicable to "fishers for men." But many have been deceived by the plausibility of this maxim. I regard that person applying for membership in the church, who is too little concerned to return for another service (in order that our wise law suggesting a private interview with the pastor may be complied with), as not yet a fit subject for church membership. There may arise exceptional cases; but it should be exceedingly rare to receive an applicant into full connection during the very service at which he may apply. Of course, manifest tokens of "joy in the Lord" might warrant deviation from the rule to which you allude, and which, by the way, all of us have vowed to keep, rather than to mend. It is a very holy trust and solemn responsibility with which our church vests its ministers: to be the sole judges of the fitness of candidates for membership in the "body of Christ." Due caution and deliberation are certainly in order on such occasions. Many of the members received as "converts" by other churches would never go in to cumber their ground or prove thorns in their sides if a little more momentous caution were exercised, specially in times of revival meetings. It is often the case on such occasions that persons go forward at the urgent appeal of earnest preachers, who freely use the legitimate goad, "Except ye confess Me, I will deny you." Having gone forward publicly, and being seated before an expectant congregation, they are asked a few "leading questions," similar in import to those contained in our "Form of Reception." These being answered in one way or another, but always satisfactorily—how could it be otherwise under existing conditions?—the candidate is then and there installed to membership in the church. Sadly often these new converts are as irreligious as ever in less than a week.

A similar process is fearfully common in our own church, with this abatement: that our preachers do not teach such members that they are actually converted, and will certainly be saved. We are not writing for other denominations. We will not undertake to correct their ways. It is for our own household of faith we write. If, by any means, we can convince our own brethren that there is error in this way, we shall be supremely satisfied. I am not prepared to say that we should continue to hold applicants at the threshold till they make a distinct profession of conversion. Nor are we in position to say, "ex-cathedra," to any man, "You are converted." The Holy Spirit alone has that office to perform—the witnessing of Jesus. We dare not rush in where "angels fear to tread." The authorities of our church, whom I have heard and read, do not seem consentaneous as to the meaning of that expression, "the genuineness of their faith." Some hold it implies conversion; others are equally confident it means simply a right view of the plan of salvation. Whichever may be correct, it is reasonably certain that the pastor who has no previous interview to learn the state of a candidate's mind and heart is incapable of being satisfied with the "genuineness" of his "faith." A simple assent to the regulation query, "Do you ratify the baptismal covenant?" does not cover the ground. The circumstances preclude the candidate from making any but a satisfactory answer—more obviously so if the words of the answer are given by the administrator, and thus "put into the mouth" of candidate.

Again: By the plan now criticised, it is not easy to see how the pastor is satisfied that the object is willing to keep the rules of the church when he does not know whether those rules have been read and understood. It is my conviction that we violate both the letter and spirit of a most admirable law whenever we undertake to rush persons into the church, as is so often done. Then it certainly detracts from the sweet solemnity of this act of consecration to have it done with such want of deliberation.

Once more: By such haste the pastor loses the golden opportunity of instructing and warning the new member on points very needful to such an one. There is no pastoral duty so sweet and sacred as this. Some of the most satisfactory work of my ministry has been in preparing individuals and classes for a considerate entrance into the church of their choice. Finding that many members of all the churches have no intimate acquaintance with the Ten Commandments, I have lately begun to require a substantial knowledge of this fundamental of practical piety before admission to all the privileges of God's children. If we are "to obediently keep God's holy will and commandment," we ought surely to know some epitome thereof.

Brethren, in keeping our rules, preachers and people will find a great reward.

Greenville District.

BY REV. W. W. WOOLLARD.

The work of the Greenville district last year was the best in its history, and I dare to say that there are few districts in Southern Methodism that did as well. In all departments, save one, there was material advancement. This one exception was church building. The spirituality of the church here is increasing with the rapid decline of worldliness. There is less of dancing, theater-going, and the like, here than before. The people attend church more regularly, and more people attend than heretofore. The members are interested in the work of the church at large, and watch closely its development.

The good ladies of the district are still carrying on their noble work to the success merited. A more courageous and self-sacrificing company of women are not to be found than those of this Delta district. They love the church. In the earlier days of the work here they kept the church together. Barbara Heck's devotion to the church has been duplicated many times in the Greenville district. Many of our churches have been organized through the instrumentality of the women. They have organized and held together the Sunday-school, and brought the men out to church. The preacher was received by the ladies. They found a home for him, provided for him, collected his salary, and, in short, did nearly all that was done. Under Mrs. Robert Somerville, district secretary, the W. M. S. has grown from one to eight or ten auxiliaries in the past four years. In it there is much interest manifested, and auxiliaries are continually increasing.

The white population of this country is small. The proportion of whites and blacks is about 1 to 4. The membership, therefore, of our church here can not be equal to that of the hill districts. But we are growing in membership. Last year the increase was 15 per cent. One notable thing about the accessions here is that the people are converted and join the church all along during the year, and do not delay, waiting for summer—protracted meeting time—as is too often the case in many places. There have already been many conversions and accessions since Conference, and we hope to have more than fifteen per cent. growth this year.

A more liberal people would be hard to find. They are not all wealthy, nor do the few wealthy pay all. The young men who have nothing save a salary pay liberally and cheerfully to the church. Last year the district paid $13 50 per capita to the church, besides much that was given to Millsaps College. Thus, while we are advancing on other lines, we are keeping pace financially.

The work this year has started off well. Our presiding elder, Rev. R. M. Standifer, is around regularly to his appointments, with cheering words from all over the district. Bro. Standifer is an earnest worker, and has the interest of the work at heart. He reports the district in better condition than ever before. From some of the preachers I have heard directly.

Bro. Dorman, at Concordia, has just finished a new parsonage at Gunnison, and is now having the church moved there. For some time he has been preaching and holding Sunday-school in the residence of Mr. G. L. Wren. The old river town, Concordia, is dead, everything having moved to Gunnison. The charge hereafter will be Gunnison instead of Concordia.

Bro. Owen, at Bolivar, is going to have the church there repaired temporarily, and intends to build this fall at Lobdale's.

From Jonestown we have good reports. Bro. Lipscomb is continuing the good work commenced there by Bro. Randolph. A ladies' prayer meeting, organized by Sister Lipscomb, is well attended, and doing good work.

Rev. W. C. Harris, at Arcola and Hollandale, says he is to have a new church at Arcola dedicated soon.

All will be saddened to learn of the serious illness of Bro. Randolph's wife. The last intelligence received was that she was better. He is much cheered with the way God has blessed him in his work at Clarksdale. Since Conference he has had some conversions and accessions. Our District Conference will be held there this year.

The Friar's Point people are much pleased with their new preacher, Rev. J. H. Shumaker. He is preparing to repair the parsonage.

The church at Rosedale is still growing. We are getting new members, and congregations are good. We are going to have our new church dedicated this spring.

Rosedale, Miss.

Church Extension Anniversary.

The anniversary exercises of the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be held at the First Methodist Church, in Little Rock, Ark., March 20–22, with the following programme:

FRIDAY, MARCH 20.

7:30 P. M.—"Organized Christianity." Address by Rev. E. E. Hoss, D. D.

SATURDAY, MARCH 21.

10 A. M.—Bishop Galloway in the chair. 1. "What Have We Done?" Answered by Rev. J. C. Morris, D. D., assistant secretary of the Board, followed by brief speeches by others. 2. "Rich Saints Helping Poor Saints." Paper by Bishop Fitzgerald. 3 P. M.—Bishop Fitzgerald in the chair. 1. "What Do We Propose?" Answered by Rev. David Morton, D. D., secretary of the Board, followed by suggestions from others. 2. "The Province and Work of the Annual Conference Boards." Paper by Rev. J. M. Beard, D. D. 7:30 P. M.—"Our Work in the Older States." Address by R. W. Jones, LL.D.

SUNDAY, MARCH 22.

11 A. M.—Sermons and collections at all our churches in Little Rock, to be arranged by the pastors. 7:30 P. M.—Night services, to be arranged by the pastors.

The Woman's Parsonage and Home Mission Society will hold Saturday, March 21, 3 P. M., a meeting for the ladies, conducted by Miss Lucinda B. Helm, general secretary. Sunday, March 22, 3 P. M., a mass meeting, to be addressed by Bishop Galloway.

Letter from Mexico.

MR. EDITOR: Yesterday our little society met. Ten were present, and I was much interested in the reports of visits and conversations in Catholic homes between our Bible woman, Mrs. Zubillaga, and the Catholics. I also asked the teacher, Miss Roldan, to give some account of her work. She said: "Sometimes it seems as if we are doing nothing, and a feeling of discouragement so oppresses us we feel all is lost. But in the last several weeks two of the largest girls in our school have joined our church—one in San Andres, and the other in Nahanciatan; so," she says, "little by little we are doing something for Christ." She said a very bright, interesting little girl was coming to school with a rosary around her neck. She asked her why she wore it. She told her her mother placed it around her neck to shield her from all danger; that it was God's protection, etc. Miss Roldan talked to the child of how useless and worthless it is, and she has cast it aside, refusing to wear it any more.

We have now quite a number of Catholics in our school, and I hope great things from some of them. We have one beautiful little girl from the aristocracy, who is much interested in learning English. I have had an opportunity of exchanging kindly greetings with both her father and mother, and the little one comes to kiss me morning and evening. If we might win all these children to accept Christ as their only Savior, how happy we would be!

The archbishop of Mexico is dead, and his body now lies in state in the great cathedral.

God grant that Mexico may awake to a glad new day, and believe in the "Man of Galilee," Christ the Lord. Sometimes I feel like crying out, because our people do not realize the urgent needs of these poor, dying people. The sad-faced women seem constantly to reproach us. I daily ask myself, What can I do more for them? I know they are without God and without hope in the world. The shackles that bind them we seem powerless to unloose. But when I can look away from our weakness and helplessness to the all-powerful One, I feel comforted. We need your sympathy and your prayers. Do not withhold them, but give us words of cheer. May God bless you all! Pray for Mexico and for us.

S. G. WEEMS.

An Open Letter to Our Friends.

Our collections for 1890 were in advance of those of any previous year, and yet the demands upon us are so numerous that we need $10,000 more to meet only the cases which are most pressing, and should be met before the close of our fiscal year.

The above sum will help thirty-one churches, in amounts ranging from $100 to $750 each, and scattered from Oregon to Florida, from Maryland to Mexico, and from Virginia to California, thus enabling them to complete their houses during the coming building season.

One brother, to whom these facts were made known, sent us $1,000; two others $100 each, and several have responded in sums running from $25 to $100 each, to Dr. Morris' appeals, and, besides, we both have secured pledges for other round amounts.

Now, my dear brother or sister, can you not undertake to complete one or more of these churches by sending us, as a free-will offering, the needed amount within thirty days of this date? Or, if you can not do this, get one or more persons to join you in sending the amount. Form a club, and let us have the money, or send us what you can, and we will add it to any similar smaller sums we may have.

We need $750 for one church, $600 for another, $500 each for six others, $400 each for seven others, $350 for one other, $300 each for six others, $200 each for six others, and $100 each for five others.

Please write and remit to undersigned at No. 705 W. Chestnut street, Louisville, Ky.

DAVID MORTON, Cor. Sec.

February 20, 1891.

P. S.—Will not every preacher in charge in the connection, who can do so, take his church extension collection early in March, and forward proceeds at once to his Conference treasurer? This would bring great relief to these churches. D. M.

Out of the Ring, but Not without Hope.

At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees for Millsaps College, they passed a resolution that Jackson, Winona and Grenada are suitable places for the location, thereby leaving out Holly Springs; but, as it is known that some of the trustees who voted for this resolution would favor Holly Springs as a second choice, we still hope that when they meet on March 11, that if they should fail to agree on any one of the three places, that they will visit us, as a body, and make us a proposition. Therefore, we do not propose to court, but to be courted, and shall keep ourselves, as Bishop Galloway expresses it, "in a state of amiable receptivity." Letters still come from our leading men stating that this is, by all odds, the place for the college; that it will save both Millsaps College and Centenary. J. W. HONNOLL.

Holly Springs, Miss., Feb. 23, 1891.

Nothing is great enough for him to admire, who is infinite Majesty; nothing is mean enough for him to despise, who is infinite Mercy.—Mason.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEB. 26, 1891.

CRADLE SONG.

BY SAXE HOLM.

Like a cradle rocking, rocking—
Silent, peaceful, to and fro,
Like a mother's sweet looks dropping
On the little face below,
Hangs the green earth swinging, turning,
Jarless, noiseless, safe, and slow;
Falls the light of God's face bending
Down and watching us below.

And as feeble babes that suffer,
Toss and cry and will not rest,
Are the ones the tender mother
Holds the closest, loves the best.
So when we are weak and wretched
By our sins weighed down, distressed,
Then it is that God's great patience
Holds us closest, loves us best.

O, great heart of God! whose loving
Can not hindered be, nor crossed,
Will not weary—will not even
In our death itself be lost.
Love divine! of such great loving
Only mothers know the cost;
Cost of love which, all love passing,
Gave a Son to save the lost.

The Scarritt Bible and Training-School for Missionaries and Other Christian Workers.

Dear Brother: "And I entreat thee also, true yoke-fellow, help those women which labored with me in the gospel." What more fitting time to obey Paul's injunction than in the glad Easter season with its precious message of a risen Lord first given to the disciples by "Mary Magdalene and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and the other women that were with them, who came early to the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared." God speed the noble women of our day as they prepare to tell their heathen sisters of their risen Lord!

After twelve years of faithful labor, the Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, report the sum of $500,000 raised for missionary work in China, Brazil, the Indian Territory and the Mexican Border. Valuable property has been secured in all these countries, and a company of faithful workers has been maintained in the field. Substantial progress has been made in reaching the women and children by means of the instruction given in the schools and by visitation in the homes of the people. As the work has begun to develop, the need of trained workers has become very urgent, and the last General Conference, at the unanimous request of the Woman's Missionary Society, ordered that "the Woman's Board shall have authority to establish and maintain a Bible and training-school under its auspices, control and management, for the education of missionaries and other Christian workers, provided that the collections of this society shall not be used for said school, except such as may be specially given for that purpose." This action properly maintains intact the funds collected for sending out and sustaining missionaries, and puts the training-school upon its own merits before the church. Easter Sabbath has, therefore, been selected by the Woman's Board as the time to ask for such special collections throughout the church.

The late Rev. Dr. Nathan Scarritt tendered to the Board a choice location in Kansas City, Mo., and the sum of $25,000 in cash, on the condition that $25,000 additional be raised by the friends of the enterprise, and that a suitable building be erected to cost no less than $50,000. His death the day after the acceptance of his offer, and his life-long devotion to missions, led the Woman's Board to name the school "The Scarritt Bible and Training-school for Missionaries and other Christian Workers." The Board of Managers have been duly incorporated under the laws of Missouri, and a bond for a deed has been given for the site of the training-school. The agent, Miss Belle H. Bennett, assisted by Mrs. M. D. Wightman, has already in hand $15,000, leaving only $10,000 more to be raised before the contract can be let for the building. By the terms of the charter no debt is permitted, and hence it is necessary that the funds be all in hand at an early day, so that work may begin on the building in time to open the training-school not later than September, 1892.

As the name denotes, special attention is to be given to the study of the Bible, book by book, including interpretation and normal Bible class work, so that each student will have experience in teaching the Bible, based on careful study of the history and contents of each book. Christian evidences and church history will receive much attention. The great mission fields and the best methods of access to the minds and hearts of the heathen women and children will be carefully studied. During the two years' course ample attention will be given to physiology, hygiene, care of the sick, so that skilled nurses may take with them the proper knowledge of the human body, and the ability to minister wisely in the sick-room, and thus secure better access to the homes for the religion of Jesus. Instruction will be given also in sacred song, and in the keeping of accounts, and actual experience will be had in missionary work, that the missionary may go out with a full knowledge of the work, and the best ways of doing it.

With such a work in view, on behalf of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and of the managers of the training-school, I confidently ask the friends of humanity and missions for their generous aid, that this noble institution may be opened at an early day for the prosecution of its Christ-like work.

Let every pastor and Sunday-school superintendent co-operate on Easter Sabbath by securing liberal contributions from the congregation and the Sunday-school toward the building fund of the training-school.

E. R. HENDRIX,
Pres. Board of Managers.

Let all collections be forwarded to Miss Belle H. Bennett, Richmond, Ky., who will receipt for the same.

Convalescent Home.

There has been a long-felt need of a suitable home for convalescent patients discharged from the Charity Hospital. Many came from this place destitute of friends, money, and too feeble to work.

About a year ago Capt. R. Parker, missionary to the Charity Hospital, opened a home at No. 39 Claiborne street, where he has been doing a noble work for Christ and humanity.

Here the convalescent finds comfortable quarters, good food, and, better than all, is under the influence of a thoroughly consecrated Christian gentleman. Since its opening, the Home has admitted 288 patients, as follows: United States, 120; England, 30; Ireland, 20; Germany, 30; Scotland, 18—the balance from different parts of the world. Besides this, over 250 meals have been given to the destitute poor. On visiting the Home I found everything nicely kept; cleanliness and order characterize the conduct of the institution. It is a place where prayer is wont to be made.

This is entirely a work of faith. In answer to prayer Bro. Parker has received all the temporal help that has enabled him to conduct this enterprise. From day to day his faith has been signally rewarded by gifts of money and other necessaries. I most heartily commend this work to all Christian people for their prayers and financial support. Visit the Home, and you will be sure to help according to your ability. F. N. PARKER.

One-Gallus Boys.

Some years ago I heard an eminent educator say, "A boy would never amount to much who always was indulged in the luxury of two suspenders." For many years I have been watching the "one-gallus boys," and in their struggles for an honorable station among men I have seen exhibitions of courage that would put a Napoleon to shame. Those of us who read history and biography truly and correctly find in every man of worth and eminence a fiber of coarseness. Adversity's severe school, the scenes of hardship and toil, develop this stern quality—"the one thing needed"—in a leader of men.

It is said that boys reared in a city are sooner developed than those reared in the country. This may be so, but this premature development generates no reserve power to meet the emergencies of life. Something of his moral sensibilities is deadened. It is possible for a boy to be helped, trained, cultured until all the elements of true manhood are dead in him. My one-gallus boys succeed because early in life they learn the great lesson of self-reliance.

I am not writing to discourage boys who have good opportunities. If you have free access to unlimited means, I sincerely pity you and tremble to contemplate your future. If you desire, enter the best college in the land, graduate with first honors. Assisted by your powerful pedigree, enter with high hopes the profession of your choice, and from some thatched-roof cottage I will start a one-gallus boy after you who will outstrip you in every conflict of life. We exhibit our noblest qualities when misfortune overtakes us. The true man is the one who can meet successfully the crises, the emergencies that assail us all along our pathway. In these trying hours the weak go down—the demon drink or the suicidal bullet end the tragic scene. The men who survive the trying ordeal are prepared for it by the training of days and years in self-help and support. These boys are taught in nature's school. Flowers, birds, rocks, streams and the starry heavens are their teachers. They grow into manhood, strong in mind and body, with souls unstained by sin. Some of us may laugh at the "mill boy of the slashes" now; but when he takes his seat in the United States Senate, and twice averts a civil war, we will say, "How proud we are of Henry; he came from this very neighborhood."

I am completely disgusted with that class of boys who stand on the street corners, poisoning the air with the fumes of a mean cigar, and are begging somebody to help them educate themselves. A boy ought never to be assisted who looks upon labor with contempt. If he has not enough force and shift about him to educate himself, there is not enough manhood in him to accomplish anything if the public were to educate him. I have heard the Macedonian cry, "Let us help these worthy young men," and I have seen the shining shekels flow into the pockets of these "worthy young men," and all through life these soft-handed, white-livered imitations of humanity utter the sad, plaintive cry, "Help, help, or I perish!"

A few years ago the writer was present when a collection was taken up to send to college a young man who was preparing for the ministry. Then, as now, I was opposed to it. A zealous brother remonstrated with me for refusing to "assist such a 'brilliant young man.'" The young man had always worn better clothes than I could afford, spent more money for pastime, and had a much easier time, and I felt under no obligations to assist him. But the good sisters rallied around him, and he left for college with a full purse. Six months later he went to a ball in a state of partial intoxication, disgraced himself generally, and the last I knew of him he was a brakesman on a railroad.

Anybody with a spark of true manhood in him would scorn with indignation such proffered help. The host of "one-gallus boys" ask no alms; for they are not beggars. They only demand honest, fair dealings. All over this fair Southland of ours there is a vast army of true hearts and brave hands growing into strong manhood and womanhood—young people who are building for themselves a tower that will stand for centuries to come as the living, enduring embodiment of true devotion to their better selves. And they are going to plant the standard of Christian intelligence high upon the hills of immortality, and while the breezes from the eternal world play around the precious old ensign, they will scale the mount of God, and as kings and conquerers they will witness the passing cycles of eternity. W. N. LEWIS.

Kilmichael, Miss.

Is It Missionary Ground?

In regard to the question of domestic missions, there are a few thoughts additional to those previously expressed by me which I desire to present for the consideration of the thoughtful reader.

There are two documents that we must have in order to fully understand what I am going to suggest, or to properly appreciate it, viz.:

1. We must have the official census of our population.

2. We must have a reliable township map of the State.

The first I found in an uncompiled form in the office of the Secretary of State at Baton Rouge—the official census of Louisiana for 1890, taken by order of the Legislature of 1888.

The second help I obtain from Crane's Township Map of Louisiana.

If a third help is necessary, we will find that in the Discipline.

Below are a list of parishes, with the number of inhabitants, outside of the city of New Orleans, which comprise a part of the Louisiana Conference.

St. Bernard	3,933
Plaquemine	12,553
Jefferson	13,347
Lafourche	22,803
Torrebonne	20,451
Assumption	19,293
Iberville	20,243
West Baton Rouge	9,204
Point Coupee	19,656
St. James	16,706
St. John Baptist	11,038
St. Martin	16 098
Ascension	—*
St. Charles	—*
Population outside of New Orleans, exclusive of the parishes of Ascension and St. Charles	185,385
Estimated population of Ascension and St. Charles	26,512
Total population of fourteen parishes	211,897

*Not obtainable.

To supply this vast population with the gospel, as we believe and teach it, we have four ministers—viz.: In the extreme northern part of this territory, covering an area of 10,260* square miles, two preachers; in the southeast, one preacher, and in the extreme southern part one preacher.

Here are four preachers occupying about one-seventh or, perhaps, one-sixth of our entire State. If, indeed, we confine our calculations to Conference lines, ignoring State lines, we may confidently claim that about one-fifth of the territory embraced in our Conference bounds has had assigned to it four preachers out of a force of over ninety effective preachers.

In this population of 211,897 souls, our church has 209 members, leaving 211,688 in exactly the same condition as the people of Mexico and Brazil.

In the city of New Orleans, with a population of 236,300—only 24,400 more than are in this section of country occupied exclusively by four men—thirteen preachers have been assigned to duty. Yet we are sagely told that our cities are being neglected.

*This area is greater than both Rhode Island and New Jersey combined.

It is possible that some of the preachers bordering on this territory preach at a few points; but for all practical purposes we may describe the circuit of this neglected region by a line on the map from the mouth of Pearl river, or the Rigolets, due west to Bayou Teche; thence down the Teche to the Gulf of Mexico; thence along the coast east and north back to the Rigolets. This line, from east to west, would be about 175 miles; from north to south, along Bayou Teche, about 150 miles, and the coast line about 200 miles. (Note I do not calculate for the irregularities of the Teche and coast line, but "as the crow flies," from point to point.) This boundary includes a part of St. Mary's, Iberia and St. Landry parishes not included in the estimate of population, and will more than offset a few appointments along the border where there are occasional services by our preachers. Is this missionary ground?

ST. BERNARD.

Good Literature Cheap.

Dear Brethren: There is certainly no more important work of the present day than that of putting in the homes of our people good literature; so let us make a strong effort to place in each Methodist family in our bounds the following books: A Discipline, McTyeire's History of Methodism, Mrs. Wilson's From the Orient, or Dr. Wadsworth's Coming Kingdom; the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, supplying each church with our own hymn book, and each Sunday-school with a good library and any other good book that we may. Do this, and what splendid results will follow! Here is an example: A lady having read Dr. Black's book, and From the Orient, paid more to Conference collections than quarterage, though her assessment was liberal. This ought to be the standard, and, no doubt, will be when the gleaming light of good literature is thrown on the minds and consciences of all the people. It was one of the chapters in Mrs. Wilson's book that so stirred the sainted Clara Chrisman, that she gave herself to missionary work. Why not turn on the light?

We shall take pleasure in furnishing you any book you may want at publishers' prices. I will also furnish you any of the books from our own House; so write me when you want a book. Can give you course for Epworth League at price of Publishing House; the Conference course of study you can get. You may order your Sunday-school literature through me. Will supply you most reasonably with your sermon and letter paper. Superb family Bibles at $3 and $5; beautiful Oxford Bibles. I shall make a specialty of a splendid selection of books for children and young people. I invite correspondence, solicit orders, and ask your hearty co-operation in this very important work.

Bishop Asbury said that whatsoever he had accomplished in his life's work, he knew now in his declining years, as he distributed good books, that he was sowing good seed.

Fraternally,
W. D. DOMINICK,
Sup't Colportage, Miss. Conf.

I can supply anyone, who wishes, with Dr. Black's book, and Life of Bishop Pierce.

The Church and Prohibition.

In Bro. Sandell's comment on my protest against the local option clause in the resolutions by the Mississippi Conference, he says my reflections do not come in good taste, and are a misrepresentation of the Methodist Church. I deny the allegation. There is nothing in my protest to justify such a conclusion. I have a high esteem and brotherly love for the Mississippi Conference and its Bishop. It is not all of the Methodist Church, nor less liable to mistakes than similar bodies. I love the Methodist Church because of the doctrines it holds and teaches, and I love it the more because it favors the most advanced movement for the extirpation of the liquor traffic. At this advanced stage of the movement, if it should refuse to co-operate or give its aid in favor of constitutional prohibition, and substitute local option as its method of opposing the saloon power, I would ask for a letter of withdrawal. Bro. Sandell says, "The principle of prohibition is in our church Constitution, and we want it in the Constitution of every church and State." So do I. That means prohibition for everyone in Church and State. Local option does not mean that. It means protection to the saloon in every county outside of the counties that were strong enough to vote dry. I think I am justified in saying that there was a large sentiment in the Conference not in favor of that clause in the resolutions. Resolutions that do not express the majority sentiment of a body are sometimes hurried through. Bro. Sandell correctly says that I object to local option, and favor constitutional prohibition. He says that I do not tell how to get it. I might have been a little more explicit had I not known Methodists, especially the preachers, have been in the prohibition work in Mississippi from its beginning, and know perfectly well that they got local option by asking and working for it. I know no other way of getting constitutional prohibition, or anything else. The prohibitionists in our State asked the last Legislature to pass a statutory law, but the politicians and some of our good friends were not ready. Next, the prohibitionists presented a memorial to the Constitutional Convention, asking that the saloon be put in line with other less evils in the new Constitution; but some of our local option brethren and friends were not ready for it, and for want of their assistance, co-operation, and influence, we were defeated. It may not be in good taste to tell the truth if it happens to hit a preacher. I am entitled to their sympathies, as they are often censured for telling the truth. Bro. Sandell thinks I am mistaken—if not, the mistake of the Conference ought to be corrected. I think so, too. I will submit the case to the members of the Conference, and let them decide whether local option does or does not give aid and comfort to the saloons and its friends. I should be surprised if a man can be found in the Mississippi Conference who does not know that local option and high license are the only hope of the liquor traffic. So we must give aid and comfort to the pernicious business and its friends when we give our influence and support to local option and high license. It is our duty to deal with the issue as it exists to-day regardless of the conditions when local option was granted. The issue to-day is State and National prohibition. Liquor men and politicians are pleading for local option and high license, and if preachers of the gospel and true lovers of prohibition get on the enemies' side, and larger guns than mine are turned on them, they may expect to get hurt. With due respect for the views of those who differ with me, I do not think that half of the State getting partial prohibition under local option is a sufficient reason for advocating it. If we had asked and worked for a statutory law, the results might have been greater. If not, we would have been building on a solid foundation, instead of teaching and crystallizing a sentiment in favor of what is the enemies' only hope. HENRY WARE.

Pass Christian, Miss.

A Correction Made.

I note in the Minutes of last session, Mississippi Conference, errors and omissions, as follows: The assessment for myself was $500, and $570 was paid; not $600 assessed, as reported. I am made to have reported four adults baptized, when there was none. The omission is the fact of my ordination, under the question, Who are ordained deacons?

I do not know how these things occurred, of course; but, as to my report, the stubs in my possession bear me out in the correction I desire made, as well as the facts in the case. One does not enjoy being represented $30 short, when really $70 long, as in my case.

Please make correction in accordance with the above, and oblige,

Yours in Christ,
W. G. FORSYTH.

An Inquiry.

Will you make inquiry through your columns if anyone knows anything of a bundle of books addressed to me in care of the Conference, which convened at Monroe, La.? I inquired of the postmaster of Monroe, and he said he delivered them to the Conference; but I never have been able to trace them. Perhaps some of the brethren may know something of them. I inquired of Bro. White, but he knew nothing of them.

Very respectfully,
L. B. HESTER.

Downsville, La.

FROM THE WORK.

FROM HATTIESBURG, MISS.

I have undertaken to write, at least, three several times to the ADVOCATE since the last session of our Mississippi Conference; and, before finishing some more thrilling incident than the one I would note, has caused me to defer for the "convenient season" to say all I wished to say of persons and things. I have never known, in so brief a period, such mortality among our ministers and their families as has been since the Conference at Canton—Hays, Marshall, Featherstun, the wives of two or three others, and lastly, the daughter of Bro. Geo. Bancroft. Thank God they all died well! The Lord will raise up others to fill their places.

We are all pleased with our new pastors here. Bro. Parker is laying out his work systematically, and upon a scale that, I think, will develop our church at Hattiesburg. The harness of presiding eldership sets well on Bro. Meungor. He takes to his work like a true and faithful man of God. I am sure it will be good for him and the church that he was sent to us.

After the lapse of nearly twenty-five years, I was privileged to sit at the board of the loved and lamented Bishop Paine on last Thursday. His venerable wife still lives and enjoys good health. His sons (three) with their wives and children all live together with their mother at the old homestead in Aberdeen. I occupied the same seat at the table where I sat twenty-five years ago just on the right of Bishop Paine. His seat is now filled by one of his noble sons. What a treat it was to be there once more and to feel in our heart that although in heaven with God our Father, still the beloved Bishop was present in spirit with his loved household.

H. J. HARRIS.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Supposing some items may be of interest, I send the following: In the Minutes of the last Conference the appointments, as given, differ from the present list. The vacancy at Covington, La., caused by the death of Rev. J. D. Haya, has been filled by Rev. J. C. Campbell. The vacancy at Woodville, Miss., will be filled by Rev. H. W. Featherstun, the son taking the place of the ascended father. Rev. Geo. W. Huff is junior supply on North Wilkinson circuit, Rev. W. T. Woodward the supply for Amite mission, and Rev. P. M. Brown to assist his father on Bayou Sara circuit. Every place was promptly filled, and, I trust, with such workmen as will bring in many sheaves for the Master. The preachers went promptly to the various fields of labor, and have, no doubt, done their best; but the continued bad weather and the widespread sickness (la grippe) have hindered much, especially in the rural sections. The quarterage collections are short; so much so that I fear some of the preachers are not properly supported. Upon the return of open weather we hope to see improvement along all lines of church work.

We have arranged to have a District Sunday-school Conference, June 4, and the District Conference, June 5, 6, at Woodville, Miss. Bishop Galloway is to preside over the District Conference.

We are glad to note the precious revival influence in Centenary College.

Bro. Carley is doing good work in Jackson, La., station.

C. MCDONALD.

Jackson, La.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Our work on this district has been hindered somewhat by bad weather and bad roads; also many of the preachers have been troubled with the prevailing malady, la grippe. Am about half through my first round of Quarterly Conferences (and with me it is the first). Find some of the charges doing well—preachers cheerful, people pleased; others not so good.

Last Saturday and Sunday (Feb. 7 and 8) was spent with Bro. Faunt LeRoy at Alexandria. From everything I can gather, by close observation and careful study, I would say he is the right man in the right place.

The Methodists of this growing little city on the "Red" seem to be taking on new life. They have made a liberal allowance for their pastor. Already repairs have been put on the parsonage to the amount of $135, or more. New roof, new papering, and painting, and everything begins to look cheerful and inviting. This is as it should be. The day has passed when we can succeed as a church, with our preachers housed in leaky, dilapidated, forbidding-looking parsonages, at starvation rates. Give our preachers comfortable homes and something to eat, and they will preach not a better gospel—there is but one the best; but they will preach this glorious, good gospel in a better manner.

Alexandria promises well. Bro. B. F. White laid a good foundation. Bro. Faunt LeRoy will test its strength, and build on it wisely.

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR.

Bunkie, La.

OKOLONA CIRCUIT, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

At the last meeting of the North Mississippi Conference I knocked at the door for admission on trial, and the brethren were kind enough to receive me, for which act I am very thankful. The business of the Conference was of great interest to me, never having attended one before; and, being a young man, I felt little concern as to my field of labor for the year. But, to my surprise, when Bishop Galloway read the appointments I was read out for Okolona circuit. Coming immediately to the work, I found a people ready to receive the preacher sent them. I have made two rounds on my circuit, and find the churches, in the main, in a good condition. We have but one Sunday-school in operation—all the others suspended on account of the mud and bad roads. We have two prayer meetings doing good work. I am praying, expecting a year of much good results. The people are going to help me in the work of the Lord, and we all look forward to the time when the refreshing showers of grace divine shall come from the presence of the Lord.

R. B. YOUNG, P. C.

Sunday-School Lesson—March 1.

THE SHUNAMITE'S SON.

II. Kings iv, 25-37.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them."—John v, 27.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. The Mother (vs. 25-28). II. The Servant (vs. 28-31). III. The Child (vs. 32-37.)

MEMORY VERSES.—32-34.

REFERENCE WORD.—"Son."

TIME.—About 895 B. C.

PLACES.—The residence of Elisha at Carmel, and the Shunamite's home at Shunem, a town between Samaria and Carmel.

INTRODUCTION.

After the incident of healing the impure waters at Jericho, recorded in our last lesson, Elisha proceeded to Bethel, then to Mount Carmel, and thence to Samaria. We learn this from what is recorded in the last verses of the second chapter. It was at Bethel that the destruction of the children by bears occurred. Elisha was busy with his mission all this time. After administering a deserved rebuke to King Jeboram, he lent him aid by procuring water for his army. Soon after he performed another miracle in multiplying the widow's oil. It was because of his frequent visits to the village of Shunem that a well-to-do woman of that place determined to give him a stopping-place. She even built an extra room to her house, so that he might have the more comfort. This "great woman" forms a most interesting feature of our present study.

I.—THE MOTHER.

Verse 25. The lesson opens with the child of this woman dead. The intervening verses give us a picture of her grief of heart at the bereavement. She hurriedly made preparations and set out at full speed for the home of the prophet. "So she went and came to the man of God at Mount Carmel." This was distant about five or six hours' drive. No doubt, she had been a frequent visitor there, for long before she came in speaking distance Elisha recognized her and sent Gehazi, his servant, to inquire as to her welfare. The prophet showed his esteem for her by sending to meet her; he enjoined his servant to make three specific inquiries: "Is it well with thee, with thy husband, with the child?" No doubt, by her appearance he was apprehensive of some ill tidings. In his time of need she had supplied his want; he, in turn, wished to be of service to her. But so great was her grief of heart, and so earnest her desire to see the man of God himself, that she did not stop to speak with the servant. She merely returned the customary eastern salutation, "it is well," and sped on her way. She had no thought of deceiving him; her only aim is not to waste time in parleying with one that, perhaps, will fail to appreciate her state of mind. She reserved her full statement for Elisha himself. Gehazi met the Shunamite at the foot of the hill; but she stopped not in her ascent until she had thrown herself at the prophet's feet. The servant, not of keen perceptive powers, would have thrust her away as doing disrespect to his master; but Elisha's sympathetic eye soon saw that something, indeed, was the trouble; though of both its nature and extent he was totally ignorant. So he said, "Let her alone, for her soul is vexed within her; and the Lord hath hid it from me." But the words of the broken-hearted mother immediately make the purpose of her coming plain. She said, "Did I desire a son?"—as if to say, "It was no wish of mine that was fulfilled when I was blessed with a son. Did I not say, 'Do not deceive me?'"

II.—THE SERVANT.

Verse 29. These two questions, almost reproachful, formed to the prophet's mind a statement that the child was dead. He immediately gave Gehazi the command to go quickly to the home of the Shunamite. "Gird up thy loins." With the flowing garments of Orientals such a practice is necessary where swiftness of foot is desired. "Take my staff," means, of course, the staff or badge of the gift of prophecy which had been divinely bestowed upon him. But this did not satisfy the mother. She could not believe that the man who had given her such a marvelous reception would be available in working a miracle. In her eyes Gehazi's character was against his being even an instrument in the great work. So she exclaimed to Elisha, "As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee." At this declaration on her part, the prophet, though not at first intending it, set out to accompany her home.

Verse 31. Arrived there they found the situation unchanged; the child was still lifeless. Gehazi had followed instructions; but there had been no beneficial result. "There was neither voice nor hearing." The mere symbols of power or holiness are nothing, except they have the spirit of truth behind them. However high and holy a commission may be, it will never inspire confidence unless its hearer's heart and life attest the sincerity of his message. Gehazi had the staff of Elisha; but unfortunately he did not possess the prophet's spirit. What was a symbol of power and strength became in his hands a useless stick. So all outward form, without the inner spiritual life, must always accomplish nothing.

III.—THE CHILD.

Verse 32. Elisha found the child dead and laid upon his bed. How worthy of emulation is the prophet's method of procedure! Before attempting aught else he "prayed unto the Lord." With him prayer was the initiatory step to all his undertakings. One need have no fear of doing what he has sincerely prayed over. While prayer is indispensable, still there are other things of great importance. Oftentimes we show our faith in God, not so much by our prayers as by the actions that follow them. By being in communion with God our faith is strengthened and quickened, no doubt; but the true test, after all, is our subsequent acts. This appears to be the teaching of James on this most difficult point.

Verse 34. Though the man of God prayed long and fervently, too; yet he did not despise the fact that God employs instruments in accomplishing his works. He knew full well that the power to raise the dead was far above him, yet he remembered that there was something to be done that was within the reach of his capabilities. "He stretched himself upon the child." This was to impart warmth from his body to that of the child. A similar method was employed by Elijah in restoring to life the son of the widow of Zarephath. The desired effect followed. Propitious signs were noted in the fact that "the flesh of the child waxed warm."

Verse 35. "Then he returned, and walked to and fro." This was to recover from his exhaustion, and to regain, by renewing the circulation, the animal heat that had gone out from his body to the corpse. Again he went up upon the bed and stretched himself over the child. There followed a complete restoration to life. "The child sneezed seven times, and opened his eyes." This incident must ever be the death-blow to any legitimate recourse to so-called "faith cures." Here was a prophet who, although possessed of miraculous power, nevertheless scrupulously regarded the laws of hygiene as he understood them. There is no Scripture authority for dispensing with appointed means. On the other hand, it is in direct violation of its teachings to disregard them.

Verses 36, 37. In a very few words Elisha made known to Gehazi the result. He, in turn, told the Shunamite. She came in and, falling at the prophet's feet, in Oriental style, bowed in reverential gratitude. Her joy was unbounded. Perhaps she could not realize why Jehovah had been so gracious as to give her son back to life. But we, dwelling in fuller light and possessed of wider experience, can solve the problem. Years ago she had received a prophet in the name of a prophet, and now she was receiving a prophet's reward. Her faith, which had been so urgent, so reasonable and so persistent, had received its just reward. Of a truth, "it was well" for her house that day.

"Don't read! Don't think! Don't believe! Now, are you better? You women who think that patent medicines are a humbug, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the biggest humbug of the whole (because it's best known of all)—does your lack-of-faith cure come?

It is very easy to "don't" in this world. Suspicion always comes more easily than confidence. But doubt—little faith—never made a sick woman well—and the "Favorite Prescription" has cured thousands of delicate, weak women, which makes us think that our "Prescription" is better than your "don't believe." We're both honest. Let us come together. You try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If it doesn't do as represented, you get your money again. Where proof's so easy, can you afford to doubt?

Little but active—are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Best Liver Pills made; gentle, yet thorough. They regulate and invigorate the liver, stomach and bowels.

Mississippi Items.

The Presbyterians of Jackson have decided to erect a new church, to cost $17,500.

A fire in Greenville, Feb. 15, consumed five brick stores and their contents, involving a loss of $100,000.

A new weekly called The Southron, and edited by E. R. Calhoun, has made its appearance at Columbus.

Six hundred and fifty voters in Harrison county failed to pay their poll tax, and are disfranchised for two years.

Six hundred persons were disfranchised in Natchez under the provision of the new Constitution, principally negroes.

The charter of the Delta Cotton and Woolen Mills, at Carrollton, has been approved by Gov. Stone. The capital stock of the new company will be $1,000,000.

Durant is to have a new passenger depot within the next two months. From our observation at that point we would say it is "none to soon" to have such a thing there.

The Amite Gravel Paving and Improvement Company has been organized at Vicksburg, whose object is to improve public and private property by the use of gravel on the streets.

A man in Vicksburg bought a sack of oats—an ordinary sack of ordinary oats—and found therein a diamond worth $125! It don't say how many the horse had eaten before this one was discovered.

The trustees of the Lunatic Asylum and Penitentiary Board of Control held a meeting recently, and it was agreed that the Board, with convict labor, should burn the 2,000,000 brick necessary in the construction of the annex to the asylum at this place.

The Board of Trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, at Starkville, have resolved to build a $20,000 hall for the Y. M. C. A. and societies, and a $25,000 house for the mechanical department of the college.

The farmers of Madison county are making preparations to plant the largest crop that has been planted since the war. More mules have been sold up to this time than has ever been sold here before. Covington & Billingslea have sold over 300 mules already, and have 150 head now on hand. Canton is getting to be one of the largest markets in the State for the sale of mules and fine horses. Planters from the river come here to buy their stock and say they can buy them cheaper here than at any point in the State.

Louisiana Notes.

The Farmer reports the Covington Pottery and Tile Works in successful operation.

The citizens of the thriving city of Alexandria are revelling in the luxury of street cars.

New Iberia will soon have another shingle factory, with a capacity of 50,000 shingles daily.

Franklin expects to have a bank soon; only a few more shares to be sold before it will be a certainty.

Shreveport's population is about 15,000. Assessed valuation—real estate and personal property, $4,000,000.

A free scholarship to a Farmers' Union beneficiary has been offered by the Mount Zion's College, of Winn.

Ward one, Grant parish, held an election, and the prohibitionists carried the day by a handsome majority. Good!

It is said that in the next four months the insane asylum, at Jackson, will be enlarged so as to accommodate 400 additional patients.

The Haughton Enterprise—J. P. Kent, editor and proprietor—is the latest journalistic venture. It is "Democratic and anti-Lottery."

Special local option election was held in Wards 6 and 8 at Ouachita parish on Feb. 10. In Ward 6 the vote stood 3 for license and 171 against; in Ward 8, 38 for license and 9 against.

The Monroe Grocery Company has opened business with $100,000 capital, and some of the best men in North Louisiana at its head. Our friend, J. S. Handy, formerly of Bastrop, is secretary.

The City Council of Alexandria, at a special meeting, passed a resolution appropriating the necessary $1,500 for the thirty acres of land adjoining the town, which is to be given to the Houston, Central Arkansas and Northern R. R. for depot grounds, terminal facilities, etc.

The sulphur mines near Edgerly are again attracting attention:

Work is progressing rapidly at both—prospecting at one and sinking an immense shaft at the other. The shaft is being sunk at the same spot where a fruitless effort was made nineteen years ago. It is thought to be only a question of months, means and muscle to procure sulphur in immense quantities. About 480 feet beneath the surface lies a stratum 120 feet thick, much of it pure crystallized sulphur.

The company has a number of neat and commodious cottages, whitewashed, and a good boarding-house. Whisky is not tolerated. About thirty hands are now employed.

The directors of the Rapides Bridge Company have had a conference with Vice-President Thompson of Kansas City, Watkins and Gulf railroad, with regard to bridging the Red river. It was agreed that the Rapides Bridge Company pay the railroad company $10,000 in consideration that the latter-named company build a combined railroad and highway bridge at or near the present lower limits of Alexandria. It was further agreed that the Rapides Bridge Company keep the highway portion of the bridge in thorough repair and be allowed to run a line of street cars over the same if so desired, and to collect all tolls on the highway portion of the same.

Timothy Davis, postmaster at Pattersonville La., says: "Some years ago, while living in Algiers, I contracted a cough that everyone thought would cause my death. I was unable to sleep, had night-sweats, and soon became too weak to work. I had several doctors and tried many remedies, but with no improvement. An old friend hearing of my condition recommended Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. It had cured him of a serious lung trouble, and he had great confidence in Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar. Before three bottles had been taken I was up and about, a well man. It saved my life. I always recommend it for consumption, asthma, bronchitis, any lung or throat trouble." One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

PERIODICALS.

The following February periodicals have been received:

MUSICAL HERALD. Boston. Price, $1

BIBLIA. Meriden, Conn. Price, $1.

MUSICAL MESSENGER. Cincinnati. Price, $1.

ENTERTAINMENT. Council Bluffs, Iowa. Price, $1.

PREACHER'S MAGAZINE. W. B. Ketcham, New York. Price, $1 50.

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." C. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

N. B. Be sure to get only

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PUBLIC SAFETY DEMANDS

That only honest and reliable medicines should be placed upon the market. It cannot, therefore, be stated too emphatically, nor repeated too often, that all who are in need of a genuine Blood-purifier should be sure and ask for

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

has been the standard blood-purifier of the world—no other approaching it in popular confidence or universal demand. Its formula is approved by the leading physicians and druggists. Being pure and highly concentrated, it is the most economical of any possible blood medicine. Every purchaser of Sarsaparilla should insist upon having this preparation, and see that each bottle bears the well-known name of

J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Lowell, Mass.

In every quarter of the globe Ayer's Sarsaparilla is proved to be the best remedy for all disorders of the blood. Lowell druggists unite in testifying to the superior excellence of this medicine and to its great popularity in the city of its manufacture.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists. $1, six $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

10 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

WANTED!

I want a reliable Methodist in every parish in the State to introduce that Elegant and Instructive Chart,

"The Tree of Methodism."

Write at once for terms, and give me the name of your pastor as a reference.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Watches, Diamonds,
FINE JEWELRY!
Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,
SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
(Established 1817)
119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

Mardi Gras Offerings.

Matting. The spring importations have just arrived, and a very handsome line will be shown to those visiting the store.

Wall Paper. The patterns for 1891 are unusually attractive, embracing many novelties in dining, parlor, bedroom and hall papers.

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, and Upholstering Goods.

We will offer Semson's celebrated make of Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents per square yard; Curtain Poles, with trimmings complete, 25 cents; and Dado Window Shades, from 35 cents each to $0 each, the latter being hand-painted.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim'd,
116 Camp St., New Orleans.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:55 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:15 pm
Vicksb'g Ex...5:45 pm	Vicksb'g Ex....8:30 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac... 3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....8:45 pm
No. 7 Coast....9:05 am	No. 6 Lim. Ex..3:10 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1. Local Mail and Express..7:40am	No 2. Local Mail and Express..7:00am
No. 41. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 8:25am	No 42 Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 6:00pm
No 45. Chic. and N. O. Lim....8:00pm	No. 46. Chic and N. O. Lim. 12:01noon
No 41. Memphis and K. C. Ex. 8:25am	No 42 Memphis and K. C. Ex. 6:00pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 53 California Express. 7:00pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:45a m
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd .11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 6, Fast Line. .5:45am

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 2, Limited...4:.00pm

P. AND P. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am	Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City. Luxurious Mann Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal offices South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.
J. C. GAULT, General Manager.
D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS, TEXARKANA, SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE. THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:55 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:15 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 5:40 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:30 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
R. B. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.
A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r.

This Bright New 1891.

needs the brightest and best of music. The 2,000,000 readers of this ad. are all invited to provide themselves with music or music books from our complete and varied stock.

☞ Send freely for lists and information.

SOME OF OUR NEWEST BOOKS.

SONGS OF IRELAND. $1 00. Choice, revised collection of very favorite songs. 66 songs. 144 pages.

POTTER'S RESPONSES AND SENTENCES. 75 cts.; $6 75 doz. A timely and good collection, which will be welcomed by many choirs. More than 50 short pieces, with a number of Glorias, Chants, etc.

PRAYER AND PRAISE. Cantata. Ballard. A good and easy cantata, for a Choir or Chorus. 50 cents; $4 50 per dozen.

MASONIC ODE. Fithian. A new most convenient book of easy and good music, perfectly fitted for the masonic ritual. Much needed. 60 cts.; $6 doz.

COMIC AND MINSTREL SONGS $1 00. 46 merry songs, well calculated to make time pass cheerfully.

BANNER FOLIO. Violin and Piano. Winner. Large number of popular melodies, skilfully arranged for Violin, with Piano accompaniment. $1 00.

MANDOLIN AND PIANO DUETS Winner. About 75 popular airs for Mandolin and Piano. $1 00.

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price.

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York City

H. P. BUCKLEY,

Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 WEST BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Local Agents Wanted.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29. - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.

Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate. Particular attention paid to orders.

Ladies, please examine our stock.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

WE wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH

Trouble of the Womb should try

Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Seines, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Rev. C. W. Carter, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, FEB. 26, 1891.

Briefs.

If we had the money that is now due on subscriptions, we could enlarge and improve our paper. Will not our friends help us in this matter? We desire to grow, but we can't grow without nourishment.

Emperor William has shown all along that he was not divine, and now we can safely catalogue him with the rest of us "poor human creatures." Recently he spoke these very human words:

In our time when disloyalty and other vices stalk through the world, when an ocean of printing ink and paper is lavished to embarrass and darken everything lying clear before us, you must hold with me. I remain calm in the hope that you will follow me. May I find enough faithful men to do my bidding?

He could have said nothing stronger than "You must hold with me," to prove his being "of the earth, earthy." It is just like all the balance of us. You agree with me, and everything will be "lovely."

General Booth is making progress with his great plan to reach the "submerged tenth of darkest England." An exchange says:

While he will retain large powers under the deed of trust, as it is proper that he should, he will have a Consultative Committee, who are to be knowing to everything done. Of the committee General Booth will nominate six members, and the Archbishop of Canterbury, the president of the Wesleyan Society, the chairman of the Congregational Union, the chairman of the Baptist Union, the Attorney-General, and the chairman of the City Council will each nominate two members, one of whom may be the nominator. The English papers express satisfaction at the steps taken by General Booth, although there is no evidence that Professor Huxley's pessimistic fever is abating.

The celebrated Lottery mandamus case was argued before the Supreme Court in this city last week. This case is exciting a good deal of interest, and able lawyers are engaged on each side. On the side of the Lottery are ex-Justice Poche and T. J. Semmes; on the anti-Lottery side are Attorney-General Rogers, Senator White, J. N. Luce, of Concordia parish, and Don Caffrey, of St. Mary parish. Each side was allowed three hours for argument before the Court and three weeks' time in which to file briefs. We are of the opinion that no matter which way this case is decided, it must come before the people for their votes before it will be finally settled. So our friends may make up their minds to go on working to defeat the iniquitous thing.

Every great trial before the criminal courts demonstrates the fact that what was once called our "admirable jury system" is becoming more and more inefficient. Several prominent cases in this city show that "impaneling the jury" is getting to be quite a farcical affair. "Challenges for cause" and "peremptory challenges" leave about nobody to choose a jury from but those who never read a newspaper and never form an opinion. The practice seems to proceed upon the basis that an intelligent man is not fit to be a juror in any case. The fact that thirty-nine men are rejected as jurors where one is accepted, shows that there is too much intelligence abroad for our "ancient and admirable jury system." In a few years more it will be an impossibility to "impanel a jury."

Two Great Perils.

We do not mean to say that there are only two great perils in the present time, but we wish to point out to our readers two special dangers that threaten many churches and very many individual souls. There are a great many things that absorb the attention to the exclusion of the gospel, but in the present day two things do this in a preeminent manner. Whatever obstructs gospel agencies is a harmful thing. Whatever obscures gospel light darkens human hope. The greater the obstruction, the more harm. The greater the obscuration, the more darkness. And the greater these are, the greater the peril to the church and the individual.

One of these great perils is the lust of acquisition which seems to be running riot in so many souls. The burning desire for the speedy accumulation of money is awaking the dormant faculties and quickening the sluggish pulses and absorbing the deepest energies of thousands to such a degree that the voice of the gospel is lost in the mad din to get rich. Heart and brain and hands and eyes are all consecrated, day and night, to the one purpose of acquisition. The love of accumulation takes fierce possession of the whole being, and, with the grip of a giant, turns it into those awful channels where peace is wrecked and happiness goes down beneath the troubled waters. The worst feature of the case is that, in nine cases out of ten, the man who makes the largest success in money-getting achieves the greatest failure as to his own character and destiny. His intense desire, his absorbing greed, holds a mastership as merciless as the grave, and as destructive to all noble impulses and pure principles as the arch-fiend himself. A great many people do not believe this, but it is the plain teaching of Jesus Christ, who knew "what is in men." What chance has the gospel to get at the heart of a man whose soul is absorbed in this way? He has no ear for the good news. He never asks, "What must I do to be saved?" His daily questions are: "Is business prosperous?" "Are the dividends good?" What does such a man care about the love of God for a lost sinner? What time has he to think of his soul and its condition and its danger. As another has said: "He is absorbed, sucked up into the sponge of the money greed until there is nothing of him to appeal to." Multiply this one man by millions, and you see the greatness of the peril. Upon this very rock thousands are wrecked every day, for they will not listen to the warning of Jesus Christ: "Take heed and beware of covetousness." What successful money-getter ever sat down and for one short hour studied finance as it is taught in the Book of God? Which one of the men who are accumulating money to-day has, within the last twelve months, seriously pondered those awful words Paul wrote to Timothy?—I. Tim. vi, 9, 10. Where is the man who, having this fierce craving for riches, has read and pondered and prayed over what St. James says to the rich in his remarkable Epistle?

The other great peril is "society." How this thing absorbs men and women! The sphere of its operations includes thousands, and they walk as if upon enchanted ground. Its follies, its shams, its parades and its exactions combine to form the most heartless tyranny the world ever felt. Its superficialities and its pretentious tomfooleries capture thousands of souls and manacle them as with chains of iron. Time and privileges and opportunities for noble deeds are sacrificed upon its high altars of folly. The flesh holds the mastery, and holds it with a tenacity that baffles gospel effort to unloose it. Those who are caught in this monstrous whirlpool have little time and less inclination to put themselves where they can hear the gospel message. Christ has no charms for them, and the good news of his love is "an idle tale." They are so completely deadened to all spiritual things and so earnestly alive to worldliness, that it seems there is more hope of success in preaching to the winds.

We believe the most hopeless cases in this world, as far as gospel work is concerned, belong to one or the other of the classes we have mentioned. The man or woman who is absorbed with the desire of getting rich—the man or woman who is thoroughly devoted to society—nothing will wake them up to their true condition but "the sudden burst of eternal things;" and then it will be too late.

The Result of Bad Teaching.

The newspapers in this city have said a good deal against the Sunday law, and their teachings have borne fruit. Many places that would be closed on Sunday, if the law was enforced, stand open in plain violation of that law. This is notably the case with regard to the saloons. From one end of the city to the other their closing is a mere sham. Everybody knows that they are open, and that "everybody" includes the police. It is useless to say that the police endeavor to enforce the law. People know that they do no such thing. And yet they have sworn to do that very thing! So much on that line for newspaper teaching in regard to the Sunday law.

To such an extent have these teachings been adopted, that now that most abominable of all evils, the concert saloon, has placed itself in defiant opposition, not only to the Sunday law, but to the law of the State which puts it under special restrictions and requires it to pay a $5,000 license fee. Having been taught by the "guardians of the people," the city press, that the Sunday law ought not to be respected, the proprietors of these saloons, carrying these teachings to their legitimate end, are beginning to show disrespect for all law as well as the common decencies of civil life. As open violators of the law, they ply their iniquitous business under the eye of the police, and no notice is taken of them. Besides this, they have the impudent effrontery to offer the tax collector less than one-half of the legal license fee for the privilege of debasing and ruining men and women by wholesale. Thus disrespect for one law engenders defiance to all law. Taught by the newspapers to break one law, there is no reason why they should not break every law. Such teaching as we have had on the Sunday law is a serious menace to all the best interests of society. Society is held together by law. Obedience to law is the foundation upon which society rests. Disobedience breaks the bond and endangers the whole fabric. It is as true in civil matters as in morals, "He that keepeth the whole law and yet offendeth in one point, is guilty of all." One law broken without the infliction of the penalty gives license to break all. What wonder, then, that the saloons refuse to pay the annual tax, when they are allowed to keep open on Sunday contrary to law!

It is hoped that the exposure of the defiance of these concert saloons to the law will open the eyes of our newspaper editors to the mischievous, but direct and logical results of their teachings. We are glad to note that the Picayune shows some signs of repentance.

The Prayer Meeting.

This is mentioned in our Discipline as one of the means of grace. The direction is that they be held weekly, in every church where it is practicable; and in other places where there is a probability of doing good. They are to be held by the pastor, or others whom he may engage to hold them. No direction is given as to how they shall be conducted. In the Church Conference the question is asked: "Can the church extend its work by establishing additional prayer meetings?" etc. Perhaps, sufficient emphasis has not been given this means of grace. Doubtless, the great mass of our people do not appreciate its importance.

In many places only a few of the members attend. In some instances the pastor must do all the praying. As a rule, the ladies attend better than the gentlemen. What shall be done to build up the prayer meeting? No doubt, it is a good test of the spiritual state of the church in which it is held. There you may feel the pulse of the church, and know whether the current of life flows freely, fully and healthfully through the body. A good prayer meeting will also be the center of life and power, where the members will gather fresh inspiration and strength for the work of the church. In the face of these facts it sometimes occurs that the officers of the church are habitually and conspicuously absent from the prayer meeting, and the pastor, with a few ladies and fewer gentlemen, is left to do the best he can. Can there be any doubt in the minds of our people as to the utility of the prayer meeting? You may pray in secret, and God will be with you and hear you; but it is written, "If two of you shall agree on earth, as touching anything that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." There are superior advantages in social prayer. Our religion is a social religion. We must love one another with a pure heart fervently, and bear one another's burdens, and strive to be mutually helpful. This social life in religion is promoted by the weekly prayer meeting. It is less formal than the Sunday service; a place where there can be more of the family feeling; and a place "where spirits blend, and friend holds fellowship with friend." There Christian fellowship, in song and prayer and conversation, in its purest and most edifying forms, can be realized. How can we dispense with the blessed influences of the prayer meeting?

We pastors may be to blame for the decadence of this means of grace in some places. It might be well to consider the best methods of conducting it, to compare notes. We had the subject up for discussion in our preachers' meeting here in Vicksburg, last Monday. It was generally agreed that in the prayer meeting everybody should be made to feel perfectly free to speak, and be kept perfectly at ease.

One brother said he had been trying to knock the starch out of the thing ever since he had been here, but had not succeeded. Another suggestion was to let the laymen lead often, and another to have a Bible reading occasionally, and another to encourage cottage prayer meetings, and another to have a song service occasionally. But whether the key-note has yet been struck is a question. The best preparation for a prayer meeting is thus stated: "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret, and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly." It is believed that if we pray much in secret, we will be inclined to go to the prayer meeting. A layman from the country at our preacher's meeting, Monday, suggested that we ought to bring the children and young people more into the prayer meeting; and said that in his neighborhood a weekly prayer meeting had broken up dancing parties and revolutionized the social life of the neighborhood.

W. B. Lewis.

"Absurd Men."

Paul would have the Thessalonians pray "that he might be delivered from unreasonable men." The margin reads, "absurd men." Men of this kind are a great hinderance to the gospel of Christ. One or more of them is found in nearly every community, in nearly every church. They are men who are wise in their own conceits—wise above what is written—utterly "unreasonable" and "absurd" to the last degree. It is a waste of time and breath to argue any question with one of these men. They take notions, have conceits about the church services, the preaching, the music and the management of church affairs, and demand that everybody and everything yield to them, or they will fall back on the tugs and try to balk the whole team.

This is unreasonable to the extent of absurdity. Such men hurt the gospel, hinder the Word of the Lord, and to the extent of their influence prevent the preacher from doing good. No wonder Paul wanted to be delivered from men of this kind. He knew how they hurt the cause of Christ, how they "kept the Word of the Lord from having free course," and being "glorified" in the salvation of souls. These absurd men generally have influence in proportion to their wealth, and, knowing this, they generally refuse to pay when they can not have their own way. They are rarely men of large intelligence. They expect the preacher and the people to "toady" to them because they carry a heavy wallet. Their policy is to rule if they can, or to ruin if they can not rule. Woe betide the preacher who falls in with one of this class; and well may he exhort the brethren to pray to God "that he may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men." Such men are really wicked when they can not control. Instead of living in the church to honor God and to help in saving souls, they expect the church to honor them and to pander to all of their whims. It is wonderful how well some men of this class work as long as they think they are in the lead, and equally wonderful how soon they "balk," take the "studs," and pull back when they imagine some one else is more honored than they. Nothing is more "absurd" than the course they pursue. Their opinions and views about any matter must prevail or the whole work of the church must come to a dead standstill. Pastors of experience are like Paul; they long to be delivered from men of this kind.

A pastor may try to have the wisdom of a serpent combined with the harmlessness of a dove, and yet he often finds it impossible to manage an "absurd" man. It is so easy to strike one of them on the wrong key, and when this is done the whole man is out of tune.

***

In the official directory of the Roman Catholic Church the totals show that there are in the United States 8,579,966 people in that communion. The total number of clergymen is 8,778. There are 7,631 churches, 2,841 stations, and 1,750 chapels, besides 218 orphan asylums, 39 theological seminaries, 123 colleges, 624 academies, and 3,277 parochial schools. The total number of children attending the parochial schools is 665,320.

Notes.

The way the Presbyterian papers are handling Dr. Briggs for his "inspired concept," clothed in uninspired words, is "a caution" to all other writers on inspiration.

The First Church in Anniston, Ala., has subscribed $750 to support a foreign missionary. That is the way to do it. Every church that is able should "do likewise."

Baron Hirsch, the Jewish banker, has created a trust fund of $2,500,000, the income of which is to be used for the relief and education of destitute Jewish immigrants who come to this country.

Rev. R. M. Evans writes to say that the Minutes give Sallis charge, Winona district, credit for only four adult baptisms when there were forty-three persons baptized. Of course, the editor of the Minutes will see to this matter.

How curiously some people's minds work! A writer in the Andover Review has figured it out that "Florida is large enough for comfortable homes for all who now live," and that "every human being ever born might have a separate grave in the State of Texas!"

The Minutes of the Louisiana Conference show a decrease in every department of Sunday-school statistics from last year. There are 25 schools, 130 teachers and 202 scholars less than were reported last year. There were $431 53 less raised than last year. What's the matter?

Once more we must declare that anonymous communications, no matter on what subject or how well written, will not appear in the paper. If a writer can not afford to give us his or her name, we can not afford to keep the communication out of the waste-basket. And this is the last notice on this subject.

A writer in Contemporary Review says that "statistics prove that crime is on the decrease, and this result is due to four principal causes: The agencies at work to educate and help the poorer classes in our large cities, the temperance movement, the high standard of prison administration, and increasing police efficiency." Perhaps if our legislators in this country would go to legislating for the good of the people instead of for the good of the party there might be a decrease in crime among us also.

Modern researches into ancient manners and customs and devices, etc., are continually corroborating Solomon's dictum, "There is nothing new under the sun." Last week the Scientific American published the picture of an automatic vending machine for sprinkling lustral water upon the Egyptian worshipper, and was in use one hundred years before Christ. The worshipper was compelled to put in the machine a certain sum of money before the water would flow. What was that but a veritable "nickel in the slot" before you can obtain the water?

The trustees of Millsaps College met in Jackson, Miss., last week, but did not locate the college. We understand that the competition for location has narrowed down to three towns—Jackson, Grenada and Winona. The successful town must pay down $30,000 in money: one-half cash; one-quarter Oct. 1, and one-quarter Jan. 1, 1892, and twenty acres of land for college site. A committee was appointed to confer with the citizens of the above-named places, and report to a meeting of the trustees, to be held at Winona, March 11, when the question will be settled.

The Wesleyan says:

A brother preacher has an important church or some post of trust, and he is watched with a jealous eye, and if there are any mistakes or signs of failure there are evidences of secret, if not open, gratification. We can conceive of no deeper depravity, and nothing is more contemptible. The disposition is a shame to the name of Christianity and is foreign to the hope of heaven. If there is a preacher anywhere who has any of this spirit in him, he ought to quit preaching long enough to get, at least, a little religion.

The first sentence of the above is sadly true. The last sentence is a valid exhortation, for he won't do it.

The most remarkable fact that we know in regard to our church is the number of subscribers to our church papers! It is an astonishing fact when we remember that every preacher is an authorized agent to secure subscribers! It is an amazing fact when we take into consideration that every agent is allowed twenty-five per cent commission on every new subscriber! It is a melancholy fact when we reflect that by the discipline of the church every person who is received promises to support the church papers! Such a fact, remarkable, astonishing, amazing, melancholy as it is, is not confined to us. In the Methodist Episcopal Church (North), according to the Central Christian Advocate, St. Louis, there are less than 200,000 subscribers to their church papers. The subscribers among us are very many less. What does it mean?

Personal and Otherwise.

We regret to learn that Rev. J. W. Sandell, our pastor at Magnolia, Miss., is suffering from a carbuncle on the neck.

Rev. James Caughey, for many years a successful revivalist in this country and in England; diod recently, in New Jersey, in his eighty-first year.

A private note from Rev. W. E. Ballard, of Natchez, Miss., says that he is improving in health and is better than he has been since the last of December.

The Minutes of the forty-fifth session of the Louisiana Conference are out in good and attractive form. A fine portrait of Bishop Haygood makes a good frontispiece.

The Seed Annual, with its accompanying package of seeds, has been received from D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich., for which we render thanks to the enterprising firm.

Rev. W. B. Hines and wife celebrated their golden wedding, Tuesday, the twenty-fourth, at Waynesboro, Miss. May the blessings of Providence follow them to the end!

Bro. Peebles, of Brandon, has our thanks for his little pamphlet, "Falling from Grace, and Baptism." He has treated these two subjects intelligently, instructively and scripturally.

You can get all the books you want, and get them as cheap as you want, from Bro. Van Valkenburgh at 106 Camp St. And he will act toward you as a clever Christian gentleman, too.

President Fitzhugh, of Whitworth College, made us a pleasant visit last Saturday. He is in the best of health and in the finest spirits in regard to the work of this session of his admirable school.

Long articles containing "News from the Work," if they do not reach us by Thursday, must go over ten days. Postal cards reaching us by Monday evening will appear in the paper of that week. Make a note of this.

We understand from a private note that the wife of Dr. J. J. Wheat, of the North Mississippi Conference, died Feb. 18. The note said, "Her end was in the peace and hopo of God." We tender our sympathy to the bereaved.

Have you been reading our Sunday-school lessons this year? It is a new hand at such work, but it strikes us that the work is being pretty well done. What do you think of it? If it is good, say so; and thus encourage the worker. That's cheap pay.

To the Mississippi Conference.

I wish to request all parties who may have moneys to remit me, as the treasurer of the Board of Church Extension of the Mississippi Conference, to do so by postoffice order or bank check on Vicksburg. I have my deposits there, and by doing this there will be saved to the church the expense that necessarily attends the collections of money, and it will relieve me of unnecessary labor. A part of the subscription taken at Canton, Miss., during the last Conference, remains unpaid. The parties will oblige me by remitting. The money may be needed soon. My postoffice address is Phœnix, Yazoo county, Miss.

THOS. A. HOLLOMAN.

Man is often deceived in the age of a woman by her gray hair. Ladies, you can appear young and prevent this grayness by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

Notice.

Corresponding secretaries of Parsonage Societies will please remember to send to Conference secretaries their report for first quarter between March 1 and 10. Our general secretary closes her annual report March 31. If we wish to be represented in that report, we must act promptly. Society treasurers must also report at same time to our Conference treasurer, Mrs. L. S. Widney, 1218 Magazine street, New Orleans, La., that her report may be included in annual report.

SALLIE S. KING,
Cont. Sec. W. F. and H. M. Society,
277 Josephine street, New Orleans.

It may be old, but Johnson's Anodyne Liniment retains the vigor of youth. Long may it live.

Don't Delay.

Many orders for Sunday-school periodicals come in so late that these publications can not reach the schools by the time they are needed. We beg that all orders for the next quarter be sent in without further delay. We hope superintendents of schools will see to this.

BARBEE & SMITH, Publishers,
Nashville, Tenn.

A Chance to Make Money.

I feel it my duty to inform others of my success plating spoons, castors, jewelry, etc. The first week I cleared $27 50, and in three weeks $80. By addressing the Lake Electric Co., Englewood, Ill., you can get circulars. Six months ago I was poor; I now have a nice home and bank account, all the product of $3 invested in a Plater.

A READER.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. L. Carley writes from Jackson, La.: "Though we are not in the Louisiana Conference, Centenary Day was observed here. Dr. Hunnicutt preached an excellent sermon on Christian education, and presented the claims of Centenary College. Good results are expected."

—Rev. W. M. Stevens writes: "The Minutes of our last Annual Conference states: Preacher in charge, assessed $525; paid $462 75. It should be, Assessed $475; paid $462 50. Bishop, assessed $8 25; paid $6. It should be, Assessed $8 25; paid $8 25. Conference claimants, assessed $25; paid $25. It should be, Assessed $25; paid $23. Church extension, assessed $10; paid $11. It should be, Assessed $10; paid $10. I am sorry these mistakes occured, and hope they are not so numerous in the reports of my brethren."

—Rev. W. M. Stevens writes from Vicksburg, Miss.: "I was delayed two weeks with la grippe before reaching my charge, and since my arrival, on account of the rainy weather and the miserable condition of the roads, have in some cases been unable to meet my appointments; in others disappointed by having no congregation. If this were not all the workings of Providence (beyond my control), I would feel greatly discouraged; but as it is, I find comfort in these words—'God doeth all things well.' Faith in God is the source of my comfort."

—Rev. H. H. Ahrens writes from Franklin, La.: "Our first Quarterly Conference was held, Jan. 7, in Franklin. Our presiding elder, Bro. Miller, gladdened the hearts of all by his presence. The brethren gave us a cordial reception, and we feel perfectly at home among these good people. As to the supplies which have come to the parsonage since we have been here, it would be too tedious to detail. Suffice it to say, that if this thing continues, few purchases in the gastronomical line will have to be made. The Lord is with us, and we rejoice exceedingly. Congregations good; finances up to date. Have received thirteen new members in Franklin, and four in Jeanerette."

—Bro. B. R. East writes of Saltillo circuit: "We are moving on finely on Saltillo circuit, though greatly hindered by the bad weather. We have held our first Quarterly Conference with a good representation. Bro. Stone, our beloved presiding elder, was on hand and presided in his same loving way. He preached with power and the demonstration of the Holy Ghost, which touched the hearts of all present and seemed to infuse new life in all the officers of the charge. We are expecting a grand and successful year. This being our first year on this charge, we expect to do as we have always tried to do—our level best on this work. Pray for us, that we may have a glorious and successful year. May the blessings of God rest upon the dear old ADVOCATE!"

—Rev. J. T. Howell writes of Lewisburg circuit, North Mississippi Conference: "We have a kind, appreciative and intelligent people to serve; plenty of work for a preacher to put in his whole time. The parsonage is located at Pleasant Hill, and so far we have found the surroundings very pleasant. The good people in different parts of the work have remembered us in a substantial way several times since our arrival. While we were on the way, having to stay over Sunday with good Bro. Dickey, Monday morning before we left Sister Dickey took wife into her larder and supplied her with necessaries sufficient to last several weeks. Shortly after our arrival one evening, while I was away from home, the good ladies of the town began coming in one by one, and every one that came had a bundle or package of some kind, and some who could not come themselves sent their packages. They kept coming until wife says the house was nearly full of women and her larder full of necessaries. For all of which we feel very thankful, and pray that we may be able to minister to their spiritual wants in such way as will best serve the interests of the church."

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props.,
Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

The Church News, diocesan organ of the Episcopal Church, is to be moved to Jackson shortly from Natchez, and will be edited by Rev. Frank Hallam.

SPECIAL PRIZE OFFER.

$50 will be paid to the preacher in charge in the patronizing Conferences who brings in the largest number of new subscribers in 1891.

$30 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the second largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

$20 will be paid to the preacher in charge who brings in the third largest list of new subscribers in 1891.

J. G. GRANT, PUBLISHER.

From the Sunday-School Board of the North Mississippi Conference.

Dear Brethren: The Sunday-school Board discussed the subject of Sunday-school Conferences in each presiding elders' district at its last meeting in Canton, in December, and, with the approval of each presiding elder, the following brethren have been requested to take charge of these Conferences, viz: Brookhaven district, Rev. R. D. Norsworthy; Jackson district, Rev. T. B. Holloman; Vicksburg district, ——; Brandon district, Rev. D. P. Bradford; Meridian district, ——; Seashore district, Rev. T. W. Adams; Woodville district, Bro. Geo. T. McGehee.

B. F. LEWIS,
For the Sunday-school Board.

*Bro. Ellis asks for more time to suggest a suitable man to take charge of the work, but grants the time asked for the Conference. Bro. Mellen, having already decided to call a special District Sunday-school Conference, the whole matter was placed in his hands.

Important Notice.

There will be an important meeting of pastors and superintendents of Sunday-schools and of those interested in Sunday-school work at Carondelet Street Methodist Church on Thursday night, Feb. 26, at half-past seven o'clock. The objects of the meeting, among other things, are to discuss and prepare for the State Sunday-school Convention, to be held May 5–7, next, in this city, and to unite as far as practicable all our people in the success of that convention.

Mr. Wm. Reynolds, Mrs. Crafts and, perhaps, other noted Sunday-school workers will be here at the meeting to be held in May.

May we not urge every pastor and superintendent and others to come, Thursday night. Let us have a grand gathering.

R. H. BROWNE, Pres.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.
LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

LA GRIPPE!

LA GRIPPE!

Last year, when La Grippe was so prevalent all over this country, Dr. King's Royal Germetuer proved to be a certain cure, as hundreds then testified. Many of such testimonials, from the best people of this country, were then published.

The disease has again broken out. Nearly half the people in New Orleans are affected with it to a greater or less degree, and Royal Germetuer has again proven to be a specific in every case that has tried it. Many in this city certify to this.

Read the following statement from a gentleman widely known and highly respected in this city:

"NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6, 1890.

"I have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer in my family for La Grippe, and find it to be a SPECIFIC FOR THIS PREVAILING EPIDEMIC. I cheerfully and heartily recommend it for that purpose.

"Pastor First Baptist Church,
"Residence, 183 Third Street."

Direction for using: One teaspoonful in half glass warm water, sweetened if preferred, every hour for twelve hours; then every three hours until cured. Keep bowels open with Dr. King's Royal Germetuer Pills.

This treatment is pleasant, safe and sure, and will cure La Grippe in twenty-four hours. A dose before and after each meal and at bed time is almost a certain preventive, and the best tonic known to medical science.

Sold by all druggists.

Finlay and Brunswig, and I. L. Lyons and Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans.

$20 Odell Typewriter $20

Double Case, 78 characters. A Practical Business Machine. Writing equal to a $100 Machine. Copper faced, Metal Type. No Ribbon. Send for circular.

H. C. WRIGHT, 403 N 3d St., St. Louis, Mo.

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

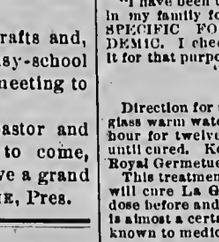
WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Instruction by mail.

WANTED GOOD RELIABLE AGENTS everywhere for the National Capital Savings and Loan Society. Liberal commission; money loaned in every State. 921 to 925 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO., L't'd,

18 Baronne and 127 Canal Streets, New Orleans, La.



SOLE AGENTS FOR ALL THE LEADING

PIANOS!

Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Sohmer, Behr, Mehlin, Fischer, Pleyel, Pease, Shoninger, Sterling, etc.

Lowest Prices! | Easiest Terms!

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO. (Limited), New Orleans.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

DONALD KENNEDY
Of Roxbury, Mass., says

My Medical Discovery seldom takes hold of two people alike! Why? Because no two people have the same weak spot. Beginning at the stomach, it goes searching through the body for any hidden humor. Nine times out of ten, Inward humor makes the weak spot. Perhaps its only a little sediment left on a nerve or in a gland; the Medical Discovery glides it right along, and you find quick happiness from the first bottle. Perhaps it's a big sediment or open sore, well rattled somewhere, ready to fight. The Medical Discovery begins the fight, and you think it pretty hard, but soon you thank me for making something that has reached your weak spot. Write me if you want to know more about it.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman, Junius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

INTER-STATE FIRE ASSOCIATION,
58 Carondelet St., NEW ORLEANS.

Mutual—Divides Profits amongst Insurers.

BREEDLOVE SMITH, President. ALBERT MACKIE, Vice-President.
R. L. EMERY, Secretary.

Assets—Jan. 1, 1891,—
Guarantee fund	$173,050 00
Other assets	10,555 00
Total	$183,605 00
Liabilities—
Unearned premium reserve	$ 8,178 12
Other liabilities	2,779 51
	$ 11,257 63
Net surplus for policy holders, Jan. 1, 1891	$172,347 37

Board of Trustees.

JOHN I. ADAMS, A. BONNECAZE, N. D. WALLACE, ALBERT MACKIE, ROBERT MANSON, M. T. ELFERT, RICHARD FURMAN, JAS. G. DUNCAN, HENRY G. BUSH, BREEDLOVE SMITH, R. R. ONG, S. HERNSHEIM, HENRY HAAG, JOHN S. TALMAGE, C. C. EMERY, HENRY WELLMANN, ANDREW JACKSON, ISIDORE HECHINGER, L. H. GARDNER, W. W. SUMNER, R. L. EMERY.

Books by Subscription!

I want a few ladies or gentlemen to sell the well-known "Child's Bible," a consecutive arrangement of the Holy Scriptures, in the words of the Authorized Version. Also for a new book by Mrs. G. E. Morton, "Talks to Children about Jesus." Good wages can be made with either book.

I will take pleasure in forwarding subscriptions to the "Ladies' Home Journal," of Philadelphia, $1 a year; or will deliver it to your address for ten cents per month. The "Quiver," a monthly magazine for Sunday reading, is $1 50 a year, or delivered at fifteen cents per month.

Address

E. S. UPTON
Religious Book Depository,
94 Camp St., - - New Orleans.

TELEPHONE 211.

Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales,
Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances,
Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks,
Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers,
Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.

W. W. CARRE,
LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,
NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,
Homeopathic Physician,
288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

Shepard & Butler,
94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.
BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

S. R. PERRY,
183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried.
Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25.
Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1.
Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

In answering advertisements please mention the Advocate.

LOUISIANA
STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR
FACTORY,

199, 201, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: NO. 52 CARONDELET ST.

GOLDEN MEMORIES

OF THE BOOK OF BOOKS IN PICTURE, SONG, AND STORY.

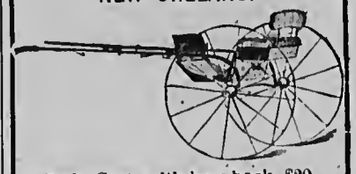
8 Col'd Plates, 50 full-page Engs., 200 Illustrations.
A MASTERPIECE of LITERATURE and ART!
A Gallery of Pictorial Art, a Library of Sacred Literature, and a Life of Christ from Cradle to Crown, sold at a price within the reach of all.
AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY TOWNSHIP.
HUNT & EATON, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York.

EASTER MUSIC

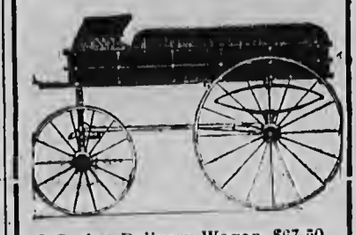
Of every description for the Church and Sunday School. Complete Lists mailed free to any address on application. ADDRESS,

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Reed & Sons' Music Co., 239 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

R. P. RANDALL,
Carriages and Harness,
Saddles and Bridles,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.



Body Cart, with lazy back, $20.
A good, substantial article, which we can recommend to give service.



3-Spring Delivery Wagon, $67.50.
TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER.

Mansfield Female College
Conservatory of Music and Art.
MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most popular and flourishing institutions of the South. The Sixty-seventh Session opens September 10, 1890, and the Spring Term begins January 28, 1891, with an able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive, instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. The pianos are new and of the best make. The Technicon and the Techniphone are used to facilitate the work in the music department, placing this deparment beyond competition. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

The location is unsurpassed for beauty and attractiveness, and the school is celebrated for the remarkable record for good health maintained. The climate is the best in which to educate, and the place is the safest for girls. The main building is of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, warmed and ventilated. Ample provision for the table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical. A new building with a large audience hall is in contemplation, and extensive improvements are in progress to make this the grandest institution in the State.

For catalogue and particulars address
A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

Centenary College
JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

The Adams District High School.
(Established by the Methodist Conference.)

A thorough training-school for boys and girls. The only Telegraphy School in Mississippi south of Jackson. Classical, Scientific, Commercial and Musical. For Catalogue address

NANCY SMITH, Principal,
Auburn, Lincoln Co., Miss.

YOUR NAME on 25 Lovely Cards, 1 Ring, 1 Lace Pin, 1 Patent Fountain Pen Combined, 1 Pocket Ink-Pot Album, 60 Album Verses &c. All 10c. Laurel Card Co., Box 39, Clintonville, Conn.

For Old and Young.

Tutt's Liver Pills act as kindly on the child, the delicate female or infirm old age, as upon the vigorous man.

Tutt's Pills

give tone to the weak stomach, bowels, kidneys and bladder. To these organs their strengthening qualities are wonderful, causing them to perform their functions as in youth.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

MUSIC LOVERS

of all kinds will find something to suit them among the following new and superior collections of Foreign Vocal and Piano Music:

FOR PIANO.

Piano Mosaics $1.00. Modern Classics Vol. 1 $1.00, Modern Juvenile Classics Vol. 2 $1. American Artists' Edition Album Vol. 1 65 cts., American Artists' Edition Album Vol. 2. 65 cts., Paderewski Album 65 cts., Wagner Album 65 cts., Four Hand Album 65 cts., Strauss Concert Album 65 cts.

VOCAL

Song Mosaics for Soprano $1.00. Song Mosaics for Alto $1.00. Song Mosaics for Tenor $1.00. Song Mosaics for Baritone or Bass $1.00. Modern Soprano Songs $1.00. Modern Vocal Duets $1.00. Fifty Bass Songs $1.

 Any of the above sent by mail on receipt of marked price.

List of Contents furnished on application. Send 30cts. for sample of "Musical Visitor" for choirs.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 200 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

MUNN & CO. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN AGENCY for PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO. 361 Broadway, New York.

25,000 SOLD

For introduction we will sell the Ladies' Friend Washer at cost where there are no agents. Ten days trial. Agents make $5 to $10 per DAY. FREE It costs you nothing if it does not excel in quality and quantity of work. Circulars free. D. L. BATES & BRO., DAYTON, O.

BAILEY'S

For Electric Light or Gas. For Oil.

Compound light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass REFLECTORS

A wonderful invention for lighting Halls, Churches, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.

Handsome designs. BAILEY REFLECTOR CO. 708 Penn Ave. Pittsburgh, Pa.

WOVEN WIRE FENCE!

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Something new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Descriptive circulars and prices free. Address KITSELMAN BROS., Ridgeville, Ind.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel m'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, game, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr. Prop'r, Loudon, Tenn.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Established 1859.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil or Electric give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular & estimate. A liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N.Y.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS IN BLYMYER BELLS TO THE BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS. BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

Improved EXCELSIOR INCUBATOR

Will hatch larger percentage of fertile eggs at less cost than any other hatcher. Send 6c for Illus. Cats. GEO. H. STAHL, Quincy, Ill.

ASTHMA—CURED DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE never fails. Send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE. THE DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y. FREE

Our Young People.

GOOD MORNING AND GOOD NIGHT.

Good Morning peeped over her eastern gate,
To see if the children were up;
And laughed at a humblebee coming home late,
Who was caught in a hollyhock cup.
Good Morning has eyes like the glint of the skies
When they're bright as the sun and the stars mixed together,
And her lips are so sweet, and her steps are so fleet,
She can dance like a thistledown, fly like a feather.
"You never have seen her?" O, me! O, me!
What a dull little sleepy head you must be!

Good Morning can sing like a brook or a bird;
She knows where the fairies all hide;
Some folk, hard of hearing, say they never have heard
Her sing, though they often have tried.
Good Morning has hair made of sunshine so rare,
The elves tried to steal it to weave in the weather,
Which made her afraid, the bonny wee maid,
To swing on the gate many minutes together.
You "never have seen her?" Ah, me! ah, me!
What a cross, lazy, lie-abed you must be!

Good Night is her neighbor, a dear little soul,
Who swings in a hammock, and not on a gate,
She half shuts her eyes with a great yawn, so droll,
It would make an owl laugh, I will venture to state.
Good Night always brings the most wonderful things,
To hide in the children's beds, glittering and gleaming!
Such tales she can tell, and she tells them so well,
You could listen all night, and believe you were dreaming!
You "never have heard her?" Oh, me! oh, me!
What a small, naughty wide-awake you must be!

Good Night has a house full of beautiful toys,
That she keeps for the children—no grown folk are there;
And she carries them off, the wee girlies and boys,
To her magical palace and, oh, how they stare!
Good Night never frowns when she sees the white gowns
Come trooping to beg for more stories—the dear!—
But with kisses and smiles, the time she beguiles,
And bids them to come again soon—do you hear?
You "never have been there?" Ah, me! ah, me!
What a very sad, grown-up young chick you must be! —St. Nicholas.

MR. EDITOR: I have been thinking for some time I would write to your valuable paper. I enjoy reading the little cousins' letters very much. Our preacher is Bro. Caldwell, though I have never heard him preach. I always read Bro. J. M. and Sister S. G. Weems' letters from Mexico. I am thirteen years of age, and am in the fifth grade, and have seven studies. Don't you think that keeps me quite busy for a little girl like me? Though I have quit school on account of measles, I have been taking music six months and can play quite well. Mama has been quite sick, but is now improving. Santa Claus brought me a large scrap book and a great many other things. I will answer Hattie Woodward's question. The sun is 92,500,000 miles from the earth. I will close by asking a question: How many times does the word "reverend" occur in the Bible, and where is it found? Sister said if you would be so kind as to publish my letter, she would write. With best regards to the ADVOCATE and editor, I remain,

Your friend,
B. O. NEWMAN.

Gallman, Miss.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little boy eleven years old, and, having never seen a letter in the ADVOCATE from any of the children in this part of the country, I concluded to address one to you. My grandpa is a subscriber of the ADVOCATE. We enjoy its weekly visits very much. Although being in the country, we attend Sabbath-school regularly. Mr. F. Hall is our superintendent. We all like him very much. I am organist for Sunday-school, and I play without knowing a note. I have a sister of fifteen years old; she is an attendant of Oxford College; and I have a brother thirteen years old that loves to attend to all kinds of stock. If this is not thrown in the waste-basket, I will feel encouraged to write again.

Your friend,
HUGH B. COFFEY.

Bolton, Miss.

P. S.—I am a member of the Methodist Church; joined two years ago under Bro. I. W. Cooper. Bro. Nicholson is our pastor now.

MR. EDITOR: As I was admitted in the young folks' column once before, I will try and see if I can gain the same success this time. I enjoy reading the young folks' letters very much. Bro. Robinson is our pastor this year, and I like him very much. I have been going to school at Harrisville all the summer. I will close by answering Clara Lee Hammet's question. "Money" is found in Isaiah lv, 1. I wish the dear old ADVOCATE much success. LAURA BARLOW.

Harrisville, Miss.

MR. EDITOR: As I never see any letters from this place in your valuable paper, I will let the young folks' hear from Wesson. I am going to school down at the Union Church High School. Dr. Grafton is president, with Messrs. Ramsey and Mavey, and Misses Lula M. McCormick, N. Jennie Toney and Neilson as assistants. I study Greek, Latin, algebra and history. We have a good Sunday-school. Bro. John W. Purifoy is superintendent, and Mrs. Rebecca L. Bowen is our teacher. The boys and girls think so much of her. Rev. D. W. G. Ellis is our pastor, and we like him so well. I enjoy reading the young folks' letters. I also like to read Dr. Carradine's very interesting letters. I have just gotten well of the pneumonia. Was very sick, but through the good treatment of Dr. J. J. McLean soon recovered. For fear my letter will reach the much-dreaded waste-basket, I will close with good wishes for the dear ADVOCATE.

JOHN P. MATTHEWS, JR.

Wesson, Miss.

In this climate use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for colds, coughs, bronchitis, and catarrh.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little girl twelve years old, and I stay with my grandma (Mrs. Mary Wall). My own home is in Cheneyville, La.; but I come down here to stay with grandma, and to go to school. Grandma says she knows you very well. I would like to know you, too. I love to read the stories and the letters from the children in the ADVOCATE, and also the large folks as well as the children. I go to the Methodist Sunday-school, and like our pastor very much. I attend the Silliman Institute; study complete geography, practical arithmetic, mental arithmetic, higher lessons in grammar, Swinton's Word Book, and sixth reader. Well, I must close, wishing the ADVOCATE success. I remain,

Your little friend,
MATTIE WALL.

Clinton, La.

P. S.—Our superintendent is Mr. Charley Kilbourne, one of the twenty-nine who stood out against the Lottery. I hope to see this in print.

Never delay treating a cough; but use at once Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents.

MR. EDITOR: I am ten years old. I go to school every day. My papa is principal. He has two assistants: Miss Porter, from Oxford, and Miss Adams, from China Grove. I go to Sunday-school every Sunday. Miss Annie Camp is my teacher. She has offered a Bible, and I am trying to get it. Mr. Yaron is our superintendent. Mr. Howell is our pastor, and will soon make his home here, as they are fitting up a parsonage. They are to build a new church here this year. We have two mills and a brick-yard. Our town is not quite three years old, and has 500 inhabitants. With best wishes for the ADVOCATE, I remain,

Your little friend,
O. O. SUMMER.

Lumberton, Miss.

When attacked with neuralgia rub freely with Salvation Oil. Price 25 cents a bottle.

"Uncle John," said little Emily, "do you know that a baby who was fed on elephant's milk gained twenty pounds in a week?"

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Uncle John, and then asked: "Whose baby was it?"

"It was the elephant's baby," replied little Emily.—New Jersey Mirror.

EVERY Housewife
EVERY Counting Room
EVERY Carriage Owner
EVERY Thrifty Mechanic
EVERY Body able to hold a brush
SHOULD USE
DIK-RON
AND SEE THAT SHE OR HE USES IT. TRY IT.
WILL STAIN Old & New Furniture
WILL STAIN Glass and Chinaware
WILL STAIN Tinware
WILL STAIN Your Old Sabbath
WILL STAIN Baby's Coach
and Varnish at the same time.
WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

To the Lady Members of the M. E. Church within the Bounds of the North Mississippi Conference.

"He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." This is the day of bountiful sowing, dear sisters—a truth which will be clearly revealed unto us, if for a short time we cast our eyes about us, and discern, with reverent gaze, the outward tokens of our Father's wisdom and providence. His use of his handiwork, man, is clearly revealed in the progress and condition of human affairs in this closing of the nineteenth century; in the open doors and calls for light and truth that come from all parts of the earth; in the organization and multiplication of societies for the uplifting of the human race; all these and many other facts show clearly to us that we live in an era of bountiful sowing. None other will suffice or meet the urgent demands of the time, and none other will be acceptable to him from whom the reward must come.

Sisters, shall we lag in this march towards ushering in the Master's kingdom? Shall we hold and be content with a sparing sowing and a sparing harvest? Once more I come to you in behalf of our Woman's Department of Church Extension, or, rather, I come in behalf of our Parsonage and Home Mission Work, for this is our new and more expressive name. Our Board of Church Extension has recently shown its confidence in the women of the church by placing this department of work fully in our hands and under our management. Its organization has now been perfected, its Constitution and By-laws remodelled, a full corps of officers elected, and, thus prepared, this "youngest daughter of our church" stretches out her arms to you and craves earnestly your kindest consideration and warmest support. Two years ago, in a circular letter, I brought this matter before you, sisters, and begged your interest and help. But so little have you heeded, and so small is the effort that has been put forth, that at our Annual Conference, in Grenada, I was both humbled and mortified at the report I was compelled to make as your Conference secretary. It is impossible for me to visit in person many of our charges in North Mississippi; but I come to you again and beg you, in the name of him whose heart must go out in peculiar sympathy towards these homeless servants of his (for the "Son of man had not where to lay his head"), that you will arouse yourselves and take an interest and a part in this great work.

It is surely needless for me to explain again the aim and object of this department of woman's work. You all know how our Board of Church Extension assists in the building of churches in thinly-settled and destitute places, and that our Conferences speedily send ministers to such charges, even before the churches are built. In many cases the preachers have families, and, of necessity, they must have a house in which to live. If it taxes every resource in these places to build a church, and even then is beyond their unaided powers, there is little hope of a home for the preacher, at least, for a long time to come; and yet a preacher must go and teach and preach as his divine Master commanded, even in these byways and hedges. Now comes our opportunity to care for some of our Savior's representatives, and thus prove our love and remembrance of him. The Parsonage and Home Mission Society proposes to aid in building homes for our preachers in these places, where without assistance our brother and his family must be homeless, or use a large portion of his already insufficient salary to pay rent for an, often uncomfortable, abode. But, perhaps, you do not feel that this is your work; it has never been "laid on you," as the old sister said, that you are responsible for this; your duty is to care for your own preacher and his family. Sisters, the longer I live the more forcibly is the fact impressed upon me, that, naturally, the human heart is narrow in its affections and selfish in its purposes, and that it is only when we learn to lose our lives for Christ's sake, when we become wholly consecrated to his service, "partakers of the Divine nature," only then will we reach out and take in every needy sufferer and be ready to labor abroad as well as at home. May the Lord God baptize the women of the North Mississippi Conference with such a full portion of his Holy Spirit, that their hearts may be enlarged, their purposes broadened and self-denial be the rule of their lives!

"Love took up the harp of life, and smote on all the cords with might; Smote the cord of self, that, trembling, passed in music out of sight."

This is what we require: that love, in its twofold nature to God and man, shall dominate our hearts and drive self from its uppermost place, its natural throne.

But, perhaps, you say, there are so many calls on us, so many demands on our money and time. Have any of you ever stopped for a brief period and considered carefully what per cent. of your money and time you give to God? Say you attend every prayer meeting and society, and give to every claim presented; even then make the calculation, draw up as it were, a debit and credit account with your Maker; and will you not find that, comparatively, you have little to your credit in Heaven's bank, either of time or money? Is it not "dollars for self and cents for Christ"? Sisters, I come this time with a proposition that, to my mind, is a solution of the problem of how to organize a Parsonage and Home Mission Society in each of our larger charges, or wherever there is already a Ladies' Aid Society; a proposition that, it seems to me, will solve each difficulty that has presented itself, and also render the work our aid societies are doing more effective and less irregular. I am not sure that I have the sanction in this of all those in high places; but I believe that our president, Mrs. E. E. Wiley, will agree to it and give it her hearty endorsement. This is the proposition, viz: That each Ladies' Aid Society in North Mississippi, at its next meeting, shall proceed to change its name and reorganize under the name of the Parsonage and Home Mission Society of such and such a place, adopting the Constitution and By-laws sent out for us. In short, that the Aid Society shall be merged into the Parsonage and Home Mission Society. This need not in the least interfere with the regular home work; go on as before, pay your dues and care for the home parsonage as usual. Only enlarge your sphere of labor and pledge your aid in building parsonages in needy places. This can be done in two ways: Each member can pay twenty-five cents a quarter to this building fund—a separate account being kept by the treasurer, or, if preferred, there can be two treasurers—one for the home and another for the building fund. The second way is this: Each society can set aside a certain amount or per cent. of its funds for this purpose, in either case to be forwarded quarterly to our Conference treasurer, Mrs. J. R. Bingham, Carrollton, Miss. The latter course is the one we have adopted as a beginning in our Aid Society at Greenwood. We have changed our name and reorganized as "P. and H. M. Society of Greenwood," and this year the members have agreed to send, at least, ten dollars to aid in building parsonages; two dollars and a half have been remitted to our Conference treasurer for the first quarter's dues. This is small, and is only a beginning; but if each Aid Society in North Mississippi would follow, pledging themselves to the work, and even give ten dollars a year, quite an advance would be made and quite a sum realized. This change would really be an advantage to us as local workers. As matters now stand, our Aid Societies have no recognized place in the machinery of the church; they are now simply local affairs, or fifth wheels, and have no connection one with another. By this reorganization and change of name, their work will fall into its proper place and receive general recognition, and there will be connection and comparison of labors even in home work with other places, which always bring enlightenment and prompts to greater zeal.

The home mission feature of the new society also gives work to many who say, "There is plenty to do around us; we can not help the heathen, there are too many needy ones at home;" but who are never busy among the sick or poor and seldom hear of destitute cases even among the members of their own church. Once every quarter, or each month, if desired, a committee of two must be appointed, whose duty it shall be to find out and visit the sick and needy, also the strangers who shall have moved among them, and report at each meeting of the society and when required to the pastor. These committees I regard as most important, both for the good of the poor, the sick and the stranger, and for the spiritual benefit of the ladies who serve on them.

Sisters, is not my proposition simple and plain? Does it not help to solve the problem of "too many societies," and do you not truly believe it to be your duty to follow my suggestion and take up this new work, merging your Aid Society into the Parsonage and Home Mission Society? There is absolutely no need of both, and this new work must be done, and the new society can so easily cover all demands and be so much more useful.

I must send in my quarterly report to Miss Helm before March 20. Now, how many of you will act on my proposition immediately, and inform me of the fact, giving full particulars of organization, in time for me to put their name in my report? Let the women of North Mississippi act on this, please, and let us determine, as a united band, to banish selfishness from our labors, and while we care kindly and watchfully for the parsonage at home, let us not forget or neglect the homeless brother in less favored fields, who is sure and often painfully obeying his Master's last command.

In conclusion, let me beg the sisters in the charges where there is no Aid Society in the country, etc., to organize yourselves into P. and H. M. Societies, to take better care of your own parsonage and give of your means to help build these preachers' homes; also appoint your committees to look after the needy about you, following the Constitution and By-laws furnished. Sisters, let me urge you again to give this letter serious and prayerful consideration; and may the Holy Spirit go with it and send back an answer in many pledges of aid and in notice of numerous auxiliaries to the parsonage and home mission work! Let me hear from you. Your sister in Christ,

MARY L. HARGROVE,
Conf. Sec. P. and H. M. Work, N. Miss. Conf.

Nothing On Earth Will MAKE HENS LAY,

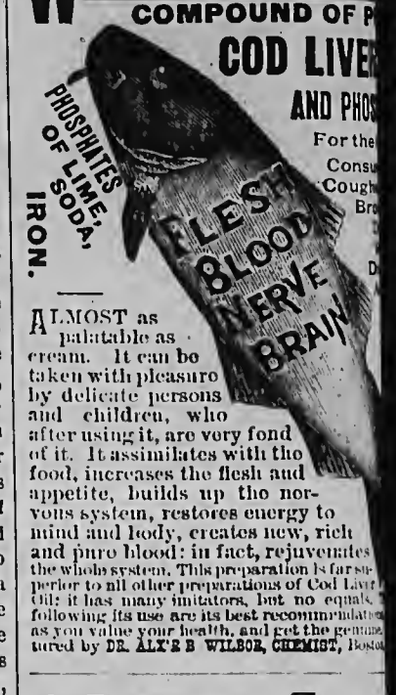
LIKE

Sheridan's Condition Powder!

It is absolutely pure. Highly concentrated. In quantity it costs less than a tenth of a cent a day. Strictly a medicine. Prevents and cures all diseases. Good for young chicks. Worth more than gold when hens moult. "One large can saved me $60, send six for $5 to prevent roup," says a customer. If you can't get it send us 50 cents for two packs; five $1. A 2 1-4 pound can $1.20 post-paid; 6 cans $5, express paid. "THE BEST POULTRY PAPER," sample copy free. Poultry Raising Guide free with $1 orders or more. L. S. JOHNSON & Co., Boston, Mass.

WILBOR'S

COMPOUND OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND PHOSPHATES



For the Consumption, Coughs, Bronchitis, Debility, Wasting Diseases, Scrofula, Rickets, Anæmia, Emaciation, Loss of Flesh, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Paleness, Poverty of the Blood, Chronic Diseases of Throat and Lungs, Chronic Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Affections, Wasting in Children, Diseases of Women, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick Headache, Dizziness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Malaria, Chills and Fever, Blood Diseases, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Eruptions, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Female Complaints, Kidney Complaints, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, Mental Depression, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, Want of Confidence, Lowness, Despondency, Melancholy, Hypochondria, Hysteria, Epilepsy, Fits, Impotency, Sexual Debility, Premature Decay, Involuntary Discharges, Spermatorrhœa, Impure Blood, Lack of Nerve Force, Lack of Vitality, Physical Weakness, Mercurial Affections, Poisoning, Ulcers, Old Sores, Tumors, Glandular Swellings, Goitre, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Barber's Itch, Ringworm, Itching, Blotches, Pimples, Blackheads, Scurf, Dandruff, Impurities of the Blood, Sluggish Circulation, Poor Blood, Thin Blood, Want of Blood, Failure of Blood to Nourish the Body, Wasting Away, Decline, Loss of Weight, Bad Complexion, Sallowness, Anæmia, Exhaustion, Overwork, Overstudy, Overexertion, Overexcitement, Worry, Anxiety, Grief, Trouble, Indiscretion, Dissipation, Exposure, Impaired Digestion, Impaired Nutrition, Impaired Assimilation, Impaired Respiration, Impaired Circulation, Impaired Secretion, Impaired Excretion, Impaired Absorption, Impaired Vitality, Impaired Nerve Force, Impaired Brain Power, Impaired Memory, Impaired Will Power, Impaired Confidence, Impaired Energy, Impaired Ambition, Impaired Hope, Impaired Courage, Impaired Faith, Impaired Love, Impaired Joy, Impaired Peace, Impaired Happiness, Impaired Life.

ALMOST as palatable as cream. It can be taken with pleasure by delicate persons and children, who after using it, are very fond of it. It assimilates with the food, increases the flesh and appetite, builds up the nervous system, restores energy to mind and body, creates new, rich and pure blood: in fact, rejuvenates the whole system. This preparation is far superior to all other preparations of Cod Liver Oil; it has many imitators, but no equals. The following its use are its best recommendations as you value your health, and get the genuine, as prepared by DR. ALFRED WILBOR, CHEMIST, Boston.

Mention this paper.

Books

New Books every week. Catalogue, 132 pages, free, not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

44,000 PIANOS AND ORGANS

Placed in Southern Homes since 1870—Twenty years successful business—sales over Six Million Dollars and yearly increasing. Why? Because the Country is not flooded with Cheap, Inferior Instruments, but

TO SELL—NOT TO USE

and the public has found out that

WE DON'T SELL THAT KIND

Our Instruments lead the world. Our Prices, LESS than factories. Terms, Easiest. Methods, Fairest. Inducements, greatest, and we pay freight. Write for Free Catalogues and Circulars explaining fully—all in plain print. Easy to buy from us.

LUDDEN & BATES

Southern Music House,
SAVANNAH, GA.

A Perfect Fountain Pen!

The best cheap Fountain Pen made.

Sent by mail for 25 cts.

Elegant Gold Fountain Pens and Stylographic Pens, from $1.50 to $3.50 each. Holders and ink for same. Call and examine, or send for price list.

Dealers' Orders Solicited.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans.

MARRIAGES.

SMITH—SLOAN.—At the Sloen House, Clarksdale, Miss., Feb. 9, 1891, by Rev. J. A. Randolph, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, Mr. W. A. Smith and Miss L. E. Sloan.

McGOWEN—AUSTIN.—At the residence of Mr. Eugene McGowen, Spring Ridge, Hinds county, Miss., Feb. 12, 1891, by Rev. J. A. Hobbs, Mr. Charles C. McGowen, of Spring Ridge, to Miss Florence Austin, of Pocahontas, Madison county, Miss.

MARTIN—WILLIAMS.—At the residence of Mr. Flue Smith, Mechanicsburg, Miss., Feb. 10, 1891, by Rev. H. L. Searborongh, Miss Myra Williams, of Mechanicsburg, to Mr. J. O. Martin, all of Yazoo county, Miss.

WEBB—LYONS.—In New Orleans, La., on Wednesday, Feb. 11, 1891, by Rev. C. B. Carter, Dr. H. C. Webb and Miss Leona M. Lyons.

LILLY—SISSON.—At the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. James Sisson, Feb. 10, 1891, by Rev. J. F. Patterson, Mr. B. V. Lilly to Miss Mary Sisson, both of Morehouse parish, La.

CAMMACK—EMANUEL.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Samuel Emennel, Jefferson county, Miss., Dec. 25, 1890, by Rev. J. Wilson Brown, Miss Annie Emanuel and Mr. G. W. Cammack, both of Jefferson county, Miss.

MAPLES—BAILEY.—At the residence of the bride's father, J. T. Bailey, Boston, Miss., Feb. 12, 1891, by Rev. Geo. H. Jacobs, Dr. C. L. Maples, of Red Fork, Ark., and Miss Anne E. Bailey.

RANDLE—COLTON.—At the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. W. R. Colton, near Valdea, Miss., Jan. 11, 1891, by Rev. R. C. Callaway, Mr. W. O. Randle, of Bessemar, Ala., to Miss M. Lulu Colton.

THOMAS—MANAHAM.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Tupelo, Miss., Jan. 22, 1891, by Rev. N. G. Augustus, Mr. John W. Thomas and Miss Annie E. Manaham.

COKER—McNAMEE.—At the M. E. Church, South, Lagrange, Tenn., Feb. 10, 1891, by Rev. N. G. Augustus, Mr. Frank M. Coker and Miss Annie McNamee.

EACH—WATERS.—At Lake Charles, La., Feb. 4, 1891, by Rev. Thos. J. Upton, Mr. Geo. C. Each and Miss Nora M. Waters, all of Lake Charles, La.

JONES—MURPHY.—In Montgomery, Ala., on Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1891, by Rev. John T. Sawyer, Col. Charles F. Jones and Miss Bettie M. Murphy.

BRIGHAM—SAUNDERS.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Bastrop, La., Feb. 11, 1891, by Rev. H. Armstrong, Mr. C. P. Brigham and Miss Katie Saunders.

ANDERSON—EVANS.—At the residenae of the bride's father, Bastrop, La., Feb. 12, 1891, by Rev. H. Armstrong, Mr. Albart Anderson, of Hot Springs, Ark., and Miss Annie E. Evans.

OBITUARIES.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

KENNEDY—ELIZA LIDIA CORN was born at Cobbham, Ga., Sep. 18, 1815; was converted and joined the Methodist Church at twelve years of age, and for sixty-three years was true to the church and God. On Oct. 12, 1832, she was married to Dr. John B. Kennedy, with whom she lived a pleasant and happy life. He died in the yellow fever scourge that passed through this country many years ago. Sister Kennedy died a most triumphant death on the morning of Jan. 23, 1891, in the town of Lafayette, La., aged seventy-five years four months and five days. She was the happy mother of ten children. Six preceded her across the river of death. Four of her sons were in the Confederate Army. Two of them were lost under very afflicting circumstances.

When she was well, and the weather would permit, her seat in the church was never vacant. Especially did she love the class-room and love-feast. Some time last year, speaking in a love-feast, she said, "For sixty-three years I have proven the promises of God true and his grace sufficient in every trial."

Sister Kennedy loved the preachers, her pastors; and if in trouble or affliction, they always found in her true sympathy and help. She was a ripe sheaf, ready for the gathering. Her house was in order; she was ready for the Master's coming. Just at the close she called all the family around her bed and delivered to each her dying charge, and requested them to meet her in heaven, and sent messages to absent members of the family and friends. When asked by her son, Col. H. A. Kennedy, "Mother, is there consolation in religion at this hour?" she replied, with emphasis, "There is, my son." To a friend who came in she said, "I can testify to the truth of religion."

JNO. A. MILLER.

STOTHART.—ROBERT STOTHART was born in the State of Tennessee, Aug. 4, 1846, and died at his home in Bonshatta, La., about Sept. 20, 1890. He came to this State when about twelve years old, and has lived in the vicinity, where he died, ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Swearingen, Aug. 5, 1868. Bro. Stothart joined the M. E. Church, South, about twelve years ago. Up to that time, or, at least, for several years he had lived a dissipated life; so much so that all his friends—and he had many friends even then—except his faithful wife had despaired of his recovery; but through the influence of a loving, true and patient life and the influence of the Holy Spirit he was brought to Christ and into the church. His change and after life was a powerful and convincing demonstration of the power of Christ to save. He had fine business qualifications, and was very successful in business after he joined the church, and by a life of industry and economy, and through the mercies and blessings of God, he had accumulated a considerable amount of property, sufficient to make his wife and five children perfectly independent so far as this world's goods are concerned.

Bro. Stothart died of swamp fever. The church is greatly bereaved, the community has lost a good neighbor, the State and parish a good citizen, and the preacher one of his best friends.

J. B. CASSITY.

MOSS.—Mrs. ANNA MOSS (nee Dupree) was born near Brownsville, in Hinds county, Miss., March 1, 1841. Her father was Col. James Dupree. Her mother's maiden name was Biggs. Her father and mother having died when she was quite a child, she was, therefore, reared and educated by Col. J. B. Greaves. While yet in her teens she graduated with honor from Dr. Elliott's School at Nashville, Tenn. She was happily married to Col. Robert Moss, Dec. 1, 1858. Nine children were born unto them; seven of whom have passed away to the other shore, leaving two to linger for awhile on these mortal shores—Clifton and Ethel. She was converted and united with the M. E. Church, South, at Edwards, Miss., under the pastorate of Rev. R. S. Norsworthy, in 1884.

In 1886 she, in company with her husband and two children, removed to Collin county, Texas, and settled six or seven miles west of Plano. Soon after her arrival in Texas she presented her certificate for membership, and at once became an active member of the M. E. Church, South, at Plano, Texas. In 1890 Col. Moss sold his Texas home, and purchased a plantation in Tensas parish, La. Just a day or two before Christmas, 1890, Mrs. Moss and her daughter, Ethel, started to their new home in Louisiana; but before reaching it she grew sick of la grippe, and after twelve days of suffering at Edwards, Miss., among her friends and relatives, she quietly and tranquilly passed away to her celestial home on high—"beyond the clouds and beyond the tomb."

Having been her pastor during the past four consecutive years, I can truthfully say that Sister Moss was a model Christian woman. She was remarkably intelligent, educated and refined, possessing those graces in an eminent degree that adorn and beautify womanhood, and that fitted her so well for all of the relations of life which she so well sustained.

Although she lived several miles in the country, yet she was as regular in her attendance at church as the circumstances by which she was surrounded would allow. She enjoyed the public services in an eminent degree. The preaching of the Word, the communion of saints, and the fellowship of God's people were all great sources of religious enjoyment to her. She was liberal in her support to the church, and equally generous to the poor and unfortunate. Being social in her feelings and disposition, she had many devoted friends. But little did I think when I said good-by to her and her daughter at the Union Depot in Dallas, Texas, just a day or so before Christmas, that in so short a time that she would be in heaven. How uncertain is life and how certain is death! To-day in health, but to-morrow cold in death!—such is life. How unexpected the death of this holy woman was to her family! Her daughter writes me: "On the night of Jan. 7, after an illness of twelve days, my precious mother passed away." She also adds: "During her illness, as before, she seemed to derive great comfort from her religion."

She was eminently pious and consecrated to the cause of our blessed Redeemer. Her constant wish and prayer was that her husband, to whom she was so ardently attached and devoted, should be saved. She died in sight of the golden city, and has gone home to rest. The struggle with her is over; her warfare is ended, and she is palmed and crowned at God's right hand in heaven. Her voice on earth is hushed in death, her footfall will be heard no more, her form has faded away from view; but she lives in a grander and higher sense than ever before. She now walks the gold-paved streets above, and sings with a richer melody the songs of redemption amid the unclouded splendors of that celestial clime.

"On the other side of Jordan,
In the sweet field of Eden,
Where the tree of life is blooming,
There is rest for you."

May the husband, son and daughter all meet again where tears never fall, and night never comes, and sad separations never occur!

D. J. MARTIN.
Dallas, Texas.

PETTUS—WILLIAM A. PETTUS was born in Florence, Ala., May 16, 1836. When I came to this work a year ago I found Mr. Pettus quite sick. He had never belonged to the church. On one occasion while visiting his brother-in-law's family, with whom he was staying, we noticed after singing and prayers that he was weeping. He afterward professed faith in Christ, and asked to be baptized and received into the church. When spring came he went over to Florida, thinking it might benefit him. He was not there long before he fell asleep in Jesus. At the home of relatives, in Sumpter county, Fla., after giving assurance of acceptance with God, in June, 1890, he passed over the river.

D. P. BRADFORD.
Merton, Miss.

Don't plant a mortgage on your farm. It grows without cultivation, and beats all other crops maturing. Besides the other fellow gathers it.—Mississippian.

A Grain of Sand.

"Between us and hell or heaven there is nothing but life, which is of all things the frailest."

One of the greatest of Frenchmen attributed the death of Cromwell, the subsequent ruin of his family, the overthrow of his government to a seemingly trivial cause, "a grain of sand."

Do not neglect slight symptoms of disease. "While I was musing the fire burned."

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"Mrs. Latshaw had a severe attack of pneumonia. She barely escaped with her life; her lungs were very badly affected. In this condition she used your Compound Oxygen Treatment with great benefit, and is now better and stronger than at any time since the first attack of the disease." REV. D. LATSHAW, Parker's Landing, Pa., Oct. 8, 1888.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"Your Compound Oxygen Treatment has saved my wife several times from pneumonia." S. M. JEROME, No. 98 Grand Ave., New Haven, Conn., Jan. 3, 1880.

There's a 200-page book full of such indorsements as the above. If you want it, it is yours, FREE OF CHARGE. Address DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, California.

ESTABLISHED 1868.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans,

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RIOE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

☞ See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $559,348.11.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, Joseph Schwartz, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,

(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President. EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS.
Telephone—Office and Foundry, 635.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO. Limited or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

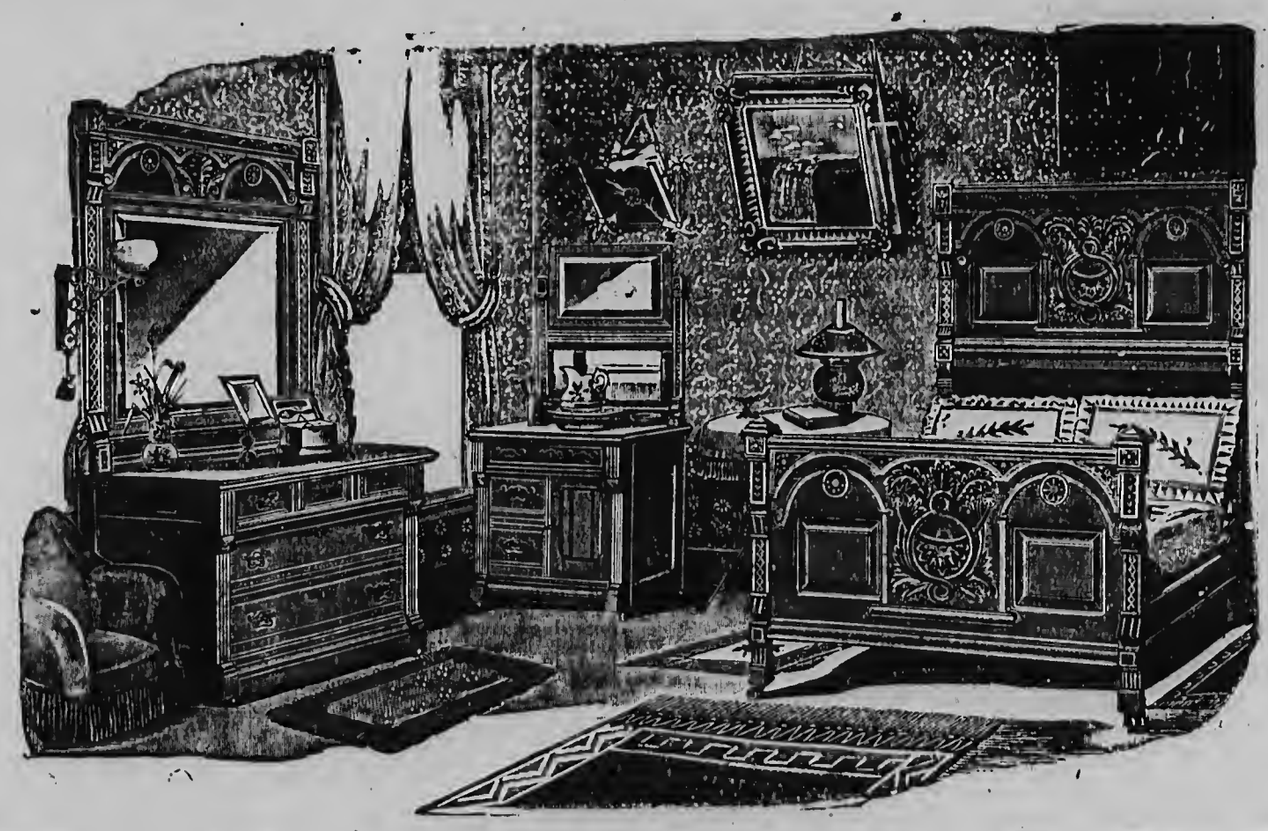
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different variotics to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Valours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Oxford	Mar. 1
Tocopola (Thes.)	3
Abbeville	7, 8
Water Valley cir. (Fri.)	13
Ramer	14, 15
Carrollton	21, 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Cherry Hill (Wed.)	8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Olive Branch	28, Mar. 1
Shawnee, at Harmony	7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. BOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Aberdeen	Mar. 1, 2
Fremont at New Salem	7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Hamilton and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	18

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Horn Lake (Thurs.)	Feb. 26
Chulahoma (Sat. and Sun.)	28, Mar. 1
Mt. Vernon (Sat. and Sun.)	7, 8

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Guntown circuit, at Guntown	28, Mar. 1
Ripley circuit, at Paine's Chapel	5
New Albany circuit, at Locust Grove	7, 8

W. S. LACRONE, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Belen	Mar. 1, 2
Bolivar	7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Coahoma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lehrton	Apr. 4, 5

R. M. STANDEFER, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Meridian, at West End (Thurs.)	Feb. 26
Meridian, at First Church	28, Mar. 1
Meridian, at East End	28, 1
Daleville cir. (Fri.)	6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Binnsville and Wahalak	28, 29

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Perry, at Isabella	28, Mar. 1
Amerions, at Caswell Springs	7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point (night)	8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove (W., Th.)	11, 12
Whittington, at Whittington	14, 15
Columbia, at Columbia	21, 22
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	28, 29

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bowerton, at Brandywine	28, Mar. 1
Lebanon, at Lebanon (Mon.)	2
Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	7, 8
Chunky Grove, at Waterboles	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton (Tues.)	17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Babala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Carthage, at Carthage	28, Mar. 1
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	1, 2
Hillsboro, at New Providence	3
Mt. Rose, at Hooker's	7, 8
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	14, 15
Decatur, at Hebron	17
Raleigh, at Trinity	21, 22
Trenton, at Trenton	22, 23
Marvin, at Marvin	28, 29

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Roxie, at Beech Grove	28, Mar. 1
South Warren, at Porter's	7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 23

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Clinton and Betoville, at Clinton	28, Mar. 1
Covington, at Covington	7, 8
Tallsheek, at Fitzgerald	9
Franklinton, at Mt. Hermon	14, 15
Amite City, at Amite City	19
Springfield, at Killian Chapel	21, 22

C. McDONALD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Edwards station	28, Mar. 1
Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

North Bossier, at Concord	28, Mar. 1
Valley, at Pleasant Valley	4
Wesley, at Holly Springs	7, 8
Red River, at Camp Bello	11
Coushatta at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell's, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Mary, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Scie	4, 5

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Columbia, at Columbia	28, Mar. 1
Castor, at Mount Parnassus	4
Montgomery, at Atlanta	7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beulah	21, 22

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sabine mission	28, Mar. 1
Sulphur Mine	7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Providence, at Providence	28, Mar. 1
Floyd, at Floyd	7, 8
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro	14, 15

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Camps Street	Mar. 1
Thibodeaux and Houma, at Houma	8
Carondelet Street	15
District Conference	12-15

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sparta	28, Mar. 1
Gibbsland, at Gibbsland	4
Ringgold	7, 8
Downsville	14, 15
Farmersville	18

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

Choice Private Board.

A few gentlemen and ladies desiring the comforts of home, freed from the many annoyances of housekeeping, can be elegantly accommodated by the well-known Methodist lady,

MRS. M. M. AUVRAY,

No. 277 Josephine street, New Orleans, La.

It is well-known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

PASTOR'S BOOK—NOW READY.

Messrs. Shaw & Blaylock:

The J. T. L. Annis Pastor's Book has just reached me. I can not commend it too highly to Pastors. In revising it has been brought to a high degree of perfection. No Methodist Pastor should be without it. I am thankful for such a book.

Respectfully, T. L. ADAMS.

The above book, revised and enlarged, can be bought only from the undersigned. Price, postage paid, 50 cents per copy.

SHAW & BLAYLOCK,
Publishers Texas Christian Advocate,
Dallas, Texas.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It can not sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption.

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

Modesty is to merit, as shades to figures in a picture, giving it strength and beauty.—Bruyer.

Ulcerated sore throat and tonsilitis yield to Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, when all else fail.

The Empress Frederick of Germany, who visited France, last week, met with a courteous reception in Paris.

From Seven Thousand Dollars to Twenty-One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Three Dollars.

Twenty-one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three dollars has just been paid by The Mutual Life Insurance Company on an original $7,000 insurance policy.

A result never equaled or even approached by any other company in the world. The fortunate assured was Mr. Charles Dellinger, of Mobile, Ala., who was forty-one years old when he became a member of the company.

RECAPITULATION.

1—Cash value of the dividends 100 per cent. of premiums.

2—Additions to policy 143 per cent. of premiums.

3—Insurance paid 312 per cent. of original amount.

4—Investment, 3 per cent. compound interest.

5—Insured 44 years, from age 41 to age 85.

6—No taxes, care or expense connected with the insurance.

Remember this company is purely mutual; all profits belong to the members. It is also the largest and most profitable company in the world. Mr. T. H. Bowles is the general agent, 120 Common street, New Orleans, La.

For Fireman's Parade

At New Orleans, March 4, the Mississippi Valley Route will on March 3 and 4 sell round-trip tickets from all stations in Louisiana to New Orleans and return at one and a third fare, good to return until March 5. For rates call on nearest ticket agent, or address P. R. Rogers, General Passenger Agent, Memphis, Tenn.

The only reliable vegetable substitute for calomel, which acts on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach, and best anti-bilious purgative is Maguire's Cundurango. Endorsed by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia; Rev. McNally, of St. Louis, and a host of prominent people.

GARMENTS GUARANTEED TO FIT PERFECT WITHOUT TRYING ON.

FREE

by return mail full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style to any measure for lady or child. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

President Harrison has appointed ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, as Secretary Windom's successor.

The Silver bill (unlimited coinage) was defeated in committee, and was reported to the House adversely.

The California Legislature has passed a bill appropriating $300,000 for California exhibits at the World's Fair.

The convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association will begin on the twenty-sixth, in Washington, D. C.

Gen. W. T. Sherman was buried in St. Louis on Feb. 21. The remains were escorted to the grave by a great pageant, in which all walks and stations of life were represented.

An alabaster quarry has been discovered near Canon City, Colo. The ledge is of great thickness and extends for miles. The specimens shown vary from the perfect white to every tint of the rainbow.

The steamship Elizabeth was wrecked on the rocks at North Head on the twenty-first. Of twenty persons on board, seventeen were drowned. Captain Henry, of the Life Saving Service, was drowned while going to the rescue.

The House committee on postoffices and post roads, on Jan. 19, authorized a favorable report on the bill introduced by Representative Evans, of Tennessee, to establish postal savings banks and encourage small savings among the people.

The high water in the Ohio river is causing much distress, and the outlook grows worse daily. About 15,000 men are thrown out of employment in the Ohio Valley by reason of the flood, and it is estimated that $4,000,000 damage has ensued in the inundated district.

The Board of Directors of the Louisiana Chautauqua met in Ruston, La., on Feb. 21, with President Faunt LeRoy in the chair. Plans and specifications for the tabernacle were accepted. This building is to be 100 feet square, with a seating capacity of 1,000, and will be finished in July.

A storm, which occurred on Feb. 19, was most destructive in its effect on telegraphic communication. The most serious damages to the lines were beyond the Mississippi river; the lines running through Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota suffered most heavily. Toward the southwest, south and east the same condition of things prevailed.

Senator Blair, on Feb. 23, reported from the Commitee on Agriculture, with amendments, the bill providing for the establishment of a division of silk culture in the agricultural department for the development and encouragement of the silk worm industry in the United States. The bill directs the Secretary of Agriculture to establish experimental silk stations in various States to develop and promote the silk industry by the free distribution of silk worm eggs to the farmers of the country.

FOREIGN.

The Popo has summoned Cardinal Gibbons to the Vatican for a conference on church questions in the United States.

In the House of Commons, on Jan. 20, a resolution in favor of disestablishment of the Church in Wales was rejected—235 to nothing.

An explosion occurred at the Spring Hill Mines, Nova Scotia, on Feb. 21, with most disastrous results. The total number of victims is placed at 117.

The rival factions of the Irish party are holding mass meetings in Ireland, with the customary excitement and rioting. At Carrick on Shannon several persons received scalp wounds and bruises.

A severe battle was fought at Takar, on Feb. 19, between the Egyptian troops and Osman Digma's dervishes. Nearly one thousand lives were lost. After a disastrous defeat Osman Digma fled from the field.

The Irish priests, responding to an official invitation to assist in the administration of the Zetland-Balfour fund, attended a meeting of the relief committee, but upon learning that they would not be allowed to have effective control of the distribution, they withdrew.

Prince Bismarck has declined the offer of the town of Harburg to nominate him for the Reichstag. He said he was forced to decline on the ground of personal and domestic circumstances, which would prevent a conscientious performance of the duties which would fall to his lot if he accepted.

Advices received from Buenos Ayres are to the effect that the government troops have revolted in the province of Cordova, and have seized the governor's palace. In consequence of this uprising a state of siege has been declared through the province. President Pellegrini has ordered that the most vigorous action to suppress the outbreak be taken.

The German chancellor said the other day: "The government has not the remotest intention of prosecuting either Prince Bismarck or his newspaper organs for attacking the home and foreign politics of the Emperor. If the papers keep within legal bounds, we can meet their criticisms through other papers. As for the prince, his personality, associated as it is with the creation of the office of empire, places him above measures that might be taken towards others."

At a dinner given in his honor by the Brandenburg Diet, Emperor William said he was aware that much that he had recently done had changed many of his people, and that they hesitated to follow him. It was necessary, however, for them to confide in him, with a view only to the welfare of the whole people. Prussia, he said, became great because in 1813 the whole nation confided in and rallied to the support of the king.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which gives physical liberty.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	6⅝ @	— —
Ordinary	7⅛	— —
Good ordinary	7½	— —
Low middling	8⅛	— —
Middling	8¾	— —
Good middling	10	— —
Middling fair	11 3-16	— —
Fair	11 15-16	— —
Galveston middling	— —	— —
Mobile middling	— —	— —
Memphis middling	— —	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅛	4¼
Fully fair	4	4 1-16
Good fair	4	4 1-16
Common	3½	3⅞
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3	4 9-16
Prime yellow	4 13-16	— —
Gray white	5	— —
Choice white	5¼	5 5-16
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	— —	— —
Good common	— —	— —
SYRUP	— —	— —
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	5⅜	5½
Fair	5⅛	5¼
Prime	5⅝	5¾
Rough, ₱ bbl	3 50	5 00
POLISH, ₱ ton	22 00	24 00
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 10	5 15
Fancy	4 62½	4 87½
Choice	— —	4 25
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 50	— —
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 00
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 10	3 15
Cream meal	— —	3 30
Grits	3 35	3 40
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	66	67
Yellow	66	67
Mixed No. 2	65	66
OATS:
Western	56	57
Texas rust-proof	— —	60
BRAN:
₱ cwt	1 15	1 20
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 00
Choice	16 00	16 50
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	10 75	10 87½
Prime Mess	10 25	10 50
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8⅛	8¾
Shoulders	5⅛	5¼
Sides, short rib	6	6⅛
Sides, long clear	6	6⅛
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9	9½
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅛	— —
Sides, short rib	5¼	— —
Sides, long clear	5⅛	— —
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
No.	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	— —	32
Western Dairy	— —	20
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5⅛	— —
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	23	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	4 00	6 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 25	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	4 50	5 00
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7¾	— —
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₱ yard	— —	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₱ bundle	1 35	— —
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	4 50
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	10	11
Southern	10½	11
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	18	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₱ lb	5¼	— —
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid, ₱ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, February 24.

INFANTILE SKIN AND SCALP DISEASES CURED BY Cuticura

EVERY HUMOR OF THE SKIN AND SCALP of infancy and childhood, whether torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, scaly, crusted, pimply, or blotchy, with loss of hair, and every impurity of the blood, whether simple, scrofulous, or hereditary, is speedily, permanently, and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Purifier and Beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood and Skin Purifier and greatest of Humor Remedies, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Parents, save your children years of mental and physical suffering. Begin now. Delays are dangerous. Cures made in childhood are permanent.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Baby's skin and scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

Kidney pains, backache, and muscular rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER. 25 cents.

KURSHEEDT'S

Marble Works,

120 and 122 Camp St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

SOLANUM GRANDIFLORA. This new pot and garden plant is truly one of the most ma... perpetual bloomers ever seen. It bears by the hundred clust... of lovely snow-white flowers, which keep perfect a month before fading and appear at all times of the... These great panicles of bloom are often a foot across and are borne by the hundred both summer and w... As a perpetual bloomer of fascinating beauty and loveliness this plant surpasses everything—even the... Magnolia Vine. It is as easily grown as a Geranium, either in pots or the garden, and requires exa... same treatment. It can be trained up as a climber or grown in bush form, and in either way its great... of glorious flowers will surprise and delight all who see it. Price of strong plants, ready to bloom... 30 cents each; 2 for 50 cents; 5 for $1 by mail postpaid.

THE TRUE MANETTIA VINE. A magnificent flowering vine which is loaded with brilliant... every day in the year. Its charming grace and beauty b... passed. Fine plants ALREADY BUDDED and BLOOMING, 30 cents each; 2 for 50 cents.

THE RAINBOW CACTUS. Two years ago this wonderfully beautiful cactus sold at $5 ea... now possess an enormous stock of magnificent plants which... very low. The plant is covered with a net-work of spines which grow in rings at different colors from w... crimson, hence its name "Rainbow." It is a most beautiful plant at all times, but when in bloom... deur is unsurpassed having flowers 4 inches across, bright crimson with a white center. It blooms p... and is of the easiest culture in pots. Large plants for immediate blooming 30 cents each; 2 for 50 cents

THE BUTTERFLY ORCHID. All know the beauty and value of a good Orchid. This is a... suspended in a window it makes a most unique and beautiful... growing freely without soil. Cultural directions in Catalogue. It produces great panicles of gay lit... like flowers which keep perfect a long time. Strong plants of blooming size 30 cents each; 4 for $1.

THE GREAT SPIDER LILY. An elegant large bulb of the Amaryllis family which comm... soon after it is potted, sending up great spikes of lovely... pure white blossoms of exquisite fragrance and unsurpassed beauty. It is one of the oddest, sweetest... loveliest flowers grown. Large bulbs which will soon bloom, 25 cents each, postpaid.

A GREAT OFFER. For only ONE DOLLAR we will send by mail postpaid all five of the above... cent new plants. (Or the above and the following 8 collections for $4 post...

ALSO THE FOLLOWING EXTRA CHOICE COLLECTIONS BY MAIL POSTPAID:

5 Ornamental Flowering Shrubs, named,	50c.	4 Superb New Grapes, including Niagara
12 Extra choice mixed Gladiolus, flowering bulbs,	25c.	5 Grand Lilies, 5 sorts, including Auratum.
6 New Double Pearl Tuberoses " "	25c.	5 " Pæni, different sorts unnamed.
5 Rare Chrysanthemums, 5 sorts named.	50c.	20 Bulbs and 10 pkts. Flower Seeds, all different.

OUR BLUE CATALOGUE. (A superb work of art in blue) of FLOWER AND VEGE... SEEDS, BULBS, PLANTS, AND RARE FRUITS, is the... Issued. 128 pages, hundreds of elegant engravings, Stipple Lithograph Covers and 4 large colored pla... offer the finest novelties in Flowers, Vegetables and Fruits, notably: our great Japanese Wineberry... Park Pinus, Butterfly Orchid, Star Phloxes, Water Plants, New Roses, Dahlias, Gladiolus, Chrysanthe... etc. Also the greatest collection of rare Cacti and Flowering shrubs. This elegant and expensive C... will be sent for only TEN CENTS, or if you order anything here offered and ask for a Catalogue it will be... FREE. Address JOHN LEWIS CHILDS, Floral Park, Queens Co., N.

THE DINGEE & CONARD CO'S

ROSES GROW and BLOOM

We have the know-how of growing them, k... ing them, shipping them. Acres of Gl... If you really like Roses you are bound to co... to us in the end. Our NEW GUIDE—124 pp., illustrated, complete, the best book of its kind, FRE... to all interested. We send ROSES, HARDY PLANTS, SUMMER BULBS, FLOWER a... VEGETABLE SEEDS postpaid, to all post offices. Safe arrival and satisfaction guaranteed... THE DINGEE & CONARD CO.—Rose Growers and Seedsmen—West Grove, Pa.

Home Grown, Honest, Reliable.

I offer you my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1891 FREE. Note the immense variety of seed it contains, and that all the best novelties are there. Not much mere show about it (you don't plant pictures) but fine engravings from photographs of scores of the choice vegetables I have introduced. Would it not be well to get the seed of these from first hands? To be the oldest firm in the United States making mail and express business a specialty proves reliability. Honest and fair dealing is the only foundation this can rest on. My Catalogue is FREE as usual. A matter on second page of considerable interest my customers. J. J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

PIANOS | P. WERLEIN, | ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition.

PIANOS From $325 Upwards.

ORGANS From $30 Upwards.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, ... $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, JR., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.

SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE: 14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF

"High Grade Bone Fertilizers."
"Stern's" Ammoniated Bone Superphosphate.
"Stern's" Pure Ground Bone.
"Stern's" Sugar Super phosphate.
DISSOLVED BONE.
ACID PHOSPHATE.
Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid.
BONE BLACK.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 10. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1802.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

Rev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. C. GRANT, Publisher.
Rev. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

Objects, Methods, and Results of Sunday-School Work.

BY PROF. DABNEY LIPSCOMB.

MR. EDITOR: In response to your circular card asking for my views on the objects and methods of Sunday-school work, and the results of that work as drawn from my observation and experience, I would respectfully offer the following, with the hope that other more experienced workers may thereby be indneed to give us the benefit of their riper knowledge and more extended labors:

1. The object of Sunday-school work is, primarily, the salvation of the young, by instructing them in God's Word and leading them to a personal acceptance and service of Christ as their Lord and Savior. Secondarily, it aims to familiarize the scholars with the forms of worship and the doctrines of the church with which the school is connected, and of which they are expected to become members. The Sunday-school is essentially a Bible school, and a saving knowledge of Christ is the all-important lesson for each scholar to learn. As a link in the chain of Christian educational forces between the home and the church, it takes the place of neither, but is indispensable to both.

2. The very term, methods of work, presupposes organization, system, order and regularity in the performance of that work; hence officers, teachers, classes, and a program of exercises are as essential in a Sunday-school as in a secular school, and, consequently, will always be found in such a school when well conducted. The larger and better equipped the school, and the more capable and zealous the officers and teachers, the more varied and efficient will be its methods of work. But, be the school large or small, its methods few or many, under three heads these methods may all be naturally classed, namely: general, class, and individual methods.

In the term, general methods, is embraced the different ways in which the singing, Scripture reading, and other exercises in which all the school take part are conducted—in short, the character of the opening and closing services of the school. Where so many methods are excellent, I will not presume to offer an opinion as to which is best; but will only mention a few of the many, with, perhaps, an occasional intimation of my preference. In some schools the lesson, or responsive service, is read alternately by the superintendent and the school; in others, by the teachers and the scholars alternately, while in some the lesson of the day may not be read at all in concert, but an entirely different selection, illustrative of it, is read by the superintendent only. Some schools stand to pray and sit to sing; others stand to sing and kneel to pray. The latter is Methodist usage, but sometimes disregarded in our schools, as it is quite extensively in our churches, we regret to see. Songs kindred in sentiment to the teachings of the lesson are chosen in some schools; in others, too often, no reference to the important truths of the lesson of the day is had in their selection. Whatever be the method chosen, promptness, seriousness and forethought should characterize the general exercises of the school.

By class methods is meant the various modes of organizing, teaching, managing and promoting classes; primary, intermediate and advanced classes necessarily requiring a difference in degree and kind of instruction and management. The concert methods, object-lesson and "chalk talks" of the "infant" class certainly would not suit the intermediate and more advanced scholars. Under this head a book might be written—indeed, excellent ones have been written thereon; so more than an allusion to it here would be as unsatisfactory as it would be incomplete. Suffice it to say, therefore, that, bearing upon the lesson as it does, it touches the central point of Sunday-school work, and vitally affects its results.

By individual methods reference is made to the particular manner in which the superintendent, secretary or teacher discharges his or her respective duties, as in the matter of finances, keeping of the records, review and application of the lesson, reaching absent scholars, and personal intercourse with the penitent, the indifferent, or the disorderly. Some superintendents, as occasion may suggest, endeavor, at the close of the lesson, to rivet one or two of its practical truths by a few questions, an apt illustration, or a short, earnest exhortation; others leave this entirely with the teachers, which, perhaps, might do, if they all really taught the lesson, and then lovingly and forcibly applied its teachings. But some merely ask the questions by rote, and then, apparently relieved, join with their class in irrelevant and even flippant conversation. This thought suggests a closing remark on methods which, with equal, if not greater, propriety, might have been mentioned under the second head, termed class methods. Reading the answer from the paper is a method of recitation quite prevalent in our schools, which, except under peculiar circumstances, is invariably a sign of weakness in either the class or the teacher; in both, where it is voluntarily and regularly pursued. I would here enter a strong protest against it.

3. The results of Sunday-school work, as shown by observation and my experience as teacher, secretary, and superintendent, successively during the past ten or twelve years, have, on the whole, been very gratifying. From the schools with which I have been connected have come the young men and young women who are now serving the church as Sunday-school teachers and officers, stewards, and leaders in its various societies. Personal observation of many other schools of this and other denominations has impressed still deeper my firm conviction that to the Sunday-school the church must look for her most active and devoted members.

More lengthy and definite statements of these results might have been made; but, perhaps, it will be more profitable to call attention to a few hindrances and mistakes which, I believe, prevent the accomplishment of even grander results.

First, as a rule, our Sunday-schools are meagerly equipped and poorly accommodated. Many lack a sufficient supply of catechisms, lesson papers and hymn books, and still more lack maps, blackboards, libraries, and religious papers suitable to the young—all of which add to the interest and efficiency of a school.

Second, it seems to me that in one respect we have gone from one extreme to another. Formerly, children were overtasked with memorizing Scripture verses, sometimes being called on in review to repeat them by the score; but now they are rarely asked to give even the Golden Texts for the quarter; and ability to recite the Ten Commandments and the Apostles' Creed, once required of all, has become an unusual accomplishment. It is hardly necessary for me to add that I believe increased attention should be paid to this very important feature of our work.

Third, and last, already I have written more than I intended. If there be one mistake more general than any other, it is that, as officers and teachers, we either lose sight of the grand central aim and end of Sunday-school work—the individual salvation of the children—or we have not faith enough to claim and expect great and immediate results. As with some preachers, so with, I fear, many officers and teachers, it is sowing-time all the year round—they seem never to expect a reaping-time. Nor can we hope for greater results until more of our teachers apprehend the exalted privileges and sacred duties of their position, and thus be led to fuller consecration, more prayerful, systematic study, and more direct, personal work with the unconverted in their classes. Especially at revival seasons in the church will such direct effort by a teacher do much toward influencing a scholar to decide for Christ; and no teacher should be satisfied until all in her class have accepted Him and united with the church. Upon its faithful teachers the true prosperity of a Sunday-school almost entirely depends. Theirs is, indeed, a glorious opportunity, but, at the same time, a solemn responsibility. With what faith-filled, loving hearts, truth-laden minds, and eager, active hands should they address themselves to their high and holy mission!

Agricultural College, Mississippi.

Hypostatic Union—Atonement—Inquiry.

BY REV. D. M. GEDDIE.

No one can read the Gospel written by "that disciple whom Jesus loved" without feeling the benign influence of his heavenly-mindedness. The rich fruits of that golden harvest, gathered from his deep experience and thorough acquaintance with divine things, learned in those familiar interconrses with the heavenly Teacher, and while leaning his head on his bosom to catch the impulses and power of that diviner life that coursed the human arteries of the Son of God, are in every sentence. His Gospel is a history of the inner and divine life of Christ. Every word, every gesture, every change in the countenance of Christ had a divine meaning to him. With him Christ was coequal and coeternal with the Father, the very and eternal God, antedating all existence, and giving being to all things by the creative omnipotence of his own word. In his first sentence he flings open the broad doors of the chaotic universe lying back of our planetary system, and bids us behold Christ in the council halls of eternity advising with the Father over the creation of our world. Such is the Savior presented to us by John. Divine as well as human, and human as well as divine—both at once, and forever, by the hypostatic union of divinity and humanity, for "the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us," manifesting his glory by gracious deeds and words of truth.

"The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." How significantly sublime is this simple passage of divine inspiration! What a mine of the pure coin of heaven lies beneath the surface of these monosyllable words! What a comprehensive and glorious conception of the office, work and nature of the Messiah!—the God-man made flesh. Not a transformation, nor a transmutation of divinity, but something more than simple incarnation of Deity. A perfect and absolute union of divinity and humanity in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ by conception and birth of the Holy Ghost of God and Mary, the virgin daughter of David. Not a union of two persons in one nature, but a union of two natures in one person, so complete that each nature interpenetrates and unites with the other at every point of contact in reciprocal communion and fellowship of suffering and activity, so as to be no longer two, but one in the highest and most inseparable union. Divinity and humanity, with all its weakness, sensitiveness and suffering, united in the one person of the Lord Jesus Christ, "that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people; for in that he himself hath suffered, being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted." The two natures were united in one person that the divine might participate in all the temptations and sufferings of the human, and become acquainted, by an actual human experience, with all the environments and needs of our race. By this union divinity was brought into absolute and eternal sympathy with man in all his sufferings. The crowning glory of the great high priesthood of Christ is its deep and touching experience and never-ending sympathy with our infirmity; and, though he is now exalted at the right hand of the Father, and possesses all power in earth and heaven, he yet remembers the "feeling of our infirmities," and is "merciful and faithful" in all his mediatorial intercessions for us.

Is this not a sufficient and satisfactory explanation of the atonement? This word comes from the word atone, which means to make or become one; to unite two separate and independent things into one.

Now, what was Christ's mission on earth as the Messiah of God? Why did he leave the palace chambers of the Father's glory? Why did he close his ears to the music of the spheres and the ravishing strains of angelic voices, and open them to the din and confusion of this world? Was it not to make atonement for man?—to unite God and man in a moral, spiritual, divine relationship and communion? Verily it was. He came into this world, and bore our griefs and carried our sorrows and spilt his vicarious blood on the shameful cross that he might annihilate the disunion between God and man and reunite them in harmony, love, and fellowship eternal. And how could he make himself the meeting ground where heaven and earth could embrace each other in mutual caresses, and God and man hold heavenly, divine communion, without combining divinity and humanity in his own person? And if divinity and humanity have been inseparably joined together in the one person of the Lord Jesus Christ, and he is the representative of the race, and he touches all humanity at every conceivable point of contact, is it not easy to see how the whole human race can be reunited to God in infancy? Would it not be both scriptural and logical to say that, by virtue of the union and suffering of the two natures in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ, the original moral relation of the soul with God is restored to every man in infancy? This restoration of the original moral union of the soul with God would be the spontaneous consequence of the union and suffering of the two natures in the person of Christ, the blessed Savior of men. It is not the imputed righteousness of Christ, but that righteousness that flows as a natural and necessary consequence from the union and suffering of the two natures in one person.

This restoration of the original moral union of the soul with God does not, of course, effect a removal of physical infirmities any more than the regeneration of an adult eliminates from his nature all tendencies to sin. If regeneration destroyed all fallibilities and infirmities in either infancy or adult age, it would give us an absolute release from sufferings of all kinds, and preclude the necessity of physical death and a resurrection to spiritual immortality by a transformation of the human into an angelic nature. Regeneration restores union and communion of the soul with God only in so far as this can be done without violence to the physical organism. The new birth effects the body to the extent that it is the instrument of the soul in the performance of its activities under the environments of this world.

If the above doctrine be true, it greatly modifies—probably invalidates—the doctrine of penal substitution as stated by Mr. Watson and others, who are considered standard authority in our church. It does away with substitution, in the sense of penalty, by precluding its necessity. According to it, depravity is not the imputation of Adam's sin, but the consequence of his disunion with God. Disunion being a constitutional part of Adam's nature after the fall, he was forced, by the laws of heredity, to transmit it to his posterity. Hence depravity comes not by imputation, but by the laws of natural generation; and there can be no more guilt in inherited depravity than there is in inherited consumption. The transference of sin or righteousness from one individual to another is something unknown in the moral universe of God. Everywhere in the Scriptures that sin is said to be imputed, it is imputed to the individual who committed it. "The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him. The soul that sinneth"—the individual soul—"it shall die."

If Adam's sin is imputed to the race, Christ's righteousness is imputed to the race, for the same passages of Scripture that are used to prove the imputation of Adam's sin will, by the same interpretation, prove the imputation of Christ's righteousness; and if Christ's righteousness is imputed, the whole ground of moral responsibility is destroyed. But, on the other hand, if righteousness flows to the infantile world as a spontaneous consequence of the union and suffering of the two natures in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ, it preserves the ground of moral responsibility and obligation intact; and, as sin was the deadly weapon that severed Adam from God, so sin is still the sword of severance that disunites God and man.

Shuqualak, Miss.

The Young Preacher—No. 6.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

HISTORICAL READING.

The Bible is the oldest historical book—older, by long centuries, than Homer or Herodotus. It is also historical of the most ancient facts about earth and man, and relates to us, in clear and authentic statements, the manner of the origin of each. For a period of two thousand five hundred years, and more, we have no other authentic history. As a historical volume, it stands pre-eminent, and leads the van. But the Bible does not propose to be a universal history no more than it claims to be an encyclopedia of science. Its grand aim is to make us wise, not in all history, nor in all science, but unto salvation, though, wherever it touches either, it is true and instructive. Cotemporary and secular history should be read by every preacher and Bible student. It will be found a help to the better understanding of the historical, geographical, biographical and descriptive portions of the inspired Word. The great facts and general outlines of man's career and forward march should be familiar to every Bible student and preacher of the Word. History is said to be philosophy teaching by example. It unfolds to us the secret springs of human action; it tells out the motives by which men have been governed in the part they have acted on the stage of time. We see the causes that led to the growth and power of kingdoms and empires, and the causes that brought their decay and ruin. We see the influences that drew together populations, commerce, wealth and power at certain great centres, and made them potential factors in the affairs of the world, and the adverse influences that wrought their ruin.

The biographical portions of history are most instructive and interesting. The biography of any eminent man is a great object-lesson in the study of human nature; and there is no study outside the Book of God so important and useful to a preacher of the gospel as the study of human nature. It is with men, and not botany, geology, astronomy, or any of the natural sciences that we have to do; but with man, in his nature, his fears, his hopes, his aspirations, his duties, and his destiny. Whatever, then, helps us better to understand man, and how to move him forward and upward towards purity and God, is to us a most important branch of knowledge.

History is a sort of travel among the races and nationalities of the past. We see their civilizations, as exhibited in their arts, governments, religions, theories, and modes of domestic, social, business and civil life. All this broadens, illuminates and liberalizes us. Such education increases our power to be useful, and to be successful in winning men. Lacking such culture, there is a narrowness, a shallowness, and generally an uncharitableness, that curtails our power, because we lack sympathy and power of adaptation. Of course, the whole field of history is too voluminous and broad for the opportunities of a busy pastoral life; but, by a judicious selection, we can read enough to have a general, if not a minute and exhaustive, knowledge of historic lore. A few books, well selected and studiously read, is far better than the hurried reading of a large mass of miscellaneous books. A vast mass of mere trash and rehash has been written and published, and it may be that the burning of the Alexandrian library has not been so great a calamity as some have deplored. No doubt, valuable things have been lost, but, doubtless, much worthless trash and twaddle were consumed as well.

It would be well for each young preacher to have a little blank-book of good paper, and well bound, in which to record dates of men and events, and brief and clear statements of important facts—a convenient book that can be easily carried; a sort of vade mecum; a book to go with you, and of convenient reference when you need to refresh your memory, or need to use a certain fact. Thus reading history, your mind is stored with much valuable knowledge, equipping you for conversation, public speaking, or spicy and instructive writing. In discussing as many themes, and presenting as many aspects and angles of truth as a preacher must and will in a score, or scores, of years, he will find that he can profitably use a great many facts. I have hardly ever read anything that was worth hearing, or reading, that I have not, at some time, been able to introduce, to give zest, variety and emphasized impression to my discourse. I have sometimes met at table excellent materials, but wanting proper seasoning. They were not palatable—indeed, scarce edible at all.

Literary Notes.

Mr. Oscar Fay Adams is editing for D. Lothrop Company a collection of the last poems of the late Horatio Nelson Powers, whose "Ten Years of Song" gave him high rank among American poets.

A somewhat remarkable book in press by D. Lothrop Company, and announced for early publication, is "The Gospels are True Histories"—a vindication of the historical correctness of the Gospels, made, after careful research, by Rev. Dr. Barrows, of Chicago.

New editions have been called for of Richard Malcolm Johnston's "Widow Guthrie," Gail Hamilton's "Washington Bible-Class," and G. H. Ellwanger's "Story of My House." As the first editions were much larger than first editions commonly are, this indicates a very active demand for the three books, all of which were first published quite recently by D. Appleton & Co.

The March Wide Awake opens three prize competitions to the young people—one in connection with Miss Rimmer's "Figure Drawing for Children;" another of cash prizes for the best translation of the famous Winchester College song, "Dulce Domum," into English verse; and a third of cash prizes for a solution of a problem in Horology, by Mr. E. H. Hinwley, of the Smithsonian.

"The First Thing in the World; or, the Primacy of Faith," by Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D. What need is there to recommend this? The name of one of the foremost of America's teachers, whose genius, eloquence, and spiritual-mindedness are almost universally recognized, is sufficient to ensure a large circulation for this publication among the refined, cultured and earnest seekers after truth.

The D. Lothrop Company publish this week "Brotherhood," a labor novel by Mary Cruger; "Go Right On, Girls," a book of advice by Annie H. Ryder; "A Sunday Album," by Rev. J. R. Simmons; and "Helps in Teaching Reading," by Martha S. Hussey. They also have ready new editions of Dr. Clark's Christian Endeavor text-book, "Ways and Means," and Miss Hersey's edition of Robert Browning's "Christmas Eve and Easter Day."

Richard Malcolm Johnston's delightful short stories, which have appeared in The Century, Harper's, and other magazines, are to be published together with a new story in D. Appleton & Co.'s Town and Country Library, under the title of "The Primes and Their Neighbors." This volume will contain ten of the characteristic tales of Middle Georgia, which furnish such charming illustrations of the author's mellow humor.

The series "Gems of Thought and Helpfulness," of which Prof. Drummond's tractlets were the first, published by Fleming H. Revell Company, New York and Chicago, is enriched by two new publications, which for originality of thought, beauty of expression, and emphatic enunciation of "the truth as it is in Jesus," have not probably been surpassed by any pamphlet productions of the present day. "The Message of Jesus to Men of Wealth," by Rev. George D. Herron, is not only brilliant as an intellectual effort, but is pregnant with the solution of a problem which is of intense interest to men of affluence.

The Fleming H. Revell Company, of New York and Chicago, are already in the field with their announcement of three Easter tokens of a very attractive character.

The first two are compiled by Rose Porter, and entitled "Cathedral Echoes, or Easter Praise," and "Easter Interpreted by Robert Browning." The third is a collection of Mary Lowe Dickinson's choicest poems (some never before published) titled "The Living Christ—Easter Thoughts for The King's Daughters."

All will be issued in the same chaste form, so popular in Prof. Drummond's books, but in addition the white vellum cover will be decorated with appropriate designs specially prepared by an accomplished artist.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1891.

THE SPIDER WEB.

BY ELLEN V. TALBOT.

Through the long night
The builder builded and the structure grew;
With skillful art from spray to spray he drew
His slender thread, while hidden from the sight,
And on an ancient pattern builded there
His castle in the air.

And still he thought
Of the new home and what should be therein,
Of the dear friends that he would shortly win
To dwell there, and of all that should be brought,
Of beauty, to make delicate and fair
His castle in the air.

When the morn rose
His work was done: woven from stem to stem,
Lighted by chandelier of pearl and gem,
And shimmering with a thousand rainbow glows;
And then he mounted by a silver stair
His castle in the air.

When a spring breeze
Passed by and brushed him rudely to the ground,
Just as his foot had reached the topmost round;
Snatched off his web from the syringa trees,
And left the builder seeking everywhere
His castle in the air.

Chapter Four in the Experience and Observation of a New Presiding Elder.

A TRIP TO ENERGY.

The first Quarterly Conference for the Manassas circuit was duly appointed to be held at Energy. And where is Energy? By reference to the "Official Map of Mississippi" (which is as full of errors as a sophomore's composition), it will be seen that Energy is about eighteen miles distant and a little south and east from Enterprise; about the same distance southeast from Vineville, and about ten miles south of Why Not, and two miles east of Buckatunna Creek. It was once a terra incognita to me, but now it is a terra horribiles.

I had written to a wealthy member of that church asking about the best way to get to Energy; whether he could send for me or I should hire a conveyance. He did not answer my inquiry, but advised the preacher in charge to take me out from Enterprise. It was well that he did not tell me to hire a conveyance.

The trip to Enterprise by rail was made in pleasant company and without accident. Bro. Hawkins met me and escorted me to his good mother's hospitable home. An early breakfast next morning, and we started for Energy. A good brother advised us to turn back, as there were three swollen creeks across our route. But when did high water, winter's cold or summer's heat daunt the heart of an itinerant on his way to an appointment? So we pushed on, traveling on the "European plan"—riding when we could, and walking when we were compelled. The deep mud and slippery hills made walking often necessary. Oh, the mud!—red, black, yellow, thin, thick, sticky, tough. Four miles from Enterprise we reached Archusa Creek and crossed with some trepidation, as its swift current came near lifting our pony from his footing, and the muddy waters flowed into the buggy. Twice did we take the wrong road, thereby losing an hour, or more, before we reached Long Creek, whose waters were rising. That crossed and four miles more traveled, we reached Buckatunna Creek, now forever linked with the fate of Rube Burrows. Two miles more, and we reached our destination—the shackly structure which for years has done duty for political meetings and elections, public school and preaching-place. A box-house, uncelled, without window-sash, inch-plank floor—no two planks holding fellowship—dirty, littered, foul with tobacco spit, commanding neither the respect nor reverence of men, nor inviting the presence of God. "It is good enough to worship in," said a member who is able to build a neat and comfortable church without assistance, and who will, some day, leave all his lands and money behind him.

Stewards from every church in the circuit but one were present, and had patiently awaited the coming of the preacher and presiding elder. The Conference was soon called to order, a Bible chapter read, a hymn sung, and the presence of God invoked. The Disciplinary questions were called and quick work done till Question 6 was called, when it was found that the stewards had met and agreed to allow the preacher $200 for a whole year's service rendered five churches, necessitating, at least, eighteen hundred miles of travel, and not less than sixty sermons and one or two hundred pastoral visits. Knowing that there were, at least, two men among the membership on that circuit, either of whom could easily pay that amount, and that there were 350 other members of the churches to be served by Bro. Hawkins, I refused to consent to any such assessment as that, and, by dint of persuasion, got the stewards to advance the assessment to $300 for the preacher—little enough in all conscience. I thought of "Post Oak Circuit," and wished for the skill of the presiding elder described in that inimitable book.

Question 8 was called and a shortmeter answer given. No collecting had been done, and three stewards handed in a total of $7 50. Not a cent from Union, New Home or Energy! There was not enough to divide, but I needed a dollar for railroad fare. Bro. Hawkins got the balance. I was glad I did not hire a conveyance from Meridian. It would have bankrupted the Quarterly Conference.

Sunday I preached to a small congregation, called for the Bishop's collection and got five cents!—and, that from a visiting brother, a steward at another church! The ninety-four members at Energy last year paid their faithful preacher less than $60; and either one of two members there could have paid as much with all ease. If those ninety-four members would only pay as much to support the gospel at home and abroad as it is said that they spend for whisky, tobacco and snuff, they would pay as much as the whole circuit now does to support the church and advance the cause of Christ.

Bro. Hawkins and myself had spent Saturday night at Bro. E. T. Davis' home, and there we also dined. Four bright-eyed boys and a sweet little five-year-old girl won their way to our hearts. Dinner over, we turned our faces westward, intending to get across Buckatunna and Long Creeks in order to get to Enterprise, Monday noon, for the creeks were rising and the clouds were threatening. Buckatunna was crossed, and its swamp passed through in safety, though the waters were rising rapidly; but when we reached Long Creek the rushing waters were too high for us to venture through the swamp. And there we were between the creeks! Nothing remained but for us to turn our faces northward and travel along the crest of the dividing ridge, which furnishes food for geological study, but not much for man and beast. The ridge is lofty, its sides sometimes almost precipitous, with ledges of sandstone cropping out here and there, while in other places immense quantities of rotten limestone appear. The pine trees are huge and numerous. But we had no leisure for geology or botany. Just at nightfall we reached the home of Joel Molphus, where we were cordially greeted and kindly entertained by him and his good wife. They are "given to hospitality" in the genuine Scripture sense.

An early start Monday morning enabled us to reach Meridian at 12:30, tired and hungry. Bro. Hawkins left his horse and buggy with me, and took the train for Enterprise, the longest way round being the nearest way home.

And so ended my trip to Energy. I may take another when they build a church and pay their preacher. Oh, that they would!

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

Hypercriticism by Rev. Alexis Bowman.

One of the easiest things to write, that was ever written, is hypercriticism. If one will furnish the stationery, it will almost write itself. And about the next easiest thing to write is soft sarcasm and rough ridicule.

The Rev. Alexis Bowman, in this ADVOCATE, of Feb. 12, has proved, by his own testimony, that I am a great egotist, and claim literary and ecclesiastical honors to which I am not entitled. But, cui bono? Why publish it in a newspaper? How could that benefit the church?

Alluding to a letter of mine in a late issue of the Nashville Christian Advocate, Bro. Bowman says: "He creates the impression that he, principally, and two other minor lights are all to be found in all Episcopal Methodism who have embodied in brochure-form the idea that Christ and his apostles never ordained nor instituted a stereotyped form of ecclesiastical polity."

If it had occurred to him to quote something from me to sustain this statement, might it not have been more satisfactory to the readers of the ADVOCATE?

Let it be distinctly stated right here that the only fundamental question between us and any and all forms of High Churchism is this: Did Christ make a new church, or did he continue the old one into which he was born? To make a new church means to organize its government, or institute a religious corporation.

I said Ralston, by plain implication, teaches this new church doctrine, and I might have said he does not distinctly deny it in any form of language; whereupon Bro. Bowman says that in this I grossly misrepresent him, and then, forthwith, in an attempt to disprove what I said, he himself proves, from Ralston, the exact thing that he says I stated! Hear him: "The Scriptures do set forth, so far as some leading foundation principles are concerned, a form of church government; and thus far all churches should be conformed to the scriptural model."

Words can not be plainer. The Scriptures do set forth a form of church government! And we must, therefore, be conformed to the scriptural model! Bro. Bowman says Ralston says so (Elements, p. 858).

What "leading foundation principles" are here alluded to, I do not know. It is for Bro. Bowman to specify them, though that is immaterial. A denial of the "new church" theory denies that it rests on any principles, new or old. Now, it may be possible the printer may have misprinted Bro. Bowman. My library is burned, and I have not Ralston before me; but if the brother is correctly printed, he has certainly proved from Ralston all I said about him, and much more! This places Ralston—not by me, but by him—distinctly under the "new church" theory. Ralston nowhere denies this new church doctrine; does not raise the question whether Christ instituted a new church—that is, a new church government for all time; but clearly admits it everywhere. The question between Ralston and Oxford tracts, and Dr. Hook, Bishop Wainwright and all the papal polemics, is, How did he frame it? They contend that he framed bishops into the "scriptural form of church government," with these and those prerogatives. Ralston says no; he gave them only such and such powers. That is the issue between them.

I am determined this point shall not be evaded or misunderstood. It is vital in ecclesiastical science.

Inseparably connected with the doctrine of a new church, or a necessary part of it, is that of a new religion. The old books are full of the doctrine of new church and new religion. Christ abolished the old church and the old religion, and made both entirely new! This was the uniform teaching of the books until about as late as the first third part or first half of the present century. Among four hundred authors that I have glanced at in "City of God," I call to mind but a single exception, that of Mr. Watson (Theo. Dic. Art. Church). There it is stated explicitly that there was no Jewish Church, no Christian Church as distinguished from each other; but one continuous church. In common parlance it may have different names in different periods. What author back yonder does not clearly imply, and often express in terms, the new religion and new church, and explain what is taught in the former, and how the latter was framed? And even today by many it is not considered amiss to speak of the "primitive church," and the "calling of the Gentiles," and the "commission" Christ gave to the apostles to preach, as in the last two verses of Matthew.

As to my "arraignment of our authors and editors," Bro. Bowman encounters the misfortune of many other polemics of proving too much. He proves that authors and editors know it all, do all that ought to be done, and all that the rest of us have to do is to repeat what they teach, learn our lesson as they prescribe it, and be content.

Bro. Bowman refers me to such "standards" as Meander and Jacobs. I presume these are misprints. I do not remember such authors. I suppose he means Neander and Jacobus. Noander was a converted Jew, a finished scholar, pious, talented, and wrote well on religious doctrines, but was wild on ecclesiastical science. His only book on the church is, "The Planting and Training of the Christian Church," published nearly seventy years ago. Very few Arminian theologians regard it now. Jacobus wrote a small book on doctrines—rather a compilation and elementary work.

"He gives Dr. Hoss the credit of being the only editor of the Episcopal Methodist press for sixty years who has ever advanced this view." That is putting it several degrees stronger than I did; but still, as that view is the one "almost universally received by our ministers, and the unmistakable position of our church on the subject," Bro. Bowman can give us a dozen or two, or even a less number, of distinct and explicit teachings of our books and editors to that effect—not inferential, but explicit. I do not remember to have seen them. My impression has been, that while our books, editors and their correspondents, of late years, do not deny the one universal church doctrine, they are uniformly chary of the subject, and far from being free, open and outspoken in teaching and enforcing it. And I complained, and still complain, of our editors, bookmakers and religious writers for their uniform reticence toward a subject of such great practical importance to the church.

As to my own writings and agency in this matter, and how far I have pushed myself forward, and taken credit to myself in the promises as a leader, I have not known that question to be brought publicly forward before. But, since Bro. Bowman has called attention to it in some pretty florid remarks, I may, perhaps, be excused for explaining a few words.

About fifty years ago several members of the Mississippi Conference thrust me forward in a High Church controversy with Bishop Green, of Mississippi, and I wrote an essay in reply to one by the Bishop. This led to a debate with the editors of the Church Herald, a High Church paper, which was published in book form by our Publishing House. Up to this time I had not seen the doctrine explicitly stated that Christ made no church at all of any sort, but had read hundreds of times how he framed and instituted it. Getting a little familiar with the subject, I lectured on it, and a few Annual Conferences asked for its elaboration and publication. They made a little book of it, called "Church and Ministry." Since that I wrote some other books about it.

And if the subject is better or differently understood by our people than in olden time, how far I am to blame for it I will not undertake to say. But, by God's blessing, I hope I have not quite done writing on the subject of the church. But that it was, therefore, supposed that I had assumed leadership, or that it had been attributed to me, I did not know before. How much has Bro. Bowman done in setting the church right on so important a subject? R. ABBEY.

Yazoo City, Miss.

Mexico District.

I have finished my first round of Quarterly Conferences for this year, and am now at home giving time and attention to a very unwelcome visitor called la grippe. In many respects it has been the most satisfactory round I have made on the district since coming to Mexico. The preachers all went promptly to their charges, and are contented, happy and hopeful, and the people manifest a most decided interest in all the enterprises of the church. We received fifty-six members into the church, and organized a new church in the town of Humiltepic, on the Tepetlixpa circuit, with twenty-four members. On the Tula circuit the pastor, the Rev. J. R. Oliva, reported a town of several hundred inhabitants where people were anxious for the gospel and wanted authority to rent a house and open service. I told him that the last dollar appropriated to the field by the Board had been assigned by the Bishop, and that I did not have one cent for new work. He looked so distressed and manifested such a strong desire to take the gospel to these people, I finally told him to rent the house and I would pay for it out of my own salary. I did not see how I could do it, but neither did the children of Israel see how they were to cross the Red Sea! Soon after the Conference, he reported a house secured for ten dollars per month, and this morning I received the following letter from him:

My Dear Brother: I have the honor of communicating to you the following: On yesterday, at eleven A. M., Bro. Culhuaca, my assistant, and I unfurled the banner of the gospel in the town of Mixguiahuala, and in this people is fulfilled the words of the prophet, Malachi iv, 2: "But unto you that fear my name, shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings." We sang, we prayed, we preached, and gave God thanks. Our first hymn was, "To our Father, God." I then preached from the text: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world," and closed the service with the hymn, "From Greenland's icy mountains." At night Bro. Culhuaca preached a most interesting and instructive sermon to an increased and very attentive congregation. We had more than fifty people at each of these services, and the order was perfect, save one poor woman who came to the door and rang a bell she had concealed under her reboso (shawl); but as she was old and knew not what she did, we paid no attention to her. Many received us with expressions of gratitude, while others looked on in amazement as they heard the sweet old story for the first time; while others disregarded and derided us for passing by the saints and telling our sorrows and hopes to Jesus alone. We distributed two hundred papers and more than three hundred tracts, and rejoiced in our Savior for the good done. And now who will give us $25 to buy the material to make a pulpit and seats? Rejoice with us and pray for us.

Your affectionate brother,
JOSE R. OLIVA.

The pastor of the Texcoco circuit reported that he would have to give up a town of over 1,500 people because the brother, in whose house we had held service for a long number of years, could no longer let us have the house. I ordered him to go at once and secure a house, and I would become personally responsible for the rent. I do not know yet what it will cost me, nor how I am to meet it, but I do know the Lord always has provided and always will. I am sure now is the time for good and effective work in Mexico. The sowing that has been done in tears and blood is now ready for a harvest that would astonish the church if she would only see and improve her opportunity. Who will speak and write for Christ in Mexico?

We are very sad in the field now, because it looks as if you had all forgotten us. Is it so? We read nearly all the church papers, and they are as silent as the dead on the great subject of missions. Occasionally there is a note calling attention to some promise made or proposition offered, but no appeal from editors or others for the millions who are perishing without. It is a good thing to look after home interests, and build up and make yourselves strong; but would it not be well to heed the cry for life from those who have neither spiritual home nor interests? It is a matter of great surprise and pain to us that even the Reporter is ignored by the thousands of writers in the church. We often make appeals to Dr. John for help, when just a little aid would be of untold advantage to our work and the future of the church. And while his replies reveal his hearty approval, and draws every heart to him in lasting gratitude for his interest, they come to us with those awfully disappointing words: "I have no money on hand."

You at home have but little idea of what we suffer in mission fields. I am not now speaking of our bodily sufferings—we can well afford to count all that as nothing—but of the wearing and tearing anxiety to make every dollar count for a soul, and then feel that what we have and are falls so infinitely short of the great need.

Will the reader pardon the length of this letter and take a look at this picture? Now, take a territory as large as both States of Mississippi and Louisiana, with a population equal to both, and every town and hamlet pleading for the gospel. Then think of one presiding elder and eleven pastors, and four of these teaching school five days in each week to save expense, supplying the spiritual wants of all the Southern Methodists in these two States, and you have my work in the Mexico district. But this does not complete the picture; for here I must carry every convert, and often the older members, and even some of the pastors with a hundredfold more care and tenderness than you must give the lambs of the flock where they are sheltered with the loving care of Christian homes. Oh! how we dread to hear from the May meeting of the Board of Missions, where estimate after estimate for our work will be cut off because there is no money, and for another year we must stand with tied hands and listen to the piteous cries for help, and the groans of the dying and the lost. Oh! for a missionary revival and 1,200,000 sound conversions in the M. E. Church, South, alone for 1891. J. M. WEEMS.

Mexico City, Feb. 18, 1891.

Letter from Arkansas.

MR. EDITOR: As you have been sending your CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to the former pastor of my charge, and the postmaster has been putting it into my box, I have been reading it for several months. So to-day I send to your business manager my subscription for one year ($1), and add to it fifty cents to pay for what I have already received.

After studying the proceedings of the church within your bounds, as represented by your paper, I find that the representative men among the clergy and laity are doing what they can to place the church on a high plane of Christian living, giving, and training the youth of the two great States, Louisiana and Mississippi. It has afforded me much pleasure to note the stand you and your correspondents have taken against the Lottery, that monster evil in the old Crescent City, which has been a burdensome parasite to all this Southern country; and your position has done much to strengthen the arm of many others who have fallen into line and are doing what they can to establish the growing sentiment against this evil—a sentiment which I hope will never die until the cause which called for it shall have perished forever, or be so exposed and condemned that it can not find protection by law, or even find a hiding-place in this fair land of ours. Again, I have been watching with much interest the educational movement over in the Mississippi Conferences, with Bishop Galloway's master-hand resting upon it, suggesting plans and methods and ever pointing to the highway of success. They have succeeded in raising what the church asked for in order to hold Major Millsaps' magnificent gift, and the committee is now in session at Jackson for the purpose of considering the several applications for the college and its final location, which, no doubt, will be wisely done. Then let the competing towns fall into line and do what they can to support this stalwart youth of splendid proportion and good promise among the many young colleges of Southern Methodism. The idea is: We are not only to give our money, but our sons and daughters they must go if we would be true to ourselves and to our children. To do this, we may have to make some sacrifice now and then, but the end will ever justify the means, for the work of one generation is to prepare the next for higher civilization and Christian development. A college may be well located, the architecture and design perfect, the landscape where it stands may be beautifully adorned with foreign and native growth; however, to prosper and do well we must give it our sympathy and hearty co-operation, which is a part of our religious duty.

We have before us in the three Annual Conferences of the State of Arkansas a problem to solve along this line, which will require much patience and earnest work. About six weeks ago we had quite a revival on the subject of Christian education, which resulted in the establishment of several district training-schools, and three colleges, located as follows: Hendrix, at Conway; Galloway, at Searcy; Arkadelphia, at Arkadelphia. Add to these Quitman, located at Quitman, the oldest Methodist College in the State, making in all four schools proposing to do college work. Some of the brethren thought one or two more than was necessary, at least for the present. What the church can or will do for these schools must depend on its appreciation of the importance of the work done by them, or of Christian education. The church in the growing State of Arkansas, if the pastors will put it on the hearts and conscience of their congregations, can fill the halls of these schools to overflowing, not with boys and girls that are ready for the college course, but everyone of them have a preparatory department, and from these and the training-schools we can, in a few years, have plenty of material for college work proper; enough to support all these schools and make them a great blessing to this country and the church that gave them birth. Methodism was born in a college and has ever been the friend of higher education. May her sons and daughters be true to the history of the church, and preserve her record for all time to come! Let us get ready for the coming day, as I hope, when all our schools shall be as wings to assist the church in rising higher and traveling faster for the accomplishment of her glorious mission—that of the conquest of the world to the Lord's Christ.

Z. T. MCCANN.

New Edinburgh, Ark.

FROM THE WORK.

HATTIESBURG, MISS.

On our arrival here, Dec. 30, we were very cordially received by the good people of Hattiesburg, and every necessary provision made for our comfort. We occupy a brand-new parsonage, to which two new rooms are being added. It will then be ready for the painter's brush, and when completed, as it will be in the near future, will be an extremely comfortable and convenient dwelling. Our Ladies' Aid Society is untiring in its labors, and is determined that the preacher's home shall, in all its appointments, compare favorably with those in more pretentious places.

It has rained almost constantly for a month past, and withal there has been a great deal of sickness. Notwithstanding these unfavorable circumstances, we are moving on hopefully, and the outlook is decidedly encouraging. Twenty-one new members have been received since Conference. In our large and flourishing Sunday-school a missionary society has been organized. The members have gone to work with enthusiasm, and it gives promise of great good, both spiritual and financial.

Hattiesburg is a new, live town of 1,600 inhabitants, with a constant influx of new-comers. The indications are that it has a future. Hitherto our work has been in a formative state; but my honored predecessors have laid a good foundation, and the material is here out of which a strong, vigorous work can, by the help of God, be developed. The membership is large, and it requires a vast amount of locomotion to meet the pastoral demands. Oh! for strength and grace to properly cultivate this promising field.

Our new, but energetic, presiding elder, Bro. Mounger, is, with his family, a delightful next-door neighbor. He is in favor with all the people, and in Quarterly Conference presides as if "to the manner born."

J. S. PARKER.

ROSE HILL, MISS.

We will give a few items from Rose Hill circuit, formerly of the Paulding circuit, Meridian district, but now the Rose Hill circuit of the Brandon district. The new year has opened up to us very nicely. Our first Quarterly Conference was held at Rose Hill, Feb. 7 and 8, Bro. P. A. Johnston presiding. The meeting was very interesting from the beginning to the end. Bro. Johnston preached us a good sermon on Saturday, and Sunday he gave us a very fine sermon from the text, "The Master is come, and calleth for thee." We had a good love-feast at ten o'clock, Sunday morning, and the communion service was very fine. The brethren in Quarterly Conference made us a liberal assessment, and we expect to bring up a full report at the Annual Conference in December.

Some of our brethren have been writing about the terrific storms in the form of poundings; but, Mr. Editor, we have not had anything like a cyclone, but just a high wind that has been blowing ever since Conference.

On Christmas Day our friend and brother, S. S. Cope, accompanied by Miss Clara Harmon, came with a box containing valuable presents for every member of the family. We have received many nice things from all parts of the circuit.

We expect glorious revivals and a gracious power from on high this year. May God bless you and the ADVOCATE in the salvation of many souls!

R. F. WITT.

P. S.—Rose Hill High School is moving along nicely under the tuition of Profs. Pattillo and Hunt. This is a good place to educate your children.

Sunday-School Lesson—March 8.

NAAMAN HEALED.

II. Kings v, 1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."—Psalm ciii, 3.

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Naaman Seeks to Be Healed of His Leprosy (vs. 1-7). II. Naaman Is Healed (vs. 8-14.)

MEMORY VERSES.—13, 14.

REFERENCE WORD.—"Healed."

LESSON HYMN.—No. 370.

TIME.—About 894 B. C.

PLACES.—Damascus, Samaria and the river Jordan.

INTRODUCTION.

Between the last and our present study, there are reported two miracles at the hand of Elisha. At Gilgal, whither the prophet had gone, after raising the Shunamite's son, he averted the evil effects of poisonous herbs which had been gathered for food. The same place was the scene of his feeding a hundred men with a meager supply of barley loaves and ears of corn.

I.—NAAMAN SEEKS TO BE HEALED.

Verse 1. The character here presented is an interesting one. He is represented as a man possessed of all the advantages that wealth, honor and social position can supply. Our admiration grows when it is declared that the Lord used him as an instrument to deliver his country. But Naaman's character would not have been true to nature had there been nothing else reported by his biographer. Like all, he had a bitter dreg in his cup of joy. The narrative of his deeds of valor has an effect in the sad sentence—"But he was a leper." This was the one cloud in his sky of prosperity, but sufficiently dark to dim the glory of the whole. So with human life: however good, however fair and beautiful to look upon, there is something that detracts from the beauty of the picture, and mars its symmetry.

Verse 2. In contrast to this renowned heathen general, there is presented the character of a simple Hebrew maid, captured in one of their foraging excursions. Her captors, out of compliment, no doubt, had presented her to the wife of their brave captain. Observant as she was, it did not take her long to discover the dire calamity that overhung her master's house. She was captive in body; but her spirit was free to act in its accustomed channel of compassion. Her hands might have been bound; but her faith was still unfettered. She remembered the wonder-working prophet down in Israel. Her action was truly religious. She entertained no malice or feeling of resentment towards her master, but rather made it her special task to seek his benefit. Hence she said to her mistress, "Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him of his leprosy."

Verse 4. The positive assertion of her faith attracted the attention of one that went and told the king. He immediately took the matter in his own hands and set about to prepare for the restoration of his chief subject. Gathering a magnificent present, he sent Naaman with an explanatory letter to the king of Israel, Jehoram. This plan failed most signally. Jehoram straightway thought that the king of Syria was seeking a quarrel against him, and, as an evidence of his feeling, rent his clothes, and said, "Am I God, to kill and make alive?" The instructions of the maid had not been followed. She had recommended the treatment of Elisha, not that of Jehoram. Somehow the prophet's reputation for piety and power with Jehovah was greater than that of the king. The latter was not the one through whom God was going to work the miracle. He showed his unfitness for the work in his action on the arrival of Benhadad's letter. He manifested an utter lack of faith in Jehovah and in Jehovah's prophet. From the time of the little maid's recommendation up to the present point of our narrative, we have no action but that prompted by human weakness and shortsightedness. The Spirit's guidance had not been sought, and, as he never intrudes, the undertaking was wholly void of his blessed influence. Here were two kings, backed by untold wealth and powerful influence, completely baffled. So mere human appliances and agencies must ever fail of accomplishing great and good designs. Naaman, in spite of his master's love, seemed doomed to remain a leper. But God was going to perform the cure and he did not wish to share the glory of it with Ben-hadad or Jehoram. "He is a jealous God."

II.—NAAMAN HEALED.

Verse 8. The Spirit of God now begins his work; and a case almost hopeless begins to brighten. Elisha, knowing of the behavior of Jehoram, sent to him bidding Naaman to come to him, and he should know that there was a prophet in Israel. So Naaman came in all the pomp of Oriental greatness to the house of Elisha. The contrast must have been marked between the surroundings of these two interesting persons. Elisha, the plain, unassuming prophet, attended by a single servant, and Naaman, "the captain of the host of Syria," escorted by his armed retinue of nobles. How proud must the Syrian have felt at the moment! In his imagination he had pictured the scene that was soon to follow. Israel's prophet would come out, and, after doing him homage, would utter a series of incantations in praise of Jehovah and himself, and then strike him with his hand and recover the leper. The healed man would then give his presents, and return homeward with the feeling that it was good for Israel and Israel's God that he had condescended to allow himself to be cured at His hand. But it was all in his imagination. God surprises men sometimes. He overthrows the way of the proud. Elisha said by his acts: "Proud Syrian! you may be Naaman, and all that Naaman means, but you are still a leper."

The sick man was not allowed even a sight of his physician. A servant was their only means of communication. The remedy prescribed was nearly a mockery in its simplicity. "Go wash in Jordan seven times." The whole transaction, so unexpected and so counter to all his proud wishes, rendered Naaman very wroth. As he looked at the turbid waters of Jordan, he remembered the clear, limpid flow of his own country's streams. He did not have the faith to see any cure in Jordan. So many a sinner has failed in this regard. "Are not Abana and Pharpar better than all the waters of Israel?" Men try to work out salvation by leading a moral life, or a life of benevolence or of inoffensiveness, forgetting that these are but Abanas and Pharpars, unavailing to cleanse the stain of sin, whose only cure is found in Calvary's stream. So they, too, turn from the call of love and the door of mercy and go away in a rage. Naaman loved his pride more than he hated his leprosy. But see the long-suffering of God! Though his prophet had been dishonored by this man, yet he permits another door to be opened for him. The action of some of his attendants merits comment. How wisely they approached their angry master! As with us, so with Naaman. We are all willing to do the great things because they bring us into notice, and hence pander to our pride; but it takes a full measure of the spirit of Christ to faithfully perform the little things which go to make up our daily lives. These level-headed servants urged upon Naaman the simplicity of Elisha's command, and gained his consent to comply with the conditions. Then he realized a perfect cure.

God's commands are made in unequivocable terms; his promises are plain. When the injunction is obeyed, the blessing follows; and not till then. What advantage was Naaman's fretting and complaining at the waters of Jordan? Before he was cured he was compelled to desist from both. When his pride went, the blessing sought for came abundantly upon him.

"Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God." And, according to the saying of the man of God, "his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean."

No one doubts that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy really cures Catarrh, whether the disease be recent or of long standing, because the makers of it clinch their faith in it with a $500 guarantee, which isn't a mere newspaper guarantee, but "on call" in a moment. That moment is when you prove that its makers can't cure you. The reason for their faith is this: Dr. Sage's remedy has proved itself the right cure for ninety-nine out of one hundred cases of Catarrh in the head, and the World's Dispensary Medical Association can afford to take the risk of you being the one hundredth.

The only question is—Are you willing to make the test, if the makers are willing to take the risk? If so, the rest is easy. You pay your druggist 50 cents and the trial begins. If you're wanting the $500, you'll get something better—a cure.

Mississippi Items.

Columbus had a ten thousand dollar fire on Feb. 25.

Scranton now has an artesian well 727 feet deep. The flow is 90 gallons per minute, and the water is "pure and sparkling," with a slight taste of chalybeate.

The family of the late Dr. C. K. Marshall, of Vicksburg, has decided to present the Doctor's library to Millsaps College. It is said to be a valuable collection of books and papers.

The citizens of Ackerman recently raided all the "blind tigers" of the town, emptied the whisky into the gutters and placed the owners of the places in jail. They declare that these nuisances shall be abated.

June 3 has been fixed upon as the day for the unveiling of the Confederate monument in Jackson. The Mississippi National Guard will participate in the ceremonies. Among the distinguished persons who will be present is mentioned Miss Winnie Davis, the Daughter of the Confederacy.

The merchants of Oxford offer a premium of $100 for the best acre of cotton in Lafayette county for 1891, and the farmers all over the country are forming clubs of three or more. Each member pays $5 to be given as a premium to the raiser of the most cotton on an acre by a member of the club.

The city council will have four large basins placed upon the streets to be kept full of water, so that the farmers and country people can water their stock when they come to town. This is a good move in the right direction, and every inducement should be offered to bring the country people to town.—Columbus Dispatch.

It is reliably stated that every Sunday, for some weeks past, from fifty to seventy-five young men and boys, whites and negroes, have resorted to the court-house to play craps and indulge in other forms of gambling, besides fighting and quarreling. At night they bring candles and hold high carnival in the corridors of the building.

This is taken from a Vicksburg paper, and looks like a huge sarcasm on "the sacred precincts of justice" and a ridicule of the law.

The Vicksburg Herald has this:

While visiting a patient in the city hospital a few days ago Rev. Messrs. W. B. Lewis and F. M. Keene, pastors of the Methodist Churches here, found a Mr. W. E. Adams in one of the wards, in the last stages of consumption and only anxious to return home to and only anxious to return home to die. The reverend gentlemen investigated the case, found that the patient was a deserving young man, and last Sunday laid their case before their congregations. As a result $38 was contributed for his benefit, and yesterday they bought him some necessary clothing and started him home by rail.

"I was sick and ye visited me."—Jesus.

Louisiana Notes.

Alexandria will have a steam laundry in operation in about thirty days.

The Louisiana Nursery Company is an enterprise recently organized in Shreveport.

The Comptroller of Curreney has authorized the First National Bank at Franklin to begin business with a capital of $50,000.

The Louisiana Steam Laundry, of New Orleans, established by a company with capital of $100,000, opened for business last week.

A local Board of the New Orleans Loan, Building and Savings Association has been organized at Alexandria, and one hundred shares taken.

Mr. Hahn, of Lafayette, is experimenting in banana culture. He has about ten trees, and thinks that they will grow and yield satisfactorily.

The Lake Providence Telegraph Company have opened an office at Omega, and thus placed those good people in electrical communication with the rest of mankind.

The Teche Exchange has been organized at New Iberia, and will devote itself to the business interests of that section and to the accumulating a library and cultivating friendly interchange.

Work has begun and all preliminary arrangements have been made for the erection of the Houma Ice Factory across Bayou Terrebonne at the foot of Church street. The building and machinery of the factory will foot up to a total cost of $8,000, with a capacity of manufacturing three tons of ice per day.

The Secretary of War sent to the House a communication from the engineer in charge of the work on Bayou Vermillion, in Louisiana, in which he details surveys that have been made, and arrives at the conclusion that the stream is worthy of improvement and recommends that an appropriation be made for the purpose.

The Caucasian says:

Dame Rumor hath it, that after March 1 next all passenger trains on the Texas and Pacific railroad will leave from the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific depot. The present depot of the Texas and Pacific is to be used for freight exclusively. This might be considered a step towards the building of a union depot, that was agitated by our citizens some time ago.

The prize pumpkin that wins honors at Northern fairs is not a circumstance to one of Louisiana's prize vegetables now on exhibition at the Board of Trade. The managers of the Orange Grove Plantation, three miles below the city, have sent to Secretary Smith two enormous cabbages that were grown on the plantation. One of them weighs nineteen pounds and the other sixteen pounds.

They are compact, with tender leaves and are examples of the capabilities of the glorious climate and soil of Louisiana.—Delta.

Life is misery to thousands of people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum and every form of blood disease. It is reasonably sure to benefit all who try it.

Williamsburg, Miss.

During the month of January, and up to this date, the rainfall has been very heavy, and the creeks have been filled up to the overflowing of all the low grounds, and travel has been very difficult. I have quit my buggy, and am traveling on horseback; and, in the midst of all the waters and the sickness, I have not missed one appointment on Sunday.

The first Quarterly Conference was held at Eminence Church, Feb. 2, 1891, and, regardless of the severe rainfall, our new presiding elder, E. H. Monnger, was on hand, and made a fine impression on the people. The officials of the circuit were out, and all the churches were represented; and, while we have not been pounded yet, we live and realize that we are in the midst of a good people. Though not very much encouraged with some things, we will do all we can to increase the subscription to the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE. Money is hard to get here at this time. Pray for us, and may God bless you and your labors! J. H. EVANS.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The Voice

Is easily injured—the slightest irritation of the throat or larynx at once affecting its tone, flexibility, or power. All efforts to sing or speak in public, under such conditions, become not only painful but dangerous, and should be strictly avoided until every symptom is removed. To effect a speedy cure no other medicine is equal to

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

The best of anodynes, this preparation rapidly soothes irritation, strengthens the delicate organs of speech, and restores the voice to its tone and power. No singer or public speaker should be without it. Lydia Thompson, the famous actress, certifies: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been of very great service to me. It improves and strengthens the voice, and is always effective for the cure of colds and coughs."

"Upon several occasions I have suffered from colds, causing hoarseness and entire loss of voice. In my profession of an auctioneer any affection of the voice or throat is a serious matter, but at each attack, I have been relieved by a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy, with ordinary care, has worked such a that I have suffered very little inconvenience. I have also used it in my family, with excellent results, in coughs, colds, &c."—Wm. H. Quartly, Minlaton, Australia.

Magical Effect

"In the spring of 1853, at Portsmouth, Va., I was prostrated by a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia. My physicians exhausted their remedies, and for one year I was not able to even articulate a word. By the advice of Dr. Shaw I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and to my surprise and great joy, in less than one month I could converse easily, in a natural tone of voice. I continued to improve and have become since a well man. I have often recommended the Pectoral, and have never known it to fail."—George R. Lawrence, Valparaiso, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

CLARK & MEADER,

—DEALERS IN—

FINE GROCERIES,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST., and

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Catalogues sent on application, showing a most complete assortment of Fancy and Staple Groceries. In asking for quotations, please state about the quality desired of each item, as a guide. Our prices will be found reasonable for the quality of goods furnished.

Mrs. M. E. CROCKER,

234 Howard Ave., New Orleans,

Offers her services

TO SHOP

for patrons in the country.

She, having had considerable experience in this line, guarantees satisfaction.

She refers to Rev. B. Carradine, J. G. Grant, B. Fellman, Julius Hart, D. H. Holmes, and S. Kuhn & Son.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY!

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

T. B. CARSON,

DEALER IN

Monuments, Tombs and Tablets,

Of the Best Quality of

ITALIAN AND AMERICAN

MARBLE AND GRANITE,

No. 303 W. Capital St., JACKSON, MISS.

Satisfaction guaranteed both in material and work.

Mardi Gras Offerings.

Matting. The spring importations have just arrived, and a very handsome line will be shown to those visiting the store.

Wall Paper. The patterns for 1891 are unusually attractive; embracing many novelties in dining, parlor, bedroom and hall papers.

Oil Cloth, Window Shades, and Upholstering Goods.

We will offer Samson's celebrated make of Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents per square yard; Curtain Poles, with trimmings complete, 25 cents; and Dado Window Shades, from 35 cents each to $6 each, the latter being hand-painted.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim'd,

116 Camp St., New Orleans.

BROWNE & JENKINS

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

154 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

HOPKINS'

PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
Cincin. Ex.....7:55 am	Cincin. Ex.....5:15 pm
Vicksb'g Ex....5:45 pm	Vicksb'g Ex....8:30 am
B. Rouge Ac...10:30 am	B. Rouge Ac... 3:50 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:00 am	No. 4 Fast Ex...8:20 am
No. 5 Fast Ex...7:20 pm	No. 8 Coast....3:45 pm
No. 7 Coast....8:05 am	No. 8 Lim. Ex..3:10 pm
Lim. Express,..4:10 pm	Fast mail.....8:00 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1. Local Mail and Express..7:40pm	No. 2. Local Mail and Express..7:00am
No. 41. Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 8:25am	No. 42 Chic. and St. L. F. Mail. 3:00pm
No. 45. Chic. and N. O. Lim....8:00pm	No. 46. Chic and N. O. Lim. 12:01noon
No. 11. Memphis and K. C. Ex. 8:25am	No. 42 Memphis and K. C. Ex. 6:00pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00pm	No. 51 California Express. 3:00 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:25am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 7:30 am	No. 18 Local....7:15a m
No. 17 Local....7:35 pm	No. 20 Califor.. 4:15pm

NEW ORLEANS AND NORTHEASTERN.

No. 1, Lim'd .11:25 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....4:00pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 6, Fast Line..8:45am

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 7:00am	No. 2, Limited...4:00pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:10 pm

New Orleans & Northeastern RAILROAD.

FROM

New Orleans to Cincinnati.

94 MILES THE SHORTEST. Time, 27 Hours.

Entire Trains through without changes, rounding the base of Lookout Mountain, and over the famous High Bridge of Kentucky, and into the Central Union Depot, where connection is made for the NORTH and EAST, New England Cities and Canada, without transfer through the City. Luxurious Miami Boudoir Buffet Sleeping Cars on all through trains.

MERIDIAN, BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, CINCINNATI.

Tickets on sale at all principal cities South and West. In New Orleans at Queen and Crescent Depot, Press street and Levee, and No. 34 St. Charles street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt., New Orleans.
J. C. GAULT, General Manager.
D. G. EDWARDS, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, Cincinnati, O.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Six Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, without change.

The Shortest and Best Line from NEW ORLEANS to VICKSBURG.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to

MEMPHIS.

The Only Line Running Pullman Sleeping Cars Through Without Change

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway Company.

SHORT LINE

—BETWEEN—

NEW ORLEANS,
TEXARKANA,
SHREVEPORT,

AND POINTS IN

Texas, Colorado, Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Pullman Palace Buffet Cars, ST. LOUIS to EL PASO, and NEW ORLEANS to FORT WORTH, without change.

For tickets, rates, or any information apply to any ticket agent, or address

B. W. McCULLOCH, G. P. and T. A., Dallas, Texas

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen'l Man'r.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Louisville, New Orleans and Texas R. R.

NEW ROUTE

TO LOUISVILLE and CINCINNATI, the East, West and Northwest. SOLID TRAINS BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and LOUISVILLE, THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS DAILY BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS and CINCINNATI, via Memphis and Louisville, in connection with the N. N. and M. V. Co., and Ohio and Mississippi Railways. These trains run into the Grand Central Station, Cincinnati, making close connections for all points. This train will also carry through sleepers between New Orleans and Louisville, which will run on Cincinnati Express to Vicksburg, passing through the great sugar and rice growing district of Louisiana and the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta in daylight. Also local sleeper to Vicksburg, in which passengers may remain until morning.

Arrives.	Departs.
Cincinnati Ex. 7:55 am	Cincinnati Ex. 5:15 pm
Vicksburg Ex. 5:45 pm	Vicksburg Ex. 8:30 am
B. Rouge Accn. 10:30 am	B. Rouge Accn. 3:50 pm

Short line to Hot Springs, Ark. Excursion Tickets on sale to all Summer Resorts.

Ticket Office, 61 St. Charles Street.

P. R. ROGERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
R. B. MAURY, Gen. Trav. Pass. Agt.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Ass't. Gen. Frt. and Pas. Agt.
A. M. COOKE, Ass't. Gen. M'g'r

LOUISIANA

STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR

FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Jalling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

H. P. BUCKLEY,

Watchmaker

—DEALER IN—

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Spectacles.

8 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always on hand a large stock of Waltham Watches. Watch and Jewelry Repairing a special business.

ROOFING!

GUM-ELASTIC ROOFING FELT costs only $2.00 per 100 square feet. Makes a good roof for years, and anyone can put it on. Send stamp for sample and full particulars.

GUM ELASTIC ROOFING CO.,
39 & 41 West Broadway, New York.

Local Agents Wanted.

MILLINERY!

F. R. Hardon's

29 - CHARTRES ST. - 29

NEW ORLEANS.

Oldest and Most Reliable House in the City.

We make a SPECIALTY of all the MILLINERY NOVELTIES of the Season.
Prices to suit the times. Always Moderate. Particular attention paid to orders.
Ladies, please examine our stock.

QUOTATIONS FROM STANDARD BOOKS WANTED.

Readers of Books, Attention!

WE wish for THE STANDARD DICTIONARY of the English Language that we have undertaken 60,000 quotations which will both illustrate the meanings of words, and be of themselves valuable—these quotations to be selected from standard authors. We will pay liberally the readers of books for acceptable quotations sent to us. Send for terms and Instructions. It is pleasant and profitable employment. Individual readers, reading circles, schools can in this way do a good work and get pay for the same. Address

STANDARD DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT,
FUNK & WAGNALLS,
NEW YORK CITY

LADIES AFFLICTED WITH Trouble of the Womb should try Dr. HOLT'S WOMB OINTMENT.

It will cure Weak or Lame Back; It will cure the worst case of "Whites;" It will make the Monthly Sickness come easy, and without pain; It will cure Falling of the Womb; It will remove Tumors and Cancers on the Womb; It will make you well and happy. Thousands of women have been cured by its use.

One month's treatment by mail, $1

Circulars, testimonials, and "terms to agents," sent on receipt of 2-ct. stamp. Lady Agents wanted. Manufactured only by the PURITAN DRUG CO., Lock Box 19, Louisville, Ky.

KEGS, HALF BARRELS, BUNGS,

Demijohns, Bottles, Flasks,

CANE-SHED LANTERNS, LAMPS,

Rope Packing, Twines,

Tinware, Hollowware, Scales,

Furnaces, Cooking Crocks,

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,

Axle Grease, Wagon Jacks, Baskets,

Blank Books, Accordions, Harmonicas,

Brooms, Brushes, Coffee and Corn Mills,

Fishing Tackle, Selees, Croquet,

Extracts, Soaps, Wrapping Paper, Whips,

ICE CHESTS, REFRIGERATORS.

A FULL LINE OF WOODENWARE.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

USE FERRY'S SEEDS

BECAUSE THEY ARE

THE BEST.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1891 will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last season's customers. It is better than ever. Every person using Garden, Flower or Field Seeds, should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO.
DETROIT, MICH.
Largest Seedsmen in the world

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. O. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1891.

Briefs.

The International Convention of the Students' Volunteer Mission movement was in session at Cleveland, Ohio, last week. Five hundred delegates from all parts of the world were present, all the leading colleges in America being represented. This movement began among collegemen in 1886, and has since extended among the institutions of learning until now there are five hundred students who have signified their willingness and desire to become foreign missionaries. The keynote of the movement is: The evangelization of the world in this generation.

The grandest power of an evangelical ministry is the power of reproduction. No fact strikes the student of church history with more force than the fact that the gospel has proved its adaptability to every emergency that has arisen. The preaching of the gospel has not only saved souls, but with every generation it has reproduced a gospel ministry. Here is one of the chief glories of Methodism. It has always been able to produce its own preachers, and in a large measure to supply other than its own pulpits. Very few ministers come to us from other churches, while many go from us to them. The church that is not able to supply itself with ministers is losing the favor of God!

We stand to-day one hundred years from the death of John Wesley; and what a marvelous power in the earth has become the Methodism which he left! Its influence is as far-reaching as the globe! Can you account for it? One sentence accounts for it all. Look back and see this combination: The Holy Spirit brought together the matchless oratory of George Whitefield, the sound theology of John Fletcher, the wise organization of John Wesley, and, pouring upon this combination a stream of poetic fire from Charles Wesley, he fused all into a resistless force whose momentum has increased in power and enlarged in volume with each succeeding year. Methodism is the resultant of that combination brought together by the wisdom of the Spirit of God.

One hundred years ago, March 2, 1791, John Wesley died. Then closed the most marvelous life of modern times. His monument is an enduring one. That monument is the Methodism which he founded. In every feature it bears the impress of his genius. A prominent Presbyterian periodical, several years ago, had these words: "There has been no fact so great in modern church history as the rise and progress of Methodism; no fact more singular in its present position than that throughout the world all its societies, whether large or small, are stamped through and through with the likeness of two extraordinary men. Its gigantic and complete organization, its vast and successful missionary enterprises, its system of home extension and evangelization, its tremendous grip of the masses, its tuneful, emotional tone of religion, its widespread sympathies and its intense hopefulness are all emanations of the spirit of John and Charles Wesley." Methodism is the monument of the man, the centenary of whose death we are celebrating this week!

Every evening last week Bro. La Prade held services in Carondelet Street Church, with good effect.

John Wesley.

When we study the history of the men whom God has selected in the past to inaugurate and carry forward his great plans in furtherance of human progress, we soon see that they are not the mere accidents of their age. God never selects his agents at random. They are not thrown into the arena of human activities by a species of blind sortilege, but they are the products of ages of training in their forefathers and years of hard, mysterious discipline in their own early lives. Moses and Paul and Luther and Wesley are all illustrations in point. God does not hesitate to take an infant nation under his special tutelage, and so train and develop and educate it, that in some far-off after time that nation shall produce the man he needs to do the work of that time. He trains the nation for the production of the man, and when the man appears he disciplines him in a special manner for the work to which he has elected him. Not only so, but by a providential control of political environments, and by the nurture of popular instincts and by that grace which is everywhere abroad to aid in the cultivation of religious habits of thought and feeling, God brings about that condition of affairs most favorable to the success of his plans.

Now, when we read the history of those two families which in the end of the seventeenth century converged to a union between Dr. Samuel Wesley and Susanna Annesley, one of them the best type of the families of the Church of England, and the other the leading family of the Nonconformists, we may be sure that the issue of that union is not outside of the sphere of God's special providence. God trained the nation for the production of those two families, and trained the families and brought them together for the production and training of the most marvelous man of modern days!

In the men whom God raises up to carry forward his great plans there seems to be one supreme motive power back of all the words of the lips and all the deeds of the life. The early years of such men are years of discipline for the growth and strengthening of that power. When they come to maturity we find this motive power grown into an absorbing passion, ruling every principle and bringing every faculty into complete subordination to its imperious sway. Every word and deed become revelations of the extent of that supremacy. Every act shows that this power has been inwrought into the very texture of their mental and spiritual natures and ingrained into their deepest consciousness. Every incident of their lives reveals the fact that this power energized every faculty of mind and inflamed every emotion of soul with zeal and swayed the whole being with an authority which brought all the impulses and energies into working harmony with the plans and aims of Providence.

John Wesley's life is a marked illustration of this. The training hand of his remarkable mother and the training hand of God's dealings with him pressed into his soul two great facts, viz.: God's hatred to sin and God's love for the sinner! These two facts meeting in his soul at the moment of conversion, the Spirit of God poured his fire upon the point of contact and fused and molded them into the one dominant passion of "love for souls." This was the passion that governed all his after life and work. Here was the power that swayed every other power, the force to which everything must yield and before whose impetuous momentum every obstacle must go down. It governed every action, controlled every thought, directed every movement and subordinated every desire! It was the one purpose of his life, the one aim of his aspirations, the one goal of his hopes, the one motive power of all his work! All his preaching and publishing, all his singing and praying, all his journeyings by land and by sea, looked only to this. All matters of policy, all questions of expediency, all financial plans, all rules in regard to church order, must be brought here and thoroughly tested by this "master passion" of his soul! Whatever come in contact with this must go immediately! Whatever hindered this work must be given up at once! This was the pre-eminent, all-important matter, and everything else must yield to it! How often did he say to that more churchly brother of his, "Charles, church or no church, our work is to save souls"!

We think this accounts in a reasonable manner for the remarkable life and wonderful work of John Wesley. But such a life could not be lived nor such a work done without infecting others with an intense enthusiasm. The fire which Wesley's preaching kindled in other hearts seethed with a desire to tell the gospel story, and its very fierceness drove men to open their mouths to speak for Christ. Thus the work became self-perpetuating and went out in all directions and gathered strength with every age, until to-day its influence is felt, in some degree, in every land beneath the sun, and his prophetic motto has been realized—"The world is my parish."

Ways of Some Folks.

Not long since the writer received a sample copy, direct from the publisher's office, of a new periodical—"Vol. 1, No. 1"—published in the interest of a certain denomination. After the salutatory, which is short, pointed and unobjectionable, is a leader in which occurs this remarkably strong sentence—"This paper is published in the interest of pure Christianity." On the very first page of the very first number of this would-be teacher of "pure Christianity" there are no less than two references to the mode of baptism and unnecessary flings at the pedo-Baptist Churches. How strange that some professing Christians can so far forget themselves as to run counter to the teachings of St. Paul, as found in I. Corinthians, xiii, and that very explicit teaching of St. James that, "Pure religion undefiled, before God and the Father, is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." Dare any man affirm that only those who have been immersed meet the requirements of this definition of pure religion?

Can anyone take the teaching of our Lord, that, "By their fruits ye shall know them," and claim that only those who have conformed to some peculiar church rites are the only bearers of Christian fruits? Or is it possible in this enlightened day that any can have the temerity to claim all the blessings of the beatitudes, simply upon some church dogma?

Again, we chanced to fall upon the Minutes of a gathering of this same denomination, in which we find in the report on missions these words with reference to what is known as the Delta: "Missionary work must be done there liberally and promptly, or the inviting field must be turned over to those who, though preaching a vitiated gospel, would, by their zeal, outstrip us in organized evangelism."

Now, to whom does this language refer? Who are meant by these teachers of a vitiated gospel? If facts, as they now stand, are referred to, it is not hard to decide for whom this unkind, uncharitable language is meant. As the Methodist Church is and has been the leading denomination in an organized effort to evangelize this part of our Mississippi territory, no mistake can be made as to the intended thrust; and yet how many are the instances in which the assistance and co-operation of these false teachers have been sought to build up those who are thus so boastful of the spirit of Christ! Methodism needs no defense from such an insinuation. Her self-sacrificing ministry, her grand system of doctrine, the abundant fruits of her labors, and her millions dead who have died in the Lord and left for us the testimony that they pleased God, are enough. Being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, etc.

T. B. HOLLOMAN.

Sunday-School Work.

There was an important meeting of pastors and Sunday-school superintendents held in this city last week. Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Baptists were all represented. The objects of the meeting, as stated by the president, R. H. Browne, were to prepare for and advance the interests of the State Sunday-School Convention to be held in this city, May 5–7. Earnest addresses were made by Bros. Grant, Smith, Prentiss and others, and, after a full and free conference, a formal agreement was reached that all present would combine their best efforts to promote the interests of Sunday-school work in this city. Another meeting is to be held March 10.

This meeting we regard as a good omen. There is no place in our knowledge where so little is being done for the religious instruction of the young people as in New Orleans. We trust that those who have this matter in charge will not let it cool, but will keep it glowing by a continual agitation of the religious atmosphere.

Generous Gift to Millsaps College.

MR. EDITOR: I am delighted to report that the large and valuable library of the late Dr. C. K. Marshall has been presented to Millsaps College. For four years, while a pastor in Vicksburg, I had free access to it, and have knowledge of its contents. Carefully selected and diligently studied by our distinguished brother, recently translated, it comes to us baptized with the fragrance of his spirit and with the blessings of his dear ones. Young divinity students and others will read the marked passages and marginal notes, and not only master the book, but catch inspiration from the peerless genius and almost matchless diligence of its former owner. Few men of my acquaintance ever approached him in laboriousness as a reader and student. To read his books is next to communing with his spirit, who was unexcelled in solicitude for the best development and culture of young men. This I regard as one of the most valuable of donations to our college. Who can estimate its far-reaching influence?

I had the pleasure of spending last Sabbath at Natchez, where our good friends made a free-will offering of about two hundred and thirty dollars to the Clara Chrisman Scholarship Fund. So the work moves on.

Fraternally,

CHAS. B. GALLOWAY.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 25, 1891.

Bishop Haygood will be present to preside over the District Conference which meets in this city, March 12. Dr. Potter, one of our missionary secretaries, will also be present.

Itinerary.

Experience is the teacher whose instructions are most lasting and indelible. Old methods, laid aside, come back unbidden. To judge accurately the depth and longitude of a mud-hole defies the acumen of the wisest philosopher. But one good and unfailing rule is: "Keep out of the ruts." (By the way, there is another application of this trite expression.) To avoid this evil we may become involved in a greater, for the track, so narrow and fragile, may not be sufficient to keep you from a worse rut. And, then, to steer clear of obstructions requires engineering skill—the looking-ahead quality—forecast. The locomotive engineer has a fixed and secure track upon which to propel his iron horse, and a touch of the wonder-working lever communicates the power, and the ponderous machine moves, and the tremendous burthen attached is propelled with the greatest ease. To guide a horse is a matter of education and experience. Since a "horse is a vain thing for safety," it is well to be wide awake and on the alert. To be in full sympathy with the animal may increase the burden to the traveler, but it certainly lessens the labor of the beast, at least, in so far as that sympathy leads to greater care in driving. But enough.

The unmitigated and almost unprecedented rains of January and February have hindered the farmers, and now good and full work must be put in if the crop is pitched in time. Everything is on the move; the "people have a mind to work." New fences, buildings, etc., augurs prosperity and thrift. I trust the great church of God will quicken into activity and zeal, and that "Zion will put on her beautiful garments."

This ward has been prohibition for several years, but, notwithstanding this, drunkenness and inebriety, with its dolorous consequences, has abounded. The law seemed not to be enforced, and there were so many cute artifices to evade it. Labor was demoralized, and tippling and hard drinking in so many instances were common. But a good prohibition law poorly enforced is better than free whisky. The emissaries and minions of whisky petitioned the police jury, and they ordered an election to vote whisky in. Whisky was freely used. It was adroitly managed; many of the temperance people were despondent. The negro vote is tremendous in this ward, and to control it was the question. But by the activity and fidelity of Bro. Deen, of Fairmount box, and Bro. McNeely, of Colfax, and others, both white and black, Feb. 14, rolled up a good majority for prohibition. It just shows what determined and resolute Christian men can do if they will. Now, we want our prohibition law enforced faithfully, and save our fellow-men the debasing and humiliating drunkenness that destroys and blasts human hopes here and forever.

We need, and are praying, planning and working for revivals of God's power in conviction, conversion and sanctification. Oh! that the cloud of mercy and salvation may pass this way!

As for me, I can say I am solidly fixed on the "Rock." "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." What could be more delightful?

THOS. B. WHITE.

A young friend has sent us a Latin motto for translation; but, as we are exceedingly rusty in that old language, we refer it to some of our learned readers for translation. It is this—

Nunquam animus sed ignis via.

Notes.

Several weeks ago we sent out a card to a goodly number of our Sunday-school workers asking their views on Sunday-school work. A reply will be found on the first page written by Prof. Dabney Lipscomb, of the Mississippi Agricultural College, to which we call the reader's special attention. We are expecting other replies.

In our land there are 365 colleges, with 64,086 students; 145 theological seminaries, with 4,921 students; 161 commercial colleges, with 27,146 students; 83 scientific schools, with 11,584 students; 48 law schools, with 3,134 students, and 120 medical schools, with 14,000 students. The public school population is 16,000,000, of whom 10,000,000 are enrolled and 6,500,000 are in actual attendance at a cost of $100,000,000.

Here is not only an example to follow, but a clue which may lead to a filling of some of our empty churches. It is said that when Mr. Moody was a young man in Chicago, he hired four pews in a church and kept them full, at every service, of young men. If more of our young men would do something like that, there would not be so much complaint of empty pews. And who knows, young brother, but that your call may be to do just that thing?

"God out of Christ is a consuming fire." We have heard that quoted as Scripture. It is not Scripture, and it is not true. "God out of Christ" is inconceivable to the man who believes the "gospel according to St. John," the first sentence of which says "the Word (Christ) was God," and the whole tenor of which is to show that God became flesh. It contradicts Paul's who says "God was in Christ." Don't quote that as Scripture any more, brother.

Stier gives an interpretation to a puzzling passage which may arouse the thought of some reader to a fresh study of it. He says the "mammon of unrighteousness" means money obtained by dishonest methods, and the only hope for those who have such money, and are debarred by impossible conditions of making restitution, is to use it all to help those who are needy. Whether this is true or not, it would be a good thing for people who have that sort of money to make the experiment.

"It is not enough that a Christian manages to keep out of jail. He must show in all his business that he is controlled by a higher law than the civil law, and by holier principles than those allowable in business." Thus writes a contributor in the last Mid-Continent. There are too many people who seem to think that the civil law is a sufficient guide for moral life. There never was a greater mistake. It reverses the plain teaching of the Bible. The moral law is the only safe guide for any life. A revival of conscience along the line of business life is a real want of the present day.

There is one incident in the life of our Lord where he teaches a hard lesson to learn. It must be an important lesson, for the incident is mentioned by three of the four evangelists. The lesson taught is, that there are some rich people who have to get rid of their riches by giving them to the poor, or they will miss salvation. The lesson in the case of the rich young ruler is simply this, and nothing more. And yet who believes it? Not a rich man or rich woman who reads this! And still that unbelief does not effect the truth of this statement. Truth is truth, whether believed or not.

The sentiment against capital punishment is evidently growing very fast in this community. A large number of the men examined for jurymen in the Hennessy murder case have stated under oath that they are opposed to capital punishment. Of course, they are excused from jury duty. It is an interesting inquiry, in this connection, as to the reason of this sudden revival of the anti-capital punishment sentiment. If it grows much stronger and spreads much further, some new law in regard to trials for capital offenses must be enacted, for the impanelling of a jury will be an impossible thing. We notice that one State, at least, has modified its jury law, and it may soon become necessary for the whole system to be remodelled.

The grand jury for this city closed its session last week. They commend many of our institutions as excellent and well managed; but the management of the work-house is unsparingly denounced. In regard to the gambling dens they say this:

The gambling hells, known as pool-rooms, and the low concert halls or dives of this city are a blight and curse too terrible in influence and results to describe, and we urgently recommend that an emphatic demand be made upon the next Legislature for the repeal of the laws which gave them existence.

About that same thing has been said by grand juries often and often, and yet the matter seems to be growing worse. The Legislature owes it to the young manhood and womanhood of the country to put these vile places out of existence.

Personal and Otherwise.

Rev. Sam Jones is now on the sick list, his physician saying that he will have to cease preaching, perhaps, for months.

According to the Lake Charles Echo, Bro. Upton held revival services last week, assisted by his presiding elder, Bro. Miller.

Since our Church Extension Board was organized 3,556 churches have been built by its assistance. That amounts to more than one a day.

Capt. Sam Henderson, for many years a prominent merchant in this city, and a member of our Rayne Memorial Church, died last week.

Brethren will please not write to the editor about the business affairs of the ADVOCATE. The editor knows nothing about that department. Write on such matters to D. L. Mitchel, business manager.

We are glad to know that Bishop Haygood goes West. If we are going to maintain our church in that region, there is just where he ought to be. We have lost ground because a Bishop has not been there all these years!

The pastors of the Louisiana Conference who took collections for the endowment of Centenary College will remember that, by resolution of Conference, they are requested to send the amount collected to Prof. George H. Willey, Jackson, La.

Bro. Clay's Sunday afternoon lectures at Dryades Street Church have become so popular that his large auditorium will not hold the crowds that throng for admittance. This movement seems to have struck a popular chord, and the people respond in glad and growing numbers.

L. Prang & Co., of Boston, have again brought us under obligations for a package of their beautiful Easter cards and booklets. These are real beauties. In the illustrations and poetic sentiments the most fastidious taste will be pleased. If you want anything in this line, L. Prang & Co., 286 Roxbury St., Boston, will take pleasure in supplying you.

Bishop Haygood, in a letter to Hon. W. L. Chambers, manager of the Sheffield Land Company, has formally severed his connection with the educational scheme that company had enterprised. In regard to his removal to Los Angeles, Cal., the Bishop says:

> This removal to a distant State is determined from convictions of duty as to what I ought now to do, and in response, so far as is possible to me, to the unmistakable sentiment of the Church that more of the Bishops should live and work west of the Mississippi river.

Middle-aged people, when you were babies, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment was then very old.

Notices.

To the Presiding Elders of the North Mississippi Conference:

Dear Brethren: By referring to the Discipline, Page 183, ¶ 313, you will see that the money collected for the support of our Bishops is to be sent to the treasurer of the Joint Board of Finance, to be remitted by him at once to the Book Agent at Nashville, Tenn., in order that he may pay the Bishops their salaries in monthly installments.

This notice is to call your attention to the fact that, although three months have elapsed since the session of our Conference, I have received nothing on this fund. I have been informed by one of their number that there was quite a large deficit on the salaries of our Bishops last year, and some of them are now needing money. Will you please give this matter your immediate attention, as the Book Agent is not authorized to pay these salaries out of any other fund save that which is collected for that purpose.

J. B. STREATER,
Treas. J. Ed. Finance, N. Miss. Conf.
Black Hawk, Miss.

To the Subscribers to Dr. Morrison's Special Mission Collection, North Mississippi Conference:

Brethren: I have received this day a letter from Dr. I. G. John, of Nashville, requesting me to collect your subscriptions and send to the treasurer at Nashville by the thirty-first, at farthest. Please send me your subscription at Brooksville, Miss., by money order or registered letter, and I will send you receipt. If you have forgotten the amount, send me a postal, and I will send you the amount. I have your names on my book.

J. W. LUTER, Treas.
Brooksville, Miss.

Little Things in Life.

It is strange how often a person's destiny may be decided by a trifle. The slightest circumstance of every-day life, to which we attach no importance whatever, may work for us a destiny we never dreamed of. Truly, little things do wonders; and Beecham's Pills are daily performing the most remarkable cures of diseased stomachs and livers. If you suffer from sick-headache, impaired digestion, disordered liver, send 25 cents to B. F. Allen Co., General Agents, (If your druggist does not have them), 365 and 367 Canal street, New York, for a sample box.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. John W. Chambers writes: "Enterprise and Stonewall circuit cleared the decks last Sunday. Health improving. Crops are being planted. The ADVOCATE is being received with greater favor than usual."

—Rev. H. S. Johns, Algiers, La., writes: "Yesterday (Feb. 23) Bishop Keener gave us his presence and a very solid sermon from John viii, 36: 'If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.' We are progressing and hope to have a good year."

—Rev. D. C. Foust, West, Miss., writes: "Our first Quarterly Conference was held at Brock's, Feb. 21 and 22. Our presiding elder, Bro. Thames, was with us. Preached two excellent sermons; baptized two children; administered the sacrament, and raised $150 on Conference collections. All said we had a profitable meeting. Outlook encouraging on West circuit."

—Rev. J. Pipes writes from Grand Cane, La.: "If the above obituary don't come within the limit of the thirty-five lines, I'll have to give it up. Bro. Lallance and wife both have been quite sick, but are better. It's too cold for comfort; freezing in the shade at noon. I preached last Sunday at Pleasant Hill for Bro. Henderson. He has not been able to do much circuit work so far by reason of the miserable condition of the roads."

—Rev. L. W. Wood writes from China Grove, Miss.: "Reached my work on the fourth Saturday in December, 1890. Finished my second round. Delighted with my work and people. Rain and la grippe have interfered somewhat with work. Have visited thirty-two families, married two couples, had two funerals, two accessions, two baptisms, and lost eleven members by certificate and one by death. Wife and I have made a number of improvements and repairs on parsonage. Anticipate a prosperous year. Pray for us."

—Rev. J. M. Heary writes from Shreveport, La.: "My prospects are growing brighter. I have hopes of large success. For a time I felt that there must be some mistake somewhere, but not so now. I now have a membership of eighteen. More than half of this number will lead a prayer meeting, and nearly all pray in public. All are live, thorough-going Christians. We have a live Sunday-school. Last night our house was full. Considering the inclement weather, I have had splendid congregations at every service since my arrival. We will begin to build before long."

—Rev. R. W. Bigham writes from Covington, Ga., Feb. 27: "The fourth page of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, Feb. 26, excels. I read many religious papers. 'The Result of Bad Teaching' and 'Absurd Men' are clear, suggestive, pertinent, brave; 'right words fitly spoken'—much above average editorial and communication, so far as my reading goes. And 'The Prayer Meeting,' 'Two Great Perils,' 'Briefs' and 'Notes,' are exceptionally well put. May you and your paper prosper for the church's good!"

[This voice from Georgia does us good. Thank you.—EDITOR.]

—Rev. H. Bradford writes of East Feliciana circuit: "We have reached the land of 'corn and wine' spoken of in the Bible and promised to the Lord's people. Whether we are the Lord's people or not, we have certainly been treated as though we were since coming to this circuit. The stewards first met and agreed on a liberal assessment; they next ceiled and furnished the parsonage at a cost of about one hundred dollars, and then the near neighbors brought us almost everything in the shape of good things to eat you can imagine. I am sure the hand of Providence was in our appointment, this time at least, for how could the poorest preacher have secured the best circuit in any other way. May God bless our labors on this work for this year with an abundant outpouring of his spirit! May all the people say, Amen!"

—Rev. T. B. White writes from Colfax, La.: "Our health is not first rate; but what a privilege to work for the blessed Master! You may see from this writing that my fingers are stiff from rheumatism; but if this were all—but oh! the twinges and tortures! Well, the Lord is good, a stronghold in the day of trouble. We have a good boarding-house, but we long for a parsonage! Our association for the promotion of holiness is appointed to meet here March 26, and will embrace the fifth Sunday. We hope all our brethren will meet with us, that we may calmly, lovingly and in the fear of God build each other up in that 'holiness without which no man shall see the Lord.' No fanaticism, erraticism, wild-fire or come-out-ism. No! blessed be God!—but the 'love' which is the 'fulfilling of the law.' God bless you. I often pray for our editors. Oh! what a responsibility they have!"

—Rev. Heslep R. Tucker writes from Houston, Miss.: "I have been tussling with la grippe for a month, and the winter has not been favorable to a preacher's work; but, notwithstanding these difficulties, there are some things within our bounds to encourage us. Whenever the weather has been favorable our congregations have been large and the services interesting. We have two class meetings which are doing much good. Our prayer meetings doing well. We have three Sunday-schools, and they are all standing the winter. The school at Houston is very large and finely organized and in good working order. Some needed repairs have been made on our church at this place. The ladies have just added some valuable articles of furniture to the parsonage, which now gives us a house splendidly furnished. Our first Quarterly Conference will be late; but the wants of the preacher are being met, and without much being said about it. Our people have done well for Millsaps College, and, of course, are looking with interest to the location of the same. There are young men in this charge ready to enter at the very beginning of the school. We are looking for a prosperous year throughout this work."

Woman's Missionary Society, Louisiana Conference.

The societies, adult and juvenile, of Woman's Missionary Society are urged to make a special effort on Easter Sunday in behalf of The Bible and Training-school. Ask your pastors to preach with reference to it on that day. Wherever practicable carry out the programs which have been provided by the committee appointed by the Board, and let each and every one bring up some offering, great or small, toward the building of this house for the Lord. The work demands this training-school for home and foreign workers. Miss Haygood says: "Send us no more raw teachers. We want trained workers." The foreign fields are waiting for the efficient reapers, and the volunteers are waiting for the training necessary. Meanwhile the "school" is only waiting for our help to hasten its completion. What more fitting than that the glad Easter Sunday be consecrated by a great outpouring of praise in a glad free-will offering.

MRS. THOS. P. FULLILOVE.
Shreveport, La.

Money for Everybody.

Mrs. Wells asks, "Is it a fact that a person can make $30 or $10 a week in the plating business?" Yes. I make from $5 to $8 a day, plating and selling plated ware. The Lake Electric Co., Englewood, Ill., will give you full instructions. In this business there is money for everybody.

A READER.

When you expect an advertisement to create business, word it for business. An advertisement has no life in itself—it depends for its efficiency upon the vigor with which you endow it.—Then.

$1000 reward offered by I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston. Pamphlet with full particulars free.

Without the newspaper great advertisers can not exist. Without the advertisers, great and small (but mainly the small advertisers), the newspaper of to-day would be impossible.—James H. Beals, Jr.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

OFFICE OF
NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Letters or postal cards have been received during the past week from the following persons, and their instructions complied with:

Revs. D. M. Geddie, B. F. Phillips, T. S. Randle, R. B. Downer, W. M. Sullivan, J. W. Malone, H. M. Banks, B. H. Sheppard, J. D. Harper, M. Ferrell, C. M. Lyons, T. B. Holloman, W. J. Burt, A. T. Buck, W. E. Breeland, L. W. Wood, J. A. Parker, E. T. Denson, R. D. Norsworthy, Bishop C. B. Galloway, D. D.; J. W. Luter, L. Carley, J. H. Holland, R. M. Blocker, K. A. Jones, R. A. Breeland, W. B. Lewis, D. P. Bradford, E. L. Rawls, H. C. Morehead, J. D. Newsom, B. H. Rawls, J. R. Whittington, T. L. Mellen, E. F. Edgar, S. Q. Bass, J. G. Galloway, H. R. Tucker, C. McDonald, J. G. Cammack, V. V. Boone, Geo. H. Thompson, R. O. Brown, V. D. Skipper, J. W. Chambers, J. F. Wynn, H. P. Lewis, H. F. Simrall, Jr.; W. F. Sanders, T. W. Dye, R. M. Evans, W. F. Henderson, N. B. Norwood, E. L. Singletary, P. A. Johnston, A. D. McVoy, Jr.; J. G. Sibley, L. J. Jones, J. M. Brown, B. F. White, H. H. Ahrens, R. J. Jones, J. F. Patterson, R. A. Sibley, G. A. Mandeville, T. S. West, Benj. S. Rayner, Isaac T. Reames, J. S. Sanders, W. W. Simmons, W. W. Cammack, T. B. Hargrove, R. M. Walker, J. W. Bell, C. R. Godfrey, D. C. Rawls, W. W. Williams, W. B. Cook.

Messrs. J. Henley, C. C. Campbell, J. C. McPherson, Thos. C. Bell, W. J. White, Wm. R. Stuart, J. W. Bradford, J. B. Young, R. H. Willingham, E. R. Long, H. G. Porter, C. B. Hicks, J. Payne, B. F. Bonny, W. Ira Smith, W. W. Montgomery, E. H. Rook, S. D. Osborne, E. M. Kittrell, W. B. Evans.

Mesdames M. A. Price, H. Turner, E. C. Hardaway, M. B. Perkins, Jane Rundy, J. H. Long, L. J. Richardson, M. H. Morrison, J. J. Beard, C. N. Woodward, B. E. Kimbrough, Julia G. Lee, Lucie Dana, C. Davis.

Miss S. C. Shields.

March 3, 1891.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD; OR, THE GREAT CONSUMMATION. By Sir Edwin Arnold (author of "The Light of Asia"). Illustrated with portrait of Mr. Arnold, and 14 full-page reproductions of Hoffman's celebrated pictures on the Life of Christ. Cloth, square 12mo, 288 pp., $1 75; paper edition, illustrated with frontispiece, 50 cents. New York: Funk & Wagnalls.

The central theme of "The Light of the World" is, of course, Jesus Christ. Mr. Arnold's treatment of the subject is marked by the deepest reverence, and is certain to excite that of the reader. The poem consists of six books, as follows: Book I., Mary Magdalene; Book II., The Magus; Book III., The Alabaster Box; Book IV. (in two parts), The Parables, At Tyre; Book V., The Envo of God and Man; Book VI., The Great Consummation. Preceding the poem, which is written in blank verse, is a sort of introductory book entitled, "At Bethlehem," which is written in rhymed verse.

The New York Herald says:

"The diction is careful, noble, pure and exquisite, as becomes the subject, the clime and the characters; it will please all readers of poetry and all Christian souls with rapture. Perhaps it may do far more. Should 'The Light of the World,' like 'The Light of Asia,' be translated and read in the East, it will be a more effective tract than any the missionaries have put forth, for the author never forgets what the missionary seldom remembers, that Jesus was himself an Oriental."

PAMPHLETS.

—"Easter Joy" is an excellent Easter Day exercise for Sunday-schools, just issued by the enterprising music publishers, S. W. Straub & Co., 243 State street, Chicago. It contains beautiful songs, well-selected Scripture readings, choice recitations, etc. Price, only five cents.

—A Doctrinal Catechism. By R. H. Mahon, D. D. Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.

This is a catechism for the use of Sunday-schools, Bible classes, families, and young men making ready for license to preach. We know of no one better qualified for the work which is undertaken, and we are sure no one has done that work better than Doctor Mahon.

—"All Hail" is another Easter service for Sunday-schools, by J. B. Herbert, and published by S. Brainard's Sons Co., Chicago. Price, five cents; $4 per hundred.

PERIODICALS.

The following periodicals for March have been received:

POPULAR SCIENCE. D. Appleton & Co., New York. Price, $5.

CHAUTAUQUAN. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Pa. Price, $2.

MISSIONARY REVIEW, Funk & Wagnalls, New York. Price, $2.

MAGAZINE OF ART. Cassell Company, New York. Price, $3 50.

THE QUIVER. Cassell Company, New York. Price, $1 50.

CHRISTIAN THOUGHT. W. B. Ketcham, New York. $2.

THE CENTURY. Century Company, New York. $4.

FAMILY MAGAZINE. Cassell Company, New York. $1 50.

THE PULPIT. Lakeside Publishing Company, Buffalo, N. Y. $2.

THE TREASURY. E. B. Treat, New York. Price, $2 50.

ST. NICHOLAS. Century Company, New York. Price, $3 50.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL. Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Price, $1.

THE FORUM. Forum Publishing Company, New York. Price, $5.

ARENA. Arena Publishing Company, Boston. Price, $5.

HOMILETIC MAGAZINE. E. B. Treat, New York. Price, $2.

OUR DAY. Our Day Publishing Company, Boston. $2 50.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75 cents.

It is well known among successful merchants that liberal advertising is indispensable to the economical and successful working of their establishments.—Price Current.

Facts for the people.—Salvation Oil kills all pain and costs but 25 cents a bottle.

Advertising is a gear in the machine of a well-regulated store. It can not sell the goods itself; it only delivers the customer, as it were.—Milford (Mass.) Journal.

Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera, Flux.

Maguire's Benne Plant for nearly 50 years the infallible cure. Thousands of testimonials; indorsed by the Western Sanitary Commission, U. S. army officers, hospital physicians, steamboat officers, etc. Taken in time a sure preventive of Asiatic cholera.

One of the largest industries in Atlanta is the Wrought Iron Fence Works of J. W. Rice. This concern bears a very high reputation for turning out work which can not be excelled anywhere in the North. Their prices are very moderate, and they will gladly send a handsome catalogue showing latest designs free.

Minutes of the Mississippi Conference.

I desire to notice, in justice to Daleville station, that the statistical secretary or the printor has interchanged the financial statistics of Hopewell circuit and Daleville station. Very great care is essential in correct statistics; and it is not surprising that errors sometimes occur.

Fraternally, J. M. PUGH.
Daleville, Miss.

TAKE HEED!

And if you are troubled with a hacking cough, tightness in the chest, tickling in the throat,

USE

Locock's Cough Elixir.

It is unsurpassed for the relief and cure of all Throat and Lung Troubles. Coughs, Colds and Incipient Consumption yield readily to its medicinal virtues.

TESTIMONIAL.
LINDEN, ALA.

I. L. LYONS, New Orleans—

Dear Sir: Last winter I had a severe cough, pain in the chest and spitting of blood. I procured a bottle of Dr. Locock's Cough Elixir, and am happy to state that four doses relieved me entirely, and I can safely say that I think it is the best cough medicine I ever saw.

E. L. WALSTON.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

John Wesley

is the subject of an interesting biographical article, which, with illustrations, forms the SUPPLEMENT to this week's number of Harper's Weekly.

DONALD KENNEDY

Of Roxbury, Mass., says

My Medical Discovery seldom takes hold of two people alike! Why? Because no two people have the same weak spot. Beginning at the stomach, it goes searching through the body for any hidden humor. Nine times out of ten, inward humor makes the weak spot. Perhaps its only a little sediment left on a nerve or in a gland; the Medical Discovery slides it right along, and you find quick happiness, from the first bottle. Perhaps it's a big sediment or open sore, well rettled somewhere, ready to fight. The Medical Discovery begins the fight, and you think it pretty hard, but soon you thank me for making something that has reached your weak spot. Write me if you want to know more about it.

W. H. KRONE,
BUILDER
586 Baronne St., - New Orleans.
Box 71, M., D., and L. Exchange.

SHORTHAND
—AND—
TYPE-WRITING TAUGHT.

Lady teacher in either branch when desired. All kinds of Shorthand or Type-writing Work Solicited.

WALTER DUNSTAN'S
PHONETIC SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING INSTITUTE,
234 St. Charles Street, near Lee Circle
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Boarding Department for young ladies.

WANTED GOOD RELIABLE AGENTS everywhere for the National Capital Savings and Loan Society. Liberal commission; money loaned in every State. 921 to 925 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
J. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

In answering advertisements please mention the Advocate.

The Breath of Spring is in the Air.

Time to practice EASTER MUSIC, is it not?

Send for our Fine List of Carols, Anthems, &c., or for Easter Alleluias (5 cts., 50 cts doz.), Rosebel, or Our Easter Offering (15 cts., $1.44 doz.), a Cantata by Lewis.

MUSICAL SOCIETIES

should wind up the season by practicing such Cantatas as Don Manio ($1.50, $13.50 doz.), Wreck of Hesperus (5 cts., $4.80 doz.), 91st Psalm (60 cts., $5.40 doz.) Ballard. Send for our List of 150 Cantatas.

FAIRS and EXHIBITIONS are made successful by introducing easy Cantatas, like Dairy Maid's Supper (30 cts., $1.80 doz.), Lewis, or Garden of Singing Flowers (10 cts., $3.60 doz.), or Rainbow Festival (30 cts., $1.80 doz.) Lewis.

BOYS and GIRLS who sing will be delighted to take part in the brilliant flower cantata, New Floral Festival (15 cts., $1.80 doz.), New Flower Queen (60 cts., $5.10 doz.), Kingdom of Mother Goose (15 cts., $2.18 doz.), Gipsy Queen (60 cts., $5.10 doz.) Send for Lists.

Much attractive Exhibition Music is found in School Collections.

Children's School Songs (35 cts., $3.60 doz.), Golden Host, (50 cts.), charming action songs by Mrs. L. O. Emerson, First Steps in Song Reading (30 cts., $3 doz.)

Any Book mailed, post-paid, for retail price.

Oliver Ditson Com'y, Boston.

C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York City

GOLDEN MEMORIES

OF THE BOOK OF BOOKS IN PICTURE, SONG, AND STORY.

8 Col'd Plates, 50 full-page Engrs., 200 Illustrations.

A MASTERPIECE of LITERATURE and ART

A Gallery of Pictorial Art, a Library of Sacred Literature, and a Life of Christ from Cradle to Crown, sold at a price within the reach of all.

AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY TOWNSHIP.
HUNT & EATON, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York.

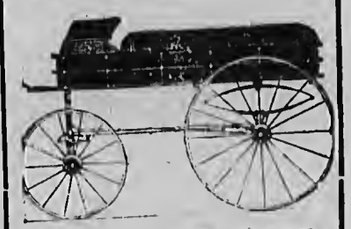
EASTER MUSIC

Of every description for the Church and Sunday School. Complete Lists mailed free to any address on application. ADDRESS,

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Root & Sons Music Co., 243 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

R. P. RANDALL,
Carriages and Harness,
Saddles and Bridles,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
NEW ORLEANS.

Body Cart, with lazy back, $20.
A good, substantial article, which we can recommend to give service.



3-Spring Delivery Wagon, $67.50.
TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER.

FOR RENT.

Delightful summer residence, furnished cottage on Seashore Camp Grounds, Miss.

For particulars address P. O. Box 600, New Orleans.

Shepard & Butler,

94 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds,
WOOD WARE, all kinds,
TIN WARE, all kinds,
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

INTER-STATE FIRE ASSOCIATION,
58 Carondelet St., NEW ORLEANS.

Mutual—Divides Profits amongst Insurers.

BREEDLOVE SMITH, President. ALBERT MACKIE, Vice-President.
R. L. EMERY, Secretary.

Assets—Jan. 1, 1891.—
Guarantee fund.....$173,050 00
Other assets.....10,555 00
Total.....$183,805 00
Liabilities—
Unearned premium reserve.....$ 8,478 12
Other liabilities.....2,779 51
$ 11,257.63
Net surplus for policy holders, Jan. 1, 1891.....$172 317 37

Board of Trustees.

JOHN I. ADAMS, A. BONNECAZE, N. H. WALLACE, ALBERT MACKIE, ROBERT MANSON, M. T. ELFERT, RICHARD FURMAN, JAS. G. DUNCAN, HENRY G. BUSH, BREEDLOVE SMITH, H. H. ONG, S. HERNSHEIM, HENRY HAAG, JOHN S. TALMAGE, C. C. EMERY, HENRY WELLMANN, ANDREW JACKSON, ISIDORE HECHINGER, L. H. GARDNER, W. W. SUMNER, R. L. EMERY.

The Adams District High School.

(Established by the Methodist Conference.)

A thorough training-school for boys and girls. The only Telegraphy School in Mississippi south of Jackson. Classical, Scientific, Commercial and Musical. For Catalogue address

MANCY SMITH, Principal,
Auburn, Lincoln Co., Miss.

YOUR NAME on 25 Lovely Cards, 1 Ring, 1 Lace Pin, 1 Patent Fountain Pen Combination, 1 Pocket-size Album, 100 Album Verses &c., All 10c. Lowell Card Co., Box 3, Clintonville, Conn.

Tutt's Pills

stimulates the torpid liver, strengthens the digestive organs, regulates the bowels, and are unequaled as an ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.

In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25cts.

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

MUSIC LOVERS of all kinds will find something to suit them among the following new and superior collections of Foreign Vocal and Piano Music:

FOR PIANO.

Piano Mosaics $1.00, Modern Classics Vol. 2 $1.00, Modern Juvenile Classics Vol. 2 $1, American Artists' Edition Album Vol. 1 65 cts, American Artists' Edition Album Vol. 2. 65 cts., Paderewski Album 65 cts., Wagner Album 65 cts., Four Hand Album 65 cts., Strauss Concert Album 65 cts.

VOCAL

Song Mosaics for Soprano $1.00, Song Mosaics for Alto $1.00, Song Mosaics for Tenor $1.00, Song Mosaics for Baritone or Bass $1.00, Modern Soprano Songs $1.00, Modern Vocal Duets $1.00, Fifty Bass Songs $1.

 Any of the above sent by mail on receipt of marked price.

List of Contents furnished on application. Send 10cts. for sample of "Musical Visitor" for choirs.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

Root & Sons Music Co., 200 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

MUNN & CO. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN AGENCY for PATENTS

A pamphlet of information and abstract of the laws, showing How to Obtain Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, sent free. Address MUNN & CO. 361 Broadway, New York.

IRON FENCE.

SIXTY STYLES FOR

Cemetery and Lawns

CATALOG FREE.

J. W. RICE, Atlanta, - Ga

WOVEN WIRE FENCE

40c to $1.00 per Rod.

Something new. Made of steel wire, galvanized. Best and cheapest fence and gates made. Do not buy. Circulars and prices free. Address KITSELMAN BROS., Ridgeville, Ind.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., FOR Catalogue.

A Great Discovery.

A new, simple, pleasant and permanent cure for Catarrh in the head, throat and lungs; Colds, etc. No dosing with drugs. No snuff, douche, salve, etc. Wonderful cures made. A FREE SAMPLE by mail. Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & Co., Dalton, Ga.

TENNESSEE BAKE PAN

Unexcelled for baking meats, fowls, fish, cake, bread, cakes, puddings, etc. Self-basting. No Parboiling. No Burning. No Scorching. Retains juices, flavors and nutriment. Saves time, fuel and trouble. AGENTS WANTED. LIBERAL TERMS. Address C. A. TIPTON, Jr. Prop'r, London, Tenn.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. HISCOX & Co. N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

DROPSY Treated free. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. TEN DAYS TREATMENT FURNISHED FREE by mail. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, Atlanta, Ga.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES

$100. FOR AN INCURABLE CASE.

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration, causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY which acts directly on parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 50c. Druggists or mail. Circulars free. Bosanko Co. Piqua, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

Improved EXCELSIOR INCUBATOR

Will hatch larger percentage of fertile eggs at less cost than any other hatcher. Send 6c for Illus. Cata. GEO. H. STAHL, Quincy, Ill.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails. Send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE. DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

PLAYS Dialogues, Tableaux, Speakers, for School, Club & Parlor. Best out. Catalogue free. T. S. DENISON, Chicago, Ill.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

BUSY LITTLE PEOPLE.

BY S. J. SMITH.

I know some little people.
They number twenty-six;
They're all such busy creatures
And never cut up tricks.

Where're you go you find them,
In church or in a fair;
At banquets, balls or parties—
Indeed, they're everywhere.

They help make up our dresses,
They finish hats and shoes.
Without these little people
We'd never have the news.

Our reading and our spelling
We could not learn, you see.
The letters to our grandma
Would never written be.

These busy little people
Join hands and work together;
They're tolling in the sunshine
And in the cloudy weather.

They teach by their example
How well we can succeed,
By working all together
When in a time of need.

They form a club—the name is—
You haven't guessed it yet?
Then I will have to tell you:
It is the ALPHABET.

—Christian at Work.

MR. EDITOR: I enjoy reading the dear old ADVOCATE. The other children all write about their homes, and, as I have never written to your paper, I will try to write and be in friendship with the other little cousins. I am going to school, and study grammar, geography, arithmetic and spelling. We have a fine school. We have about forty pupils. We have two teachers. Their names are Mr. Pettie and Miss Addie Guyton, and I like them very much. They are good and kind. My father is a farmer. I am fourteen years old. I have no pets but my baby sister. Her name is Mary Ethel. We have a Sunday-school, but it is of no force. The cause of it is: the people will not take any part in the Sunday-school. We don't have any church close by. Bro. Howell is on this work; but it is too far for us to go. Well, I will answer John L. Lewis' question: "Reverend" is found in Psalms iii, 9. Now, I will ask a question: How many times does the word "riddle" occur in the Bible and where is it found? I remain, as ever,

Your friend,

ADDIE E. BALL.

Cadeville, La.

For sun-burn, tan or rough hands, bathe with Johnson's Anodyne Liniment at night; wonderful.

MR. EDITOR: I have been reading the letters in the ADVOCATE. I think they are so nice. We have a nice Sunday-school, and we have a good teacher. Her name is Mrs. Eves, and she is very kind to us. We also have a good minister. We live in a town in Louisiana called Washington. The town is near a bayou, and there are such pretty hills and woods around it. I saw in a letter published in the ADVOCATE, of Feb. 12, a question asking how far the sun is from the earth. I thought that I would write and answer it. The sun is 92,000,000 miles away from us. I learned that in my natural philosophy. I will close, hoping to see this published.

Your little friend,

NETTIE HUMBLE.

If you want to rest well at night, ease your cough by using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little boy eight years old. My papa takes your paper. I like ever so much to read the letters from the dear litttle cousins, and I thought I would write one. My papa is superintendent of our Sunday-school. I have been going to Sunday-school all my life, and I belong to the M. E. Church, South. We have a good preacher; his name is Bro. R. O. Brown. We like him ever so much. I will close by asking a question: "How many sons had Adam." Hoping that my first letter will not reach the waste-basket, I remain, as ever,

Your unknown friend,

EARNEST E. SHIVERS.

Cleveland, Miss.

MR. EDITOR: I am a girl twelve years old. My mama takes your valuable paper. I love to read the children's letters. I think Conference is partial to our swamp country. They sent Bro. D. C. Ellis to preach for us last year, and Bro. Ferguson this year—both young preachers. Our appointment has been changed to the first Sunday. I was so sorry to read of Uncle Hurst's sad loss of his dear wife. So I will close for fear this will be thrown in the waste-basket.

Your friend,

NORA G. EDMONDS.

Their Mother Taught Them to Pray.

Last Saturday, says a New York telegram, two brothers, Peter and Frank Cole, aged respectively 14 and 16 years, applied at police headquarters in Newark, N.J., for lodging. They stated that they had come from Haverstraw, N. Y., where their parents died, leaving them destitute, and they were tramping to Florida, where they had an uncle who would care for them. The kindhearted captain at the station accommodated them with a cot in the witness room, and during the evening when he looked into the room, saw them on their knees. Sunday morning, after expressing their hearty thanks, the boys announced their intention of continuing their journey.

"What were you doing on your knees last night?" asked Capt. Corbitt in a kindly tone.

The boys hung their heads for a moment, and then Frank replied, "Our mother taught us to pray."

Chief of Police Hopper, Capt. Corbitt and Track Supervisor James R. Smith, of the Pensylvania railroad, have raised money to pay their fares through to Chaseville, Fla., where their uncle resides.

As long as these boys remember the prayer taught them by their mother, they will never go astray. How many men would be better, nobler and stronger in the great battle of life, if they hearken to the gentle voice of their mother, now silent in death? The boy's answer is a sermon in itself.—Caucasian.

THE CAPITAL.—Most of our young readers know where the capital of the United States is now, but how many can tell all the places where it has been? There are few, probably, who would think that for twenty-six years "Uncle Sam" was so uneasy and roving in disposition as to find it difficult to settle himself permanently anywhere. It seems as if this must have been so, since he moved eleven times between 1774 and 1800; but he must have grown more quiet and sedate in his old age, since he has lived ninety years in Washington.

The New York Tribune says: "The capital of the United States has been located at different times at the following places: At Philadelphia from Sept. 5, 1774, until December, 1776; at Baltimore from Dec. 20, 1776, to March, 1777; at Philadelphia from March 4, 1777, to September, 1777; at Lancaster, Pa., from Sept. 27, 1777, to Sept. 30, 1777; at York, Pa., from Sept. 30, 1777, to July, 1778; at Philadelphia from July 2, 1778, to June 30, 1783; at Princeton, N. J., June 30, 1783, to Nov. 20, 1783; Annapolis, Md., Nov. 26, 1783, to Nov. 30, 1784; Trenton from November, 1784, to January, 1785; New York from Jan. 11, 1785, to 1790; then the seat of government was removed to Philadelphia, where it remained until 1800; since that time it has been at Washington."—New York Christian Advocate.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption.

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this receipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

Notice.

All contributions and communications intended for the Transit and Building Fund Society of Bishop William Taylor's Self-Supporting Missions, should be sent to Richard Grant treasurer, 181 Hudson St., New York.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS WATERPROOF.
A HANDSOME POLISH.
A LEATHER PRESERVER.
NO BRUSHING REQUIRED.

Shoes can be washed daily.

Used by men, women and children.

And so you thought I had a new Rosewood desk? Well, my boy, I am not yet a millionaire. See here, that is my old walnut one painted with PIK-RON TRADE MARK. TRY IT. AGAINST THAT ONE CAN'T SEE THROUGH.

Sold Everywhere.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia.

PIK-RON stains white glass; lacquers tin, iron or bronze; japans carriages and bicycles.

HOUSEHOLD.

FAMILY FINANCIERING.

BY S. W. FOSS.

"They tell me you work for a dollar a day;
How is it you clothe your six boys on such pay?"

"I know you will think it conceited and queer,
But I do it because I'm a good financier.

"There's Pete, John, Jim, and Joe and William and Ned,
A half-dozen boys to be clothed up and fed.

"And I buy for them all good, plain victuals to eat;
But clothing—I only buy clothing for Pete.

"When Pete's clothes are too small for him to get on My wife makes 'em over and gives 'em to John.

"When for John, who is ten, they have grown out of date
She just makes 'em over for Jim, who is eight.

"When for Jim they become too ragged to fix
She just makes them over for Joe, who is six.

"And when little Joseph can wear 'em no more
She just makes 'em over for Bill, who is four.

'And when for young Bill they no longer will do
She just makes 'em over for Ned, who is two.

"So you see, if I get enough clothing for Pete,
The family is furnished with clothing complete."

"But when Ned has got through with the clothing, and when He has thrown it aside—what do you do with it then?"

"Why, once more we go round, the circle complete,
And begin to use it for patches for Pete."

How to Bring Down a Son.

Let him have plenty of spending-money. Permit him to choose his own companions, without restraint or direction. Give him a latch-key, and allow him to return home late in the evening. Make no inquiry as to where and with whom he spends his leisure moments. Give him to understand that manners make a good substitute for morality. Teach him to expect pay for every act of helpfulness to others. Allow him to occupy a seat in church with the boys, rather than a pew with his parents. Permit him to regard the Sunday-school unsuitable for a boy on the verge of young manhood. Let him spend the Sabbath hours between service on the street. Be careful never to let him hear your voice in prayer for his salvation and spiritual growth.

HOW TO BRING UP A SON.

Make home the brightest and most attractive place on earth. Make him responsible for the performance of a limited number of daily duties. Never punish him in anger. Do not ridicule his conceits, but rather talk frankly on matters in which he is interested. Let him feel free to invite his friends to your home and table. Encourage his confidence by giving ready sympathy and advice. Do not discourage "collection manias;" they help to give information and fix habits of investigation and perseverance. Be careful to impress upon his mind that making character is more important than making money. Live Christ before him all the time; then you will be able to talk of Christ to him with power when occasions offer. Be much in prayer for his salvation and spiritual growth. —Marvin.

EDUCATE YOURSELF.—Young brother, sister, why don't you educate yourself? Can't do it? Too busy with the exactions of life? No time? Let us see. There are twenty-four hours in a day. Seven hours for sleep; nothing short. Three hours for toilet, and meals; enough. Nine hours for business or labor; he who takes more is shortening his life in order to live; foolishness. Two hours for trifles and receiving company. We present simply the daily average. Then have three hours to spare. What will you do with the three hours? Squander them? Where is your manhood, womanhood, conscience, sense of responsibility to the world and God, your common sense? Now, then, begin where you left off when you entered upon practical life; reading, spelling, writing, elementary studies. Spend one hour a day in bringing them up to higher branches. If there already, go on with some branch of science. Then one hour general reading, one hour with the Bible and God. This is entirely feasible. Do it; and be somebody.—Exchange.

PASTOR'S BOOK—NOW READY.

Messrs. Shaw & Blaylock:

The J. T. L. Annis Pastor's Book has just reached me. I can not commend it too highly to Pastors. In revising it has been brought to a high degree of perfection. No Methodist Pastor should be without it. I am thankful for such a book.

Respectfully, T. L. ADAMS.

The above book, revised and enlarged, can be bought only from the undersigned. Price, postage paid, 50 cents per copy.

SHAW & BLAYLOCK,
Publishers Texas Christian Advocate,
Dallas, Texas.

SCIENTIFIC.

Electricity a Factor in Capital.

"No enterprise in the world," said a well-known electrician, "has increased within the last few years as rapidly as the business of electric lighting. The amount of money invested in electric light plants in this country to-day is $120,000,000, and it was only eleven years ago, you remember, that the light was first perfected. From the few lamps burned by Edison at Menlo Park, in 1879, there have grown into present use at least 125,000 arc lights and 1,700,000 incandescent lights."

One of the most noticeable results of this remarkable growth, says Electric Power, is the increase in the price of platinum. Here is an incandescent lamp. You see the short strip of wire attached to the copper conductor just at the top of the globe. Well, that is platinum. It connects the carbonized loop, and is one of the absolutely indispensable features of the lamp, because it expands at the same temperature and in the same proportion as the glass globe. There have been a good many experiments for the purpose of determining a substitute for platinum, but none has been found, the experiments resulting in each instance in the unequal expansion of the metal and the glass, and the consequent breaking of the globe. Unfortunately, every lamp requires a strip of this metal. I say "unfortunately," because it has come to be extremely valuable, and the mines are not productive. Moreover, they are situated in the Ural Mountains and are practically inaccessible. As a result of this increasing demand and diminishing supply, the price of platinum has advanced tremendously; it is now almost as valuable as gold. Five years ago the metal was seldom used in this country, being employed only in the evaporating stills for the concentration of sulphuric acid and in the manufacture of jewelry. It was then to be bought in the market for $3 and $5 an ounce. A year ago it advanced to $8 an ounce, six months ago it had increased to $14, and I see by one of the trade journals that it is now gone up to $20, which is only a few cents less than to-day's gold quotation.

Platinum gets its name from the Spaniards. As early as the sixteenth century it appears to have been noticed that the gold ore in the Spanish mines of Darien included grains of a white metal endowed with the qualities of a noble metal, and yet distinctly different from silver. Its exportation to Europe was prohibited, because the Spanish government found that it might easily be used in the adulteration of gold. For this reason it did not find its way to Europe until the middle of the last century, when it was known as "platina del Pinto"—the little silver from the River Pinto. Since its remarkable chemical properties were established in 1780, it has been discovered in New Granada, San Domingo, California, Borneo, and in portions of Canada. But the richest deposits are those in the Ural Mountains, where the metal was discovered in 1823, and where it has been successfully mined by the Russians since 1828.—Scientific American.

NEW SUBMARINE BOAT.—The French submarine boat Gymnote was recently tried at Toulon, and demonstrated its ability to pass through a blockaded line and escape attention in spite of systematic efforts to watch, trace or discover its course. According to the Revue Industrielle, it plunged and remained under water forty minutes. It rose to the surface in a distance of more than two miles and a half from its point of departure, and had passed under the watched line of demarkation without being seen. After having ascertained where it was, it remerged to return. It again crossed the line, but this time two of the parties on the lookout for it got a glimpse of it, not, however, sufficiently distinct to enable them to trace and pursue it. The course of the boat was in both instances rectilinear.—Scientific American.

Many people neglect a cold, thinking it will go as it came. Frequently with serious results, the cold of to-day may be the pneumonia of to-morrow. Nothing will cure a cough or cold so rapidly as Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. Its reputation has been established for over fifty years as the best remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, all throat and lung troubles. For croup and whooping-cough it is invaluable. Mothers will be saved much anxiety and loss of children by having Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar always on hand. Consumption has been cured many times by its use. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

PARSONS PURGATIVE PILLS

Make New, Rich Blood

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No other like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them, and you will always be thankful. One PILL A DOSE. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cts. in stamps. Dr. J. F. JOHNSON & Co., 22 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., Boston, Mass.

Mention this paper.

Books

New Books every week. Catalogue, 132 pages, free. not sold by Dealers; prices too low; buy of the Publisher, JOHN B. ALDEN, 393 Pearl St., New York.

Dr. Wm. H. Holcombe,

Homeopathic Physician,

288 St. Charles Avenue, cor. of Calliope St.

Cases treated by letter.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave., NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

The Best, Swiftest and Lightest-Running Sewing Machine in the World is the SINGER.

Especially Adapted for Family Use. In Elegant, Convenient and Artistic Cabinet Work, with our New (patented) Stand, and all Modern Improvements.

THE ONLY PERFECT ATTACHMENTS

More Popular Than Ever, They Defy Competition.

Sold on the Most Liberal and Easy Terms. Full Instructions Given and Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Send for Illustrated Price List.

Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines, 15, 20 and 25 cents per dozen; postage extra. Parts and Attachments for the Singer.

The Singer Manufacturing Company,

CENTRAL OFFICE:

185 Canal, New Orleans, La.

Branch offices at Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Dallas, Galveston, Houston, Marshall and San Antonio, Tex.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, LONDON, ENGLAND.

GEO. C. LOGAN, President. A. L. FOURNIER, Secretary.

New Orleans Express Com'y,

LIMITED.

City Delivery and Transfer,

No. 101 Camp Street,

Telephone No. 211, New Orleans, La

This Express Company has been organized mainly for the purpose of a reliable CITY DELIVERY of Merchandise, Packages, Trunks, Baggage, etc., from and to Stores, Residences, Hotels, Steamboats, Depots, and all points within City Limits. Will promptly respond to Telephone Calls, No. 211.

Weekly, Monthly or Yearly Contracts made with Stores.

TELEPHONE 211.

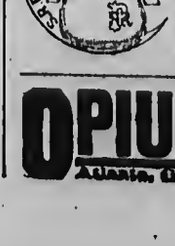
Geo. C. Logan,

DEARBORN PATENT

SCALES.

Cotton, Sugar and Platform Scales, Grocers' Scales, Spring Balances, Cotton, Warehouse and Store Trucks, Refrigerators, Coolers and Freezers, Housefurnishing Goods, etc.

101 Camp St., - New Orleans, La.



S. R. PERRY,

183 Canal St.

Shirts made to order $1, $1 25, $1 50, unlaundried. Night Shirts made to order 75c, $1, $1 25. Drawers made to order 50c, 75c, $1. Undershirts made to order 50c, 75c, $1.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 66½ Whitehall St.

MARRIAGES.

OVERSTREET—McCLELLEN.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Aron McClellen, Dec. 7, 1890, by Rev. R. C. Callaway, Mr. John Overstreet to Miss Elizabeth McClellen, all of Montgomery county, Miss.

THOMPSON—HERRON.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. E. Herron, Jan. 11, 1891, by Rev. R. C. Callaway, Mr. J. P. Thompson, of Batesville, Miss., to Miss Sallie Herron, of Carroll county, Miss.

RANDLE—COLTON.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Colton, Jan. 11, 1891, by Rev. R. C. Callaway, Mr. W. O. Randle, of Bessemer, Ala., to Miss Lula Colton, of Carroll county, Miss.

ROBINSON—CLARK.—At the residence of the bride, Feb. 5, 1891, by Rev. J. T. Howell, Mr. John W. D. Robinson to Miss Nannie A. Clark, all of DeSoto county, Miss.

HEMPHILL—MAXWELL.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Simeon Maxwell, Dec. 24, 1890, by Rev. B. A. Beeson, Mr. P. B. Hemphill and Miss Emma Maxwell, all of Lincoln county, Miss.

FORD—STRONG.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Utica, Miss., Feb 18, 1891, by Rev. N. J. Roberts, Mr. John Ford to Miss Era Strong, both of Hinds county, Miss.

BALLARD—LAMBERT.—At the resilence of Mr. Samuel Lambert, Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. B. A. Beeson, Mr. W. C. Ballard and Miss F. A. Lambert, all of Lawrence county, Miss.

WILLIAMS—ROBERTSON.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. G. R. Robertson, Feb. 1891, by Rev. B. A. Beeson, Mr. J. C. Williams and Miss Minnie Robertson, all of Lincoln county, Miss.

PENNINGTON—ROBERTSON.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. G. R. Robertson, Jan. 14, 1891, by Rev. B. A. Beeson, Mr. Joseph Pennington and Miss Allie Robertson, all of Lincoln county, Miss.

McPHERSON—HAMILTON.—At the residence of Mr. W. J. Scott, Jan. 28, 1891, by Rev. B. A. Beeson, Mr. W. C. McPherson, of Wesson, Miss. and Miss Ethel Hamilton, of Lincoln county, Miss.

STEVENS—ANDERSON.—At the residence of the bride's father, on Sunflower river, Feb. 8, 1891, by Rev. Ira B. Robertson, Mr. P. W. Stevens to Miss Sarah Ursula Anderson, all of Sharkey county, Miss.

LINZEY—LEVERETTE.—At the bride's residence, near Anguilla, Miss., Feb. 22, 1891, by Rev. Ira B. Robertson, Mr. James Linzey to Mrs. Clarilla Leverette.

WATSON—BUNCH.—At the home of the bride's father, East Baton Rouge parish, Feb. 19, 1891, by Rev. H. Bradford, Mr. D. L. Watson to Miss Annie Bunch.

OBITUARIES.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

MUNHOLLAND—Sister SALOME J. MUNHOLLAND (nee Rundall), wife of Rev. C. T. Munholland, of the Louisiana Annual Conference, was born May 31, 1840, and died in Simshorough, La., Feb. 5, 1891, aged fifty years eight months and five days. She was married to Mr. C. T. Munholland in 1857, and lived six miles below Delhi, La., on Bayou Macon, until in 1877, at which time her husband was received into the Louisiana Conference on trial, he having been a local preacher about four years. In 1860 she was admitted into the membership of the Methodist Church, and a short time after she was converted and became an active and faithful member, adorning the profession which she had made in many ways until the end of life.

She possessed a gentle, quiet spirit. The impulses of her nature were noble and generous. She was kind in her disposition; in thought, feeling and action, she was eminently good, and true and faithful in all her relations to society. Upon her family she bestowed the wealth of her affection. For eleven years she has borne the privations and shared the hardships of an itinerant life with a Christian fidelity that betokens a high degree of spiritual life. She became the mother of ten children—five of whom preceded her to the spirit-world—and she leaves four sons and one daughter and an indulgent husband and a large circle of friends who mourn their loss. She was tender and kind to her children, feeling keenly the importance of raising them to occupy dignified and useful positions in the social, moral and religious circles of life. For three long weary years she has been the subject of afflictions. Was confined to her bed for about a month before her death. Her sufferings were long and painful; but she bore them with Christian patience. To witness her parting counsel to her husband and children was the privilege of but a few. When asked how about the future she said, "All is bright—all, all, for the best." God has seen fit to take her to himself. He is too wise to err; all will be made plain in that great day. She has left to us that beautiful life, and it will abide with us ever. Thus another has passed out and beyond. Here we have no continuing city, but we seek one beyond. And while the body lies a wreck, the glorified spirit speeds its glorious and hallowed flight to the God-built temple of light on high.

T. H. McCLENDON.

BAKER—Dr. JOHN WESLEY BAKER was born in Pennsylvania, Oct. 3, 1829. While he was quite young his parents moved to Indiana. He graduated in medicine, and received his diploma at the Cincinnati (Ohio) Medical College, in 1855. He came South, and located at Winnsboro, Franklin parish, La., in 1857. Being well versed in his profession, and a perfect gentleman in the full sense of the term, he soon gained the confidence of the community and a lucrative practice. In obedience to his country's call, he joined the first company of volunteers that left this parish in 1861 and went to war. He faithfully performed every duty assigned him as a private for eighteen months, when he was promoted regimental surgeon. After bearing the burdens and enduring the fatigues incident to the life of a soldier for four years he returned to Winnsboro and resumed the practice of medicine.

In 1868 he joined the Methodist Church and lived an exemplary Christian life to the end of his earthly pilgrimage. In 1876 he was happily united in marriage with Miss Maggie Register, who survives him. Of this marriage there were five bright and interesting children—one of whom preceded its father only a few months to the other shore.

On Jan. 27, 1891, at his home in this parish, Dr. Baker fell asleep in the arms of Jesus. He did not prepare for death simply, but assiduously prepared for living in both time and eternity; hence death had no terrors to him, and he met "the last enemy" with that confidence of triumph which only a veteran of the cross can.

Dr. Baker was a good physician, an obliging neighbor, a devoted husband, an indulgent father and a true friend.

May God bless and take care of the widow and children of our deceased brother, and bring them to the world of bliss and glory, where parting is no more!

A. W. MOORE.

McDADE—Died, Jan. 3, 1891, at her home, Pineville Place, Bossier parish, La., after a short illness, Sister SALLIE F. McDADE (nee Connel), relict of James Germany McDade. She was born in Lowndes county, Miss., Sept. 9, 1838, of Thomas Dixon and Dolly V. Fort Connel. Her parents moved to Bossier parish, La., in 1841, where she was raised and educated.

About the age of fifteen she united herself with the M. E. Church, South, at Fillmore, and remained an acceptable member until her death; one of the chief supports of old Fillmore church. Truly in her a mother in Israel is gone, and her loss is deeply felt. She was devoted to her church. Though living several miles from Fillmore, with numerous difficulties to surmount, she nearly always occupied her own seat near the minister, an encouraging listener.

Sister McDade was married when about sixteen to Mr. Green B. Pope; but by his early death she was left a widow. On Jan. 1, 1861, she was married to James Germany McDade, and soon moved with him to Texas. They returned to Bossier parish, La., in 1879. Mr. McDade died 1883. Again she was left in widowhood.

She was a woman of energy and excellent business talent, which necessity developed. Having to provide for a large family, she met the charge with patience and humble resignation to Almighty God, trusting in him.

With her now the struggle of life is over and God has given her rest.

LEWIS A. REED.

VAUGHT—Bro. W. OTIS VAUGHT was born Sept. 16, 1861, and departed this life, Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1891.

He had been a member of the Episcopal Church when he joined the Methodist Church, some eight years ago. All speak of him as having been a good boy, always true to his father and mother; and as a Christian, above reproach, so far as men could judge.

As his pastor I was with him only a short while before his death, and, though almost in full view of the everlasting shores, he expressed himself as being without fear, and but one regret, and that as regards his young family. These, a wife and three little ones, he left with his Master. In that hour of sweet communion he said: "I have never done anything of which I am ashamed. True, I have done wrong many times; but when I have done so, I have, whether in the woods or fields, gone alone with my Master and asked him to forgive, and he has done so." How my heart warmed as he thus related his Christian experience! Said he, "I want to go where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest."

Even so, dear brother, our hearts are comforted, for we feel that you are now "safe in the arms of Jesus." "Write, Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

G. H. GALLOWAY, P. C.

TERRELL—Mrs. SARAH DURR TERRELL, daughter of Michael and Eliza Durr, and wife of Dr. J. D. Terrell, of Covington county, Miss., was born Oct. 6, 1846, and died Jan. 22, 1891.

Sister Terrell united with the M. E. Church, South, in girlhood, and became a consistent and pious Christian. In the language of her husband she was a devoted wife and mother, faithful and uncomplaining under difficulties, full of sympathy for, and always, as far as possible, ready to help the needy and distressed. A sufferer for several years from pulmonary consumption, she bore her suffering with Christian resignation. Her last audible prayer was that God would give her a pure heart and take her home where her little children were (five of whom died in childhood), out of her suffering. She was conscious to the last. After she was speechless, when asked if we should pray for her, she gave the signal that we should, and with her bereaved husband, children and friends we bowed by her bed and committed her to God in prayer, and she passed from time to eternity.

N. B. YOUNG.

What Is Life?

"A little blood coursing through the veins, a little air in the lungs: Such is the life of man." But when this life is threatened by disease, what can be more appropriate and natural than the use of a remedy, which is breathed into the lungs, taken up by the blood, and distributed over the whole body, imparting new strength and vigor? Such a remedy is the Compound Oxygen Treatment of DRS. STARKEY & PALEN. Here are a few testimonials:

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"I can not express the benefit I have received from using your Compound Oxygen Treatment in one of the most severe cases of bronchitis." P. J. McGOWAN, Penn Yan, N. Y.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—"In the spring of 1884 I had eleven severe bronchial hemorrhages. I used two Home Treatments of the Compound Oxygen, and they have greatly benefited me. I am stronger, can do more work and sleep well." MRS. G. F. PLATT, Milford, Conn., Nov. 26, 1888.

Our brochure of 200 pages contains many more. Write for it. Sent free. It is an interesting work, giving the history of Compound Oxygen, its mode of action, and its results. No other genuine. Address Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., or 120 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

A. A. WOODS. WALTER SCOTT. L. H. POURSINE. A. F. GODAT.

A. A. WOODS & CO.,

General Insurance Agency,

37 CARONDELET ST., Cor. GRAVIER ST.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Total Assets over $200,000,000.

Dwelling and Sugar House Risks Especially Solicited.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans,

No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.

Solicits Fire and River Business.

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY. JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE. J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE. W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

INSURANCE AGENTS,

No. 64 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

Fire, Accident, Marine, River, Boiler, Plate Glass and Bonding Insurance

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $559,348.11.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Roder, J. H. Menge, Joseph Schwartz, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash, without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Mention this paper.

H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Company,

(LIMITED)

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, President, EDGAR L. STREAM, Vice-President and Superintendent.

(Successors to Willis P. Coleman and H. Dudley Coleman & Bro.)

CAR BUILDERS, FOUNDRY AND PLANTATION MACHINERY!

Complete Cotton Gin Outfits a Specialty. Passenger Cars, Box Cars, Flat Cars, Log Cars, Coal Cars, Ore Cars, Dump Cars, Lumber Cars, Hand Cars, Push Cars, Plantation Cars, Steam Engines, Boilers, Pumps, Pulleys, Shafting, Cotton Presses, Corn Mills.

Office and Foundry: MAGNOLIA AND ERATO STS., NEW ORLEANS. Telephone—Office and Foundry, 588.

We build Steam Engines and Boilers here. | Are Agents for Other Manufacturers. Have a Large Stock to select from.

Coleman's Corn Mills "Maid of the South," Coleman's Cotton Presses, Coleman's Saw Mills, Coleman's Double Flue Boilers, Stream's Draining and Irrigating Pumps.

Prepared for and Expect Competition. Address

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN CO. Limited or Coleman's Foundry, N. O., La.

GRANT'S FURNITURE STORE

NEW STORE, AT 28 and 30 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS

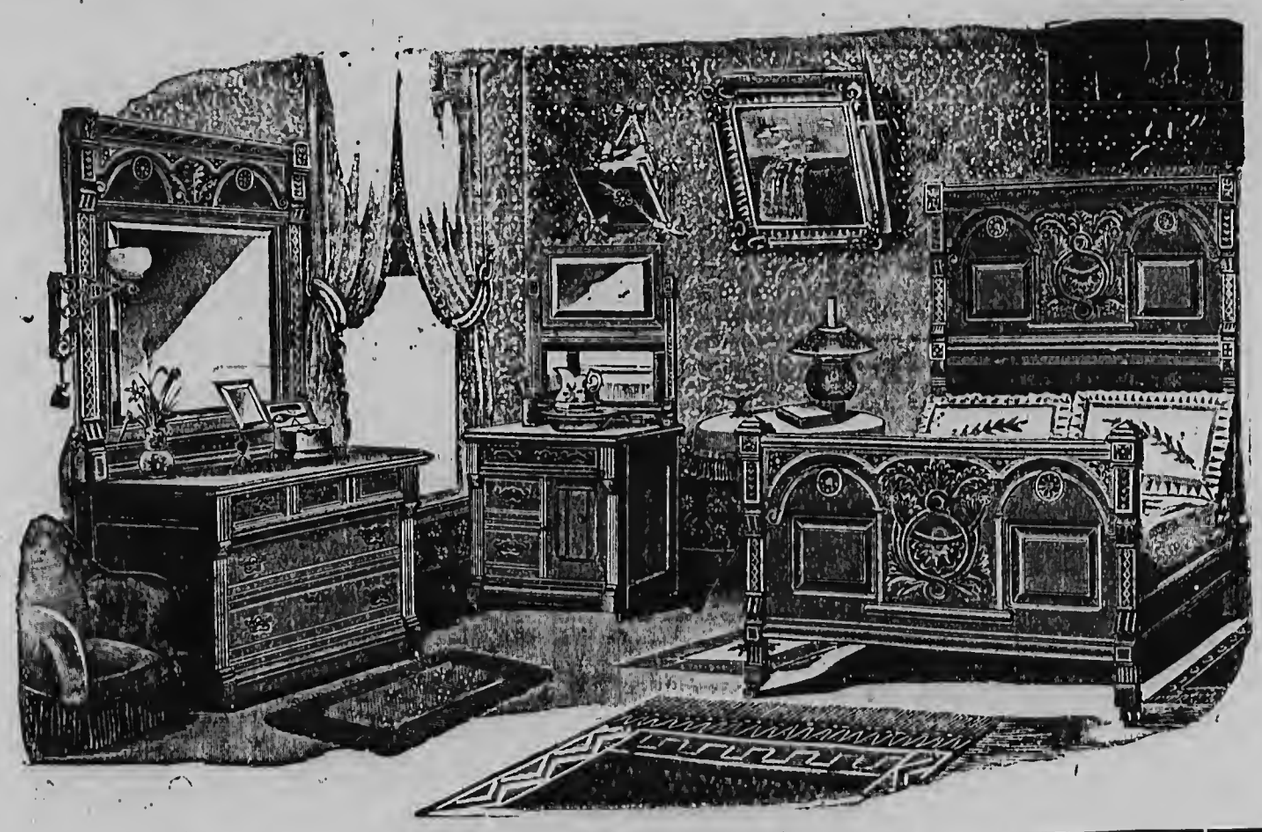
BEAUTIFUL PARLOR GOODS.

I have one entire floor devoted to the display of these goods alone, and have over sixty different varieties to select from. Complete Suits anywhere from $35 to $650, and odd pieces—such as Sofas, Divans, Easy Chairs, Patent Rockers, Window and Reception Chairs—at as low prices in proportion as the Complete Suits. I have these goods in Cherry, Mahogany and Walnut, and can give you your choice of any of the following coverings: Crushed, Embossed, Plain and Silk Plushes, Hair Cloth, Mohair, Raw and Spun Silks, Satins, English Tapestries, French Valours, Petit Point, Brocatelle or Damasks. I make a specialty of these goods, have many of the patterns made specially for my own trade, and can offer a greater variety at lower prices than any other house in the South.

NEW STOCK

in all departments, and every grade of goods, from the cheapest to the most expensive, in endless variety. I have all the latest and most fashionable designs, and, as I have only purchased from factories whose goods I have been selling for the past six years, can and do guarantee every piece of Furniture that leaves my establishment.



LOW PRICES

are the order of the day, and I propose to sell strictly reliable goods at a lower price than has ever before been quoted in the South. My store has long been known as "The Cheapest Furniture House in New Orleans," and this season I intend to add to the reputation it has gained in this respect. I only ask a chance to save you money.

HANDSOME BEDROOM SUITS.

A very extensive assortment of these goods in every style; and whether you wish to pay $40 for a Complete Suit of twelve pieces, or from that price anywhere up to $1,000, I can sell you what you require. I have these goods in Black Walnut, Natural and Dark Cherry, and Natural and Dark Mahogany, or in imitation of any of these woods, and can furnish the very latest, neatest and most artistic designs.

I have also a large and carefully selected stock of Hall, Library, Dining-room and Kitchen Furniture; Reed, Rattan and Wicker Chairs, Rockers, Lounges and Cribs; Brackets, What-nots, Easels, Music Stands and Fancy Top Tables; Carpets, Carpet Strips, Matting, Shades, Curtains, Curtain Poles, and everything necessary to furnish a house completely throughout.

LARGE SALES.

I have a large city trade, and am shipping goods extensively to every Southern State. My country trade has increased very rapidly during the past year, and the facilities which my new store affords me for carrying a larger and better stock will enable me to still further extend it, and to give complete satisfaction to my customers.

J. G. GRANT,

28 and 30 Camp Street, - - NEW ORLEANS.

Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Carrollton	Mar. 14, 15
Greenwood	16
Kosciusko and Durant	21, 22
Winona circuit	28, 29
Winona station	Apr. 1, 5
Walden	11, 12
Poplar Creek	18, 19
Liberty	25, 26
Richland	May 2, 3
Ethel	8
Sallis	9, 10
Ware	16, 17
Rural Hill	23, 24
Newport	30, 31
West	June 6, 7
Belzona	13, 14
Lexington	18
Black Hawk	20, 21

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Corinth station	Mar. 14, 15
Hamilton circuit	20
Iuka station	21, 22
Iuka circuit	28, 29
Corinth circuit	Apr. 4, 5
Kossuth circuit	11, 12
Pleasant Ridge circuit	18 19
Blackland circuit	25, 26
Booneville and Rienzi	May 2, 3
Manilla circuit	9, 10
Guntown circuit	16, 17
Pine Springs circuit	21, —
Ripley and New Albany	23, 24
Jonesboro circuit	28
Ripley circuit	30, 31
New Albany circuit	June 6, 7

W. S. LAGRONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Sardis, at Sardis (Sat. and Sun.)	Mar. 14, 15
Senatobia (Sat. and sun.)	21, 22
Panola circuit (Sat. and Sun.)	28, 29
Batesville at Wesley (Sat. and Sun.)	Apr. 4, 5
Como at McGehee's (Sat. and Sun.)	11, 12
Lewisburg, at P. Hill (Sa. and Su)	18, 19
Doldwater and Hill at H (Sa., Su.)	25, 26
Arkabutla ct., at Hunter's Chapel (Sa.)	June 2, 3
Pleasant Grove ct., at Harmony (Fri.)	8
Coldwater M., at Tin Tow (Sa., Su.)	9, 10
Cockrum ct., at Mt. Olivet (Sa., Su.)	16, 17
Courtland ct., at Eureka (Sa., Su.)	23, 24
Horn Lake circuit (Su., Su.)	30, 31
Chulahoma circuit (Sa., Su.)	July 6, 7
Mt. Vernon (Sa., Su.)	20, 21

J. J. WHEAT, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Abbeville	Mar. 7, 8
Water Valley cir. (Fri.)	13
Banner	14, 15
Carrollton	21, 22
Chapel Hill	25
Grenada cir	28, 29
Atlanta	Apr. 4, 5
Cherry Hill (Wed.)	8
Pittsboro	11, 12

J. W. PRICE, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Shawnee, at Harmony	Mar. 7, 8
Pine Mountain	15, 16
Mount Pleasant	22, 23

JNO. W. HOSWELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Fremont at New Salem	Mar. 7, 8
Buena Vista at Buena Vista	14, 15
Okolona cir., at Tranquil	21, 22
Athens, at New Hope	28, 29
Houston and Wesley, at Wesley	Apr. 4, 5
Ebenezer, at Ebenezer	11, 12
Sparta, at Friendship	13

J. B. STONE, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Bolivar	Mar. 7, 8
Avon	14, 15
Cashoma	21, 22
Dublin	28, 29
Lebrton	Apr. 4, 5

R. M STANDEFER, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WOODVILLE DIST.—SECOND ROUND.

Bayou Sara, at Salem	Mar. 28, 29
Amite and Mission, at Woodland	Apr. 4, 5
Gloster and Centerville, at Cen'rville	6
Wilson, at Pine Grove	11, 12
Percy's Creek	18, 19
Woodville	20
North Wilkinson, at Perry Town	25, 26
St. Helena, at Day's	May 2, 3
East Feliciana, at Oak Grove	9, 10
Clinton and Betonville, at Clinton	11
East Baton Rouge, at Beech Grove	14
Port Vincent, at Bayou Barbaty	16, 17
Jackson	23, 24
Live Oak, at Pipkin Chapel	30, 31
Zachary	June 13, 14
Springfield	18
Tallsbeck	20, 21
Covington	22
Franklinton	26
Amite City	27, 28

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Daleville sta. (Fri.)	Mar. 6
Linwood cir., at Bethel	7, 8
Winchester cir., at Enon	14, 15
Marion cir., at Marion	21, 22
Binnsville and Wahalak	28, 29

Preachers in charge of Waynesboro, DeKalb, Union and Winchester last year will please furnish their successors with statistics needed to answer Question 5.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Americus, at Caswell Springs	Mar. 7, 8
Moss Point, at Moss Point (night)	8, 9
Vancleave, at Pine Grove (W., Th.)	11, 12
Whittington, at Whittington	14, 15
Columbia, at Columbia	21, 22
Mt. Carmel, at Bethel	28, 29

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Crystal Springs cir., at Tabernacle	Mar. 7, 8
China Grove, at Waterhides	14, 15
Pleasant Grove, at Tilton (Tues.)	17
Caseyville, at Bethesda	21, 22
Providence, at Bahala	28, 29

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Mt. Rose, at Holder's	Mar 7, 8
Neshoba, at Pine Grove	14, 15
Decatur, at Hebron	17
Raleigh, at Trinity	21, 22
Trenton, at Tremon	22, 23
Marvin, at Marvin	28, 29

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

South Warren, at Porter's	Mar. 7, 8
Vicksburg	14, 15
South Vicksburg	14, 15
Meadville, at New Providence	21, 22

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Lake City and Lodi at Lodi	Mar. 7, 8
Silver Creek, at Silver City	14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Spring Ridge, at Spring Ridge	28, 29

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Wesley, at Holly Springs	Mar. 7, 8
Red River, at Campo Bello	11
Coushatta at Coushatta	14, 15
Anacoco and Bell'd, at Holly Grove	28, 29
Many, at New Hope	Apr. 1
Sabine, at Bayou Sele	4, 5

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Montgomery, at Atlanta	Mar. 7, 8
Colfax and Boyce, at Colfax	14, 15
Ada, at Beulah	21, 22

J. IVY HOFFPAUIR, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Sulphur Mine	Mar. 7, 8
Grand Chenier	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

P. S.—My address is Lafayette, La.

From Seven Thousand Dollars to Twenty-One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Three Dollars.

Twenty-one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three dollars has just been paid by the Mutual Life Insurance Company on an orlginal $7,000 insurance policy.

A result never equaled or even approached by any other company in the world. The fortunate assured was Mr. Charles Dellinger, of Mobile, Ala., who was forty-one years old when he became a member of the company.

RECAPITULATION.

1—Cash value of the dividends 100 per cent. of premiums.

2—Additions to policy 143 per cent. of premiums.

3—Insurance paid 312 per cent. of original amount.

4—Investment, 3 per cent. compound interest.

5—Insured 44 years, from age 41 to age 85.

6—No taxes, care or expense connected with the insurance.

Remember this company is purely mutual; all profits belong to the members. It is also the largest and most profitable company in the world. Mr. T. H. Bowles is the general agent, 120 Common street, New Orleans, La.

IN THE SPRING

Avoid Sickness by Purifying the Blood and Toning up the System.

DR. KING'S

Royal Germetuer

Does this more pleasantly, more safely and more surely than any remedy known to medical science.

These Five Things

in which it differs from other medicines account largely for its wondrous popularity:

1. It does not taste like medicine. It is as pleasant as lemonade and, sweetened, makes a most refreshing drink. Persons who object to all other medicines take this with real pleasure, because it is good.

2. It never nauseates. The most delicate stomach finds in this a perfect remedy without a single objection.

3. It never swaps off one disease for another. It does not set up one form of disease in order to relieve another, as is the case with so many deadly drugs.

4. It does not patch simply. It cures. It reaches, as nothing else does, to the hidden sources of disease in the blood, and removes the cause. It does this with an ease and power that have never been equaled.

5. It is harmless, and may be safely given to a babe one day old. It is free from Alcohol and Opium.

All persons living in a malarial district should keep this great family remedy on hand. It will break any fever in half the time required by quinine and anti-pyrine, and leave none of their unpleasant and hurtful effects.

For Malaria, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sick Headache, Kidney Trouble, and Blood and Skin diseases, there is nothing to be compared with it. For Ladies and Children it is far the best.

Circulars with testimonials, etc., mailed free. For sale by druggists, and by Kit Williams, agent, 202 Canal St., N. O. Price, prepaid, $1 per bottle. Six bottles for $5.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

DOES CURE

CONSUMPTION

In its First Stages.

Be sure you get the genuine.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Senator George Hearst, of California, died in Washington, D. C., on Feb. 28, aged seventy years.

President Harrison, on Feb. 27, sent to the Senate the nomination of Senator H. W. Blair, of New Hampshire, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to China.

Another Polar expedition is on foot. It will be undertaken by Civil Engineer Robert L. Peary, U. S. N., who has secured leave of absence for eighteen months from the Navy Department, with this object in view.

After twelve days proceedings a jury has been secured in the Hennessy murder case. Seventy-one jurors of the regular panel and 1,150 talesmen were summoned before the twelfth man was chosen. Of the number summoned 780 were examined.

The floods in Arizona have caused much disaster. Over 250 houses are in ruins from the high water, 1,400 people are homeless, not a single business house remains standing, and it is feared that hundreds of lives have been lost in the Gila Valley.

The Ohio and Mississippi rivers are rising steadily, and the water at most points is higher than at the same time last year. Some of the streets of Louisville are submerged, and families living in the bottoms have been driven out by the advancing waters.

A regular exodus of Mormons from Utah to Mexico is quietly taking place, and within the next three months a large number of the saints will have left. The Mormons have a tract of land in the State 125 miles long and 15 wide, which they are settling upon.

Senator Ingalls, who was president pro tem. of the Senate during the past session, resigned his position on account of failure of re-election to that body. At a conference of Republican senators, Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, was elected to succeed him.

After negotiations which have been pending for a year or more the big type foundries of the country have effected a consolidation of their interests. The establishment of uniform prices and the protection of the printer are said to be the reason for the consolidation of thirty-odd type foundries.

The Direct Tax bill has passed the Senate and will go to the President for his approval. The provisions of the bill are as follows: That the Secretary of the Treasury shall credit each State and Territory and District of Columbia with a sum equal to all collections by set-off or otherwise made under the terms of the direct tax act of 1861. Money appropriated to meet individual claims is to be held in trust by the State authorities, six years being allowed for the reception of these claims.

The failure to pass at this session of Congress the bill appropriating $10,000,000 for the construction and maintenance of levees on the Mississippi river, which was introduced in the Senate by Senator Gibson, and in the House by Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, does not indicate that the cause of river improvement and the protection of the alluvial lands from overflow has suffered any setback. On the contrary, a great deal of good work has been accomplished during the Fifty-first Congress in both Houses towards strengthening the advocates of the interests of the valley.

The joint resolution appropriating $1 000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi river, and making it immediately available, which first came up in the Senate last year, was passed on March 2. It provides that this sum shall be used between the mouth of the Ohio river and the head of the passes, and shall be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War in accordance with plans, specifications and recommendations of the Mississippi River Commission. This bill passed the House on May 3, ast.

FOREIGN.

Queen Victoria participated in the launching of two new ironclads at Portsmouth on Feb. 26.

The Pope is displeased with the last nominations for bishops made in the United States and sent to Rome for his approval.

Intimate friends of Mr. Parnell say that worry is killing him. His former ghastly aspect and ill-health have returned. He speaks hurriedly, sometimes being confused and at loss for a word.

The Portuguese government has signed a provisional contract with a syndicate of bankers for a loan of $50,000, guaranteed by a tobacco monopoly for thirty-five years, for the consolidation of the floating debt.

The French Chamber of Deputies has decided to suppress every kind of betting on races. Both the selling of Paris mutuals and book making will be forbidden. The decision, which will be enforced at once, has caused a tremendous sensation among sportsmen.

The German Government, through Chancellor Von Caprivi, has instructed the governor of Alsace-Lorraine to strictly enforce the obnoxious passport regulations, and to extend no facilities to residents of the French frontier cantons for visiting markets in German territory. This is intended as a direct retaliatory act for the treatment accorded the ex-Empress at the hands of the press and people of Paris.

Ex-Empress Frederick, referring to her recent visit to Paris, wrote a letter to the Emperor William, Thursday, in which she said she did not understand the necessity of shortening her stay or avoiding publicity in Paris. Everyone with whom she had been in contact, she said, had been very polite to her, and, in fact, she was grateful for the attention she had received. She begged her son to keep cool, saying she was convinced that everything would come out all right in the end.

Premature gray whiskers should be colored to prevent the appearance of age, and Buckingham's Dye is by far the best preparation to do it.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

COTTON.
Low ordinary	6⅝ @	— —
Ordinary	7⅛	— —
Good ordinary	7½	— —
Low middling	8⅛	— —
Middling	8¾	— —
Good middling	10	— —
Middling fair	11 3-16	— —
Fair	11 15-16	— —
Galveston middling	8 15-16	— —
Mobile middling	8¾	— —
Memphis middling	8¾	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅛	— —
Fully fair	— —	— —
Good fair	3½	— —
Common	— —	— —
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	3	4⅛
Prime yellow	— —	— —
Gray white	— —	— —
Choice white	— —	5
Standard granulated	— —	— —
MOLASSES
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	— —
Fair	— —	— —
Good common	— —	— —
SYRUP	— —	— —
RICE.
No. 2	2 5-16	2⅜
Good	5⅜	5½
Fair	5⅛	5¾
Prime	5⅝	5¾
Rough, ₱ bbl	3 25	5 10
POLISH, ₱ ton	22 00	24 00
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 00	5 10
Fancy	4 62½	4 87½
Choice	— —	4 25
Minnesota Patents	5 75	— —
Winter wheat patents	5 25	5 40
Minnesota bakers	— —	5 00
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	3 10	3 15
Cream meal	— —	3 30
Grits	3 35	3 40
Hominy	3 50	— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White, ₱ bushel	66	67
Yellow	66	— —
Mixed No. 2	65	66
OATS:
Western	56	57½
Texas rust-proof	58	60
BRAN:
₱ cwt	1 15	— —
HAY:
Prime	14 00	15 00
Choice	16 00	16 50
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	10 75	10 87½
Prime Mess	10 25	10 50
Rumps	— —	— —
BACON:
Fancy Breakfast	8¼	8¾
Shoulders	5⅛	5¼
Sides, short rib	5⅝	6
Sides, long clear	5⅝	6
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	9	9½
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	4⅛	— —
Sides, short rib	5¼	5⅜
Sides, long clear	5¼	5⅜
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	20¾	— —
Fair	20	— —
Common	17¼	— —
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
No. 2	— —	— —
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	32	33
Western Dairy	19	21
Common	— —	— —
LARD:
Refined	5⅛	— —
OILS:
Coal, bbls	9	— —
Coal, cases	13½	14
Cotton seed, crude	— —	— —
Lard, Extra No. 1	55	— —
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, ₱ head	— —	— —
Chicago, ₱ 100	4 00	6 00
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	3 25	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	4 50	5 00
BALING STUFFS
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb. ₱ yard	7¾	— —
Jute, 1¾ lb. ₱ yard	— —	7
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	— —
BALING TWINE:
₱ lb	9½	12½
TIES:
₱ bundle	— —	1 35
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	5 00
Young Chickens	2 00	3 50
Chickens, Southern	3 00	3 50
Young	1 50	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	16 00
EGGS:
Western	13	14
Southern	14	15
WOOL:
Lake, ₱ lb	23	— —
Louisiana	20	— —
Burry	10	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green Salted, ₱ lb	3½	3¾
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	8 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	32 00
Muriatic acid ₱ lb	— —	2½
Sulphuric acid	— —	2

—Times-Democrat, March 3.

Cuticura Soap

FOR BAD COMPLEXIONS, RED ROUGH HANDS AND BABY HUMORS.

BAD COMPLEXIONS, WITH PIMPLY, blotchy, oily skin, Red, Rough Hands, with chaps, painful finger ends and shapeless nails, and simple Baby Humors prevented and cured by CUTICURA SOAP. A marvelous beautifier of world-wide celebrity. It is simply incomparable as a Skin Purifying Soap, unequalled for the Toilet and without a rival for the Nursery. Absolutely pure, delicately medicated, exquisitly perfumed, CUTICURA SOAP produces the whitest, clearest skin, and softest hands and prevents inflammation and clogging of the pores, the cause of pimples, blackheads, and most complexional disfigurations, while it admits of no comparison with the best of other skin soaps, and rivals in delicacy the most noted and expensive of toilet and nursery soaps. Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin soaps.

Sold throughout the world. Price, 25 cents.

Send for "How to Cure Skin and Blood Diseases."

Address POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Proprietors, Buston, Mass.

Aching sides and back, weak kidneys, and rheumatism relieved in one minute by the celebrated CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER 25 cents.

KURSHEEDT'S

Marble Works,

120 and 122 Camp St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Four women, all told

The first told how much easier it was to wash with Pearline. She saved half her labor, and the work was better done.

The second told how much longer the clothes lasted, since she'd used Pearline. The rubbing that wore them out wasn't necessary.

The next told how many things she did with it; she washed the kitchen floor, or the finest china—the most delicate lace, or the coarsest fabric. Whatever she did with it, she saved money by it.

The fourth told of the harmlessness of Pearline. She had used it for ten years, and she knew nothing that was washable could be hurt by it.

These are only four out of millions who use Pearline, but the others say the same things and more. Try it yourself; then you can tell about it.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back.

181 JAMES PYLE, New York.

1891. Home Grown, Honest, Reliable. 1891.

I offer you my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1891 FREE. Note the immense variety of seeds it contains, and that all the best novelties are there. Not much mere show about it (you don't plant pictures) but fine engravings from photographs of some of the choice vegetables I have introduced. Would it not be well to get the seed of these from first hands? I am the oldest firm in the United States making mail and express business a specialty proves reliability. Honest and honorable dealing is the only foundation this can rest on. My catalogue is FREE as usual. A matter on second page of cover interest my customers. J. J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

The Great Church LIGHT.

FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO., L't'd,

18 Baronne and 127 Canal Streets, New Orleans, La.

SOLE AGENTS FOR ALL THE LEADING

PIANOS!

Steinway, Chickering, Knabe, Sohmer, Behr, Mehlin, Fischer, Pleyel, Lowest Prices!! Pease, Shoninger, Sterling, etc. Easiest Terms!

LOUIS GRUNEWALD CO. (Limited), New Orleans.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

92 CANAL STREET. Morris Building.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

PIANOS | P. WERLEIN, | ORGANS

135 Canal Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

THE MAMMOTH PIANO DEALER OF THE SOUTH.

Exciting Bargains!

Astounding Inducements!

My Stock of PIANOS and ORGANS must be sold.

MY PRICES AND TERMS Defy Competition!

PIANOS From $225 Upwards.

ORGANS From $90 Upwards.

N. B. SLIGH, President. T. R. ROACH, Cashier.

SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK,

137 GRAVIER STREET.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - - $500,000.

DIRECTORS:

THOS. SMITH, of Smith Brothers & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
WM. CAMERON, Texas.
HENRY RICE, of Rice, Born & Co., Hardware.
J. B. WEST, of Chaffe, Powell & West, Cotton Factors.
ISIDORE HECHINGER, of S. Gumbel & Co., Cotton Factors.
J. W. CASTLES, of Cameron & Castles, Wholesale Grocers.
L. N. BRUNSWIG, of Finlay & Brunswig, Wholesale Drugs.
T. J. WOOD, JR., Cashier, Fourth National Bank, Dallas, Texas.
N. B. SLIGH.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO

STERN'S

Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y,

OFFICE:

14 UNION STREET.

Send for Agricultural Almanac.

MANUFACTURERS OF

"High Grade Bone Fertilizers,"

"Stern's" Ammoniated Raw Bone Superphosphate,

"Stern's" Pure Ground Raw Bone,

"Stern's" Sugar Superphosphate,

DISSOLVED BONE,

ACID PHOSPHATE

Kainit, Sulphuric Acid, Muriatic Acid, etc.

BONE BLACK.

HO, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness.—Isaiah lv, 1, 2.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 38.—NO. 11. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1891. WHOLE NO. 1803.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

ev. C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.
v. D. L. MITCHEL, Business M'g'r.

OFFICE: 119 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

UBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM
Widows and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. C. BLACK, D. D.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. E. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

(Editorial.)

The Hennessy Murder Case.

arly last fall Mr. Honnessy, the f of police in this city, was way- and shot to death on the streets. commission of this dastardly crimo sed public indignation to the high- pitch. The murderers were un- wn, but circumstances pointed to ral parties, Italians, or, as they are d here, Dagos. Numerous arrests e made, and tho parties arrested e closely confined in the Parish on to await the action of the grand . This body, after patient and ough examination, presented true against these suspects. The regu- rial came up several weeks ago in ge Baker's court. Much time was umed in impanelling a jury of . Over 600 talesman were exam- before a jury of twelvo men could btained. But a jury was obtained, the case put upon trial. The wit- es were numerous, and examined all the adroitness usual in crimi- cases. Before tho trial began, it thought by many that the only ence against tho accused would hat is technically known as "cir- tantial evidence." Many of the men were excused from jury duty use they said they would not con- of a capital crimo on that sort of nce. But when the prosecution n to examine tho witnesses for the , it soon became apparent that, gh the crime was committed under of the darkness of night, yet were witnesses. Tho testimony direct and strong to incriminate risoners. The New Delta said in d to the testimony:

twithstanding the precautions —the hour selected for the deed, he location supposed to be most able for the consummation of the ious plot—there were not wanting rous witnesses. The identifica- t the parties who did the killing plete. The hirelings have been t.

e evident from the testimony of ate's witnesses that the men who e killing were the tools of oth- Some of these have been clearly d at, and the impression made the public mind is very deep.

ing the trial one of the accused, by name, has created several ions. He has been very much d from the first, and first pro- to make a confession, and did some sort of confession pri- to the court and lawyers, pon his counsel withdrew from ense. The judge appointed an- lawyer for him. Politz contin- s exciting sensations, trying at me to break out of the court- and fighting his keepers furi- The attorney appointed by the hen gave up his defense, where- the judge appointed another for him, and at this writing, y morning, this attorney is to have his client separated he other accused in the trial. an has been examined by ex- ysicians, and they pronounce insane, but excited by fear.

lins of defense adopted by the for the accused is to prove an Whether such a defense can be fully made does not appear at iting. But it does appear that blic interest has grown as the dings progressed, and there are w persons who think there has me promiscuous swearing done esses.

Astronomical Vagaries.

Many of the superstitions of the ancients have been indulged in until very recent times; but the most careful research has not yet detected the slightest influence on our earth or atmosphere by even the largest of comets. Even Kepler (1571–1630), who corrected the absurdities of the Copernican system, "could not bring himself to deny a certain connection between the positions of the planets and the qualities of those born under them." Napoleon and Wallenstein are each said to have believed in his star, and at the present day there are a few who have such a superstitious reverence for the past as to profess a belief in stellar influences. Copernicus gave the death-blow to astrology, as a science, when he showed that the earth was itself one of the planets, making absurd the supposition that "all the others should be occupied in influencing it," while it was as likely to influence them.

Natural astrology prepared the way and led the mind on to true astronomical research. The Greeks were the first to develop astronomy into the true proportions of a science. Their first astronomer of note was Thales (B. C. 640), who made valuable improvements in the science, though he believed that the fixed stars were composed of fire, and held, as did nearly all the ancient astronomers, that the earth was fixed at the center of the universe. There are reasons for believing that Pythagoras (B. C. 540) supposed the earth to move in an orbit. Various theories were advanced by which to account for the motions of the planets and the apparent motion of the stars; but the "Ptolemaic system," named for its founder, who lived about 140 A. D., was the first of great importance. Ptolemy believed the earth to be stationary at the center of the universe, and that the sun and other heavenly bodies revolved around it in circular orbits. He explained the motions of the planets by supposing that each moved in a small circle, the center of which (called the "fictitious planet") at the same time moved around the earth.

The Ptolemaic system was adopted by succeeding astronomers until the time of Copernicus (1473–1543). This noted astronomer disproved the claims of the Ptolemaic, and set forth what is known as the Copernican system, which differs very little from what is now accepted as the true system. He showed that the movements in question could nearly all be best explained by regarding the sun as stationary, and the planets (with the earth as one of them) as revolving around it; and explained the apparent daily revolution of the stars by asserting the diurnal rotation of the earth on its axis. Copernicus had too much regard for his own views, as well as for the peculiar reverence with which his contemporaries looked upon the heavenly bodies, to suppose that the planets moved in any but the most perfect curves; hence he gave them circular orbits, but placed the sun a little out of center to account for certain irregularities of motion. It remained for Kepler, more than sixty years after, to show that the planets move in elliptical orbits, and otherwise adjust the system of Copernicus. The planet Uranus was discovered in 1781, and Neptune not until 1846. The planetary system, as we now know it, consists of (in the order of their distance from the sun) Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Asteroids, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune.

J. M. SULLIVAN.

Centenary College, Louisiana.

Young Preachers—No. 7.

BY AN OLD MINISTER.

HOBBIES.

Beware of hobbies. A hobbyist is like an o'er-fond mother. Her baby is the baby of babies—such eyes! such hair! such a smile! such a form!—a paragon of every bodily excellence. Then its unfolding intelligence, the rare words, and more wonderful sayings. Surely the like was never seen, never heard before. We can bear, we can pardon this; it is the flood-tide of maternal love; it is beautiful—but we know the sober second thought will come, the flood-tide will ebb to the normal level of the sea. But when a minister of Christ has some pet child of his brain, and insists upon its having the precedence of all other ideas and themes, we are soon wearied and disgusted with his, perhaps, unconscious egotism. The devotion of the mind to a hobby narrows it, and it becomes at last incapable of a broad and comprehensive view. I have heard that a single dime, held too near the eye, hides from it earth and sky; so a hobby absorbs the mind, leaves no room for other thoughts. As a sequence of such a psychological state, the hobbyist is not only filled with his hobby, but he wants all others to be filled with it, too. In short, he wants all the road; claims the exclusive right of way. Another unfortunate outcome is uncharitableness and intolerance. If you don't think as highly of his hobby as he does, he disputes your claim to intelligence or piety, as the case may be, and excommunicates you from the realm of reason, or the pales of the church.

A reputation for being a hobbyist will curtail or narrow any man's influence. He will not be regarded as a wise counsellor, nor a safe guide, and all he says, writes, or does, will be more or less discounted. I knew a talented minister who insisted that the sleep of the body from death until the general resurrection included and meant the unconscious sleep of the soul also from death until the general resurrection. I was unable to see any practical good that could accrue from such a theory and from such preaching. But preach he would, even a long series of sermons; but there was no profitable instruction, no increase of faith, no kindling of zeal, nor joy, and no glow of love—in short, no useful result; the people grew weary, the time and the labor were lost.

I have known others that had a peculiar exegesis of certain Scriptures, or who claimed to have a peculiar religious experience, something different from the normal experience of God's people, and supposed to be quite superior to it. They seemed to contemplate these opinions and experiences with great complacency; were continually proclaiming them, and insisting on their universal adoption and acceptance. In all such cases that have come within the range of my observation, influence has been lessened and usefulness curtailed.

